by Bobbye Carson

To starts things off with a bang for the semester, we have asked some compitent male advice. Several fellows of different classes and interest were asked to write a small article of what they would consider a well dressed woman and if they wish to write down some of the pet peeves of women's fashions. It is thought to be safer for those making the suggestions to not be mentioned by name. So here are their ideas, quoted directly whenever possible.

"A well dressed woman does not need an expensive wardrobe with many different outfits. A fewer number of tasteful, well cared for outfits are just as acceptable. Matched outfits, with respect to color and types of clothing are always indications of a well dressed woman. Of course, the cloths must fit well or the other good aspects of the outfit will be entirely out-weighed. Always refreshing, is just a dash of originality such as an added bow or hair ribbon. This makes a woman more attractive and continually interesting. These items which I have listed I believe are the main points in defining a well dressed woman."

Another young gentleman comments," good taste is the pass word for the well dressed woman. But what is good taste? Good taste is wearing the right thing at the right time. A'dressed fit to kill' appearance for an informal gathering is ridiculous. Equally foolish is the girl who wears bermuda shorts to a more formal affair. Being conspicuous by neatness and good grooming and not by a real conspicous outfit is my idea of a well dressed woman."

"Accessories can add or take away from the well dressed lady. Hats (which we do not see many of the campus ladies wearing on Sunday) should be carefully selected to accent the apparel being worn and the facial features. Also, the height and size of the person will be a considerable influence on the type and size of hat selected. Nothing takes first notice as fast as a pair of soiled white gloves, unless it would be mud on the heels of shoes. Jewelry should be chosen with extreme care. Don't over do a beautiful suit with heavy multicolored beads or gaudy bracelets. Earring? Stay away from the large flower clusters and half dollar sized for dressy wear. Save them for parties and the not-so-dressy occasions. Ladies, you know the fellows are going to notice if your stocking seams are crookedd. If so, they can make you look bow-legged."

As another fellow relates, "a well dressed woman is one who knows what she can wear, and wears it regardless of the current trend. This in no way means that she can not be stylish or contempary. But it is foolish to dress in styles that do not suit one's personality or figure just to be like the group. To think that all figures can be accomodated in a sheath dress is ridiculous. Yet some of the apparitions that float around campus should no sooner be put in a form fitting dress than in a sack. If nature has been kind, and you find yourself amply endowed with feminine attributes, then by all means dress to illustrate them. But if nature has been more than generous in her gifts, dress so that your excess is not accentuated. Simply dress to show yourself at your best. Remember, in the long run good taste overcomes glamour in bad taste.

"A well dressed woman is one who dresses neatly and with simplicity without necessarily having expensive clothes. Variations of inexpensive clothes can be worn which definitely prove appealing and attractive to members of the opposite sex, which is fundamentally the reason for good grooming in the weaker sex. At the present time knit suits and skirts dyed with dyed sweaters to match are in vogue and are seen worn by many well dressed woman today, in particular for dress up occasions on all the campuses."

"It is not the amount of clothes that a woman has that makes her well-dressed, but rather the manner in which she wears what she does have. The woman who dresses neatly and with an eye to the occasion, is far ahead of one who dresses merely to her own dictates as to what style is. She who lacks clothes in quantity but has bought her clothes based on quality and practicality will never be lacking when it comes to being well dressed. It is important that they be worn as if they were really hers and not borrowed from her smaller sister or larger room-mate.

Likes:

1. women in suits-always seem stylish and neat.
2. one or more (if it is a set) scatter pins appropriately worn.
3. when in season-gloves for such occasions as the theather, church, etc.
4. black and white-a color combination that fits many occasions.

Dislikes:

1. excessive jewelry
2. sloppy dress in general
3. gym shoes and wool skirts
4. those who let their socks fall around their heels.

"My idea of a well-dressed woman is one who is neat, who does not necessarily have hundreds of outfits, but looks well in the few she does have. The well-dressed woman will know what to wear, and she will be appropriately dressed wherever she appears. She will choose versatile clothes that will not be "out-of-style" in a few weeks—not even in a few months.

The things I most dislike in women's apparel is too much jewelry, cheap-looking clothes, and inappropiate dress. I like to see clothes that fit nicely—not too small, but still not "baggy." Poor posture distracts very much, as far as I am concerned, from the otherwise well-dressed appearance of any woman, as does too much or too little make-up.

The woman, too, is a large factor men consider when classifying a woman as well-dressed or poorly dressed. The personality of some women make them look well-dressed in anything, and the personality of others causes them never to be noticed although they look as if they may have just stepped from the pages of "Vogue" or "Glamour."

As you have probably noticed there has been duplication in these reports in several items of dress. It might be wise girls to keep these in mind especially when dressing for various functions. Note one important thing that was stressed its not the quantity bu he quality that is important, not he exravagence but the neatness that they noice. Many thanks to all the fellows that contributed to this article, the thought and time you spent in these opinions was much appreciated.

RIMSHOTS

by Lottie Jerkins

Did you ever see a wildcat and an amoeba tangle in furious combat? No Then come one, come all to the intramural gym on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. These and many other sights will astonish and bewilder the eyes. For all girls who enjoy engaging in this madness called basketball, they still need players — especially if you are short or thin or tall or fat or even medium. Remember "They who go round in circles shall be called wheels."

Ping Pong

The eye is on the ball — first left, then right, then duck. With practice you can become quite proficient at ping pong watching. People with roving eyes are often the best kind. The mixed doubles tournament is now pinging away.

W. A. A. is offering a variety of sports this semester. Pick your favorite and join in the fun. It's a good cure for study it is. Till next issue I'll see you on the court.

Sports Spotlights

By George Roselli

Since we have been apart for some weeks, Sports Spotlights will fill you in on all the past happenings in the world of sports.

BASKETBALL

West Virginia squeaked past Villanova 76-75, and easily beat George Washington 93-66 to run its winning streak to 28 and stand alone as the nation's only unbeaten team, since George Tech upset Mississippi State 78-61. Tennessee and Kentucky tangled in the latter's home ground and the Wildcats went wild in romping the Vols.

Turning to Professional Basketball, the Boston Celtics continue to lead the Eastern Division with an important victory over second place Syracuse to stretch its lead to 6½ games. The St. Louis Hawks hold an 8 game lead over their nearest rivals, the Cincinnati Royals.

HOCKEY

Even without their stars, The Montreal Canadians still managed to widen their lead over the Detroit Red Wings. The Boston Bruins, who have faltered lately, have bought Harry Lumley from the Chicago Blackhawks to try and solve their goal-tending problems.

77-68. Some new rules have been added to college football. NCAA Football Rules Committee adopted the first revolutionary scoring change in 52 years. They voted unanimously to set the ball back to the 3-yard line after a touchdown. Added to this was the change that two points were to be awarded for a conversion after a touchdown if it were scored either on a run or a pass and one point if it were scored on a kick.

REMINDER

Sports Spotlites will close with this reminder: "If you can't play sports, be one anyhow."

IN THIS CORNER

By Pete Nix

Say you opened up the paper and there wasn't any sports news. .

Say you hadn't heard that Maryville College finally won a basketball game . . .

Say you didn't know we had a basketball game with Tusculum followed by a wrestling match with Auburn tonight . . .

Say you were wondering whether Intramural basketball had started or not . . .

Say your eyes are spittin fire cause all these things weren't in the paper . . .

Is that what's bothering you friend? Well then keep watching this page in later issues and never give up, never give up, never give up.

Due to a rush job on this paper the sports news this week is sadly lacking, but here's a quick rundown on the latest happenings.

The Sotties did finally pull off their first basketball victory of the 1958 season. Although short on heighth and reserves, the Highlanders upended Emory and Henry by a sizeable margin, and they may create a few more surprises before seasons end.

And tonight they get a chance to do just that as they take on Tuscolom College in the Alumni Gym. Following the hoop-ball game the Highlander grapplers entertain perennial SEC conquerors, the Auburn Tigers. The Tigers always provide Maryville with its toughest wrestling test of the year. If you would like to see three or four SEC champions in action, tonight in the Alumni Gym is the time and place.

Intramural basketball is well underway with thirteen teams in two leagues providing the action. Intramural play occurs every afternoon except Tuesday and Thursday and spectators are welcome.

That's about it for this week. Watch the page for full sports coverage in the next issue. Until then, good sporting.

Voices, Masks and Shadows.

By Virginia Hine

V. C. Hughes, office manager for I was talking the other day to one of my friends, who works out at Alcoa. In the course of the conversation, I became interested enough in aluminum to wander over to the library to find out whether or not we have any information on the subject. As a matter of fact, we do have two books which I highly recommend. The Immortal Woodshed by Junius Edwards, which is a biography of Charles Martin Hall, and Alcoa, An American Enterprise, by Charles Carr ,which is a history of the company itself.

The refining process of aluminum had always been difficult because unlike other common industrial metals, aluminum is not produced by direct smelting. The reason for this is that pure aluminum has an affinity for oxygen, and also because the temperature of smelting is so close to the boiling point of aluminum that much of the metal is lost as vapor.

The earliest methods of producing aluminum involved chemical reactions between purified aluminum compounds and sodium or potassium. In 1825, Hans Christian Oersted was the first to produce the metal in a reasonably pure state by using this process.

Wohler

Fredrich Wohler, in 1845, produced large enough particles of aluminum to be able to determine certain physical characteristics. He used potassium and aluminum chloride. In 1854, H. St. Claire Deville improved upon this method by using sodium (which was cheaper). This process was successful enough to produce workable amounts of the metal, and it became the basic of a commerical (and rather expensive) refining process. This process was popular in France and several other countries until the advent of the electrolytic process.

Aluminum cannot be produced by an electrolyses of water solutions of its salts, since hydrogen and aluminum hydroxide are produced instead of pure aluminum. However, in 1854, Robert von Bunsen advanced the theory that pure aluminum could be produced by the electrolysis of molten sodium aluminun chloride, but at the time batteries were the only source of electricity and this process was too impractical to be seriously considered. By 1886, the development of the dynamo had made it possible to produce enough energy to make the process practical. It was at this point that Charles Martin Hall, and a Frenchman, Paul L. T. Heroult, entered the picture.

Hall

Hall was born in Thompson, Ohio, in 1863, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Homan Hall. While studying at Oberlin College, Charles became interested in the problem of manufacturing aluminum cheaply. Upon his graduation from

(Continued on Page Four)

CAPITOL
MOTION PICTURES AT THEIR BEST
Plays thru Wednesday
"Don't Go Near The Water"
Starring:
Glenn Ford

Save from $12.75 — $29.50 on your Tailored Suit during January
SEATON'S TAILOR SHOP
Phone YU 3-3072

COLLEGE HILL GRILL AND RESTAURANT
Still the Students' Choice Place to Eat for FINE FOODS and the
MOST REASONABLE PRICES
Pizza Pies Now Featured
Only 2 Blocks
Open 7 A.M. to 8:30 P.M.

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

PICK-UP
Sunday and Wednesday Night
DELIVERY
Tuesday and Friday Night
Agents in Carnegie:
Bob Samples
Dan Ellis
SUPERIOR DRY CLEANERS
"ALL THAT THE NAME IMPLIES"

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You
Planning a Party?
College Hill Food Market
Can Supply Your Needs
of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

HEAR
Tennessee - Georgia Tech
BASKETBALL GAME
Tonight—7:45 P.M.
W. G. A. P.
1400 On Your Dial

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Merv Dixon
Dan Wiley—Agents for
CHANDLER FLORIST
Phone YU 2-9650 207 W. Broadway

Maryville Bowling Center
Open 2 p.m. — Close 11 p.m.
Student Rates Afternoons

Y.W.C.A.
NEEDS
A used fireplace screen and a small used wagon
See Ann Murray

For 1958,
Make Us Your 24--Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still the Best Cup of Coffee in Town-Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Med Schools Advise May Admission Test

Princeton, N. J. January 10: Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1959 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 3, 1958, or on Tuesday, October 28, 1958, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1959 take the May test.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Copies of the Bulletin of Information (with application form bound in), which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 19 and October 14, respectively for the May 3 and October 28 administrations.

Local YM Active In Many Projects

Many of you have probably noticed the announcements on the bulletin boards in the dormitories asking for volunteers to prepare written devotional services for the Lenten Devotional Booklet that the Y is preparing. There will be forty short Devotional services written by sudents for the forty days in the Lenten season. Those of you who are interested in writing up a service are asked to turn it in (type written if possible) before December 7. This will give time to edit the material. The booklets will be distributed to the student body at the beginning of the Lenten Season.

Your Y is at work all the time. Often it is unseen and unheard but is always working to help the students on campus and the community, too.

The Inter-Racial committee is always at work with the Negro children in the Hale grade school. This is one more example that the races can live together as equals in the world.

The Community committee has developed the "Big Brother-Little Brother" program with the twenty-three children in the county-sponsored children's home. This group does a great amount of things with and for the children to make a happier life for them.

Every Sunday at 9:30 p.m., the Y's present an entertaining program over WGAP radio.

The lounge in Bartlett is open every day for the men on campus. A special invitation is offered to the men students from town to use this lounge for their 'inbetween class' periods. The lounge is ideal for study, reading, or just plain relaxation.

Danforth Foundation Announces Fellowships

The Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Lous, Missouri, invites applications for the seventh class (1958) of Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1958, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Ralph W. Lloyd has named Dean Frank D. McClelland as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these 1958 fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of grduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as they may be needed. The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $2400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $350 for children. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarships appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives the Danforth Appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan next September.

The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 31, 1958. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with our Liaison Officer.

Kneeling will keep you in good standing.

POETS CORNER

Whisper of Fate

You looked at me.
With beating heart, I raised my eyes.
And for Eternity,
Our souls were bound with ties
Never to be broken.
Never.

You looked at me.
And my heart broke with longing.
For through tears I could see.
A dream of my belonging
Ever in thy heart.
Forever.
You looked at me.
My dream became a futile song.
I closed my heart to thee.
But looked again to find thee gone.
And I knew death.
Death.

Betsy Lonsinger

Fanciful Facts

by Robert C. Preble, President
ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

But Not 'Desert'

From Britannica Film "Far Western States"

The state of Utah was long called "Deseret," which in the Book of Mormon language means "honey bee."

Hot and Heavy

From Britannica Film "Water Cycle"

Though rivers generally are at lowest stage in hot months, those arising from melting glaciers frequently flood in summertime.

How Big a Rush?

From Encyclopaedia Britannica Film "Cattleman"

The lure of gold induced an estimated 40,000 pioneers to cross the continent to reach California in the year 1849 alone.

U.S. Going Places

From Britannica Film "Passenger Train"

With 6 per cent of the world's population and 5 per cent of its land area, the U.S. has 29 per cent of the world's railway mileage.

Vivid Biography . . .

(Continued From Page 1)

versity, Ohio, until September, 1957, when he assumed his present position of associate professor of history at Iowa State College.

Mr. Smith has served as a participant in, and director of a seminar program on foreign policy for the State Department, and has been a visiting Fulbright lecturer in Japan. He lives in Ames, Iowa, with his wife and five children.

VOICES, MASKS . . .

Continued from page Three

Oberlin in 1885, he set up his own laboratory in the family woodshed, and in 1886, he produced his method of electrolytic refining.

The next three years were spent in developing and perfecting the process, and looking for backers. Finally, in 1889, he found a backer in the Pittsburgh Reduction Company (later to become the Aluminum Company of America). In 1890 Hall was made vice-president of the company. When he died in 1914, most of his estate was given to educational institutions, chiefly to his alma mater, Oberlin.

The importance of his discovery can hardly be over emphasized, for aluminum is today a constantly increasing industry with new uses being found for the metal.

The process itself was nearly identical to that of Heroult. It consists of passing an electric current through purified alumina (aluminun trioxide) which is dissolved molten cryolite, which is held in containers of carbon lined steel. Oxygen accumulates at the anode, and is burned off, while the free aluminum, being slightly heavier, is deposited on the carbon lining of the cell.

The process is essentially simple, but from the woodshed, a gigantic industry has sprung, which promises to keep growing with the discovery of more new uses for aluminum.

Syntopicon Part Of M.C. Library

Need a translation of Canterbury Tales? Want to read Gulliver's Travels or War and Peace. Want to know what all great minds have to say about love?

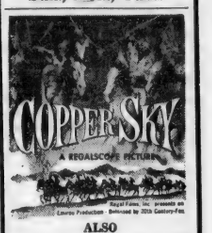
In a low bookcase in the library, near the circulation desk, is shelved the Great Books of the Western World. The 54 volume set represents 400,000 man-hours spent by 100 scholars in selecting and editing 443 outstanding works of 74 outstanding authors covering a period of 2500 years.

This set is one of the 500 in the Founders' Edition. It was received in 1952 as a gift from President Lloyd's brother, Mr. Glen A. Lloyd of Chicago.

The first volume introduces the work and stresses the novel idea of the great thinkers of the Western World as engaged in a "great conversation" in an exchange of 102 ideas. Volume II and III called the Syntopicon, are the master keys to the set. With 63,000 references to its 3,000 topics, it carries the reader from idea to idea, from book to book.

Even the color scheme of the binding is unique. The poetry books are bound in yellow; the history books in blue; the science books in green; and the philosophy books in red.

This publication is, indeed, an instrument of self-education; and after you have traced one idea through the Syntopicon, you will have to agree that "Whatever you know, you don't know half of it."



Book Store Schedule

Weekdays—After chapel until 8:35
10:20-11:20
12:55- 1:25
3:25- 5:15

"George will be happy to drive down to the station and pick you up, Mother!"

PARK theatre
Always A Double Feature
Sun., Mon., Tues.

ALSO
THE GIRL IN BLACK STOCKINGS
Released thru United Artists
Wed. - Thurs.
Double Feature
HUNTZ HALL and THE Bowery Boys
HOT SHOTS
ALSO Lady of Vengeamce
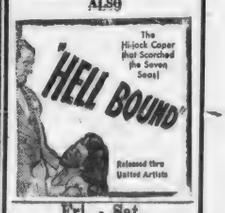
with
DENNIS O'KEEFE
Fri. - Sat.
JOSEPH COTTEN · VIVECA LINDFORS · BETSY BLAIR · WARD BOND
THE HALLIDAY BRAND
Released thru United Artists
ALSO
TARGET ZERO
Richard Conte · Paggie Castile



PARK theatre
Always A Double Feature
Sun., Mon., Tues.

ALSO
THE DALTON GIRLS
Released thru UNITED ARTISTS
Wed. - Thurs.

ALSO

Fri. - Sat.
EDMUND GRAINGER presents
GREAT DAY IN THE MORNING
VIRGINIA MAYO · ROBERT STACK · RUTH ROMAN RUPPERSCOPE
TECHNICOLOR
Distributed by RKO RADIO PICTURES, Inc.
ALSO
KILL ME TOMORROW

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts · Transfer of Funds
Savings Accounts · Banking from Your Car
Christmas Club Saving · Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

Our Agents In The Dorms
Memorial:
Alice Curd
Baldwin:
Helen Rankin
Pearsons:
Shirley Napier
Carnegie:
Butch Christie
George Kaiser
MARYVILLE DRY CLEANERS

SHOP J&K
For All
Your Snack
-Needs-
Cookies — Crackers — Drinks — Lunch Meats
Fresh Fruits — Potato Chips — Just Anything For A Fine Get Together
THE J&K SUPER STORES
Church Street

For The Best
Shakes
Malts
&
Hot Tamales
In Town go to
KAY'S ICE CREAM

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

ELDER'S Cash Carry Grocery
Located in Downtown Maryville
Shop Thursday and Friday Night
Till 8 P.M.

No. 1 Stayman
Apples-10c Lb.
Party Snacks and Every Day Knick-Knacks
Cheese · Wide Selection of Brown Bread · Juices
Assortment of Crackers and Cookies · Canned Meats
Nuts
Shop relaxed to recorded music
Newest Tunes
Old Favorites

McARTHURS
"The Store The Students Prefer"
Dress Right
COME IN AND SHOP WITH US THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE IN TOWN
Dress Ivy
McARTHURS
Department Store

FORECAST: RAIN!

The Highland Echo

Z 703

GEE, WHAT BRAINS!

Vol. 43 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 8, 1958 No. 10

74 Names Listed On Honor Roll

Four Make 3.0

Four students led last semester's Dean's List with 3.00 averages. The four are: Eleanore Koster, a senior Political Science major from Sevierville, Tennessee; Keith Ham, History major from Merrick, New York; Doris Engle, Psychology major from Princeton, New Jersey, and Ann Snelbaker, a Christian Education major from Pitman, New Jersey.

A total of 74 students had the 2.25 or above average required for the Dean's List. This number includes 24 Seniors, 16 Juniors, 20 Sophomores and 14 Freshmen. Under the new cut system, these students are allowed to cut classes at their discretion up ot 25 per cent of the total class time. Any cuts over this amount will result in a grade no higher than a D for the course.

The complete list is given below:

SENIORS

Abbot, Iris 2.4
Berger, Jeanne 2.3
Birkelbach, Irma 2.6
Bowers, Paula 2.4
Boyd, E. Joyce 2.6
Brown, Robert H. 2.3
Cones, Carolyn 2.4
Eldridge, Wesley C. 2.8
Greenwalt, Bruce 2.5
Hansen, William 2.5
Keitt, Margaret 2.6
Koster, Eleanore 3.0
Krotchko, David 2.5
Miller, Opal 2.4
Mintz, John 2.4
Morris, Ruth 2.7
Neff, Persis 2.6
Nix, Ralph 2.6
Trnavsky, Judith 2.4
Vandenberg, Donald 2.6
Wall, Jane 2.7
West, John M. 2.5
Williams, Carol 2.4
Yoakum, Jimmy 2.3

JUNIORS

Balph, Esther. 2.26
Bowman, Robert 2.4
Brown, Charles E. 2.6
Curran, James 2.25
Emery, John 2.3
Farris, Charles 2.3
Garcia, Francisco 2.3
Gogel, Zona 2.5
Ham, Keith 3.0
Hembree, Dorothy 2.6
Hunter, Marjorie 2.8
Johnston, Joan 2.3
McNeal, Opal 2.3
Mueller, Barbara 2.3
Newroth, Donald 2.6
Robinson, J. Perry 2.4

SOPHOMORES

Borah, Patricia 2.25
Bradley, Dona Gail 2.7
Briggs, Miriam 2.5
Conway, Richard 2.3
Engle, Doris 3.0
Fowell, Susan 2.26
Gilmour, John 2.8
Greaves, Jeanne 2.8
Gronbach, Barbara 2.5
Keitt, Anna 2.4
Laxson, Sara 2.4
Lee, Rosemary 2.6
Longfellow, Margaret 2.25
Menk, Joan 2.4
Newcomer, Ann 2.7
Planitzer, Jane 2.5
Rankin, Helen 2.25
Snelbaker, Elizabeth Ann 3.00
Wagner, Sondra 2.5
Walker, Edith 2.8

FRESHMEN

Birch, Bonnie 2.5
Darling, Mary 2.5
Diller, Karl 2.5
Fahl, Charles 2.25
Gass, Carolyn 2.25
Ide, Grecthen 2.5
Jarrett, Sandra 2.5
King, Barbara 2.5
Messman, Martha 2.25
Pope, Julia 2.25
Stevenson, Margaret 2.7
Stine, Phyllis 2.27
Tathwell, Sue 2.25
Whitelock, Wayne 2.5

Vesper Speaker To Be Dr. Douglas Elwood

Usper Speaker for tomorrow night will be Reverend Doctor Douglas J. Elwood pastor of Highland Presbyterian Church.

Human beings, for some reason, seem more interested in the mistakes that others make.

Band Concert Was A Colorful Treat

by Nancy Seeger

Friday night at 8:00 the Maryville College Band held a concert for the student body. The bandmembers, gaily clad in their Highlander outfits presented an amazing variety of music, under the able direction of their conducter, Mr. Ralph Moore. Preforming in the combination of standard old songs and a few new numbers were Sandra Macneill and David Gilmore, who played a number on the bagpipes.

Selections included on the program were: Second Suite for Military Band (1922) by Holst, a new arrangement of Strauss' Allerseelen (All Soul's Day) by Davis, Capriccio Espagnol by Rimsky-Korsakov, Scottish Music for Bagpipes, Folksong Suite by Vaughan-Williams, Bercesue From the Firebird Suite (1910) by Stravinsky, A Solemn Music (1949) by Thomson, and March of Steel Men (1937) by Belsterling,

New Summer Placement Directory Available

Vacation with a Profit

To answer the needs of teachers, college students and professors, The Advancement and Placement Institute annouces publication of their completely new and expanded 1958 World-Wide SUMMER PLACEMENT DIRECTORY. The Directory is prepared as an aid to those who wish new ideas and ways to earn while they vacation.

The new Directory gives descriptions of the type of work available, salary ranges, names and addresses of employers requesting summer employees. Included are governmental positions, steamship needs, dude ranches, travel tour agencies abroad, work camps, service projects, earning free trips to Europe, national parks, summer camps, theatres and resorts, career trainee opportunities, study awards all over the world and many others. Thousands of opportunities are presented from over 20 foreign countries and all 48 States.

At the request of many students, a special new section has been added for those students wishing to use their summer in trainee programs for further career opportunities. Positions are available in hundreds of firms in more than forty fields of business, industry, government, science. recreation and education.

A current up to date World-Wide SUMMER PLACEMENT DIRECTORY is published annually by the staff of The Advancement and Placement Institute which has been a non-fee professional advisory and advancement service for the field of education since 1952.

Copies may be examined at many Placement or Deans' Offices, Libraries, School Superintendents' Offices or may be ordered from the Institute at Box 99G, Greenpoint Station, Brooklyn 22, N. Y. for $2.00 a copy.

House Committee For Baldwin Told

by Kris Ramsey

The recently elected House Committee for Baldwin is as follows:

House Chairman, Lane Rowe; Vice House Chairman, Phyllis Stine; Secretary, Doreas Curtis; Treasurer, Moggie Kelso; Fire Captain, Peggy Reynolds; Floor Chairmen: Doris Engle, Mimi Mattis, Evelyn Crane; Town Night Checkers: Judy Longsinger and Bonnie Birch.

All of these officers were elected before the end of the last semester excepting the House Chairman. Ordinarily this office is held by one person for two semesters, but the former House Chairman did not return this semester, leaving the office vacant. Lane Rowe was elected to the office ot the beginning of the semester.

Cold Thetas Had Warm Fellowship

by Peggy Reid

Rugged as Thetas may be, we were routed by the cold and had to have our picnic in the Y-rooms instead of in the amphitheatre in the woods. Still the fellowship was as warm as the fire in the fireplace, the fun was spurred with songs, cheers, and Indian games, and the food consumed proved our appetites rather hearty!

Last Saturday we were entertained by our brothers from Alpha Sigma. George Stewart and Stanley Mont read poetry, contrasting the sentimentality in the religious poem of the Victorian era with the pessimism of the modern religious poem. Larry Gibbs hypnotist, with selected subjects gave an exhibition of the art to wide - eyed, amused Thetas.

Tonight Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will meet together for a lively jam - session. We'll see Y'all there!

M.C. Debators Tie For Third In State

The Maryville College Debate Team tied for third place in the Tennessee State Intercollegiate Forensic Tournament held last weekend at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. Fifty-one teams representing eleven colleges and universities throughout the state participated in this tournament.

In the women's division of debate Corita Erwin and Eleonore Koster won four out of five debates to place second. The two men's teams, consisting of Ross McGill and Bob Goodlin, and Dan Ellis and eKith Ham, each won four out of five debates in the men's division. In the women's division Betty Miller and Anna Keitt won three out of five debates, as did the men's team of Dale Young and Howard McCuen in the Junior division. The debate team as a whole won eighteen out of twenty-five debates.

In the individual speaking contests Eleonore Koster placed first in women's extemporaneous speaking and Keith Ham placed first in men's after-dinner speaking. Eleonore Koster placed second in women's impromptu speaking and third in women's peace oratory, and Dan Ellis placed second in men's peace oratory. Corita Erwin reached finals in women's regular oratory and women's extemp., Keith Ham reached finals in men's regular oratory and men's extemp., and Ross McGill reached finals in men's extemp.

Winner of sweepstakes was Middle Tennessee State College, second place winner was Vanderbilt, and David Lipscomb tied Maryville for third place. Accompanying the debators to Nashville was their coach, Mr. Newell Witherspoon who when asked to give his reflections of the tournament said. "The competition was keen, the tournament was very strenuous, and I think Maryville debators are to be congratulated on their fine performance."

Orchestra Concert Held February 21

Phyllis Stine

All are invited to the Orchestra Concert to be presented at 8 p.m. on February 21 in the Music Hall under the direction of Ralph Moore of the music faculty. Kent Perry, also of the music faculty will be the Concert Master.

Of the numbers included in the program "March Slave" by Tchaikowsky, "The Bat" by Strauss, and "Finlandia" by Sebalius will probably be the most familiar to the average student.

Karen Meier will play Beethoven's Concerto No. 1 as a solo number. The orchestra has been working on this concert since December.

HIGHLAND ECHO SUBSCRIPTION
75c per Semester

SEND TO: .....
.....
.....
.....
.....

FOR: ..... 1st. Semester .75
(Check one) .... 2nd Semester .75
..... both Semesters $1.50

Are February Meetings Valuable? Here's What Some Students Think

How do students feel about the February Meetings this year? In order to find out, The Echo held a survey, with the students chosen at random, from among the four classes and both sexes. The attitudes expressed are in the words of the students.

"I feel that the February meetings were a great disappointment to me this year. After the pertinent talks of Dr. Brubaker last year, with whom comparison is inevitable, Dr. Hine's messages just didn't seem relevant or forceful. In fact, I felt a lack of spirit generally among the team this year, and it wasn't until the final meetings that I thought that they began to feel at home."

"One other thing that disturbed me was the lack of enthusiasm among the faculty generally. The restrictions of lighter work and no tests during February Meetings were not imposed in any of my classes. It was as if the faculty didn't care that the meetings were going on, and were carrying on work and assignments as usual. If the faculty do not care about them, why should we?"

"February Meetings have meant a great deal to me each year, but I feel that this year I have gained more from them than before.

I felt that Dr. Hines wasn't giving me a one, two, three answer to my problems but wanted to give me enough thought in each of his sermons to stimulate me to thinking and to discussing so that I thought this might further my faith in God.

Singing and the music was quite good this year. Dr. Hollis had a difficult position to fill because most of us were use to Dr. McGill leading the singing. As usual Barry added spice and enjoyment to the meetings. All this being a very important part of the meetings to me.

February Meetings to me hold a very high standing in the schedule of activities for each college year. They should never be done away with, whatever is discussed for and against."

"There seems to be a great variety of opinions being expressed about this year's February Meetings. Some seem to feel that they were not as "dynamic" as they have been in the past two years. Others have said they believe them to have been even more effective in a different way. I think practically everyone will agree, however, that any speaker is somewhat at a disadvantage when he accepts the responsibility of these meetings because he is compared to the speaker of the previous year or years. He is exuected to come forth with something new and astounding. In my opinion, Dr. Hine stood up quite well under the comparison. The thing that struck me most about his sermons was that they were so well organized and each sermon seemed to make one think just a little harder than the time before. Dr. Hine spoke with enough objectivity and authority, obtained from his experiences and careful observation, to give his questions and answers validity. Perhaps his delivery could have been more effective in commanding the attention of the listener and I don't think as great an appeal was made to the emotions, but does this necessarily eradicate all possibilities of a sermon being effective? Personally, I thought him very thought provoking"

"As a newcomer to Maryville College campus, I was looking forward to February Meetings with much expectancy and enthusiasm. These Meetings seemed to be the main topic of converation for quite a while before they began. Well, my enthusiasm didn't last long after the Meetings got underway. I guess, as a whole, the Meetings were a success but I feel that the program of the February Meetings should be evaluated very careful-

(Continued on Page Four)

Octet, Speakers Among Future YWCA Programs

Several excellent programs are planned for the near future. On Sunday, Feb. 9, the Knoxville College Octet will present a music program at 1:30 p.m. in the Music Hall. This has become an annual program, because of the many requests for repeat performances.

Mr. Leon Marion

Feb. 16, is Universal Day of Prayer for students the world over. In connection with this, Mr. Leon Marion representing World University Service will visit our campus and speak at Y.

The weekend of Feb. 22 and 23, includes small discussion groups on Saturday afternoon, an panel program at a joint meeting of all four socities, and also time for questions during Y on Sunday. The topic, Integration, will be presented by Professor Ed Edmunds, sociologist from Bennett College in Greensboro, N. C. He will be accompanied by five students from Bennett, who will be guests in our dormitories.

With this preview of the three coming progroms, we hope that everyone will realize the value of them and make an efort to attend. "This is our Y."

Opening Night Theme For Sweetheart Show

by Marilynn Lundy

Alpha Sigma is secretly preparing for its annual Alpha Sigma Sweetheart Show to be given on February 15th.

This year, Alpha Sigma is planning a unique and different presentation of the Sweetheart and her attendants. They will probably be presented by the officers of Alpha Sig in a theme that will include the audience.

This theme will be entitled "Opening Night." No clues have been given as to what this will be, but Tom Eberhardt's Ensemble will play for the event. To find out about the rest of the entertainment in store for you, come and see the Alpha Sigma Sweetheart Show next Saturday.

Selections From Five Plays Given At Experimentals Friday Night

by Marilynn Lundy

Experimental plays will be given this Friday, February 14, in the theatre. The selections from plays are all of religious significance. After the plays are given, there will be a discussion, to which all are invited. The plays and the performance of the actors will be discussed.

The "Lark" will be directed by Ruth Wagner and the cast includes Gail Shiffer, and Fred Kay.

Ann Wiley will direct "St. Joan." Charlene Weed will appear as Joan and other members of the cast will be Steve Mouton, Ron Lind, and Bill Boyd.

"The Dark is Light Enough" will be directed by Mary Fay Bundy. The troupe performing will be Sara Smith, Ron Lind, and Bill Boyd.

A presentation entitled "Cavalcade" will be directed by Ron Randon. In this play, Sharon Rise and Jim Barber will each enact four different persons.

Susan Parkinson is directing "Gren Pastures" with a cast of Chris Ward, as God, David Mosteller, as Issac, David Gilliland in the part of Moses, and Reda Kay playing zipporah.

Back stage personel will include Libby Turner, Frances Matthews, and Barbara Coates on lights. Make-up will be handled by Linda Messer, Kay Buchanan, and Anna Allcroft. Kathryn Smith and Helen Rankin will take responsibility for costumes. Props will be the responsibility of Ann Bright, Jane Bohanan, Judy Godfrey, and Jane Byrne.

Leon Marion Speaks At Y On Feb. 16

Mr. Leon Marion, representing World University Service will speak at Y on February 16.

Mr. Marion is uniquely prepared for this assignmen hrough education, training and experience. A graduate of Occidental College in 1951, he was active in WUS on his campus, served as Regional Chairman of the Pacific Southwest Area Student YMCA in 1950-51, and as Vice-Chairman of the National Student Council of the YMCA in 1950-51.

Mr. Marion is a Veteran of World War II, having served thirty-two months with the Navy. Twenty-four of those months were spent in the submarine service.

From September 1953 until June 1954 and during the Fall of 1954, Mr. Marion did graduate work at Columbia University in International Relations and International Law. From February 1 to June 30 1955 he served as a special agent for the National Student YMCA and YWCA on behalf of the Young Men's Conference of the Paris Centennial of the YMCA and the International Seminars sponsored by NSCY. During the summer of 1955 he served as Director of the College Summer Service Group, which had its largest enrollment in history. He also directed this group in the summer of 1954.

He has spent three summers in Europe. In the summer of 1948 he and eight other students were the only American student group to fly into Berlin, then blocked by the Russians. In 1951 he was one of the American delegates to the international conference organized by World University Service in Norway. In 1952 he again spent the summer in Europe, bicycling across the Continent with stop-overs at various meetings and conferences.

Mr. Marion has done extensive work for World University Service both as a student and professionally. In addition to attending WUS conferences abroad and visiting colleges and universities in several sections of the USA in behalf of WUS he served from 1951 to 1953 as a WUS secretary in the Central, Southern, Pacific Northwest and Pacific Southwest and Southwest Regions.

Dareall Dares Is Frosh Show Theme

by Kris Ramsey

Rehearsals are now underway for the annual Freshman Production. This year's show is entitled "Dareall Dares," and it will be presented at 8:00 on Saturday night, February 22 in the Alumni Gymnosium. "Dareall Dares" was written by the two who will direct it, Kay Buchannan and Bob Conner, and by Allison Cohn.

The cast will include many members of the class in various talent acts which will be a part of the story. The main characters in the production are Miriom Watson as Teresa Truehart Jim Morrow as Dareall Flynn, Ed Milan as Duke Skinner, Marilynn Lunyd as Belle Molly, and Bill Sams as Frankley. Committee chairmen are Katie Deuel, Costumes; Allison Cohn, Make-up; Dickk Mayer, Sets; Bob Conner, Lighting and Stage Effects; Linda Dobson, Props; and Susie Fagan, Publicity.

From all indications this year's Freshman Production is going to be a big success, and fun for all. Many of the freshmen are already at work on their parts but more help is needed. There is a job for every member of the class. Those who want to help can see Kay Buchannan.

YWCA Sends A Delegate To Nat'l Convention

By Ann Murray

"Are you hungry on Sunday nite, girls? Then order some food and help send a delegate to National Convention!" This is only one of several projects planned by the YWCA cabinet to raise some money.

During our spring vacation, March 12-19, the National Young Women's Christian Association Convention will convene in St. Louis, Mo. There, some three thousand women will meet together to talk about the work of the YWCA in terms of Y-Teens, College and University Ys and Community Ys.

There will be two delegates from Maryville attending. Janie Wall, as Chairman of the National Student Association, will have her expenses paid and Barbara Davis, a Junior Sociology major from Independence, Mo., will attend from our association. Barbara is co-program chairman of the YWCA.

The automobile driver of culture rarely becomes involved in a collision.

The Highland Echo

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1958

Vol. 43 No. 10

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan
PAGE TWO EDITORS—Bobbye Carson, Carol Morgan
PAGE FOUR EDITOR—Marilyn Lundy

REPORTERS—Bonnie Birch, Pat Penland, Kris Ramsey, George Roselli

CONTRIBUTORS THIS ISSUE—Lottie Jerkins, Nancy Peters, Peggy Reid, Phyllis Stine, Virginia Hine

Business Staff

Sandra Jarrett, Mary James, Dick Heischman, Barbara Williams, George Preston, Todd Jablonski

Fred A. Griffitts ..... Faculty Advisor
The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such letters should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters because of space limitations. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publications.

Summing Up. . .

It seems to us to be a good idea to have a summing up period after the February Meeitngs to find out just what has been accomplished by holding them. In order to find out just what the students thought about this year's meetings, a survey was taken. The students were told to state, in their own words just how they felt about the meetings this year. They were assured that names would not appear, and were told to feel free to feel free to express any honest view. The result was to some of us, a little surprising.

Some of the students, especially the upperclassmen, who had had the opportunity to attend las year's meetings, felt a dissatisfaction with the speaker and the general spirit which was prevalent this year. Others, felt that the meetings had been emphasized too much.

The fault most generally found was that the speaker did not say anything definite, but left the student floating around on the misty slopes between. This very characteristic was praised by others as affording an opportunity to think.

This diversity of thought inteersted us. It might be said that two levels of growth are represented by the two extremes of opinion presented concerning the clarity of Dr. Hine's messages.

The student who is left floaitng and bewildered by a speaker, and who shrugs off the message as meaningless because points 1-2-and 3 were not clearly outlined (point 1 being the situation, point 2 theproblem , point 3 the solution), is not a true student. He lacks the maturity to realize the opportunity afforded to think. Or it may be that he does not have he maturity to recognize when thinking is necessary and of value. It is not necessary to know why he disagrees.

The other attitude is that expressed by a true student. He may not understand, but he takes the message as a starting point for further thought. His mind openly and actively gathers ideas which lead to individual and group thought. This sort of student deserves and derives the most from his college experiences.

Dr. Hine's special interest is counselling. He demonstrated his knowledge of, and agreement with, the value of helping people to think about their situation and alternatives in dealing with it. It seems to us that this is a valuable echnique in dealing with college students who should be mature enough to be able to respond.

It may be that Dr. Hine's delivery was not as impressive as that of previous leaders. But we feel that we have been listening to a man who will not tell us "do" and "don't", but will present us with the facts, and trust us to draw our own thoughtful conclusions, whether the same as his, or not.

Nearly everybody is for the common good until they come to the pocketbook test.

The military preparedness of the United States should not fluctuate with public alarm.

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

Writer's Workshop Column

"Three blankets, check, four towels, check, one pair of boots, check, one fishing rod, check, four sheets, check, and two pairs of shoes, check. Well, that's that," remarked 205 mothers (or their substitutes) on June 28 in homes (or supposed facsimiles) located in and around Westchester county. Most of the 205 boys were not interested in the fact that their trunks were packed ready for camp. The only important thing to them was getting to swim in a lake, sleep in a tent, cook over a fire, and ride a horse.

At the same time, sixty-eight college men were being indoctrinated into the ways of boys. Of course, since it was the day before the arrival of their charges, they were enjoying their last night of freedom to the utmost. It was the last chance to speak above a whisper at night, to talk to a girl withou enduring jibes, or o chew gum—it clogs mechanical dishawshers. Nor did they worry about waking a 9-year-old at eleven and one o'clock at night to visit the john, so he wouldn't do what he always did anyway.

The next morning, the two groups collided on the camp grounds nestled in Connecticut's low slung Berkshire mountains. Opening ceremonies varied from "My handle's Skeets, give me five," to silent and longing looks at a St. Bernard trying unsuccessfully to squeeze through the window of the family car. Mothers made Johnny's bed while parrying counsellors' vain attempt to tactfully get them out of camp before the new surroundings were no longer novel.

By supper time the tent groups of seven apiece were established as each counsellor called his brood to line up in front of their tent. The new campers experienced the first rule of group living when each one had his hands and face checked for remnants of boyish activity. After the first week, nearly every boy knew about to what extent he could grant his impish nature freedom. They soon learned that it simply was not proper etiquette to read comic books during clean-up perid, to laugh during tent vespers—especially when the counsellor thought he was being exceptionally profound, to try casting a stone tied to the counsellor's new fifty-dollar spinning outfit, or to commit the unpardonable sin of waking the counsellor at 6 a.m. with pillow fights.

Of course, the process works two ways. Most of the counsellors began to realize the way each boy should be handled. But Ted Sloane, a zealous Georgian doing , as he put it, "mission work" in Connecticut, could not establish rapport with Peter Smythe. He found Pete growing lax in tent duties and disappearing at mealtime—completely disregarding his attempts at disciplinary measures. He was a problem, but even more disturbing to Ted, he was teaching the other six boys similar nonconforming antics. As soon as Ted was out of sight, Pete would become produce r, director, and leading actor in a 9-yeaar-old version of a burlesque. Calling out, "Free show in tent one," he would soon disrupt the normal games. When he could find no appreciative audience, he would wander off to the nature lodge to play with the animals. Picking up a harmless hognosed snake, he would stand with a satisfied smile as it crawled under his shirt to get warm. Someitme during the day, Pete would always make sure the rabbit had its clover, the chipmunks had their apples and the chrew had double its weight in grubs. He would run to Ted screaming like a future president of the S.P.C.A., whenever he saw any young sadists conducting three-legged races between mutilated frogs.

As the weeks passed, Pete detached himself from the group to such a degree that he never joined the organized activities of the camp. The counsellors knew him—a s they do all problem cases—but they never saw him swimming or playing baseball or making a lanyard at crafts. Theyalso discovered that Pete had forsaken his favorite haunt—the nature lodge—and was keeping himself busy by running errands for the nurse at the infirmary. She was his only interest and only trusted companion. As long as she would give him a motherly hug or listen to his tales about spelunking expedeitions to "hidden cave", he was happy. Since Pete seemed more satisfied being with the nurse than with boys his own age, Ted decided to let the situation stand. Thus, Ted failed to realize the lack of security behind Pete's aloof and often malicious front. Things went along smoothly until the nurse had to unexpectedly leave three weeks before the end of the season. The next day Pete retreated to the nature lodge—but he didn't stay long. He wandered to the ballfield, listlessly jeered the inadept Micky Mantle worshippers and, tiring of this, sauntered into the woods to hunt for grubs. But even though he wanted them for his starving shrew, the dry weather had ruined any chance of success. This shortage of worms was the final frustrating set-back. Pete started crying.

Ted was relaxing in the counselor's cabin during his free hour. For an instant, he thought he heard a boy crying, but when no one else seemed to notice, he continued telling of his rude awakening at five-thirty that morning by wails of mortal pain. Charlie Rice had fallen through his slit canvas bunk into a very hostile and unreceptive bunkmate. The other counselors chuckied at Ted's woe as they trudged up the hill to lunch. Suddenly Ted remembered—the letter he had to mail—he had forgotten it! In the empty quietness of the cabin he again heard a boy's crying, this time very distinctly. Peering out, Ted caught sight of Pete standing against a tree near the edge of the woods. This was probably serious. A boy usually doesn't cry alone unless he is deeply hurt. He didn't look up as Ted approached. It was apparent that Pete was not crying to gain attention. Ted quietly asked, "What's the matter, Pete? Had a fight?"..

Pete barely glanced up. "No."

"Come on, tell us about it. You'll feel better."

"No!"

"Something must be wrong." There was silence. "It would probably help to talk about it."

"Nobody likes me. They all think I'm bad."

"It's not that they don't like you, Pete. It's just that—well, the things you do sometimes make them mad."

"I don't care if nobody likes me, but—but the oother kids make fun of my teddy bear."

"Well, just laugh with them and they'll stop teasing you after a while. After all, it's no fun for them unless you get mad."

Pete stopped crying. Ted was relieved. It looked as if the book answers he had used certainly coul dsolve any problem. Beginning to feel hungry, he put his hand on Pete's shoulder, "Let's go to lunch."

They turned to climb the hill, when suddenly Pete bolted to the nearest tent, flopped on the bed, and started crying. Ted was dumbfounded. "What is the matter with that crazy kid? One minute I've solved all his problems, the next I have a boy on my hands who won't do anything but pity hilmself." Ted mulled the poblem over for several minutes. He knew Pete lived in a foster home—going to the city to see his father on occasional week-ends—and didn't get the affection he sohadl y needed, but he couldn't think of any of the answers so clearly stated by the experts in his college textbooks.

He yanked his towel off the line. "I haven't washed my hands yet, Pete. How about going down to the pagoda with me and washing your face so nobody'll know you were crying?" There was no response. Ted started rummaging through his tackle box talking more to himself than to Pete. "If I can get to lunch in itme to grab some extra food, I'm gonna go down to the lake for some fishing this afternoon. Chuck said they were jumping all morning. Hate to go out alone though. Wonder who's free. Say—Pete, why don't you come along?"

Pete had stopped crying. "Uh, I don't know. Ig—if you really have to have somebody, I guess I could go." Pete was cautious. He wasn't going to obligate himself to anybody, no matter how much he wanted something.

"Great! Let's get up to the mess hall before they lock up the food."

As they entered the mess hall, Ted remembered his letter.

* * * *

The lake was bathed in warmth by the hot, early-August sun. It was neither crystal clear like spring-fed lakes, nor the deep blue blue of the mirror lakes in New Mexico . In fact, it was not even a lake. It was simply a two-mile long New England pond made in the days of the Revolution to provide power for a nearby iron works. The slow (near stagnant) moving water was the perfect environment for thousands of species of large and microscopic plankton. The fish thrived in it.

Ted explained to Pete the food cycle that the algae made possible. Larvae and nymphs lived on the algae and plankton; frogs, crayfish, and minnows ate the water insects; the bass and other game fish relied upon the minnows, frogs and crayfish; and finally, he and Pete, the fisherman, formed the final link in keeping the process balanced.

Ted anchore dthe boat off a patch of lily pads shaded by overhanging trees. If the crappies were anywhere during the heat of the day, they would be here. Nithr of the modern Isaac Waltons spoke. He motioned Pete to drop his bait into a clear spot among the water flowers. Pete leaned almost into the water, intently watching the red and white bobber. His natural boyish enthusiasm for life had returned. He and Ted had both lost themselves in the wonders and mysteries of fishing. Man and boy were equal.

Socially Speaking

by Nancy Peters

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Givin of Colwyn, Pennsylvania announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Nancy Givin '58 to Mor Dale Dietz of Elliottsburg, Pennsylvania. The wedding will take place on July 5, 1958.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Merritt Antes of Coral Gables, Florida announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Joann Antes '59 to Mr. Robert Wyman son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward George Wyman of Carteret, New Jersey. The couple will be married on August 23 1958 and will return for their senior year here at Maryville. Then Mr. Wyman will enter Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Marston announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Joan Marston '59 of Wyncote, Pennsylvania to Mr. Charles Herbert son of Mrs. Dorothy Herbert of Glenside, Pennsylvania. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watson announces the engagement of her daughter Miss Betsy B. Watson of Winchester, Kentucky '59 to Mr. J. Ronald Hoefer son of Mrs. Charlotte E. Hoefer of Wilmington, Deleware Wedding plans are indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Schultz of Kentland, Indiana announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Joan Schultz '59 to Mr. Willard V. Roberts Jr. '58 son of Mr. and Mrs. Williard V. Roberts Sr. of Penns Grove, New Jersey. The Wedding will take place on May 23, 1958 in Kentland, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Rhawn of Edgewater Park, New Jersey announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy to Ralph E. Rodman, Jr. '60 son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Rodman Sr. of Burlington, New Jersey. A summer wedding is planned.

Mrs. Ruby Duvall of Louisville, Kentuckky announces the engagement of her daughter Miss Willa Jean Duvall '58 to Mr. Wesley Poorman son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Poorman of Canton, Ohio. Mr. Poorman received a Bachelors degree from Colgate University and is now working on a Masters degree at Ohio State. A June wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Howell of Chester, New Jersey announce the marriage of their daughter Miss Claire Howell ex-'60 to Mr. Michael Guise ex-'59 son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guise of York Springs, Pennsylvania. The wedding took place in York Springs on February 5, 1958. The Bridegroom is employed by Hanover Canning Co. and is taking courses from the Universal Personnel Airlines Training School. The couple will reside in York Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Meier of Chatsworth, Georgia anounce the engagement of their daughter Miss Karen Meier '60 to Mr. Douglas Terry son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Terry also of Chatsworth, Georgia. Mr. Terry is a junior at Georgia Tech. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Miller of Cleveland, Tennessee announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Betty C. Miller '61 to Mr. Claude Terry, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Terry Sr. of Cumming, Georgia. Mr. Terry is employed as a teacher in the high school in Cumming, Georgia. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Mrs. Mary Wilson of Dayton, Ohio announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter Miss Ruth Ann ex-'58 to Keith Warren Woodard. The wedding will take place on Friday February 21, 1958 at the Ohmer Park Methodist Episcopal Church in Dayton, Ohio.

VISITORS

Among the vilstors to our campus during the week of February meetings were Liz Frei '56 and her husband who were visiting in Knoxville at the home of Miss Janet Whitmore '56 who also attended several of the nightly meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Laster of Harriman, Tennessee who son Jim '57 is presently teaching in Iran, were also visitors during the meetings.

Miss Kathy Briggs ex-'59 who is presently attending Penn State was a visitor to our campus last week. Kathy visited with Miss Sue Turtllotte and attended several classes.

Miss Elva Leonhardt '59 had as her vsitor from January 24-26 her sister Suzanne Leonhardt who attends Emory and Henry. Miss Leonhardt said that it was interesting to compare the two colleges and she commented on the friendly atmosphere which prevails here at Maryville.

Miss Gail Shiffer had as her guest from January 27 until February 1, Mr. Jesse Timmons who attends Kansas University. Mr Timmons is assistant Math Professor a Kansas University. He and Miss Shiffer are boh from Ickesburg Pennsylvania.

John Williams ex-'58 was the guest of Miss Sally Lumley last weekend. Mr. Williams is living at home in Spring City, Tennessee.

At Sunday evening's meeting your reporter greeted two '57 graduates who ast year worked on their masters degrees at the University of Tennessee and who are working there this year. They are Miss Cara Gowans and Miss Barbara Wilkie.

For the benefit of those who did not see my comment in the last Echo, anyone who wishes any social item to appear in the paper, please see either the Editor or this reporter. Those items which usually appear in this column are visitors, engagements, weddings or other news which would be of interest to the student body.

"A happy marriage is a long conversation that always seems too short!"

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4762
Royal Distributors

THE SWEETEST GIFT OF ALL

Candy

Choose from our beautiful Gift Boxes of—Norris, Pangburn's and Whitman's.
Prices from $.60 to $10.00

Give Her the Best—
We will Deliver
Your Candy

City Drug Store

Phones—YU 2-7162 YU 2-7163

For Those Who Care Enough To Look Their Best . . .

Let us work "shear" magic for you with a becoming hair styling

Call us today!

HAIRCUT - - 1.50

PROFFITT'S BEAUTY SALON
YU 3-4121

Scot Grapplers Lose To Auburn, Chattanooga

The Maryville College Wrestling Team dropped decisions to Auburn 28-5 and Chattanooga 15-13 in its last two encounters.

Heavyweight John Hawkins was Maryville's only point getter against the powerful Auburn Tigers. Hawkins pinned Joe Tidmore in two minutes and fifteen seconds of the first period.

In the other matches the Tigers, sporting four Southeastern Conference champions shut out the Scots with two pins, four decisions and one default.

In one of the most exciting matches ever seen on the home mat, the Highlanders dropped a 15-13 decision to the University of Chattanooga. Trailing 15-10 the Scots needed a pin by heavyweight John Hawkins to gain a tie. Moccasin heavyweight Jay Herbert was as hard to catch as a greased pig, as he ran around the edge of the mat. Hawkins was unable to chase Herbert down and the Mocs took a two point victory. Earlier in the evening in the 130 lb. class, David Williamson of Maryville pinned Southeastern Conference champion Fred Tilly in second period. Jim Harris garnered the rest of the Scotties' points with a pin in the 167 lb. class.

The Mocs won two matches at 147 and 157 by having a 1 point riding time advantage.

Summaries

Auburn 27 Maryville 5

123—McCrary (A) pinned Johnson (M)
130—Cresap (A) dec. O. Williamson (M) 7-1
137—Mason (A) pinned Crissman (M)
147—Ogburn (A) default over M. Williamson (M)
157—Belksnider (A) dec. Mull (M) 6-3
167—Haugen (A) dec. Emery (M) 5-0
177—Brannon (A) dec. Chambers (M) 8-1
Heavy—Hawkins (M) pinned Tidmore (A)

Chattanooga 15 Maryville 13

123—Deloach (C) dec. Johnson (M) 4-0
130—O. Williamson (M) pinned Lilly (C)
137—Stack (C) dec. M. Williamson (M) 4-1
147—Helton (C) dec. Crissman (M) 3-2
157—Bratcher (C) dec. Mull (M) 5-4
167—Harris (M) pinned Nagel (C)
177—Dyer (C) dec. Chambers (M) 2-0
Heavy—Hawkins (M) dc. Herbert (C) 9-3

RIMSHOTS

By Lottie Werkins

The Amoeba's fluid drive, the Wildcats reckless plays, the sharpshooters' ambushes and the spirit of the Howies have all combined to give basketball an added zest. Speaking of added attractions, Helen T. was seen working her own screen play behind some inflated bubble-gum. Originality everywhere you look. Last Tuesday one of the games went into overtime. The exciting final score was 39 for hte Wildcats and 38 for the Amoebas. The tournament is not yet over, so come watch games where the players look good even on the bench.

Ping Pong

The doubles Ping Pong Tournament is bouncing along. The greatest difficulty in this game is not hiting the ball but is getting out of your partner's way before he trampies you to death. The choice becomes either light on your feet or partner on your feet. This is one place where the service gets pretty fast.

M-Club

The Women's M-Club has a familiar problem—too many things to do in too little amount of time. Daydreams have already begun about the spring hike—and all the work—by the Neophites of course.

Guess I'll be dribbling along. See you at the green tables.

Emory & Henry

George Roselli

The Maryville Scotties had a field day as they completely routed the Emory and Henry Wasps last Friday afternoon in the local gym, 87-71.

Leading the charge was Tom Morris the leading scorer in small college circles in East Tennessee, with a 34 point performance. After a close 10 minutes at the start of the contest, the Scotties began to roll and led at halftime 38-32. From there on in, the home team was never in danger as it coast ed to its second win in 11 starts.

Other leading scorers included Neal Wormsley with 20 for the winners, while Jim Lewis, with 18, paced the Wasps. The next homegame is February 10 against Carson-Newman College.

Sports Spotlights

By George Roselli
Basketball

Basketball continues to dominate the sports' scene. Since our last issue, all major teams , have lost at least one game. Latest to fall from the unbeaten ranks was the nation's top team, West Virginia. Here now is the up-to-date standings of the best teams in the nation by the Associated Press.

1. West Virginia (15-1)
2. Kansas (12-2)
3. Cincinnati (15-2)
4. Kansas State (14-1)
5. San Francisco (15-1)
6. Oklahoma State (13-2)
7. North Carolina (13-3)
8. Maryland (11-3)
9. North Carolina State (12-3)
10. Temple (14-2)

Kentucky still leads the Southeastern Confreence with a 7-1 record, followed by Tennessee and Alabama both winning 5-2 standings.

In the third spot comes Georgia Tech 5-3.

Some scores of the leading games include Kansas State's upset victory over their rivals Kansas 79-77 in two overtimes. Highly rated Indiana was surprised when Minnesota beath them 69-66. Auburn stunned the Rambling Recks from Georgia Tech with a clean-cut 99-78 victory and thus ended any hopes that Tech had for the Conference championship.

In the professional ranks, the leaders both tied tightly to their respective leads and showed no signs of weakening. St. Louis leads the Western Division by 7½ games over Cincinnati and Boston has a 6 game advantage over second place Syracuse.

IN THIS CORNER

By Pete Nix

At this writing the basketball Scotties sport a poor 2-9 record. But an improvement of no small proportions has been evident in the Highlander's last two outings. The Scots pushed the taller, more experienced Tusculum Buccaneers all the way before letting the Greeneville lads slip away in the waning minutes. Then in a rare daytime contest Maryville parlayed the outside play of Neal Wormsley, the inside scoring of center Tom Morris, and the rebounding strength of Bill Owenby, into the season's second victory.

Tom Morris, the junior center from Cutler Indiana, is the leading small college scorer in East Tennessee with a 23 plus point average per game. Morris was a regular for Coach Lombe Honaker at the guard slot last season. Because of his jumping ability and deft movements around the basket Morris was shifted to center in what has proven to be a profitable move.

Freshman Bill Owenby from Sevierville, Tennessee holds down one of the starting forward positions. Owenby started slow, but at present is by far the most improved player on the squad. Showing surprising aggressiveness in the last few contests Owenby has been Maryville's leading rebounder as well as throwing in 16-20 points a game.

Bill Crisp, a naitve Blount Countian, is the other forward, having gained a starting berth only recently. Crisp bucketed 16 points in his first starting role against Tusuculum and shows promise as a rebounder. His assignment as a starter may have been what the Scots needed to pull a few upsets as they face the remainder of a tough schedule.

Veteran John West, a Blount County boy, holds down one of the guard spots. Although not a consistently high scorer, West has the knack of getting a basket when it helps. This is his fourth year on the hardwood for the Scotties.

Neal Wormsley, A T.P.I. transfer shares the guard duties with West. Wormsley, whose shooting eye was off during the earlier part of the season, is just now coming into his own. His left handed jump-shot from the corner is now consistently hitting the bottom of the net and he continues to improve. Wormsley is a Sophomore.

Other than lack of heighth and experience on the part of the starting five, the biggest problem facing the Scotties is the bench. Coach Davis has to go almost entirely with his starting five. The reserves are long on number, but short on ability, and this may well be a deciding factor in the showing of the ball club for the rest of the year.

However, the starting five continue to improve game after game, and barring injury or excessive fouls, Morris, Owenby, Crisp, West, and Wormsley may well be the perpetrators of an upset or two ere this basketball season ends. They will bear waething.

SNOW

by Maryanne Broadwood

It's snowing! How glorious those words sounded to em. I squinted out into the darkness of morning to see the soft white flakes falling. Just another false alarm-it'll never stick-too wet. I liked the professional sound of those words-just like a real snow-knower. But this time my vast knowledge of meteorological phenomoma was lacking. It did stick-three and one half inches worth of sticking. It was a dream come true. Everywhere I looked-mounds and mounds of snow. In the deeper drifts, it came above my ankles!

Snow is very cold. After severe burns on my hands and feet I learned that one must wear gloves and heavy socks and shoes when engaging in winter sports. My sport consisted of running happily from one scenic wonder to another destroying the natural beauty of the pure driven snow. Of course, the use of this word "driven" in connection with snow has never failed to puzzle me, but now, having first-hand knowledge, I feel as though I have a right to toss such an expression around with ease.

For the first time, I got to see for myself whether each snow flake had eight points or not. In all that white solid mass, how cananyone tell? I thought. But I knelt down and peered observently at the crysteals-and it's true. Of course, they are a lot smaller than the ones pictured in the encyclopedia or on Christmas wrapping paper, but those little points are still there.

Snowmen were fun, too. I never did get my snowball big enough to do anything but throw it, but for a first try, it was rather gallant. When working with such an alien subatance, ones creative ability is severly cramped.

Icicles were another wonder. These collections of frozen drips were things to be read about in poems where they hung against walls while some greasy girl named Joan keeled the pot. I broke one from the edge of roof and to the utter horror of everyone, I ate it. I can't understand those people, it was simply delicious.

Poor oblivious northerners! How much you missed last week. You glared wretchedly at that beautiful Aretic waste. You scraped the ice off your windshields. You pushed the great collections of minute designs from your sidewalks. I appreciate your weather. Maybe some winter you can come to Florida. Of course, there's nothing interesting to do there except to keep that boring old tradition of going swimming on Christmas.

Recipe for Communism: Let the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

Voices, Masks and Shadows.

by Virginia Hine

This week I want to simply share with you a few thoughts and ideas on the nature of music: part of which are btsically my own, and part of which were suggested by Dr. Hollis' sermon at Highland lrst Sunday.

In the first place, what is music? Or perhaps more correctly what is it in man's nature that makes him sing? For wherever man has built a civilization, music — song and dance, have been a vital part of his culture, whether he is consciously aware of the fact or not. I prefer to ask, not what is music? But why is music. And if you want my answer, I'll quote from "No Man is an Island" by Thomas Merton, who expresses what I mean better than I could say it.

"Music and art and poetry attune the soul to God because they induce a kind of contact with the Creator and Ruler of the Universe. The genius of the artist finds its way by the affinity of creative sympathy . . . into the living law that rules the universe. This law is nothing but the secret gravitation that draws all things to God as to their center. Since all true art lays bare the action of this same law in the depths of our own nature it makes us alive to the trememdous mystery of being, in which ourselves, together with all other living and existing things, come forth from the depths of God and return again to Him. An art that does not produce something of this is not worthy of its name."

In other words, God created man with a yearning to be a part of something greater than himself. No one knows better than the individual how alone he is in this world. And no one knows better than this man how necessary it is to find unity with someone or something not himself. Hence, man's religion, his art, his poetry, him philosphy, his music—all are manifestations of his attempts to express to others this unity he feels must exist if he is to be a man in the truest sense of the word. A man isolated ceases to be a man, for it is only in a social context that he can find realization of his own potential. This I believe to be the divine nature of man—the "image of God" if you will.

I realize that what I am speaking of here is more than just music Perhaps what I am really trying to do is formulate a general "theory of art", but music as such is my primary interest here.

In his music man expresses his unity with his fellow men and vrith God. He sings when others sing with him as in a mountain folk ballad, or he sings alone, as the symphonic composer does, but with the confidence that he is expressing the deepest thoughts of all man because they are his own thoughts as well.

Man's music expresses the emotions comon to all.

He sings "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen, Nobody knows my sorrow . . ."

And as he sings, he feels a bond with all who have ever been in sorrow, because they sing this song also. He sings of his love, his work, his play, his God, his hopes, his fears, his country, All the time conscious that he is not alone, conscious that the whole communiy of man is united in these things through a song.

So sings the "common" man. What of composer, the musician as such? I said before that he sings alone, and in a very real sense he does. He feels his kinship with mankind very strongly, but he also feels his isolation. He wants to get through to people, to share and to create with them, but he is bound on all sides by his sensitivity. He feels things too deeply, and he is afraid to let himself out completely, for fear of being hurt. Yet he must express the thoughts and emotions he feels. So strongly, and so he writes (music, litcrature, poetry) or paints. And in so doing he expresses himself, but also express the depths of others. Thus the composer, so to speak, sings the song which is in the heart of all. All cannot sing it, but all recognize it when they hear it as being that which they themselves feel, and thus a unity is brought about.

The line between "folk" music and "art" music is sometimes very slight. I think that the more one becomes acquainted with both, the more one realizes their basic similarities. Perhaps the fundamental difference lies in the fact that with folk music man is singing with others about what he feels, and with art music he is listening with others to an individual interpretation of thoughts common to all. In any case the unity is there.

I haven't mentioned so called "popular" music and for a very good reason. I think that most of it has no place at all in the theory of music. I think it is highly symptomatic of American culture that popular music should be so popular. It represents American "surfacism" if I may coin a word. This music says nothing, It gives no feeling of unity with anything. It hits the surface of the individual's mind and bounces off and this is precisely what the individual wants. He bitterly resents any attempt to get underneath the surface of life. This is evident in the movies he goes to, the books he reads, and the music he listens to. He complains over and over again about "high brow" music. He can't understand it. The point is that he doesn't want to understand it It might stir up a few ideas and thought which would be dangerous to his security—the security of the homogeneous featureless mass. Besides it might take more time than he can afford from his prescious trivia.

But after this rather scathing general denounciation, let me also say that I exclude from condemnation the more meaningful light music, such as "South Pacific," and "The King and I" Compare a song like "If I loved You" with "Honeycomb" or the recent "Green Door." My point should be obvious.

I believe that the greatest music and the music most fitting Merton's statement at the beginning of this article, is that is which both tragedy and triumph of faith. I find this in Negro spirituals and I could cite other examples from folk music. I find it in most of the great composers, Brahm's First Symphony and also the second section of the Brahm's "Requiem" —"Behold all Flesh is as the grass," Beethovan's Fifth Symphony, Mozart's Forthieth Symphony, Bruckner's Fourth Symphony, Tschaikousky's Sixth Symphony . . . the list is endless. Words would not describle what I mean by tragedy and triumph. If you know any of the works, you will know what I mean.

Tragedy and triumph. Music "attunes the soul to God" and thus to unity with his fellow men. "An art that does not produce something like this is not worthy of its name."

Fashions

by Bobbye Carson

Sack dresses, to be or not to be! As you probably have gathered the sack dress caused much contraversay in the Paris fashions shows of last week. Many of the designers were highly in favor of them, while others were not. The successor to the late Dior was not in sympathy with this style and was instrumental in preventing a landslide for the chemise, or in our terminology, "the sack."

After close observation, I rather like the style but realize that many women will not like it at all. Many men state that they do not like the chemise because it reveals little or nothing or the feminine charm, while others prefer the subtlety there involved.

The chemise can be rather extreme and severe, while on the same rack in the store there will be those that hint at the chemise style. Also many of the dresses come with detachable belts that can be worn to break the severe line. Of course there is no waist line problem as there is simply no waist line.

Eventhough there is much dislike of the chemise, I think it will be very popular for spring.

Christian Book Nook
229 College St.
Books — Bibles
and
Religious Materials
Valentines and Gifts
All gifts wrapped free!

CAPITOL
MOTION PICTURES AT THEIR BEST
Now Playing
Walt Disney's
"BAMBI"
★ ★ ★
Also
A Tour Through
"MOROCCO"

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET
OLDSMOBILE

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You
Planning a Party?
College Hill Food Market
Can Supply Your Needs
of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

At LYNCH'S
BIRTHDAY CAKES
A specialty and first rate
We Deliver
Phone 1303

FOR That Special Cake
for Valentine's Day
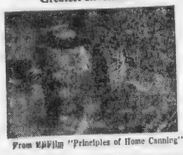
Call
VAN'S BAKERY
YU 2-7920 or YU 3-4413
FREE DELIVERY

Piano Informalities
Week-Day Evenings
7:00 P.M.
With FREE PRIZES
W.G.A.P.
1400 On Your Dial

For 1958,
Make Us Your 24--Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still the Best Cup of Coffee in Town-Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Fanciful Facts

by Robert C. Preble, President
ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA



Early Planning

From Britannica Film "Egypt and the Nile"

Kahun, Egypt, built in 3000 B.C. as a housing project for the men who worked on the pyramid, was the first planned city.

Greatest Invention?

From EBFilm "Principles of Home Canning"

The discovery of how to preserve foods by canning may eventually come to be considered the greatest invention of historic times.

Sailor, Beware!

From Encyclopaedia Britannica Film "Boats"

Even in peacetime the seaman's career is about four and one-half times as dangerous as the average worker's.

Saved for Future

From Britannica Film "Washington's Birthday"

Washington survived Braddock's notorious defeat only after two horses were shot from under him and four bullets pierced his clothing.

FEB. MEETINGS . . .

(Continued From Page One)

ly before plans are made for next year. Too many students made remarks that were definitely against this period set aside for spiritual growth to overlook their feelings without a thought. I think that the upperclassmen have a lot to do with setting the tempo of this period and if they are not satisfied it is very evident to everyone. If we all work together with the interests of others in mind, we should be able to make the February Meetings of 1959 the most outstanding event ever held at Maryville College."

"In my estimation the February meetings this year have been a source of opportunity for all of us to consider more thoughtfully some of the ideas and beliefs which we sometimes accept or reject very glibly. To me, Dr. Hine provided a series of interrelated talks which were brief but very profound and thought-provoking in context. One of the highest merits of his messages was his realitic and pragmatic presentation, coupled with the sincerity with which he spoke.

To me Dr. Hine gave us all enough to think about for quite sometime. In effect, there has been given to us much food for thought, which we must chew and digest slowly in order to derive any nourishment for our spiritual lives."

"As a freshman, I have never before experienced the February Meetings. From them I have attained a spiritual uplifting which I have needed for a long time. We need a break in our college life to renew our faith. The drudgery of the schoolwork had me wondering whether I had any real faith or not. Now I know have faith."

"Dr. Hines is a very inspiring speaker. His talks were of great value because they made me think. Not only did they make me think but they inspired discussions with others in my dormitory. Several of us got together and discussed our religious problems. In talking, we have gotten to know and understand each other better."

Unless you are paid to do so, never argue with anybody over grammar.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Council Corner

by Kris Ramsey

Meeting - February 5, 1958

Four sophomores and two freshmen took two many town nights and were each campused for three weeks. Harry Crane reported for the Project Committee that plans for Campus Beautiful Week, February 24-28 (tenative date) are underway.

The four classes wil be asked to donate money for some of the planned improvements such as tree planting. Student support is requested in helping to improve our campus. Everyone can help by using the sidewalks instead of cutting across campus.

Town night maps will not be distributed among the girls until the beginning of next semester. It was announced that the reason refreshments cannot be sold at ball games will be investigated.

Joe Williams presented a list of suggested chapel improvements recently approved by Dean Bushing. The list includes suggestions for an increase in student participation yet allowance for those not desiring to participate, a chain of related ideas and related hymns, and special singing by the choir whenever possible. These suggestions will be given to the faculty members.

Saturday Night Limit

The administration suggestion that the town night time limit on Saturday nights be changed from 10:30 to 11:00 was approved by the Student Council. This suggested change will affect the Town Night Operating Plan when it has been approved by the Student Faculty Senate, the Executive Council of the Faculty and the Student Body.

It was called to the attention of the Student Council that according to a poll taken in the dining hall, a large majority of the students want to have sack lunches on Sunday nights. The Council decided that this matter should be reconsidered when more facts on the student opinion are available. Student Council members will take a poll in the dining hall Monday night to determine the number who favor sack lunches on Sunday night. According to opinion expressed, the advantages of the sack lunches are that the waiters and waitresses could have the evening free, all the students would have an undisturbed and more-ful Sunday afternoon, Miss Ware would have more free time, and we might be able to have a better meal this way. The disadvantages of the sack lunches would be that students would have to buy a beverage to accompany their meal, there could be no second helpings. we would not have the fellowship of the dining hall, there would be litter around campus, and the parlors would be crowded with couples eating together. This matter of sack lunches will be considered at the next Student Council Meeting when the results of the poll are available. All the students who are interested in expressing their opinion on the matter are urged to vote at their tables Monday a supper and all are welcome to atend the next Council Meeting.

Meeting January 22, 1958

The main part of this meeting was taken up with reports from the various Student Council Committees. Jack Emory, reporting on the Athletic Committee, suggested that all athletic activities be reported to Dean McClelland for announcement and recognition in chapel. It was also mentioned that all athletic chairmen could do better jobs if their duties were specifically listed.

Bob Muir told about action that has been taken toward obtaining refreshments to be sold at the basketball games. There will be no milk machine in Memorial because the company responsible said it would be unprofitable for them.

Dan Ellis announced that Maryville students are eligible to attend the International Student Seminar this summer and may see him if interested in details. The fact was brought to attention that all skit night skits must be approved.

Town night penalties given for the week were: a warning to one senior girl who did not sign out; one junior girl who didn't sign out for town night, two weeks campus; and three sophomore girls who took extra town nights, three weeks campus.

Presidents of all the student organizations had been asked to make suggestions for improvements that could be made in the daily chapel services. Their views were presented and discussed. It was decided to present these views to Dean Bushing for consideration.

The dance committee presented a report including student and faculty views on the present policy toward dances and dancing. After a lengthy discussion this report was referred to other committees for further consideration.

POETS CORNER

ET INCATNATUS EST

My people, my people,
Why, with stubborn hearts and aching souls,
Do you walk in silence,
Separated from each other by towering walls of fear?

I have looked upon your naked souls,
Seen the raw and burning pain buried deep within,
I have known. . .
I have looked upon your souls,
Will you not look on mine?
Will you not see the anguish hidden there?
Because I as as you, as you I suffer. . . .
Will you not understand

I know you. . . .
Isolated cells. . .
Rugged individuals . . .
Fearing. . . . fearing. . . .
Fearing. . . .

Yet I cannot blame you . . .
The pain of isolation is buried there
Beneath the outer shell.
And who can blame,
When being hurt so many times,
You finally refuse to care?

Suddenly the barriers go down.
Two, three, naked personalities emerge,
And there is unity.
(The whole is greater than the sum of all the parts.)
But only for a little time,
And there is pain. . .
And chaos. . . .
Greater than before.

Yet memory of wholeness
Brings dissatisfaction with disunity.
But there is chaos. . .
And unwholeness. . .
Why?

—VEH

According to research specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a large share of the fat in our diets comes to the kitchen as part of foods not usually regarded as fat sources. Meat, poultry and fish provide 27 per cent of this fat; milk, cream, cheese, ice cream, eggs and baked goods supply 33 percent. The remainder comes from common fats and oils, including bacon.

FILM SERIES

Phyllis Stine

An early American film classic, "Tilly's Punctured Romance" starring Charlie Chapman, will be presented on February 15 at 7:30 in the theater. The film is satiric, slap-stick comedy produced in 1914 by Mack Sennet, an early comedy producer.

"Tilly's Punctured Romance" is the first film which starred Charlie Chapman. Marie Dressler, a large comic singer, Mable Norman, and Fattie Arbuckle are also included in the cast.

please care...
because hunger hurts!

because saving lives is this simple: You send $1 to CARE. That dollar sends 22 lbs. of food overseas—helps feed this little boy and his family for one whole month.

SEND $1 TO CARE, N.Y. or your local CARE office

The language develops new words before most of us can learn the old ones.

Student Center Schedule

Weekdays— 8:30-10:30
12:30- 1:20
3:30- 5:15
9:30-10:15

Saturdays—8:30-10:00
3:30- 5:15
9:30-10:15

Library Schedule

Weekdays—8:20-5:30
7:00-10:00

Saturdays—8:20-5:00

All freshmen who have not yet received a copy of the library guide or a diagram of the library may obtain them at the circulation desk in the library.

PARK theatre

Double Feature

SUN.—MON.
"EAST OF EDEN"
James Dean
Julie Harris

—Also—
"REBEL WITHOUT A CAUSE"
James Dean
Natalie Wood

TUES.—WED.
"HOUR OF DECISION"
Jeff Morrow

—Also—
"THAT NIGHT"
John Beal
Augusta Dabney

THURS.—FRI.
"TROOPER HOOK"
Joel McCrea
Barbara Stanwick

—Also—
"DIAMOND SAFARI"
Kevin McCarthy

SATURDAY
"MILLION DOLLAR MANHUNT"
Richard Denning
Carole Mathews

—Also—
"DUEL AT APACHE WELLS"
Ben Cooper
Anna Maria Alberghetti

Trend Setting Styles

EVIDENCE of the trend setting "dressiness" of college men today are the two Ivy styled Botany 500 outfits above. At left, the new ensemble suit with the look of sportswear in the fine tailoring and matched fabric of clothing. The three button blue unfinished worsted suit, right, is the backbone of any college wardrobe, replacing the charcoal shades of yesterseason.

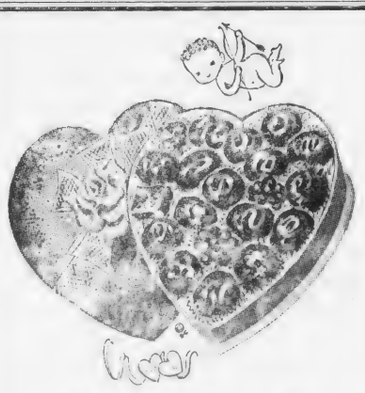
PARK theatre

The Following Week

SUN.—MON.
"Stranger In Town"
Anne Paige
Alex Nicol

—Also—
"Ghost Diver"
James Craig
Audrey Totter

TUES.—WED.
"City Of Women"
Osa Massen
Robert Hutton



—Also—
"Kelly And Me"
Van Johnson
Piper Laurie

THURS.—FRI.
"The Vampire"
John Beal
Coleen Gray

—Also—
"The Monster That Challenged The World"
Tim Holt
Audrey Dalton

SATURDAY
"Mailbag Robbery"
Kay Callard
Lee Paterson

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

On This Valentine's Day
Give Your Sweetheart
"Love At First Bite" Candy
From
BYRNE DRUG CO.

The "Y" Store
Proudly Serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
It's Wonderful!
MAYFIELD'S DAIRY
Athens, Tenn.

GIRLS
Surprise Your Valentine With a White
HANDKERCHIEF
With a HEART in Red Embossed in Black
"To My Valentine"
"You'll Never Guess Who"
and
"Launder Me And I'll Come Clean"
— — —
Will wash out in the first laundry
A Nifty Idea-Only 75c
PROFFITT'S—Men's Dept.

DEAR GRANNYMAW

The Highland Echo

Z 703

ROMEO ROMEO . . .

Vol. 43 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 22, 1958 No. 11

Council Corner

Kris Ramsey

February 19, 1958

A juke box for the Student Center may soon become a reality! Plans were approved by Student Council and with approval from the administration, the juke box can be installed. Another spot of good news. The 11:00 p.m. Saturday night Town Night limit has been approved by the Student Faculty Senate and was extended to include parlor dates. It might be noted that it will not be effective until approved by the Executive Committee of the Faculty and the student body.

Only one Town Night penalty was given. One senior girl was campused for a week. It was announced that the Executive Committee of the faculty has approved having two seniors, one man and one woman, on the Discipline Committee.

Dinner Music

Carl Diller was appointed to be in charge of dinner music in the dining hall. It was brought to attention that there is an insufficient number of coat hangers in the lobby at Pearsons.

The Freshman Talent Show has been postponed until after Spring Vacation.

Blood donations will be taken on March 28 if 125 students will pledge to give blood. Everyone remember Campus Beautiful Week, February 24-28.

Meeting, February 12, 1958

There were two town night penalties. One senior girl and one junior girl were each campused for one week.

Town Night Limit

The request for a 11 p.m. Saturday night Town Night time limit will be presented to the Senate - Faculty Committee with these five factors listed as advantages of this time extension:

1. It would eliminate inconsistency of couples returning from the Student Center and campus activities not over at 10:30 p.m.
2. It would fit into the traditional dating standard of high school and college.
3. It would be an asset to the academic program because of concentrated weekend dating.
4. It would be in accordance with the current dormitory rule of 12:00 light limit on Saturday night.
5. It would be a morale booster for the student body.

Sack Lunches

On the subject of Sunday night sack lunches the council approved a plan whereby the sack lunches will be put on a two month trial basis. This decision was a result of lengthy discussion and the consideration of a dining hall poll conducted by the Student Council which showed that 367 students were in favor of the sack lunches while 127 were not. This recommendation for a two month trial basis must next be approved by the Student-Faculty Senate.

As result of student requests and as a result of the vital need, the Council voted in favor of requesting that the second floor of Thaw Hall be opened for study at night with student conduct being on an honor system.

In the future disciplinary matters concerning the student body, such as excess noise in the library, will be properly publicized by Student Council.

The council voted to reccommend to the faculty, through the administration, that they employ the policy of limiting assignments over Spring Vacation in order that students and faculty alike can enjoy a week of rest.

A letter was read from Dr. Hine which expressed his appreciation to the student body for their kindness toward him during February Meetings.

VESPER SPEAKERS

Speaking at the Vesper Service tomorrow night, February 23, will be the Rev. Harley Patterson. Rev. Patteron is Pastor of the United Church in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. This Church is also known as the Chapel on the Hill. It was the first church built by the army in Oak Ridge.

Rev. Frank R. Gordon is to speak at Vespers March 2. He is Pastor of the Shiloh Presbyterian Church in Knoxville.

Echo Forum

Of Movies and World

I hardly know of anybody but a few permits here and there who would not wish to take a trip outside of their own country. To do this, it takes quite a lot of money and determination. To live among people who differ from you in language, customs and dressing habits takes courage, open mindedness, understanding and cheerfulness.

In order to get ready for a trip abroad, or if one can not afford to get to know world better, nothing is more significant than meeting a native of another land and seeing it at least in movies. This year I.R.C. is trying to do exactly this, but alas only 12 people showed up in the theatre for two excellent color films on India. Later only 15 came to learn about the charm that Japan has and to watch movies of unique Japanese festivals. I.R.C. tried its best, spending almost all of its micaroscopic treasury, to get movies from foreign Embassies who kindly lend then free of charge, I.R.C. pays the postage which with rentals on movie projector and screen amounts to $3.00 each. A few days ago two excellent movies on Germany were shown and watched by a record crowd of 40! Thanks to "Deutschgessepschaft." Professors Shannon, Fisher and Reber are the members of faculty who attend the movies and even praize them highly.

Armen Sagintan the special features chairman who is largely responsible for the programs, and Leon Gabrielian, the treasurer, report that in view of the low attendance and almost no dues paid it seems necessary to discontinue the showing of movies. It seems a pity not to see the beautiful Alps of Switzerland, one hour long trip to Ancient Greece, charming trip through middle East and other countries which are scheduled for March 3, March 31, April 2 and April 21 respectively. It has been tempararily decided to go on with next showing of March 3, and I do hope that there are more than 40 people out of 800 here on campus interested in places outside of continental U.S. A. May I also extend a cordial invitation to all the members of faculty, and staff as well as to the students to attend I.R.C. meetings.

New Record Player Sought For School

by Gray Clarke

The need for a new record player and P. A. System to be used for college activities has been brought before the Social Committee from several sources. Such uses as after-supper dances, square dances, programs in the gym, etc, have been suggested. The need has been discussed and the advisalitiy of purchasing such a machine is evident to the Committee; however the price is high and the funds are low. Since the purchase of this equipment would be of benefit to all individuals, organizations, societies and groups on campus, the opportunity will be given to the faculty and student body to donate toward the purchase of this equipment so that it may be bought at the earliest possible date.

Romeo And Juliet, February 27 Players Incorporated To Present

DOLORES VIOLA OF PLAYERS, INC., will appear as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet"

Players Incorporated, an international repertory company which has earned wide recognition in the American theatre as one of the foremost organizations of its kind in the country, will present Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet in the final number of the Maryville College-Community Artists Series on Thursday evening, February 27. The performance will be given in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel ot eight-fifteen.

The Troupe

Players Incorporated is a remarkable aggregation of young actors which has played in the battlefields of Korea and has toured Europe three tides. In 1956, the Shakespeare in the Arctic Circle. The members of the company are former students of the famous Speech and Drama Department of the Catholic University of America in Washington D.C. A number of Broaodway hits have originated from the Catholic University Theare, which is under the direction of Father Gilbert V. Hartke, O. P., one of the great figures in the American theatre today.

Handling the directorial reins of the current Romeo and Juliet edition is J. Robert Dietz, one of Players Incorporated's most outstanding personalities. An actor of extraordinary versailiy, Mr. Diez has found time to fill in with appearances at the Arena Theatre in Washington, D.C., head the Drama faculty of St. Mary's of Notre Dame, and to appear on television for all major networks. Last season, he was featured in the Omnibus presentation of Oedipus Rex and during the past summer, he starred in the off-Broadway production of School for Wives.

Few romances in history have captivated the hearts or so many people the world over as this Shakespearean masterpiece of lyrical young love.

In presenting the play, handsome staging effects and stunning sets, with costumes especially created for the production by Joseph Lewis, are of immense help to Players Iniorporated in making the evening a memorable one for those who attend.

Tickets for the single performance are priced at two dollars. Information may be obtained by calling the Maryville College Fine Arts Center, YU 2-6950.

POET'S CORNER

THE SEER

I lay and dream, and from this mid-century pivot point
The casual chain of time whirls 'round in dim-blurred cadence,
Its arbitrary ends lost in centrifugal perspective.
But I know and wait, astride the stable
Point of Present, that single pin which holds
Chaos in her orbit, reality to satellite conformity.

I too spin now, and for interrupted seconds see
Forbidden scenes flip by, in stroboscopic syncopation.
There is the meshing of a moment, and whirling links
Of Possibility form with recent centuries a bridge
To what has been. . .

I am transcendental, light as air,
Travelling on thought-fast wings. Empires rise
From crumbled dust, and dwindle into infancy and birth
Before my eyes, and nomadic barbarism melts
To local Neolithic war, and the thing called man
Is lost in the dim beginnings. . .

Umbrella clouds on every side, lowering explicit Death,
Yet subtle too: flesh trickles from blackened bones
Like overheated jelly, while sightless skulls
Stare at sunless sky.

I regain my time, one cycle removed,
Where men call me Prophet, the "dreamer of dreams.'
I must speak before the chain of time
Be forged in necessary links.

Give ear, O men! Thus saith the Lord. . .

—by Clark Eldridge

NAACP Official To Speak Here

by Janie Wall

Dr. Edwin Edmunds, president of the Greensboro NAACP, and head of the sociology department of Bennett College, will lead a weekend work shop on human relations Feb. 22-23. The workshop will begin on Saturday afternoon with a workshop especially for the Interracial Committee and other interested persons, dealing with the ways to work effectively to break down patterns of segregation. Saturday night he will talk to the student body about what is happening across the county in race relations and speak of the work of the NAACP. Sunday afternoon at the regular YWCA-YMCA time he will lead a discussion and answer questions raised at the previous meeting.

Dr. Edmunds is also an ordained Methodist mister, a person of deep sincerity and dignity, and a distinguisted guest to our college. We welcome him to Maryville.

Mr. Donald Grant Lectures March 6

On Thursday, March 6, Mr. Donold Grant of Great Britain, will be the guest seaker at our lecture series. This will be his fifth trip to Maryville's Campus. Mr. Grant is a highly qualified student of world affairs, having spent many years interpreting international happenings and movements. The topic has not yet been announced but it will be chosen from among the following:

"Growing Danger Spots In The World Today."

"U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. — Rivals in Gigantism"

"Germany — What Will She Do?"

"Canada, Nearest Neighbor to the U.S.A."

"Forces Sharing Europe in 1958"

"Africa—Awakened Continent."

Canadian—American education is of special interest to Mr. Grant.

His formal lecture will be held at 8 p.m. in the Music Hall of the F.A.C. Talks of more informal nature will be held at 4 p.m., Thursday, March 6, and Friday, March 7.

Announcement

The Freshman Class talent show will be postponed until after Spring Vacation due to unforseen circumstances.

Miss Miles Serves Many Capacities

by Marilyn Lundy

Miss Mary Miles, Maryville's Director of Student Help, is the person to see whenever you are in need of financial assistance, loans, and various other income aids. Although this is her main function on campus, you will find that she is active in the Highland Presbyterian Church as a Sunday School teacher and member of the choir.

Japan

Miss Miles has lived an interesting life since her graduation from Maryville in 1918 and her studies at the Biblical Seminary in New York. Her major in modern languages helped her learn the Japanese language when she became a missionary in Japan. While on the island of Japan, Miss Miles taught Bible and music in a girls high school.

Housemother

After 18 years of service with short furlows, Miss Miles had to remain in the United States on her last furlough in 1940. She soon busied herself with activities at home. During her first year back from Japan, Miss Miles was housemother at Baldwin Hall. She then worked with the Westminster Foundation at the University of Kansas.

Due to a death in the family, Miss Miles stayed with her brother and helped raise his family for six years.

Librarian

Her next position was assistant librarian in our library. In 1952, Miss Miles was given her present position as Director of Student Help where she successfully administers help to students. We can see that Miss Miles has made her life one of service to a wide scope of people.

AAUW To Host Senior MC Women

Monday night, Feb. 24, the local chapter of the American Association of University Women will hold its annual reception for senior women of Maryville College. The meeting will be held in the Fine Arts Center lounge. Miss Winifred Shannon, Chairman of the International Relations Committee is to present the program. Miss Elsie Burrell, Supervisor of Elementary Schools in Blount County, will speak to the group about "The United Nations and You." She will also have a display of literature concerning the United Nations.

Each year the senior women are

(Continued on Page Four)

Frank Garcia To Star In Loyalties, March 6

"You called me a damned Jew." These tense and dramatic words are spoken by De Levis (Frank Garcia) in Loyalties a play written by John Galsworthy which will be produced at the theatre on March seventh and eighth. The play deals with prejudice against Jews as it is evidenced among an upper class society which will not believe the word and evidence of a Jew against one of their "own kind."

International Theatre Month

The production will give especial attention to the celebration of International Theatre Month. Members of I.R.C. will act as ushers, dressed in costumes of their native lands.

Cast

Featured in the cast will be Frank Garcia as the Jew, De Levis, Ron Randon as the theif. Ronny Daney, and Kay Buchanan as his newly married wife. George Stewart as Charles Windsor, plays the host, Mary Faye Bundy is Lady Adela, Bill Pennock is Treasurer and Dave Morris plays Canynge. Other roles are: Susan Parkinson as Margaret, David Gilmore as the Inspector, David Ross as Robert, Bill Pennock as Borring, Jum Marsh as Lord St. Erth, and George Kaiser is Calford.

David Mosteller is the Footman, Dick Crowder plays Jacob Twisden, Tom Dolch is Graviter, David Ross is Gilman, Kathryn Smith plays the Clerk, and Curt Burger is Richardos.

Crew

The backstage work has been assigned, and has begun. Working on sets are: Charlotte Cathey, Jane Planitzer, Charlene Weed, Betsy Lonsinger, Sue Fagan, Margie Stevenson, and Alice Curd.

The chairman of costumes is Jill Smither. Assisting her are: Helen Rankin Betty England, Lois Nelson, and Judy Perov.

The crew include Fred Kay, Ralph Rodman, Jim Sanborn, Bob Edris, and Bill Laugersen.

Helen Rankin will act as chairman of publicity. Working with her will be Maryanne Braidwood, Kathryn Smith, Dave Ross, and Steve Mouton.

Prop chairman is Ann Bright The committee consists of Jill Smither and Alice Curd.

Sue Tourtellotte will serve as chairman of tickets. Jill Smither, David Ross, Judy Trnavsky, Nancy McGeorge, and Joan Menk will work with her.

Six Elected Into Theta Alpha Phi

Six students have been notified of their election to Theta Alpha Phi, the national honorary drama fraternity. The new members are: Mary Faye Bundy, Susan Parkinson, Ronald Randon, Randy Rosensteel, Carol Schade, and Ruth Wagner.

The formal initiation will be held in the theatre on Tuesday, Feb. 25. A dinner will follow at the airport.

To be eligible for this honor, a student must be at least a player, and must be experienced, and and recognized as suce by the national office, in technical, acting, and business areas. Membership in this highest honor society of the theatre can not exceed one-tenth of the student body. This year is the first time in two years that the membership has been filled.

Thetas And Sigs Work On Formal

by Peggy Reid

Enthusiastic Thetas and Sigs, headed by the dance chairmen, Sue Tathwell and Sue Fowell, have already begun work on the spring formal. The assisting chairmen have been announced as follows: Decorations, Peggy Ryder; Publicity, Anita Cole; Tickets, Helen Marie Haney; Invitations, Doris Watt; and Refreshments, Leah Mucario. Everyone on Maryville campus may look forward to April 19, 1958, when Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon will provide the setting for an unforgetable evening.

At our last joint meeting Theta and Sig tasted "big college" life, as the fire - lit Y - Rooms flickered with dancing and the music of the Dreamland Six.

Tonight, at another joint meeting, Ed Edmonds of Bennet College will present five of his students in a discussion on integration. This certainly is a pertinent topic. Are you concerned?

Lela Aliff Star Of 'Leading Lady'

Marilynn Lundy

Chi Beta and Kappa Phi are presenting a production for the entertainment of their Leading Ladies and the students. It will be a musical comedy of two acts entitled "I Could Have Danced All Night."

The setting will be Dunn's Emporium during the Spring Season. The first act will take place in the morning and act two will be the afternoon of the same day.

In the first act, Lela Aliff will portray a frumpy secretary that emerges eventually into a lovely heroine. She is very much interested in a man named Don played by Bob Davies. Complications for the secretary will be Delphine, a society girl and Wynne, an old flame of Don's. These parts will be enacted by Jane Planitzer and Nancy McGeorge.

The boss of Dunn's Emporium will be Rob Gwaltney, and Lottie Jerkins will be a middle-aged woman who is a scatter-brained department head in the store.

Gloria Evans is Mrs. Smythe, Wynne's mother, ad Bill Green acts as Don's uncle that will disinherit him if he does not make a certain large amount of money in a year. An exciting Frenchman called Maurice will also be in the cost.

The chorus will be composed of Mary Goodwin, Lou Brininger, Sally Jane Pierce, and Betty Boone.

You can well imagine the fun and trouble that will be involved in the production, "I Could Have Danced All Night!" It will be presented on Saturday, March 1, 1958.

Y-Radio To Feature Protestant Drama

On March 2, Y. Radio will present its monthly program featuring a drama presenting the views of different protestant denominations.

If you are interested in participations in program listen for the addational announcement in chapel.

HIGHLAND ECHO SUBSCRIPTION
75c per Semester

SEND TO: . . . . . .

. . . . . .

. . . . . .

. . . . . .

FOR: 1st. Semester .75
(Check one) 2nd Semester .75
both Semesters $1.50

The Highland Echo

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1958

Vol. 43 No. 11

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan

REPORTERS—Kris Ramsey, Marilyn Lundy, Pat Penland, Pete Nix, George Roselli

CONTRIBUTORS THIS ISSUE—Lottie Jerkins, Peggy Reid, Betty Boone, Vanie Wall, Jeanne Greaves, Margaret Paterson, Gray Clarke

Business Staff

BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Bill Sams
ASSISTANT MANAGER ..... Sandra Jarrett
Staff Assistants—Todd Jablonski, Mary James, Dick Heischman, George Preston, Barbara Williams, Linwood Snider

Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such letters should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters because of space limitations. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publications.

S'no Fun. . . .

The snow has brought many things to our attention. We have many snow sculptors on campus of varying degrees of excellence, ranging from a lop-sized-snowman-type maker, to a realistic-mermaid type maker. We have some snowball fiends whose spectacular aim will no doubt win them a place on the team, if not a warm spot in our hearts forever. We have many Floridians in our midst. etc., etc., etc.,

But another thing has become evident to us, which is not so easily accepted as the aforementioned items. A problem exists which has become more apparent with the arrival of very cold, below freezing weather, and snow. We have noticed many times that the condition of the steps leading to the chapel is often hazardous. We have often heard fear expressed as to the likelihood of falling, and we have seen many students fall down these steps. Icy steps are dangerous, but it seems that the danger is multiplied when there is no railing to hold when one descends or ascends the steps.

At the time of the writing of this editorial, the one set of steps leading down to the chapel remains in hazardous condition. The ice has been on these steps since Monday at least. In three days, surely something might have been done to make it possible to use the steps. It seems to us that applying a little salt to these icy places on Monday would have relieved the situation immensely. Because we are not used to a certain type of weather does not condone neglecting to make the campus a safe place to walk.

Still, there remains the problem of a lack of handrailing. We have heard that it would mar the beauty of the architecture to put a railing up. Some how, we feel that we would prefer to have the lines ruined, than to have our arms or legs ruined by falling and breaking them. Some of us feel strongly the need for something to grasp as we crowd down the steps into the chapel.

It may be that no one will read this. And tomorrow, someone will fall down the steps and hurt themselves badly. We won't say I told you so. The situation is too serious for that, and it is too late then. But must we wait unil someone injures themselves?

But Your Lethargy

Lottie Jerkins

"Students arise" has been a call to laughter recently at Maryville. We would like to re-sound that cry and shake off shackles of a far different nature from those of which author spoke. For the past two years in February Meetings, we have had men who spoke of coming doom as did the prophets of other ages. They spoke of a world of misery in which we live and complacently ignore. In many countries of the world the main societies on campus are organized as political parties. When the students feel injustice to be rampant they speak out with terrifing courage. What of us? Are we afraid of the injustice around us or merely blind to it? Do we propose to become the leaders of the world not even knowing what we lead?

Often we joke about plunging into the cold cruel world after college.

How are we to make it any less cold or cruel until we shake off the shackles of lethargy and complacently and learn about the world? College offers many opportunities for this learning. Let us use them and so be armed for our responsibilities.

ECHO FORUM

This is one of those things you write and know it won't do any good, but I have something to cut loose with and the optimism of youth rises to the occasion.

Let me start with the obvious first. The presence of students at Chapel, Vespers, and [illegible] Meetings does not insure a religiously inclined student body. I suggest that Maryville is operating dangerously close to this assumption. Confining the scope to formal services, our normal diet of religion consists of just about everything but what we need. The type of service which keeps us sitting until we resort to counting bricks again tends to produce two groups on campus, one which displays religious feeling to an unnecessary degree and another which in reaction makes religion the butt of its jokes. The man who practices moderation must keep his tongue in his cheek and seek God elsewhere. If I am impatient, I stand corrected.

The basis for my argument, though, is the one exception of our college generation. When Dr. Brubaker was here last year nobody laughed at religion. There was nothing to laugh at. We didn't have to dig through layers of polish. Nor were we forced to abandon the building because of an overflow of pessimism. He talked to us with the enthusiasm of our best friend. He gave us the power that our faith needs.

In two paragraphs that is my observation of the formal program that the college offers. My point is that somewhere in the first paragraph we must fit the concepts of the second if religion is to be more than the object of both misrepresentation and ridicule. If it were not so fundamental as a church-related college having its own pastor, I would think this to be the solution. If we can't find a man who can add purpose and direction to our otherwise. Certainly very few speakers this year have preached a message that hit anywhere close to the heart of our problems. Again if impatient I'm sorry, but I believe that anyone who is preparing for the ministry with a sincere faith in the potential of his generation has the right to be impatient. There is power in youth that is waiting to be challenged. There is challenge in religion that is waiting for power. The need is for someone who knows enorgh about both of them to keep them going in the same direction.

I do not propose my college pastor as a miracle man. I even anticipate your arguments and will get you started by naming a few. We've done without one so far. It would cost more than we can afford. And not very many people would appreciate the advantage. I concede to all three. But while we're paying for the organ we might as well think about it.

Princeton Seniors Refute "Silent" Charges

NEW YORK—". . . We are the generation of the third eye, the eye of self-consciouness, the eye of self-criticism . . . The characteristic fear of our generation is our horror of finding ourselves ludicrous . . ." So speaks a member of Princeton's 1957 graduating class, one of seven to write anonymous, candid essays summing up their thoughts on careers, marriage, religion, success, happiness, the present generation and similarly provocative topics. The essays, appearing in the current issue of Life Magazine, provide a solid refutation to the charge that today's youth are "the silent" or "beat" generation.

Soon to be published in book form, the essays were the idea of Princeton assistant professor Otto Buz, who decided to challenge a widespread view that American youth is predominantly inarticulate. He asked a group of seniors of varied backgrounds and points of view to comment freely on their lives and futures and guaranteed them absolute anonymity.

Generation Of The Third Eye

Speaking generally of his generation, the writer quoted above goes on to say: ". . . The reason our generation has been accused of quietude is probably because our elders are afraid of our image . . . We are accused of not being rebellious enough. But our elders have done the rebelling for us . . . The redeeming characteristic of our generation is a certain rigor of the intellect that . . . may someday become a truly regenerative force. Conformity is the name most often given us . . . The statistics are probably true but that we recognize them as true, and are becoming increasingly sensitive to their consequences in our lives promises that many of us are going to escape the pdedicions set for our futures . . . In regard to past motives of behavior, our third eye is destructive or irrational expectations. In regard to future motives of behavior the third eye may discover those limited and realizable forms of creative action that will survive all the tests our critical consciences can pose."

From Defiant To Prudent

Life calls the writers, who range from defiant individualists to purdent idealists "outspoken, self-re[illegible]nt, ambitious and seriously speculative." Here are excerpts:

On Life In General: ". . . It is easy to be a rebel, either actively through iconoclasm or passively by total withdrawal. Life is what you make it, but in any case you have to live with it. . . I realize that no one will do me any favors, but somehow I'm not worried."

". . . Society demands a total commitment that I cannot give. . . I believe in the sovereign individual freedom is compatible with the welfare and progress of socety.'

". . . I have learned that the hard, competitive world which I shall face after graduation is nothing but an enlarged version of the situation I have already encountered and learned to cope with at college . . . I will simply continue to treat every situation as one in which only the fittest will survive."

". . . It may be . . . that Americans are most native in their optimism and confidence . . . however, this optimism and confidence seem to me to be our unique and most valuable strength."

On Religion: ". . . the only religion that really appeals to me is one that . . . has been called the GI religion. You simply walk into a dark room, sit, stand, or kneel—as you prefer, and worship your own God (or whatever you choose to call Him). . . Yet I sometimes wish that I could have faith in a simple, standard religion."

". . . I find it difficult to conceive of an omnipotent, all-good, fatherlike diety. Such a diety wouldn't permit the pain and suffering that exists. . . I prefer to believe in no god at all rather than in this kind of a god . . ."

". . . an all-pervading consciousness of the Almighty and a sense of unending process . . . God, I think, must be a pretty nice guy. . In spite of man and whatever he did, God continued to shower blessings on the beings he had created."

On Marriage: ". . . the most important decision of my life will be my choice of a wife. To develop his full capabilities a man must have a wife with a similar outlook on life similar interests and, above all, similar aspirations."

". . . marriage is a mutual project in which the husband and his wife form a team working together for success . . . I'm going to insist that when I do take a wife she be strictly a career woman . . . I don't want a family. I want freedom. I want to be able to take the calculated risks to get ahead quickly . . . What I have to do is find a girl who is compatible and either doesn't want children or, better still, is unable to have them."

On Careers: ". . . I shall probably end up by going into business or law. What I know for certain is that the vocation I finally end up in will be one where I am my own boss. . . I would feel most challenged and could use my philosophy of getting ahead in the world with the least possible outside interference.'

". . . I . . . never want to live the vacant life that would permit, would glorify that total commitment to the job which seem to be a precondition for sucess in commerce as well as in the military."

". . . What I personally desire above all else is a life which will be creative which will leave behind it some permanent and positive result in surrounding lives. The vocation which, after much doubt and soul-searching I have chosen to enable me to achieve this goal in life is that of teaching."

". . . I am now confidently looking forward to entering the world of big business . . . it offers both the greatest and most exciting challenge as well as the richest rewards by way of money, prestige and general self-satisfaction."

". . . If I go into science I know that I'll never be lacking a comfortable living, but I also know that I will never have a great deal of wealth . . . I would like to have enough money to be comfortable and somewhat well-to-do . . . I think I have two confliciting goals in life—achievement and security. . . . I'm ambitious in that I want respect for the work that I do . . . But I'm a coward when it comes to taking a chance . . . What I want is a stable order of things in which I can work without exposing myself to ruin."

Scots & Soda

By Betty Boone

LETTER TO GRANNYMAW

Dear Grannymaw

I was just plum tickled to death to get a letter from you yesterday. I also got one from aunt Bess up in Podunk County. That made me feel the best I had felt since I came to school here. 'Course it's not that everybody ain't friendly nor nothin' like that, but it just don't seem the same as it does in Happy Valley. Course since you've never been to Maryville, let alone to the college, you wouldn't know about it—their being friendly I mean. Why, they just speak to everybody, don't matter who. I can just see us talkin' to—— (I won't mention their names, 'cause you said that the mailman sometimes loses letters and they just happen to be found and read by certain people). In case you don't know what the little things ( ) are, I'll tell you. It is a parenthesis and it means you are putting in somethin' which maybe oughtn't to be there, but you put it there anyway. I learned that in Freshman English. And I learned lots of other things Ole Miss Braynes didn't learn us last year. I heard she was courtin' Uncle Daniel. Why, she's old and crabby and he's so lazy that they ought to get along fine. That's the kind that usually do. Speakin' of courtin', and I was speakin' of courtin', one of these here high fallutin fellers from up north some where asked me to go to a concert with him last week, and I went too. (A concert is where you go to a big room where a few people are up on a stage making faces and blowing horns at a pore old man standing in front of them waving his arms, and there are a few people down in chairs just making faces). I already told you what the ( )'s mean. Then this week he (James P. Snickleburker, III or maybe it's the IV) asked me to go somewhere again. They must have an awful big family to run out of names like that. In spite of what Gramps says people from the North can be real nice. Anyway as I said, the next week we went to experimentals. (Experimentals are little biddy plays, where they act out a page from a book or somethin'.) He seemed to get mad at me when I laughed out loud at the girl, a grown girl mind you, with men's britches on! He said I wasn't supposed to cause it was a serious play. He's been to all sorts of plays and everything and he knows when to laugh. Beats me why you can't laugh when you want to.

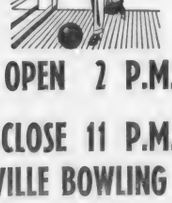
Snow

Last Saturday a bunch of silly, giggling city girls woke me up, hollerin' and going on over the show. You know, they didn't believe me when I told them Happy Valley hadn't seen the sun since October and the first snow that fell was still on the ground. They said I was just dumb and wouldn't know, me being from the sticks. Sticks, mind you. But my nice little roommate (roommate is the girl who lives in the same room with me, but we don't sleep in the same bed. I don't see why they put two beds in a room, when they could put just one and have room for twice as many people. And besides, it's warmer that way. I haven't thawed out since I don't know when), my roommate, as I was saying, stuck up for me. She told them I was not from the sticks either, and that I was just from "farther back into the mountains than civilzation had yet penetrated". Whatever that means. But anyway, I guess she told them a thing or two! It seems all these city girls do is just talk and play. They never have to study or work, and all of them are so smart, goodness. Sometimes I wish we had lived in the city, but don't you tell Gramps or he won't speak to me, ever again.

Well, it's about time to take a shower and go to bed. (A shower is where you go into a little room, in the dormitory of course, everythings inside here, and turn a handle and water comes out little holes in a pipe. Course you take your clothes off first—don't tell tell Gramps that either—and wash to beat everything.) Oh, I just remembered, you said in your letter that Gramps asked if we had a revival yet. Well, we have. The nicest preacher man came from way off somewhere and we had February Meetings. (February Meetings are revivals, except they're better than revivals.) I guess I will see you during Spring Vacation. (Spring Vacation is like Christmas Vacation, except it comes in the Spring instead of at Christmas.)

Bye
Your ever lovin'
Jody

Student Center Schedule



Weekdays— 8:30-10:30
12:30- 1:20
3:30- 5:15
9:30-10:15

Saturdays—8:30-10:00
3:30- 5:15
9:30-10:15

CAPITOL
MOTION PICTURES AT THEIR BEST
Sun. thru Thur.
"Sing Boy Sing"
Starring
Tommy Sands

Hungry!
Meet me at the
CAPRI
Pizza Pie — Sea Foods — Steaks and Chops
CAPRI RESTAURANT
337 E. Broadway Ph. YU 2-9920

For 1958,
Make Us Your 24--Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still the Best Cup of Coffee in Town-Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

OPEN 2 P.M.
CLOSE 11 P.M.
MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER
We have bowling balls and shoes to fit you
Student Rates Afternoons

For Those Who Care Enough To Look Their Best . . .
Let us work "shear" magic for you with a becoming hair styling
Call us today!
HAIRCUT - - 1.50
PROFFITT'S BEAUTY SALON
YU 3-4121

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

IN THIS CORNER

By Pete Nix

One of the most newsworthy sports topics over the last few months has been the physical fitness or rather the lack of it of the populous of the United States. When physical fitness comparisons were made between the children of the United States, France, and Russia, the results showed such a lack of adequate physical development on the part of the American children that the President was moved to set up a special commission made up of promising sports personalities to make a study of the problem and submit recommendations for its immediate improvement. This taste for "softness" has not confined itself to the younger set, but is becoming increasingly evident in adolescent and adult circles.

Even the college students of today seem to take no stock in the old axiom that a sound mind grows best in a sound body. Here on our own campus, even though a chance for active participation is offered to all through intercollegiate competition, W.A.A., and intramurals, a great number of students let these opportunitis pass without giving them serious thought and sometimes even looking down their nose at these "childish activities."

The students who do not take part in any of the athletic activities offered give many reasons for their abstinence.

The reason most often expressed is that of lack of time. It is rather difficult to see, however, how anyone can deny himself the time it takes to keep physically well and healthy. Granted that intercollegiate competition takes time, but many average students participate in two or more sports and still maintain their scholastic standing. And if a person would seriously evaluate the amount of time he wasted during one week he would find more than enough time to take part in some form of campus athletics other than necking.

Many students also cite the fact that they aren't physically able to withstand strenuous exercise. There are a few instances where a serious medical ailment may make it advisable to avoid exercise, but the majority of those who offer this excuse don't get off their fat easy chairs with their copy of Sports Illustrated long enough to find out whether they are physically able or not. In a great many cases the worst ailment affecting these people is laziness. And this addiction to laziness seems to become more prevalent with each succeeding college generation.

A third rason, often heard, is "I am just not good enough." Although of necessity it cannot be true in intercollegiate athletics, in intramurals and W.A.A. there is a place for all degrees of athletic ability. One thing that is certain, no one improves his performance in anything by sitting and bemoaning the fact he can't do it.

So for health's sake and mind's sake too, find out what type of activities are offered, choose one you might like, and become an active participant. It's a good remedy for what ails you.

RIMSHOTS

by Lottie Jerkins

Have you ever wondered how to pose like a Balinese dancer; how to stand at right angles with your self; how to find muscles you didn't know you pocessed? The answers to these and many more questions are to be found in the intramural gym. With a "one for all and all for one" the famous three lunge again. They say that fencing makes you graceful . . . oh! Of course I will admit that with the mask on you look a little out of this world. The object of the game has been achieved when your opponent runs a piece of steel half way through you and gleefully screams "touch." This is a French phrase, or used to be till we got hold of it, which means I punched you. Of course this is information of which you are painfully aware. If courage is your virtue then join the W.A.A. fencing group. If not, then come watch those who are not aware of being in the same fix. Some of them learn quickly.

M Club

Pull, twist, opps, pull twist watch out there it goes, pull these were familiar crys at a rather stuck up meeting of the Women's M-Club. After the business meeting taffy was made and the members attempted to pull it. I say attempted for it was only after some instructions from Mrs. Buchanan, an old hand at taffy pulling, that the others got the feel of it Some of it in the end you could even distinguish as being taffy and it all tasted good.

If you haven-t signed up for the shuffle board tournament because of the ice on the courts, have no fears. There are courts marked off inside the gym. Snow is hard on the aim. See you on the disc.

U.N. Seminar Proves A Valuable Trip

by Jeanne Greaves

"Peace on earth, goodwill to men," has been very much in our songs, and in our hearts recently During the Thanksgiving holidays, some of us had a wonderful upportunity to learn about one of the ways through which this peace may come.

Two busloads of students from colleges and universities all over the Southeast (Georgia Tech., Benedict College Florida A&M, Knoxville College, Mississippi State College, and many others), met at Spelman College in Atlanta for the long ride to New York City where we would participate in a U.N. Seminar sponsored by the YMCA and the YWCA.

Right there began one of the very best part of the whole trip-the opportunity to meet and become friends with so many wonderful people, both those working for the Y's, and other students with the same interests, problems, and especially, world-wide concerns.

In N.Y.

In New York, we managed to find time to look around a little, even with the very full schedule of seminar activities. We saw Rockefeller Center, Times Square St. Patrick's Catheral, and Grant's Tomb, enjoyed a Chinese restaurant, and the automat, and joined the crowds on the suways (and almost everyone got lost at least once! The "natives" were certainly patient and helpful.) The most impressive event was seeing the Statue of Liberty floodlighted at night, from the decks of the Staten Island ferry. (That is probably the best ride you could ever get for a nickel!) Amid the glorious sight of the brilliant skylines surrounding us, and a huge, orange "pizza" moon, the Statue alone kept us out on the deck in the COLD, biting wind. Someone began, and then everyone quietly joined in saying together the poem inscribed at the base of the statue: "Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door." Breaking the following stillness was the earnest voice of one who already saw the tremendous chasm between our deep beliefs and our promises to others, and our actions: "And yet, we won't give the Hungarian refugees permanent status." Many of the rest of us began also to see during those two days, how many of the actions of all of the nations are motivated by expediency, rather than by their convictions.

Speakers

We had the privilege of hearing many excellent speakers, including official representatives of the governments of Egypt, Israel, Yugoslavia, and the U.S., students from Burma, Ghana, South Africa, and Hungary (a Freedom Fighter, whose name was never given), Mr. Roger Baldwin (Board Chairman, International League for the Rights of Man), Dr. Frank Graham (U.N Representative for India and Pakistan), and several others. It was especially interesting to hear the delegates from Egypt and Israel speak one right after the other. Each delegate is very sincerely working toward that which he and his country believe to be right for themselves and for the world. We were able to see more clearly the tremendous complexity of these world-wide problems, about which we usually hear only the simplified main issues presented from one point of view.

In their talks and their answers to our questions, these speakers helped us to see ourselves as others see us. There seems to be a basic desire, common to individuals and nations, that everyone ought to be just as we are—then there would be no problems. I think that our country is perhaps more guilty of this than the others; for example, most of us have the feeling that capitalism is the only acceptable form of economy, but the representative from Yugoslavia helped us to see that socialism was apparently working very well there, and that our form would not, at the present.

The many complex problems discussed at the Seminar could not, of course, be adequately covered, but we did receive a good foundation on which to base further study and inquiry. We are able now to see more of the needs and problems of the world, and are convinced that Christianity has a unique way of answering these needs through the motivation of love which it holds before each Christian as the ideal, and the concern of Christians for other people, and hence in international problems and in the interrelations of peoples. Perhaps the most important things we can do now are to become informed, and to strive to share the concern of Him, who is to become truly Lord and Savior to every one of us, His children, in a world divided by men, but unified in Christ.

Sports Spotlights

by Pete Nix

Intramual basketball is at the halfway point, with a hot fight waging in both leagues. In the "A" league four teams still have a chance at the league crown, while the "B" league has turned inta a two team battle. No "A" league competitor has escaped defeat as the outcasts knocked off the previously unbeaten Sledgehammers in the final game of the first round. The Pre-Min's sport a 6-0 record as they sit atop the "B" league, but the Trojans 5-1 are right there behind them and the final battle between these two contenders might well decide the "B" league champion. Here are the standings at the end of Round 1.

"A" League

	Won	Lost
Knights	4	1
Sledgehammers	4	1
Outcasts	3	2
Sel-tiks	3	2
Piledrivers	1	4
Pages	0	5

"B" League

	Won	Lost
Pre-Min	6	0
Trojans	5	1
Rosebuds	4	2
Eta	3	3
Blue Barons	1	5
Eagles	1	5
Squires	1	5

Contact lenses are far from a recent development. A similar idea was first recorded in 1508 by Leonardo da Vinci; and in 1887 a German, F. E. Mueller, and a Swiss, Dr. A. E. Fick, both had contact lenses made of blown glass.

Fashions

Some of you may be off in a lavendar daze, thinking about gowns and occasions upon which to wear gowns. From limited knowledge, I'd like to share with you some ideas I have upon the subject.

Many are thinking of wedding gowns and bridesmaid gowns. Some may want to make them. Not only is this a more reasonable way to get the gowns of your dreams, but it is fun to daydream about the occasion as you work on the gown. One way to get the perfect gown is to brouse through the magazines for Brides, and pick out a gown with all the right features. Occasionally, you may find a pattern which just suits, but in most cases, exactly the pattern just isn't made. By combining the features of several patterns, it may be possible to make a composite pattern, which will serve nicely. The same style pattern, with some changes, may serve for bride and bridesmaids equally well.

There are fabric companies who for a small fee will send out swatches of materials for you to choose both color and type of fabric. Spring and Summer are wonderful in their range of colors which are bright and becoming to almost anyone. The rainbow wedding is about the most popular, with pinks, blues, yellows, lavendars and light greens being the choice of many girls. Taffetas, organdies, chiffons and crystallettes are especially popular for attendants, while laces, satins, taffetas and organdies are popular with the brides.

Formals

Gowns which may serve as bridesmaids dresses, may also serve as formals for the dance. Since the word is out that Theta and Sig are already at work on the dance, maybe it is time to begin to think just what you will wear, should you finally wear him far enough down to ask you. A good chance to do some sewing will be over spring vacation, especially if you are going home. Maryville has no type of dress required, but it is nice to see a graceful, bouffant dress at a spring dance. Light colors match light hearts, and spring is too coming! Puffy tulle in sequa, or floating lavendar in chiffon will dazzle even the shyest Maryville boy.

It may be fun, if you can't quite afford the dress of your dreams, even if you make it, to work over the old gown. A different colored overskirt, some different ribbon and flowers, or for the ambitious, some new lace or tulle to cover the top and add interest to the skirt. These things not only bring out the creative in you, but you are rewarded with an attractive gown which not only looks new, but feels new to you.

So, whether you are a bride, or just hoping, pleasant dreams!

Scots Drop Two To C-N Lose Sewanee Squeaker

With only three games remaining on the schedule, the Scottie basketballers are still seeking their third win. Carson-Newman administred the Scots worst drubbing of the year as they swamped the Highlanders 96-69 on the home floor. The sharp shooting Eagles, using substitutes freely, started fast and steadily increased their lead. Tom Morris and Bill Owenby led the Scottie scoring with 22 and 20 points, respectively. Carson-Newman's Jack Owenby, brother to the Maryville forward, bucketed 25 points, followed by Bob Cate with 20.

In a return match on the Eagles' home floor, the Scotties showed a decided improvement but let the Eagles slip away in the waning minutes to take an 81-66 decision. Tom Morris was the game's high scorer with 26. Bill Owenby got 13 for the Scots. Jack Owenby again led the Eagles with a 23-point output.

The Scots dropped their third straight encounter to the University of the South at Sewanee, in a thriller. A Sewanee basket with ten seconds remaining gave them a 63-61 decision. Accuracy at the foul line proved to be the difference. Sewanee netted 11 of 12 free tosses while the Scots cashed in on only 7 of 12. It was a tight game all the way with Scots trailing by one at half-time, 33-32. Bill Owenby and Tom Morris again led the Scottie scoring with 22 and 19 in that order. The Sewanee scoring was evenly balanced among three of the five starters.

Maryville 61	Sewanee 63
Owenby, 22	Cummings, 16
Crisp, 2	Gelston, 15
Morris, 10	Roberts, 5
West, 10	Moore, 8
Wormsley, 8	Foster, 13

Subs: Maryville—Griffits, Day, Bales; Sewanee—Tamlin 2, Burton 4, Herschel, Joseph, Varnell.

Russia Summer Travel For Students, Teachers

Following the recently signed cultural-tourism exchange treaty by President Eisenhower and the Soviet Ambassador, a series of Student and teacher tours have been arranged ato Russia in cooperation with Intourist, the USSR government travel agency.

Each of the tours will be conducted byan American college instructor and will cover highlights of Europe, the Brussels' World's Fair as well as the historic cities of the Soviet Union. Members of the tours will have opportunities to meet their Russian student/teacher counterparts to see the educational facilities, and to learn from personal observation the every-day life and ambitions of the Soviet Student.

The tour programs are economically priced and arranged only for students and teachers. Students who have been out of college for two years or less are eligible to join as well as students presently enrolled in college or senior high school.

The six scheduled conducted groups are privately organized and information may be obtained from authorized travel agents or from the sponsoring agent, the Maupin Associates of Lawrence, Kansas, one of the few Intourist contractual representatives in the United States.

If you get chewing gum on your clothing, try rubbing it with a bit of ice; it's much easier to remove when cold.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4762
Royal Distributors

At LYNCH'S
BIRTHDAY CAKES
A specialty and first rate
We Deliver
Phone 1303

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Saving
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET
OLDSMOBILE

HALL'S
GAY STREET
UNIVERSITY SHOP

THE 'NATURAL LOOK' FOR YOUNG MEN . . .

. . . ou're invited to come visit our new UNIVERSITY SHOP, downstairs, in our Gay Street Store. Newly created for high school and college men! We're catering to your desires in young men's clothes . . . devoting our entire line to natural model, conservative clothes. Spring and Summer suits from 39.75, 59.50; Sport coats from 29.95; Slacks 6.95 to 21.50; Sport and dress shirts 4 and 5.95.

REGISTER FOR A
FREE WARDROBE!

One Wash 'N' Wear Suit 39.75
One Wash 'N' Wear Sport Coat . . 29.95
One Pair Slacks 10.95
Three Shirts 15.00
Three Ties 7.50
One Pair (black or brown)
Freeman Loafers 12.95
Three Pairs University Series Sox . 3.00

- Only one registration per family.. Limited to college and high school students, currently enrolled.
- Ticket will be drawn to determine winner. You do not need to be present to win.
- No purchase necessary. It's absolutely FREE.
- Employees of Hall's, and their families are not eligible.
- Not exchangable for cash or other merchandise.
- Registration closes at 2:00 p.m., March 15, 1958
- Winner's name will be posted in our University Shop.

HALL'S
GAY STREET
UNIVERSITY SHOP
EXPERTLY FITTED BY HALL'S MASTER TAILORS

DUST ANARCHY

(UTOPIA)

The home where every one lives
And must live
Is eight feet long
Is six feet deep
Is three feet wide
When we finish living under the skin
To go to this home
We rest in quietness.

We call it: the "Home of Dust"
We still wear little while the skin
But as soon as we wear it off
We wear white bones
When the bones worn out
We live without clothing.

What do we eat?
The people under the skin,
Work like mad ones but
They only feed their mouths
We close our mouth with white teeth,
The food, and eat nothing but to live.

What does life look like?
Long or short?
Large or small?
Hard or soft?
Happy or sorrow?
That's very hard to tell
If we say, you cannot hear
If you hear, you cannot know
If you know, you cannot understand
Don't ask but
Do come
Then, you will find out
What life looks like.

But we must say something about
How we live
We never claim yours and mine
We unite in one
All become ours
We share yours and mine
Without selfishness
We live under the system of
"Dust Anarchy"

The people under the skin
Talk about love
We never talk about it but
We practice
What we used to talk under the skin
"Love your neighbor as yourself"
That's our only moral law.

So we have solved all the problems of life
What to eat
What to wear
Where to live and
How to live
In the "Home of Dust"
Community of cemetery.

You people under the skin
Want to know more about it—
Then come and
Live among us
We cordially invite all of your:
Beauty, handsome
Delicate, strong.
(Anyhow you will be with us)

You do just not come, first
You must come through, whether
You will or not
You must come through
The gate of "Death"
That's only path
So don't be afraid of—but
Do face and Come in
(We welcome you)
Into the "Dust Anarchy"
In the realm of metaphysics.

PICTURES OF THE WEEK

TRIPLE TAKE ON BIRTHDAY CAKE – Stoneham, Mass. – The Maida Triplets (from left) Robert, Thomas and Paul, look as slick as the cake set before them (photo Left) on their second birthday today. They await signal from their mother before starting to celebrate the occasion. Photo Right: it may look sloppy but the brothers are having a wonderful time of it. Thomas and Paul wind up with the candles, while Robert is doing okay with the cake itself. Let's face it – doesn't the icing look swell on all three? They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Vita J. Maida.

RUBBER NECK IN BARCELONA – Barcelona, Spain – This Giraffe doesn't know how fortunate he is that he wasn't born a bull. At the moment he is marching past the "Plaza De Toros" where thousands of bulls have made their last appearance public, in Barcelona, The Giraffe was on its way to take part in the World Circus Festival.

SCIENTIST AT WORK – Baltimore, Md. – Dr. Jerzy Leon Nowinski, the top flight Polish Scientist is shown working a problem on the blackboard at Johns Hopkins where he is lecturing. The 53-year-old expert in the metals stress field was described by Scientists at the University here as one whose knowledge will be "extremely useful" in the current U. S. research on jet aviation, rockets and nuclear reaction.

SOUTHWARD TO THE SUNSHINE – New York – Actress Faye Emerson and Actor Tyrone Power are bundled up against the frigid wind as they enplane at New York's Idlewild Airport. They are enroute to Florida to start a tour of various U. S. cities. Power and his troupe plan to put on 40 shows of "Old Methuselah" in 11 weeks.

MOM GETS AN ASSIST – Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy – Actress Linda Christian is being towed by her skating daughters Tyrina (Left) and Romina on a rink in the Italian Dolomites, where they are vacationing. The children are daughters of Tyrone Power, former husband of Miss Christian.

AAUW . . .

(Continued From Page One)

invited to be the guests of the AAUW for one meeting, to give them an opportunity to become acquainted with the organization, its purposes and a few of its activities. Since Maryville College is recognized for membership in the AAUW, its alumnae are eligible to join any local chapter after their graduation.

The officers of the Maryville Chapter are Mrs. John Elsee, President; Miss Jane Huddleston, Vice President; Miss Matilda Cartledge, Secretary; Miss Viola Lightfoot, Treasurer.

Fanciful Facts

by Robert C. Preble, President
ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

Uncommon Genius

From Britannica Film "Benjamin Franklin"

Franklin's writings ranged from help in writing the Declaration and Constitution to treatises on the Northern Lights and How to Cure Smoky Chimneys.

Not Like Be-Bop

From Britannica Film "String Choir"

In Ancient Greece a "musical" education ranged from reading and writing to mathematics and literature, including singing of lyric poetry.

Intricate Methods

From Britannica Film "Flowers at Work"

The mechanics of pollination in flowers is so complex that some flowers can't live except in the presence of specific insects, and vice versa.

Old Star-Gazers

From EBFilm "Exploring the Night Sky"

Names of constellations and fanciful figures seen in them date back to the Romans, Greeks, and even Babylonians—more than 3,000 years.

Why Should You Help Keep Radio Free Europe On The Air?

* * *

Because when you give to Radio Free Europe, you keep truth on the air behind the Iron Curtain.

And the truth hurts the Reds. It loosens their strangle hold over the oppressed countries of East Europe. Breaks through their monopoly of lies. Keeps them unsure. Off balance.

Why are your dollars needed? Because Radio Free Europe is a private organization, supported by the American people. Your dollars help keep its 29 truth transmitters in operation, pay for supplies, equipment, announcers, news analysts.

But you must keep your dollars coming, or the truth may be cut off from 70 million people behind the Iron Curtain. Keep truth on the air! Send your truth dollars today to Crusade for Freedom, care of your local Postmaster.

CRUSADE for FREEDOM

RFE

PARK Theatre

SUN., MON. & TUES.
"Violators"
Arthur O'Connell
and Nancy Malone

also
"Hell Ship Mutiny"
Jon Hall
and
Peter Loree

WED., THUR., & FRI.
"Enemy From Space"
with Brian Donlevy
and Vera Day

also
"The Crooked Circle"
with Steve Brodie
and
Fay Spain

SATURDAY
"Wild Party"
with Anthony Quinn
and
Carol Ohmart

Also
"Hell's Crossroads"
with Stephen McNally
and Peggie Castle

Genuine 1.69 value
"Buckel" Handbags
Patent
Beige
Red
McARTHUR'S
Main Floor
SHOE SALON

PARK

NEXT WEEK

SUN. & MON.
"Love Me Tender"
with Elvis Presley
and Bebra Padget

Also
"Escape From Terror"
with Jackie Coogan
and Gabriel Dell

TUES. & WED.
"The Shrike"
with
All Star Cast

also
"Dance With Me Henry"
with
Abbot & Costello
THUR. & FRI.

"Texas Lady"
with
All Star Cast

also
"Thunder Over Tangier"
Robert Hutton
and
Lisa Gastoni

SATURDAY
"The Outcast"
with
All Star Cast

also
"Out Of The Desert"
with
All Star Cast

Happy Birthday George

The "Y" Store
Proudly Serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
It's Wonderful!
MAYFIELD'S DAIRY Athens, Tenn.

For The Best
ICE CREAM
MILK SHAKES
HOT DOGS
HOT TAMALES
In Town
Come to KAY'S
ICE CREAM

You Forgot My Valentine

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Exclusive Broadcast
of
5th District
High School Basketball Tournament
Week of Feb. 24
W. G. A. P.
1400 on Your Dial

McARTHUR'S
"The Store The Students Prefer"
Dress Right
COME IN AND SHOP WITH US THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE IN TOWN
Dress Ivy
McARTHUR'S
Department Store

Frumpydumps Unite!

The Highland Echo

April 22-23!

Vol. 13 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MARCH 29, 1958 No. 12

Societies Vie For Trophy Tonight On Campus

Special Services Held During Holy Week

Services in local churches in observance of Holy Week include the following.

At the First Baptist Church, the Lord's Supper will be held on Thursday night. Immediately preceding the service the choir will present the cantata, "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison," by Bach. The cantata begins at 7:30. Services on Easter Sunday will be at the usual time, with music by the Children's Choir.

At Our Lady of Faitma Catholic church, services include the Blessing of the Palms before the 9:30 Mass on Palm Sunday. On Holy Thursday the Mass of the Holy Eucharist at 6:00, will be celebrated, and on Saturday, high mass, the Vigil of Easter, will begin at 7:00. All are cordially invited to attend any or all of these services.

At the Broadway Methodist Church, the cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Gonoud, will be presented Palm Sunday at 5.00. The director is Mr. Dan Kinsinger.

The Highland Church choir, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Moore, will present "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Schutz, on Good Friday at 7:15. Communion Services will be held on Thursday evening.

At St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, there will be a Liturgical service on Good Friday afternoon from 12:00 to 1:00.

Each night this week, services will be held at New Providence Church at seven.

Concerning The Echo

Freshman Bill Sams has been elected the new business manager of the Echo. He has announced the dates for the publication of future Echoes as: April fifth, April ninteenth, and May third.

Those interested in trying out for positions on the staff of the Echo are encouraged to attend the announced Echo meetings. Positions are open in all classes.. Experience is not necessary.

Tryouts for editor will be held soon. Anyone interested should contact the editor.

Hill, Keitt Nominated For May Day Queen

Elections were held for the nominations for May Day court on Wednesday, March 26. Nominated for the honor of May Day Queen were Gretchen Hill and Margaret Keitt. Gretchen is a Senior Christian Education major from Toledo, Ohio. She was a member of the May Day court in her sophomore year. She has also been a member of Chi Beta (treasurer in her junior year), B. G. club, Social board, cheerleader, Spanish club Nu Gamma, and Daisy Chain.

Margaret is a socialogy major from Newberry, South Carolina. She is a member of Chi Beta, and Christian Education Club.

Nominated as sponsers were:

Senior class, Lynne Mitchell and Katrina Wells, Lou M. Farland and Gerry Platz.

Junior class, Gray Clarke and Joan Marston, Bill Arng and Tom Dolch.

Sophomore class, Sally Peirce and Lessie Rhodes, John Kelly and Fred Topper.

Freshman class, Paula Roberts and Sarah Shelley, Bill Hartman and Roger Smithey.

Music, Music Music

A new juke box has been installed in the Student Center for the benefit of those who were not satisfied with the radio which was playing there. The juke box features current hits and has been used often since its installation.

The Hi Fi set, obtained by the social commimittee is here to stay, chairman Craye Clarke has announced. It was used for the Jean's Drag, and will be used for all similar occasions. It will be able to be adapted for the use of a microphone. Donations are still being accepted toward its purchase.

THE MARYVILLE COLLEGE VESPER CHOIR WILL GIVE ITS HOME CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT.

Choir Will Give It's Home Concert

By Nancy Seeger

Sunday, March 30, the Vesper Choir will present its home concert in the chapel at Maryville College. The choir has recently returned from their 12 day tour of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Washington D.C., and Tennessee, during which they presented the same musical numbers which will be given at the college Sunday.

Harry Harter the director, will lead the Vesper Choir in the Following numbers: "All People That on Earth do Dwell," by Thomas Tallis; "The Bells of Speyer," by Ludwig Senfl; "Hosanna to the Son of David," by Orlando Gibbons; "Benedictus," by Giovanni Gabrieli; "O Be Joyful in the Lord," by Ainslee Cox; "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled," Psalm Tune; two Negro Spirituals —"Koom ba yah," and "Two Wings," both arranged by Harry Harter; "Lord Hosanna," by Gustav Schreck; "I Will Lift up Mine Eyes," Isadore Freed; "Jesus and the Traders," Zoltan Kodaly, "The Souls of the Righteous, Ralph Vaughn Williams; and "The Earth is the Lord's," Normand Lockwood.

HARRY H. HARTER, director of the Vesper Choir

Holy Week Services To Be Held Here

By Phyllis Stine

Holy Week will be observed on Maryville campus by appropriate chapel services led by faculty members with special music by the Vesper Choir. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of the college, will conduct chapel on Tuesday; Dr. Ralph Thomas Case,

(Continued on Page Four)

Math Tests To Be Held Here

Maryville College has been selected as one of 17 testing sites for the second annual statewide mathematics competition to be held on Friday, April 18.

Subject areas included in the testing program this year will include first and second year algebra, plane geometry, and a comprehensive exam open to any senior not entered in any other division.

More than 2,000 high school students in East Tennessee are expected to take part in this competition, stated Professor Mack Tolar, chairman of the East Tennessee Regional committee. This is nearly double the number of entries in last years competition. The competition is sponsored by the Tennessee Teachers of Mathematics Association and is open to all pupils in the states. The tests are of the multiple choice type and will last an hour. Also an hour in length will be subjective type tests which will be used to determine the state finalists.

In addition to state and regional college and university awards, there will be cash prizes given at both state and local levels.

Other testing centers in the immediate area of East Tennessee are: Knoxville College and the University of Tennessee.

Contest Held For Fine Arts Awards

The largest number of entrants in several years will participate in the annual scholarship competition in the department of Fine Arts at Maryville College on Saturday, March 29. High school students from all over the eastern half of the country will participate, with entries from Ohio, Florida, and other states.

Awards in the amount of a full year's tuition will be made in piano, voice and violin. In brass instrumerts and in art, the awards are valued at two hundred dollars. Auditions in the music competition will begin promptly in the Fine Arts Center at nine a.m.

Judges for the music competition are Mrs. Joseph Lee, Jr., of Oak Ridge, and Jack Rogers, of Knoxville. Mr. Richard Beard and Mrs. W. L. Patterson, of the Maryville College Art Department, will judge the entries in Art.

Winners of the annual Maryville College Fine Arts Competition in past years have included Miss Bobbye Carson, of Madisonville; Miss Mary Hayden McEver and Miss Lynn Mitchell, both of Knoxville, and Miss Lessie Anne Rhodes, of Louisville, Kentucky, all of whom are currently students at Maryville College.

Twelfth Night Rehearsals Begin

Plans are underway for the 1958 comencement play, Shakespeare's Twelfth Night. The production, under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven, will be presented on the evening of May 16, 19, and 20, in the Maryville College Playhouse.

The cast includes: Mary Faye Bundy as Olivia, Dick Crowder as Malvolio, Sir Toby Belch played by Curt Burger, Sir Andrew Aguecheek portrayed by Steve Mouton, Ruth Wagner in the role of Maria, Viola played by Susan Parkinson, Bill Boyd as the Duke Orsino, Frank Garcia as Antonio and Jim Marsh as Sebastian.

Others in the cast are: Randy Rosensteel as Feste, David Gilmore as Fabian, David Morris as Valentine, and Dave Mosteller as an officer.

Sub-titled "What You Will," this play demonstrates Shakespeare's capacity as a writer of comedy. The plot involves love, mistaken identity, and extreme humor and will be not only a challenge to playhouse members, but also should prove a treat to those who view the production.

Cast Named For Experimentals

At Liberty, Before Breakfast, and Sunny Morning (not to be read as a continuous sentence) are the three one-act plays to be presented by the Maryville College Players as their spring experimentals on April 19. The plays, in order listed, were written by Tennessee Williams, Eugene O'Neill and Alvarey-Quintero.

The cast for At Liberty includes Sara Smith as the mother, and May Collier as Gloria her daughter.

Margie Stevenson as Petra, Carol Schade as Dona Laura, David Mosteller as Dor Gonzalo, and Helen Moore as Juanita comprise the cast of A Sunny Morning, while Maryanne Braidwood will portray the woman in Before Breakfast.

The plays will be directed by Miss Kathleen Craven with the technical assistance given by Mr. Yandell Collins, Jr. Committees for the productions have not yet been announced.

Special Studies Abstracts Read To Pi Gamma Mu

Maryville's Epsilon Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Fraternity met on Thursday evening, March 20 for an interesting program of papers presented by the Senior members. Eleanore Koster, president, introduced the following members, who presented brief abstracts of their special study papers: Janie Wall on the work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people, Anita Cole on the program of the Protestant Social Service Bureau of the large city, and James Marsh on Wilson and the League of Nations. Eleanore concluded the program with an interesting presentation of the dangers of conformity in the larger society, and particularly on college campuses, supported often by the rationalization, "Everybody's doing it."

All papers elicited lively discussion, shared by the other members and several social science majors present as guests. The meeting was in line with the purpose of the organization to stimulate interest in scholarly approach to social science problems and issues.

Religious Drama Theme Of Workshop April 12

Maryville College Theatre will be the scene of a religious drama workshop Saturday, April 12. Under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven, Assistant Professor of Drama, the workshop will get under way with registration at 9 a.m., and will conclude at 5 p.m. Ministers and laymen from East Tennessee will participate.

Panel discussions on the use of drama in the church will be led by Miss Shirley Harris, Director of Christian Education for the Faith Cooperative Parish; Dr. Curtis Wagner, pastor of Knoxville's First Methodist Church; and Mrs. Thelma Kramer, MC Assistant Professor of Education.

Lighting will be displayed by Mr. E. P. Dupler of Knoxville Scenic Studios; make-up will be demonstrated by Mr. Yandell Collins, Jr., the technical director of Maryville College's Playhouse. Miss Mary Faye Bundy and Miss Susan Parkinson along with the members of the religious drama and pagentry class of the college will give a portrayal of costuming and setting of the church play. Exhibits of make-up, wigs, religious plays, and books will be on display during the workshop in the theatre lobby.

Skit Nite Tonight 7:30 In The Gym

Tonight, the four societies on campus will present Skit Night at 7:30 in the alumni gym.

Skit Night is an annual event where the societies enter in competition for the best skit presentation. These skits are to be twenty minutes in length, be participated in and written by active members only, and have a maximum buaget of $5.00.

The skits are judged on originality, performance, and appropriateness. The society receiving the least number of points will receive the trophy. A point is added to the score for each minute the skit exceeds its twenty minute limit.

The winner's trophy is passed to each society that wins. If a society should win three years in a row, it can keep the trophy.

Since the plans for skit night are secret, you must come and see them yourself. Admission of 25c is charged and divided among the four societies equally.

Debaters Travel To Jefferson City

The Maryville College Debate squad is attending the Smoky Mountain Forensic Tournament held yesterday and today at Carson-Newman College. Anna Keitt, Betty Miller, Marilyn Lundy and Judy Menard are entered in the women's division of debate, and Keith Ham, Robert Goodlin, Margaret Patterson, and Bob Bogle are entered in the Senior men's division. The entrants in the Junior men's division of debate are Ross Magill, Dan Ellis, Gene Fig, Bob Kallstrom, and Dale Young.

Sweepstakes!

At the South Atlantic Forensic tournament held on February 27-28 and March 1st at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory, N.C., the Maryville team won sweepstake honors. The team consisting of Eleonore Koster, Corita Erwin, Margaret Paterson, and Anna Keitt won first place in women's debat with a record of 11-3 and the team of Ross Magill, Dan Ellis, Bob Bogle, and Bob Goodlin won first place in men's debate with a record of 10-4. Keith Ham won first place in men's extemporaneous speaking and after-dinner speaking, and second place in men's regular oratory and impromptu speaking. Dan Ellis won first in men's situation oratory, Bob Bogle won second in men's problem solving, and Ross Magill won second in men's poetry reading. Eleanore Koster won first place in women's extemporaneous speaking and poetry reading, and second in women's regular oratory. Betty Miller won second in women's situation oratory and Corita Erwin won second in women's radio extemporaneous speaking. There were 12 schools from the eastern United States represented at this tournament.

Look An Escaped Bull In The Eye! Why Sure, Take Pictures, Too!

By Carl Boyer

I couldn't help feel the excitement as the march of the toreros sounded the entry of the matador and his helpers into the ring. The cheers of the crowd echoed across the Monterrey bullring and took me with them. I stood in one of the gateways, a good vantage point for my cameras, and watched the sight, wondering what would happen that afternoon.

Little did I know that less an hour later I would come as close to being a torero as any spectator can. There were to be six kills that afternoon—by the end of the fourth I had shot all of the film in my cameras so I left the stands to seek shade in which to change reels. I soon became engrossed with the peons who were slaughtering the dead bulls that they might be carted away.

One of the peons asked me if I would give a cigarette, and I was passing a pack around when I noticed one staring over my shoulder in dreadful fright. Then he screamed, "El toro!" I turned and looked, involuntarily raising my movie camera to eye level before coming to my senses. An escaped bull, not thirty feet away and running at top speed towards us was nothing to take pictures of! I leaped to one side and swung behind a post as he came crashing by. Then he turned to try again. I ran under the stands while the peons scattered in all directions. I kept dodging, always trying for a safer position, up and down stairs, behind trucks, around the posts. The situation worsened as a crowd gathered. No Mexican likes to be left out of the excitement. People poured out of the stands to join in the fun, practically trampling each other as they fled from the bull. It seemed minutes before the matador arrived, waving his cape, to run the bull back into the ring from which he had escaped. We had been lucky, I thought, but then I saw two peons removing the gear from a horse which had not been so fortunate. It wasn't a pretty sight.

But it is this very element of danger which makes bullfighting the sport it is. I was standing in the sol, where the poorer people sit, a fiercely cheering bunch who wouldn't mind seeing the worst happen. Yet they were friendly, and made way for the few English-speaking people among them that I might receive a running commentary throughout the fight.

As the first bull charged from his pen towards the matador's helpers, the toreros who wear him down, the cry of "Ole!" rang in my ears. Soon I was yelling with the rest as their enthusiasm took hold. The bull made pass after

(Continued on Page Four)

Buses, Trains, Planes And Cars Bring MC Students Back To The Hill

"Bus leaving for Washington, Roanoke, Knoxville, Memphis, Miami, and all points South. Last call—all aboard. Have a pleasant trip." Insert train plane, or car instead of bus and you'll still have the general idea which thudded heavily into the vacation crazed minds of Maryville students last week Tuesday and early Wednesday fellows and girls began the track back to The Hill after a week of varied experiences. Yankees fought their way back from the sunny shore of Florida to the muddy banks of Baldwin mid-westerners waved good-bye to steaks and sage flavoring to return to the Warehouse, and local yokels take the books from the mantel, turned off the TV set to begin to cram once more.

It's rumored that one busy buddy manuvered a Cadillac from Maryville to Michigan while three others went to Alaska via dogsled over the Smokys. A run-away bus filled with gay spirited songsters was heard late at night to pass over the sun swept Great Plains for California while several faculty members flew to North Carolina to avoid the spring rains on campus. Three or four girls went to New Orleans but returned when they realized the Mardi Gras was over. Others just sat home and read, while some swam or indulged in all manner of gay-spirited activity.

All this is over now and only happy memories remain. Some people complain of being tired—to them we say, "What? Tired? Why you just returned from a rest." And we remind them that, "After all Comps are weeks away, that first chapter of special studies isn't due yet, and summer is just around the corner."

The Highland Echo

Vol. 43 No. 12

SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1958

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan

REPORTERS—Kris Ramsey, Marilyn Lundy, Pat Penland, Pete Nix, George Roselli

Business Staff

BUSINESS MANAGER Bill Sams
ASSISTANT MANAGER Sandra Jarrett
Staff Assistants—Todd Jablonski, Mary James, Dick Fleischman, George Preston, Barbara Williams, Linwood Snider
Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such letters should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters because of space limitations. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

Spring? Vacation

When a new policy is instituted, it is always necessary to tred lightly at the beginning to see what the reaction will be. One such newly founded policy doesn't seem to require that exercise of caution. We are speaking of the new tradition (we hope) of spring vacation.

Now that we are all back, even the choir, it is possible to determine the reaction to this vacation, student and faculty alike in as far as this is possible.

Students almost unanimously have praised the program. We cannot deny that tensions and pressures build up near the middle of the semester, and a week away from the constant routine of class and outside work seemed to alleviate that tension to a great degree. This is not only beneficial to the student, to relieve that snowed feeling, but it also offers the teachers a chance to get away from classes, to get a new perspective on the material covered thus far. It also made it possible for the choir to get away for the tour without missing as much work as has been missed in previous years.

One bad element was the arrival of an unexpectedly severe storm, which delayed the return of some students. As we understand it, the cuts which were necessitated, will not be appealed. This seems unnecessarily severe.

Another bad aspect was the amount of extra work given in some departments immediately before and after vacation. This was especially hard for those who had to travel 700 miles or more. They were fairly exhausted by the time they returned.

Considering all things, this new program is to be highly commended, as perhaps, its warm reception indicated.

- NO TUBES
- NO BATTERIES
- NO TRANSISTORS
- NO ELECTRICITY

DESIGNED to last a lifetime with self powered diode rectifier.

LISTEN at work, play, sporting events, in bed. Weighs less than 1½ oz.

HEARING-AID TYPE SPEAKER lets you listen in private without disturbing others. $3.95

Guaranteed, assembled and tested in the U.S.A.

PARK Drug Store
195 E. Broadway
YU 2-1670

Voices, Masks and Shadows.

Sayonara, the moving story of love in occupied Japan during the Korean conflict is currently flashing across the wide screen of the Capitol Theatre. The film, starring Marlon Brando and Miko Toka will run until Tuesday, April 1.

Academy Awards were presented to Red Buttons as best supporting actor of the year for his role in this film, and to Miyoshi Umeki as best supporting actress for her acting in this film. Other awards presented to Warner Brothers for Sayonara were those for best set direction, best sound recording, and best art direction.

Maryville College students who have seen Sayonara say:

"In my opinion, the movie deals very realistically with the conflict of American and Japanese cultures."

"The two award-winning actors were excellent and the music and plot combined for an emotional experience."

"Acting and Photography were excellent-plot better than average—an emotional wallop."

"Terrific acting, beautiful scenery and very deserving of all the Academy Awards it received."

Nobody has anything bad to say about Sayonara. See, it, it's a must!

Scots & Soda

TERESA'S TROUBLES

(Soft organ music—"Seeing Nellie Home")

Announcer: Madam—the new name in cosmetics—presents Teresa's Troubles. (Music swells to a creschendo.)

Announcer: Ladies, have you noticed lines around your eyes? Are there wrinkles across your forehead? Does your chin have a companion? Conditions like these are often the result of common neglect; we call them "wild skin" or "Dermis-vitality-anemia." Now, no one wants to appear older than she really is, an dthere is a solution for ladies who have such problems [illegible] Madam's cosmetics. Madam's chemists have had uniached to [illegible] secrets of science which they can unfold to [illegible] of the beauty of your face. Simple application of Madam [illegible] minutes at bedtime, upon rising, and at various times during [illegible] day help to relieve dermis-vitality-anemia and also alleviate [illegible] tension of strenuous household acitvity.

Millions of women have been introduced to MADAM by their friends. MADAM products are on sale at your local Walgreen agency, Woolworth store, and at other fine places of distinction.

So the next time you witness a tired Haggared face in your mirror, don't look over your shoulder to see if it's your husband—reach for Madam Cosmetics, and remember to spell Madam backwards.

Teresa's Troubles—the story of a Constantly Courted Co-ed, who in her late teens entered one of Amrica's oldest, most influential institutions of higher learning. The story that asks the question—Can this girl from a little farming town in the East find happiness as a constantly Courted Co-ed? And now, chapter 5,000, Page 32, Paragraph 8—"Case of Calamity."

We find Teresa seated at her desk in the study room of her plush college quarters. Before her on the desk are her eight telephones (thy are in different colors and were a gift to the college by the late gelatin dessert millionaire and philanthropist, J. E. Llo.) We can tell that tonight Teresa is unhappy, for the floor is literally covered with peanut shells. Teresa pushes a button and her maid enters, places a record on the phonograph and leaves (music "Boom-boomboomboom Yip Yip Yip Gettajob") Teresa does not relax but continues to shell peanuts. Then the phone rings. (ring-ring.)

Teresa: Hello. Yes, Who? Oh, hello, Gladys.—no, nothing important. I washed my hair and had to spend three hours combing it.—what?—Oh, every two weeks. Sorry, I can't come up. I would like to talk.—Yes, the spring formal. Why don't you come down? O.K., and would you mind picking up a bag of peanuts on the way down? I hate to make you go to all this trouble. I know how you hate the elevator, and two floors after such a dinner. . . All right, see you then. Bye-bye.

Announcer: Teresa rises from her chair and walks across the room to her picture window. She draws aside the drapes and thinks to herself. (high pitched organ note throughout.)

Teresa: The spring formal. My goodness, it doesn't seem possible that a year could pass so quickly. I can remember the trouble I had deciding which dress to wear, and then Jim sent that dreadful corsage. Green dyed carnations and a blue formal.

Announcer: Teresa pauses to crack the shell of another peanut, flicks the shell out into the dark night and thinks: "Tossed out into darkness—oh, how liek that is life. What decisions we must make. . ."

(Knock-knock—music stops)

Teresa: (obviously shocked from her reverie) Yes? Who's there?

Gladys: It's Gladys. May I come in?

Announcer: What will Teresa tell Gladys? With what grave decision is she faced? We'll return to our story in a moment, but now listen to this: (music—tune of "Three Blind Mice")

Spongy Spuds
Spongy Spuds
Cleans your duds
With new orange suds
It starches your clothes while it colors them too
Your clothing will loose that dingy hue
They're now tinted orange instead of just glue
With Spongy Spuds.

Spongy!

Ladies, are you tired of looking at blue wash water? Don't have those washday blues—be original—get Spongy Spuds, the new original—get Spongy Spuds, the new orange soap. Our product is harst and strong to clean work clothes. It will make people eye your wash for it's made from a new vegetable formula. Wash-day can now be a joy because you'll get the attention of everyone on your block when your husband wears his newly laundered shirts washed in Spongy Suds. Our product may not do everything—but it sure tries. (organ music)

We now return to Teresa's Troubles. Teresa is standing before the window in the study room of her plush college quarters. She is deeply troubled, for a problem has been haunting her mind. Let's join her. Teresa is thinking:

Teresa: What decisions we must make. . . (Knock-knock—music stops)

Announcer: Teresa obviously has been shocked from her reverie.

Teresa: Yes? Who's there?

Gladys: It's Gladys. May I come in?

Teresa: Gladys—of course. Come in.

Announcer: Gladys, a shy nervous girl with glasses and a depressed expression enters the room.

Gladys: Why, Teresa, you look as though some problem has been haunting your mind. You have been obviously shocked from your reverie, and I believe that you've been making some decision here in your plush college quarters.

Teresa: Ah, Gladys, sit down. Yes, I have been making a decision. Nick Teningson, Algenon Price, Byron Kirk, and George Smith have all—but, no, I can't go on.

Gladys: Teresa, what is it? You must tell me; maybe I can help. Is it the spring formal that's worrying you?

Teresa: Dear, dear Gladys, yes, it's the dance. Those men have all asked me—and—and— I told them all that I'd go!

Announcer: Gladys half-rises from her chair. Takes a peanut from the box on the desk and cracks the shell. She steps to the window and says:

Gladys: —and nobody asked me. (organ music swells)

Announcer: Will Gladys offer a solution for this, the latest of Teresa's Troubles? Will this shy girl find a way to attend the formal herself? And what of Nick Teningson, Algenon Price, Byron Kirk, and George Smith? You won't dare miss the Chapter 5,000, Page 32, Paragraph 10 of Teresa's Troubles—the true-life college drama of America's Constantly Courted Co-ed. This program is now in its 35th year of broadcast and is a Barlton G Force production. Although based on possible happenings, all twenty names and places (except America) are G Force production. Although based on possible happenings, all twenty names and places (except America) are fictional.

Tune in again tomorrow when Spongy Spuds, the strongest wash-day soap, and Madam's Cosmetics for fairer akin again present Teresa's Troubles.

Writer's Corner

I Hate To See

Silently, almost imperceptably, the fire in the sky died, and with it died the vacuum of life called the city. Hundreds of humans released from twenty-five stor[illegible] cages clawed and scratch in the rush toward freedom. Boats, trains, buses, jammed with perspiring people daring frantically at elbowing newspapers in a [illegible] to offset to breathe pu[illegible] under the load and jo[illegible] reach more quickly t[illegible] so called home. An [illegible] enough!

[illegible]ly. And the stick[illegible] mob only added to he[illegible] oliness. God, she thought, th[illegible] the way that the world will en[illegible] day the earth will burn u[illegible] wonder if the sun will explode [illegible] it has already, and th[illegible] will never end until we a[illegible] charred corpses. Lord, wh[illegible] though. Maybe they will e[illegible] bomb big enough to s[illegible] world on fire. I wonder if [illegible] would. I wonder if it would.

Her heel caught in the [illegible] between the cobblestones i[illegible] the street. Damn she cursed [illegible] dly, yanking it free. I'll wear flats tomorrow. She switched her parched handbag from one arm to another to cool the arm. This offered no relief. The large, basket-type bag hung limply, its made in Italy tag proclaiming that it was used to travel. And heat.

The crowd started to run, an unexpected surge of energy bursting through the wilted crowd, announcing the departure time of the five o'clock ferry. Anxious newsdealers counted change as the mob ran by, tearing up papers, throwing down coins that jangled noisily to no avail, outshouted by the voice of the released mob, yelling in their new freedom. She felt them grope by her, their pushing tnd hot bodies the only knowledge which she had of the presence of other humans. Her train didn't leave until 5:27. She could make the next ferry.

The air was thick inside the terminal. People, disappointed that they had missed the ferry, sought revenge at the vending machines which spit forth meager supplies of coke, orange, apple juice, coffee, cigarettes and ice cearm. Lines which staggered drunkenly toward the machanical storekeepers formed rapidly. Absently she joined a line, and stared blankly at a sign which declared hot coffee. Groaning, she moved to another line, in back of a fat suffering human standing with legs apart, mouth open and dirty shoulder strap hanging from under a wrinkled sleeveless dress. Hot as hell the woman ventured breathing stale onions on her. Yeah she agreed, decieding not to continue the acquaintance. Orange she decieded and jammed the nickel into the slot. Her nickel was returned. Hotly determined, she stuffed it in again. A rewarding grind assured her that a few ounces of

(Continued on Page Four)

Socially Speaking

Engagements

Hill-Woodhull

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hill of Toledo, Ohio announce the engagement of their daughter, Gretchen, to Jack Woodhull, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Woodhull of Carteret, N.J. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Nelson-Hassall

Rev. and Mrs. Ewell L. Nelson of McRae, Georgia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alma Sue to Robert Edward Hassall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Hassall of Nashville, Tennessee. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Visitors

Mr. Wesley Poorman, who is working towards his Master's Degree at Ohio State University, has been visiting his financee, Miss Willa Jean Duval, this week.

Miss Nancy Kotz, a recent alumnus, visited campus on Wednesday.

Fashions

By Susan Parkinson

The first bright glimpse of the new season—it is spring you know—is flowers. Since April is traditionally flower month showers of flowers will be found everywhere in the fashionable girl's wardrobe.

Masses of flowers being the thing this spring, the girl in the floral print dress will play down her accessories. The girl in the one color chemise can use the brilliance of floral accents.

Bright shortie gloves that come in a big, splashy range of delightful colors could be just the one color accent you want.

Gloves aren't the only thing that come in gay bouquets though, dresses, suits, shirts, pants, hats, and shoes are all covered with pretty flowers.

Tonight at Skit Nite spring trends will appear on Maryville coeds in flower print drawstring blouses, middy blouses, and little pointed toed flats.

For Easter next Sunday Miss Spring will pick a color—any color—and work around it. She willshorten her skirts, lower her heels and point her toes. If she has slim hips she may try a chemise and if she's really feeling Aprilly she may buy a pair of stockings to match her dress or shoes.

Busy afternoons of meetings and rehearsals will see her in middy outfits or maybe bright floral printed skinny pants.

Ideas are already floating around of visions of gowns for the spring formal. Some of the lovliest gowns will be of flower prints in chiffon and silk organza.

Don't forget the hidden flowers in some of the wonderful blends of perfume, whether you prefer a single flower scent or bouquets. Some new fragrances are the hyacinth of Lelong's Balalaika and the lily of the valley from Dior's Diorissimo.

Genuine 1.49 Value Washable Linen
"Slipcover" HANDBAGS
$1.00 Black & White, Beige & White, Navy & White, All White
McARTHUR'S
MAIN FLOOR
SHOE SALON

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

OPEN 2 P.M.
CLOSE 11 P.M.
MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER
We have bowling balls and shoes to fit you
Student Rates Afternoons

Big Watch Band Sale!
½ OFF — Others
WERE: $7.95
NOW: $2.88
Guaranteed Watch Repairing
Bell & Powell Jewelers
112 E. Broadway
Ph.: YU 3-2312

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4762
Royal Distributors

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Christian Book Nook
229 College St.
Books — Bibles
and
Religious Materials
Valentines and Gifts
All gifts wrapped free!

Sports Spotlights

By George Roselli

With the calendar reminding us that spring has officially arrived, college basketball and college hockey have been put to bed for another year. With the seasons ended, here is how the top teams in the country fared:

1. West Virginia (26-1)
2. Cincinnati (24-2)
3. Kansas State (30-3)
4. San Francisco (24-1)
5. Temple (24-2)
6. Maryland (20-6)
7. Kansas (18-5)
8. Notre Dame (22-4)
9. Kentucky (19-6)
10. Duke (18-7)
11. Dayton (22-3)
12. Indiana (12-10)
13. North Carolina (19-7)
14. Bradley (20-6)
15. Mississippi State (20-5)
16. Auburn (16-6)
17. Michigan State (16-6)
18. Seattle (19-5)
19. Oklahoma State (19-7)
20. North Carolina State (18-6)

At the end of the season the NCAA and NIT basketball tournaments were held. Oddly enough, the favorites in both competitions were beaten. West Virginia, the nation's leading team, was knocked out of tournament play by Manhattan in the opening round of play by a score of 89-84. The semi-finals and finals of the NCAA playoff were tremendous. Eighteenth-ranked Seattle stunned Kansas State in the first part of the semi-final and Kentucky completed the shock by turning back Temple 61-60. In the final and championship game, Kentucky came from behind to roll over Seattle to a tune of 84-72, and thus become the National champions.

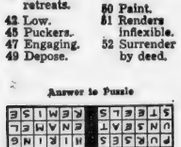
In the NIT final it took an overtime period to decide the winner. The Xavier Musketeers upset the number one sided team the Dayton Flyers 78-74 in overtime. St. Bonaventure beat St. John's of Brooklyn 84-69.

The Boston Celtics and the St. Louis Hawks appear to be on their way into the finals of the NBA playoffs. Both teams hold a 3-1 record over their opponents and need only one more victory to place them in the finals. It was these same two teams which met in the finals last year and at that time the Celtics pulled out an exciting 123-121 double-overtime win in the seventh and final game to become the World champions.

On the hockey scene the first round playoffs have started in the National Hockey League with the League-champion Montreal Canadians playing the third-placed Detroit Red Wings, while the second-placed New York Rangers and fourth-placed Boston Bruins square off in the other series.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS



1 Combined.
7 Declares.
13 Assail.
14 Mistakes.
15 Rio ——.
16 Empty space.
17 Age.
18 Fix in a mass.
20 Fasten.
21 Confirms.
23 Automaton.
26 Emit rays.
30 Finished.
31 Feel pain.
32 Prevaricator.
33 Choral work.
35 Extreme.
36 Horns.
38 Metallic rock.
41 Snug retreats.
42 Low.
45 Puckers.
47 Engaging.
49 Depose.
50 Paint.
51 Renders inflexible.
52 Surrender by deed.

DOWN

1 Impel.
2 Roman emperor.
3 —— the Terrible
4 Bright metal.
5 First born.
6 Considers.
7 Few.
8 Exchanged.
9 Part of a circle.
10 Tense.
11 Small case.
12 Identical.
19 Interments.
21 Main artery.
22 Parts of a window.
23 Fictitious bird.
24 Eggs.
25 Man's nickname.
27 Small island.
28 Sailor.
29 Period of time.
31 Bears witness.
34 Temper.
35 Bearlike.
37 Upper regions.
38 Musical work.
39 Stunted animal.
40 Gaelic.
42 Puccini heroine.
43 Units.
44 Leer.
46 Perceive.
48 Male sheep.

Answer to Puzzle

MC Baseballers Begin April 4

Maryville College baseball team will open its 1958 season on April fourth and fifth when it hosts Kenyon College of Ohio in a two-game series. Included on the twenty game schedule are such schools as: the University of Tennessee, LMU, East Kentucky State, Milligan and Carson Newman. All home games will be played at 3:15 p.m.

Baseball Schedule

April 4—Kenyon College	here
April 5—Kenyon College	here
April 8—Hiwassee	there
April 11—East Kentucky	here
April 12—East Kentucky	here
April 15—Emory and Henry	there
April 16—Milligan	here
April 18—Hiwassee	here
April 21—UT	there
April 23—Carson-Newman	here
April 26—LMU	there
April 28—Tusculum	here
April 29—Milligan	there
April 30—East Tennessee	there
May 2—Emory and Henry	here
May 6—Tusculum	there
May 8—Carson-Newman	there
May 10—UT	here

RIMSHOTS

By Lottie Jerkins

Femininely speaking, sports are shuffling along. Due to spring vacation the time limit for the shuffleboard tournament has been extended. Kay Henry, who is events manager for the tournament urges players to complete games as quickly as possible. This becomes difficult when the score slides below zero as it all to frequently does.

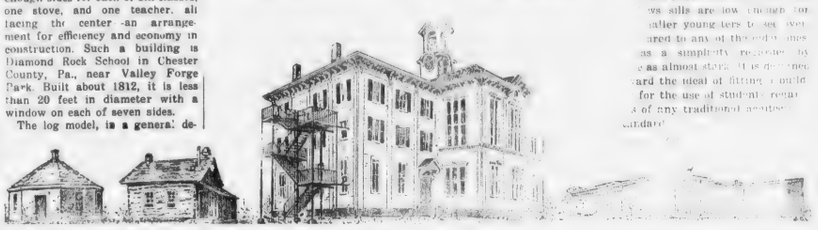
Keep your eye on the birdie is good advice for W.A.A. girls. Not only does it make you photogenic, it helps win badminton games. It has been stated with great authority that badminton requires skill rather than power. After gritting your teeth with determination and swinging with all your might, only to have the birdie float gently behind you; you begin to feel that a little skill wouldn't hurt. The elimination tournamnet for badminton was begun last Tuesday.

Have you ever dreamed of wearing a crown of olive branches or being an Olympus heroine? Come to W.A.A. on April fourth and learn what the angry Greek wives started by throwing plates at their husbands. Track, the sport of gods (and goddesses), is really composed of many sports. If you like to run, there is running; throw balls, there is the shot-put; jump, they come both broad and high. By the way the throwing events develope excellent aim with the rolling pin. This may be the last chance for engaged girls before actual combat.

The M-Club-W.AA. hike is scheduled for April fifth. Invitations to the hike are on the basis of points gained in W.A.A.

Previews of coming attractions in W.A.A. for this semester include both horseshoes and soccer. Till then see you round the hurdles.

American School Buildings Show Shape of Times In NEA's Review of Architecture of Century



The National Education Association, which is celebrating its Centennial this year, is conducting a review of the development of America's schools, including the evolution of school architecture. Below are examples of consecutive eras in schoolhouse design.

An early variation among school buildings is this little octagon school of Pennsylvania. It had enough sides for each of six classes, one stove, and one teacher, all facing the center—an arrangement for efficiency and economy in construction. Such a building is Diamond Rock School in Chester County, Pa., near Valley Forge Park. Built about 1812, it is less than 20 feet in diameter with a window on each of seven sides.

The log model, in a general design which still survives in frame school buildings in many outlying communities today, has the shape used in the "little red schoolhouse" picture. Actually, the school house was almost never red was usually white or unpainted. This one is a Wisconsin school abandoned about 1919.

The three-story building, which came in with central heating and indoor plumbing, had high ceilings and windows on two sides of each classroom for light and ventilation, though window area was comparatively limited for economy. It had two or three stories with consequent fire hazard to which its wood construction contributed. It is doubtful that the fire escapes were much protection. Wood floors and plaster walls gave out [illegible] floors and classrooms mostly of echo. Steps, bannisters, window sills, even toilets were adult size, without regard for little ones who would use the building. Gables and trim were [illegible] elaborate, in the style of the times.

The modern, one story model below is built for light and air, but for safety. It does away with nails to reduce noise. Sills are low enough for taller young ters to see over. red to any of the [illegible] as a simplicity recognized by e as almost stark. It is designed ard the ideal of fitting a build for the use of students rega s of any traditional aesthe standard.

ECHO FORUM

To the Writer of the letter which appeared in the February 22 issue of The Highland Echo:

My dear friend:

You seem to be taking a very dark view of the spiritual welfore of our student body. While I do not uphold the current theory of The Power of Positive Thinking as setforth by Dr. Peale I do think that a wise application of the adage "it's what ya do with what ya got, that counts". Could well be incorporated into the argument. Services of Christian worship have always sought to guide one in his religious thought; no matter how well planned these are however, one must contribute something himself in order to come away spiritually refreshed. Granted, some of the required activities on campus may not be measuring up to standards held in home churches and elsewhere, but if you will speak with those in authority you will find that there are several plans for change now under consideration. Let me propose a question for you—Why do so few attend "Singspiration" and the weekly prayer meeting? These are student planned and carried out. If you think they do not fill a need then give them your support and make them what they should be. At-the-desk grumbling is fine, and not entirely uncalled for, but action seems to me more effective.

Personally I do not envy anyone the job of addressing our student body. Often the good in what is said is overlooked because of a mental "I would have said it another way" or because the speaker stood on one foot, or because he spoke with a Yankee accent. Too many of us anticipate the day when we shall be heard and fail to recognize our job as listeners. It's awfully easy to throw that baby and with the bath!

Nick-name me "Status" if you like, but I prefer the Maryville mode of "here it is, you accept or reject" rather than the practice of some schools which is "We offer our brand of Christianity—take it or else."

Well, I hope we are still friends, and I hope you'll consider my suggestions: (1) make the most of what we have, (2) give the speakers a chance, (3) and be thankful you can think, and, discuss, and write letters to the Echo.

Sincerely,
Bill Pennock

P.S.—As to hiring a college pastor—I'm with you all the way.

Editor:

Only recently I noticed where Maryville College is again hosting high school seniors from all over the Southeastern United States who will be competing in the annual scholarships offered in music and art. These awards, according to the newspaper article, provide for one complete year of tuition. This applies to persons with talent in the fields of piano, voice, and violin. In brass instruments and in art, the awards are valued at $200. Just how many of this type of scholarships are offered, I don't know. But these scholarships which are offered are indeed worth while and can build up the department of Fine Arts.

Accordingly, then, since Maryville College is financially able to grant scholarships to students connected with the Fine Arts, why are not a few scholarships or partial scholarships made available to some of the most promising athletes who are considering higher education at this institution? Is not the field of athletics worthy of some aid in this aspect? We must realize that athletes ,too, spend much time preparing for school events, just as members of the Vesper Choir and the Orchestra (who are so often pampered), yet athletes are continually looked down upon by the majority of the students here at Maryville.

In conclusion, then, we should agree that a 3-5-1 and 2-14 football and basketball record, respectively, reflect too much success in the realm of varsity sports. Granted, that all success is not measured by the won-lost column, and that Coach Davis and his staff are still experimenting and will improve, but the record is indicative partially of the available material with which to work. Athletics is just an essential part of the college to me as music and art. To be well-rounded one should be able to enjoy and appreciate both. Could not some sort of aid be made to the outstanding athletes who enter here to persuade them to stay?

How can we ,the student body, expect to retain enthusiasm and interest in the realm of athletics without better team performances?

Bob Hassall

Dear Editor:

Did you see the Blood Mobile on campus yesterday? Right over in front of the chapel. Did you notice all those people lined up waiting for their turn?

I guess you didn't. Maryville students have much more useful and Christian things to do with their time than to give blood to save lives. They do all sorts of things like pray for whoever its the style to pray for this year, or organize meetings where all sorts of people get together and talk about "racial prejudice" when other people have, or take care of the little red wagon they just bought to haul their hymn books back and forth across campus.

Someone really should write to the Red Cross on behalf of the student body and explain all of this. Otherwise I'm afraid outsiders won't understand. They'll think we just had a lack of interest in and love for our fellow men. You know all those people who were created equal so we'll have discussion groups about them? I'd hate for people not to understand that its because the Maryville students are so busy having Positive Christian Emphasis that they can't be bothered with lives of human beings. Couldn't someone write a letter and explain?

Libby Turner

The Editor
The Highland Echo
Maryville College
Maryville, Tennessee

Dear Sir:

Although it has been a month since I visited Maryville College, I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the faculty and student body for their hospitality.

When one goes to a college or university on such a mission as this, he doesn't have the least idea about what kind of treatment he will receive. I have been many places and have experienced receptions all the way from cool to warm, but yours was the best.

When I left I felt I knew almost everyone and that we had all communicated with one another, all the way from the friendly "hellos' along the campus walks to the personal interviews.

When I returned nome I took with me about 350 cards which you signed in our final session together. I have taken my time in reading them - just a few each day. About 300 of these cards have personal notes on the back of them. What you said I will remember always. And the commitments you made mean hope for the future.

What I tried to say during the February Meetings was this: we live in days that are critical, perhaps more than all those in the past. This new age that is upon us demands new men and women. In Christ we can find this newness and in Him we can find our vocation that will lead to a better dev ahead. We need to have faith; and we need to be faithful.

Gradually I will try to get letters to you who have written and to you who asked special questions on the back of your cards. Many of you asked for copies of the Marriage Manuals. These I have sent in bulk to Miss Cartledge, and you can get them from her.

Best Wishes and God's blessing to all of you. I hope we meet again.

Sincerely,
James R. Hine

SPORT FLASHES . . . Sugar Ray Robinson handidly defeated Carmen Basilio for the Middleweigh' championship last Tuesday . . . the new NCAA college hockey champions are the Denver Bull Dogs . . . Canada won the Olympic Hockey title beating out Russia and Poland . . .

Jeans Drag Proved A Real Hit

The combined Girl's Glee Club and Men's Glee Club sponsored one of the most successful Jean's Drags to be held in many years on Saturday, March 22. Approximately 125 people attended this function, which was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Kinsinger and Mr .and Mrs. Schoen. The caller was Mr. Russell.

Prizes were awarded for the most unusual corsages. Winners were awarded valuable and useful gifts. The most original corsage was worn by Dick Meyer. Made for him by Sue Taylor, it featured the theme Little Blue Man.

Funniest corsage award went to Paul Berger. It had as its theme A Visit to Aunt Sally's and was created by Linda Messer.

Dick Jones had the prettiest corsage. It featured a Chicken in the Basket, and Helen Moore, whose creation it was, used a live chicken.

The dance ended with the singing of folk songs under the direction of Mr. Russell and Mr. Kinsinger. Some of the songs were: Tell Me Why, Harvest Moon, and The Bells are Ringing. A group began Goodnight Ladies, and the dancers were dispersed.

The Jean's Drag was the first event at which the new Hi Fi set was used. Several have commented on its excellent tone and usefulness.

Comps Are Coming!

CINEMA
Coming Friday thru Tuesday of Next Week
MARLON BRANDO
SAYONARA
ADMISSION
Adults 75c Children 25c

CITY SHOE SHOP
106 Broadway

For Birthday Cakes, Call
Van's Bakery
WE DELIVER
Phone YU 3-4413

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Merv Dixon
Dan Wiley—Agents for
CHANDLER FLORIST
Phone YU 2-9650 207 W. Broadway

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You Planning a Party?
College Hill Food Market
Can Supply Your Needs of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

Easter Gifts from BYRNE DRUG STORE
Perfume
Toiletries
EASTER CANDIES
TOYS and GAMES
BYRNE DRUG STORE
118 East Broadway Phone YU 2-1461

WHO KILLED SMOKEY'S BEST FRIEND?

Forests Can Become Grave Yards.

Trees can't run from wildfire and even man can become a victim of carelessness.

Each year millions of charred, blackened stumps become mute headstones to mark the graves of giant trees killed by fire.

Each year, somewhere in America, another type of headstone marks a human grave because someone was careless with fire—some years these new headstones are numerous.

Aside from the loss of life, think of the millions of acres of forest lands blackened each year, and the timber and wildlife destroyed. Think of the floods that follow because the forests no longer exist to prevent erosion. And think of the recreation areas—maybe your favorite vacationland—that can never be replaced in your lifetime.

This year, the problem is more acute than ever before. Be doubly careful.

Smokey Says... PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

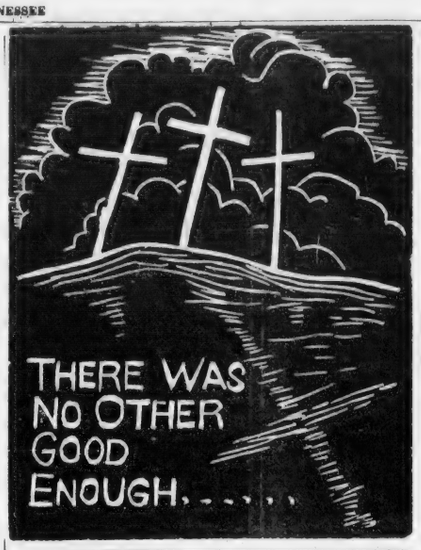
WHITE STAR LINES



Leaving Maryville

O—OLD HIGHWAY
N—NEW HIGHWAY

O— 5:00 A.M.
O— 5:30
N— 6:00
O— 6:30
N— 7:00
O— 7:00
O— 7:30
N— 7:45
O— 8:00
N— 8:00
O— 8:30
N— 9:00
O— 9:30
N—10:00
O—10:30
N—11:00
O—11:30
N—12:00 Noon
O—12:30 P.M.
N— 1:00
O— 1:30
N— 2:00
O— 2:00
O— 2:30
N— 3:00
O— 3:00
O— 3:30
N— 4:00
O— 4:00
N— 5:00
N— 6:00
N— 8:00
O— 4:30
O— 5:00
O— 5:30
O— 7:00
O— 9:00
O—10:00—via N. Plant

Leaving Knoxville

N— 6:00 A.M.
O— 6:30
N— 8:00
O— 7:30
N— 7:00
O— 8:30
N— 9:00
O— 9:30
N—10:00
O—10:30
N—11:00
O—11:30
N—12:00 Noon
O—12:30 P.M.
N— 1:00
O— 1:30
N— 2:00
O— 2:30
N— 3:00
O— 3:00
O— 3:30
N— 4:00
O— 4:00
O— 4:30
N— 5:00
O— 5:00
O— 5:30
N— 6:00
O— 6:00
O— 6:30
N— 7:00
O— 8:00
N— 9:00
O—10:00
N—11:15

Writer's Corner

(Continued From Page Two)

half warm liquid was her property. Pausing to be sure that she had all that was coming to her, she snatched the lily cup, gulped the brilliant orange color down, and sighed a hot heavy sigh.

The opening door signaled the arrival of the next ferry. Mopping her face with an already dirty handkercheif printed with point settas and enscribed Merry Christams. Throwing down the cup, she started aboard the ferry. A wall street broker, perspriing heavily in a black dacron suit, jabbed her with his elbow. He passed still engrossed in the telegram. She moved to the front of the ferry past the sign which warned absolutly no passenger admittance. A slender man with burning eyes was watching her. She turned away.

The ride across was cooler. Cigarettee smoke rose from the boat and hung over it. The water was subservient, willing to be molested by this heavy, chugging engine. The sun, reflected by the water shone in her eyes.

There's the statue of liberty. What a laugh. It is dirty from the smoke bleched from factories where men work to try to make enough money so that they can buy tickets to go to work again And it is isolated, Good, I'm glad. I bet its lonely. Give me your tired your poor, I'm tired, I'm poor. What will you do with me, make me tireder, poorer? and hoter. What is the sense of it? Its too hot to think.

Walking from the ferry, she saw a girl she knew in the crowd Quickly, she turned and started the other way to avoid her friend. Its too hot she rartionalized. And she talks too much. Hi hon, her friend shouted. Caught, she turned. Oh hi I never saw ya.

Hot as hell, ain't it? Sherri asked. It sounded disturbingly familar. Oh yeah. That was familiar too. So many times she thought and said things that were familar. At times she believed in reincarnation. That was when she believed in anything.

Think it'll rain. Cherri disturbed her. Na she said shortly. They been saying so for days, but I don't believe none of them do you? Sherri presisted. Look, I got it straight, it ain't never gone a rain again, the worlds burning up, she sputtered.

Sherri ran her fingers through her blond streak and laughed. Honest to God, you got the best sense of humor. I must tell that to Lou. Ya know Lou, don't ya? He's my man for now. Say, you got a man yet?

Sure, I got plenty of them, only no one can see them.

Haw Haw, God, you sure are funny. If any one ever got to know you, they sure would think you are funny. I'm lucky I know you, huh? I get all your jokes, them intellectual ones. I guess that makes me kind of smart too, huh? Say come or over tonight, I'll dig you up a man, and we can hit the town.

No thanks, got too much to do Besides is too God damned hot. I'll see ya, this is my train. By for now.

Yeah, so long. See ya round. Maybe you could make it when you ain't so busy.

Her heels clicked as she walked up the aisle of the grimy car, glancing gratefully at the no smoking sign. Her dress felt wet, and she knew that dirt from the seat would cling to the wet spots. She would be home soon.

Lucky you know me, she mused wearily, and sighed.

Escaped Bull . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

pass at the red capes, trying to catch the enemy which lurked behind protecting walls only to dart out and torment him.

Enter the Picadors

Then came the picadors, two of them, riding out in their splendid fire upon armor-covered, blindfolded horses. The bull looked confused, hen attacked, hitting the horse squarely in the belly. The horse reared, striking out wildly, almost throwing the picador, who only his lance, buried in the bull's back, to use as a prop. But blood was drawn and the bull started back, distracted by the banderilleros who had just entered the ring. They ran back and forth, inviting the bull to charge, side stepping just as his horns came rushing by and leaving their weapons, long, brightly-colored darts, in the bull's back. The animal ran crazily, decorated with the banderillas and its own deep red blood, then stopped to save his strength.

Enter the matador, Juanito Silveti, the best in Mexico. Even now the bull continues to charge narrowly missing his enemy time and time again. The red cape whirls high as the matador gracefully turns away—finally the bull is worn down. Silveti stands with his back to the bull to accept the cheers of the crowd. Then he goads the animal into a final plodding charge with his darting cape. The sword is held high and just as it seems the matador is to be gored on the sharp horns it is plunged into the bull's back, breaking the charge. The bull staggers, falls, tries to raise himself, and rolls on his side to meet his end at the end of a helper with a long knife. It is only left for Silveti to receive the wild applause of the crowd as he circles the ring, a horn held high in his fist as a symbol of the kill.

Not all of the bulls died so uneventfully. The matador attempting the fourth kill turned his back too soon and was nearly gored as the bull charged, knocking him down. However, the toreros were quickly upon the scene to drag him from under the pounding hooves and carry him from the ring. Even then the matador soon returned, a shaken man but determined to make his kill rather than dishonor himself by being beaten. The sport is a constant flirtation with death for the bull actually has a better chance of surviving than most people realise. Not all bullfighters are as lucky as this matador was.

Another time a charge knocked the armor from a picador's horse and the poor beast was badly gored. Again the toreros were quick to save the defenseless picador. In spit of the cruelty of the bullfight, however, I couldn't help but feel as the Mexicans do—that there is nothing quite as exciting. Certainly it was part of a vacation I'll always remember.

Holy Week . . .

(Continued from page one)

professor of psychology, on Wednesday; Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, on Thursday; and Dr. John D. Buchanan, associate professor of Bible and christain education, on Saturday.

The chapel service on Good Friday will center on the Seven Words from the Cross. President Lloyd will preside at the service. Miss Elizabeth Jackson, associate professor of English, will lead the meditation on the first three words; A. Thomas Horst, instructor in religion and philosophy, on the fourth and fifth words; and Frank D. McClelland, dean of students, the last two words. The special music by the choir will be "Go to Dark Gethsemane" by Noble and "Crucifixon," an Ukrainian Canticle.

Students are welcome to attend special services during Holy Week at the local churches of their choice.

April Fool!

DRESS RIGHT
the SHOE BOX
THE LATEST IN "SMART" STYLES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.
FOR EASTER

"C" RAY TIPTON
Jeweler
DIAMONDS
ELGIN PRODUCTS
Phone YU-3-2161
In McArthur's
Maryville, Tenn.
Watch Repairing
All Work Guaranteed

At LYNCH'S
BIRTHDAY CAKES
A specialty and first rate
We Deliver
Phone 1303

Piano Informalities
Week-Day Evenings
7:00 P.M.
With FREE PRIZES
W.G.A.P.
1400 On Your Dial

The "Y" Store
Proudly Serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
It's Wonderful!
MAYFIELD'S DAIRY
Athens, Tenn.

WITH EASTER ON IT'S WAY,
Make Us Your 24 -- Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still The Best Cup of Coffee In Town—Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

McGREGOR
DRIZZLER GOLFER
The jacket of champions... now with new TRI-SWING PLEAT for full shoulder turn, free swinging action. Water-repellent finish! Wash and drip dry! Hugger waist, tab collar! Great new colors!
Great! Colors of Charcoal, Green, Maple and Others.
$10.95
(11.95 for Longs)
PROFFITT'S

HAPPY EASTER!

The Highland Echo

CONGRATS A.G.S. MEMBERS

Vol. 43 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 5, 1958 No. 13

Easter Bunny, Ham, Flowers And Eggs–Just Where Do We Get Customs

By Bill Pennock

"For, Lo! The winter is past, the rain is over and gone: the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land." (The Song of Solomon)

Tomorrow, the Sunday following the first full moon after the spring equinox, is observed by the Christian Church as Easter. In America the day will be celebrated in many ways, for in America the Easter customs of many nations have been mingled. Christian joy at the celebration of the Lord's resurrection is expressed in a variety of ways, and many of these are of pagan origin. The very name Easter, for instance, is derived from the goddess Easter who was the personification of springs.

Teutonic tribes built new fires on Easter to symbolize newness of life. Some said the sun danced on the morning of that day. It was believed that if one wore no new clothing on Easter, bad luck would be the result. This has been incorporated into our custom of buying new clothing and parading to church on Easter morning.

EASTER EGG

The egg has long been a symbol of new life. With the coming of the Christian Church, this symbol was adapted as representative of Christ's triumph over the tomb. When Lent was set aside as a time of sacrificial fasting the egg was forbidden as food for that period of time. Thus with the end of the fast, the egg again was associated with Easter. With the introduction of colored eggs red was often symbolic of the blood shed by Jesus.

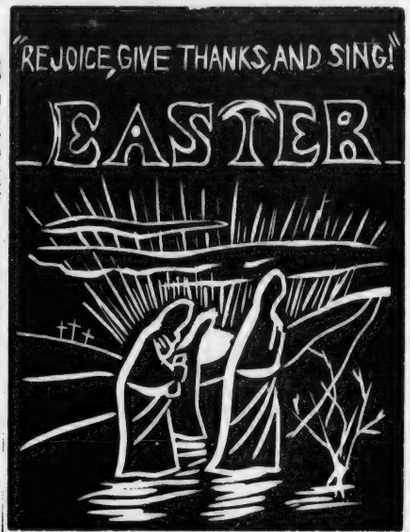
A favorite Easter game is egg rolling. This stems from an early custom which is said to have been symbolic of the stone being rolled away from the door of Christ's tomb. Egg rolling today remains a popular Easter pastime among children, and today it has gained particular attention for the practice is observed in our nation's capital on the White House lawn

EASTER BUNNY

The Norsemen are given credit for choosing the hare as perresentative of fertility. This seems a far cry from our modern "Easter Bunny," Historians point to the Norse hare as the only possible ancestor of the bringer of colored eggs. Among the Pennsylvania Dutch, the egg tree is an Easter tradition, and now the custom is gaining such wide fame that in a few years Santa Claus, with his Christmas tree, may find himself a rival in the person of a rabbit!

During the 19th century the presenting of jeweled eggs as gifts was introduced to the world by the Russian Czar. These were beautifully adorned and were hollow with a hole in one end and a minature pup show concealed within. The Lilliputions would have possibly found reason for war here, for the custom varried as to whether the hole should appear in the large or the small end. This problem perhaps is responsible for the loss of a beautiful custom.

Among the liturgical churches white, the color representative of purity and light, is used at Easter. Lavish celebrations have been for centuries observed at Easter time by the Roman Catholics and other churches who make use of liturgy. Not so with the Puritan groups! Indeed as late as the middle of the last century, Easter was looked on by them with whispers of "Papery." In America Easter celebration began with the years following the Civil War, for at that time consolation for the bereaved was necessary and what could be more fitting than to express joy at the hope of new life by celebrating resurrection and Easter?



HAM FOR EASTER DINNER

Ham is the traditional Easter feast's main dish. Whether we recognize the fact or not this tradition began among the Roman Catholic in England who ate bacon to show contempt for Jews who were forbidden pork.

EASTER FLOWERS

Flowers for the Easter season again symbolize life's triumph over death, and the lily is often used because from a seemingly dead lump of vegetation stems beauty, purity, and perfection.

Tomorrow when the sun rises, Christians the world over will sing praises to God and again the story of Christ's triumph will be told in song, word, and symbol. Many will say in their hearts, "Christ is risen!" and God through nature will reply, "He is risen indeed!"

The Legend of The Dogwood

There is a legend, that at the time of the Crucifixion the dogwood had been the size of the oak and other forest trees. So firm and strong was the tree that it was cosen as timber for the cross. To be used thus for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree, and Jeus, nailed upon it, sensed this, and in His gentle pity for all sorrow and suffering said it: "Because of your regret and pity for My suffering, never again shall the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used as a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and bent and twisted and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross. . . two long and two short petals. And in the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nail prints, brown with rust and stained with red, and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns, and all who see it will remember.

Springtime Will Be Glee Club Operetta, Given April 24, 25

By Marilyn F. Lundy

Practicing has begun for the annual Women's Chorus and Men's Glee Club's Operatta to be given in the outdoor theatre of the Fine Arts Center on April 24 and 25. This year they will present the German Operetta, Springtime. It is a romantic operetta in two acts written by Emmerich Reinhardt and Franz Steiner.

Mr. Kinsinger will direct and Gail Shiffer, senior Glee Club president, will be stage manager.

Helen Marie Hayne has been chosen as the lead. The supporting cast will include; Margaret Sample, Margaret Kelso, Frances Matthews, Bob Moses, Judy Springstead, Karl Diller, Arlene Jones, Mariam Watson, Marilynn Lundy, John Gilmour, Gene Mildon, Gary Hall, Clude Smith, Gail Shiffer, Joanne Hauch, Jeannie Siegler, Helen Trumbull, Jeannette Payne, Bob Conner, Jack Myers, Bill Murphy, and George Preston.

1200 Pieces Of Bread Takes A Lot Of Dough

By Phyllis Stine and Carl Boyer

The students of Maryville College are aware that they pay $160 a semester for board, but few are aware of what this sum must be made to cover. It not only pays for the food which the students consume three times a day but also pays for all the operational expenses involved in the functions of the dining hall and kitchen including the salaries of the waiters, waitresses, and kitchen staff, and the cost of necessary equipment. The only income which the dining hall has is that received from what is paid for board by students, faculty and visitors. If the dining hall runs a deficit at the end of the year the college pays that from general funds.

Not many of the students are aware of the many problems which accompany each meal. They think only of a meal in terms of what they like and what Mother cooks. Real home cooking is practically impossible when the family is composed of five hundred fifty.

Breakfast which appears so simple must be started at 5 a.m. Each morning 1200 pieces of bread are toasted and brushed with melted butter. When ham is served for an evening meal it must go into the ovens at 7:30 a.m. and the men in the kitchen must begin to slice it at 4 p.m.

3000 Pieces of China

The average Sunday dinner necessitates 3000 pieces of china. The five dish and clean-up men are always in the kitchen on Sunday afternoon until at least 3 p.m. Since the noon meal on Sunday is large and because the members of the kitchen staff appreciate having Sunday evenings free; the evening meal is light, as it is in most American homes on Sunday evening. Only one cook and one clean-up man are needed on Sunday evening. In a poll taken of colleges in American comparable to Maryville by the administration, it was discovered that one third of the schools surveyed do not serve any meal on Sunday evening, one third serve a bag lunch, and one third serve a light meal, as Maryville does.

The kitchen staff is composed of five dish and clean up men and seven cooks. The dining hall employs seventy waiters and waitresses and a checker, Mary Emma McClure, all of whom are students at the college.

Miss Ware

Miss Margaret Suzanna Ware is the dietian and manager of the dining hall. A graduate of Asheville Normal School and New York University, she has been at Maryville since 1934. She is accustomed to campus life since she has lived in dormitories from the time she attended boarding school near her home in Forrest City, North Carolina. Her present residence is above the dining hall in Pearsons Hall.

9 Students Elected To Alpha Gamma Sigma

The following members of the Class of 1958 have been elected to membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, the local Scholarship Honor Society. This society, founded in 1934, now numbers 281. It is patterned as closely as possible after Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest and most widely known of American College Honor Societies.

Eligibility to Alpha Gamma Sigma is based on high qualities of character and a scholastic average of at least 2.33 for the first seven semesters of the academic career. The student must also have fulfilled the core curriculum requirements for the B.A. degree.

Those elected from this senior class are Irma Birkelbach (German), Paula Cox Bowers (Biology), Joyce Bryd (French), Carolyn Cones (December graduate, Physics), Clark Eldridge (Philosophy) William Hansen (Psychology), David Krotchko (German), Persis Ellen Neff Bruner (Christian Education), Dan Wiley (Biology)

Two other members of the class Eleonore Koster (Political Science) and Ruth Morris (Biology) were elected to the society as juniors a year ago because of outstanding scholarship records, and are, of course, included in the 1958 quota.

The annual ecognition ceremonies for these newly elected members will be held at the Chapel hour, Friday, April 25, with President Leroy Martin of Tennessee Wesleyan College, Athens, as the Recognition Day speaker.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Society members have in recent years established a fund to provide a scholarship award to the sophomore who at the end of his second college year has the best scholarship record in his class. This fund is now of an amount of almost $1,500 The income from the fund is given as a payment on the first junior semester tuition of the winning sophomore. This fund has now been productive for two years. Two years ago its first winner was Ruth C. Morris and this year it was won by Robert Gray Bowman.

The officers of the society have been this year, Mr. A. Thomas Horst president and Mr. Tom Bugenhagen, '56, vice-president. The newly elected officers for next year are Mr. Robert A. Lynn, '52, president and Miss Carol Hutton, '56, vice-president. Mr. E. R. Hunter, '14, is secretary on a three-year term.

(Continued on Page 4)

Bobbie Larson Reports From Lebanon

By Carl Boyer

Miss Barbara Larsen is one of five Maryville students studying abroad this year. She is attending classes at the Beirut College for Women in the Lebanon, a vantage point from which she is able to observe the Middle East, under the guidance of the Presbyterian Junior Year Abroad Program.

Bobbie, as her friends call her, writes that it is "a real experience living in a new land," and goes on to say that she is amazed at the wonderful friendship shown to American students in the area by Arabs who could well have reason for treating them "not so warmly" because of misguided American foreign policies. She continues, "It's thrilling for me to share joys sadness—just life with my friends—and how I love my new friends' They're so spontaneous, warm, refreshing, gracious . . . I know I'll never be able to think of Lebanon, Jordan, Iran and Iraq without seeing friends and remembering their kindness to me!"

Christmas Eve in the Shepherds' Field and a visit to Egypt were the highlights of a grand winter vacation. Jerusalem, Luxor, Alexandria, Cairo! Who wouldn't be excited about trodding the streets of these ancient cities? Wanting to take full advantage of her vacation periods, Bobbie plans to spend several months in Europe before returning, including a three-week reunion with her grandparents in Norway!

"I've visited many homes, gone shopping with friends, and just talked—and the Christian fellowship is wonderful! Being a Christian means a lot more in a land where it just isn't popular," she writes.

"I'm taking courses in novel, modern literature, advanced composition, music appreciation and audio-visual education—my trouble is that there are so many courses here I won't be able to get in the States.

"Outside activity is filled. One of the biggest entertainments here is what my friends call the 'cinema'—how Beirut loves the movies!" We go visiting, hear lectures, con-

(Continued on Page Four)

Davis Heads New YWCA Officers

Barbara Davis, a Junior sociology major from Independence, Missouri, was elected YWCA president in the elections held on Tuesday, April 1. The new president is a member of Christian Education Club, Chi Beta Society, WSGA Council, Faith Cooperative Parish, and YWCA.

Other newly elected officers include: Georgenne Rholander to the position of Vice President, Joan Menk to position of Secretary, and Barbara Mueller to the position of Treasurer. The new Nu Gamma chairman is Anna Keitt.

In the voting on Tuesday, a tie for the office of Vice President was evidenced. This caused a runoff vote to be held on Wednesday, when Georgenne was elected.

Faculty Club Meets Monday

The Faculty Club will hold a dinner in Pearsons Hall on April 7. The speaker of the evening will be A. B. Cooper of Nashville who is the director of teacher education and certification of the Tennessee State Department of Education. He will speak to the faculty on some phase of his work. The supper hour for the students will be 5:30 p.m.

Cartledge To Be Final Lecturer

The third and final number of the Maryville College Lecture Series for this year will be given on Tuesday evening, April 15, at 8 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The speaker is an eminent American scientist, Dr. Groves H. Cartledge, at present a chief chemist with the Oak Ridge National Laboratories. Dr. Cartledge took his undergraduate degree from Davidson College and his doctorate from the University of Chicago. He has taught at Presbyterian College, South Carolina, Davidson College, Johns Hopkins University, the University of Buffalo, and King College, where he was also Dean of the College.

Since 1951 Dr. Cartledge has been in his present postion at Oak Ridge. He has travelled widely and has held many important positions in the professional organizations in his field. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Chi as well as of the American Chemical Society.

He has suggested as his subject "Atoms and Ideas."

As his undergraduate college and several of his teaching assignments suggest he has been an active layman in the Presbyterian Church in the United States. He is a gentleman of great charm and broad general culture. It is an especially fortunate arrangement that makes him available to us for this lecture

Dormitory Construction To Begin Soon, To Be Completed By January

According to a report from President R. W. Lloyd, drawings for the new women's dormitory have been completed quite recently and construction is expected to begin early in May.

The building of the dormitory, originally scheduled to begin in January, was delayed in the planning stage. However, work on the rehabilitation of Carnegie, Memorial and Pearsons Halls should proceed this summer.

Dr. Lloyd, Mr. Frank Layman, treasurer of the College, and an unnamed Knoxville architect flew to Atlanta Wednesday to submit the plans for the new dormitory and Carnegie's rehabilitation to the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the United States Government. Approval of the plans is necessary as the program is being financed in part by a government loan.

The present completion goal for the new dormitory is January, 1959, in time for occupancy by students second semester of the next school year. The dormitories being redone will be completed by the end of the summer vacation. Long range plans include a second new dormitory to replace Baldwin Hall.

Committees For Twelfth Night Are Listed

The Theater posted the committees to serve on the Shakespearian production, Twelfth Night. The set committe includes Charlene Weed, Susie Fagan, Maryanne Braidwood, Janet Garrison, Ralph Rodman, Margie Stevenson, Anna Allcroft, Gail Shiffer, Dave Gilli lan, and Rosemary Lee. Operating lights will be Carol Schade, chairman, assisted by Ron Randon, Kay Buchanan, and Bob Edris. Kathryn Smith heads the costumes committee, working with Lou Brininger, Susan Parkinson, Jill Smither, Janet Garrison, Gretchen Ide, Betty Springstead, Lois Nelson, Cindy Golding, Jenny Lurton, Margie Hunter, Betty England, and Carol Schade. In charge of publicity will be Charlotte Cathy with Susie Fagan, Tom Dolch, Margie Stevenson, Steve Mouton and Dick Crowder. Serving on the property committee are Judy Eldridge, Phyl Stine, Barb Coates, Mary Mattola, Mary Emma McClure, and Frances Matthews Helen Rankin, chairman, Carolyn Grahme, Sue Tourelle, Carolyn Gass, and Ann McLeod.

The Theater plans to announce the make-up committee sometime later.

Dr. Lloyd Will Travel To Michigan, D.C., Pa.

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of Maryville College, will preach at the three morning services of the Redford Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit, Michigan on April 13. The next day he will attend a luncheon in Washington, D.C. given for representatives of approved schools by the D.A.R.

April 16 to 18 Dr. Lloyd will attend the United States Conference for the World Council of Churches at Buckhill Falls, Pennsylvania. There he will, among other things, participate in a meeting of the Executive Committee which is composed of the members of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches who live in the United States.

Sweepstakes Won By Debaters At CN

The Maryville College Debaters won sweepstake honors at the recent Smoky Mountain tournament held at Carson-Newman College. Nine schools were represented. In debate Maryville won 22 out of 34 and the women's team consisting of Anna Keitt and Betty Miller reached the finals. Two men's teams consisting of Bob Goodlin and Keith Ham, and Dan Ellis and Ross McGill reached the semi-finals.

In the individual contests Margaret Patterson won first in women's extemporaneous speaking, Betty Miller won first in women's oratory and Anna Keitt won second in women's oratory. Ross McGill won first in men's oral interpretation and second in men's extemporaneous speaking, Dan Ellis won second in men's after-dinner speaking and third in men's oratory, and Dale Young won third in men's after-dinner speaking.

Final Tourney

The final tournament of the season will be the Provincial Tournament to be held April 10-12 at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, N.C. The women's team of Corita Erwin and Eleonore Koster, and the men's team of Bob Goodlin and Keith Ham will represent Maryville. Miss Koster and Mr. Ham will also participate in original oratory, after-dinner speaking and extemporaneous speaking contests.

All faculty and students have been invited to attend the debates during the Freshmen tournament, April 14-18.

Exchange Project Starts In Art Dept.

By Marilyan F. Lundy

From now until the 25th of April the Fine Arts Center gallery will have on display the works of students in the art classes of the University of Chattanooga. This is part of a new project of exchange that began last year when the instructor of art of at Berea College displayed his art at Maryville while Mr. Richard Beard's paintings were displayed at Berea.

This year it was thought that the work of the students should be exchanged. Each year it is planned, Maryville will exchange student art works with another college in this area.

The University of Chattanooga is displaying water colors, an etching, drawings, serigraphs (silk screens), woodcuts, and oil paintings done by Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Maryville art students.

In the Maryville gallery are woodcuts, ink drawings, oil paintings and water colors done by Chattanooga sudents under the direction of George Cress, instructor.

Vesper Speaker Will Be T. Henry Jablowski

The preacher at Vespers on April 13 will be the Reverend T. Henry Jablowski, the president of Washington College Academy in Washington College, Tennessee. He is a graduate of Trenton State Teachers' College in New Jersey and has been at Washington College Academy for the past five years. His son Tod is a member of the freshman class at Maryville.

Frosh Talent Show Will Be April 12

By Marilynn F. Lundy

After many problems and unavoilable circumstances, the Freshman Talent show is under way again. It is entitled, Dareall Dares, and will be presented next Saturday, April 12

The Herione will be portrayed by Miriam Watson. The villain is Arnold Milan and Bill Sams is the piano player. Marilyn Lundy is the head chorus girl. The hero will be in the person of Bill Hartman.

Dareall Dares is under the direction of Kay Buchanan and Bob Conners.

Pueblo, Colo. (AP) — A big door prize. That's what the Young Men's Christian Association announced would be given to boost attendance at its campaign breakfast meeting.

A. W. Hinds, the winner, had trouble carrying it away.

It was a full-size door.

The Highland Echo

No. No. 13

SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1958

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan

REPORTERS

Carl Boyer, Virginia Hine, Lottie Jerkins, Marilyn Lundy, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Kris Ramsey, George Roselli, Phyllis Stine

Business Staff

BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Bill Sams
ASSISTANT MANAGER ..... Sandra Jarrett
Staff Assistants—Todd Jablonski, Mary James, Dick Heischman, George Preston, Barbara Williams, Linwood Snider
Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

"Greetings"

Currently a great cry against the loss of our revered traditions is being heard among students on The Hill. The general opinion is as important to campus life as the three major policies of the college which have been upheld since the founding in 1819. Tradition must be kept at any cost.

In spite of all this, however, one more has been fully investigated and found to be not only outlived and unnecessary, but of definite hinderance to the welfare of the individual student and the college as a whole. Perhaps the practice in mind had some value in the far distant past, but even this in the light of current usage seems doubtful. It has been observed that the practice in question has been all but dropped from everyday use and the purpose of this writer is to encourage complete abandonment of so useless an exercise.

What is this abominable thing which we hope will cease entirely? Perhaps you haven't even taken note of it, for as has been stated it is nearly gone, but the thing of which I speak is that deplorable convention of greeting those whom one meets in the ordinary course of affairs while traveling to and from class, or while walking about in town or even in the dormitories.

The ivy-league trend would surely warrant that if we who wish recognition in the scholastic world should follow as nearly as possible those things observed in Harvard, Yale, and the other institutions which set pace. Therefore let us bid farewell to the past and embrace the customs of our own day.

The direct advantages of the dismissal of the issue in question are so obvious that one hesitates to record them. However, for the sake of organized thought I shall place them here in easy view:

The first advantage, and probably the one of the greatest import, is that one would have less chance of strain being placed on the vocal cords and eyes. Overuse of either could produce a condition which might render one unable to participate in class activity.

Secondly, more time would be at one's disposal and the danger of being late for appointments would be greatly lessened.

Thirdly, concentration on material for discussion in forthcoming classes would be most assuredly more easy. The fourth point and probably less important than the above is that there could be, if the old practice were completely abandoned, no doubt in any mind as to who one's friends are. Surely there would no longer be any mis-identification of one's friends for a casual acquaintance or outright enemy.

The advantages of dismissal of the campus greeting far outweigh the disadvantages. Congratulations to you who make up the vast majority who look forward to a new day. To those of you who are slow in taking up the cause—may I heartily entreat you to delay for no length of time, for time and effort and understanding are in need of conservation.

Which?

As I stood in the doorway and heard the cheer, the cry, the so of the crowd, I realized—

I may become absorbed into the masses. I may use my education to bleed, the masses, I may sit and watch the masses, or I may use my knowledge to be the servant of the masses and thus, aid them to cease to be the masses and aid them to become a collection of individuals,—or— I may use my education to encourage the mob to remain a mob so that I may lead them to become my power.—or—As the servant of individuals I may apply principles to leadership. Because "the pen is mightier than the sword," I know that I shall be able to accept my responsibility of leadership only if I am able to use "the art of persuasion beautiful and just." Debate will permit me to acquire an understanding of current problems, the ability to explain the problems to others and the persuasiveness to lead "the group" to express their answers to our problems. (many answers being needed in a democracy.)

With this in mind, I would like to remind you that the freshmen debate tournament will take place from April 14-April 18. This will be an opportunity for freshmen to develop their persuasive abilities, while at the same time upperclassmen may observe the use of this talent. While the race for men's minds continues, the opportunity to debate cannot be ignored.

HAPPY EASTER
Students of Maryville College
Compliments of
MARYVILLE JEWELERS
127 West Broadway

Scots & Soda

AN ADVICE COLUMN

By Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

I wrote you before using the name "Fat and Shapeless." I have tried all your diets and exercises, but I still am fat and shapeless. At times I feel my problem is utterly hopeless. Please help me.

Fat and Shapeless

Dear Fat and Shapeless:

Buy a chemise.

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

My problem is one concerning every-day etiquette—a problem not answered in your recent book. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Workable Etiquette for the Low Class Family at Home and Abroad, by Icnan Regees, price $4.50.) Should napkins be folded with the open side toward the plate, or away from the plate?

A house wife

Dear Housewife:

Yes.

Icnan Regees

Dear Icnan:

I would like to know whether it is in good taste to wear nail polish when I am working in the mines. My girl friend told me it is gaudy. I really don't use a very bright color, and I'm so careful to never have it chipped. Is it really in poor taste?

Scarlet T.

Dear Scarlet:

It most certainly is not in poor taste to wear nail polish during your working hours at the mines, Scarlet. Women must at all times be conscious of their femininity and dress accordingly. In this present age with women working in addition to raising a family, all women must guard against their men thinking of them merely as an extra pay check. We must add a touch of beauty and refinement to our environment.

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Icnan:

This is a problem I have kept to myself for quite a long time for fear of ridicule. However, I feel I must have your expert advice before anyone should notice my non-conformity. You see, I have green legs.

Vertie

Dear Vertie:

Your problem is a common one, Vertie, but fortunately modern science has again solved another age old problem, by the invention of green hose.

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

Is black suitable for Easter?

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Black what?

Icnan Regees

Dear Icnan:

I am nineteen years old and I have never had a date . Other girls have dates, but here I am, normal, nineteen, and never do I have adate. Is there any hope that I may someday find the right one for me for whom my lonely heart is yearning?

Nineteen

Dear Nineteen:

I suggest you read the following books: Living Alone and Loving Every Minute, and Fat, Forty, and Futureless, two of my earlier publications.

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

The girl I go with all the time can't go steady with me. Our main problem is that her daddy won't let her go steady with me. I was hoping that you would say something good about steady dating in your column, since her daddy reads your column when he isn't doing anything else.

Tommy S.

Dear Tommy:

To be perfectly frank, Tommy I really can't come right out and commit myself concerning steady dating, or I would lose many readers—either teenages or parents. I'm sure you understand my problem. However, I will say that I hope her daddy will let her go steady with you.

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

I go to college and the food is terrible, I'm making indescribably low grades, and everyone ignores me. My real problem, however, is my hair. It won't grow, and this a problem, you see, because it has never grown, and I'd like just once to have a little hair.

Yul

Dear Yul:

You really have a problem there, Yul. There's a small college nestled in the foothills of the . . .

Icnan Regees

Dear Miss Regees:

I have been a bachelor for many years and I feel that it is about time I settled down. Do you have the address of anyone who would like to cook, wash, sew, and clean for me when I settle down? I tried the employment office and they suggest no one.

Inquiring

Dear Inquiring:

I have just the address, and this lovely little lady is only 39. Just write:

I.R.
Box 142
New York 142, N.Y.

Icnan Regees

McARTHUR'S
"The Store The Students Prefer"
Dress Right
COME IN AND SHOP WITH US THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE IN TOWN
Dress Ivy
McARTHUR'S
Department Store

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!

The Freshmen Debate Tournament, sponhored by the local chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, will be held on April 14th-18th. Several freshmen have already expressed a desire to participate in debates, an oratory contest, and an extemporaneous contest. If you are interested in any of these contests contact a member of the debeate squad. No experience is necessary.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Writer's Corner - -

ENCOUNTER

The sun beat down mercilessly on the crowd. Dust hovered like a canopy over them, and yet the air was still. If it had not been for the sound of human voices, every thing would have been quiet, for all nature seemed to be waiting for something to happen.

A Negro stood in the crowd. He had come for the same reason as the others, but at that particular moment would rather have been elsewhere. He had seen mobs before and he knew what they could do. He was a stranger here, but he was aware that the sea of humanity which pressed in on him from all sides could, if aroused, turn on anyone in its midst to pour out its pent up emotion like some hunger starved beast of prey.

The Negro was handsome—tall and huge of frame. His dark fists were clenched at his sides, and his gleaming white teeth could not be seen for his jaw was set. The muscles in his cheeks moved out and in rythmically, and beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead above deep set brown eyes which looked about at the crowd. He had come to the city only the day before, leaving his two sons behind. He was glad of that fact; and he longed for his duty to be done so that he could return to his home.

His gaze circled the crowd. A great variety of faces was there—the shifty eyes of a merchant, the stare of a blind beggar, eager faces of young bous dressed in the cloth ing of students, even a woman of the street with her false half smile—all these his eyes observed. He could tell by the way these people talked and looked that they actually enjoyed this sort of thing—they loved it, but not he. Oh to be away from the dust and noise, the smell of human sweat! He shifted nervously from one foot to the other.

Then he noticed the sky—it was a leaden grey. "Strange," he muttered to himself, "Strange indeed."

His uneasiness mounted as the barely audible sound of marching feet grew near. The cries of the crowd rose to a crescendo.—'Oh, God, to be away from this place." —and then in front of him there unfolded a scene which was to remain stamped on his memory and compel him forever.

Before he could comprehend what is was that he was seeing the soldiers were upon him, and Simon of Cyrene was dragged from the crowd to lift the heavy wooden cross and start his journey up the long hill.

Fashions

By Marilyn F. Lundy

Easter time is of course the appropriate occasion to talk about "Easter bonnets" at Maryville College. During the school year, hats are very rarely worn except to keep the ears warm. It will be delightful to see our coed's chapeaux.

Hats vesy defnitely add much to anyone's overall appearance. A person may conservativeiy select her entire wordrobe, but she knows that where hats are hats are concerned, there is no limit. Hats are that unsensible part of outfit usually chosen o ecount rather than coordinate.

Lovely Memorial Hall Sophomore, Peggy rnubert will wear her very first picture hat tomorrow to go with her navy dress. Indidentally, navy blue is a very popular color this Easter. Freshman, Libby Spinning, will wear a flapper- style chapeau of white chiffon over straw to go with her chemise dress. Sandra Brooks will be fashionably attired in a suit with a little hat rimmed in red to go with it.

In Baldwin Hall, we find that Sue Tathwell is wearing an interchangable hat that wears a trim to match its wearer's apparel. Charlene Weed is wearing beige with a beige picture hat to match. Jan Peterson will be decked in a black sailor hat. Bobbie Berger a Freshman band member, is wearing an unusual straw clouch of black and white, with streamers.

It is very hard to gtt a Senior in Pearsons to wear a hat. But we found Jane Bradfield has a new stylish outfit with a little white hat. Joanne Antes is wearing an orange pill-box style hat with large flowers. June Keeny is wearing a striking orchid suit with a large flower-decked white hat.

When you go to church on Sunday, you will hardily know Maryville College coeds! They will be disguised in neu Easter bonnets, looking as chic as Harper's Bazaar!

Socially Speaking

Engagements

Godshalk - Barber

Mrs. Henry W. Godshalk, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania announces the engagement of her daughter, Barbara Jean to James Roy Barber, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Barber of Erie, Pennsylvania. The wedding will take plact August 16 in Philadelphia.

Visitors

Albert Meister of Pitman, New Jersey has been visiting the campus this week. He is now employed by the Pitman Acme market and attends Glassboro State Teachers College.

Fred Sanner, a graduate of Christmas, 1957, visited friends on campus last weekend. Mr. Sanner is now employed by an insurance company in Chattanooga and plans to enter McCormick Theological Seminary next fall.

Mr. John Williams of Spring City, Tennessee is the guest of Miss Sally Lumley for the Easter weekend.

Mr Charles Frissell was the guest of his finance, Miss Joan Herman during the week. A '57 graduate, he is in his first year of seminary.

Miss Margaret Longfellow, ex '59 now a student at American University in Washington, D.C., has been visiting with her friends here at Maryville. She was formerly the managing editor of the Highland Echo.

Miss Pat Smith, ex '59, has been visiting Maryville this past week. She is now attending the University of Colorado, where she is a junior.

Miss Miriam Schester of Boyton Beach, Florida, a freshman at Palm Beach Junior College, is visiting Sue Tathwell, '61, for the Easter weekend.

Mr. Robert Brown, former cheerleader, ex '59, is currently visiting campus.

Many recent alumni of Maryville were seen at the Vesper Choir concert last Sunday evening. Among them were: Miss Clara Gowans, Miss Janet Whitmore, a former senior staff editor of the Highland Echo, and Miss Mary Lee. Also attending the concert were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sherrod (Joan Gray), ex '58.

Peter Concro friend and high school classmate of Ron Randon '60 has been visiting the campus this past week. Peter is from Cliffside Park, New Jersey, and attends New York University.

Bill Boyd '58 is entertaing his mother, Mrs. Walter Boyd and his brother, Charles this weekend. The Boyd's home is in Wheeling, West Virginia and Charles is now on Easter vacation from West Liberty State Teachers College.

Among other Easter visitors to our campus are Lorna Eagle, ex '59 and Cora Mae Bowman also ex '59. Miss Eagle is now attending Ohio University, while Miss Bowman is a student at Muskingum College in Ohio.

Easter Program To Be On Y Radio

This Sunday evening Y Radio will present an Easter meditation program of scripture and sacred music. The program may be heard over radio station WGAP—1400 on your radio dial. Those participating will be Rob Gwatley, Anna Allcroft, Mary Rankin, and Eleonore Koster. The program was coordinated by Nancy Jo Martin.

Christian Book Nook
229 College St.
Books — Bibles
and
Religious Materials
Valentines and Gifts
All gifts wrapped free!

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

The Story of Phoomph Rabbit

(Reprinted from the Highland Echo March 31, 1956).

Once upon a time, there lived a rabbit named Phoomph, who was a very good little rabbit—well, she wasn't a bad little rabbit—it's just that she wasn't too good. Phoomph lived at Merryville, which, everyone knows, the very best place to live. One day Phoomph was feeling a little sadder than usual, and after rabbitly consuming her hard toast and black coffee, she left for town without signing out.

Immediately, her fairy godmother flew up and yelled at her. "Phoomph Rabbit, you have been soo bad. Now I'll give you three more chances and then I am going to change you into a Goon."

Phoomph got pretty shook over this, and ran all the way back to the dorm and signed herself out. That night she made sure that she signed up to dye eggs in the kitchen.

But she does it again

The next day, as it was near Easter and she wanted to get some powder for her tail, Phoomph decided to go without signing out, as no one would know.

No one? "Phoomph!" raged her fairy god-mother. "You have been sooo bad. You go right back and sign out—only two more times and I will turn you into a goon."

Well, as any rabbit knows, it's no fun being a goon, so she ran rabbitly back to the dorm and signed herself out.

The next morning she hoppened to go to town again. Oh—how she wanted to go without signing out, but what loon wants to be a goon? So she was good all day. She memorized "Stopping by a Basket on an Easter Evening" by Jack Frost for her junior recital:

"Whose eggs these are I think I know,
His home is in the briar patch, though.
He is a rabbit fuzzy tailed,
I'll take some eggs and then I'll blow."

And she ate all the shells in the egg souffle which she had for lunch. In fact—she was too good.

At it again

By night time she was all tired out from being good. She couldn't wait til the next day to be bad. Aha—she would paint all the mirrors and newly died Easter eggs black. She had just begun when she felt a tapping on her left ear. It was her fairy god-mother struggling for self control. "Phoomph," she said softly. "Phoomph, you have one more chance."

Well, Phoomph was now feeling badder than ever because she had been stopped in the middle of a fourteen carrot project, So, she called a cute chick she knew and they decided to go to town. Phoomph plucked her whikers and painted her pawnails. After being good and not breaking rules all day she was tired of bing good. So do you know what she did?

She didn't sign out and she walked on the Wrong Side of the Street and on the way home she LOITERED.

Well, Phoomph's fairy godmother was trying to be fair, but after all!

"PHOOMPH", she screamed. "I have begged and warned, but egg-zactly what good has it done! None! I am going to change you into a GOON."

And she did.

And the moral of this story? Hare today, Goon tomorrow.

Sports Spotlights

For quite sometime the Echo's SPORTS SPOTLIGHTS has given you the latest news in the world of sports. So this issue is to test your memory. See how many questions you can answer correctly. You will find the answers somewhere in the paper.

1. What two fighters fought recently for the middleweight crown?
2. The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants have moved to new hunting grounds. Name them.
3. Who won the National Football League championship game?
4. In what bowl game did the University of Tennessee participate?
6. Who was the top football college team in the country this past season?
7. Everyone knows that the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves played in the World Series, but can you name the runners-up in their respective leagues?
8. Who won the All-Star game in the Pro Basketball league and where was it played?
9. What country holds the Davis cup in tennis?
10. On what team did Wilt Chamberlain play?
11. To what team did Oklahoma lose during the regular season?
12. Who is currently the top female tennis player in the amateur ranks?
13. What two teams are now playing for the professional basketball championship?
14. Who was the college basketball king in the nation according to the Associated Press?
15. What team walked away with the National Hockey League title this year?
16. Match the name with the sport:

1. Sam Snead	e. world ice skating champ
2. Lou Hoad	b. defenseman for Detroit
3. Carol Heiss	c. golf star
4. Jim Brown	d. tennis headliner
5. "Red" Kelly	e. leading scorer in N.F.L.

17. Give the score of the St. Louis Hawks-Boston Celtics championship final last year.
19. Can you name the team that shocked the sports world by beating West Virginia in the opening round of the NCAA basketball tournament?

The answers:

1. Sugar Ray Robinson beat Carmine Basilio
2. Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants
3. Detroit Lions
4. Gator Bowl
6. Auburn
7. Chicago White Sox (AL) and St. Louis Cardinals (NL)
8. East Boston
9. Australia
10. Kansas
11. Notre Dame
12. Althea Gibson
13. St. Louis Hawks and Boston Celtics
14. West Virginia
16. 1:c; 2:d; 3:a; 4:e; 5:b
17. 125-123 in two overtimes
18 Sweden

RIMSHOTS

By Lottie Jerkins

The Birdie Tournament has come to a close. Champion for the Chillies is Jane Byrne and for the Howlies Paula Kronenberg.

A surprise on birthday party was held for Miss Jessie Heron last Tuesday by the Women's M-Club. Gay rain hats decorated with small green umbrellas carried out the theme while a large umbrella poured out April Flowers. Mrs. Buchanan's home-baked cookies and merry games put a polish on the evening.

The Women's M-Club is inviting eight W.A.A. Girls for a hike in the Smokies on Saturday, April 12 Biker's lunches will be the style. The big weekend for the M-Club comes in May. This will be spent camping out. New members will be initiated at this time.

Sign up sheets are up for both horseshoes and track. The events for track include both skill and humor, as this is a little known sport. Spectators are urged to attend the meet. A contest between the chillies and howies will complete the meet. See you or the discus.

Experimentals Given Arena Style

Five committees will aid the arena style production of experimentals. In charge of properties will be Barb Coates and Betty Springstead. Mary Faye Bundy, Frances Matthews, Betty Springstead, and Kay Buchanan will work the lights. The make-up committee includes Kay Buchanan and Betty England, while Kathryn Smith and Betty England compose the costumes committee. Steve Mouton will direct publicity.

Voices, Masks and Shadows.

By Virginia Hine

"Jesus walked this lonesome valley
He had to walk it by Himself,
Nobody else could walk it for Him,
He had to walk it by Himself."

Here was One who knew the necessity of lonliness. While He walked earth, He was alone in the truest sense of the word.

Why do we try so hard to be one of the crowd? To lose ourselves in the homogeneous, mob We are afraid to be alone—afraid to face ourselves. But don't kid yourselves, we're all alone in the last analysis. Only the knowledge that everybody else is alone too saves us from complete despair. Jesus knew this. He could have taken the easy way out—the way of the crowd. But this would have been less than the best, although it would have been more expedient, and He certainly would have had the support of the fickle mob. But the only true security and support comes only from the inner self. Jesus knew this too. He chose the way of the lonesome valley, knowing that this way lay pain and suffering and aloneness—even, at the last, aloneness from God—but knowing also that "nobody else could walk it for Him He had to walk it by Himself."

There's another verse to this spiritual:

I Must walk this lonesome valley,
I must walk it by myself,
Nobody else can walk it for me,
I've got to walk it for myself."

So where does the path lead? Through the lonesome valley and up the further hill, to a cross and physical death. The singer asks with pain in his voice, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" Yes, I was there. We were all there. Oh, we can be proud of ourselves. For the sake of expediency, for the sake of the crowd, we nailed trust and love and loneliness to the cross. We've been standing at the foot of that cross for two thousand years now. Standing there, laughing and jeering, or crying. The body was nothing, although we certainly did a good job on that while we were at it. The body died, we could only kill it once, but we can crucify the spirit eternally, and through the agony of lonliness and rejection, it keeps on living.

We're all in that crowd standing there. Some of us not understanding, and wondering what the fuss is all about; some of us laughing at the foolishness which led this Man to such a death; most of us watching to see how the man next to us is going to react—but all of us standing alone. Some of us refusing to recognize the fact and some of us, knowing some thing of both the pain and the fulfillment found in loneliness—understanding what this is all about.

"Jesus stood a lonesome trial,
He had to stand it by Himself.
I must go and stand my trial,
I've got to go there by myself,
Nobody else can go there for me,
I've got to go there by myself."

. . . VEH

Council Corner

Meeting of April 2, 1958

At this Student Council Meeting plans for some of the many activities for the coming months were discussed. The date of the Spring Formal has been officially set for May 10. An informal dance will be sponsored on the evening of May Day (May 1) by the Physical Education Club. Appropriate dress for this event will be dressy dresses for the women and suits for the men. Dates for Open House in the dormitories will be announced in the near future.

Campaign week for Student Body Election will be April 14-18. Starting on the fourteenth, candidates will be allowed to campaign. This campaigning will be climaxed by campaign speeches and the election on the eighteenth. Several changes in the Student Body Constitution were discussed and voted upon. These will be presented to the Student Body for approval in the near future.

The Council voted in favor of suggesting picnic suppers on Easter Sunday and May Day nights. Dining hall food would be served outdoors picnic style and would give the students an opportunity for campus-wide fellowship. There were five one-week campus penalties given to junior girls.

Dr. Lloyd Gives Report On Church Union

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will attend the annual meeting of the Tennessee Colleges to be held in Memphis on April 10. He will participate in a panel discussion on the Tennessee Educational Survey.

On March 27 and 28 Dr. Lloyd attended the annual meeting of the College Presidents' Union which was held in Chicago. Dr. Robert W. Gibson, president of Monmouth College a United Presbyterian college in Monmouth, Illinois, and Dr. Lloyd presented a joint report on a phase of the union of the two churches.

Did You Notice!

The towel on the Carnegie line marked HERS
The crazy-mixed up Easter Bunny in the biology lab
The Chemies, Chammii, chammy (oh heck what's the use?)
The cigars in Bob Edris' pocket
The fact that Christmas comes early this year
The p. j.'s on the April Fool
The bus line schedule
Happy faces of the Kappa Phi's
3 bald heads
Barbara's cartoon in the lib.
A bustle in the Y rooms
Juniors with green boxes
Fred Morrison's shirt
Choir members at breakfast
Lou's red dots
Garcia's chin

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4762
Royal Distributors

DRESS RIGHT
the SHOE BOX
THE LATEST IN "SMART" STYLES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.
FOR EASTER

COLLEGE HILL GRILL
Still
The Popular
Place for Students
To Eat

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

Easter Goodies

Easter Candy
Whitman's, Morris
Pangburns
Sizes From
69c to $5.00
CITY DRUG STORE

POET'S CORNER

THE SECOND CREDO

The northern sky is pregnant
With teeming magnitudes of stars,
That rip the womb of the horizon
In timely right ascension.

Oh wanderer,
Lost and lone,
Return—if you can—
And walk the silent road by night.

No matter that your star has set,
There will be another soon
To lead you into deeper night.
And if there is no dawn,
There are a thousand million stars to guide you,

Each one brighter than the one before.

. . .VEH

Comps And Soph Tests Coming

Comprehensive Examinations for Seniors and National Co-operative Test for Sophomores will be given at Maryville College, April 22 and 23 to members of the two classes respectively.

These examinations, better known as "comps" and "co-ops" have recently been the subject of much discussion and thought by all the students, especially the seniors and sophomores. They are given each year and usually require much preparation — just ask any Senior.

Satisfactory performance in the Comprehensive Examination, concerning mainly subject matter in his major field, is required of each senior for graduation. The Cooperative Test for Sophomores is given by the College in participation in the cooperative testng program for Sophomores sponsored by the Amercan Council on Education among colleges throughout the nation. The results of this serve as useful indexes of every student's development and of his prospects throughout the remainder of his college course.

LARSON . . .

(Continued from page one)

certs, see the ballet, attend balls and carnivals. I like Beirut—just walking down the street is an adventure—all makes and models of cars next to old donkeys and carts—people of all nationalities, new, strange, real people—but it's heartbreaking to see the poverty, and how great it is!

"The food at B. C. W. is strictly Arabic—strong coffee and Lebane for breakfast. It's a thick sour milk, something like yogurt. The first morning it was hard to eat Lebane, olives, Khobz (a flate bread which I now love) and tea. Now it's going to be difficult to get use to 'plain ole bacon and eggs'!"

Laine Rowe is the lucky one who will be representing Maryville at Beirut next year. She received the good news several weeks ago in a telegram from Miss Margaret Flory, who is in charge of the IVA program. At present Dr. Francis W. Pritchard, of New Providence Church, is helping her with the arrangements. She plans to leave for the Middle East from New York in September. Ask her if she is looking forward to it and she will say, "I sure am!"

Echo Forum

open letter to

The Honorable A. S. Herlong, Jr.
(Representative, Fla.)
House of Rep. Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

My dear Mr. Herlong:

In the proposed 1959 national budget, the increased proportion alloted to the department of defense for military spending concerns me very much.

While realizing the need for funds adequate for national defense, I firmly believe that we, through our governmental policies, are dangerously overemphasizing military strength, and placing unreasonable confidence in force.

I am convinced that, instead of increasing this percentage, we should provide a great deal more money for constructive non-military programs of economic development through loans, technical cooperation, and development of trade opportunities. Although the proposed amount is 30 percent higher than last year's, I understand that many of our legislators do not see the urgent necessity for this program, and will seek to reduce the sum. Such economic assistance, besides being a very real help in world relations, is an expression of our Christian concern for these people in their termendous need.

Past programs of non-military economics seem to have been very helpfnul and effective wher wiseley administered, but also detrimental in some cases of ridiculously poor management. I hopc every poscible precaution will be taken to insure the careful use of all such aid for the real benefit of those who need our help, rather than for the primary purpose of the promoting of glory and thanks to the United States.

Very truly yours,
Jeanne Greaves

Reply to the above letter

Dear Miss Greaves:

Thank you so much for your very thought provoking letter of January 29th.

I agree that man cannot live by bread alone and that there is a great deal more to a strong defense than military strength, not the least of which is good friends.

Most Sincerely,
A. Sydney Herlong, Jr.

Writer's Corner

A Blissful Romance

He was very happy to have found a suitable mate so early in his life. A few days earlier he had met her as he was going into the big-room in search of something to eat. She had been sitting in one corner weaving a large tapestry. At the sight of her sleek, beautiful figure he had been so overcome that he could not speak. Even now he could see her dressed in her black satin-like dress which was ornamented only with a few red buttons at the waist. He, too, was a conservative dresser and immediately the thought had come into his mind that the two of them would make a stunning pair. They seemed to have so much in common.

He was a weaver by trade and was quite happy to have found someone who was as talented as himself. He marvelled at the way she seemed to scamper along the large silky tapestry, she had worked on as if she had not noticed him. In order to catch her attention, he started to run, jump and do all sorts of things. She had simply kept working meticulously on and on.

The next day he had not been able to get her out of his mind and paid her a visit. She was still weaving as she had been before. The tapestry had taken on a form of perfect symetry. He had known from that moment that she was meant to be his mate, she had acknowledged him, too, by casting sly glances at him as she worked. Each time she had looked his way his heart had jumped with ecstasy. The final act that had stopped the evening was her sudden movement toward him. They had stood for a long time with head and hands clinched. It had been clearly a case of love at first sight. He had immediately proposed to her. As he had gone home that evening he had laughed, jumped and run as only a male in love for the first time could. The future seemed to have unfolded before them The only condition to the marriage had been that her tapestry be finished before the wedding. He had told her of the joy he would have in helping her raise the little ones. He had visualized her as his beautiful wife and the many happy hours they would spend together. To all this she had merely chuckled and started to weave again. He had been so thrilled that he had encouraged her to work faster.

The next day she told him that all was ready, the tapestry was finished. His great moment had finally come. He was really nervous now. What would it be like? They were married by the soleman pomp of common law and retired to the bridal chamber.

As the sun rose the morning after, she came out of the chamber and pulled its entrance closed and moved to a new corner of the room, leaving the shouded, completed tapestry behind.

—R. D. C.

Enternity Plus One

It's almost dawn now. I can see the beginnings of the light over there in the east. In just a little while the sun will come up like a red comet from behind the river like it always does, and another day will have begun . . . another dull glass bead on the endless string that stretches out in front of me.

He told me before I left to get some sleep and not to come to the train. I'm thankful to him for saying that. I don't think I could say goodbye again . . . not front of all those people. He knew I wouldn't sleep, and I knew he knew . . . but he said it anyway. Conventionality. Even he. But it was better that way. Empty words covered so well what we both really wanted to say . . . what would have broken us both completely.

It's very quiet here on the edge of the river. Later today the waves will get choppy, and the small boats will be tossed around like leaves, but now the river is still asleep and the tiny waves scarcely mar the placed surface.

I wanted to cry, but I was calm. All my tears were inside, and my eyes were dry. Last night we talked about so many things. Our lives are broken off until he comes back . . . his and mine . . . We talked about all the books we want to read, the things we want to do, the places we want to go . . . the children we want to have . . .

Now the birds are starting to sing. There must be a hundred of them in that clump of trees. Saucy things! They act like they owned the place and I'm the intruder. I guess I really am though, this hour of the day belongs to them What right has any human being to be here?

Nature and music. Strange how I always turn to them when I need comfort and peace. Last night, after he left, I put on a stack of symphonies . . . blindly, I just grabbed. Brahms first symphony . . . It helps somehow to lose my own feeble tragedy in the glorious tragedy of the whole human race. Brahms felt that . . . Life is triumph and tragedy all mixed up together. Sometimes I'm not so sure about the triumph part, but Brahms was.

The sky is turning pink now. The world is beginning to wake up. A snappy breeze is beginning to blow, and a hungry fish just broke water . . .

I hope he slept. I don't think he did though . . . those hot barracks with those other men tossing and turning too. I don't want him to have slept! I hope he stayed awake all night and hurt like I did!

No! I don't mean that. He needs his sleep, he has a long trip ahead of him. And at the end of it, what? . . , a foxhole and hell on earth.

Now I can cry. Hot tears coming out of my eyes instead of turning inward and rotting. God! Why? Why this useless destruction of lives? All flesh is grass and dust, but not yet, God, not yet!

You hysterical little fool. What makes you so self-important? You are not the first woman to lose her man to war, and you won't be the last. But I'm not just any woman, I'm me! And only half me without my man to share my hopes and dreams and fears . . .

It's full daylight now. There comes the sun, hot and red. It's going to be another scorcher. Later today I'll go swimming in the lagon. No, I can't do that. I'll get Dad to take me out in the boat. That'll be alright, I guess . . .

Why didn't I tell him about the baby? But I know why. I wanted to hurt him by not sharing it . . . hurt him because he's leaving me alone. But I'll tell him in the first letter.

I've go to get back to the house pretty soon, they'll start worrying about me. What time is it? His train is leaving now. He's sitting in the troop car smoking and thinking . . . about what? I hope about our life, and all the unfinished plans set aside . . .

Goodbye. I'll write and tell you that we're going to have a son . . . to follow in his father's footsteps. You'll be proud of him . . . He'll be all I have if . . . but never mind . . .

Why is it that the truth is so painful sometimes?

HOWARD BELL GIVES SENIOR RECITAL

Howard C. Bell, Jr., Baritone will present his Senior Recital on Monday Evening, April 14, 1958 at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The program for the recital includes: Von den himmlischen Freuden by Johann, Prologue from "Pagliacci" by Ruggiero Leoncavallo, Dichterliebe by Robert Schumann, and Old American Songs by Aaron Copland.

Howard Bell is the son Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Bell, Sr. of Maryville. He is a graduate of Friendsville High School. Howard is a voice major, and a member of Vesper Choir. His many activities on campus include Kappa Phi and leading roles in Opera Workshop and otner musical productions.

YM-YW Present Dramatic Program

The Bomb that fell an America, a dramatic monalague by Hermon Hagedoin, will be presented by the YM and YWCA of Maryville College at 8:00 p.m. in the music hall of the Fine Arts Center. The presentation is under the direction of Charlotte Cathey and will feature David Ross assisted by Jan Peterson. Vocolist will be Mary Murphy accompanied by Tom Evans.

Seniors And Sophs- Study Hard

Sun Rises Tomorrow At 6:16

Alpha Gamma Sigma . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

Those elected this year are:

Birkelbach

Miss Irma Birkelbach, senior German major from Brooklyn, New York. She has been a member of Y Cabinet, Student Vols, and German Club.

Bowers

Mrs. Paula Cox Bowers, a senior Biology major whose residence is Maryville, Tennessee.

Boyd

Miss Joyce Boyd, senior French major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She has been a member of French club.

Bruner

Mrs. Persis Ellen Neff Bruner, a December, 1957 graduate, whose major was Christian Education. She was in Band and Christian Education club, and Orchestra.

Cones

Miss Carolyn Eloise Cones, a December, 1957, graduate, whose major was physics. Miss Cones, besides serving as Editor-in-Chief of the Echo one semester, was a member of Writer's Workshop, Chi Beta, and Student Council publicity committee.

Eldridge

Clark Eldridge, a senior philosophy major from Pemberton, New Jersey. He has been a member of Kappa Phi, Vesper Choir, and Writer's Workshop.

Hansen

William Hansen a senior psychology major whose home is in Chappaqua, New York. He is a member of camera club.

Krotchko

David Krotchko, a senior German major from Mt. Carmel, Pennsylvania. He served as President of his class in his junior year, and is a member of the pre-ministerial club and the German club.

Wiley

Dan Wiley, senior biology major from Munford, Tennessee. He has been a member of Alpha Sigma, Track and Intramurals.

At LYNCH'S
BIRTHDAY CAKES
A specialty and
first rate
We Deliver
Phone 1303

Piano Informalities
Week-Day Evenings
7:00 P.M.
With FREE PRIZES
W.G.A.P.
1400 On Your Dial

CAPITOL
Today, Monday And Tuesday

"SORORITY GIRL"
Also "MOTORCYCLE GANG"
Starts Saturday—"PAL JOEY"

The "Y" Store
Proudly Serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
It's Wonderful!
MAYFIELD'S DAIRY Athens, Tenn.

WITH EASTER ON IT'S WAY,
Make Us Your 24 -- Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still The Best Cup of Coffee In Town—Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Thirteenth Annual

The Highland Echo

I. C. All Reports

Vol. 43 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 1, 1958 No. 14

May Day Is Observed Today

Hill Reigns As May Day Queen

The Physical Education Department, sponsors of the May Day program have announced the name of the winner of the May Day queen race to be Gretchen Hill Gretchen is a Senior Christian Education major from Toledo, Ohio. She has been a member of Chi Beta, serving as treasurer her Junior year, B.G. club, Social Board in her Junior year, Cheerleader in her Freshman and Sophomore years, Spanish Club in her Freshman and Sophomore years. Nu Gamma Leader in her Sophomore year, a YWCA Cabinet member in her Senior year, and served as a member of the Daisy Chain in her Junior year. This will be Gretchen's second appearance as a member of the May Day Court, as she was an attendent in her Sophomore year. The queen will be escorted by Bill Heird, president of the class.

Attendants

The Senior attendants will be Katrina Wells and Lew McFarland

The representatives of the Junior Class will be Joan Marston and Bill Aring.

Elected from the Sophomore class are Lessie Ann Rhodes and Fred Topper.

The Freshmen members of the court are Sarah Shelley and Roger Smithey.

Srs. Recognized At Annual Service

By Phyllis Stine

The annual Recognition Day ceremonies for the seniors elected to the Scholarship Honor Society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, were held at the Chapel hour on April 25. The speaker for the occasion was President Leroy Martin of Tennessee Wesleyan College. Mr. Martin is a recognized leader in college administration and in scholarship.

President Ralph W. Lloyd, of Maryville College and Thomas Horst, president of Alpha Gamma Sigma Society, also participated in the ceremonies.

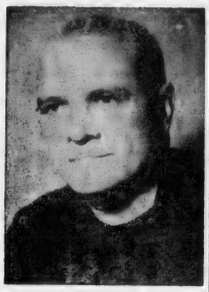
Seniors who were recognized were Irma Birklebach, Paula Bowers, Joyce Boyd, Carolyn Cones, Clark Eldridge, William Hansen, David Krotchko, Persis Bruner, Dan Wiley, Eleanore Koster, and Ruth Morris.

This society, patterned as to scholarship and other standards on national Phi Beta Kappa, was organized in 1934. Its membership now numbers 281. The scholarship eligibility standard is an average in all courses completeed at the end of the seventh semester of 2.33.

Y Retreat Held Last Weekend

Friday afternoon two buses full of YM and YW cabinet members, Nu Gamma leaders and the Ten Key Men left the campus for the "Y" Retreat at Laurel Lake.

First held more than twenty years ago, the "Y" Retreat has a long history. Its purpose is one of devotion, organization, and planning—to evaluate the past and get ready for the future. The function and program of the "Y's" is given thoughtful consideration as the old cabinet members try to pass on their knowledge to the new.



Dean Arthur Bushing moderated the panel discussion Friday night. Dr. David H. Briggs, Dr. Edwin Hunter, Mrs. Sarah McNeill, Joan Neckerman, Corita Erwin, Stan Mont and Bruce Lundberg also participated. Reverend Mr. Warren Rutledge was leading devotions.

Dr. Eugene C. Blake To Address Seniors

The Reverend Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A., will give the commencement address at Maryville College on May 21. Dr. Blake of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is one of the best known and most influential church leaders of the present day, and holds a prominent place in the field of higher education.

A past president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., Dr. Blake is now the chairman of the finance committee and a member of the executive committee of the World Council of Churches. He has traveled and spoken in many countries of the world and was the leader of a delegation to Russia two years ago. His position as Stated Clerk of the General Assembly is regarded as the chief executive office in the Presbyterian Church U.S.A., which is the largest Presbyterian body in the world.

He graduated with honors in philosophy at Princeton University where he was a member of the football team for three years. Between college and seminary he taught a year in India and studied for a year at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. He began his ministry in 1932 as assistant pastor of the St. Nicholas Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue in New York and of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church in California in 1940. He left the Pasadena church seven years ago to assume his present position as Stated Clerk of the General Assembly.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake

French Club Holds Election Recently

Officers of French Club were elected at a recent meeting held in the Y Rooms. Ruth Dean was elected president, Don Buddle, vice president; Wanida Nanthavanij, secretary; Steve Mouton treaurer; and Peggy Reid and Charlene Weed, program chairmen. The officers this year were Bob Brown, Ruth Dean, Velma Hileman, Charlotte Blanchard, Jane Marshall, and Nancy Seegar.

The French Club was host to thirty first and second year French students from Everett High School Their instructor is Mrs. O. P. Henry, and Joyce Boyd, a senior at Maryville College, is their student teacher.

Nancy Peters, Joyce Boyd, Wanida Nanthavanij, Bob Brown, and Steve Mouton presented a play, "La Surprise d'Isidere" by Victor E. Francoise. Lynn Mitchell, a senior piano major, played several Ravel waltzes. Ralph Kummerow, a freshman, presented a short talk on Braille.

Refreshments were served after the program. Joyce Boyd, Nancy Peters, Ruth Dean, and Jane Marshall were responsible for the refreshments.

Christian College Sunday Observed

National Christian College Sunday was observed by the churches of the Synod of the Mid-South of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. last Sunday, April 27. Most of the 236 churches of the synod which includes churches in Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi, will take part in this observance.

Speakers from Maryville College, Tusculum College, and Warren Wilson College were furnished to the churches which request such assistance in the observance. Printed materials for the special program have been prepared by the Committee on Christian Education for the Synod. The Reverend Roger Cowan of Greenville is the chairman of this committee.

ECHO FORUM

To the Students of Maryville:

It was one thing to find the words to ask you for your vote last week; it is another to find the ones to thank you for it now My feelings are a mixture of pride and humility. Pride in the discovery that you are interested in my program; humility in the realization that your confidence represents the greatest challenge that I could attempt to meet.

But the time for words is behind us, and the time for action is just ahead. I have been turning a few things over in my mind when there hasn't been anything else available to turn. You will soon be choosing the people who will work with me on the Student Council next year. Your decisions should be made carefully. I suggest that you consider the services of some of this year's council members as being helpful to me. If you know that someone has had valuable experience in student government before coming to Maryville, I hope that you will bring his name before your class.

If you are an active member of an organization, be just as careful in electing your leader. In order to co-ordinate the campus activities, I have proposed a permanent Presidents' Council which would meet with me at least once a month. This is one of the opportunities you will have to express your opinion and indicate your interest. The captains of the athletic teams will also participate.

One of my objectives in the above proposal is to clear out the dead wood that over-organization accumulates. We have over fifty groups on campus, many of them with similar objectives, none of them with membership strong enough to accomplish them. The council would be asked to consider the possibility of combining, for instance, the foreign language groups into one modern language club. The Pre-Ministerial Association, the Christian Education Club, and the Student Volunteers could possibly function as one organization. There would not be so many meetings to go to, and there would be more to do when you got there.

I mentioned in my circular that I could not predict what we'd be up against next year. I can say this, that whatever the situation, the results are yours. It might not be the normal practice to make after-election promises, but I at least can promise myself to stop working when you stop being interested in what your student government is doing. I will be in contact with the new members of Student Council throughout the summer, and I invite your suggestions too. My mailman is very devoted and doesn't mind a little extra work.

Sincerely,
Don Newroth

MC Vesper Choir Sings 'King David'

The Maryville College Vesper Choir will present Arthur's Honegger's "King David" in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at 7 p.m. on May 4, 1958. The choir will be accompanied by James Bloy, organist, Sallie Schoen, pianist, and Ralph Moore and Mary Darling, percussionists. John Ribble will be the narrator and Harry H. Harter the director.

Soloists include Bobbye Carson, Robert Davies, Charles Justice, Mary Haydn McEver, Nancy McGeorge, Harold Mays, Lessie Anne Rhodes, and Norma Taubert.

"King David" was originally a Biblical Drama by Rene Morax which consisted of five acts corresponding to the five phases in the life of David as shepherd leader, war chief, prophet, and king. Honegger composed the stage music to this drama on a little more suitable for church performance Morax and Honegger re-created "King David" to a type of oratorio in three parts by binding the separate and shorter portions of the work together through narration which explains the action. It is in this form that the work is to be presented.

The Symphonic Psalm depicting David's hard road of penitence culminated in the death of David — a climax which is colored by the dawning of Christainity.

Class of '58 Attends Breakfast At Lloyd's

By Phyllis Stine

The annual Senior Breakfast was given by Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd at their residence, Morningside, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 29 and 30. One-half of the senior class attended each morning.

High School Day Held Here May 2

By Phyllis Stine

The annual High School Day will be observed on Maryville College campus on May 2. This project is sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce of Maryville and College with the co-operation of ten Blount County high schools. Seven hundred high school seniors are expected to participate.

The program will begin with registration followed by an assembly from 9:15 to 10:20 during which Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of the college, will welcome the students. Frank H. Corbett, president of the Blount County Chamber of Commerce, will address the group, as will Ralph W Frost, the general secretary of the Christian Association of the University of Tennessee. The Maryvillians, a male quartet from Maryville College, will entertain the group.

The assembly will be followed by two sets of vocational discussions each consisting of eight groups. This will make it possible for a student to attend two discussion groups related to fields in which he is interested. The group leaders have been obtained through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and Frank D. McClelland, dean of students at Maryville College. Groups will meet in the chapel, Fine Arts Center, and Bartlett Auditorium.

The afternoon will consist of a picnic lunch, provided by the Chamber of Commerce, a swimming and diving exhibition, a tour of the campus, and a baseball game between Emory and Henry and Maryville. Members of the student council will help with registration and discussion groups and will serve as guides.

"Mom" Jones Has 300 Sons In Carnegie Hall

"Hello Carnegie Hall" with these words, spoken in a soft East Tennessee drawl, Mrs. Julia Jones answers the telephone some odd hundreds of times daily in her office in the men's dormitory on the Maryville College campus.

"Mom," as she is called by the fellows in her dorm, lives up to her title as house mother. She says with a shy grin that she has three daughters and 300 sons. Among her duties in the dormitory are "answering the phone, pushing pills, welcoming parents and visitors" and she adds, "I even doctor carbunkles and give advice to the lovelorn." Mom Jones is famous for her ever-full candy dish, well read stack of magazines, and sport page-less newspapers. She states that in her position one never can be sure whether her popularity exists because of a pleasing personality or a free telephone. Many an unsuspecting coed gives credit for good taste in clothes or flowers to a boyfriend when credit really belongs to Mom.

Mrs. Jones was born in Knoxville "more years ago than I care to remember," and she attended the University of Tennessee. In 1920 she married John Burge Jones of Atlanta, Georgia. After her husband's death, Mrs. Jones worked for several years as a receptionist in the office of her son in-law who is a doctor. In 1954 Mrs. Jones took on the title 'Mom" and joined the Maryville College staff.

Interesting Work

Mom states that one of the more interesting aspects of her work is the fact that each day has something new to offer. During her first year on The Hill she was one evening surprised to find a lovely bouquet of flowers on her desk. After inquiring as to who brought them and receiving nothing but laughs and hands-in-pockets squirms she put her foot down for an answer. The answer she finally received was that "such pretty flowers deserved to be on her desk and not wilting away in a grave yard."

"There have been a lot of changes here on campus since I came" says Mom, "the greatest change, however, is in the boys themselves." One change which Mom has yet to see may someday give her opportunity to use the 50 ash trays she still keeps in storage. Two or three can be seen in her office where she keeps them for "ornamentation." The laughs they provide are well worth the time it takes to dust them every few days.

Mrs. Jones' three daughter are living in Winter Park, Florida, Walterboro, South Carolina, and Charlotte, North Carolina. Besides her three daughters she has six grandchildren (if you'd like to see their pictures she would be only too glad to show them to you).

Writing to her family takes up some of Mrs. Jones' free time, but she is never too busy to take an evening out for cards with those of like profession on campus Among her other hobbies are fishing, needlepoint, travel, and reading. With such a variety of hobbies, no wonder every fellow on campus feels as though she is the one to turn to for advice of any nature. Even few mothers at home know the best type flies for catching brook trout.

In a years time Mom probably sews on more buttons, hears more complaints, gives more advice, and worries later at night over her sons than any other mother in town. Good luck has it that she doesn't have to iron trousers, cook dinners, and make beds for her

Continued On Page 4)

Mrs. Chou Visits Maryville Campus

Mrs. Sun Ae Chou will be visiting on Maryville campus from April 30 to May 5. She is in this country to attend the National Meeting of Presbyterian Women which is to be held at Purdue Univresity in June. Prior to this meeting, Mrs. Chou, who is involved in college administration in Korea, will be visiting college campuses as well as meeting with various women's groups.

Contractors To Bid On New Dormitory

Completed plans and specifications for the new women's dormitory were put in the hands of the leading building contractors of this area on April 14. Bids will be received and opened at 2 p.m. in the president's office on May 6. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College, said, "If a satisfactory bid is received a contract will be let at once."

Schweikher and Elting and Barber and McMurray Associated Architects designed the proposed dormitory. They previously designed the Fine Arts Center and the Chapel.

Mr. Hampton Has Article Published

"Is Your Child College Material" by James W. Hampton, director of public relations at Maryville College, will appear in the May issue of Rotarian. Carl Karlkrueger, editor of Rotarian, has stated that this will be one of the most widely read articles the magazine has ever published.

Mr. Hampton wrote for Good Housekeeping for a number of years as well as for several educational publications. He was formerly a guidance counselor in New Jersey for twenty years.

MC Art Students To Display Work

On Monday, April 28, 1958, the Fine Arts Gallery will display the work of Maryville College art students. Until then the exchange show from Chattanooga is being shown.

Included in the student show will be oil paintings, water colors, sculpturing, and ceramics. A large portion of the show will be devoted to graphics, an old media relatively renewed in recent years.

The students and others are invited to see the display of student work completed in 1957-1958.

Veep Dave Ross Picks Daisy Chain

By Bill Pennock

"Golly Pete—a fella has trouble enough keepin' friends!" With these words Dave Ross came to the realization some months ago that the job of being vice president of the Junior class held in store a bit more than that for which he had bargained. As far back as anyone could remember a young lady had held David's office, and now kerplunk here he was with the duty of choosing the daisy chain! "There otta' be a law."

Edward David Ross was born in April, 1937, in Knoxville, Tennessee. He graduated from Knoxville South High School in 1955 and entered Maryville College in the fall of that year. With Sociology as his major field, Dave is a member of Kappa Phi, has taken an active part in Playhouse an intramurals. Last fall the men of Carnegie Hall elected him representative to the Men's Student Co-operative.

Bogged down under the weight of his special study on The Tennessee Valley Authority and with 13 other class hours to keep him busy, Dave found the task of choosing 14 girls from the Junior class to appear in the Daisy Chain for graduation 1958 was a task almost beyond his strength.

Finally David made his choice and when you have read the results you'll agree that his personality and get-up-and-go are well equalled by his taste.

Dancing, Tumbling To Be Featured

The annual May Day observance will be presented by the physical education department of the college under the direction of Mrs. E. N. Queener and Mrs. E. M. Largen in the college ampi-theatre the afternoon of May 11.

The traditional May Pole dance will be given by the class of modern dance. The program will include some folk dancing, some square dancing, and tumbling. A pantomine story, "Peter the Church Mouse" will be portrayed by Helen Moore as the mouse Ves Travis, as the kitten, and Judy Lonsinger as the parson.

Committees

Committee chairmen in charge of the May Day show are: Court, Kay Henry; Properties, Joan Jefferson; Concessions, Jane Bryne; and Publicity, Katrina Wells.

The dances will be preformed by those taking physical education courses in dancing, and tumbling. Those in the Modern Dance group are: Roberta Berger, Irma Birklebach, Harriet Blankenship, Elaine Garner, Jo Anne Hauck, Gretchen Ide, Sandra Jarrett, Betsy Lonsinger, Nancy McCahan, Jane Planitzer, Cherie Scholl, Nancy Seeger, Kathryn Smith, Norma Sue Taylor, Carolyn Thomas, Miriam Watson Barbara Williams, and Wanida Nanthavanij. This group will preform the May Pole Dance, and one other.

Folk dancers from the Phys. Ed. 302 class who will do two dances are: Rufus Bowers, Dan Ellis, Clarence Shields, Frank Garcia, Joan Menk, Dona Sarver, Ann Wiley and June Keeney.

The tumblers will be: Zella Burgreen, Gail Bradley, Evelyn Crane, Susan Fewell. Lou Lewis, Judy Perov, Dona Sarver, and Carolyn Thomas.

Mrs. Queener's class in Folk Dance will also dance three dances.

Fashion Show Here Saturday

The Home Economics Department will hold its thirteenth annual fashion review Saturday night in the theatre at 7:30. The show will be divided into four sections, each representing a different section of the world, and a different season of the year. Fall will be set in the Scottish countryside, Winter will be featured in Boston, Paris in the Springtime will be the third section, and the last will be a Bermuda Summer. The commentators for these divisions will be Marjorie Gross, Gray Clarke, Kris Ramsey, and Judy Cummings.

Seventy-three garments will be modeled, all had construction in the clothing courses of the college, which include Elementary Clothing, Tailoring, Advanced Tailoring, and Bride's Course. The garments will include blouses and skirts, wool dresses, cotton dresses, wool suits, coats and formals. The final garment shown will be a wedding gown worn and constructed by Miss Steck.

Following the show refreshments will be served in the lobby of the theatre.

Watch Next Week For Daisy Chain

The Highland Echo

Vol. 43 No. 14

THURSDAY, MAY, 1, 1958

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan

REPORTERS

Carl Boyer, Virginia Hine, Lottie Jerkins, Marilyn Lundy, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Kris Ramsey, George Roselli, Phyllis Stine

Business Staff

BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Bill Sams
ASSISTANT MANAGER ..... Sandra Jarrett
Staff Assistants—Todd Jablonski, Mary James, Dick Helschman, George Preston, Barbara Williams, Linwood Snider
Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

Foreign Student On MC Campus Discusses American Influences

Among foreign students in America, there are some who are conditioned by three things which to a large extent influence their thinking and evaluation of America. First, as a result of various social, political, and religious influences in their respective countries, they often think of America as a land of "Yankee Culture" and Americans as a bunch of mixed up people. Second, they are too conscious of their own great past and magnificent heritages. America is still a young country and therefore, as far as cultural values go, foreigners tend to look down upon the United States. The third factor is distance. Although science and technology have worked miracles, the distance that separates Asia and America is a large factor in building misconceptions between the two continents. In order to get a better and balanced view of the world, it is not only necessary to see the world through one's own eyes, but to try to see it from other's viewpoints. Thus much of the present day misunderstanding between nations and peoples could have been avoided.

Because many Asians come from a ridgidly hierarchial, traditional society, some of us happen to suffer from an over-consciousness of social status. In the U.S. the foreign student gains a new status, that of guest of honor with many privileges. Most of us are tempted to exploit and sometimes to misuse this status, and usually remain indifferent or act as critical observers, not participants. This is a pity. One of the most applicable principles one can learn from an American is this respect for the individual, stripped of title and rank. At least there is no problem for the foreign student in America. And it is vain to meddle about superiority and inferiority in interracial contacts. Prejudice is a result of weakness-an attempt to compensate for a sense of inferiority, and is therefore an object of pity rather than of anger. Actually, there are very few cases of unpleasant racial incidents.

American life may seem fantastic to us, with all of its mechanisms, but life in the United States is just as solid and serious as life is anywhere else. Some of us may not like the American way of life, but that is a matter of individual opinion and certainly should not be extended as a general feeling. One fact seems quite obvious; as long as we are in this country, we must try to adjust ourselves to the situation and evironment, and not stand in corners with sarcastic expressions on our faces.

Important

Due to a change in the printing schedule of the Enterprise, the Echo will be published on Wednesdays for the remainder of the semester. Copy will be due on Saturday.

Christian Book Nook
229 College St.
Books — Bibles
and
Religious Materials
Valentines and Gifts
All gifts wrapped free!

BROWNIE
Movie
CAMERA

Tim-ana-snoot convenience ... new low price

Movie movies are a hobby for the whole family — and now, easier-than-ever to enjoy, easier-than-ever to afford! ...k's wonderful Brownie Movie Cameras are available here ...new low prices. Big selection of easy-does-it models, featuring the world's most popular movie maker, the Brownie Movie ...with f/2.7 lens.

Limited Supply

Was $29.95—Now Only $16.95

PARK DRUG STORE

106 E. BROADWAY — PHONE YU 2-1670

Scots & Soda

By I. C. All

Of late one of my favorite pastimes has been taking an early evening stroll about campus. Perhaps the reason for my delight in this occupation may be the pleasant season, but I more readily accept the explanation that it's due to a spirit of restlessness brought on by the pressing of examinations and the feeling of urgency which accompanies the realization that only three weeks are at my disposal in which to finish that first chapter of special studies. Whatever the reason for my sudden desire for night air, I find it pleasurable and relaxing.

Several evenings ago as I was obliged to omit my stroll from the early evenings activities, I rather began early to study and later, in the course of events, found a stroll desirable. I then chanced to observe some of the sights and sounds about campus and when I returned to my room I took pen in hand recorded the following observations:

Tuesday Evening, late

Finding the problem of evil in the world too great to be solved in one evening, and feeling the need for some air I left my desk this evening, later than customary, for a short walk. I noticed the time was just half past the hour of ten as I walked by the clock in the lobby of the dormitory and paused for a drink at the water fountain (a ritual performed by all who enter or leave the building). Finding the night warm I turned my steps toward the library by way of the campus circle drive. I was amazed at the amount of activity for that hour which was taking place on the walk, especially in the vicinity of the path leading into Memorial hall, but then remembered that the evening's study was just ending for some. Also I concluded that a great number of those who were about were returning from refreshing themselves at the student center. From the nature of activity in which most of those who were paused along the drive were engaged I concluded that a great number of students were planning to leave the country on the morrow, for the farewells were long and not without many a tear and whispered sigh of parting.

I continued my course and upon reaching the YMCA building noted that at one of the large second floor windows, a scholar was engaged in a study of insects. I then continued walking in silence, and was suddenly aware that someone was standing directly in my path. The tall lean man who stood before me said nothing, but seemed transfixed. I noticed that he wore some type of a uniform, and because I didn't wish to appear rude I greeted him by saying "good evening officer." Evidently he took my greeting as some sort of joke because he smiled and proceeded to give his life history. After an interesting lecture on life and the world situation I was given an orange—"just came from Florida"—and sent on my way. The conclusion I reached about this gentleman is that he must be some sort of good will ambassador placed on the campus by the authorities to instruct tourists and hand out gifts to those visiting the college. By the time I reached Thaw Hall the moon had come out. Strange how even Mother Nature lends a hand in keeping the path of a Presbyterian student well lighted!

Little happened to break my reverie as I passed behind the library and approached Willard House. I did pause to wonder who the shadowy figure was half way up the ladder of the old water tower, but I decided that if someone wished to disappear forever into the tomb with the bodies of former students, as the story goes, why should I an interested Bystander interfere.

Behind Pearsons Hall I was annoyed to note that already the delightful odor of hot cakes and sausage arose. Then I realized that the cooks must eat early in order to open the boxes of Special K and Bran Flakes in time for the inmates to enjoy breakfast.

The Fine Arts Center and Chapel stood dark and impressive against the sky line. I walked through the colonade and could see the tower of Anderson Hall as a symbol of the old being seen through the frame of the new. Just as I reached the steps leading from the chapel court I noticed a spectacular phenomenon! The great brick mass—Carnegie Hall—in which I make my home was one moment ablaze with light, then dark, light for one brief second, then dark again, and once more lighted as before.

I rushed back to the dormitory to inquire the cause of this, but was nearly knocked from my feet by a great migration of students who on this signal were off to town for coffee and some type of oriental food called pizza or pitsa. Upon reaching my room I found by inquiry that the given signal takes place each night. I inform those in residence that the head of the dormitory plans to retire. This sends vast numbers to town, indicates tha hi-fi sets can now be turned on, gives those who serve as janitors the go-ahead, and above all lights the smoking lamp.

Such an evening's activity on top of the studying I had previously done made the hand of Morpheus beckon speedily. However, before retirement that night, I resolved in the future to be safe in bed each night before the 11 o'clock signal and to take any evening walks directly after dinner.

Intercollegian Sponsors Photography Contest

A contest for college student photographers is being sponsored by The Intercollegian, a magazine covering the college field and published by the National Student YMCA - YWCA. Theme of the contest is student life and education in America, and $850 in prizes in equipment and cash are offered.

The contest will close November 1, 1958, and judging the entries will be Jacob Deschin, Photography Editor, New York Times; David Linton, President, American Society of Magazine Photographers, and Grace M. Myer, Curator of the Museum of the City of New York. Prize-winning pictures will be published in The Intercollegian and exhibited at the YMCA-YWCA National Student Assembly in Urbana, Illinois, December 28, 1958 to January 3, 1959 with the mounting courtesy of Compo Photo Service, Inc., specialists in photo murals, New York City. For complete contest rules and an entry blank students may write to Intercollegian Photography Contest 291 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

Top equipment prizes are as follows: Konica III MXL Camera, case and flash, courtesy the Konica Camera Co.; DeJUR Eldorado III 8 mm. Movie Camera, courtesy the DeJUR-Ansco Corp.; Argus C44 Camera, case and flash, courtesy Argus Cameras; Graphic 35 Camera, courtesy GGraflex, Inc., and Ansco Memar Travel Outfit (camera, case and flash), courtesy of Ansco. First prize winner will receive $1500 and first choice of one of the pieces of equipment, and second prize winner $50 and choice of one piece of equipment. Third through fifth prizes will be equipment, and sixth prize will be a 3.5 Flash Flex Capacitor Flash gun, courtesy Burleigh Brooks, Inc Honorable Mention awards will include: six prizes of $15 in cash: No. 2 Nikor Stainless Steel Developing Tank for 120-620 Film, courtesy Burleigh Brooks, Inc.; five copies of Picture, the American Society of Magazine Photographers Annual, courtesy ASMP; five copies of The Family of Man, courtesy Simon and Schuster; six superslide kits for Rollei Cameras, courtesy Burleigh Brooks, Inc., and ten Ansco 35 mm magazines of Super Anscochrome, courtesy of Ansco.

Socially Speaking

ENGAGEMENTS

Kronenberg-Mont

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harold Kronenberg of Fayetteville, Ark ansas announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula Elaine to Stanley James Mont son of Mr. and Mrs. Thoedore Mont of Highstown, New Jersey. The wedding will take place on Wednesday May twenty-first at New Providence Presbyterian Church, Maryville, Tennessee.

Miller-Chapman

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miller announce the engagement of their daughter, Opal to Dwight Chapman of Ann Arbor, Michigan. Mr. Chapman is a librarian at the University of Michigan, and a student working in the area of library science and education. The wedding will take place on June fifteenth in Chicago.

VISITORS

Miss Carolyn Cones, who graduated in December, was visiting the campus last weekend. She has been working and living in Washington this semester.

Mrs. Clarence Norton (San Roberts), '57, visited Maryville College last weekend. San and her husband are at Emory University this year.

Voices, Masks and Shadows.

By Pat Penland

Last Friday Long Hot Summer had its first showing in a Maryville Theater. As advertised the movie's plot is originally borrowed from William Faulkner's novel The Hamlet combined, however, with one of the author's earlier short stories, "Barn Burning." Beyond its origin, nevertheless, the movie departs on an almost unrecognizable course from Faulkner's pieces.

Directed by Jerry Wald, who also directed "Peyton Place," the movie seems to have derived somewhat of an atmosphere from the Metalious story of a New England town. At any rate, it is not the South usually associated with William Faulkner.

Involved with a clan of boisterous Mississippians greedy for power, the plot, quite humorous in portions, concerns the social conflict of Frenchmen's Bend, a small Southern town.

The cast proves to be most rewarding in their performances. Joanne Woodard, recently winning Hollywood's Oscar for the best actress of the year in Three Faces of Eve, plays the female lead as the refined daughter of the not so refined head clansman who is portrayed by the Shakespearean actor, Orson Welles Paul Newman of television and also cinema fame, wanders on the scene as a cotton-picking drifter. Anthony Franciosa and Anegla Lansbury also appear in the production.

One critic summed the movie up as being a southern Peyton Place. It most certainly can be compared with that recent movie however it has several of its own characteristics. The whole is quite entertaining fare.

POET'S CORNER

Speak, Thou

Undying echoes of ages sound
Into the hearts of living sons and mold
Unresting generations, and let sons succeed.
The intolerable weight of universe upon them it piled
Let sons endure. Oh, who knows this load.
No one, no one knows and understands

Speak, thou, vulgars of generations
To empty thy face in the tolls of life
And pile up little penny castles
Saying, it is security, our goddess
What have thou at last?
Happiness — deceived

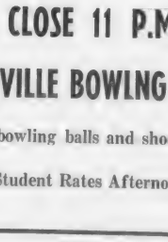
Speak, thou, wealthy of generations
Thoughtless greed thou possed in thy belly
Eat, drink and be merry
Yet thou could not filled thy belly
What owned thou at last?
The wealth — the casket

Speak, thou, heroes of generations
Thou marched with thirsty soul
Left perishing comrades on the land of strangers
To hold the banner on the hills of blood
What gained thou at last?
The power — the desolation

Speak, thou, the beauty of generations
To pierce the hearts with untold power
And wake slumbering senses of ten thousands
Yet depthless thy heart how can it be adored
What is thy pride at last?
Beauty — wrinkled ugliness

Speak, thou, the sages of generations
Thy inquiry wandered over heaven and earth
Thy mind toiled into depths of mind
And thou found rootless—
What knew thou at last?
The truth — the hemlock

Speak, thou, saints of generations
Love and justice embodied in thy heart
To sacrifice is thy destiny
Yet who knows that agony of true man
What left thou at last?
The love (goodness) — the bloody cross



Speak, thou, "Man"
Time pursues and death knocks thy soul
The destiny
Unknown
"Man", what will thou be at last?
Being — non-being

—L.S.C.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET
OLDSMOBILE

OPEN 2 P.M.
CLOSE 11 P.M.
MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER
We have bowling balls and shoes to fit you
Student Rates Afternoons

Big Watch Band Sale!
½ OFF — OTHERS
WERE: $7.95
NOW: $2.88
Guaranteed Watch Repairing

Bell & Powell
Jewelers
112 E. Broadway
Phone. YU 3-2312

McARTHUR'S
"The Store The Students Prefer"
Dress Right
COME IN AND SHOP WITH US THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE IN TOWN
Dress Ivy
McARTHUR'S
Department Store

WRITER'S CORNER

LOST IN LIFE

High up on top of a hill stood a little boy gazing out above the tops of the trees that were down in the little valley. His mother had told him of the many wonderful things that lay toward the east. He wondered why he wasn't able to see them. Was this not the highest place in the area? He didn't quite understand all that she had told him. All that was visible were the trees and the smoke from a sawmill a few miles away. He thought for a while, then cocked his ear towards the sawmill. Yes, he could still hear the faint whinning noise as the saw blade ripped through the fresh, green trees. He remembered the time his father had taken him down to the mill to get strippings for the shed. He had been very frightened of everything and had hidden under the front seat of the wagon. The negro workers mocked them for being poor white trash. Their mocking hadn't bothered him; it was just their looks that scared him. He remembered too, how that faint whine he listened to now, had grown in immensity until when they got there. Then with each shrill rasp of the saw through the wood an icy shiver kept running up and down his back until he broke out in a cold sweat. The only thing that soothed him was the smell of the fresh pine and fir resin.

He turned his head slightly and something white caught his eye. He walked over to it, reached down to investigate, saw a bee gathering pollen and waited for the bee to leave before picking the daisy. He had had experiences with bees before; they were like Pa in not caring to be bothered and stung just as bad. He wondered why daisies didn't smell sweet. Nobody seemed to know, at least those he had asked about them. They just looked at him and laughed. Grown-ups sure were funny. They seemed to laugh at anything that it was quite obvious they didn't know the answer to. It seemed like most people didn't like kids.

Overhead the tops of the tall pines were humming nicely in the soft, balmy breeze. He liked to sit on the pine needles and listen to the pines speak. He felt just the way he did at Grandma's house when he could sleep on her big feather mattress. This was his place and no one else knew about it. He let his hand slide gently over the needles. They were as smooth as his mother's hair. Maybe that's why he liked them so much. His mother was so soft and nice. What she saw in Pa, he didn't know. He remembered that time when Pa was hopping mad at him. Ma had lost her timidity and stepped fearlessly in front of him. Pa didn't know what to think then. He just turned quickly and left the house. Ma was really the best in the world. He lay back and closed his eyes so that he could see her more clearly. She sang him a lullabye like the murmuring of the pines and soon he was asleep.

An hour or two later he woke with a strat. The sun was beginning to set in the west and it was getting dusky dark. He had to rush back to the orphanage house as soon as possible or they would worry about him.

A FACULTY FOR FUN

The professor, a sworn enemy of coeducation, asserted: "It's impossible to teach a boy mathematics if there's a girl in the class." "Oh, come," objected someone, "surely there might be an exception to that." "There might be," snapped the professor, "But he wouldn't be worth teaching!"

(The Reader's Digest)

Just before Christmas a college professor read the following on an examination paper: "God only knows the answer to this question. Merry Christmas." Across the paper the professor wrote: "God gets an A; you get an F. Happy New Year."

(The Reader's Digest)

From the Anderson, Ind., Daily Bulletin: "Will the party who picked up the black cocker spaniel puppy Saturday on Wendell Road either return him or come back and get three-year-old boy he belongs to?"

(The Reader's Digest)

Tennis Team Splits, Loses Then Wins

By George Roselli

After losing their first match of the season to U-T, the Maryville College Tennis team beat Tennessee Wesleyan 7-2 on the local courts. They swept all three doubles matches and four out of six singles.

Results:

Singles

Dwain Farmer (TW) defeated Ted Engle (MC) 6-2, 4-6, 9-7.

Stan Mont (MC) defeated Albert Mehaffey 6-1 and 6-2.

Hector Lamb (TW) defeated Jim Cummins (MC) 6-3 and 6-4.

Mike Matthews (MC) defeated Junior Prewitt (TW) 6-2 and 6-3.

Tom Eberhard (MC) defeated Norman Jackson (TW) 6-1 and 6-1.

Dick Kurzenabe (MC) defeated Ed King (TW) 6-3 and 6-1.

Doubles

Engle-Mont (MC) defeated Mehaffy-Lamb (TW) 6-4 and 6-2.

Cummins-Matthews (MC) defeated Farmer-Prewitt (TW) 5-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Eberhard-Kurzenzbe (MC) defeated Jackson-King (TW) 6-0, 6-2

The after a loss to Carson-Newman, the Highlanders evened their record by beating Lincoln Memorial University 7-1.

Results:

Singles

Ted Engle (MC) defeated Bill Bosch 6-2, 6-3.

Stan Mont (MC) defeated Bill Sharp 6-2, 6-1.

Harris McGirt (LMU) defeated Jim Cummins 6-4, 6-4.

Mike Matthews (MC) defeated Ray Daugherty 6-2, 8-6.

Tom Eberhard (MC) defeated Jack Hammock 9-7, 6-0.

Dick Kurzenabe (MC) defeated Steve Sexton 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles

Engle-Mont (MC) defeated Bosch-Sharp 6-4, 6-1.

Eberhard-Kurzenabe (MC) defeated McGirt-Sexton 6-1,? 6-3.

In their last outing the Highlanders dropped a 6-3 match to East Tennessee State on the State courts. Winners for the Scotties included:

Stan Mont (MC) defeated Ben Wilson 6-4, 6-3.

Engle-Mont (MC) defeated Lowe-Wilson 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Cummins-Matthews (MC) defeated Hartsell-Breazel 6-3, 13-11.

The remainder of the tennis schedule looks like this:

April 24—Carson-Newman (here)
April 26—E. Tenn. State (here
April 28—Tenn. Wesleyan (there)
April 30—Milligan (here)
May 1-3—State Tournament in Chatanooga
May 5—Lincoln Memorial (there)
May 7—U. of Chattanooga (there)
May 10—U. of Chattanooga (here)

MAID'S EYE VIEW

A maid being interviewed explained that she left her last position because she couldn't stand the way the master and mistress were always quarreling. "That must have been unpleasant," remarked the prospective employer. "Yes, sir," the girl declared, "they was at it all the time. When it wasn't me and him, it was me and her!"

(The Reader's Digest)

Scotties Rack Up In Baseball Games

By George Roselli

With the baseball season more than half over, The Maryville Scotties have an impressive record of.

The Scotties have shown that they have what it takes to make a well rounded team and their record backs up that statement. Here is a summary of the season so far:

Maryville 10 Kenyon 9
Maryville 3 Kenyon 2

After a wild first game in which the Scotties were able to come out ahead, 10-9, Earl Lawson tamed the Ohio boys by limiting them to just two hits as his mates amnaged to rap six off the Kenyon pitcher. Two of those six hits led to the game-winning runs as MC won 3-2.

Maryville 3 East Kentucky 2
Maryville 6 East Kentucky 4

Both Max Williamson and Earl Lawson posted their second straight wins of the season in these two games. In the opener Jack Woodhull collected two of the Scotties six hits and Earl Lawson helped his own cause by singling home Bill Owensby and Bill Evans. In the nightcap, Maryville scored all its runs in the first in the final four frames. When Lawson tired in the seventh, John West moved over from third base and with one pitch, forced the batter to ground into a game-ending doubleplay. Hitting star of the game was Bill Evans who had a perfect day at the plate with a walk and three straight singles.

Emory and Henry 5 Maryville 4

The Maryville College baseballers lost a 5-4 decision to the Eagles of Emory and Henry on an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh. Max Williamson pitched the first four stanzas and Bill Owensby came on in the fifth to finish the games. Bob Carlton and Earl Lawson were the top stickers with a tripple each.

Maryville 11 Milligan 4

Maryville exploded for five runs in the seventh inning to rap up an 11-4 verdict over Milligan College. Gordon Gilreathe and Bill Arring combined to hold the Buffs to four hits as the Scotties bang out twelve. Mike Talley, Bill Evans, Earl Lawson, Bob Carlton the attack for the Highlanders.

Maryville 12 Hiawassee 7

Everyone got into the game as the Scotties showed their power in defeating Hiawassee 12-7.

Concert Played By College Band

The Maryville College Band presented a Pop Concert on April 29 at 6:45 p.m.

The program included "March Bombasto" by Tarrar, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Criiger, "If Thou Be Near" by Bach, "South Pacific Selections" by Rodgers, "Trumpet Voluntary" by Parcell, "American Folk Rhapsody" by Greundman, "Gloria March" by Losey, and "Chicago Tribune" by Chambers.

Board To Meet Here

The Annual Spring Meeting of the Board of Directors of Maryville College will be held at Morningside on May 9 and 10. The meeting will begin with dinner on Friday and close after lunch on Saturday.

Wanida Tells Of Dead Languages, Police Survellance

By Nancy Seegar

An interesting addition to Maryville's campus this semester is Wanida Nanthavanij, an exchange student from Thailand majoring in modern languages. In August of 1957 she came to the United States and attended Marymount College in New York City. Wanida came to Maryville College because she does not like living in a big city.

Wanida can speak several languages— Thai, English, and French, as well as a few words of Chinese and Spanish. During her two years of college in Thailand she also studied Pali and Sanskrit, dead languages somewhat as Latin is to American students, and more difficult to learn because of its two additional declinsions.

Wanida's plans for her future have changed during her stay in America, and, as many other Maryville College students. They are now indefinite. Someday she hopes to write a book about her experience in this country. With this in mind she is keeping a diary from day to day while in America.

This well-traveled girl has been to Indo-China, Hong Kong, Japan, Hawaii, and of course the United States, by way of San Francisco. She plans to tour Europe this summer, especially Paris, and Rome.

In April, 1954, Wanida joined an international work camp held in Bangkok where students from 15 countries participated in the group. She was a delegate from Thailand to Singapore to a conference there for Asian students in August of 1956.

At one conference, which included a week study tour she had the opportunity to visit much of Malaya. One place of interest was the historical town of Malacca, where the Portuguese came to trade in the 16th century, and later settled. This town has many points of interest including museums, ruins, and other attractions pointing up the history of this town.

Watched By Police

During her two years of college in Thailand Wanida was a member of a committee of the World University Service, Thailand, as well as working for the Inter-Parliamentary Union Conference in Bangkok in November, 1956. At this conference one of Wanida's friends was a Russian delegate who gave her a Russian medal to wear. Because of this casual friendship Wanida was constantly watched by the police, and she found it necessary to conceal the medal.

Found: 20 Lbs.

Wanda's father is a landowner in a small town 75 miles outside of Bangkok. The children go to Bangkok for their education because of the better schools there.

It is interesting to hear Wanida compare Thai customs and American customs. Thai mealtime is more relaxed and leisurely than our practice here at college. Wanida says she would get tired if she ate as fast as some of us do who dash back to the dorm to study or sleep. Surprisingly, Thai food is more varied and less fattening than our American fare. Wanida has gained 20 pounds since she came to the United States!

Wanida has a problem in common with most other college students, although much more accentuated—the problem of getting homesick and lonely when so far from home. Foreign students must face the adjustment to a different life and customs, and must make an entire new set of friends. With a body of water and inefficient roadways separating Wanida and her family, one wonders at Wanda's courage and admires her for her constantly cheerful outlook

String Ensemble Presents Program

The String Ensemble presented its second program of the semester on Monday evening, April 28, at 7:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. Featured in the program were twelve pre-college violinists, violists, and cellists, ranging in age from elementary to senior high school, each playing solos worked on during the year.

The string ensemble was originally made up entirely of pre-college students having private lessons at the college, but this year the ensemble is open to all persons qualified to participate. The ensemble is also utilized as a laboratory orchestra in which music education majors enrolled in the Advanced String Methods 348E play various instruments which will help them in their eventual teaching. They also have the chance to observe rehearsal procedures from two sides: playing along side junior high school players and from the director's podium since each music education major in the ensemble is given the opportunity to conduct at least one rehearsal during the year.

At present there are thirteen members: eight violins, two violas, two cello, and one string bass. Rehearsals are held in Room 101 of the Fine Arts Center each Monday afternoon at 3:30. Any qualified person interested in participating in the ensemble next year will be welcome. Some of the compositions studied this year include works by Bach, Handel, Purcell, Avison, Tschaihowsky, Hambourg, Melkey, Rowley, Rameau, and others. The repertoire of the ensemble members primarily but with enough variety to suit the tastes of all the players.

CLASSIFIED CLASSICS

From the Abilene, Texas Reporter-News: "$10 reward for southside apartment. Large enough to keep young wife from going home to mother. Small enough to keep mother from coming here."

(The Reader's Digest)

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4762
Royal Distributors

FOR BOYS & GIRLS, MEN & WOMEN WITH ACNE!

DO YOU HAVE A "PROBLEM" SKIN?

Would You Like A Smoother, Clearer, Healthier, Blemish-Free Somplexion?

"CAMPUS" Kit consists of 6 different EFFECTIVELY-MEDICATED component parts: Face Soap, Blemish Cream, Facial Pack, "Cover-all" Blemish Stick, Face Lotion and Vitamin A—25,000 USP Units: the most complete and THOROUGHLY - EFFECTIVE complexion-care EVER created!

The all-NEW, amazing CAMPUS Facial-Treatment Kit offers IMMEDIATE relief from the discomfort and embarrassment of unsightly acne, pimples, blemishes, discolorations and other skin disorders! What's more, we'll PROVE that "CAMPUS" will help clear up that "PROBLEM" skin—or show DEFINITE IMPROVEMENT within 30 days—or YOUR MONEY BACK! Fair enough?

Simple to use—just a few minutes a day—will give you amazing results you probably thought impossible! A clearer, cleaner, healthier, smoother glowing complexion. . . and with such a wonderful new feeling of perfect grooming. Over a month's supply, postage paid, direct-to-you for only . . .

$4.95 No Fed. Tax

CAMPUS Groom-Aids

FILL OUT ORDER FORM BELOW AND MAIL TODAY!

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD LABORATORIES, INC.,
700 Prudential Bldg., Houston 25, Texas
Enclosed is $4.95 (check, cash, money-order) for CAMPUS KIT
NAME .....
ADDRESS: .....
CITY ..... Zone ..... State .....

SATURDAY
2 WEEKS TO LIVE
Double Fun for Everyone!
And
WOMAN OF FIRE... IN A LAND AFLAME!
BARBARA STANWYCK
RONALD REAGAN
CATTLE QUEEN OF MONTANA
SUN. and MON.
Bowery Boys
UP IN SMOKE
STANLEY CLEMENTS
AN ALLIED ARTISTS PICTURE
And
The Pajama Game
Doris Day
John Raitt · Carol Haney
TUES. and WED.
RORY CALHOUN
DOMINO KID
And
DESTINATION 60000
PRESTON FOSTER
COLEEN GRAY · PAT CONWAY · JEFF DONNELL
THURS. & FRI.
THE WHITE SQUAW
David Brian · Mary Ann Wyman · William Bishop
And
ACTION OF THE TIGER
CinemaScope and Color
SATURDAY
HOT ROD RUMBLE
Plus
"Red Rider Rides"

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You Planning a Party?
COLLEGE HILL FOOD MARKET
Can Supply Your Needs of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Saving
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

"Gifts that Say Happy Mother's Day"

Mother's Day Candy
Whitman's, Morris Pangburns
Sizes From
69c to $5.00
CITY DRUG STORE

Fraternity Takes In New Members

By Phyllis Stine

Initiation of new members of Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Fraternity the Epsilon chapter of Tennessee was held on April 24 at a dinner meeting at Mrs. Atchley's Tea Room in Kensel Springs. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. L. P. Graf of the history department of the University of Tennessee.

New members are seniors Margaret Keitt, Robert Brown, and Lewis Shearer; juniors Keith Ham, Thomas Dolch, Bruce Greenawalt, and Nancy McGeorge; and Robert N. Navratil, instructor in political science.

New officers for the 1958-59 school year were also installed at the meeting. They are president, eKith Ham; vice-president, Thomas Dolch; secretary treasurer, Ralph J Case,; and faculty sponsor, Thomas M. Cragan. The retiring officers are Eleanore Koster, president. and James Marsh, vice-president. Mr. Case and Mr. Cragan were re-elected to their respective offices.

Membership requirements of Pi Gamma Mu include placement in the upper thirty five percent of the class, a B average in social science, twenty semester hours of social science, and no failure in any other class. No more than ten per cent of the upper classmen may be elected in any one year.

The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu si to stimulate interest in social studies, to inspire service to humanity, and to supplement and to support existing social science organizations. The motto is "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

The Epsilon chapter received its charter in April 1957.

Committee To Meet May 2-3

The Long Range Planning Committee for Maryville College will meet at Morningside on May 2 and 3. The committee is composed of the directors of the college and of faculty members who have been appointed by the directors. Their function is to study the entire future plans of the college.

At LYNCH'S

BIRTHDAY CAKES

A specialty and first rate

We Deliver

Phone 1803

Miss J. E. McCorkle To Retire After 29 Years

Miss Jessie Eleanor McCorkle retired for the staff of Maryville College on April 1, 1958 after having served for twenty-nine years. At first she was an assistant in Baldwin Hall and worked part time in the Treasurer's Office. Later she became a full time assistant in the Treasurer's Office and has been known in that capacity to students and faculty for more than a quarter o fa century.

Miss McCorkle is a native of Knoxville and attended school there. She later enrolled in business and religious training courses in Chicago and elsewhere. Before coming to Maryville she was a department store secretary and bookkeeper in Johnson City, Tennessee. For three years she was on the staff of Lees-McRae College in North Carolina. She is a lifelong Presbyterion.

She has made a notable record for her loyalty and faithfulness. Through most of her years of service she could be found working on invoices and books in the Treasurer's Office long hours after closing time. Miss McCorkle expects to make her residence in Maryville.

Poet's Corner

FOR GRADUATING SENIORS

My hear leaps out with joy
At having been a part
Of that great place upon the hill of green;
I have reaped my harvest of
Fine comrades that will last for years;
Sweet memories of ivy covered halls,
Great white columns sparkling
A warm greating in the southern sun.
The large, aged oaks smiling down
In brotherhood, absorbing as their sacrifice
The love of youth in their cool shade;
I long to hear again the laughter
Flowing out of the opened windows,
To be a part of it all again,
To laugh and sing and shout,
To be a youth again,
To smell the pure Chilhowie air,
To shudder in its chill,
To walk again in its rain.

The Present State of Things

Cold?
Then I propose .....
No!
But if .....
No!
Things are .....
No!
May I say .....
No!
Then lets adjourn.
Yes, let's.

—Richard Crowder

Writer's Corner

By Lewis Plate

She watched the mailman through the curtains across the window. He stopped, searched through a handful of white envelopes, shrugged his shoulders and looked sorrowfully at the little white house that stood on Oak Drive. Then he went on down the street, stopping at other houses here and there and putting envelopes in the mailboxes.

She knew why the mailman had looked sorrowful. Only the two of them knew that it had been almost a month since a letter had come from Joe. A letter used to come every two or three weeks. There was no reason to get worried and panicky, though. It's not unusual for mail to get tied up in wartime. There probably was a letter waiting for her in some mailsack in a dusty old corner in an out of the way post. It could be that Joe was someplace where he couldn't get any mail out. She never knew exactly where he was. Someplace in the Pacific was her only location. He was probably very busy, too. A man doesn't have much time to write when he is fighting a war. There could be a hundred good reasons why he couldn't write.

Her mind was still functioning rationally, but fear was beginning to take possession. Her nerves were on edge, and she lived on coffee and more coffee. This only made things worse, but she couldn't stop. One cigarette after another was snuffed out in an ashtray. Her moods became completely unstable. One minute she would be singing like a robin in spring and the next minute tears would roll down her cheek and drip on her blouse.

She puttered about the house trying to keep both her body and her mind busy. She dusted tables and chairs that were already spotless. Floors got swept that had been scrubbed and waxed only a few hours before. The harder she worked, the tighter the tension seemed to become. She was running and she knew it, but she could not stop. It would all burst apart if she stopped. She had to keep running, working, fighting, holding till the very end. That's all there seemed to be now, just the fight, the run, the struggle.

The doorbell rang. The saucer that she had bee ntrying shattered into pieces on the floor. Her knees weakened and she fell back against the stove. She didn't fall, but just stood there leaning against it. "Damn," she said out loud. She pushed herself up to a balanced position and walked through the hall to the front door.

Her mother and father stood there. Tears were in her mother's eyes and her father took the part of a sorrowful old man. In his hand was a yellow piece of paper. He handed it to her and she unfolded it and read the black letters on the page.

Dear Mrs. Patterson:

We regret to inform you that your husband is missing in action.

She folded the telegram carefully and put it in her apron pocket. She kept her hand there and held it tightly. Slowly she walked into the living room. The running was over, the fight had ended. The pain would go on, but the struggle had ended. But then her whole body trembled with realization and the fight did not end peacefully, but it came in one gigantic surge of emotions built through a life time. Her only defense was a horrifying scream that tore the silent air in to as her life was torn in to. She slumped to the floor sobbing pitifully into the palms of her hands.

"That's it, little one. Cry it out and it will be better then," said her father.

She felt his hand on her shoulder, but it was nothing. She felt only numbness. It didn't give her the reassurance she needed so desperatley. Oh God, oh God, why can't it be Joe's hand? Then it was Joe's hand. She lay there and she felt his hand gently caress her shoulders and neck. She always liked him to do this. It softly soothed her trembling by rubbing her back lightly. She wanted him to go further, but this was enough for now. Soon she stopped crying. It was better now. There were voices coming from somewhere in the distance, but only the feel of Joe's hand was important now.

As she drifted off into sleep, horrible dreams took the place of Joe's hand. She awoke now and then, sometimes cold, sometimes hot. She was in bed and it was dark. The place beside her was empty. She felt for the familiar form, but it was not there. Why had Joe left? He knew that she needed him. Didn't he care about her any more? He hadn't found another girl, had he? No, Joe wouldn't do that. He knew how much she loved him. He loved her too. Remember that day at the train station. Remember the night before. The night had been perfect. Yes, he still loved her. But why had he gone? Where did he go? He shouldn't have left her like this. Oh well, he will be back soon. She would ask him then.

A Japanese Motif Formal On May 10

Once upon a time there was a little girl called Theta who liver in a big white house nestled in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains. Every Saturday night after supper Theta, like a good little girl, would climb the stairs to her parlor. There she met a crowd of happy girls who some times watched television, and sometimes baked cakes for auctions, and sometimes listened to Calypso records and watched Mary Ellen Lee dance.

One night as Theta went to her parlor as usual, she heard some very unusual news. She heard someone say, "May 10." Someone else said something about a patio of the Fine Art Center. Someoae whispered, "Tanabata Matsuri." She didn't understand anything, expect that everyone was going to a little white house to work on something very special.

She was all excited, and so curious that the next night after supper she stopped at the little white house to see what was happening. When she opened the door she saw many strange things, bright colored, all sizes, all shapes. It wasn't long before she was helping to create these foreign designs.

Theta loved working with her friends, and still kept her ears open to try to discover the meaning of the strange words she now heard often. She said them to herself, "Tanabatta Matsuri, Tanabata Matsuri."

It was a warm night and Theta was going to the little white house again. She noticed her friend Sig sitting on the steps of the house He looked as if he were counting the stars. "How many?" she asked. He just smiled, and let her pass by.

Theta was working with her best friend, and as they worked, they talked. Theta learned that the decorations were to be put up in the patio of the Fine Art Center, and that besides all the things that they were making, there was going to be an authentic Japenese gong. When Theta heard talk of Hi - Fi and evening dresses, she realized that she was working on the Spring Formal.

It was time to leave, and though Theta had learned much, she still wondered what "Tanabata Matsuri" meant. She closed the door, and nearly tripped over her star-gazing friend. Sig offered to walk her home, and as they walked he asked her if she knew much about the stars. She did know about the Big Dipper and about the Little Dipper, but he began to talk of something else, a Japanese Star Festival. He whispered in her ear, "Tanabata Matsuri," and now she understood. He took her hand, she began to dream of dancing at "Tanabata Matsuri."

Maryville College Graduates In Iran

Have you followed the work of our five representatives in Community School, Tehran, Iran, this year?

Bruce Ingles and Jim Laster want to start something like "Writer's Workshop," for they find some of their students amazingly eager and able. Bill Strickland was specially impressed with the Mission Hospital in Meshed near the border of Afghanistan where they all spent Christmas. Doug Brian is busy teaching and Joan Platt, well, just ask Armen about her!

They write, "I have already noticed more growth than any year at college and am sure it has been worth more than a year at seminary."

Bruce hopes to go to Edinburgh to study this summer and Jim hopes to go to Salzburg, Germany.

Mr. Irvine, principal of the school writes that he is expecting Lila Crane and Madlon Travis in September. They are expecting a sophomore class of 80 in September and need the following.

two elementary teachers, one high school math-science teacher
one high schol English teacher one teacher, all grades, instrumental music.
one treasurer-business manager, teaching class a day.

Mr. Irvine writes, "Please encourage all who are interested.' If you want to know more about "MARYVILLE COLLEGE IN IRAN" see Mr. Fisher any time!

This Week Stine Edits Echo

Miss Phyllis Stine, Freshman Sociology major from Butler, Pennsylvania is editing the Echo this week, as a candidate for the editorship of the paper for next year. Phyllis is a member of Chi Beta and Playhouse, and is vice house chairman of Baldwin Hall. She also teaches a third and fifth grade class at Chilhowee View school as part of the Parish program.

From a Vermont Development Commission advertisement of a local farm for sale: "If purchased before the next heavy windstorm a barn is included."

(The Reader's Digest)

Among the pupils in a high school chemistry class was a lad who had a tendency to monopolize discussions. The teacher decided that such a troublesome habit should be called to the attention of his parents. On his report card she wrote: "Allan is a good student but he talks too much." Several days later the report was returned. Underneath the comment the boy's father had added: "You should meet his mother."

(The Reader's Digest)

The hostess was making final arrangements for an elaborate reception. "Nora," she said to her veteran servant, "for the first half hour I want you to stand at the drawing-room door and call the guests' names as they arrive."

Nora's face lit up. "Thank you, ma'am," she replied. "I've been wanting to do that to some of your friends for the last 20 years."

(The Reader's Digest)

Mom Jones . . .

(Continued From Page 1)

"family."

Office

Mom can be found at any hour in her pleasant office in Carnegie. The office is more like a living room for even the filling cabinet has its plants and cat figurenes. Her flowers, carpet, rocking chairs and bookcase add to the homey atmosphere one finds when he stops in for a chat. When Mrs. Jones spends an evening out or visits off campus for a weekend, the frowns outside her office door are equal in number to the unclaimed letters on her floor.

Mon's Senior Year

Mom says that four years at Maryville have been really great. This by all calculations is her senior year; but when asked if she plans to graduate in May, she just stops rocking for a minute then smiles and says, "No, I'm gonna take a post grad course. I want to stay and try out Carnegie after its remodeled."

"C" RAY TIPTON

Jeweler

Columbia TRU-FIT

DIAMONDS

ELGIN PRODUCTS

Phone YU-3-2161

In McArthur's Maryville, Tenn.

Watch Repairing All Work Guaranteed

Piano Informalities

Week-Day Evenings

7:00 P.M.

With FREE PRIZES

W.G.A.P.

1400 On Your Dial

YOUR CONSERVATIVE BLUE SUIT FOR GRADUATION

Blue Suits to fit your every need—from wash 'n' wear to 'silky' dacron/worsteds. They're cool man, and expertly fitted by HALL'S Master Tailors!

Natural Model Conserevative Blues from 39.75

HALL'S GAY STREET

UNIVERSITY SHOP

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

Watch Repairs

Pen and Pencil Sets

The "Y" Store

Proudly Serves

MAYFIELD'S

and Milk

It's Wonderful!

MAYFIELD'S DAIRY Athens, Tenn.

WITH EASTER ON IT'S WAY,

Make Us Your 24 -- Hour Host

for

Good Things To Eat

Still The Best Cup of Coffee In Town—Only 5c

GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Congratulations

The Highland Echo

'Bye!

Z 703

Vol. 43 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 10, 1958 No. 15

I.R.C. To Sponsor Study Of Russian

In the past seven months many have realized that Russia is not behind the United States in scientific knowhow or education, among other things, as had been assumed by the majority of us. Consequently, the Russian language is becoming increasingly important, not only to those who wish to learn from Russian scientists and educators, but also to those who wish to take a place as a leader or influential citizen for peace in the world today.

The International Relations Club, in trying to foster understanding between ourselves and other nations, will sponsor a class in the Russian language, beginning next fall. The teacher will be Leon Gabrielian. The class will meet sessions of one-half hour to an hour two evening a week The only expense incurred will be the cost of a text. There will be no credit given, the only requirement for membership being an interest and a desire to learn.

Pi Kappa Delta Elects Officers

The Tennessee Alpha Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national Forensic Honor Fraternity, held its annual banquet at Chilhowee Inn April 28th.

This year's president, Eleonore Koster, turned the gavel over to the newly elected president, Keith Ham, during an installation of officers for '58-'59.

Other officers elected to serve for the one year term are: Ross McGill, vice president, Anna Keitt, secretary - treasurer and Dale Young, reporter.

Five new members were formally initiated into Pi Kappa Delta immediately following the banquet. New members are Anna Keitt, Ross McGill, Dale Young Dan Ellis and Howard McCuen.

The Maryville Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta is composed of Maryville College faculty and students who are active in inter-collegiate speech activities, sponsored by Maryville College.

Dean J. Robert Nelson To Lead Vespers Sunday

Dean J. Robert Nelson, of the Divinity School of Vanderbilt University, will be the speaker at the Vesper Service to be held in Wilson Chapel on May 11 at 7:00 p.m. His sermon is entitled "The Prodical Son Who Did Not Return." Mr. Nelson, a Methodist, was formerly a senior secretary on the staff of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland.

YMCA Plans Varied Program

Body, mind, and soul make up the three sides of the equalateral triangle which is the emblem of the Young Men's Christian Association. Working with the theme "A Wel Balanced Life," which has been set up jointly by the YM and YWCA of Maryville College, YM will seek to serve students through a varied program of activities during the 1958-59 school year.

Coming Events

During the Y Retreat at Laurel Lake two weeks ago, a calendar of coming events was drawn up by the new Y cabinet. These events include a Y weekend to be held early in the semester. The watermelon pow-wow will be held Saturday evening and a joint YM and YW meeting for all students will take place on Sunday afternoon. Outstanding Y leaders will be on campus to get the program under way.

Two Y hikes are planned for next year. One will be held during the Fall semester and another in the Spring. President Joe Tropansky says, "We hope to vary our Sunday programs with topics of vital importance to Christian students, instead of holding a type of afternoon Sunday School."

New Ideas

A new cabinet system, suggested at the retreat by Clem Birkelbach, this year's Y president, has been put into effect. Serving on the cabinet will be the four officers and four representatives from the associate cabinet.

Student advisors in Carnegie Hall will be on hand to help with problems of campus adjustment and Y office hours will be set up in Bartlett Hall for fellows who need advice or who "just want to talk." The Y lounge, too, will be open for bull sessions or relaxing.

YMCA Offices

Those serving as officers for the association are president, Joe Tropansky, sociology major from Germantown, Maryland; secretary, Ron Hoefer, sociology major from Wilmington, Delaware; treasurer, Lyle Talbot, Christian Education major from Elba, New York.

The four area representatives serving on the cabinet are Harold Battle, Ed Smith, Walt Goss, and Rob Gwaltney. Members of the associate cabinet are Harold Mays, Ron Lind, Graham Bardsley, Bob Freidank, Leon Bird, Paul Burgmueller, Bob Wyman, Tom Dolch, Dave Ross, Bill Green, Jim Gulbertson, Dick Mayer, Curt Burger, and Paul Conklin.

Little Brothers

Currently Y little brothers are being assinged for next year, and anyone interested in the program is urged to contact a Y cabinet member immediately.

COMMENCEMENT 1958

Friday, May 16
8:30 p.m. Commencement Play "Twelfth Night"
Saturday, May 17
8:00 a.m. Senior Class Chapel Service
5:00 p.m. Alumni Association Meeting
6:30 p.m. Annual Alumni Dinner
Sunday, May 18
10:30 a.m. Baccalaureate Service
4:00 p.m. Senior Music Hour
7:00 p.m. Commencement Vespers
Monday, May 19
8:00 a.m. Chapel Service—Distribution of Prizes
8:30 p.m. Commencement Play—"Twelfth Night"
Tuesday, May 20
8:00 a.m. Chapel Service—Music Program
3:00-5:00 p.m. Reception for Alumni, Seniors, Parents of Students, Faculty, and other guests by President and Mrs. Lloyd at Morningside
8:30 p.m. Commencement Play—"Twelfth Night"
Wednesday, May 21
10:30 a.m. Graduation Exercises

Public Relations Helped By Skits, Visits

A "grass roots, get-out-the-local-vote" public realtions program was launched this year with support from the debate team members, with the idea of encouraging high school seniors in the immediate Maryville area to attend the College.

A number of engagements were booked, mostly for assembly programs in the high schools, occasionally for a senior or a junior-senior assemblage.

A lively, semi-humerous skit entitled "So This Is College" was written by Miss Eleanore Koster and Robert Goodlin of the debate team and produced at these programs. At least one high school which was visited by the "troupe" acclaimed it as the best program they ever had. The College director of public relations, James W. Hampton, booked the engagements and introduced the speakers. Eleanore and Bob handled the assignments at several high schools and were aided by Corita Erwin and Dale Young toward the end of the season.

The program at Friendsville High School was done by Miss Ann Wiley and John West, two seniors, when the debators had to be out of town.

Schools which were visited are Everett, Alcoa, Porter, Friendsville, Maryville, Lenior City, Madisonville, Townsend, and Lanier. Miss June Kenney, another senior helped represent Maryville College at a College Day program at Clinton High School in April.

Several applications which may be attributed to these visits have already been noted. Weekend visits to the Maryville College campus by high school seniors from these and other schools have been scheduled this spring. This is a practice which was begun last year with considerable success.

A Note of Appreciation

The faculty is the most important part of any college, more important then new buildings fine organs or modern equipment. It is the faculty who challenge us to new ideas, who support us in our plans and young hopes.

We are grateful to the members of our faculty who, though they have many demands placed upon them and though their salaries are low, continue to teach to be genuinely interested in us and to unselfishly serve Maryville.

Long after specific facts are forgotten, the values and ideals of many of our teachers will influence us and make our lives richer.

So as we, the seniors, begin to wave good-by; we pause to say to you, the faculty, a simple 'Thank You."

—Janie Wall

Foreign Student Clarifies Ideas Of Another

In the previous issue of the Echo a fellow foreign student made a few remarks which seen to need some clarifying. It was stated that three factors, namely; 1, the various social religious, and political effects, 2, the consciousness of our own glorious past history and, 3, the great distance separating the continents, influence some foreign and especially Asian students in the U.S.A. in the formation of their opinions of what life in America is like. This is an understatement since all of the foreign students are influenced by the said factors but the effects are far from the ones stated in his remarks. The fellow student goes on to say that foreigners "often think of America as a land of 'Yankee Culture' and of Americans as a bunch of mixed-up people." This is far from the truth. On the contrary in all other countries the U.S. is rightly regarded as the most advanced nation ,not only in the realm of technology but also in the field of culture. The expression "Yankee Culture" seems quite meaningless. Speaking of past history, heritage and rich customs of nations, this is something of which to be proud America, although a very young nation, has in a matter of a few centuries accumulated a very rich heritage well recognized not only in America, but also abroad. The names of Washington and Lincoln are everywhere symbols of freedom and democracy; Mark Twain is read as widely, if not more that, Shakespeare, and any schoolboy knows about Edison. Foreigners the way that it was indicated, do not look down on American culture as a young one but, on the contrary, try to benefit from it. Today all of the free nations of the world look up to the U.S. as the torchbearer of civilization and the leader of democracy. They rejoiced over the launching of the Explorer more than Americans, themselves, did.

In conclusion the fellow foreign student says, "One fact seems quite obvious; as long as we are in this country, we must try to adjust outselves to the situation and environment, and not stand in corners with sarcastic expressions on our faces." Does he, perhaps, look into a mirror, or did he over-generalize a few miscon cepted details?

Thetas And Sigs Sponsor Formal Tonight At 8

Tonight at 8:00, after weeks of hectic preparation by Theta and Alpha Sigma members, the heavy veil of secret will be lifted and Maryville College couples will find themseves in a Japanese fairyland. This year's Spring Formal has as its theme "Tanabata Matsuri;" translated, "The Star Festival."

The dance will be held in the ampitheater at the Fine Arts Center if the weatherman co-operates and keeps the ground dry. In case of rain, the disappointed society members will be forecd to remove the exotic decorations from the attacks of the elements to the more protected gymnasium. But whether there is rain or not, Maryville College couples are looking forward to the gayest evening of the semester at this last important college activity before the onset of final examinations.

In Explanation

Due to negligence, the names of all the Seniors and their future plans were not handed in. It was thought best to omit this entirely, rather than print those which were turned in.

Kappa Phi, Betas Elect Officers

The newly elected Chi Beta officers are Barb Coates, president; Francis Matthews, vice president Gretchen Ide, secretary; Cindy Aber, treasurer; Susie Fagan and Judy Springstead, program chairmen. The election was held on May 6.

The following were elected officers of Kappa Phi for next semester at the election hled on April 29: president, Tom Dolch; vicepresident, Ed Smith; secretary, Ross McGill; treasurer, Jim Culbertson; program chairman, Bill Green; and athletic chairman, George Poland.

Alumni Dinner To Be Held May 17

The annual Alumni Dinner will be held in Pearsons Hall on Saturday, May 17, at 7 p.m. Donald W. Briggs, '33, of Freeport, New York, the president o fthe Maryville College Alumni Association, wil preside. Four of the seven living members of the Class of 1908 the fifty-year Class, will be present, and will be awarded fifty year certificates.

In the afternoon, there will be an Officers' Reception on the campus near Thaw Hall at 3 p.m. The annual meeting of the Alumni Association will be held in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center at five o'clock.

'58-59 Artist Series Is Announced

The attractions of the 1958-59 Maryville College-Community Artist Series have recently been announced. "Candide," a musical Broadway comedy will be presented on October 17. Marjorie Lawrence, sprano, and Nelson and Neal, duo pianists, will be presented on March 31. The program of April 13 will be Bernard Peiffer, a jazz trio.

"Candide" is based on Voltaire's satire. It is headlined by Martin Green, a comic patter singer, Robert Roundsville, tenor, and Irra Petina mezzo soprano. The cast will include twenty performers with orchestral accompaniment.

The life story of Miss Lawerence was filmed as a musical known as "Interrupted Melody." The French jazz pianist Bernard Peiffer is known for his performance at the Newport Jazz Festival. His program will include some classical selections as will as numbers from his jazz repetoire.

Daisy Chain For 1958 Announced By Veep

The daisy chain for the 1958 commencement has been announced by the vice president of the Junior class, David Ross. The girls who carry the daisy chain in the commencement procession, are chosen for their attitude and service to the school. Those chosen are: Joann Antes, Betty Boone, Gray Clarke, Barbara Coates, Barbara Davis, Ruth Dean, Arlene Jones Frances Matthews, Barbara Mueller, Patsy Parks, Louise Pratt, Georgene Rohlander, Suzanne Tourtellotte, and Ruth Wagner.

Antes

Joann Antes is a Elementary Education major from Miami, Florida. She is a member of Theta, was the secretary-treasurer of her Sophomore class, belongs to Student Council, was a Nu Gamma leader, and has written Barnwarming and other scripts.

Boone

Betty June Boone is an English major from Maryville, Tennessee. She is a member of Chi Beta, SNEA, French Club, and has served as the secretary-treasurer of the Junior Class, and the president of Pi Gamma.

Clarke

Gray Clarke is a Home Economics major who comes from Washington, D.C. She is a member of Theta, and has serves as vice president, was a cheerleader, a Nu Gamma leader, is a member of Student Council, serving her Sophomre and Junior years as the chairman of the social board, and was a member of the Student-Faculty Senate. She is also the newly-elected vice president of the Student Council.

Coates

Barbara Coates is from Wilmette, Illinois, and is a Christian Education major. She belongs to Chi Beta, Women's Choir, Christian Education Club, has sung in the Messiah, is a member of the YWCA, and Parish.

Davis

A sociology major from Independence, Missouri is Barbara Davis. She is a member of Christian Education Club, Chi Beta, WSGA Council, Faith Cooperative Parish, and is the newly elected president of YWCA.

Dean

Alice Ruth Dean, who is from Wetumpka, Alabama, is a French major She is a Theta member, and belongs to French Club, and Writer's Workshop. She has served this year as editor of the Chilhowean.

Jones

Arlene Jones is a Christian Education major from Lowcille, New York. She is a member of Women's Choir, Christian Education Club, and Chi Beta.

Matthews

Frances Matthews is a Sociology major from Atlanta, Georgia. Frances is a member of Chi Beta.

Continued On Page 4)

Ground Breaking For New Dorm May Be May 17

The Finance Committee of the Board of Directors of Maryville College voted on May 6 to award the contract for the new women's dormitory to the contracting firm of Daughtery and Waters of Knoxville for their bid of $362,989. This was the lowest of the seven bids submitted.

Tenative plans are being made to break ground on Alumni Day, May 17. Further details concerning this will be released at a later date. The contract calls for completion of the dormitory in 270 days. It is hoped that it will be ready for occupancy by the second semester of next year.

The building is to be located on the high ground at the head of the golf course. The four story structure will house ninty six girls. The basement will be devoted largely to recreation rooms. The first floor will contain the main lobby, offices, the house mother's apartment, and guest apartemnts. The second and third floors will consist of forty eight double rooms for women students.

YWCA Plans Much For Future

Enthusiasm reigns high among the new YWCA cabinet members and Nu Gamma leaders for the coming school year's program. It was decided at the Y retreat held the weekend of April 26 and 27 at Laurel Lake that all Nu Gamma leaders and cabinet members will arrive on the campus early next to welcome new students to Maryville.

Y Week End

This first big event of the '58-'59 school year will be the Y weekend. Saturday evening's Big-Little Sister Party will get the ball rolling, and on Sunday both YM and YWCA will meet together for an introduction to the various Y programs.

Y Hike

October 11 has been set as the date for the Y hike. Mont Vale is the spot for the over night hike, and junior or senior girls will vouch for the fact that his should be lots of fun.

Barnwarming

Thanksgiving Day in November brings with it the annual Barnwarming Show. As in years past Barnwarming will be held in the Alumni Gym with proceeds being given to a worthy charity.

Working with the theme, "The Well Balanced Life," which was set up jointly by the YWCA and the YMCA, these exciting activities along with the Sunday Y programs which are being planned for next year, should make YWCA an even more vital part of the Christian program for students at Maryville College.

YWCA Officers

Those serving as officers in YW for next year are president, Barbara Davis, sociology major from Kansas City, Missouri; vice president, Georgene Rohlander, elementary education major from High Crest Lake, New Jersey; secretary, Joan Menk, edcuation major from Fairview, New Jersey; and treasurer, Barbara Mueller, art major from Summet, New Jersey.

The Nu Gamma leaders are Susie Fagan, Mary Darling, Eugenia Miller, Mary Monson, Zaida Brown, Perry Rieder, Cindy Aber, Linda Dobson, Carol Black, Margaret Kelso, Carolyn Groover, Gretchen Ide, Margaret Stevenson, Sally Pupp, Judith Springstead, and Helen Trumbell.

The first Y meeting will be Sunday, September 14.

Comedy, Color Featured At The Swim Show

The sychronized swimming class directed by Mrs. Largen, gave a water show May 9th at 8:00 o'clock p.m. in the college pool This is the first time a co-education al swimming class has been taught at Maryville College and as a result, we had Maryville's first real water show.

There are nineteen students in the class, who gave you an evening of entertainment. Twelve numbers were prepared for the SPACE KALEIDOSCOPE show, using various records as well as a script written especially for the show. Comedy and serious aspects were portrayed by the swimmers, showing orininality, preparation, intriguing costumes, to create a delightful atmosphere. Practically any color of the rainbow was represented, in one way or another, with dimensional accent. The intellient scientists however, will be able to give you all the details!

Faith Cooperative Parish Workers Enjoy Hearing Old Harp Singers

On Sunday, April 27, the blue truck marked Faith Cooperative Parish left the campus as usual at 9 a.m. The seven parish workers inside the truck were headed as usual for East Mountain View Presbyterian Church, but this Sunday was to be different. They were headed for an Old Harp Sing.

Upon arrival at the church the gang went inside to find a blazing fire in the iron stove was adding to the warmth of the spring morning. After opening the windows the fellows sat down and sang a few familiar hymns while waiting for the worshippers to arrival.

Soon some of the regular attend came and one man thought it would be a good idea to sing from new book until the Harp singers should arrive. (The "new" books were 1938 editors of the Cohesburg Worship Hymnal)

Not more than 15 minutes had passed when a yellow Knox County School bus was seen — and heard — driving up the narrow country road outside. The Harp singers had come.

Within minutes the building was filled with jolly mountain folk. Some of the women were dressed in home made ankle length dresses and were wearing store bought, Sunday go to meetin' hats. The men had on striped shirts and colorful ties.

A leader took platform and assigned sections of the room for the various parts. Melody, alto, tenor, and bass. Then the song books were produced. The leader said "We've got an hour to sing in before lunch. So everybody sing hard. Let's hear a chord"! By looking over the shoulders of the singers the parishers could see that the Old Harp song books used a system of shaped notes and it appeared difficult to match words and music for the former appeared at the bottom of the page. A chord was sounded and the song was sung, first by syllables, and then using the words.

Brother Ledford lead the group in prayer, and then more singing took place. Each leader led two "lessons" or songs and everyone did sing 'hard' Intoning the notes through the nose. The strange model scale used produced music not unlike Gregorian Chant.

People continued to arrive and at the suggestion that we "set real close like we love one another"

(Continued on Page 3)

Summer Meetings To Be Held Here

Maryville College will be the scene of several summer meetings and conferences. The Presbyterian Leadership School of the South will meet on the campus June 8 to 14. This school is conducted by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Synods which will participate are Atlantic, Blue Ridge, Catawba, Florida, Kentucky, Mid South, and West Virginia. The faculty for the leadership school will meet on the campus June 1 to 8.

June 17 to 20 are the dates of the meeting of the Synods of Mid South and Blue Ridge. These two synods will unite to form the Synod of the Mid-South at this meeting

A Westminister Fellowship Conference will meet on the campus June 22 to 28. The group will be from the East Tennessee area.

Advertisement in New York paper: "Young man who gets paid on Monday and is broke by Wednesday would like to exchange small loans with a young man who gets paid on Wednesday and is broke by Monday."

(The Reader's Digest)

The Highland Echo

Vol. 42 No. 15

SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1958

Published weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College

The Maryville Enterprise ..... Printers

Entered as a second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee, under the Act of Congress

EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—Betty Anne Springstead
MANAGING EDITOR—Carol Morgan

REPORTERS

Carl Boyer, Virginia Hine, Lottie Jerkins, Marilyn Lundy, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Kris Ramsey, George Roselli, Phyllis Stine

Business Staff

BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Bill Sams
ASSISTANT MANAGER ..... Sandra Jarrett
Staff Assistants—Todd Jablonski, Mary James, Dick Heischman, George Preston, Barbara Williams, Linwood Snider
Subscription Rates: $.75 a semester, $1.50 a year

Last Words

We very often wish desperately to take advantage of a privilege when we realize that it is soon to be taken from us. This applies to editors as well as to other species of humans. So, without overstaying our leave we will say our say, and quietly leave.

For next year. . . We hear so much about wishing to improve campus-town student relationships, it seems to us we ought to try to do the obvious things which appear from week to week. It was brought to our attention that often tickets or other important things on sale before and after meals in Pearsons. This is most inconvenient for town students, and it might be well if a table could be set up after chapel in the colonade for the benefit of those students who do not eat in the dining hall.

For this year. . . Well, there isn't time to comment upon the international situation, or to rebel against the rules any longer. Somehow those things aren't so pressing as they once were. Despite all, the Echo has managed to come out and has attempted to fulfill its purpose. The editor for next year is capable and reliable, and there are staff members who will do everything possible to help her, as there are those whose name will appear in the credit box, but who will not have earned any credit. They will try, with recommendations from the outgoing editor, to make the paper better, and with your help they will succeed.

To leave the editorial we behind for just a moment, which privilege I have desired for many weeks, I want to say "Thanks." Thanks to the staff for the help, and the understanding and the acceptance of what I was trying to do. They may tell that I've dreamed big dreams, most of which could not come true, but some of which may in this next year. I believe sincerely that the student newspaper is one of the most important vehicles of student opinion on campus, and despite advise to the contrary, despite ridicule and fault finding, I believe that no school should allow the paper to fold, and acted according to that belief. It would not have been possible without cooperation, and again I say thanks.

Good luck to the newly elected officers, here's hoping the dorm does get built, congratulations to Mom Jones, who graduates this year, have a wonderful summer, and now I must join my departing class. Guess I'll find a sunset to walk off into.

Socially Speaking

ENGAGEMENTS

Wilkie-Tedford

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilkie of Skyland, North Carolina, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jeanne to Sidney Tedford, son of Mr. and Mrs Albert Tedford of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Miss Wilkie is doing graduate work in English at the University of Tennessee, and Mr. Tedford is a graduate assistant in the music department of the Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. The wedding will take place in September in Arden, North Carolina.

parents of Zella Burgreen, have

The Reverend and Mrs. Burgreen, been visiting their daughter this week. They are from Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. John Williams was visiting Miss Sally Lumley this last week end. John is from Spring City, Tennessee.

Eloise Jordan visited campus this week.

Judy Ross, who is attending McCormick Seminary, was on campus last weekend.

Several familiar faces were seen at the Vesper Choir's performance of King David, among them Mr. and Mrs. James McCall.

Twin sisters of two our students were weekend visitors Martha Murphey was visiting her sister, Mary, and Natalie Wells was visiting her sister, Katrina.

Mary Lew of Miami, Florida visited her friend Maryanne Braidwood on campus last week. While here Mary attended the "Y" Retreat and May Day.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Phone YU 3-4702
Royal Distributors

Piano Informalities
Week-Day Evenings
7:00 P.M.
With FREE PRIZES
W.G.A.P.
1400 On Your Dial

Bell & Powell Jewelers
Wish to Thank The Students For Their Patronage During This Term,
And To Wish To Them A
Happy Summer
Thanks,
BELL & POWELL JEWELERS
112 E. Broadway

Fashions

For The Men

There's cultivating, and there's cultivating.

You can cultivate an acquaintance, or a garden, or a job. The result is the same in any case — something flourishes.

Jobs must be cultivated in order for you to flourish. However, as any personnel manager will tell you, what you plant and how you plant it is the first and most important step.

The first thing which a personnel manager sees is your appearance. This initial impression is an all-important one. You are in an intensely competitive world, which the news scribes aptly refer to as the business jungle. A successful impression in one exacting job — the result of careful planning.

Neatness is a big factor in a business interview. Surveys show that most prospective employers react favorably to a man dressed in a clean, dark-color suit, shined shoes, and a crisp white shirt. Socks should be dark, and your tie should complement your suit. The key to correct business attire is conservative dress. Sports clothes look wonderful on campus, novelty ties strike home on party occasions; but in business, the clothes horse extrovert is miscast.

When dressing for your interview, pick a suit of conservative cut, subtle color and discreet pattern. The new light-weight suits of miracle fiber blends will stand up well during the warm days, and will look well after several interviews. A clean white handerchief in the breast pocket is a mark of maturity.

Your shirt, as we mentioned, should be white. You can't go wrong with a button-down collar and regular cuffs. Equally acceptable is the permanent-stay medium-spread collar with business like French cuffs. Although many style columns are featuring the short-sleeve dress shirts, don't be a pace setting hero. After you land the job, you can take your cue from your fellow employees.

Make your tie complement your suit. There are personnel managers who judge a man by his taste in ties. Keep this in mind when picking one out for a day of interviews.

Forget the white or patterned socks. Your ribbed socks are right, and they should harmonize with your garb. As for shoes, leave the moccasins in the closet and wear plain-toe or wing-tip shoes — with a good shine.

In other words, present a neat, tasteful and conservative appearance.

Winning a job is no snap today. A letter of introduction may get you past the front door; a college education may win you an interview, but you are on your own once you have passed that threshold to the personnel manager's office. The newspapers and magazines have emphasized that jobs are tight: however, be assured that there are plenty of jobs to be filled, even though the competition is stiff.

Winning the job is only the beginning. Anyone starting a new job is under close scrutiny. The work must be done efficiently and well, you must continue to dress properly. When a job is filled, the winner then becomes part of a company. As part of that company, he is an ambassador and representative both during and after business hours.

In order to succeed in your first interview, remember these points.

1. Dress neatly.

2. Have your resume, a short experience-biography, neatly typed and firmly in hand.

3. Have a good working knowledge of the business of your prospective employer.

4. Be on time for your appointment.

After the interview, write a note to the employer, thanking him for his time and saying that you will consider it a privilege to work for his company (sticky but effective) and indicating where you can be contacted.

We, as college students and graduates, have an advantage. However, competition is stiff and jobs are tight this year. Your prospective employer wants to know what you have that will benefit him. He wants to know your qualifications, and is less concerned with what you want. If you have the qualifications, believe me, you will be made more than welcome and your desires will be answered — by his choice of you for the job.

Good hunting, and good luck!

To Seniors

Good by
Dear heros
The time has come for us to part
Good by
Dear beauties
We wish to all of you the best
Joy of meetin
Sadness of parting
That's the life
For which we now strive
Full of thought
Full of heart
But we simply say
Good by

—LSC

POET'S CORNER

EXTEMPORE

I am not bitter
(call me not bitter)
I have not lost my illusions,
(for I never had any)

I am numb and only waiting.

What is life?
Do you really want ot know?
And do you think that I can tell you?
You must tell yourself.

Life is
A boiling steaming cancer
Fermenting its way through existence,
With nausea at its incept
And an end in screaming death.
(So some would say.)

Life is
Pretty girls in fluffy summer dresses
Swaying in the wind like pastel flowers,
Sweet and pretty. . .
Upright manly boys
In snowy cotton shirts,
Walking with the pretty girls. . .
Dulled with youth and happiness.
(Would you say so?)

I sing a song of beginnings,
I sing a song of endings,
But who will sing the middle of the song?

Life is
A forest creek,
Pushing its way blindly
Through the trees,
Seeking nothing but a final union
with the endless ocean,
And caring not what path it takes to get there.

But what of him
Who stands on the edge,
And fearfully dips his toe,
And draws it back again because the water's cold?
(Yes, what of him?)

Life
Within me
Like a mighty ocean
Batters at the shore of consciousness,
But never strong enough
To overflow the granite seawall.

Life has passed me by,
And I am old
And I was never young,
And I am numb and only waiting.

—V.E.H.

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET
OLDSMOBILE

Scots & Soda

By Icnan Regees

Jilted? Sad. This presents a problem on such a campus as ours, where you see your lost lover at every meal and at every social function, usually with another date, while the only people left for you to date are his or her very best friends. Naturally, when your heart is broken and your pride is hurt, you want to get your lover back—if only to be able to jilt him or her yourself to get even.

Here are four basic lines of action for one to resort to at a time like this, and the rules for their execution are listed beneath.

1. The Heartbroken-Rejected-Lover-Attitude: The least subtle of the four patterns, but sometimes effective when working upon the feelings of pity of your tender-hearted lost one. The steps in this campaign include:

Girls: Using dark eyeshadow, shade in some dark circles under your eyes, always being careful that such marks are flattering, making you look wide-eyed and miserable. Dust face heavily with flour-like powder for that pale-young-lover's look. Then choose your most drab but not unflattering dress, pull the belt in two notches too tight for that lost-appetite-look, and keep your eyes constantly downcast and moist. A black band on your arm is perhaps too obvious in many cases, so a more subtle way of achieving this effect is to carry a box of Kleenex with you constantly.

Boys: wear her favorite shirt whenever you will see her, and haunt har usual hangouts. Practice in front of the mirror to get a properly accusing hurt look to use whenever she glances your way. Stare at her constantly. This unnerves her, if nothing else.

As your lover shows signs of weakening, proceed to the steps listed under group 4.

Since your friends are potential dates for your lost one, make it plain that you still adrore said lost one and haven't given up yet. Show your constant misery and feeble hope for a reconcilliation.

Be disgustingly available. Nothing scares away other possible dates from your lover than a lovesick jilted one mooning constantly in the background. Also, this way you never will be forgotten.

2. The Don't-Even-Remember-You-Attitude: This revengeful attitude often regains many a lost one mainly by working on the hurt pride of the other. No one is flattered by being completely ignored.

Remember to act as if you never felt better. Have new clothes with bright colors, and keep a happy saccharine smile. Keep the exterior attitude that life goes on without what's-his-name.

In front of your friends be gay, talkative (preferably about your many dates— in a loud enough voice for your ex to hear) and obviously available to all others.

Perhaps the most important step in this type of campaign is your location. Be constantly in the middle of groups of the opposite sex whenever your ex-lover is near. Be very nice to his or her friends, but remember to ignore him or her and never let your eyes meet when passing each other.

Haunt all the old hangouts of the dating days gone by, but sit at a different table at the library or student center, and come at a later time. It is important that the one who jilted you is present to be ignored. If he is never there to notice your casual exterior, switch to method 3.

3. The Let's-Still-Be-Friends-Attitude: This on the exterior, is the most noble of all the patterns, and is essentially an outgrowth of number 2. It fools everyone and gives you an excuse for contact with your lost one. Your attitude is always one of a father or mother. Be interested in the welfare of the "little child." Your ex, naturally becoming annoyed at such a patronizing attitude, would rather resume status quo than have such a humiliating state of affairs.

4. The Subtle-Never-Say-Die-Campaigner-Attitude: Very similar to number one, though not as obvious. This method is perhaps the most fascinating to observe in action. By a series of applications of positive and negative psychology you can have him or her eating out of your hand.

Such a method requires first an analysis of your ex-lover's personality. Determine for yourself whether he or she is the type for positive action or only a more polished variation of method number 2.

The basis for this entire method is its subtle quality. Haunt all your old hangouts, but the minute your lover enters the room, you exit. After several days of this, your actions are sure to be noticed. Whenever you are standing in groups near to him or her (and do this as often as possible), have your back obviously to her. Again, never let your eyes meet.

Having dates with others is very important in order to work up a latent jealousy. Be careful, however, to never be seen with the same date too often, for on a campus such as this your lover may feel that you have paired off permanently and that all hope is lost. Should this happen, your ex-lover may also pair off before you can correct the error.

Should your campaign seem to be too subtle, keep a little spark of curiosity agitated by now and then catching your ex's eye, or let your ex catch you staring at him Or her.

If all else fails, and your loved one is gone forever, try seeking happiness elsewhere. There are so may fascinating amusements in the world to help one forget—knitting, television, studies, and love songs, food, and other members of the opposite sex.

Look Your Best At The "Formal"

You Can Buy A "First Nighter" White Coat At PROFFITT'S For $27.50

You Can Rent A Complete Formal For $8.50
If Ordered by Thursday Night
PROFFITT'S—Men's Dept.

RIM SHOTS

By Lottie Jerkins

Calling all ducks and other water-sports fans. Paradise is within reach. Have you ever dreamed of having a lake always in reach-as close as your window? Then Maryville College is the place for you. The slogan might be "Come on in, the Water's Fine." Bring your portable canoe. They have a perfect spot for it. The White Line down the middle keeps you in the right lane and ducking under the net can be quite exciting many new games such as "Hop Around the Puddle" and "Shake the Branches on Your Roomate" bring new excitment.

One group on campus you may be especially interested in joining. They are the aquatic Women's M-Club. I know you would enjoy being a member. For an example. Of their fun listen to what they did on their weekend at Mrs. Largen's cabin on Loudon Lake. Of course there was swimming for the more hardy souls and for the lovers of ease there was floating on the rafts. Jane Byrne, the out going president devised a wonderful way of getting on the rafts. She explained it to Carolyn Thomas, the new president, in this way. Hold the raft in front and slightly higher than the heap. Close both eyes, count to three and jump straight out over the water. If you land on the raft. It works beautifully. Carolyn will have the task of leading the other new officers in this and other activities for next year. These officers are Donna Sarver, vice president; Peggy Reid, secretary; Sylvia Fugate, treasurer; with Charlene Weed and Susie Fagan program chairmen. Publicity will be the job of Ruth Terhune. Speaking of secretaries, the Viking Warships had nothin on Peggy Reid. With Lottie Jerkins at the wheel, Peggy made a beautiful figure head pearched on the front of the speed boat. That looked daring until we saw a collie dog doing the same thing on a neighboring boat. By the way if you like to go looking for old Southern Mansions, Miss Heron can show you a real beauty. If you need a way to identify this group, look for garnet cars with "MC" on the front or some of the lucky few will have won the special awards in the form of sweaters. The three winners this year were Donna Sarver, Carolyn Thomas, and Lottie Jerkins. Many of the other girls won their letters through the W.A.A. Program which of course is the organization through which all awards are earned.

W.A.A. is over for this year but it will be sponsoring many fine water sports next year.

U P, USA Churches To Merge In Pa.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will officially unite with the United Presbyterian Church of North America to form the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America on May 28 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The two general assemblies will meet separately on May 27 and on the morning of May 28, twenty eight commissioners of the two general will meet on Fifth Avenue and go together into the Syria Mosque where the union services will be held.

The vote on the union was taken in both churches during 1956 and 1957. During the past year a committee of twenty representatives from each of the churches has been working on the details of the merger. Many of these details will be discussed and voted on at this assembly on May 28.

The Presbyterian Church U.S.A. is the oldest Presbyterian body. This assembly will be its one hundred seventieth General Assembly. The United Presbyterian Church will be holding its one hundredth General Assembly. During the five days before the merger this church will celebrate its one hundredth anniversary.

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. wil have 3,000,0000 members, 9,200 churches in every state of the United States, Alaska, and Puerto Rico, 1,400 overseas missionaries and fraternal workers serving through the church in thirty nine countries. This church will be the largest of one hundred Presbyterian and Reformed church bodies in forty five different countries.

Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College, has been chairman of the joint committee which has been working on the merger of these two Presbyterian bodies.

Synods To Merge At MC In June

The Synod of the Mid-South of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will merger with the Synod of Blue Ridge at a meeting on the campus of Maryville College on June 17 to 19. The merger was approved by the Synod of the Mid South in June, 1956 and by the Synod of Blue Ridge in the Fall of 1957.

The Synod of the Mid-South is composed of nine presbyteries in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and western North Carolina. In general these churches are composed of white members.

Three presbyteries comprise the Synod of Blue Ridge which covers approximately the same area. These churches are made up of Negro members. The merger of these two synods is part of the intergration process in the South.

In some parts of the same area there is a presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church called the Presbytery of Tennessee. It is a part of a synod most of which is in Ohio. This presbytery is composed of the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian Churches in May, this presbytery will also become a part of the newly formed Synod of the Mid-South.

Parish Workers . .

(Continued from page one)

he wooden benches were crowded until they creaked and groaned in protest.

A hit of humor was added when one old man who was apparently dead entered the church. He looked around for a seat and being unable to find one, stood by the door. Then the leader saw him and said "Here's Brother Ben Franklin, come on up front and set on this here piano bench." "Nope," replied brother Franklin, "I can't ever play that fool thing."

The singing continued and soon even the un-versed parish workers joined in. To their relief the group sang a song to the tune of "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and by intoning the notes through them noses even the formal Presbyterian College students were able to sing.

Lunch time came at 12 noon and everyone ambled outside and stood around in little groups. Eventually the men carried out some of the benches, while food was taken from the bus by the women. A scumptious country lunch including everything from fried chicken to lemon pie was sreved and although the parish gang had to leave the "sing" continued until evening.

Old Harp Singing is well known among the Tennessee Hills. It gets its name from the Harp of Columbia hymn book which was published in 1367. It is said that the system of singing used grew up in England some 150 years ago. The group who sung at East Mt. View Church arrangement in Sweetwater formed under the direction of Brothers Hilton and Adams around 1850 and has continued ever since. Harp singing is a fading part of our American culture and is well worth hearing. As one of the boys riding back to the college put it "they really did sing hard", and if its true that preachers get chicken every Sunday, and if all East Tennessee Chicken tastes like that chick-harp singer and just stay right here after I graduate."

Class Of 1958 We Wish You Success

At LYNCH'S

BIRTHDAY CAKES
A specialty and
first rate
We Deliver
Phone 1303

Hey! Guys & Gals —
Let's Have A Picnic
And You Can Get Eveything From The J&K Super Store!

CHEESE, a wonderful assortment,
COOKIES: just the kind you want
CRACKERS: plain or buttered, delicious
SANDWICH MEATS: All kinds——
COLD DRINKS: all flavors large or small
PAPER PRODUCTS: Plates, Napkins, Cups
POTATO CHIPS: Lay's fresh crisp—
FRUITS: Apples, Oranges, Bananas
Or anything else that you can think of for the most wonderful picnic.

The J&K SUPER STORE

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
--Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

NOW OPEN
Fort Craig COFFEE SHOP

We Will Be Looking For You.
South Washington
YU 2-1631

Thank You MC

For Your Patronage And Friendship
Remember! THE CAPRI—
"Home of The 'Capri Burger"
And First With The 'Pizza'

P.S.—We wish you all a nice summer and will be looking For You Again Next Fall.

Gene and Teresa

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

FOR BOYS & GIRLS, MEN & WOMEN WITH ACNE!

DO YOU HAVE A "PROBLEM" SKIN?

Would You Like A Smoother, Clearer, Healthier, Blemish-Free Complexion?

"CAMPUS" Kit consists of 6 different EFFECTIVELY-MEDICATED component parts: Face Soap, Blemish Cream, Facial Pack, "Cover-all" Blemish Stick, Face Lotion and Vitamin A—25,000 USP Units: the most complete and THOROUGHLY - EFFECTIVE complexion-care EVER created!

The all-NEW, amazing CAMPUS Facial-Treatment Kit offers IMMEDIATE relief from the discomfort and embarrassment of unsightly acne, pimples, blemishes, discolorations and other skin disorders! What's more, we'll PROVE that "CAMPUS" will help clear up that "PROBLEM" skin—or show DEFINITE IMPROVEMENT within 30 days—or YOUR MONEY BACK! Fair enough?

Simple to use—just a few minutes a day—will give you amazing results you probably thought impossible! A clearer, cleaner, healthier, smoother glowing complexion. . . and with such a wonderful new feeling of perfect grooming. Over a month's supply, postage paid, direct-to-you for only . . .

$4.95 No Fed. Tax

CAMPUS Groom-Aids

FILL OUT ORDER FORM BELOW AND MAIL TODAY!

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD LABORATORIES, INC.,
700 Prudential Bldg., Houston 25, Texas
Enclosed is $4.95 (check, cash, money-order) for CAMPUS KIT
NAME .....
ADDRESS: .....
CITY ..... Zone ..... State .....

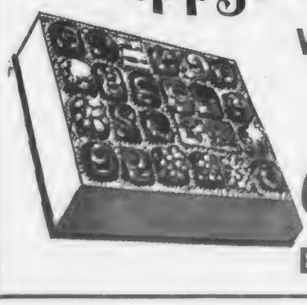
OFF THE AIR

The Reds would love it. They'd love to see Radio Free Europe knocked off the air! In fact, they're spending millions of dollars trying to drown out Radio Free Europe by "jamming" its broadcasts with their own kind of homemade static. It hasn't worked because Radio Free Europe's 29 transmitters are too powerful to be drowned out by "jamming."

But Radio Free Europe may yet lose its powerful voice. If your dollars don't keep coming, seventy million people in Red-oppressed Eastern Europe may stop hearing the truth. Why are your dollars needed? Because Radio Free Europe is a private organization, supported by the American people. Your dollars help keep its transmitters operating, pay for equipment, announcers, news analysts.

Keep truth on the air! Send your truth dollars today to Crusade for Freedom, care of your local Postmaster.

CRUSADE for FREEDOM



Me, thoughtless?

If You Forget Your Pants, your thoughtlessness could be embarrassing, but the oversight can be quickly and completely rectified. If you are careless with fire, your thoughlessness could cost you your shirt too, and it may take over 100 years to rectify the damage. No good citizen wants to believe that HE caused a forest fire. Yet 9 out of 10 forest fires are man-caused. Be doubly careful this year.

Remember— Only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

"Gifts that Say Happy Mother's Day"

Whitman's, Morris Pangburns
Sizes From
69c to $5.00
BYRNE Drug Store

Daisy Chain . . .

(Continued From Page 1)

and Playhouse.

Mueller

Barbara Mueller is an Art major from Summit, New Jersey. She is a member of Y cabinet, Art Club, Playhouse, Chi Beta, and works at Sunnybrook. She has served as chapter chairman in Chi Beta.

Parks

A Sociology major from Campbell, Ohio is Patsy Parks. She is a member of Chi Beta, in which she was a chapter chairman her Junior year, Spanish Club, which she served as secretary her Sophomore year, Playhouse, and was chosen as class editor of the Chilhowean. Patsy will be a senior counsellor next year, was in the Kappa Phi Leading Lady show this year, worked in Skit Night her first two years at Maryville, and was on the Baldwin House Committee her Sophomore year.

Pratt

Louise Pratt is a Elementary Education major from Winter Haven, Florida. She is a member of YWCA, Student Volunteers, Playhouse, and SNEA.

Rohlander

Georgene Rohlander is an Elementary Education major from Butler, New Jersey. She is a member of Chi Beta, SNEA, B.G. Club, YWCA Cabinet, and has served as a WSGA representative.

Tourtellote

Suzanne Tourtelotte is from Coral Gables, Florida, and is a Sociology major. She is a member of Chi Beta, YWCA, and Play house.

Wagner

Ruth Wagner, who is from Fonbell, Pennsylvania, is a Drama major. She is a member of Theta Epsilon, has been Vice president of Playhouse, and is on the YWCA

Happy Exam Studying

MC Breakfast Held In Pittsburgh

A Maryville College Breakfast will be held on May 31 at 7:30 a.m in Hotel Webster Hall in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania for all Maryville alumni and students who are attending the General Assembly in the Syria Hosque and for those who live in that area. Reservations may be made on cards which will be obtainable at the General Assembly meeting and through those persons designated to make contacts with those interested of that area. The breakfast will cost $1.50.

The new cook seemed to be a find. We had agreed on hours, wages and days off. "My husband is very punctual," I said. "But sometimes," I added apologetically "he brings home unexpected guests for dinner. I would suggest you always be prepared for such an emergency." "Yes, ma'am," Elinor nodded. "I'll keep my bags packed."

(The Reader's Digest)

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

The "Y" Store
Proudly Serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
It's Wonderful!
MAYFIELD'S DAIRY Athens, Tenn.

FOR 1958
Make Us Your 24 -- Hour Host
for
Good Things To Eat
Still The Best Cup of Coffee In Town—Only 5c
GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

THE MEN OF CARNEGIE

Bill Aring
Ralph Ayers
Bob Baker
James Barber
Graham Bardsley
Harold Battle
Howard Bell
Paul Bergmueller
Leon Bird
David Boge
Robert Bogle
Jay Bollman
John Boots
Bill Boyd
Carl Boyer
Bernard Brigham
Don Brown
Bob Brown
Don Buddle
Doug Bunker
Curt Burger
Paul Burger
Bob Carlton
George Chapman
Butch Christie
Ken Churchill
James Colquhoun
Jim Conklin
Paul Conklin
Bob Conner
Vern Cooper
Charles Crissman
Richard Crowder
Jim Culbertson
Jim Cummins
Jim Curran
Bob Davies
Gary Davis
Hugh Davis
Jim Davis
Keith Day
Karl Diller
Mervyn Dixon
Tom Dolch
Mike Ducey
Dave Doyscher
Robert Duggan
Tom Eberhard
John Edgar
Clark Eldridge
Dan Ellis
Jack Emery
Robert Emmert
Thomas Evans
Charles Fahl
Robert Fenner
Robert Fesmier
Gene Fieg
Steve Flagler
Joel Fort
Theodore Frauman
Robert Freidank
Leon Gabrielian
Francisco Garcia
David Gilliland
David Gilmore
Daniel Gilmour
John Gilmour
Gordon Gilreath
Sidney Gilreath
Robert Goodlin
Walter Goos
Steve Graham
Bill Green
Bruce Greenawalt
Lyn Gulliford
Bob Gwaltney
Norman Gronning
Gary Hall
Bill Hansen
Bill Hartman
Robert Hassall
Bill Heird
Dick Heischman
Chuck Herbert
Robert Higerd
Don Hill
Sandor Hody
Ron Hoefer
Bill Hoffner
Tod Jablonski
August Johnson
Danny Johnson
Richard Jones
George Kaiser
Bob Kallstrom
Bill Kay
Harold Kelly
John Kelly
Donald Kidd
Bob Kirkpatrick
Doug Koehler
Bob Krogh
Ralph Kummerow
Dick Kurzenabe
Robin Ladd
Bill Laugesen
David Lay
Alan LeClair
Ron Lind
Bruce Lundberg
Bill Lynch
Ross McGill
James Marsh
Robert Marshall
Bill Martin
Dick Mayer
Harold Mays
David McCahan
Howard McCuen
Lewis McFarland
Bill McGuire
Bob McLeod
Ed Milam
Eugene Mildon
John Mills
Stan Mont
Bill Moore
Edgar Moros
David Morris
Tom Morris
Fred Morrison
Robert Moses
David Mosteller
Bob Muir
Bill Murphy
Jack Myers
Don Newroth
Pete Nix
Lee Odell
Jerry Overall
Bill Owneby
Harry Page
Byung Koo Pak
Bill Pennock
Dan Ortega
Lewis Plate
Jerry Platz
Goerge Podgorny
George Poland
George Preston
Steve Mouton
James Preston
Joe Quinn
Ron Randon
John Ribble
Bill Roberts
Willard Roberts
R. E. Rodman
Jack Rosensteel
David Ross
Allen Russell
Bob Samples
Bill Sams
James Sanborn
Tom Scott
Kent Shaver
Lewis Shearer
Clarence Shields
Don Shillady
Ed Smith
Robert Smith
Lin Snider
Sam Speed
Harry Spotts
Larry Stearns
Robert Stevens
George Stewart
Bryson Struse
John Talmage
Lyle Talbot
Fred Tepper
Herbert Thompson
Terry Timson
Joe Tropansky
Leon Vogt
Christopher Ward
Dale Weyer
Don White
Wayne Whitelock
Dan Wiley
Bob Wilmot
Peirce Woodward
Robert Wyman
Mike Matthews
Larry Gibbs

WISH
"MOM" JONES
A
HAPPY MOTHERS DAY

1959

ECHO was not published in the Fall of 1958

Brahams Heads MC's Forward-Looking Development Program

Maryville College for 1959 has the "forward look." Plans for immediate and distant future are being formulated in the new development program headed by Mr. Raymond I. Brahams, Jr.

It all began in 1956 when the Board of Directors voted "That the President and Chairman of the Directors be authorized to appoint a committee known as a Special Long Range Planning Committee, to give special study to the future development of the college."

Heading the new development program is Mr. Raymond I. Brahams, Jr., a graduate of Maryville College with the Class of 1949. Mr. Brahams received his M.A. from the University of Colorado in 1952. He was thereafter employed as a history taecher and basketball coach at West Phoenix High School in Phoenix, Arizona. For the past two years he has been employed as Public Relations Director at Whitworth College in Spokane, Washington.

In the fall of 1958, Mr. Brahams came to Maryville College to serve with Mrs. F. A. Griffitts and Mr. James W. Hampton. Also working in the development program are Mrs. Gene Brown, Miss Imogene Atkins, and Miss Ann Wiley.

The four areas which come under the heading of development are: Student Recruiting, Alumni Relations, Public Relations, and Fund Raising. These are the areas necessary for development.

"To run a college," said Mr. Brahams, "we must have freshmen, friends and funds." To help get freshmen Miss Ann Wiley has been added to the staff as an admissions counsellor. To help maintain friendships of the past and make new ones is a function of the Public Relations Department.

Funds are also an important part of any college program. Since student fees only cover roughly 52 per cent of the expenses incurred by this institution, the remainder must be taken from endowments procured from individuals, churches, foundations, industry, alumni, and capital gifts. Committees have been set up to accomplish this. At present Maryville College is endowed for two and one half million dollars.

Concrete results of the new development program can be seen in the renovation of Carnegie Hall and construction of a new women's dormitory.

These are the essentials of the new development program whose purpose is, in Mr. Brahams' own words, "to take the ideas of where the school is to go and build a 'forward looking' program."

RETURNING to lead February Meetings a second time is the Rev. Dr. Joseph J. Copeland, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville.

Copeland To Lead Again; Meetings Begin Feb. 14

The Reverend Joseph J. Copeland, D.D., pastor of Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the leader and speaker for the eighty-third series of February Meetings to be held at Maryville College from February 4 to 12.

The other two members of the February Meetings Team will be the Rev. John Magill, D.D., Pastor of Abington Presbyterian Church, Abington, Pennslyania, as song leader; and Henry Barraclough, LLD., Philadelphia, as pianist.

Dr. Copeland led the meetings in 1954. He is a graduate of Trinity University, Texas, and McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. Since 1952 he has been the pastor of the Second Church in Knoxville. Previous to that he served in the First Presbyterian Church of Denton, Texas. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Maryville College, and of the Board of Christian Education of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

This will be the sixth time that Mr. Magill has led the singing. A graduate of Maryville College and of McCormick Theological Seminary, Dr. Magill now serves a church of nearly twenty-five hundred members. Music is not his vocation but a kind of avocation.

"Barie," as he is commonly called, returns to Maryville for the eighth time as pianist for the Meetings. He is Associate Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Dr. Barraclough came to this country as a young man from England as pianist of the famous evangelistic team of Chapman and Alexander.

February Meetings will open on Wednesday morning, February 4, and close on Thursday morning, February 12, with daily services at 9:45 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, JANUARY 24, 1959 No. 1

Currently Display Japanese Prints

Bruce McCarty, a member of the firm of Painter, Weeks, and McCarty, will lecture in the Fine Arts Center Lounge on February 3, when the art showing for February will open.

The February showing is unannounced as yet.

Mr. McCarty will speak on architecture; he is widely known for some of the homes and buildings he has designed in the Knoxville area. At the present time he is helping to create plans for the new civic auditorium in Knoxville.

The Japanese Print Showing on display at the Fine Arts Center gallery has been well accepted by Maryville students.

Besides having the opportunity to view these prints, students may also buy some of them; prices range from 50 cents to $3.00, and there is a wide range of selection.

Some of the prints are early Sixteenth-Century works which are widely known. Other prints are done by Howusai and Hiroshige, both famous Japanese artists. These have been most popular according to the sale of the prints so far. Besides the prints, there are also many lovely hand-painted pieces. If the selection that you want has already been sold, it can be ordered from T. T. Kitagawa, Chicago dealer who is presenting the show.

Playhouse To Give Broadway Scenes

Maryville College Playhouse sends out a call for talent in the form of singers, dancers, actors, artists, carpenters, seamstresses, and many other types of work, to carry out a full second-semester schedule including the following productions:

January 31—Five scenes from the Broadway musicals "My Fair Lady," "Carousel," and "The King and I."

March 6 and 7—"School for Husbands," a gay Restoration comedy which will require all new elaborate period costumes, a highly detailed and decorative set, and even a dance sequence. Mr. Lane visualizes this set in delicate pinks and blues with many sequins and ruffles.

April 17 and 18—"Oklahoma," the full-size musical comedy, to be a combined production of the music and drama departments.

May 15, 18, 19—"The Madwoman of Chaillot," Commencement Play, a delightful fantastic comedy which also contains much food for thought. At least 70 people will be needed for the cast.

Oberlin Wind Ensemble To Present Artists Series Extra January 29

With instrumental organization designed to present the finest in wind literature, the Oberlin Wood Ensemble will present a "bonus" concert in the 1958-59 Maryville College-Community Artists Series.

The Oberlin group will stop at Maryville on January 29 as part of a week's tour covering five states. Their performance here will take place at 8:30 p.m. in Wilson Chapel.

Forty players of woodwind, brass, and percussion instruments make up the group, who are conducted by Kenneth Moore, assistant professor music education in the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio.

Like Wind Section

The instrumentation of the Ensemble is basically that of the wind section of the symphony orchestra, which permits a broader repertoire than is available to the concert band.

Neither concert bands nor professional orchestras regularly perform music for the wind section alone. Yet some of the finest music by the best composers is written for such groups; thus the coming concert affords an opportunity to hear outstanding pieces that are rarely performed.

The program includes Handel's Water Music, Mozart's Serenade No. 10 in B-Flat Minor, Wallingford Riegger's Passacaglia and Fugue for Band, Stravensky's Octet for Wind Instruments, and Vincent Persichetti's Divertimen to for Band, Opus 42.

Gives Ticket Information

All holders of Artist Series season tickets may take reserved seats at the concert. Students wishing reserved seats for the Ensemble concert only may purchase them for 35 cents from student members of the Committee, who are Louise Pratt, Lessie Anne Rhodes, Bill Hoffner, and Harold Mays. Single tickets may be purchased from the Treasurer's Office also.

Maryville College students will be admitted on presentation of activity cards 10 minutes before concert time, to occupy remaining seats.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS
Class Schedule

A— 8:00- 8:40
B— 8:50- 9:40
Chapel— 9:45-10:40
C—10:50-11:30
D—11:40-12:20

MC Ranks Well On Three Levels On Basis Of Number Of Ph.D's.

Maryville College alumni rank third in number of doctorates received on the state level, third in national comparison with other Presbyterian colleges, and rank in the top third on the national level.

A recent state-wide survey of educational institutions in Tennessee has shown that during the past 20 years (1936-1956), 90 Maryville College graduates have obtained doctorate degrees. This figure does not include those received in the fields of Dentistry and Medicine. The four major fields surveyed were Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Arts and Humanites, and Education The two top-ranking institutions were the University of Tennessee (producing 218) and Vanderbilt University (165) with enrollments in 1957 of 13,612 and 3,437, respectively. Maryville's enrollment in 1957 was 732.

Among Presbyterian - related colleges, only Wooster and Lafayette outrank Maryville. Wooster (enrollment in 1957, 1,134) has 226 graduates with doctorates, and Lafayette (with 1,616) has 155 who have received their degrees. Occidental College and Maryville are tied with 90 each.

Of the fifty small colleges in the nation recommended by Good Housekeeping Magazine in 1949, Maryville ranked sixteenth in number of doctorates.

Eliminating colleges having an enrollment of more than one thousand, Maryville graduates rank sixth nationally.

Rabbi Marz To Speak At Y Sunday

Rabbi Meyer H. Marz, of Temple Beth El in Knoxville, speaking on the Jewish faith, will present the second program of the current YM-YWCA series on comparison of religious faiths in America. Rabbi Marx will speak at a joint meeting of the Y's to be held tomorrow at 1:30 in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

The present series opened last Sunday, January 18, with a program on Roman Catholicism by the Rev. Father John Baltz of the Lady of Fatima Church in Alcoa.

Explained Sacraments

In a half-hour talk followed by a question-and-answer period, Father Baltz cleared up many popular misconceptions about the Catholic Church. He explained the Seven Sacraments as Baptism, Confession, Communion or Eucharist, Confirmation, Matrimony, Extreme Unction, and to a few, Holy Orders.

These are listed in chronological order as one receives them through his life. All, with the exception of marriage, are necessary if one intends to obey the will of God and the laws of the Church.

The advancement toward Holy Orders is quite different from the schooling for the Protestant ministry. If a young man wishes to enter the priesthood, he first applies to his bishop or priest. He is then interviewed and encouraged or discouraged according to his capability and potential.

Seminary is next, which is in reality college. The graduate is then presented formally to the bishop in an ancient ceremony in which his head is shaved to resemble a monk's. Advancement through the minor orders follows: lector, porter, exorcist (who has power to cast out evil spirits), and acolyte.

The student is not bound at first by these orders and if he does not wish to continue, he may leave without obligation. If he remains, he is from then on bound as he enters the major orders which are sub-deacon, deacon, priesthood and perhaps the Bishopry, which is considered to be the "fullness of the Priesthood."

The remainder of the hour was spent in a question-answer period in which he explained the doctrine of Confession, the meaning of the Rosary, the problems of inter-faith marriages, and the grounds for excommunication.

Apply Now For Worthwhile Summer In Seminar Or Work Camp Experiences

The Seventh International Student Relations Seminar will be held from June 29 to August 31, 1959, at Harvard College and the University of Illinois.

This Seminar is open to college graduates or undergraduates, especially those with foreign language skills or those interested in international relations. The course is designed to help students understand the international problems of today's youth.

Seminar participants will receive a scholarship to cover all expenses except personal ones. For more information, write to International Student Relations Seminar, International Commission, U.S. National Student Association, 142 Mount Auburn Street, Cambridge 38, Mass.

College students are also invited to participate this summer in the Ecumenical work camps at home and abroad. Sponsored by the World Council of Churches, these camps need young people who will give time and effort to a Christian youth project. Ecumenical work camps help develop Christian faith through physical work, Bible study, and fellowship.

This year the camps will be held in Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Middle East, Europe, and the U.S. The cost varies with the location and includes registration, board, room, and travel. Apply to Ecumenical Voluntary Service, USCC, 257 Fourth Ave., New York 10, N. Y.

Ann Wiley, '58 MC Grad, Joins Public Relations

Former Echo Associate Editor Ann Newell Wiley returned to Maryville College to work as Admissions Counsellor in the new development program last September.

Miss Wiley, whose home is Heiskell, Tenn., graduated from Knoxville's Powell High School in 1954. In the fall of that same year she entered Maryville College as a freshman. She was made a member of the Echo staff in November, 1954, and remained on the staff for three years, becoming Associate Editor in her junior year.

As a student Ann was an English Major. Her extra-curricular activities included Student Council, Senior Class Vice President, Treasurer of Bainonian (Chi Beta), Nu Gamma leader, WSGA Coordinating Council, Y-Cabinet, Copy Editor of the "Chilhowean," Editor of the "M" Book, Senior Counsellor, Governing Board of Writers' Workshop, and Playhouse, in which she was President, Vice President, and Master Player. Ann was also on the Drama Board of Control and President of Theta Alpha Phi.

Received Honors

While a student, Ann received the following honors: May Day Attendant, Daisy Chain, Kappa Phi Leading Lady, Chilhowean's Woman of the Year, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Government Loan Plan Soon To Be Available To MC Students

Unknown to many Maryville students is the new government loan plan which will soon be available to students needing financial aid.

The government is providing the plan in order "to insure trained manpower of sufficient quality and quantity to meet the national defense needs of the United States," and "to identify and educate more of the talent of our nation." The National Defense Education Act has provided this loan fund in our colleges and universities. Eight-ninths of this fund is composed of government money and the other ninth is from the school itself.

Students can borrow up to $1000 a year and during his entire course in higher education he can borrow a sum not exceeding $5000. The student signs a note. Payment begins one year after the borrower ceases to be a student, and the loan is to be completed within 10 years thereafter. Interest is paid at the rate of three per cent per year. If a student becomes a teacher, up to 50 per cent of his debt can be cancelled at a rate of 10 per cent for each year of teaching.

Miss Mary Miles, Director of Student Help, is willing to help any students that are in need of information regarding this new government loan. Although this type of loan may sound exceptionally good, Miss Miles also points out some of the drawbacks involved. Students applying for it must show a real need and they should have a good idea of when they can pay it back. The period of your life when these loans have to be paid back are years when a young person is usually establishing his career and home. After one leaves college, it becomes remote to him and therefore his debt to it also becomes remote.

Judd Related Christianity To Today's World Scene

Pointing to the perplexing world problems of our age and emphasizing the role of Christianity in solving these problems, Dr. Walter H. Judd, Representative from Minnesota's Fifth District in Minneapolis, opened the United Christian Preaching Mission at the First Baptist Church of Maryville on Sunday evening, January 18.

In discussing the setting of our age, Dr. Judd said, "There is not an American boy today that doesn't have a cloud of some kind over his head — an atomic cloud, at that." Much of the insecurity in our world is readily traceable to Communism, Dr. Judd thinks.

Analyzed World Situation

He points out the following facts about our world today: that the Communists are determined to control the world and overthrow the values of our culture, that we are forced to resist this conspiracy and thus find ourselves in a cold war, our only other alternative being surrender or a hot war; that the cold war cannot continue indefinitely; that we can't call off the cold war except on Communist terms of gradual surrender, sometimes referred to as "peaceful coexistence" or "realistic readjustment;" and that our only alternative to calling off the cold war is to win it.

Dr. Judd said that to find an answer to the world's problems, we must bring unity out of the many cleavages present on our world. According to him, there is only one thing which can bring us this unity because it is in the nature of our world: the Christian religion.

Why Christianity Meets Need

In support of this argument, Dr. Judd advanced the following: the Christian religion puts its primary emphasis on humanity, the one thing we all hold in common; the Christian religion sees a great deal of possibility in the backward peoples of the world, and these people play a more important role in our world than we are willing to admit; the Christian religion gives us an adequate ideology to deal with the differences in the world; and the Christian religion gives us the leadership, in the person of Jesus Christ, to bring unity out of the chaos.

Gives View On Formosa

Since Dr. Judd is a former medical missionary to China, he has had a keen interest in the problems of the Far East. In an interview after the meeting, Dr. Judd endorsed the policy of getting tough with the Communists in the Formosa area. He pointed out how vital it is for us to stop Communist advances in Asia.

When asked for his opinion of why Deputy Premier Mikoyan of the Soviet Union recently visited our nation, Congressman Judd said that his maximum objective had been to get us to surrender on some vital issue, such as the Berlin crisis, and that if he could not succeed in that mission, he was willing to settle for confusing the issues. He stated that Mr. Mikoyan was trying to make our people see him in a more favorable light; his whole visit had the effect of weakening the morale of people such as the Hungarians, Germans, and Japanese, by putting our nation in the position of entertaining the enemy.

Most of those who heard Dr. Judd speak would echo the words used by Dr. D. W Proffitt in introducing the Congregationalist layman: "All of us who have heard him want to hear him again."

MC Choir Had Part

The Maryville College Vesper Choir participated by singing three anthems and various responses. Other participants in the opening service of the United Christian Preaching Mission were Mr. Edwin Best, Dr. James M. Windham, Dr. C. D. Curtis, the Rev. Harold Harris, and Mr. Tutt S. Bradford.

French Club Elects Three

Three new members, Jo Anne Hauck, Dee Powers, and Marilynn Lundy, were elected into membership of French Club at its first meeting of this semester, held January 15. Those who are taking or have taken French previously either in college or high school are eligible to apply for membership in the club, which meets on alternate Thursday evenings in Miss Wilkinson's class room. Application may be made through any member of the club.

"The Marseillaise," the French national anthem, was taught to the club by Karen Kennedy and Dave McCahan.

Officers of the club are Peg Reid, president; Steve Mouton, vice president; Kate Deuel, secretary; Zaida Brown, treasurer; and Mary Frederick and Phyllis Stine, program chairmen.

Kren To Virginia In Student Post

The Rev. James Kren, pastor of Houston Memorial Presbyterian Church and worker in the Faith Cooperative Parish, will become the minister to Presbyterian students at Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia, on February 1.

"Jim," as he is called by Maryville students, is from Pitcairn, Pennsylvania. From 1948 to 1952 he attended Maryville College, where he met his wife, the former Pat Love. After graduating from Louisville Seminary, Jim became the minister of Houston Memorial and the Parish pastor at Sunnybrook and Home Avenue.

In his new job as student minister at Washington and Lee and VMI, Jim will work with about 300 Presbyterian men students in a counseling and preaching program.

Jim will be remembered by Maryville College students for his fine work in the college counseling program and his eagerness to have students participate in the work of the Church. As Mr. Kren has said, "The Church wants the students' ideas, their prayers, and their work; we want them for God."

New Dorm, 75% Complete, Meets Supply Hold-Up

Basic construction on the new women's dormitory is about 75 per cent completed. There is a delay in getting glass because of strikes in that industry. However, it is possible that the dormitory will be ready for occupants by Commencement. Miss Massey, Dean of Women, and Mr. Layman, Treasurer, are giving attention to ordering of furniture.

The present excavation on campus is for a heat line to the new building. Pearsons Hall will also be put on this line.

The building consists of three floors with office, house mother's apartment, lobby, and two guest rooms on first floor, rooms for 96 students on the second and third floors, and storage rooms, utility rooms, and a large recreation area in the basement.

The Highland Echo

SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1959

Vol. 44 No. 1

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Charlotte Cathey, Ross McGill, Phyllis Stine, Joe Williams

Contributors this issue ..... Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Jane Bohanan, Maryanne Braidwood, Mary Faye Bundy, Charlotte Cathey, Dyrk Couser, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterly, Leon Gabrielian, John Gilmour, Judy Godfrey, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilynn Lundy, Alice McCombe, Howard McCuen, Ross McGill, Edgar Moros, Don Newroth, Phyllis Stine, Joyce Williams.

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers ..... Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants ..... Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Don Stupak, Josephine Widner

Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

As The Echo Wakens

On the revival of the Highland Echo after a semester of silence, it would be well for the editor to express what he sees as the general purposes of the newspaper and to outline the editorial policy.

Rather obviously, the first purpose of any newspaper is to report the news, accurately, clearly, fairly. When we think of "news," ordinarily we think of the items reported in newspapers and on radio or television. These items are, of course, selected from many possible items that actually happen each day; those chosen for publication and broadcast are those which editors feel are most worthy of emphasis. Also, news is chosen on the basis of what the press wants the public to know—the press does function as a sustaining force in a society, be this good or bad; and also on the basis of what the public wants to hear—else the public will not buy the paper.

Our Echo, as nearly all college, university, or school newspapers, is not working under these same conditions. There is not so much happening on a college campus as in the whole world; thus, more of the news can be printed in proportion to the full range of activity. Another difference is that this newspaper is the only regular student publication through the college year and must serve some of the functions which are now served in society by the various kinds of magazines and journals—news, literary, scholarly, as well as the functions of a newspaper. Another purpose of the college newspaper is to record the happenings of each school year—the guest speakers and artists who visited, the advances in student government, the athletic glories and greans.

The college newspaper is also different from the community or city newspaper in that its material can be written from a more objective point of view, for a more highly-educated "reading public."

But the student newspapaper, like any other newspaper, must print what students are interested in; otherwise, students will look at the newspaper, and file it in the wastebasket with an indifferent, unimpressed shrug of the shoulders. Yet I daresay that some material will appear which will not please students—(although it will still be interesting, we hope); for we aim to do more than to please—we aim to stimulate, and stimulation often means unpleasantness at first.

All the foregoing can be phrased in what I feel would be a good slogan for the Echo: "To reflect and mold Maryville minds." As stated above, the reflection comes in the reporting of college news, in chronicling the college year; the molding comes in editorial and creative material. There must be several aspects of the molding: First, the newspaper should inform—it should give students the facts and attempt to clarify the issues of relevant questions. Second, the newspaper should prod students as individuals and groups in its effort to improve school spirit and student life and activities. And then, the newspaper should have a good word for work well done and a rod for chastisement and for spurring where shortcomings occur. The "Maryville minds" above should perhaps be expanded to "Maryville lives," but since this is a college, and all-around maturity is approached through development of the mind, we will use "minds."

An important function that this newspaper can serve is to bring better communication between students on the one hand and faculty and administration. Discontented students often blame school policy for their problems It is true that we often do this because we wish to give a single name to conditions in general; and we might simply be taking out our frustrations on this one catch-all source.

At any rate, there are some legitimate questions, at least, and perhaps complaints, which students have. For these we wish to be an avenue for student questions to the proper sources, whether the proper source be our student government, a faculty member or the administration.

Any questions o comments should come in the form of letters to the Echo Forum, and all should be signed, although names would be withheld on request if this seemed wisest. Letters representing half-cocked explosions of half-baked individuals will not be printed. Thoughtful words from those who realize that freedom also means responsibility will be printed—although there are space limitations. Let me insert here that perhaps the administration should not be expected to lay themselves bare on certain kinds of questions. On the other hand, everything should be open to question, or there is nothing to the idea of education. Let us conclude that we may challenge but not protest.

Another aim of this semester's Echo is to experiment, and not to be bound by the Echo of the past. To this end we are trying new approaches, especially in features, a couple of which appear in this issue. We trust that readers will be able to recognize that it is the same newspaper from one issue to the next, however.

After this rather length piece, I must add that these are purposes and goals which we hope to realize through the semester. We expect to make many mistakes; but these are the aims to which we will return.

Y Assembly Had Dialogue, Decision

By Edgar Moros

People from all over the United States and from 27 foreign countries arrived in Urbana, Illinois, on December 28 to participate in the YMCA-YWCA National Assembly for 1958. During the week that followed these people were engaged in close fellowship and companionship as they discussed the problems facing our world.

The principal purpose of this National Student Assembly was "to bring together the best insights of present day social science and the keenest perceptions of contemporary Christian thought, in order to understand more about the situations and problems of the present world."

The study of these problems was guided by four outstanding speakers who were recognized experts in their subject field. We found the real way to obtain more understanding of these problems was discussion, both in small dialogue groups and in larger section groups.

Used Four Topics

Four main topics were discussed by the section groups. These were "Our Search for World Community," "Work and Vocation," "Men and Women in the Twentieth Century," and "Our Concern for Interracial Relationship."

Through the assembly those of us in attendance realized how little we knew about the people of other countries and how indifferent we were to the problems of our own countries.

We foreign delegates had a very active part in the assembly, for we were able to help the American delegates realize many situations through our opinions and points of view. I attended as fraternal delegate of Venezuela. I was chosen by the Christian Student Movement of my country.

Impressed By Negroes' Feelings

It was an unforgetable experience for me to hear the way the colored delegates expressed their feelings about the racial problem, and to live with them their fears and desires for justice, equality, and understanding.

For a whole week we shared our experiences, opened our hearts, expressed our ideas, and saw all these world problems in the light of our Christian faith. In this way we realized many solutions and ways of increasing our understanding.

By Charlotte Cathey

Dr. Johnson stood quietly beside the lectern, his hands and voice urging us to envision with him the original concept of the university, the place where learning had true universal dimensions and direction. Even more quietly than he spoke, we listened, not only to his words but to his attitude. And with him we lamented the modern imprisonment of knowledge within the cages of nationalism and the resulting passing of an age of universal thinkers into an age of "specialists" and "regular fellows."

Had World Representation

Thus was our concern aroused in the opening session of the Sixth National Student Y Assembly at the University of Illinois, December 28 to January 3. A thousand students representing Christian Associations from Hawaii to Maine, from Minnesota to Mississippi sat elbow to elbow with fraternal delegates from all over the world (Edgar Moros represented Venezuela). This was significant—right away our attention was focused on the world, not only through the keynote speech but also in our immediate contacts with other delegates.

From the outset of the assembly our speakers provided impetus for dialogue groups, section meetings, and plenary sessions. Dr. Mordecai Johnson, President of Howard University, led off his appeal for world leaders, challenging campus and community to produce them. On a different note, Dr. Gardner Murphy, head of the Menninger Foundation, gave us the psychological grass roots of the forces at work within the individual.

Dr. Vera Micheles Dean, associate director of the Foreign Policy Association, New York City, emphasized the political forces at work in the world today. And Dr. Paul Lehmann of Harvard School of Divinity drew the points of the previous speakers together with his own learned concepts to impress on us a vital description of what God is trying to do in the world today.

What Is "Authentic Selfhood"?

With these rudder thoughts we embarked on the search for authentic slefhood, not only as individuals, but also as the faith seeking authentic selfhood as it meets the culture. To do this we engaged in "dialogue," an old word which assumed new meaning. Dialogue turned out to be a

(Cont. P. 3, Col.)

First we had to realize that we must feel the problems of our campuses, communities, countries, and world as our own problems, concerning each and every one of us. With this in mind we were ready to make resolutions that will become reality through the YMCA and the YWCA, and other affiliated associations.

Each dialogue group made numerous resolutions which are listed below.

"In light of our study, we feel that sometimes it is necessary to distinguish between the actions of national governments and the feelings of the people that they represent. We feel that the information available from the official sources and/or the press is not always completely objective; therefore, we recommend an in-

(Cont. P. 3, Col.)

Moved and Seconded

Newroth Reviews Council Year

By DON NEWROTH,
President of the Student Body

Some of your representatives thought I should pass on the information I disclosed when council reconvened on January 14. After the student body election last spring, we took a vacation; when we came back our secretary-treasurer was married. We struggled along through the first semester and took another vacation; this time the vice-president got married. Now we have left one vacation and one officer. Just in case anyone sees a pattern ueveloping, I would caution him as to where this sort of thing might lead. For the most part, I rest during my vacations.

It was encouraging to see so many visitors with us that night. With your continued interest, I look for a new spirit on campus, a spirit that could transform our whole college atmosphere into something exciting and challenging. You are welcome, of course, to talk with your representatives anytime. You can always find one engaging in such current campus activities as lurking behind speedbreaks or pulling oneself out of an excavation ditch.

Worked For Echo Revival

With the return of the Echo, a project which absorbed quite a bit of council's energy last semester, comes an opportunity for you to express your particular opinions to the entire student body. It is our hope that this channel will never be closed on this campus again. Once more your attitude can create a situation which demands the continued existence of a paper.

It has been suggested that some attempt be made to clarify the student chaperon plan which was passed by the governing bodies late in the first semester. This program is not intended to replace the use of faculty chaperons but rather to supplement that system in such areas as Y-room and dorm parties, small picnics in the college woods, and other functions as may be arranged with Miss Massey. No festivity is to be without a chaperon of one sort or another. Miss Massey will help you enlist one of these creatures to fit your particular situation.

Seniors To Chaperone

Council and a faculty committee have selected the following seniors to serve as chaperons: Gray Wiley (Christmas vacation's contribution to the married officers' club), Joann and Bob Wyman (summer vacation's contribution to same), Don Newroth (both vacations' contribution to the things - might - be - better-in-the-spring club), Dick Jones, Bob Muir, Hugh Davis, Dave Ross, Linda and Jack Crouch, Barbara Davis, Mary Ann Phipps, Doris Watt, Georgene Rohlander, Louise Pratt, Jill Smither, Mary Murphey, Patsy Parks, Dot Hembree, Barbara Mueller, Betty Brown, and Joan and Chuck Herbert (and they're not even officers).

Council recommended the chaperons on the basis of honesty, integrity, maturity, respect of fellow students, and acceptable academic and social record. The committee did not indicate on what basis they approved the list, but we understand that the deans are furnishing wings to complete the outfit of those who meet the above qualifications. Seriously, this plan opens a new area of student responsibility, one in which you can help the selected chaperons by conducting yourself in a manner that will merit the permanence of this project.

Discuss Who's Who Selection

Student-Faculty Senate has just recommended to the Executive Council and the Student Council a proposal that would create a new system for electing the members of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The discussion in Senate suggested that the proposed system would be a more accurate expression of the excellence achieved in the various phases of college life. The student council advised that some action be taken when it was realized that the present procedure has not been allowing our full quota of deserving students to obtain the honor.

(Cont. P. 3, Col.)

Scots & Soda

It seems that Julius O'Henry craved to be recognized as popular by all the people he knew. This was no mean trick, for, you see, Julius didn't know anyone. Walking alone on the main street, he would throw himself underneath moving buses—just to draw attention. But, as he would pick himself up, he noticed the disinterested looks on the faces of the passers-by.

Julius attempted gregariousness in many other ways, such as diving into pools filled with alligators; drinking huge quantities of hemlock; and preaching the Apocrypha at Ku Klux Klan rallies. Failing in every attempt, he decided to author a novel.

His first book, Mohammed and the Holy Grail, was not fully accepted by the public. His name was so badly misspelled on the book cover that readers were not sure of his true identity. Not being very intelligent, Julius proceeded to write another tome, Dred Scott: His Impact on Chinese Culture. This book, a direct plagiarism of Moby Dick, caused him not a little consternation—he was stoned from the city. Retreating to a lonely cave in nearby Misogyny Woods, Julius began his last attempt at making himself a famous figure.

As Julius busied himself writing a thesis entitled "Misogyny Revisited," an over-amorous bear (to whom I shall refer as Edward D.) entere dthe cave and began to carees Julius, believing him to be his mate. Ed D. who suffered myopia, discovered his mistake, dropped Julius' limp little body, and shuffled back into the woods. In the heat of the moment, Edward took with him Julius' nearly completed manuscript. Shortly after, he was lassoed by the city fathers, and the novel was taken from him. The book was published, and became a success.

Today, Edward D. is a successful publisher and author. He and Eunice, his mate, live in bucolic splendor in their new home near the city. They don't worry much about the future.

Interview Frank Garci a On Cuban Revolution

By Leon Gabrielian

Among such recent world events as the Berlin crisis and the launching of a Russian cosmic rocket to the moon, the Cuban revolution was of major importance.

For a long time the country was dominated by General Batista's dictatorship. Batista's regime came to an end on New Year's Eve. He was the fifth major Latin American dictator deposed in the last four years.

In 1956 Rebel Chieftain Castro with a group of 81 men revolted against Batista. Since that time, the rebel forces grew in power to take over the island and establish the provisional government with Castro as the head of the armed forces.

Garcia Gives Opinion

Here is a short interview with Frank Garcia, a naitve of Cuba The purpose of this interview is for him to share some of his views on the situation.

Question: What are your general feelings toward Castro and his government:

Answer: Like many other Cubans, I am for Castro and his new established government.

Question: Why did the people of Cuba not like Batista?

Answer: He was a dictator. During his time, there was no freedom of thought and speech. People were constantly under the pressure of police state. Government was corrupt.

Question: Do you think Castro has a lot to offer to the people?

Answer: He has already offered the most important thing—Batista's fall.

Question: What are the chances of Communists under the new government?

Answer: Castro believes in freedom for all political parties, including the Communist Party. But even so, the Comunists are not strong enough in the country to influence the new government.

Berlin Critical

The Berlin dispute is another serious problem which it is hoped will be settled peacefully this year. People all over the world are vitally interested in its peacefully solution and do not want to see it a cause leading to nuclear war in 1959.

West Berliners, especially, are expectant of the consequences of this crisis. Yet on the eve of such a crisis, the people of West Berlin are not alarmed and are quite confident that despite all threats, Russia does not intend to start a new war by taking over West Berlin.

They are also confident that western allies will keep their troops in the city and risk war if necessary. The general feeling throughout the world is that there will be serious crisis, but no war, over Berlin in the year ahead.

Freedom Of Information

By Arthur D. Ainsworth
Assistant Professor of Political Science

Democratic society relies for its smooth functioning on the accessibility of facts to its citizenry, and the opportunity for free expression of opinions. The denial of access to these facts and the limitation on free expression both result in the suffocation of democratic institutions.

This is true not only on the governmental level but also in the various other institutions of a democratic society, whether it be among the stockholders and employees of a private business corporation, the faculty and students of an educational institution, or the members of a family. Only extraordinary circumstances, which might threaten the existence of that instiution, would warrant the temporary suppression of such facts and opinions.

Sometimes Use Censorship

Over the years the world has seen many examples of various types of censorship—particularly in wartime. Sometimes this has been of a voluntary nature and sometimes of a more autocratic sort. On the national level we are familiar with the voluntary censorship on the part of motion picture producers or by newspapers and other communication media in wartime.

A more insidious form of censorship may be seen in the denial of access to all or part of the facts by persons in authority or the curbing of free expression of opinion. This presupposes the presence of an elite group which considers itself in a position to judge whether such facts or such opinions should be made available. It denies the premise that a well-informed group is necessary before intelligent decisions can be made.

The free dissemination of information is also necessary in a democratic society from the standpoint of the implementation of decisions after they have been made. It has been suggested that a sort of pramble be attached to each law and administrative order in order that the persons to whom it applies may understand the reasoning behind such a law or such an order and the need for it.

Would Ease Enforcement

As a result enforcement would be made easier, inasmuch as it relies on persuasion rather than threats for its success. A lack of understanding, due to a denial of information, is a potent factor behind the lack of cooperation of the members of any group and the low morale which may exist in that group.

In the American democratic scene it has been our newspapers and magazines which have long tried to fulfill the function of informing the public, and it is to be hoped that they will continue to do so. As a result a more informed citizenry has developed. Exposures of corruption and wrong-doing have been undertaken by various crusading newspapers and magazines, particularly in the era of the muckrakers. However, such enterprises can function successfully only when they are allowed access to all the facts and when they have access to all the facts and when they report such facts fully and without coloring. This equally applies to our newer communication media, such as the motion picture, radio, and television.

The lecture platform and the discussion group have been another source of strength in democracies and can continue to act in that role. In this way the widest diversity of views and expressions of opinions are made available. All sides of a question can be presented.

Creativity Through Free Information

Creativity is based on the free circulation of thought-provoking and challenging information. The unpopular view of today may become the accepted view of tomorrow. Free expression must be allowed those who attempt to persuade thru the medium of the spoken word, irregardless of the views that those persons hold, whether they be communist, fascist, atheist, or vegetarian.

In a democratic society the auditor and the reader must be allowed to make his decision as to what view he will accept. Only on the basis of information on all aspects of a problem can he so do. To deny this right is to express a lack of confidence in a democratic society and its members and to dig its grave.

It is particularly the responsibility of the aministration, the faculty and the students of our colleges and universities to see that this does not happen and that freedom of information is preserved and expande. From this group should come the leadership which should guide our democratic institutions in such a way that a better world order will peacefully evolve.

Y Emphasizes Horizontal In '58—'59 Program

By Charlotte Cathey

"Y" was ailing. The combined cabinets were uncomfortably aware of this as we convened at Laurel Lake last spring. Two days of probing brought us to the diagnosis that we had unhealthy organization on our hands, suffering from an old, reheated diet served up in the form of apathy. This was nowhere more true than in programming and publicity.

Pinpoint Faults

Although the parish program was in good repair, as was the community service project, the regular "Y" meetings were falling off. YW meetings had dwindled to a faithful handful, and the YM met seldom, if at all. Obviously programming and publicity were at fault.

When questioned about Y attendance most students replied that Y was just an afternoon Sunday School class, a reiteration of the morning's activity. From this point we approached the problem. Certainly the vertical relationship to God afforded by worship is essential, but we sincerely felt that on our campus we have no dearth of worship opportunities.

New Emphasis Horizontal

We were struck, then, by the need to re-emphasize the horizontal relationship to God to complement the veritcal, the relationship that grows from an awareness of one another and of the world.

Therefore we have tried this year to present "Y" programs in the fine arts, programs on government, and on social problems. We want to stimulate genuine thought and action, for we believe that God is at work in the world, not so much in principles and precepts but in relations and functions.

Announce Program Plans

During the coming semester we plan to continue in this vein. In the immediate future is a series of programs on the prominent faiths of the Western world: Hebrew, Roman Catholic, and Protestant.

We hope that the increased attendance will be maintained as we try to provide some food for thought, some larger concepts for this searching period in our lives. Let us know what you think.

AT HIWASSEE TONIGHT, the 1958-59 Maryville Highlander basketball team showed two wins and four losses up to the Jacksonville State game Thursday.

Scots Drop Three Straight On Trip

Maryville fell prey to a strong Carson-Newman quintet by a 73-61 score on January 12. The Scotties, usually a powerful second-half team, failed to rally from their 34-23 half-time deficit.

The final score, however, belies the nature of the game. The game was a team effort, with good balance in the scoring Guard Tom Morris, converted from center, shared top scoring honors with Bob Carpenter, each collecting 16 points. Bill Owenby, always a steady performer, contributed 15 to the total.

King Triumphs

King College, touted as one of the leading basketball powers in East Tennessee, defeated the Scots, 78-60, on January 15. King's road to victory was all but smooth, however, as they found themselves behind 35-34 at the half. Bob Helton, King guard, not known to Maryville fans by name but certainly from past performances, exploded in the second half to amass 22 points, giving him a total of 29 for the game.

Once again three Maryville men hit double figures, Morris leading the way with 18 counters. Owenby and Carpenter followed with 13 and 12 points, respective

Scots Fall Again

Faltering once again in the last half after leading 30-26 at the intermission, Maryville fell before the Cumberland University five, 62-57. The nemesis of the Scots was in the person of B. Martin, who tallied 22 points for Cumberland. Maryville's top point producers were Morris, who again topped 20 with a 21-point total, and Owenby, who collected 13 markers.

With an early season record of two wins and three losses, Maryville shows much promise, and the Scotties are a greatly improved squad.

This improvement can be accredited to perhaps two major reasons. Coach Davis' strategic moving of Morris from center to guard, through limiting point production of the stellar senior, has paid off in big dividens for the team by virtue of Tom's playmaking ablilities.

Freshman Talent Helps

The second reason is the arrival of freshman talent in the persons of Bob Carpenter and Gayle Ferguson. Carpenter found himself quickly and has performed consistently, hitting double figures in every game thus far.

The trio of Morris, Owenby, and Carpenter has been the point-producing machine of the Scotties. Morris leads the scoring with a five-game total of 103 points, an average of 20.6 per game. Owenby has accuculated 75 points for a 15.6 average, and Carpenter has 74 points for a 14.8 average.

Moros . . .

creased program of direct contact between American students and peoples of other countries.

"We commend and recommend the programs of student exchange especially with lands of the non-Western world. We advocate the continuance of the USSR-USA interchange of students. We ask for study concerning the establishment of a junior year abroad program in the Asian and African colleges. We recommend a greater concern and contact with foreign students on our campuses.

"We make this recommendation with the firm conviction that such contacts have proved to be a force which is continually adding to the growing understanding of the peoples of the world.

"We call upon YMCA's and YWCA's to oppose discrimination in whatever form it may appear in fraternities and sororities on the campuses.

"We recommend that the total movement and local associations embark upon a study of the depth of the meaning and of the problems of authentic self-hood for a fuller understanding of the relationship of men and women."

One can easily see that this was a wonderful and enriching experience for each one who attended the assembly. Now that we are back on our campuses we realize more than ever the imperative need for concern for the problems of the world.

Perhaps the most important accomplishment of this assembly was the awakening in each of us to our responsibility as Christians. We saw that we must find all possible ways to increase our knowledge of foreign countries and of peoples of all races.

Intramurals....

Intramural basketball play began last week with what looks to be a good season. Six A League teams and Six B League teams are slated to vie for league titles.

Each team will play two games per week, with games on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Held Practice Series

The intramural program began with a series of practice games on January 16 and 17. Practice tussles were intended to give players a chance to improve the organization of their teams.

In A League practice games, the Rosebuds defeated the Alpha Sigma Piledrivers 46-37, with Earl Smith pouring in 21 points for the winners.

The Mavericks dropped the Kappa Phi Knights 41-31 as Ed Smith scored 16 points. Ross Mc the visiting group.

The Alpha Sigma Sledgehammers put down the Alpha Sigma Trojans 30-22 as Tom Bass dropped in nine points for the Sledges.

In B League practice games the Alpha Sig Shieks beat the Kappa Phi Sputniks, 32-24, with Norris Shank tossing in 16 for the winning Shieks.

The Gunners smothered the G-Strings 56-9 as Ken White tallied 16 points for the Gunners.

The Alpha Sigma Hammers smashed the Kappa Phi Barons, 24-12.

Regular Play Starts

The regular season got under way in the B League on Monday, January 19, with the Gunners defeating the Alpha Sigma Hammers, 38-20, and the Kappa Phi Sputniks downing the Kappa Phi Barons, 26-21.

Following is a list of the teams in each league:

A League

Rosebuds
Kappa Phi Knights
Alpha Sigma Sledgehammers
Alpha Sigma Trojans
Alpha Sigma Piledrivers

B League

Gunners
G-Strings
Alpha Sigma Shieks
Kappa Phi Sputniks
Alpha Sigma Hammers
Kappa Phi Barons

Grapplers Down Knox Y, Fall To Chattanooga

Maryville's wrestling team defeated the Knoxville "Y" team by a score of 16-14, Maryville winning by virtue of two pins and two decisions in eight matches.

The results are as follows:

Thompson (Y) decisioned Scott (M); Maddux (Y) decisioned Johnston (M); Robinson (M) decisioned Gnodeman (Y); Jones (Y) pinned Findeisen (M); White (M) pinned Chambers (Y); Elia (M) decisioned Fine (Y); Hartman (M) pinned Lord (Y); Hayes (Y) decisioned Riddle (M). In exhibition matches, Jenkins (Y) pinned Sharp (M); Huffstetler (M) decisioned Long (Y); Feitler (M) pinned Boling (Y).

White, Robinson Shine

The Moccasins of Chattanooga, always a powerful team, raked Maryville over the coals by a 24-8 score on January 17. Maryville's points came as a result of a pin by Larry Robinson and a decision by Don White. White is having a successful season, having won his last two matches, as he pinned Chambers of Knoxville Y his previous outing. Robinson has a similar record, with a previous decision and a pin at Chattanooga. An unfortunate occurrence was the dislocation of Danny Johnston's shoulder in his match.

A run-down of the action follows:

DeLoach (C) decisioned Scott (M); Nagle (C) over Johnston (M) by technical; Robinson (M) pinned MacDonald (C); Nagle (C) decisioned Findeisen (M); White (M) decisioned Mercur (C); Cox (C) decisioned Elia (M); Parker (C) decisioned Hartman (M); Herbert (C) decisioned Riddle (M).

Inexperience Cited

In wrestling as in basketball there is a lot of promise. Any losses sustained may be unashamedly attributed to growing pains owing to the prevalence of new boys.

Spanish Club Elects Officers

Spanish Club officers elected at the final meeting of the Fall semester are Phyllis Hembree, President; Kathleen Moyers, Vice President; Eileen O'Bannon, Secretary; and Jim Davis, Treasurer.

Meetings during the coming semester will be colored by programs centered around the life and folkways of the Spanish speaking people.

Cathey . . .

frank encounter of minds and feelings on outstanding issues.

Frankness fostered conflict among us, healthy conflict which forced us beyond subjective attitudes to a new level of understanding. We were dealing not only with problems of our local associations but also with problems concerning the place of Men and Women in the Twentieth Century, Work and Vocations, The Search for a World Community, and Our Concern for Interracial Relationships.

Out of these four sections grew resolutions to be presented in plenary. Stands were taken in a new light as we began to realize that stands are not ends in themselves but a means to higher understanding.

Assembly Takes Stands

We prescribed as an assembly to support statehood for Hawaii, to call upon the President of our country for a national conference on race relations. And on the local scale we exchanged recommendations for association policies concerning the four groups mentioned above. A future issue of the Y student magazine Intercollegian will include plenary details.

Search Begins Anew

The search for authentic self-hood is a search begun anew by the assembly. We recognized that as God moves in the world, we must move accordingly so that we may move truthfully. No prescription is ready to guide our actions, no strict adherence to a set of rules will see progress.

There will always be a conflict and a crisis asking to be resolved. It is our job to gain insight into these problems on every level of human operation and in this way to "keep the paece." So it is with all of us as we seek authentic selfhood through insight and and through action. "Love God—and do as you please," said St. Augustine. Consider the implications of these words, and move by them.

CMC

Mid-South DCE Makes MC Office

A newcomer to the Maryville College campus this year is the Rev. Hughston R. Peyton, Director of Christian Education for the Synod of Mid-South, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Through arrangements made by the College with the Board of Christian Education in the Synod, Mr.. Peyton is using the college pastor's former study in the Chapel as office and "home base" for his work, which carries him on extensive trips among Southern churches.

The Synod of Mid-South includes churches in Tennessee North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and Mr. Peyton's duties take him on visits to various parts of these states. It is his job to represent the work of the Board of Christian Education in the Synod by working with corresponding committees in the presbyteries. This includes three phases, those of planning programs, securing and training leaders, and helping the local churches with special problems. All are, of course, important and basic to the growth and progress of today's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Peyton, a graduate of George Peabody College and Vanderbilt University School of Religion, is highly impressed with Maryville College. Asked his impressions of Maryville, Mr. Peyton replied that he was attracted from the first by the fine character of the student body. He also feels great respect for the development program which has been initiated recently.

Having had some knowledge of and contact with Maryville prior to his arrival here, he is very happy to find himself now a part of the campus atmosphere. Mr. Peyton and his secretary, Mrs. Nancy Helton, will be very glad to be of service to students at any time.

Newroth . . .

The last meeting of the fall semester was held at the Simple Simon Restaurant. Not in keeping with our normal pattern of behavior, we adjourned reluctantly.

We began the new semester by discussing Maryville's present and future with Mr. Raymond Brahams, our director of development. In the belief that we are the college's best advertisement, council is attempting to promote an increasingly positive attitude within this college generation.

I hope that you will join us on Wednesday night and throughout the week in creating a college spirit that will give direction to the future years.

HIGHLAND ECHO SUBSCRIPTION

75c per Semester

SEND TO _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

FOR: _____1st. Semester .75

(Check one) _____2nd Semester .75

.both Semesters $1.50

Repercussions

Question in freshman Bible Class: "Are we going to study the Bible as Christians or objectively?"

Dr. Case: "Give me a definition of social welfare."

Dave Ross: "Social welfare is those who've got it trying to help those who ain't got it get it."

It is notable that the Juniors have moved their rspecial studies operations from the parlor to the library.

My Neighbors

"What an opportunity! We'll make Mars a state, give them a few grants-in-aid—and tax the living daylights out of them!"

CC
ML
DK

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 3-4762 Mayville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •
Cosmetics—Lavin● Rubenstiene● Dorsay● Revelon● Tussy● Cochran and Other Famous Lines
—Prescription Specialist—
CITY DRUG CO.
108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You Planning a Party?
College Hill Food Market
Can Supply Your Needs of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

Keepsake Diamonds
MARYVILLE JEWELERS
Broadway
Maryville, Tenn.
Keepsake

CAPRI'S
Steaks and Chops are the best,
Pizza Pies and the rest,
We deliver orders two dollars or more
So hurry down to your favorite eating place.

Murphy-West MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET

Start the Year out Right Eating at THE COFFEE HOUSE
Featuring HOME MADE Pies and Chili
● Home Made CHILI with Beans—Never saw a can (You can taste the difference)
● Our Home Made PIES are in ORBIT—Fresh selection Fruit and Cream Daily
● And of course Breakfast and Hol 'n One Donuts any time
WE NEVER NEVER CLOSE Call Us and We'll Have It Ready YU 2-1541

Y's Work In Blount Children's Home

The program of big brother—little brother relationship with children, originated by Dave Krocnko, '58, in October of 1956, has become an important part of Maryville College YMCA work. The program emphasizes three points: recreation, work, and witness. It is affiliated with the Blount Country Children's Home, a county agency under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tilly. Mrs. M. McCampbell, a retired supervisor, also lives at the home.

The program is planned so that each boy has a big brother and a continuance of this same big-and-little-brother combination provides and helps the attitude of companionship and interest. These college "big brothers" regularly visit their little brothers once per week in the afternoon and at other times as they wish. Transportation is by arrangement with the Faith Cooperative Parish.

Big brothers are allowed to take boys from the home to attend such affairs as movies or ball games once per semester. It is expected that the big brother remembered birthdays of respective little bothers and to write them during vacations. Big brothers hlep with chores and guide and participate in sports and games.

YW Starts Same Work

Soon after the YM had established such a program, the YW initiated an almost identical program for girls. Girls placed more emphasis on work with crafts than the boys. The YW's work is under the community service area of YWCA and definite programs are planned on Wednesdays.

Special event programs are held jointly with both YM and YW participating. A Christmas party was given in 1956. At that time the home had 25 children. A spring outing was held in the second semester, 1957, at Cades Cove. In October, 1957, the first fall camping trip was held at Montvale. In 1958, the trip was to Laurel Lake.

The Christmas party, now an annual event, is held in the Y rooms. It includes presents from big brothers and big sisters, a pinata, and a dinner. Last Christmas there were added a Santa Claus and a Christmas reading. Gifts from the Vesper Choir are distributed at the party.

Y's Give Equipment

YM has bought sports equipment such as softballs and footballs; and has bought craft supplies, such as leather-working kits and modeling clay. It has promoted the donation of three record players and has donated several bicycles. The proceeds from the 1957 Barnwarming bought a set of jungle bars for the home.

Ron Hoefer became YM chairman of the work for the 1957 spring semester and for the following college year. Ed Smith, present leader, carries on the program as set up by Hoefer and Krotchko.

Vols Now Feature Latin America

Latin America will be the Student Volunteers' theme for the second semester. Programs will include talks by Latin American students on our campus. Plans involve a fund-raising project for mission work in Latin America.

The first program of the semester, on Sunday evening, January 18, was an introduction to Latin America. The speaker, Edgar Moros, was introduced by vice-president Bob Freidank.

Another important part of Student Vols is the prayer meeting each Tuesday afternoon at 5:30. This brief prayer time is led by students, and is open to the student body.

Union Of Local Presbyteries Show Progress In Integration

The United Presbyterian Church in this part of the South is making some progress in integration.

An interracial presbytery has been created by the merger of the Presbyteries of Union, Levere, and Knoxville. The first, whose name was given to the new presbytery, previously had only white members, while the latter two were Negro.

The first meeting of the Presbytery was held on Thursday, January, 15, with a communion service for which Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd was the speaker. The stated clerk of the Presbytery of Union is the Rev. A. Thomas Horst of the Maryville College faculty.

Last June brought the merger of the Synods of Mid-South and Blue Ridge, the former composed of white members and the latter of Negro members. The name "Synod of Mid-South" was adopted.

TVA'S Shelley Spoke On Labor To Pre-Min Group

E. A. Shelley, Director of Personnel for the Tennessee Valley Authority, spoke to the Pre-Ministerial Assbciation on January 22 on labor-management relations After his talk the Pre-Mins asked many questions concerning this American problem.

"Contemporary Music in the Church" was the subject of the first Pre-Ministerial meeting of the semester, held on January 8. Harry H. Harter, Maryville College assistant professor of music, spoke to the group, who asked him many questions at the close of the program.

These two programs are a part of a series of the Association's survey of contemporary problems with which prospective ministers will be faced.

Dr. William Crane, minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, will speak to the group on February 12 on "Marriage Problems and Pastoral Counseling."

YMCA BUDGET FOR 1959

Dear Student Body,

We of the YMCA would like to take this opportunity to explain to the students how our budget is set up for his year. This is our first opportunity to do so.

Because of a considerable decrease in profits from the Y Store, we have cut our budget from $700 of last year to $500 for this year. As you look over the budget of your YMCA, you will realize that we are trying to accomplish the maximum amount of service with the least amount of money. In decreasing our budget we have been forced, of course, to limit our amount of service to the students, the college, and the community.

Below is listed the budget with a short explanation of some of the items:

Artists Series	$—
Athletics (Trophies for Intramural Sportsmanship Award)	30
Barnwarming (Sets, publicity, etc.)	30
Chapels—Home Avenue	30
Sunnybrook (Athletic equipment, craft matreial, etc.)	20
Chilhowean	45
Community—(Children's Home)	40
Conference (Southern regional conference in Atlanta)	45
Devotions (Devotioal booklets)	5
Fellowship (Watermelon feed, Y-hike, and other social events)	40
Insurance (Movie equipment)	10
Inter-racial (Program equipment)	35
Printing (Y Booklets, minutes, forms, etc.)	40
Program (Films, transportation, meals, etc., for visiting speakers)	30
Publicity (Poster paper, paint, etc.)	5
Y-Radio (Tapes, scripts)	10
Retreat (Rental fee for grounds, supplementation of fees paid by students for food, transportation)	15
YMCA dues (50c per active member paid to Atlanta office in return for membership cards and program materials)	40
Incidentals (Incidentals and miscalleous)	25
Total	$495
Available Income:
Balance from last year	$152.76
Student Activities Fee (First Semester)	154.00
Y-Store	126.03
Student Activities fee (Second Semester estimate)	145.00
Total	$577.79

We invite any questions and comments that may further our service to you and your community.

Sincerely,
Your YMCA

Pearsons Receives New Housemother

"It's just like coming back home, coming back to Maryville," said Mrs. Forrest LeTellier, new housemother at Pearsons. She attended Maryville back in the days when it was a prep school and there were no high schools in Knoxville.

After her schooling at Maryville, where her mother was college nurse, Mrs. LeTellier went into nurses' training. She became a registered nurse and married a doctor; now she has a son in Knoxville who is a practicing physician. Mrs. LeTellier is a sister of Miss Thelma Hall, our campus nurse. Thus the medical profession runs in her family, and Maryville College has taken advantage of this fact.

Kinsinger Presents Faculty Recital

Mr. Dan H. Kinsinger, instructor in music, will perform next on the Faculty Recital Series. Mr. Kinsinger, a tenor, will present his program Friday, January 30, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall.

Also on the music calendar is a student recital, featuring Ralph Kummerow, Virginia Pratt, Mary Schmidt, Sue Oxendine, and Rosemary Barrett. This program is slated for Tuesday, January 27, at 4:30 p.m. in the Music Hall.

Kappa Phi Elects Tepper President

Recently-elected officers of Kappa Phi for the spring semester are as follows: Fred Tepper, preisdent; Paul Burger, vice-president; Lin Snider, secretary; Lee Odell, treasurer; Bill Pennock, program chairman; Ross McGill, athletic chairman.

The semester got under way with a meeting on January 10 at which "Comic Epitaphs from Famous Old Graveyards" were read and Christmas ties exchanged. Plans for Skit Night were discussed.

A second meeting held jointly with Chi Beta took place in Bartlett Hall on January 17. Mr. Edward Best spoke on "Cherokee Indian Cures."

Debaters Enter State Tourney

The Maryville College Debate Team, coached by Dr. Arda S. Walker, will journey to Freed-Hardeman College in Henderson, Tennessee, to participate in the State Intercollegiate Forensic Tournament.

In this debate, to be held February 12-15, the debater will support both sides of the topic—Resolved: That the futher development of nuclear weapons should be prohibited by international agreement. The teams entered are Dan Ellis and Keith Ham; David Pierce and Ross McGill; Don Jackson and Don Lea; Judy Gano and Judith Null; and Pat Davis and Joyce Williams.

Individual Entries Named

In addition to the debate rounds, the members will participate in individual contests. Dan Ellis, Keith Ham, Judith Null, and Judy Gano are entered in Original Oratory; Ross McGill in Peace Oratory; Dan Ellis, Keith Ham, and Joyce Williams in Extempore; Dan Ellis, David Pierce, and Judith Null in Impromptu Speaking; Ross McGill, Keith Ham, and Joyce Williams in After-Dinner Speaking. Serving as Maryville judges for this meet will be Dr. Walker and Mr. Witherspoon.

Novices Had Three Meets

Previously the novice debaters have paritcipated in three intercollegiate debates. The first, a three-round event, was held in early November on this campus. Later, various teams journeyed to the University of South Carolina at Columbia and to Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone, North Carolina. In the last two contests the members engaged in six debates and five individual contest rounds respectively, of debate and individual contests.

In addition to the members mentioned above, Dale Young has joined the squad.

Housemother Purnell Breaks Wrist In Fall

Icy sidewalks brought a broken wrist to Miss Ellen J. Purnell, Memorial Hall housemother, as she fell while walking from Anderson Hall on January 17.

Miss Purnell was taken to Blount Memorial Hospital, where the wrist was placed in a cast. She expects to wear the cast for six weeks, after which she will resume full duties as housemother.

Presently she is recovering at the dormitory, with many visitors every day.

Dr. Lloyd Speaks In Long Island

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Maryville President, will speak tomorrow at Christ's First Presbyterian Church in Hempstead, Long Island, New York.

Dr. Lloyd will preach twice in the morning on Christian Colleges and the Education of Today's Youth, again in the afternoon at a tea, and in the evening to the young people. The church is observing College Emphasis Sunday.

On January 27 and 28 he will be in Philadelphia attending a meeting of the World Presbyterian Alliance.

Sig-Thetas View European Slides

Europe was the by-word at last Saturday's joint meeting of Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon, as Tom Bass and Dyrk Couser showed slides and commented on them.

The color pictures were of the port of Montreal, Ireland, England, Scotland, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden.

The two travelers related some of their personal experiences and said they will tell of others at a future Sig meeting.

SNEA To Visit School For Deaf; Saw Kramer's Alaska Slides

Student NEA plans to visit the Tennessee School for the Deaf in Knoxville next week. Arrangements for the trip are not definite, but further notice will be given.

All who would like to see one aspect in the education of exceptional children are invited to join.

Gill scored 15 for the losers.

Beginning the new semester with a new subject of interest, SNEA held a program on Alaska by Mrs. D. S. Kramer, Assistant Professor of Education, who spent two-and-a-half months in the Far North with her daughter, son-in-law, and their family, the Austin Van Pelts.

To Sitka Via Slides

Through the media of vividly colored slides, the group was flown over the jutting peaks of the Canadian Rockies and on to Juneau, Alaska. Sitka, her destination, was reached by a small sea plane traveling through unlimited beautiful country formed by vast stretches of water and soaring snow-capped mountains.

Sitka, as Mrs. Kramer pointed out, is a spot of great historical importance. Not only was this the site where Russia signed over over all the land comprising present-day Alaska to the United States, but it is important today as the main center of the Alaska Russian Orthodox Church and the home of the Presbyterian Shledon Jackson Junior College, one of the few schools of higher education in Alaska.

Other slides formed an excellent over-all view of what is generally referred to as "interior Alaska," including the cities of Anchorage and Nome.

Named Alaska Problems

Mrs. Kramer pointed out many of the problems which the people of Alaska, mainly the native Indians, face today. Most important among their problems is the harm brought through an abundance of liquor and the lack of institutions of higher education. She stressed that Alaska has many needs and offers many challenging opportunities for service.

NEW CHOIR MEMBERS

The three new faces in the Maryville College Vesper Choir are replacements selected at the beginning of the current semester.

New choir members are Virginia Pratt, soprano, and John Brehm and Edgar Moros, tenors.

VESPER SPEAKER

The speaker at the Vesper service tomorrow night will be the Rev. Edwin F. Dalstrom, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Harlan, Kentucky.

Mr. Dalstrom is the father of Maryville student Bruce Dalstrom, a freshman.

Next Sunday night, Dr. Francis W. Pritchard will speak.

I.R.C. Officers

Mimi Mattes and Joe Burgos are the newly-elected program chairmen of the International Relations Club. Other officers include Barbara Larsen, president; Esther Balph, vice-president and publicity chairman; Nancy Smith, secretary; Sandra MacNeill, treasurer; and Priscilla Newton, historian. Dr. and Mrs. Paul Cooper are the advisors of the club. Dr. Cooper is Associate Professor of French at Maryville College.

"C" RAY TIPTON
Jeweler
DIAMONDS
ELGIN PRODUCTS
Phone YU 3-2161
Watch Repairing
All Work Guaranteed
In
McArthur's
Maryville, Tenn.

Students Enjoy Shopping at
McARTHUR'S
DEPT. STORE

Citizens:
SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRY!
(327 Baldwin)

Student Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

MARYVILLE DRY CLEANERS
Has Agents in All The Dormitories
Carnegie:
Butch Christie
Ron Randon
Pearsons:
Betty England
Helen Rankin
Baldwin:
Carol Black
Memorial:
Alice Curd

BYRNE DRUG STORE
We appreciate your patronage
Come In and Browse Around
For All Your Needs

College Hill Grill
Just off Campus
Good Food at Moderate Prices
Hamburgers - - 25c
Cheeseburgers - 30c
Full Meals starting at 88c

"COKE" IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK. COPYRIGHT © 1959 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.

Madison Avenue...

Yes, up and down ad alley you'll find the smartest account execs call for Coke during important meetings. The cold crisp taste, the real refreshment of Coca-Cola are just what the client ordered. So up periscope and take a look into the situation. Ad men of the future!—start your training now—climb into a gray flannel suit and relax with a Coke!

Drink Coca-Cola

BE REALLY REFRESHED...HAVE A COKE!

Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
BIBLES — R.S.V., PHILLIPS BOOKS
CARDS GIFT ITEMS
Maryville YU 3-4982 229 College St.

The Highland Echo

Z 703

Vol. 44 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 7, 1959 No. 2

Copeland Follows 'By-Life Of Belief' Theme

The Reverend Joseph J. Copeland, D.D., leader and speaker of the February Meetings now in progress, emphasizes his interest in the individual student and his problems.

Dr. Copeland indicated that his aim is to speak on problems that are of genuine concern to the individual. Though he is following a more rigid theme schedule in the morning chapel services, he has purposely made the evening program flexible. This has been done in order that response can be given to a marked interest in any particular subject or problem on the part of the student.

This individual-centered program is evident when the "I believe" themes for the morning chapel service are taken into consideration. They are "I Believe in God," "I Believe in God's Revelation," "I Believe in Christ the Son of God," "I Believe in God's Eternal Purpose," "I Believe in the Forgiveness of Sins," and "I Believe in the Resurrection." The over-all "umbrella" theme for the morning services is "The By-Life of Belief."

Some evening topics considered have been "A Non-Conforming Conscience," and "Hot-and Cold-Blooded Sin." Dr. Copeland is willing to vary these evening topics to meet an honest student interest.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS

Class Schedule

A— 8:00- 8:40
B— 8:50- 9:30
Chapel— 9:40-10:40
C—10:50-11:30
D—11:40-12:20

Famous American Economist To Speak To Blount Underwriters At MC

Dr. Dan M. McGill, one of America's most eminent authorities in the field of insurance and finance, will speak to the Blount County Life Underwriters Association at their charter night observance in Wilson Chapel of Maryville College on February 20.

The event is co-sponsored by Maryville College, Blount County Underwriters Association, University of Tennessee, Knoxville Life Underwriters Association, and other civic and business interests.

At present Dr. McGill is professor of insurance at the University of Pennsylvania. He previously taught at University of Tennessee, University of North Carolina, and Stanford University.

In 1955 he was awarded the Elizur Wright Award for the outstanding publication in the field of insurance for his book, The Fundamentals of Private Pensions. He has written three other books and numerous articles and pamphlets on life insurance and pensions.

Serving on a number of state and national committees on finance, he has held significant assignments for the American College of Life Underwriters and is at present the executive director of the S. S. Huebner Foundation for Insurance Education.

A native of Maryville, Dr. McGill graduated from Maryville College in 1940 magna cum laude as an economics major. In 1941 he received his M.A. from Vanderbilt University and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1947.

$200 In Proceeds Of Barnwarming To Local Work

A $200 gift from the 1958 Barnwarming proceeds has been turned over by Maryville College YM and YWCA, to the Home Avenue-Sunnybrook Community Council.

The Council, which is the coordinating body for work of various groups and agencies in the Home Avenue-Sunnybrook communities, expressed their thanks to the YM and YWCA in a recent letter.

The letter acknowledged previous Y work in these areas in both financial aid and personal service. The Council requested that their gratitude be expressed to the offices and members of the two all-campus organizations.

Name Springstead, Townsend Leads For April 'Oklahoma' Showing

Judy Springstead and Bruce Townsend will play Laurie and Curley in the April performance of Oklahoma, it was announced February 2.

Tryouts for the production of Oklahoma were held early in January. In order to be eligible for tryouts students had to be members of the Playhouse Workshop or the Women's Chorus and Men's Glee Club. The performance will be given in April and will replace the usual annual operetta given by the combined choral groups.

Francis Arnold will be Ado Annie and Don White is to be Jud Fry in the cast announced. Other supporting roles will be Steve Miller as Will Parker, Margaret Samples as Aunt Eller, and Ron Randon as Ali Hakim.

Susan Parkinson is cast as Gertie Cummins, Don Stupak will be Andrew Carnes, and Dave Campbell will perform the role of Cord Elam.

A few other small speaking parts will be assigned from the chorus.

Dancers for Oklahoma will be Jane Allen, Leo Chen, June Conley, Sue Fryer, Jeanne Ginaven, Ken Hartman, Rosemary Lee, Sue Lemme, Blair Moffet, Helen Moore, Bob Schultz, Mary Hope Stewart, John Vanderbrooke, and Lynn Waddington.

Film Series Brings Russian Movie

A contemporary Russian movie will be presented February 21, in the Theater, at 7:30 p.m.

The film, "The Stone Flower," is in full color and has won several European awards in recent years. The story is a fairy tale about a Russian sculptor who carves a beautiful flower out of

Buck Of Month Club, 'Haymakers' Bring Alumni Giving To MC Funds

The Alumni Office reports that the total amount received from the Buck of the Month Program in 1958 was $11,415.72.

The high for the year was reached in December when a total of $2,174 was received. Totals for other months in 1958 were: January $370.28, February $515, March $902, April $798, May $549, June $531.73, July $665.30, Aug ust $757.41, September $1,309.50, October $1,227, and November $1,615.50.

Alumni giving on this scale is a relatively new idea at Maryville College. Until a few years ago Alumni were only asked to give two dollars dues a year. Under the present Buck of the Month Program, Alumni are asked to give one dollar a month, or more, if they desire.

In August of 1958, Mr. James W. Hampton originated the idea of a group called the "Haymakers." The "Haymakers" are Alumni who have given one hundred dollars or more during the course of the year. There are now 15 Alumni that belong to this group.

The Alumni Office has every confidence that funds received through this program will continue to grow in 1959.

Feb. 17 Brings 'Fair Lady' Repeat

Experimental Theater will give a repeat performance of the scenes from "My Fair Lady," on February 17, 7:30 p.m., in the Theater.

This show is being presented at the request of the Junior Chilhowee Club of Maryville and various students, faculty members, and townspeople who were unable to see the first production. The public is invited, and admission is free. The cast features Zona Gogel as Eliza, Bob Schultz as Professor Higgins, Stan Stefancic as Colonel Pickering, and a host of costermongers and dancers.

Remedial Reading Aids Students

The Maryville Remedial Reading Course, which meets two periods a week for ten weeks, is designed to help students improve their reading ability both for pleasure and study purposes.

Dean McClelland explained that the chief purpose of the remedial reading course is "to increase greatly the students' speed of reading without decreasing the students' comprehension."

He further explained that the course begins with an explanation of the mechanics of reading, the reasons for slow reading, and the means of remedying defects. To aid effective in the past in improving both the speed and comprehension of willing participants.

McCormick McKay Will Visit Campus

Arthur R. McKay, president of McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, will be at Maryville College February 16 and 17. He is coming to the community to speak to a Westminster Fellowship Presbytery rally.

He will counsel with those students interested in McCormick on Monday afternoon and will lead the chapel service on Tuesday morning. The hours and place in which he will counsel will be announced at a later date.

Dr. McKay went to McCormick two years ago after serving as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Binghampton, New York.

MSC Buys New Equipment, Plans Constitution Changes

By Frank Garcia

The Men's Student Cooperative Council hled its first meeting of 1959 on January 26. The Council wishes to acknowledge the return of Mrs. Julia P. Jones, housemother, who is now at her Carnegie apartment. Mrs. Jones returned following her convalescence from injuries sustained in an automobile accident in November. The Council and the Men of Carnegie extend "Mom" a hearty welcome back.

Two new washing machines are in operation in the Carnegie laundry room. A dryer and washing machine—and possibly a second washing machine—are yet to be installed.

The new machines are heavy-duty and completely new, so that, with proper care, they should serve much better than the old machines. The Council cautions against overloading the new machines, nonetheless.

Some new ping-pong paddles have been purchased for the recreation room, out of Co-op funds. Council makes these requests concerning the use of the recreation room and other facilities: please do not deface the walls on the ping-pong room, lounge or phone booths; observe the time limit for ping-pong and piano playing; make better use of trash cans and ash trays. Signs will be posted soon as reminders for these requests.

The Constitution Committee presented the following changes to the Council:

In the Constitution: (1) The number of representatives will be increased to 16, to make provision for the future conversion of Memorial into a men's dorm. (2) There will be redistribution of representatives, and a change to one council member for every 20 men.

In the by-laws: (1) The terms of the Council are to be extended to form a "lame duck" session for the beginning of the following year, until elections are held. (2) The officers are to represent Carnegie and Memorial. (3) Section 3 is to be deleted, and Section 2, Article 5, is to be rewritten.

These changes were unanimously approved by the Council. Two items in project are a coffee machine and a TV set for the lounge. The Council hopes to have these as soon as possible. The Council urges the support and cooperation of all men students. Any suggestions should be taken to one's floor representative.

Frosh To Sponsor Valentine Dance

The Freshman Class intends to give Cupid a hand by staging a Valentine Dance on Valentine's Day, February 14, in Alumni Gym after Maryville College's basketball game with the University of Chattanooga.

Both admission and refreshments will be free at the dance, which is open to all students.

The Valentine Dance will follow a full evening of sports, as wrestling, with Sewanee, and also

Y-Radio To Present Plays

Y-Radio will broadcast two experimental radio plays on the group's first program for February.

The plays will be heard at 10 p.m. Sunday, February 15, on Station WGAP, 1400 on the radio dial.

Maryville College students Ralph Ayers and Pete Smith are the writers of the plays to be performed.

Cast Moliere Play For March 6-7 Performance

School for Husbands Case

Cast and plans for the March 6 and 7 production of Moliere's School for Husbands were recently announced by Mr. Charles B. Lone, drama instructor.

The French comedy will be presented in a style which will convey a 1790 (late Georgian period) interpretation of the 1661 (Restoration period) performance. The set will be of elaborately simple, light, airy, rococo design. An entirely new wardrobe will be a necessity for this play, with a matching wig for each costume. Thus, Playhouse repeats its call for students to come and work in the sewing room.

The cast was announced as follows: Spanerelle, Steve Miller; Ergaste, Ron Randon; Lisette, Helen Marie Haynie; Asirte, Steve Mouton; Valese, Bob Schultz; Leonor, Jane Baltzley; Isabelle, Susan Parkinson; Dorinda, Jeanne Ginaven; Clothilde, Sue Lemme; Bear, Frances Matthews; Pierrot, Ken Hartman; Columbine, Sarah Smith; Harlequin, Helen Rankin; Shepherdesses, Jane Stewart, Nancy Paul, Sue Lemme, and Jane Allen; Athenee, Mary Hope Stewart; Solomon, Lynn Waddington; Socrates, Joann Hauck; Egyptians, Arlene Ford and Kathryn Smith; Dancing Master, Harriette Fuhrman; Third Lackey, Dick Crowder; Street Vendor, Suzy Hitch; Townspeople and Masquerader, Joan Mattice, Nancy McCahan, Mary Anne Braidwood, and Betty England.

Still needed are two lackeys, two bravadoes, a magistrate, a notary, and more townspeople and masquedaders. Anyone interested in helping with this production in any way should see Mr. Lane.

63 Make Fall Honor Roll; Juniors' Lead With 14%

Sixty-three students placed on the Honor Roll for the fall semester 1958. Scholastically leading the student body with a 3.00 average were Senior Keith Ham, History major; Sophomore Karl Diller, Greek major; Sophomore Charles Pearson, English major; and Freshman Glenda Gray.

Freshmen, with 18 persons holding the required average of 2.25 or higher, had the greatest number on the Dean's List. Following were sophomores with 17, juniors with 16, and seniors with 12.

Percentagewise, however, juniors headed the classes with 14 per cent of their members on the honor roll. Seniors and sophomores tied, each having 10 per cent, while frsehmen lagged with seven per cent. Approximately 10 per cent of the entire student body ranked as being on the Dean's List for the fall semester.

Under the present cut system, students with an average of 2.25 or higher are allowed to cut classes at their own discretion up to one-fourth the class time. Any cuts over that amount automatically to a D in the course.

The list follows:

Freshmen

Mary Lynn Anderson, 2.5; Sandra Chidester, 2.25; Brenda Dalton, 2.3; Helen Anne Easterly, 2.5; Fred Feitler, 2.7; Arlene Ford, 2.5; Martha Sue Forkner, 2.25; Harriette Fuhrman, 2.7; Glenda Gray, 3.0; Richard Heischman, 2.25; Sue Ann Lemme, 2.7; Priscilla Newcomer, 2.5; Barbara Nielson, 2.27; Sue Oxendine, 2.7; Lucille Petree, 2.3; Sylvia Smith, 2.25; Bobbie Spencer, 2.3; Carol Tucker, 2.5.

Sophomores

Rosemary Barrett, 2.5; Bonnie Birch, 2.25; Karl Diller, 3.0; Eugene Fieg, 2.5; David Gilmore, 2.25; Cheryl Gould, 2.25; Gretchen Ide, 2.26; Betsy Lonsinger, 2.3; Nancy Joan Martin, 2.5; Martha Messman, 2.25; Charles Pearson, 3.0; Patricia Penland, 2.5; Sarah Shelley, 2.25; Sarah Smith, 2.4; Jean Stefancic, 2.5; Margaret Stevenson, 2.7; John Talmage, 2.5.

Juniors

Gail Bradley, 2.3; Douglas Bunker, 2.28; Bryant Cureton, 2.3; Margaret England, 2.3; John Gilmour, 2.8; Robert Helton, 2.4; Carolyn Ingram, 2.3; Douglas Koehler, 2.25; Rosemary Lee, 2.6; Opal McNeal, 2.3; Jane Planltzer, 2.7; Helen Rankin, 2.5; Edgar Smith, 2.28; Edward Smith, 2.4; Ann Snelbaker, 2.8; Sondra Wagner, 2.6.

Seniors

Esther Balph, 2.5; Clark Eldridge, 2.6; Frank Garcia, 2.6; Zona Gogel, 2.25; Keith Ham, 3.0; Charles Herbert, 2.25; Richard Jones, 2.5; Stephen Mouton, 2.6; Robert Muir, 2.4; Perry Robinson, 2.25; Nancy Stere, 2.4; Doris Watt, 2.5.

Dr. Crane To Speak To Pre-Min Group

Dr. William E. Crane, Counseling Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, will speak on "Marriage Problems and Pastoral Counselling," at the February 12 meetinf of the Pre-Ministerial Association.

The meeting on marriage problems is closely related to the birth control problem, surveyed in an earlier meeting. There will be ample opportunity for questions after Dr. Crane's talk.

The Association is planning several activities for the remainder of the spring semester. During Holy Week, the group will be holding daily devotional meetings after lunch. The officers are now planning these programs.

A combined breakwast meeting with the Christian Education will Club will probably be held shortly after spring vacation. On April 23 the group will hold its annual banquet in the vicinity of the campus.

Meet Communism By Understanding, Robinson

We must be prepared to meet Communism on the basis of understanding, stated Dr. James H. Robinson in an exclusive interview for the Echo. Dr. Robinson is pastor of the Church of the Master in Harlem of New York City.

He was asked, "From your talk in our chapel service this morning (Friday, January 23), are we to infer that you believe that the Communists now have the upper hand in Africa" Dr. Robinson said that we cannot really tell; they may be ahead. If they are running true to form, we can probably say that they are ahead of us in strategy, he said.

He pointed out that in the past we have made the mistake of understanding them; we have treated Communism as a secular force rather than as a religion. Certainly we would agree that Communism is a false religion, he thinks; but it has the dynamism of religion; it produces a sort of missionary zeal in its followers, and we must be prepared to meet Communism on this basis of understanding.

In recent months many Southern segregation leaders have been saying that the Negro is treated as badly or worse in the North as he is in the South. When Dr. Robinson was asked for his opinion on how race relations in the North compare to those in the South, he stated that they are generally better in the North than in the South.

He feels that the Negro in the North is left with a certain feeling of dignity as a human being, which is almost totally lacking in the South. For the most part, the Northern Negro is allowed to patronize restaurants, hotels and theaters without discrimination. Dr. Robinson emphasized that there are still many bad spots in the North in race relations but that, in general, the picture is much better than in the South.

After this, Dr. Robinson was asked whether he thought that race relations in our nation have improved since the Supreme Court decision of 1954. He replied that this is a very difficult question to answer. At least the Supreme Court decision has helped us to confront this problem realistically; certainly difficulties arise out of confrontation with problems of this kind, he feels.

And for this reason, many persons have said that race relations in the South have grown worse instead of better. However, Dr. Robinson emphatically disagreed with this opinion; he said that now that the problem is in the open, we can better approach a solution to it.

By way of getting further information on this question, the reporter asked, "How soon do you believe that we can solve this problem?" Dr. Robinson said that it could be done within one or two generations. He mentioned that he has a great deal of confidence that the younger generation will solve this problem, now that it is in the open. Dr. Robinson ventured the opinion that the Negro can endure discrimination longer than our nation can afford to have it, because we are losing a great deal of prestige abroad because of it.

When Dr. Robinson was questioned about the activities of the NAACP, he said that he supported this movement and is a member of it. He mentioned that he had been one of the first members of the Executive Committee of the NAACP, but that he no longer serves in that capacity.

In closing the interview, Dr. Robinson said that there is more progress and hope in the Knoxville area on the segregation issue than in many other areas of the South. He emphasized that if Southern communities like Knoxville are able to find a solution to this problem, then other areas of the South will find guidance for their specific problems.

In his sermon on January 23 at the First Baptist Church, Dr. Robinson insisted that Christian love is the only answer to our world problems. He warned that we must be very careful not to hate Communists just because we hate Communism; he feels that we have no right to hate the people who hold an ideology which we dislike. He emphasized in closing that God loves us and expects us to love other men in the same way. This, he said, is the Gospel.

Dr. Robinson's visit to Maryville will long be remembered by those who heard him. Inspiring leadership like his should give us all hope and concern that our problems will soon be solved.

Coming Y Series of Four Programs Will Spotlight Africa For Students

"Cry the beloved country, for the unborn child that is the heritor of our fear. Let him not love the earth too deeply. Let him not laugh too gladly when the water runs through his fingers, nor stand too silent when the setting sun makes red the veld with fire. Let him not be too moved when the birds of his land are singing, nor give too much of his heart to a mountain or a valley. For fear will rob him of all if he gives too much."

Alan Paton speakrs perceptively of the "beloved country" Africa, and renders it alive in his book Cry the Beloved Country. And that is the self-same thing Y hopes to do during the coming weeks—to render Africa alive in our concern. Because we believe in the need of which Dr. Robinson was so deeply convicted when he addressed us not long ago, we feel compelled to maintain awareness of the eminent frontier—Africa.

Beginning February 15 we have outlined a series of programs on Africa, through which we will explore that country politically, economically, and sociologically, bringing these three aspects into focus in the concluding program. Mr. Ainsworth and Dr. Lynn of our faculty are on the agenda to speak, and a third speaker is being secured—all of whom have been chosen to provide you with new concepts.

We suggest that you, in the meantime, keep an eye and ear out for especially related news, that you may come not only to be informed but also perhaps to inform. Mr. Paton says of the growing Africa, ". . .when that dawn will come, of our emancipation, from the fear of bondage and the bondage of fear, why, that is a secret." It is essential that we help unravel that secret and aid the dawn's coming.

We challenge you to a successful experience in this series that Africa may surely be "rendered alive" to you.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1959 No. 2

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue Charlotte Cathey, Ross McGill, Phyllis Stine, Joe Williams

Contributors this issue—Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Eleanor Lockwood, Maryanne Braidwood, Mary Faye Bundy, Charlotte Cathey, Melvina Clark, Dyrk Couser, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterly, John Gilmour, Kathy Eisenhart, Sylvia Fugate, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilynn Lundy, Alice McCombe, Howard McCuen, Edgar Moros, Don Newroth, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Phyllis Stine, Lin Snider.

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Don Stupak, Josephine Widner

Faculty Advisor Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

Drake Meeting Speaks To US

By Charlotte Cathey

Emphasis is shifting on our campus—from what to what? It would appear that we are moving from Christ-centeredness to secularism, much to the chagrin of those of us who would guide. Concern is present in all levels , administration, faculty, and students, although student concern is perhaps not as overt as it might be. The reactionary tightening up of old measures to regain the "spirit" that made Maryville "unique" is meeting not reception but increased resistance by bewildered students. This situation is not confined to our campus.

Last summer at Drake University the National Council of Churches held a Convocation of Christian Colleges. The Student Section of this convocation, after intensive study of the church college situation, published their findings. With unerring directness they speak to our local college situation. For that reason I would like to quote here excerpts from their publication entitled What Is the On-Going Role of the Christian College in American Higher Education? This, in hope that these paragraphs will create insight into our growing dilemma.

The Role in View of The Crisis

"We seek here not to find a unique role for the Christian college in our time. No role which is merely unique can justify an institution. Only as we seek to discover a role legitimate in the Christian college's affirmation of the Lordship of Christ and in its dedication to the task of scholarship can we hope to justify its existence.

"Church-related colleges are not necessarily Christian colleges. Being concerned with the on-going role of the Christian college, we affirm that its life as an intellectual community under God is of primary importance. It must first of all be an institution of academic excellence. It can be this only if freedom and openness in the search for truth are maintained. The Church, therefore, must so love its Lord that it can love the Christian college and thus permit it the freedom of untrammeled search for truth.

". . . . The churches and the college administrators must resist the temptation to use the colleges to indoctrinate, to exert ecclesiastical pressures or to perpetuate a doctrinal line. . . Restrictions imposed on the faculty in what they may teach, and restrictions imposed on the student aimed at producing conformity in certain religious practices destroy the academic freedom necessary in an intellectual community of integrity. The professor must be free to teach what his studies have led him to believe to be the truth regardless of where his search for truth has led him. . . . The Christian college calls the faculty member to integrity of scholarship and to right responsibility in the use of personality and influence in the teaching task. . . at the same time respecting the student's freedom to accept or reject, even being willing to listen to the student in humility, recognizing that wisdom or knowledge may come from unexpected sources.

Students Have Repsonsibility in Education

"Education as the dissemination of truth must be taken seriously by students also. Inasmuch as we are compelled both in obedience to our faith and as responsible members in the academic community to search for truth, we are also compelled to fulfill our calling as students in another way—the demand and adventure of learning."

". . . . When a church establishes an educational institution, it has not fulfilled its mission. It has rather only started it. The ministry of the church is not the responsibility of the institution which the church has established as an autonomous academic community. A college which provides for its community a ministry of worship must seriously re-examine this policy. It is assuming for the academic institution the responsibility of the church. The church must take this responsibility to provide the ministry of worship, nurture, and pastoral care. The Christian college will encourage but ought not to interfere with the churches or with the Christian community in the campus To require worship, when worship is the free response of the person to the loving God, is to [illegible] which God has granted his creatures that they [illegible]

Scots & Soda

By Joe Williams

My Dear Parents,

I am very sorry that I have waited so long to write you, but the scholastic load this semester is far greater than it was last semester. You recall that I warned you of this when I was home at Christmas.

There is much more time to write now, however, for the February Meetings started yesterday. While the Meetings last, our teachers are scrupulously careful to make our daily assignments lighter than usual. We have so much time to meditate on the services that we hardly know what to do with it all. We even have time to eat.

I think that of all Maryville's countless traditions, we students like February Meetings the best! During the time that they are here, the leaders eat with us in the dining hall and we begin to lose what the Bard has called "that lean and hungry look" which however, in our case, does not come from thinking too much.

The leaders also come around to each residence hall during their stay and talk informally with us about whatever we wish. This is known as "leveling with us", and we all enjoy being leveled with a good deal more than being leveled at, or as is sometimes the case, just leveled.

What we like best of all, are the services themselves. Nothing you have ever seen can compare with them. They are just like chapel only enjoyable—er more enjoyable. I mean to say. How strange it is to be able to see the speaker. I attribute this to two things: (1) The services come later in the morning and we are awake; and (2) the speaker stays up long enough for us to focus our eyes on him. Our chapel leaders sometimes put in an appearance which is not much longer than that of a hidden persuader.

A more jovial atmosphere would be hard to imagine than that which permeates these services. I never laugh so much as there. Even the enamel on my teeth is cracking from so much exposure to the elements. And the music! You have never heard anyone sing hymns as ferociously as we do.

We are helped along a great deal in this by our very capable pianist and by the song leader. The speaker assures us that the pianist is the senior member of the group, but some think that all the evidence does not point that way. To be sure, though, the pianist is feebler now than he used to be. Why, he has not broken over three piano wires at any one service yet!

The song leader is a jolly chap. After he had been introduced, he rose and reintroduced himself, giving a few details of his undergraduate life which his introducer had omitted. Have you ever noticed how much more interesting autobiogarphy is than biography?

Well, I think I had better hurry along now, for it is almost time for the evening service. How good it is to have such a decrease in our daily assignments! As soon as I have covered my 150 pages of outside Bible reading, 200 lines of Latin, translated the Twelfth Book of The Iliad and read two novels, I will be free to attend the meetings.

Until next time, I remain

Your most affectionate son,
Heathcliff.

Moved and Seconded

Intra-Murals And Institutions

By Don Newroth,
President of The Student Body

You know, I think everybody should go see an intra-mural basketball game before he leaves this place. Even if the sport doesn't interest you, the costumes will. I don't even know why we insist on getting all upset about the Stinkin' Shoe game when the shirts we wear all season relate themselves sufficiently to our olfactory senses. You see a man and his attire running up the court and it's hard to tell which is conveying the other. But after you wear them for a while, you become comfortable — and you don't notice much else.

Institutions are like that. And so are institutions within institutions. We live through certain experiences on campus because they have become part of our tradition. The college has worn them so long that they come and go each year whether our enthusiasm requires them or not. And so we are in danger of slipping through February Meetings with somewhat the sensations of an intra-mural basketball player who pulls on his old shirt when the schedule tells him it's time to play ball. He never thinks about it; it's just what he's always done before.

My only hope is that we're awake to what we're doing. The Meetings aren't here just because we can use them to provide direction for our campus life. Or we can just wear them comfortably — and not notice much else.

Council's social committee piled a mess of us on a bus and took us up to Hiwassee a couple of weeks ago. I think that perhaps

(Continued On Page 3)

ECHO FORUM

The Echo Forum, of
The Highland Echo:

In reading the editorial "As The Echo Wakens," I found two statements which I feel should be more fully explained. The first is the phrase ". . . half-cocked explosions of half-baked individuals. . .," and the second statement is ". . . we may challenge but not protest." In connection with the former statement, who is going to decide that an "explosion" is "half-cocked" and the persons who write these words are "half-baked"?

If the topic is explosive, is there not a possibility that the underlying cause of the "explosion" has merit enough to be aired to the college public? Of course course articles should be censor-articles should be censored if slander or malicious actions are concerned, but should the basic idea not be conveyed to the public by the editor? I told the point of view that no "individual" is "half-baked" no matter how repulsive he may be.

In connection with the latter statement, why should we not remonstrate in "protest" of an incident which we feel to be unjust. How valid is your challenge without a "protest"?

Having made my "challenge" in the form of a "protest," I would like to suggest to the editor that such general terminologuies as "half-baked" and "half-cocked" are in a sense "slams" which tend to ignite "explosions" and may prove to be a point of much criticism for him (the editor) if a letter is not printed.

Richard D. Crowder

Mr. Crowder's statements show a subtler appreciation than the editor did of the terms used in the opening editorial—especially of the word "individual"; certainly everyone is an individual and cannot be considered half-baked. But individuals do go off half-cocked and act in ways that are later seen to have been half-baked; it is expressions of this kind that we want to avoid.

The intent of this statement was to keep all except considered responsible letters from ever beginning the flight toward our desk. I hope no one will be discouraged in his intent to address the Echo Forum because of what I have said; we need your voices.

I do not intend to lean on my own understanding in trying to determine whether a letter is a "half-cocked explosion" or a "responsible, considered one. I would consult mature students and concerned faculty who had comprehension of the issue which the letter brought to light. And I would hope we could collectively recognize an explosion, or a potential one, be it in the form of an explosive letter expressing the problem poorly, or an incident concerning only one or a few people.

More on "Explosions"

My usage of "explosion" was likewise misleading. Since we began this discussion in terms of detonation, let me continue in them and say that I was not referring by the phrase "half-cocked explosions" to developments that would indeed merit the attention of the college public. Rather, I was referring to "blanks," or "fizzles," or "duds," with noise but no content, or with neither noise nor content.

As for challenging but not protesting, the intended meaning

(Continued on page 4)

Minority Rule—
Twentieth-Century Style

Dear Senator Johnson:

Congratulations on your magnificent victory of January 12! You have again saved the Democratic Party from splintering, but who is now going to save the Democratic Party from the demagoguery of filibuster? Our party was given a mandate by the American people last November by the sweeping victory of our many liberal candidates. It was a mandate for liberal legislation too. Senators Douglas, Humphrey, Case, and Javits took that election seriously when they introduced the amendment to Rule XXII which would have allowed "extended" debate— a euphemism for filibuster—to be shut off by a majority of our representatives in the Senate. They knew—as you must know—that no effective civil rights legislation is possible so long as a few determined Southern Senators can thwart the will of the American people.

Woodrow Wilson was correct when he analyzed the Senate of 1917 as "the only legislative body which cannot act when its majority is ready for action." Senator Clifford P. Case, (R. New Jersey) is equally right when he declares in 1959 that in the United States Senate the minority can only be beaten by "physical exhaustion" and where "the medieval practice of trial by ordeal still survives." Thanks to your "compromise" Rule XXII this "little group of willful men" has a new lease on life, and majority rule will have to wait for at least two more years.

Need I remind you, Senator Johnson, that the Senate of 1789 had no requirement for the unusual "majority" of two-thirds to cut off debate, as your "compromise" requires? Likewise, numerous attempts for such a "compromise" as yours were killed in the 19th century". It remained for our country of democracy to make the majority will subordinate to the minority.

I am well aware, Senator Johnson, that opponents of the liberal proposal, who, incidently, supported your "compromise," term their fight under the guise of free speech; but you and I know that what is really involved is the power of obstruction. The late Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama made that amply clear in 1922 when he conducted a successful filibuster against the Dyer antilynching bill. Oscar said:

"We are not disguising what is being done on this side of the Chamber. It must be apparent. . . that an effort is being made to prevent the consideration of a certain bill, and I want to be perfectly candid about it.

"I do not say that captiously. I think all men here know that under the rules of the Senate when 10 or 20 or 25 men say that you cannot pass a certain bill, it cannot be passed.

"I want to say right now to the Senate that if the majority party insists on this procedure that are not going to pass the bill, and they are not going to pass any other business.

"You know you cannot pass it. Then let us go along and attend to the business of the country."

Well, let us go on with the business of the country. But what is our business, Senator Johnson, if it is not to protect our citizens by guaranteeing them their civil rights? Let's hope—for your sake and the Party's sake—that the American people do not ask that question before 1960.

Democratly yours,
Keith G. Ham

Conflict In The Middle East!

By Commodore B. Fisher

Associate Professor of History

Oil adds fuel to the fire—two-thirds of the world's known supply is there!

Geography—strategic crossroads of the world, keeps it in the limelight!

Russia's centuries-old design on the warm water ports of the Persian Gulf and Eastern Mediterranean looms large in all the turmoil.

Conflicting loyalties intesify age-long hatreds, racial, economic and religious. Thousands of Armenian and Assyrian Christians were killed by Moslems during World War I. More than a million were killed in Moslem-Hindu rits when Pakistan and India were formed in 1947-48. Arabs kill Jews, and Jews kill Arabs. Massacres have happened in the past—they can happen again! Last year King Faisal and many other members of his government were brutally murdered ad dragged through the streets of Bagdad.

In the midst of these seething hatreds and Russian Communist designs, at the official request of the government of Lebanon, 17,000 American marines and soldiers were sent to maintain order until tempers could cool, to hold the line as referee, to act as a deterrent to those who would create chaos and to assure those who longed for law and order. They landed without a shot, restored law and order with no bloodshed, and now have withdrawn without an incident. No referee ever did a better job! Lacking such a gesture, no one knows what horrors, duplicating the massacres of World War I, Bagdad, and India, might have spread from the mob spirit and bloodshed in Bagdad. Jordan, Lebanon, Israel, Syria—in fact, the entire Near East was probably saved from itself by this timely action.

Here is the site of ancient civilzations—Babylon, Egypt, Phoenicia. Here began the three great monotheistic religions, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. Oil, the Suez Canal, coveted warm water ports, and 48 million people who have known a better day are the components of the problem of the Middle East.

The Crusaders discovered the achievments of a higher civilization here in the Middle East. Then, for almost five centuries, from the fall of Constantinople in 1453 until the end of World War I, this area suffered the blight and neglect of Ottoman Turkish rule. After 1918 England and France divided the spoils and administered their mandates while Turkey, greatly reduced in size, remained independent and grew strong, and Zionism, aided by western nations, sent mass migrations of Jews into Palestine. Then Israel emerged as a strong Jewish nation, recieved official recognition, and was admitted into the United Nations in 1948.

Since that time more than a million Jewish refugees from all parts of the world have poured into Palestine, displacing the same number of Arabs, both Christian and Moslem. These embittered displaced persons add to the difficulty of the problem.

Artificial barriers between Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Aden, Kuwait, Yemen, Hejaz, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon, Israel and Egypt, are being challenged and rejected by Pan-Arab Nationalism, whose goal is just as commendable as was that of our original 13 colonies when they set out to form a more perfect union.

Great understanding and statesmanship are called for in these days as we try to find the answer to burning questions of refugees, oil revenues, foreign influence, and conflicting racial and religious issues.

There is no easy answer, but what happens in the Middle East does concern us. We cannot pass by on the other side. Referees with authority maybe called again. This time it may be YOU! You owe it to yourself to be informed!

Work Camps Bring Encounter With God, Man

By Bob Smith

During the past week or so, since the visit of Dr. James Robinson, who impressed us with his talk about Africa, there has been some special interest developed concerning work camps and particularly camps in Africa.

Thoughts of work camps, travel in Europe and Africa tned to catch the imaginatton and carry one off on an enchanting dream; but work camps are not dreams nor are work campers dreamers

Careful Consideration Needed

One must consider many questions in deciding whether to try to go to a work camp. How strong is your desire to go? The person who goes is the person who is willing to work and put forth initiative.

Second, if one goes, what will he or she need as a good representative of American students? Ability and willingness to adjust

(Continued on page 3)

By Bobbie Larsen

I know of no better way to convey the real meaning of our ecumenical work camp at Wilgespruit Conference Center, Roodeport, Union of South Africa, than to paraphrase the words of Paul and say that "we grew up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by every joint with which it is supplied, when each part is working properly, makes bodily growth and upbuilds itself in love." We came from countries as distant as America, England, and the Union of South Africa. We were of different cultures, and vocations, but we joined together in a Christian fellowship and were mutually strengthened.

We worked harder than we'd ever worked in our lives, mixing concrete and cement, loading trucks, and laying bricks. We got up at 6:00 every morning and began the day with chapel led by one of our group. Those on kitchen duty prepared our breakfast, we had a half an hour of individual Bible study, and we began our six to eight hours of work with time out for the traditional British custom of tea at ten and two. After a day of hard working together, we joined in a half dozen games of volleyball, hiking, or the long, informal talk of friends. After supper, we varied our program throughout the week with discussions of world problems, the Bible and its guidance for our lives, and recreational programs. Some of our discussions were on

(Continued On Page 3)

By Ralph Ayers

My experience in Puerto Rico this summer will always seem to me to be one of the milestones in my growth as an individual and as a member of society. To experience an Ecumenical work camp is to experience something unique and enriching in a way, I'm sure, that can be found in no other manner. In a brochure sent to me just the other day I read, "A service project . . . is an opportunity to work and to serve. Its purposes are to meet human needs through physical labor, teaching, studying, and working with others in the name of Christ." This states very plainly what happens in a work camp, but how it happens is very unique and different in every camp around the world.

My camp in Puerto Rico wasn't large as Ecumenical work camps go. We had only nine students from the states and six students from the island, five of which were girls representing five different denominations. In addition to the students were our technical adviser and his wife and three children, our leader from the States, and the Reverendo Diaz, his wife and three children at whose church we stayed. Reverendo Diaz acted as co-leader.

Our job was to build a small chapel for "La Iglesia Evangelica Unida de Puerto Rico" (United Evangelical Church of Puerto Rico) out of steel reinforced concrete and cinder blocks. We were aided by a few members and small children of the church.

A typical day in the life of our

(Continued On Page 3)

(Top) DANISH STUDENT Gunnar Mark, of the University of Copenhagen, places and cements stones in the three-foot walls of the retreat house below. "Hills" in the distance are Bronze Age burial mounds.

(Below) WORK CAMPERS began construction of the Helligkors Retraethus (retrear house) at Lem Station, Denmark. With hand cement mixer and other manual methods students fill wall with stone. Maryville senior Bob Smith was a member of this 1958 camp.

(Photos courtesy Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

Cagers Win At Home, Lose Away In Recent Games; Cumberland University To Call At Alumni Gym Tonight

Maryville's Scotties meet Cumberland University tonight as they attempt to continue a winning record on their home court. The game will begin at 7:00 p.m. this evening in Alumni Gym.

Maryville took its worst defeat of the season on January 22 as Sewanee found the range to emerge with a 75-46 triumph. Three of Sewanee's players tallied high with point totals of 21 and a pair of 18's. Carpenter, the freshman center, tallied 16 to lead Scottie scoring. Morris followed with 13, while Owenby and Wormsley, who has consistently hit double figures in his last four games, collected 12 each.

Two nights later at Hiwassee, the Tigers showed their claws and left an 84-80 scar on Maryville's record. Five of Hiwassee's men hit double figures ranging from 21 to 12. Bill Owenby had a big night as he flipped 13 field goals and eight fouls through the hoop for 34 points. Morris collected 25 and Carpenter 11. This game followed the all-too-frequent pattern of late with Maryville leading 38-33 at the half.

A 41-31 lead at the half dwindled as the Tusculum cagers overcame the deficit and gained a 68-66 verdict on January 27. Bob Carpenter chipped in 24 counters to boost his average, while Owenby followed with 15 and Wormsley with 11.

Maryville returned home to play host to the "Praying Colonels" of Centre College. The Colonels pulled away quickly, but found it hard going as Maryville constantly challenged the lead. Centre, however, eked out a 67-62 decision.

Finding the victory road once again the Scotties revenged Hiwassee defeat by taming the Tigers to the tune of 93-85. After holding a slim 43-42 half-time lead, Maryville exploded in the waning moments of the game to secure the victory. Carpenter poured 24 through the hoop, Morris collected 23 in a spectacular performance; Owenby, always a dependable performer, added 18, and Wormsley, with a 13.5 average for his last four games, collected 15.

February 2, breaking the ice in nothing less than a colossal manner, the Scotties had that second half punch to defeat Tennessee Wesleyan 83-78 in overtime, after a 74-74 deadlock ended regulation play. Tom Morris, the Hoosier center, cashed in with 37 points for the evening, the top individual score for the season. Bob Carpenter reaped 18 while Bill Owenby chucked 15 through the cords. Neal Wormsley hit double figures again with 11.

Larsen . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

Communism, the Middle East, and science and religion; they were not surface discussions but probed deep into our questioning and made us think and search. Other nights we went for brieflas, or cookouts, in the beautiful countryside of gently-rolling plains and green hills. On our community visits we saw the Margaret Ballinger Home for crippled African children, the African Music Society, and Zenzalanee, the home for the African blind, where the patients presented a play for us and sang the African anthem, "God Bless Africa."

What are my most vivid impressions of my work camp? I cannot begin to tell you of the countless experiences which I treasure and which have challenged and changed me. Experiences like a long talk with a Hindu man as we painted window frames and discussions late into the night as we considered the reasons and problems of apartheid. Another experience which we shared was the feeling of being dead-tired of laying bricks, knowing that we didn't have to do this, paying to do manual labor which we'd probably never do for pay, and wanting, more than anything else, to finish our project because we were accomplishing something that was meeting a need and had real meaning.

Despite the government's strict policy of separation, we were able to join together in meeting a need in one of the tension zones of today's world. We shared our differences, and we all became richer; we shared our problems and we all became stronger. We grew as "our souls were knit together" in Christ. Now that it is six months after our work camp, we realize that what is happening politically, socially, economically, and religiously in one part of the world affects us in another, for we are one world and one people.

Women's Societies Organize Teams For Intramural Sports Program

W.A.A. has a new look. The women's societies are now taking an active part in Women's intramurals. It is the hope of the Women's M Club that this will renew interest in what it believes is an important part of college life.

Each society has appointed an athletic chairman to serve on the advisory board and plan the program for the semester. The chairmen are Judy Perov of Chi Beta and Lou Lewis of Theta Epislon.

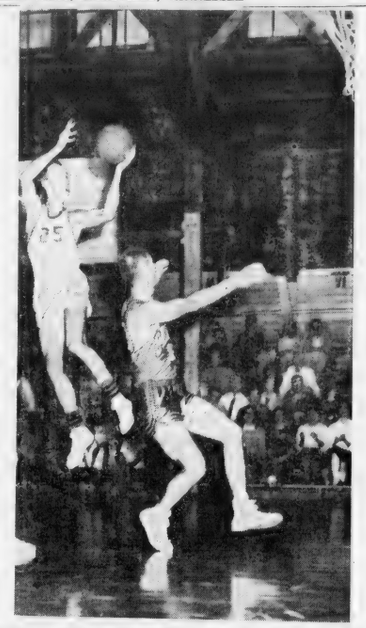
Each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon until spring vacation there will be a basketball game in the Intramural Gym. These games will be between one of the three teams from each society.

The first game was January 22, between the Travelers of Chi Beta under their captain Linda Roberts and Theta's Team I led by Emily Wood. The Travelers won by a score of 30-29. Leading scorers were Roberts and Elsie Harris with 29 points each.

Two games took place on the hardwood on Tuesday, January 27. In the first game the Chippies of Chi Beta under captain Barbara Davis defeated Joyce Trautwein's Theta Team III by the score of 26-17. Margie Luckenbach was big gun with 17 points for the losers. In the second game Theta's Team II, with Lou Lewis as captain, defeated Sharon Sweat's CB's of Chi Beta by a 62-25 margin. Lewis was leading point-maker with 22 points to her credit.

On January 29, the games got under way again with the Chippies of Chi Beta defeating Theta's Team I by the score of 36-16. Dona Sarver lead the way with 17 tallies.

Action began again Tuesday when the Travelers met Theta I and the CB's meet Theta II.



Chi Beta Programs Follow TV Themes

"This is Your Life" was the Chi Beta program given on January 31. Patsy Parks, president of Chi Beta, was the honored guest. The history and important events, such as the changing of the name, in the life Chi Beta were built around this theme.

The program "The Big Pay-off" was presented January 10. Ten freshmen girls were given the chance to "initiate" upperclassmen who had initiated them at the beginning of the year.

Members of Chi Beta have been participating in intramural basketball and working on plans for Skit Night, February 28. The program committee is planning a Valentine Party to be held jointly with Kappa Phi, and a hayride following spring vacation.

Patsy Parks has been elected president of Chi Beta for the spring semester. The other officers are Betty Boone, vice-president; Margie Stevenson, secretary; Dot Hembree, treasurer; and Susie Fagan and Judy Springstead, program chairmen.

SCORING ON A JUMP SHOT, Scottie Neal Wormsley (25) goes up as Centre's Joe Patterson (33) fails to stop the play. Centre downed Maryville, 6-62, on January 29.
(Photo courtesy Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

Ayers . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

camp would begin at 5:00 a.m. (four a.m. if you were on cooking detail that day). We would eat breakfast and have our morning devotions then pile into the "guaguita" for the two mile ride to work. On the way we passed lines of workers headed for the cane fields who would wave and smile as we went by. We usually began work at 6:00 a.m. just as the sun rose above the rugged mountains and filtered through the palm trees giving rich colorful warmth to the verdant landscape. We rarely had time to appreciate this tropical beauty, however, for our work was hard and time-consuming. We had only three shovels and one pick, about four hammers, a couple of steel crowbars, six buckets (for cement), a pair of wire cutters and other miscellaneous tools for the whole group. We used old nails that we straightened instead of new ones, we patched wood for cement forms instead of using new planks.

Our afternoons were generally our own. Three times weekly we entered into Bible study and discussion. Often we were lectured to by prominent people of the island on everything from history to hiccoughs (caused by eating too much tropical fruit). In the evenings we entertained ourselves with everything from learning the rhumba and meringa to devising ways of combating the most intelligent mosquitos I've ever seen. Our day always closed with a bilingual worship service and a prayer for peace and for other work camps around the world.

I have described briefly a few of the external experiences of an ecumenical work camp, but the real experience cannot be adequately expressed with words. It is the internal, the experience within the individual that changes and illumines the very soul. One can only say that the work camp is a place where people come to serve, to study, and to learn by sharing and working with others. It is a place where one gains insight into the nature of the Christian community and the working of the Holy Spirit through the re-examination of his own personal and social attitudes, the searching of new possibilities in worship, the mutual facing of personal problems, and the practice of Christian love.

Newroth . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

Maryville's future holds more things like that. College spirit needs to be directed toward these channels that will allow us to widen our experiences and at the same time lend support to our teams and other activities.

There are tremendous opportunities for this sort of thing. I'm planning to visit Knoxville College's study body president fairly soon and talk to him about exchanging ideas and talent. If I'm shrewd maybe I can rid us of some of my ideas and bring in some of their talent. Anyway, I don't think it will hurt us to explore some of these areas. Some how we've got to apply what we learn in the classroom to the world that lies beyond the diploma.

The proposal for selecting the members of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is moving along. It has passed Student-Faculty Senate and Student Council and now awaits the approval of the Executive Council. Under the system which is being considered, the nominations would be made by the Executive and Student Councils, but the final election would be in the hands of the senior class. The students with the highest number of student votes would be selected in accordance with the quota designated by the Who's Who organization. The rigid qualifications that we've used in past years have held our selections considerably below our quota. It also seemed strange that the seniors had very little voice in the matter.

Our student organizations committee is working to clarify the rules and procedures connected with Rush Week and Skit Night and other society functions. It appears that our ancestors have not handed down the machinery to coordinate these activities.

We also have a few special committees which are evaluating here and there. The first is concerned with the improvement of the freshman seminar. Those of you who were connected with that will be hearing from us. The other three are looking into the M Book, the Catalog, and the Standards and Requirements. The object here is to pinpoint those impressions one receives on paper but does not on campus. It's not a griping session. Our study promises to provide constructive suggestions along the line of student reaction.

The names of your council representatives are now on the bulletin board in Anderson Hall. Your opinions and contributions to student government will be welcomed by these members. We run a very sober government over there. I even heard that a certain contemporary of mine was going to take serious action if the girls in Pearsons didn't learn their in's from their out's. It's all very sad. Especially the timing.

Matmen Take On Knox Y Tonight After Losses To Mocs, Auburn

Maryville College's wrestlers will tangle tonight with Knoxville YMCA, hoping to repeat an earlier victory over the Y. The matches will follow the Maryville-Cumberland basketball game on the Alumni Gym card.

The Moccasins of Chattanooga visited on January 31 and carried off a 17-11 win. The evening was far from dull with plenty of action. A pleasant surprise was the grappling ability of Dave Campbell, a freshman, who won his match in a thrilling display of cautious; calculated, scientific moves. Don White, who is having a fine year, decisioned his man to record an additional three points for Maryville. Results: Deloach (C) decisioned Scott (M), Campbell (M) decisioned C. Nagle (C), McDonald (C) decisioned Robinson (M), M. Nagle (C) decisioned Findeisen (M), Mercer (C) decisioned Elia (M), Cox (C) decisioned White (M), Parker (C) pinned Riddle (M), and Huffstetler (M) won by forfeit.

Earlier in the month, the Maryville-Auburn tussle resulted in a 25-12 victory for Auburn. Larry Robinson, the experienced freshman from Everett High, pinned his man to give Maryville their only win. Bill Hartman drew with Boyd of Auburn to chalk up two points. Maryville's other points came as a result of a forfeit in the 123 pound class.

Sanborn (M), on forfeit; Keller (A) pinned Scott (M); Robinson (M) pinned Medagalia (A); Channel (A) pinned Kirkpatrick (M); Hartman (M) drew with Boyd (A); Patrick (A) decisioned Elia (M); Middleton (A) pinned Riddle (M); Irwin (A) pinned Huffstetler (M).

Intramurals....

Intramural basketball has been carried on with vigorous enthusiasm, close games, and much improvement. Probably the most improved team in either league is the G-Strings. The teams to beat in the A league are the Mavericks and the AS Sledgehammers. In the B league the strong Gunners are leading.

Mavericks Squeeze by Sledges

The Mavericks gained a 29-28 victory over the AS Sledgehammers behind the shooting of Bernard Harless who scored 13 points. The game was closely contested all the way. With the Sledges leading and about thirty seconds to play, George Bales swished a 35-foot sets-hot to win the game for the Mavericks.

Ray Hannah led the Rosebuds to a 26-24 victory over the Mavericks with his 10 points. Hannah dropped a pair of gift shots to break a 24-24 deadlock and win the game for the Rosebuds.

Despite Earl Smith's 16 points the hot AE Sledgehammers pinned a 45-42 defeat on the Rosebuds. Roger Smithey gathered in 15 points and Tom Bass 11 for the victors.

Knights Win In Two Overtimes

With Kappa Phi's Knights leading most of the way, the Trojans knotted the score just before the gun, in a game that resulted in the Knights' 31-29 double overtime win. In the first three-minute overtime the Knights grabbed a four-point lead, but again it was equalled by the Trojans. In the last overtime the Knights outscored the Trojans 4-2 to gain the triumph. Fred Tepper was high point man for the victors with 13.

Other scores:

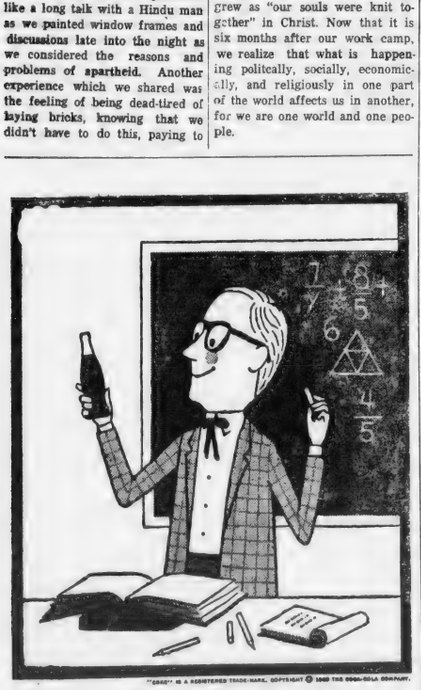
AS Sledgehammers 34, Knights, 20
K Knights, 24, AE Piledrivers 22
AS Trojans 29, Rosebuds 19
AS Piledrivers 28, AS Trojans 26
Mavericks 34, AS Piledrivers 22
K Barons 32, G-Strings 11
Gunners 37, AS Shieks 20
K Sputniks 39, G-Strings 22
AS Sheiks 49, Barons 12
AS Hammers 18, KP Sputniks 13
AS Shieks 31, G-Strings 27
Gunners 52, G-Strings 27
Gunners 41, KP Sputniks 29

AS Hammers won by forfeit over KP Barons.

Smith . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

are of prime importance in work camp. The work is hard physical labor and methods may seem inefficient; there is little time for sleep; traveling with all you own on your back gets rough; diet is different; most camps lack modern linen facilities; and there is no room for complainers. Psychological pressures and adjustments must be made quickly and at the same time one meets these other encounters.



Another need of equal importance is an interested and questioning mind which has had some experience. The United States is a world power and American campers usually find themselves targets for a bombardment of pointed and important questions for which they have to give some intelligent answer. Sometimes this is most difficult and nearly impossible with the added problem of language barriers. Campers need an ability to receive from and participate in intelligent discussions on university student level.

After considering the above needs, one must next consider finances, which are really of secondary importance. First of all, as it is often said, "where there is a will there is a way." There are unlimited sources as possibilities for financial aid.

Names Possible Sponsors

For example, church organizations, civic clubs, newspapers and many private persons will give generous support if a student can demonstrate an active interest and make known that such a project can be of great value to those at home, to many foreign people he will meet and to the camper himself.

The student who sincerely wants to participate and can demonstrate the abilities needed for a work camp project will find subsidy a minor problem.

"COKE" IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK. COPYRIGHT © 1959 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.

Q.E.D.

Yes, it's been demonstrated time and time again, that for real refreshment it's Coke every time! Add up that cold crisp taste, that lively lift and you really have a drink worth going after. So whenever the crowd has a multiple thirst, make the high sign of good taste . . . pass around the Coca-Cola! Quod Erat Demonstrandum!

Drink Coca-Cola

BE REALLY REFRESHED . . . HAVE A COKE!

Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by

RODDY MANUFACTURING CO.

Students Enjoy Shopping at

McARTHUR'S

Dept. Store

Don Newroth
Student Body President

COLLEGE CLEANERS

QUICK SERVICE

SEE OUR AGENTS

Carnegie—Ralph Ayers
Pearsons—Doris Watt
Baldwin—Helen Marie Haynie
Memorial—Peggy Reiter

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES

YUkon 3-4762 Mayville, Tenn.

WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

Saturday thru Thursday

Cecil B. DeMille
YUL BRYNNER
CLAIRE BLOOM
CHARLES BOYER
THE BUCCANEER
INGER STEVENS · HENRY HULL · E.G. MARSHALL
CHARLTON HESTON
TECHNICOLOR
VISTAVISION

Student Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

Make Architecture An Art Form, Says McCarty At Feb. 3 Opening

"Architecture as an Art Form" was the topic of Bruce McCarty's lecture at the February 3 art opening held in the Fine Arts Center lounge.

Mr. McCarty, a nationally-known architect from the firm of Painter, Weeks, and McCarty in Knoxville, showed slides to illustrate his lecture.

Mr. McCarty began his talk by explaining that it is very hard today to make architecture an art form because the general public is more interested in what a building is going to cost per square foot rather than concerned as to the many details that make it an art form. As an example, he pointed out that very few schools and institutional buildings win prizes in design because the architects are so limited. Fortunately, Maryville College has been able to construct her most recent buildings, the Fine Arts Center and the Chapel, within financial reason and without sacrificing good design.

In order to give his audience a background on contemporary architecture, Mr. McCarty first showed slides of early homes designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Wright, who is the genius of twentieth Century architecture, appeared to be the strongest influence upon the homes and structures that Mr. McCarty used as samples of architecture as an art form. Wright basically follows the well known theme, "Form Follows Function."

Mr. McCarty pointed out how the needs of today's people have influenced architecture. We live much differently than did people of a century ago or even of 20 years ago.

Unlimited materials open wider vistas of design and interpretation to architecture as an art form. Mr. McCarty emphasized that today's designs use natural materials to better advantage and today's designers have the added convenience of new synthetic and improved materials.

New methods of construction, introduced by Wright and other contemporary architects, have also enabled architects to make their designs into art forms.

All these things are taking place in architecture today, but it is Mr. McCarty's hope that long-range city planning and urban development can be done to enable architecture to become completely an art form.

YM Reorganizes Children's Library

BOOKS FOR Children's Home

The YMCA has started a project this semester to reorganize the library at the Blount County Children's Home. The present plan is to eliminate such unnecessary items as books on philosophy and books written in French, which are now included in the collection.

During the past several years, the YMCA has made a large contribution of books to the Home. Their most recent gift has been 60 dollars worth of books, made possible through the contributions of Hanover Presbyterian Church of Wilmington, Delaware, and Bob Krogh, a 1958 Maryville graduate.

These books, chosen for interest and variety, were purchased at a special price from Rich's Department Store in Knoxville. Rich's also donated a set of children's encyclopedia and a globe. The cooperation of the staff at Rich's as well as the Board of Directors of the Children's Home has been encouraging to the YMCA.

A committee will soon be set up to consider all the books given to the home, so that the library will not be stocked again with books of little value to the children.

This project of reviving and improving the library at the Children's Home will be continued, and the help of any individual or organization will be greatly appreciated.

Magill To Lead Phi-Beta Singing

February Meetings song leader Rev. John Magill, D.D., will lead singing at tonight's joint meeting of Kappa Phi and Chi Beta. The two societies will meet at 6:15 in Bartlett Hall.

Mr. Magill will also render his version of "Shortnin' Bread," which won him campus-wide fame during his student days.

The two societies will hold business meetings following the program.

Kappa Phi has elected Leading Ladies and is making plans to present them.

The biggest event of second semester is the Spring Formal, sponsored jointly with Chi Beta. Both societies are planning for this occasion.

Kappa Phi expects to have a very eventful semester and has planned many interesting activities for all its members.

Robinson's Chapel Talk Vitalizes Students' Concern For Africa

Dr. James H. Robinson, in a warm, yet powerfully persuasive voice, dropped a bomb in at least one area of American students' complacency in his Maryville College Chapel talk on January 24.

Dr. Robinson informed the Maryville College student body that the Moslem religion is winning Africa at the rate of 10-to 1 over Christianity; that for the 1100 African students in American schools, there are 1400 in Russian institutions of learning; and that America has only 10 years at the most to win the Dark Continent.

Dr. Robinson told of past successes of student work camps held in Africa. Eleven American students did more as work campers to deter the flow of Communism in Africa than five steel factories or three dams, he said. This same plan was carried into Africa with 60 American students won the tribes of Africa, a feat which had not been accomplished with all of the United States dollars of foreign aid.

The climax of Dr. Robinson's talk came when he challenged Maryville students to join the solicited 160 students for another African campaign in 1960. The only stipulations placed on students were those of speaking once a week of the trip to some American group in a powerful, "original, creative manner," and being willing to work, travel, and witness abroad.

Alpha Sigma Plans Full Semester

Alpha Sigma has planned a number of events for this semester. Sig will, of course, have their place in skit night. The theme will be a satire on a Shakespearean play.

The Alpha Sigma Sweeheart show is also not too far away. The theme of this show is as yet undecided.

Later in the semester Sig will have its spaghetti supper, a

New Sweatshirts Begin Theta Year

"Si Deus Nobiscum guis contra nos." Members of Theta Epsilon began second semester in new navy sweatshirts with a motto and crest designed by Charlotte Cathey and Susan Parkinson.

At the first meeting on January 10, past presidents Judy Cummings and Susan Parkinson were presented engraved silver bracelets.

The officers for second semester are Ruth Wagner, president; Evelyn Crane, vice-president; Joyce Trauwein, secretary; Peggy Reid, treasurer; Mary Monson and Ann Newcomer, program chairmen. New ideas for second semester were discussed at the first meeting.

Lou Lewis has been elected athletic chairman for the basketball season. A new combined program with Women's Athletic Association is designed to the benefit of the women's societies. Theta Epsilon has three teams.

Faculty Club Hears Ainsworth On U. Of Geneva

This year designates the four hundredth anniversary of the founding of the University of Geneva by John Calvin. It also marks the fundred hundred-fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Calvin.

Arthur D. Ainsworth, assistant professor of political science, spoke on the Calvin Academy at the Faculty Club meeting held on campus February 2. He talked particularly on the projected undertaking of the moving of the University of Geneva to the United States in 1794.

This meeting is one of six that the Faculty Club holds each year. One dinner meeting is planned, to which faculty members and their wives or husbands are invited to attend. Generally there are three meetings per semester.

Last semester Dr. David H. Briggs spoke on hypnosis, Miss Gertrude E. Meiselwitz, head of the Home Economics Department, gave historical aspects of holiday food, and Mr. Richard E. Beard, third speaker of the semester, spoke on the place the fine arts have in a liberal arts curriculum.

The club, which has been organized for 25 years, is now headed by a committee, of which Dr. Elizabeth H. Jackson is chairman. Mr. Ainsworth, Dr. Paul J. Cooper, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Miss Evelyn G. Guss, and Miss Margaret S. Ware compose the committee.

Take Kingdom Seriously In Our Age, Dr. Louis Evans Tells Students

By Betsy Lonsinger

It took only thirty Communst college students to sway the course of the entire Chinese nation? Yes, in just two weeks, thirty young men converted one quarter million Chinese citizens of Hong Kong to Communism and thus initiated the movement towards what is now Red China

This astounding and thoughtprovoking fact was given point-blank to Maryville College students by Dr. Louis H. Evans, Sr., in a special interview two weeks ago following his appearance in the recent Community Preaching Mission. Dr. Evans, minister-at-large of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA, gave this as just one of the many vital statistics which are calling for decisive thought and action on the part of Christian college students today.

'The new solidarity of the world is leading to a sense of closeness and immediacy in this day and age." Dr. Evans continued. "We are driving a high-powered car that requires careful handling."

Says Today's Students Serious

He went on to state emphatically that the Gospel of Christ is the only adequate weapon against the threat of Communism with its disastrous implications for the free world. What a tremendous challenge for American youth! Dr. Evans stressed his belief that today's college students are just as serious as was his generation, and perhaps more vitally concerned with the problems of their world, but "they must take the Kingdom seriously!"

"We are sending out now," he emphasized sharply, "fewer missionaries than we did before the Civil War." Then he went on to add that there have been 2000 missionaries sent out by the Church in the past hundred years as compared with the 2000 Communist infiltrators put to work in strategic areas in one year!

On his extensive travels throughout the world, Dr. Evans has had much opportunity to view conditions and attitudes in many countries and note the general feelings toward American Christianity. One retort — Don't preach to us the Fatherhood of God until you (Americans) are ready to practice the brotherhood of man!" — seems to pin-point a majority of these feelings.

Would Initiate New Degree

It is remarks like this one which have led Dr. Evans to staunchly believe that it would be well for all American colleges and universities to initiate a new degree, Bachelor of Brotherhood. "High schools, too, might be producing better nation- and world-citizens if they would require for graduation the satisfactory passing and proper application of a course in "How to live together happily!" he added.

Dr. Evans, chosen by Life Magazine in a nation-wide poll as one of America's 12 outstanding religious leaders, and by Newsweek Magazine as one of her 10 greatest Protestant ministers, is well qualified to advance these opinions.

Asked why he decided as a young man to enter the ministry, Dr. Evans replied that to him human lives and souls had always been the most important thing in the world. "Let others work with things, with wood and seel, for somebody has to," he concluded. "I wanted to give all my time to people."

A keen judge of human nature with an unusually rare gift of insight and understanding, Dr. Evans has learned through long years of experience that the greatest need of people is God. His devotion and consecration to what he terms the "human equation" have made him one of the most beloved and effective leaders of the Christian Church today.

Jacob Queener Speaks At Vols

Jacob Queener, son of Mrs. Verton M. Queener, and the late Dr. Queener, was the speaker at Student Volunteers on Sunday evening, February 1.

Mr. Queener, who is preparing to go to New Guinea in a few months, spoke on the subject of mission work. He stated that before entering the mission field, one should ask himself, "What is my mission?"

He went on to say that the primary work of missionaries is not the health and education of the people, but to present the Word of God. He added that going to a mission field without the call of God and without the message of Christ is useless to God.

This was the second in a series of programs on Latin American missions.

STUDENT RECITALS

Several Student Recitals are to be given in the near future. On Tuesday, February 10, one will be given at 4:30 in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

A Junior Recital will be given on February 17 at the same time and place. Richard Conway, baritone, will perform along with Mary Schmidt at the organ.

Echo Forum . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

would be more closely expressed if we stepped both parts of the parallel up one level: so that ". . . we may protest but not do violence." To say that we may protest but not do violence (in the editor's opinion, aye) does not mean that we cannot take effective action.

Today's editorial is the type of thing I meant by the term "challenge" in the opening editorial.

From the bgeinning this discussion has been entirely too theoretical, and perhaps we are not yet referring to the same situations with the words we are using. From this side, I have been referring to possible misunderstandings between faculty or administration and students. I have been referring to situations, conditions, and developments which students complain about in bull sessions, at the table, between classes. Perhaps these passing gripes are the extent of the complaints, simply the safety valve that keeps real pressure from mounting.

Declines Further Comment Now

In order that this newspaper remain a "considered, responsible" one that approaches issues in attitudes something like mature, I will not comment further at this time on the issue we have raised. To comment on such issues is to comment on the College's philosophy of education, on personalities, and to speak to the possibilities of the life of each student. And the Editor is not ready to do this in a "responsible" way—not this issue.

It is interesting that most student gripes concern the social life on this campus. Granted that social development is an important face of the prism of education; then comments on the social life here are valid if soundly based. But why is it that complaints are not more often concerned with the way this college relates the student to education in general and to the larger world beyond the campus? Comments made in such terms should have more appeal to educated people than any sort of "half-cocked explosion"; reasoned arguments supported by action if necessary, should have effect.

Editor "Half-Baked"?

Perhaps the editor betrayed himself as what he termed a "half-baked individual"—he realizes this is not without the realm of possibility. I doubt that we have seen the end of this question of "exposions" and "fizzles"; this issue could continue to sizzle. This is good. But it might have been better to withhold mention of explosions and protests until something actually occasioned their mention; for we have been dealing only in theory —this may be the source of our linguistic problem. Thank you, Mr. Crowder.

Respectfully,
The Editor

Dear Editor,

First let me congratulate you for doing such a fine job of "waking the Echo." It's good to have an accurate news source once again.

Secondly, I'd like to use the Echo to reflect some of the things that are on my mind. Frankly, I'm worried. Recently there seems to be an overabundance of the "what the heck" attitude among all of us. We seem to be laughing at the fact that this is a Christian institution and saying that it will remain such even if we ourselves aren't Christian in our approach. This has become evident in the dining room behavior during the prayers, the number of downright sacrilegious jokes being heard, and the general approach to those things which should be the marks of Christian living.

Recently we've been challenged to live constructive, altrustic lives, and this has helped many of us to realize that Christ-like living is a positive thing and not a system of don'ts. Maybe it was all summed up some time ago in an address called Sincerity. Perhaps the problem is that we want to appear worse than we really are—just to impress some imaginary group which doesn't really exist.

Do my worries make sense? Are these grounds for worry or is it just me? I'd like to know.

Sincerely,
Bill Pennock

So would most of the rest of us. I hope Mr. Pennock's letter will move others to voice their opinions on student attitudes; the Forum needs this kind of material and will publish ideas that seem to shed most light on the question. Today's editorial has something to say to us on the matter of attitudes. Thank you, Mr. Pennock.—The Editor.

PROFFITT'S
Everything For Descriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian
—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center
Broadway—Maryville
Proffitt's

College Hill Grill
Just off Campus
Good Food at Moderate Prices
Hamburgers - - 25c
Cheeseburgers - 30c
Full Meals starting at 88c

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •
Cosmetics—Lavin • Rubenstiene • Dorsay • Revelon • Tussy • Cochran and Other Famous Lines
—Prescription Specialist—
CITY DRUG CO.
108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

STERO RECORD PLAYERS
As low as $79.95
Magnavox — RCA — Motorola — Zenith — Philco — Sonic Radios and Record Players
Hitch Radio & T.V.

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
BIBLES — R.S.V., PHILLIPS BOOKS CARDS GIFT ITEMS
Maryville YU 3-4982 229 College St.

CC
ML
DK

Start the Year out Right Eating at THE COFFEE HOUSE
Featuring HOME MADE Pies and Chili
• Home Made CHILI with Beans—Never saw a can (You can taste the difference)
• Our Home Made PIES are in ORBIT—Fresh selection Fruit and Cream Daily
• And of course Breakfast and Hol 'n One Donuts any time
WE NEVER NEVER CLOSE Call Us and We'll Have It Ready YU 2-1541

The Highland Echo

Z 703

Vol. 44 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENN., FEBRUARY 28, 1959 | No. 3

Societies Perform To Win Trophy At Skit Night, 8:00 P.M. In Alumni Gym

The trophy is the prize as Maryville's four societies compete in Skit Night this evening at 8:00 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Skit Night is held annually during the second semester at Maryville. The rules state that each society will present a skit which must be approved by the Faculty Committee on Student programs, be participated in and written by active members, must not exceed 20 minutes in length, and have a budget of not more than $5.00.

Three judges and one timekeeper have been appointed. The skits will be judged on originality, performance, and appropriateness. The skits will be ranked according to points, with two points added for each minute they run over 20. Thus, the society with the fewest points will win.

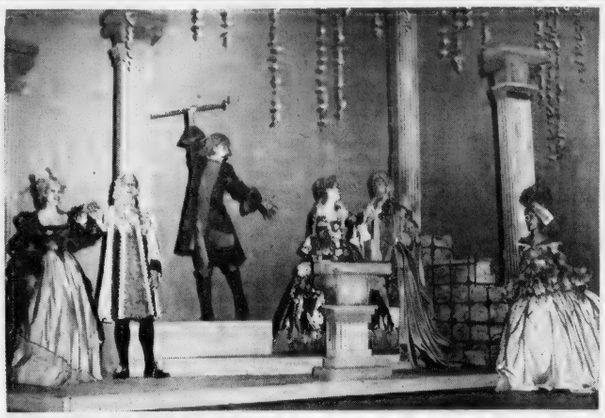
The trophy is given to the winner. Any society winning three years in succession keeps the trophy permanently. Last year's winner was Kappa Phi.

The chairmen for the skits of the different societies are as follows: Chi Beta—Lou Brininger and Connie Bonduraent; Theta Epsilon — Rosemary Lee and Charlotte Cathey; Kappa Phi—Paul Burger and Bill Pennock; and Alpha Sigma—George Stewart.

The price of admission is 25 cents per person. The proceeds will be divided evenly among the societies to help defray expenses.

Spring Play Tickets Go On Sale Beginning Mar. 3

Information has been released concerning sale of tickets for the performances of Moliere's School for Husbands, 1959 Spring Play, to be given March 6 and 7.



General ticket sales will begin at 1:30 p.m. on March 3. Students and townspeople may reserve tickets at the drama office in the Chapel either in person or by telephone (YU 2-2911). Sales will continue from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily.

Faculty members will have an opportunity to reserve tickets on March 2; only faculty may reserve tickets on this first day of sales.

Prices are 75 cents to students and faculty of the College and $1.00 to townspeople.

Tickets must be called for no later than 7:45 p.m. on the night of the perfomance.

Performances will be given in the Theatre at 8:00 p.m. on March 6 and 7.

BRANDISHING HIS CANE, Sganerelle brings a high point in the action of Moliere's SCHOOL FOR HUSBANDS. Steve Miller is Sganerelle. Other cast members in the scene are Leonor, (Jane Baltzley), Ariste (Steve Mouton), Isabelle (Susan Parkinson), Valese (Bob Schultz), and Lisette, (Helen Marie Haynie). Performances will be March 6 and 7 at 8:00 p.m.

Choir To Go 2300 Miles On Fla. Tour; Will Give 19 Concerts In 12 Days

The Vesper Choir will depart on its annual tour on March 6 at 7:00 p.m. They will travel all night and arrive at New Smyrna Beach, Fla., in time to give their first concert there at 7:30 in the evening, The following day, Sunday, they will give four concerts.

During this first week of the tour, the choir will give at least five concerts in Florida high schools, along with their church concerts in the evenings. Nineteen performances are closely scheduled on the tour.

The touring choir will be composed of 41 students. The members are Rosemary Barrett, Evelyn Brackbill, Gail Bradley, Judy Collins, Peggy Davis, Gloria Evans, Zona Gogel, Glenda Grey, Marion Irwin, Karen Kennedy, Elva Leonhardt.

Sandra Mcneill, Nancy McCahan, Mary McEver, Mary Murphey, Jan Peterson, Lessie Rhodes, Mary Schmidt, Nancy Stere, Ruth Terhune, Elva Yohe.

John Brehm, Doug Bunker, John Christie, Dick Conway, Bryant Cureton, Dan Davis, John Ducey, John Eaddy, Clark Eldridge.

Thomas Evans, Steve Flagler, Bill Green, Bob Gwaltney, Gary Hall, Charles Justice, Harold Mays, David McCahan, Norm Patterson, Bob Reichenbach, and Herb Thompson. This is about two-thirds of the regular choir, and it represents 18 states.

Although the choir will not have much time to bask in the Florida sun, they will have many opportunities for new experiences and for seeing new sights. They will be entertained by a show at the Cypress Gardens. A concert will be given for the choir at the Bok Tower.

Last year the choir had their picture taken with a government official in Washington, D. C. This year they will also have their picture taken with celebreties! At the Seaquariam, they will be photographed with the singing porpoises. They may even sing with them!

Another highlight of the trip will probably be when the choir takes a boat trip from Dunedin, Fla. They will go out to an island off shore and swim, weather permitting.

The last concert given in Florida on the 12-day tour will be at Winter Haven. They will come back to Tennessee immediately after that, arriving late on March 18, having traveled 2300 miles.

The entire choir will give a home concert on Palm Sunday, March 22, in the Chapel at 7:00 p.m.

MC-ETSC Trade Sends Mar. Show To FAC Gallery

An exchange art show from East Tennessee State College in Johnson City will be presented in the Fine Arts Center Gallery beginning March 2.

The show from East Tennessee State is this year's number in the art department's practice of exchanging one exhibit yearly with another school in this area. In 1957 the exchange was with Berea College, and last year Chattanooga University sent an exhibit.

The Maryville show to be displayed at East Tennessee State includes about 15 oil paintings, water colors, serigraphs, etchings, woodcuts, and graphics.

The April art show will present the work of a nationally-known artist to Maryville students. The artist is Sister Mary Corita, of Immaculate Heart College In California. She is known for her work in serigraphy.

Y Africa Series Concludes Sunday

YM-YWCA will conclude their series of programs on Africa tomorrow. A student-faculty panel will survey the previous programs on economics and politics in Africa and will elaborate on the general situation there.

The meeting will be held in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Y's next program will be an hour of music by the Knoxville College Octette, a perennial favorite with Maryville students. This program also will be presented in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 1:30 p.m., on March 8.

An Easter Eve program will materialize during the spring vacation interim. This program will probably be scheduled for the evening of March 28.

Debaters To Vie In Hickory Meet

The Maryville College Debate Squad plans to attend the South Atlantic Debate Tournament, to be held March 5-7 at Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory, N. C.

Those entered are the teams of Dan Ellis and Keith Ham; Ross McGill and Dave Pierce; Patsy Davis and Joyce Williams; and Barbara Tierney and Judy Gano. These participants will engage in seven rounds of debating and in various individual contests.

At the state tournament in Henderson, Tennessee, on February 14-15, Dan Ellis won first place in oratory and reached the fials in impromptu speaking. In the debate contests, men's senior division, Ellis and his colleague, Keith Ham, won three out of five; in men's junior division, Don Jackson and Don Leo also won three out of five. The other teams, consisting of Gene Fieg and Dave Pierce; Patsy Davis and Joyce Williams; and Barbara Tierney and Judy Gano, won a total of five debates.

At the invitation of the Alcoa Kiwanis Club, two men's teams presented a debate at Spike's Restaurant on February 19. These debaters were Ross McGill and Dale Young, opposing Dan Ellis and Keith Ham.

Spotlight Hunter In Ad Series For Education

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Maryville College professor of English, will be featured in one of a series of advertisements spotlighting outstanding teachers.

The Board of Christian Education of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA will begin this series in the February 15 issue of Presbyterian Life magazine, as part of a larger campaign for support of higher education. The advertisement featuring Dr. Hunter will be the first of the series. Following ads in the series will single out other outstanding teachers in Presbyterian colleges.

The Board of Christian Education campaign is part of a current nationwide advertising drive in support of higher education in the United States.

This drive is being conducted by two national groups. One of these groups, the National Council for Financial Aid to Education, has the particular concern of support for education.

The other, the National Advertising Council, backs many campaigns for movements of national safety and welfare, such as this one for education and the "Smokey the Bear" forest fire prevention campaign.

Give Experiments With Liquid Air On March 11

Liquid air demonstrations will be presented by Elliot James on March 10 at 7:00 p.m. in the Chapel Theatre.

The Liquid air demonstrations are experiments in low temperature, at 312 degrees below Zero, Fahrnheit. Mr. James will demonstrate the Mercury "Hammer," the Kerosene "Candle," the Lead "Bell," and the "Liquid" Airplane. Mr. James is from Bowling Green, Kentucky.

This event will be sponsored by the Physics and Chemistry departments.

These entertaining, deucational, and enjoyable experiments will be open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

List Bloy, Gogel On Recital Card

James Bloy will present a Faculty Recital at the Fine Arts Center Music Hall on March 1 at 4:00 p.m. The program will consist of these organ numbers: Prelude and Fugue in D minor by Buxtehude; Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor by Bach; Four chorale preludes by Bach, Kyrie eleison by Reger, and Variations on a Noel by Dupre.

Zona Gogel, senior from Miami, Fla., will give her senior piano recital on March 3 at 8:00 p.m. Miss Gogel has been the recipient of the Presser Foundation Scholarship for three years at Maryville. She is a member of Vesper Choir, Opera Workshop, and Tau Kappa Chi, music honor society. Included on the program will be an Italian Concerto by Bach and Sonata No. 3 by Prahofieff.

Harvard's Cross, UN's Graham To Close Lecture Series In April

The Maryville College Lecture Series features two unusually outstanding men in its final two numbers for the 1958-59 school year, Dr. Frank M. Cross, Jr., and Dr. Frank P. Graham.

Dr. Frank M. Cross, Jr., well-known Old Testament scholar and archaeologist, will speak to the student body on April 16. Dr. Cross is famous as an authority on the Dead Sea Scrolls, and will make this the subject of his lecture.

Maryville students and faculty have a special interest in Dr. Cross, as he is a Maryville alumnus. After graduating from Maryville in 1942, Dr. Cross attended McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, graduating in 1946, and later earned his Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1950.

He returned to the faculty of McCormick and served there for several years. Dr. Cross has been a Professor of Old Testament at Harvard Divinity School since 1957.

The Honorable Dr. Frank P. Graham will visit the Maryville campus to give the final lecture of the year on April 28. Dr. Graham is a member of the American delegation to the United Nations; he is acclaimed as an expert on India, Pakistan, and Indonesia.

Before entering the U.N. delegation, Dr. Graham was President of the University of North Carolina; he also served a short term as United States Senator from North Carolina in 1949-50.

Dr. Graham's topic will be "The United Nations in Perspective and in Hope."

Art Dept. Holds Various Classes For Community

For almost nine years, the Maryville College Art Department has offered classes in art for the Maryville community.

On Thursdays and Fridays Mildred Browder, a senior art major, teaches two children's classes. One of the groups are five to eight years old and the others are nine to thirteen. They work creatively, although it is difficult to teach art in only two hours a week. Next year they plan to enlarge this part of the program and also have a high school class.

Richard E. Beard, assistant professor of art, has a Chilhowee Club painting class each Monday morning. Mrs. Beard, instructor in art, teaches an adults' ceramics class for two hours every Tuesday.

These classes serve a need in the community.

It is hoped that more people interested in art can be aided by these outside classes.

Fred Hope Fund Passes $700 Mark

The Fred Hope Fund, which this year is being used to buy a sterilizer for the Frances Newton Hospital, has so far received their payments to the Student-Help Office at any time.

$720.25. There have been 367 pledges made totaling $1,537.55.

Mary M. Miles, secretary of the Fred Hope Fund Committee, announced that any students who have not yet made donations still have the opportunity to do so. Those who have already made pledges are urged to bring

Iran School Needs 11 New Teachers; 8 MC Alumni Now On Staff There

New opportunities are open for Maryville College graduates to teach in the Community School in Teheran, Iran.

The visit earlier this year of Dr. John Elder, who spoke about mission work in Iran, reminded the Maryville College community that eight of its alumni serve on the staff of the Community School.

New teachers are urgently needed, and this year's seniors might wish to apply for positions.

A faculty of 40 and an international sutdent body of 500 are busy with all kinds of activities. Doug Brian coaches basketball; Bill Strickland built the stage set for "Father of the Bride"; Bruce Ingles supervises production of the yearbook; Jim Laster directs the church choir; Madlon Travis excels in mountain climbing; Fred Wyman and Louise Ogden Wyman star in the American Ebassy request performance artist series; and Joan Platt is pioneering in a new school in the oil fields. These are a few of the outside activities that are fitted into a busy program of full-time teaching.

Latest word from Community Schol is that 11 new teachers must be found this summer. Needed are librarian, math-science teacher, director of girls physical education, and eight elementary and junior high teachers.

All instruction is in English. Teachers go for a three-year term and become a part of the mission and school family where furnished living quarters are provided.

Anyone interested may see Mrs. Wyman at the Fine Arts Cnter, who receives weekly accounts from Fred and Louise, or Miss Nancy Hunter, who spent three days at the school last month, or Mr. Fisher, who is in touch with the school and the Maryville alumni there. Even if you are not interested—why not s them anyway! You might become interested!

Religion, Attitudes, Actions Discussed At Forum

The main item of business on the Student Council agenda for February 25 was a Student Forum which was intended to better ascertain the feelings and views of the student body.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Student Body President, Don Newroth. Preliminary Council business was quickly dispatched, and the meeting was turned over to Bob Muir, who acted as moderator.

Perhaps the greatest number of questions and suggestions were made concerning religion at Maryville College. The following quesetions were asked with regard to this general topic: Why aren't college women permitted to attend Sunday evening services at various churches in the community? Why can't a system be worked out under which a student could attend church and vespers rather than church and Sunday school? Why can't certain housemothers set a good example and go to church rather than staying home to "check on" girls who don't?

A question was also raised concerning the Student-Faculty Senate's progress on religious affairs. Reply was given that the Senate had discussed the possibility of a college pastor, and that other matters concerning religion would be discussed at later meetings.

It was announced that a statement concerning grace before meals would be made at noon on February 26.

Opinions were asked for concerning the idea of "one college on paper and another in action." This question drew the response that there is a lack of positive Christian emphasis at Maryville. The burden was placed on the individual student who "gripes but doesn't do anything. Religion is something we must do ourselves."

The topic of criticism was thoroughly exploited. The statement was made that our student body is unified only by criticism. It was also added that "there are few who care enough to do more than criticize."

A plea was made for better harmony between members of the faculty, administration, and student body. The suggestion was made that since all constructive change in this field in the past had been made by the faculty, the student body should attempt to make some in the future.

In the field of sports questions were raised concerning the absence of a track team and the apparent switch of coaches in varsity sports (mainly basketball and wrestling).

Questions were also raised concerning a clarification of the boundaries of the "ruins", the possibility of a place to meet with guests from out of town, and personal contact with the executive council in connection with special activities.

When the question concerning the feeling of the student body toward the student council arose, the feeling expressed was that the representatives should do more to reach individuals. Hope was expressed that the process might be reversed, having the students contact their representatives.

A special plea was made that the student body return silver taken from the dining hall. Over 100 teaspoons and 50 forks were reported missing this semester.

MSC Announces Amendment Proposals; 3-5 Of Men Must Aye For Passage

By Frank Garcia

In accordance with Article V of the Men's Student Cooperative constitution, the MSC Council announces the meeting of all resident men students, necessary for action on amendments to the constitution.

The texts of the proposed amendments are as follows:

1. Article IV
   Section 3, Membership and Organization
   a. The Cooperative Council shall consist of sixteen (16) members, who shall be elected as follows:
      1. Election of men to serve on the Cooperative Council shall be conducted during the second week of the fall semester.
      2. Representatives shall be chosen in this manner: one (1) man shall represent Bartlett Hall on the Cooperative Council; fifteen (15) men shall represent Carnegie and Memorial Halls on the Cooperative Council. There shall be two (2) men representing the ground floor of Carnegie Hall. There shall be three (3) men from the second, third, and fourth floors of Carnegie Hall.
      3. Memorial Hall shall have three (3) men on the Cooperative Council. One (1) each per floor. On the floors where the majority of residents are freshmen, at least one (1) freshman shall be included among the specified number of floor representatives. Each floor representative shall be chosen by the residents of that floor of which he is a permanent member.
2. Article V
   d. Amendments to this constitution shall be, wherever practical, made by means of revising effected portions of the existing constitution.
3. By-Law 4
   The term of the Cooperative Council shall be from the third week of the fall semester until such time as a new Council has been elected and installed.
4. By-Law 5
   All Officers of Cooperative Council shall be residents of Carnegie and/or Memorial Halls.

The meeting for action on the amendments is to be held on Monday, March 23, at 10:30 p.m. in the Cargneielobby.

The constitution requires the vote of three-fifths of the resident men students for passage of amendments. There are presently 194 men in residence, so that 116 affirmative votes are required for passage.

The Council urges all men to be present. This is your Cooperative, and your support is needed. Show your interest in the life of your dormitory; back your Council in its work. Come and vote.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1959 No. 3

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Charlotte Cathey, Ross McGill, Phyllis Stine, Joe Williams

Contributors this issue—Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Eleanor Lockwood, Maryanne Braidwood, Mary Faye Bundy, Charlotte Cathey, Melvina Clark, Dyrk Couser, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterly, John Gilmour, Kathy Eisenhart, Sylvia Fugate, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilynn Lundy, Alice McCombe, Howard McCuen, Edgar Moros, Don Newroth, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Phyllis Stine, Lin Snider.

Typists ..... Barbara Davis, Marianne Inglis

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers ..... Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants ..... Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Don Stupak, Josephine Wisner

Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

Up And Attitude! Attitude — And Up!

Student feeling seems to continue against the Unseen-Unknown-Controlling-Force-of-the-Maryville-Cosmos. Let us examine our attitudes as students; does it not seem that any attitude that continues uncompromisingly destructive or uncooperative is more negative than we accuse the Cosmos-Controller's of being?

Much of one's personal attitude is for the individual himself to create. If an individual continues in an attitude of protest against conditions that refuse to change, he is butting his being against a stone wall, and the most probable result is that his brains will fall out and he will be somewhat sorry for what he did. But if one will sit down with his being and figure out some way to mount the wall, he might yet achieve his goal by going over the wall instead of through it. (The goat, albeit there is a kind of beauty in his persistence, has no beauty to compare with the bird, who can wing his way over walls.)

A wiser attitude would be for the individual to do as much as he can to get himself over the wall and to take every opportunity he gets to work with like-minded individuals to tear down the wall, if his conviction persists that the wall needs to be removed.

I trust that you have followed my figure thus far. To speak more concretely, a student's attitude has two aspects, which are perhaps inseparable. He has an attitude toward his own education, toward the attainment of the world-view he is searching for in his studies and associations and activities. And he has an attitude toward the situation in which he lives; in our case this situation is the Maryville College community, with students, faculty, administration, and program.

Our presonal attitudes are conditioned by something beyond our local campus situation (although ultimately we create our own personal attitudes). We tend to forget these larger factors of our cultural background. If we are apathetic, we live in an age of "apathy" —for those of us who would so easily blame poor attitudes on this catch-all term. We live in an age of skepticism. It is an age like the Hellenistic Age, when Alexander the Great threw the Mediterranean world into chaos by conquests that mushroomed people's concepts of "the world" almost beyond their endurance. Individuals in that time had to writhe in futility and loss of identity until they could find themselves in new concepts of the State—for their old causes grew too small to command loyalty. They had to discover new concepts of God—for their old gods did not control the new people they came in contact with, they learned.

Shadows of a similar time are breaking on our eastern horizon. Is it not a challenge to us as students in this kind of world to quest after understanding adequate for such a dynamic world, and to search for vocations that will express and share our understanding? All this is involved in the personal attitudes we develop.

Our attitudes toward the College situation are closely bound up with our personal attitudes. If there is some sort of a wall in our situation, opportunities to remove it are available; but our feelings must be articulated if they are to reach sources where they may have effect.

This brings us to a point at which difficulty always seems to arise—the point of understanding which will lead to co-operation between students and administration. This is the reason why "half-cocked explosions" amount to nothing; they are merely shots into the air, whereas skillful, careful aim is the real need.

Co-operation cannot come without communication (to use one of those cliches the sociologists are so fond of). In order to communicate, students organize their efforts and formulate their arguments.

As students now and as citizens in our society later, we probably will never fully realize the possibilities of our organized efforts to live together. It is these organizations which offer us opportunity to express our beliefs that change is needed. Such organizations are formed out of recognition of the need to organize in order to live together better, in our campus community they are Student Council, Women's Student Government Association, and Men's Student Co-operative.

Leadership in Student Council is bringing about improvements in many phases of campus life. WSGA continues its role in women's dormitory life. And MSC has risen as a vital part of dormitory life among the men.

We as students have only begun to develop the possibilities of our channels of expression. If we would bring about change, we must make increasingly better use of these channels by which we are most likely to succeed in organizing and presenting our feelings.

A negative attitude never even attempts anything; a neutral attitude also amounts to nothing; the only attitude capable of analyzing the situaion and producing results is the positive, concerned attitude.

Scots & Soda

By Rosemary Lee

Yesterday Playback, one of the Echo staff's wandering reporters, polled the local cosmopolitan residents about the burning issue for this week: What, if anything, do you intned to promote, participate in, or accomplish during the annual spring spring coming up on March 11? To which some lovely lassies and local laddies replied (in strictly confidential fashion):

A Freshman: I want to go to a night club. It will be a real night club.

night club. At night clubs they always have floor shows; they always have a band; they always have famous guests. I want to go to a night club.

Playback: Miss, I notice you're rather nervous and that you are wearing a bandage on your right index finger. Anything to do with night clubs?

Freshman: No, I'm just terribly worn out from thumbing through card catalogues and jolly ol' three-by-fives.

Playback: Well, thanks-uh-uh—what food are you looking forward to after eyour release?

Freshman: I want some food. I want some real food. I want sssssss-spagheti.

Strolling further, our frustration collector spied a group standing underneath a nearby greenwood tree. As he approached they fell silent. He spoke to one.

Playback: Good afternoon, sir. What is your name?

Nameless: My name is Cringely Whackeroo, sir.

Playback: Tell me, Cringely, what are you most looking forward to for spring spring?

Cringely: Will you quote me?

Playback: Well, if you'd rather I'd not, well. . . .

Cringely: No, I want you to. I plan to blow my town apart, have a blast, a ball, and just about every other silly little game imaginable. I am going to have a fantabulous spring vacation. Any other nosey questions?

Playback: (while attempting to release the strangle-hold the pop-eyed Cringely had on him) Ulp—no, sir. . . And thanks.

Staggering on, Playback encountered a sophomore coed clad in an Esther Williams special and bouncing a beach ball to "one, two, three, O'Leary." He spoke.

Hello, could you give me some answers to a few questions about. . .

Beach ball bouncer: Sure, Hon. I know. You want tuh know how I like chapel recessionals and. . .

Playback: Well, not exactly. What are you looking forward to about spring vacation?

Beach ball bouncer: I am just simply happy to death. I am going on choir tour. Choir tour is leaving early. Choir tour is going to Florida. Florida is warm. Florida is fun. I am going on choir tour. Therefore: I am simply happy to death.

Playback: Well, yes, and thank you.

By this time Playback had almost missed deadline, so he penned in a few random comments that he picked up in answer to his inquiries:

Anonymous concerning choir tour: Right off hand, I can't think of anything.

Agnes Gooch: All I know is that I will be terribly glad to get a breather from classes.

A Senior: I am hoping to get a job.

Another Senior: Sleep.

A second-semester junior: I fully intend to spend all my time in the downtown library working on Special Studies.

A housemother: I plan to visit my grandchildren.

Sophomore: I plan to find out if this is the real fella for me. It's been almost a year since I've heard from him.

A Senior: I am hoping to get a job for next year.

Another Senior: Sleep.

A Psychology major: I plan to get caught up on my bead stringing.

A group of juniors: I'm going to New York.

Playback: What will you do there?

The group: HaHaHaHaHaHaHa. . . .

An upperclassman: I plan to kiss my boy friend.

Playback: I thought your boy friend went to Maryville.

An upperclassmann:: He does.

A Senior: I plan to fly out and inspect my oil well in Oklahoma.

A local freshman: Nothing.

A Memorial girl: I would like to go roller skating.

Playback: Any particular reason why?

Memorial Girl: I just like to go roller skating.

Wisdom: Going home, at the moment, which isn't a very good answer, I grant you.

Someone strolling the loop at dawn: Who cares?

A group of rebels: We're going on an extended cruise to Bermuda and Cuba. We hope to meet some other rebels from the mountains.

A junior: I'm flying to Paris by jet, wearing a lampshade and feeling pretty.

A faculty member: Only two more weeks and I will be able to pick up that rare stamp for my collection. I have to pick it up in Madisonville.

A Senior: I am hoping to get a job for next year:

Another Senior: sleep.

Amal Tells Lebanon's Role In Mid-East

By Leon Gabrielian

The Middle East is an important strategic area. Both East and West have always been interested in this section of the world. It is rich with natural resources. The vast oil reserves have added to the tension and complicated the solution of political problems. For a long time, the Middle East, like Africa and East Asia, was exploited by Western powers. The countries throughout this area are now strongly engaged in improving and bettering their overall conditions. However, the economic situation is still bad and a great majority of the people are poor, striving for the daily bread. The Middle East countries are politically independent. A social, cultural, and religious change is in process. The people are eager to participate in the affairs of their own nation as well as in world affairs. The recent upheavals in some areas have caused others to be more conscious of the situation. Countries like Turkey and Iran fear being engulfed by their northern neighbor, Russia. The Communist ideology is known to be penetrating many areas, but it has always encountered strong resistance among orthodox Moslems.

The intense nationalism has made the people more sensitive and self-conscious in their strife for liberty and independence. The religious unrest has affected the people's way of living. The Moslems are trying to adjust their Islamic beliefs to meet the problems of the day. In some of these countries, Islam seems to have lost most of its spiritual power, although it is still a strong social and political system. The problem in the Middle East is generally not what relation to assume toward the West, but the problem of social and economic development. The people of the Middle East are carefully observing how Christian principles are working on this side of the world and how effective are their results in the political and economic life of the nations throughout the world. Certainly every success over here will strengthen the Christian influence overseas.

Interview Amal

Lebanon is the only country in the Middle East where the Christian population is slightly larger than the Moslem. This country gained its freedom in 1944 and later in 1945 joined the Arab League. Beirut is the capital city, sometimes called the "Paris of Asia."

Here is an interview with Amal Halaby, a naitve of Lebanon, who shares with us some of her views about her home country?

Question. How do the Christians and the Moslems get along with each other in your country?

Answer. Since the Seventh century AD, the Christians and the Moslems in Lebanon have lived together peacefully and respected each other's faiths. The religious friction that occurs every now and then is caused or stirred by outsiders who have political and economic interests in the Middle East and whose policy is to "divide and rule."

Question. Tell us something about the missionary work in Lebanon.

Answer. The high rate of literacy in Lebanon, 92 per cent, is attributable to the work of missionaries— American, Russian, and French. The Arab national awakening and the unveiling of women have developed parallel to the establishment of American educational institutions, such as the American University of Beirut and Beirut College for Women.

Question. What is the general feeling of the people toward Westerners?

Answer. Lebanon, being the only Christian country in the Middle East, has always looked to the West for protection, moral support, and security. President Chamoun's appeal to the United States for military help during last year's crisis is an exampie of that; but I don't think this feeling or attitude will last long, especially now with the new rise of nationalism and "arabism" and the repeated faults of the

(Continued On Page 3)

It's All Greek — To The World!

By Evelyn G. Guss
Professor of Greek

The year 1952 will always be regarded by students of classical antiquities as a year which brought one of the most outstanding contributions to archaeological research in our times. It was in this year that the young British architect, Michael Ventris, achieved immortality by his decipherment of the Linear B Mycenaean script.

This script was found chiefly on clay tablets discovered during excavations conducted at Knossos, King Minos' palace on the island of Crete; at Pylos, the palace of King Nestor in the Peloponnesos; and at Mycenae, the citadel of King Agamemnon also located in the Peloponnesos. The script had been studied for many years by by scholars who had tried to decipher it by working under the belief that they were dealing with such languages as Etruscan, Pelasgian, Hittite, Egyptian and many others.

Ventris' accomplishment has opened up whole fields of study to the historian, archaeologist, linguist and philologian, for he has revealed that this script is the oldest known form of the Greek language, 700 years older than Homer. Some scholars believe that the language of the Mycenaean script was highly developed by the middle of the 15th century BC.

Prior to this discovery by Ventris, the oldest known written records of the Greek language dated no earlier than the Eighth century BC. These included an Attic vase inscription and inscriptions from the island of Thera. Original documents of the language, found on stone, comprise inscriptions of decrees, treaties, petitions, temple inventories, dedications, etc. Documents of letters, contracts, petitions, accounts, and the like have come down to us on papyri, ranging in dates from the Fourth centry BC to the Eighth century AD. However, most of our knowledge of the Greek language in its literary form has come from copies of manuscripts which have been preserved through the years. We are in possession of no original literary manuscripts.

Greek is the language spoken by the Greek race in the Greek peninsula and later throughout most of the Mediterranean basin. The Homeric poems show that Greek was an old language by 1000-800 BC. It belongs to a family of languages called Indo-European or Indo-Germanic. As can be seen by its geographic position, the language occupies a position intermediary between the eastern (such as Sanskrit and Persian) and the western (such as the Italic and Germanic) Indo-European languages.

Ancient Greek was composed of three important groups of dialects: the Ionic (including Attic), the Acolic or Achaan, and the Doric. Generally, Acolic was the language of Lesbos and the Lesbian poets, Alcaeus and Sappho. Doric was found in most of the Peloponnesos, Crete and Southern Italy. The Ionian dialect contains two divisions, the Old and the New Ionic. The Old Ionic or Epic is the language of the Homeric poems. The Iliad, as the oldest literature of the Greeks, is also the oldest piece of literature in Europe. This Epic dialect was spoken chiefly on the coast of Asia Minor and in most of the Aegean Islands. The New Ionic is the language of Herodotus, the Father of History, of the Fifth century BC.

The Attic dialect is the most cultivated form of the Greek language. As the language of Athens during her literary eminence, it was the language used in the tragedies of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides, in the comedies of Aristophanes, in the histories of Thucydides and Xenophon, in the orations of Demosthenes and in the philosophy of Plato. It is for this reason that the Greek which is emphasized in most school curricula is the Attic dialect.

As early as the Fifth century BC there is evidence of the beginnings of a new development in the language which is known as the Koine, i.e., "common" or "vulgar". Athens' literary importance and her political position in the ancient world contributed to the spread and use of the Attic dialect in all parts of the Greek-speaking world. With the spread of Greek civilization after the Macedonian conquest in the Fourth century BC, this dialect, with some Ionic and other regional modifications, became the language of the Hellenistic Age. By 300 AD none of the Greek dialects were spoken, with but two minor exceptions.

The Alexandrian period dates from the accession of Ptolemy II in 285 BC. Alexandria became the center of Greek culture and literary efforts until the Roman conquest. The writings of Aristotle (384-322 BC) lie between this period of the Koine and the earlier Attic of the Fifth century. The name Hellenistic is commonly given to the form of the koine used by the Alexandrian Jews. This is the language used in the Septuagint version of the Old Testament. (The term Hellenistic is often used synonymously with the term Koine.) It is also the language of the New Testament. The New Testament, with as many degrees of the Koine as it has authors, is written in the language of the people in a somewhat intermediary position between the vernacular of the non-literary papyri and the mimetic Atticism of the Alexandrian literary writers.

Constantinople became the seat of the Roman government in 330 AD. The Greek of this period is known as the Byzantine Greek. Modern Greek is usually dated from 1453 AD, the year of the fall of Constantinople.

Modern Greek differs from Ancient Greek less than the Romance languages differ from the Latin or Modern English from Old English. The chief phonetic changes began as early as the Third century BC. The morphology has changed less than the phonology. In Greece today there are two languages: the "pure" (katharevousa) or written language; and the "popular" (demotike) or spoken language. The struggle over which should be the official language of the country has led in the past even to bloodshed, so hot a political issue has it been.

The "popular" language is the natural language of the people. It contains many foreign words, including Latin and Turkish, and is the language of the Greek songs and ballads. Although it has no fixed orthography, it is employed largely by modern writers of poetry and fiction.

The "pure" language is a conscious and artificial return to Ancient Greek. It is the official language of law and the schools and is generally used by newspapers and journalism.

The script of the Modern Greek is that of the Ionic alphabet, adopted by Athens in 403 BC. The origin of the Greek alphabet is Phoenician. The Greeks in turn passed it along to the Romans, and it is used by us today in our writing of English.

The Greek language has thus an unbroken literary history from the time of Homer. The importance of Greek for the Roman and European civilizations is very great. Greek, now the language of some ten million people, is still one of the ruling languages of the world.

USNSA Speaks To Campus Problems, Nat'l Affairs

By Dan Ellis

Do you like to travel? Are you interested in foreign affairs? Are you concerned with the racial situation in the South? Are you interested in student affairs, in what students on other campuses are doing to meet their problems? If you fall in any of the above categories, you should look into the programs of the United States National Student Association, of which Maryville College is a member school.

The Association, or NSA as it is usually called, was formed in 1947, after 25 American students returned from an international student meeting in the then-free city of Prague. These students realized that the United States lacked something that a democratic country should not be without an organization capable of speaking for the students of this nation, especially on issues which directly concern students. In the past 11 years, NSA has begun to satisfy that need.

Make Important Decision

At the constitutional convention in 1947, a question came up which was to decide the future of NSA, that of membership. There had been other national unions of students organized in the United States, but all of them had collapsed. A young student named Edward R. Murrow had guided one of these organizations in the Thirties, but even it had failed. It was concluded that one of the reasons that these early attempts had failed was the fact that membership was through other organizations on the campuses such as religious, social, international, and other groups. This made it easier for Communistic, Facistic, and other non-democratic groups to infiltrate the student union. Therefore, it was decided at the outset that membership in NSA would come only through the duly constituted representative body on each campus, or by vote of the student body as a whole. Delegates to the National Student Congress must be certified by the student body president and the dean of students. This decision has meant the difference between survival and failure.

On each member campus there is an NSA Co-ordinator, usually a member of the Student Council, Student Senate or other student government body. At Maryville, the NSA Co-ordinator is Lew Plate.

NSA Aid Campuses

Because of its association with student governments, NSA has developed an extensive program of assistance to them. This has

(Con't. on page 4)

Wiper's Europe Better Than Nothing, Says Stewart

By George Stewart

No, I didn't build a school house in Africa. Nor did I make a tour of Israel. Instead, I wiped my way across the Atlantic six times. Wiped. What else can one say after he has said he has been a wiper?

I suppose an explanation is a good way to start. A wiper, contrary to popular opinion, works in the engine room of a ship. His job is dirty. It consists mostly of helping the engineers keep the ship afloat. When a messy job must be done, it's the wiper who must do it. This ranges from clearing clogged sewage lines to swabbing out the bilges.

For those who are interested in making wiping a career (I worked with one man who had been a wiper since his speak-easy was raided in the 20's), I think there are only three qualifications. You must have a strong back, then a strong stomach, and finally, an overpowering love for money. The wages are high, and most of the time so are the crew members and the temperature.

My summer fiasco started in Mobile, Alabama, where the Seafarers International Union Hall (SIU) was blown up upon my arrival. They assured me it was just a friendly dispute with a rival union, but I found this little consolation. In fact, I was convinced that an attempt had been made on my life. It was weeks before I could walk the decks without a fear of being thrown overboard.

After an uneventful shake-down cruise to New York we started our maiden voyage to Zeebrugge, Belguim. This ship, the SS Atlantic, is owned by the American Banner Lines, Inc. It operates on a run between New York and Amsterdam, Holland, with a short stop in Belgium. The trip averages about six days one way carrying approximately 900 pas-

(Con't. on page 4)

Roundballeres Close Tonight Against U-T Frosh Away; Win Two, Lose Four In February Home Stand

Maryville College's basketball Scotties will close their 1958-59 season tonight with an attempt to avenge a 98-78 loss administered February 16 by the University of Tennessee Freshmen. The game will be played at U-T.

The Maryville cagers won two and lost four in a six-game home stand from February 7 to 23. These results brought the Scots' season record to seven wins and eleven losses as of February 23, with three games remaining on their season's card at that point.

Bob Carpenter and Neal Wormsley accumulated 50 points between them to help Maryville to an easy win over Cumberland University by an 85-57 count on February 7.

This was Maryville's most decisive win, as Carpenter hit for 26 tallies and Wormsley for 24. Cumberland held Tom Morris to 12 and Bill Owenby to 7, which is somewhat of an achievement in itself. Martin was high for Cumberland with 14.

Carson-Newman visited Maryville February 12 and carried off a clear-cut 101-77 verdict. Morris and Carpenter turned in stellar performances as they hit for 30 and 21 counters respectively. Top performances for Carson-Newman were by Peek, who tallied 19, Jack Owenby, brother of Maryville's Bill Owenby, with 18, and Henry, with 16.

Once again Maryville lacked that second-half punch after trailing only 40-35 at half-time.

History repeated itself as the Moccasins from Chattanooga laced the Scots in their next outing, 108-79, on February 14. For the second game in a row the opposition tallied over 100 points, and for the second consecutive game the opposition had their biggest splurge in the second half, while Maryville's big scoring half was the first. At the half in the Chattanooga game, Maryville was on the short end of a 51-45 count, but Chattanooga soon took the reins. Elliott, the Mocs' high scorer for the night, collected 29 points.

Surprisingly enough, four Scotties hit double figures in the Chattanooga game. Morris time and time again slipped through the defenders to register 24 points. Carpenter breezed 19 through the hoops and Wormsley hit 12. A pleasing sight in the game was the revitalization of Gayle Ferguson after a slow start. Ferguson played a heads-up ball game and contributed 15 points to the scoring.

Maryville lost a 47-43 half-time edge as the University of Tennessee Freshmen picked up momentum in the second half and pulled away to a 98-78 decision in a game on February 16. Three Maryville men found the range for double figures, but six U-T men tallied 12 or more. Moss led U-T with 22, followed by Dunn with 18. Carpenter carried off the individual honors with 23 Scottie counters. Morris chipped in 22, and Owenby added 19 for Maryville.

The Emory and Henry Wasps were stung with a 78-74 defeat when they visited Maryville on February 19. With Maryville ahead 37-30 at the half, the game once more depended on Scottie ability to maintain an effective offense. Bob Carpenter turned in another thrilling performance as he tallied 26 points. Morris, Owenby, and Wormsley followed with 16, 15, and 14 points respectively.

Nearing the century mark, the Scotties defeated Tusculum by a score of 95-90 in their February 23 clash. It was by far one of the better-played games of the season, with Maryville holding the edge all the way, to avenge a 68-66 defeat at Tusculum a month ago.

Monday night's game saw Maryville leading 47-39 at half-time. The Scotties continued to set the pace in the second half. Tom Morris again hit the 30-point bracket, counting 35 in the contest. Bob Carpenter followed with 26; Wormsley had 14 and Owenby 11.

Point totals and averages for the Maryville regulars are as follows:

	Tot. Pts.	Aver.
Tom Morris	381	21.2
Bob Carpenter	323	17.9
Bill Owenby	268	14.8
Neal Wormsley (last 11 games)	155	14.1

CAPITOL
MOTION PICTURES AT THEIR BEST
Saturday thru Thursday

Intramurals....

The Rosebuds edged out the Mavericks 33-32 in overtime to finish on top in first round A League play. Ray Hannah scored 12 points for the Rosebuds and Mike Talley got 9. Dean Hamilton poured in 17 points for the losing Mavericks.

The Mavericks downed the Piledrivers 37-30 behind Dean Hamilton's 25 points. Graham Bardsley dropped in 10 points for the Piledrivers.

In the B League the Gunners quelled last-minute AS Shiek rallies to win, 32-27. The lead changed hands several times during the game, but with the second-half help of Ken White, the Gunners took the lead for keeps. Fred Smith piled up 12 points and Ken White 8 for the Gunners. Brian Fox was high-point man for the losers with 11.

The rapidly - improving G-Strings dumped the KP Sputniks 26-17. Art Fairchild gathered in 12 points for the winners.

Other scores:

A League

Rosebuds 46, AS Piledrivers 21
Mavericks 31, KP Knights 22
Rosebuds 64, AS Sledgehammers 36
Mavericks 41, KP Knights 29
AS Piledrivers 42, KP Knights 38
AS Sledgehammers 77, KP Knights 27

B League

KP Sputniks 28, KP Barons 19
Gunners 50, KP Barons 22
AS Hammers won by forfeit over KP Barons
AS Shieks 40, KP Sputniks 27
Gunners 54, KP Barons 18
AS Hammers 35, G-Strings 18
AS Shieks 39, G-Strings 22
AS Shieks 37, KP Sputniks 27

ECHO FORUM

Dear Sir,

I have always admired a person who questions and doubts his religious convictions. That is, when his doubts and questions are sincere and an outgrowth of a positive search for that which is meaningful in life. A Christian has no need to fear such searching if he actually believes that truth is found in Christ. In fact everyone who affirms a Christian belief should have passed through such a stage of searching.

On the other hand, I have never been able to respect one who unconditionally rejects, without giving any thought to the matter, whatever has the slightest connecion with Christianity. I have still less respect for those who not only reject without due consideration, but who also ridicule and belittle that which another holds sacred and dear.

Unfortunately, it is a growing practice on our campus to make fun of God, Christ, and all aspects of worship. May we not become more thoughtful about our own lives and at least show respect for that which others hold sacred?

Sincerely,
Dick Jones

I want to commend the Echo's ecumenical emphasis, which seems to be part of a general campus renaissance. I think we begin to respond to the world's challenge of unconcern.

Betty Brown

The editorial concerning the Drake Meeting was excellent; however, the ideas are valuable only if they are digested and used to guide a society.

The church has a prominent place in certain societies; therefore, members are expected to be "religious." But, are they "Christian?" Is there a difference between "religiousness" and "Christianity?"

Any society can easily perform the act of "religious worship." This doesn't insure that the participants are having a personal Christian experience. Often worship "services" are meaningless, misunderstood, and even hypocritical.

Are we selling our right of integrity and free expression for imposed doctrines and standards of conformity? We have the God given freedom of choice. We are fre eto accept or reject Christianity. Are we losing this freedom?

Religion, which consists of "idealism" and "services," can not be forced. Force defeats its own purpose. Christianity, which leads to not just worship, but to Christ-centered activity, need only be presented. Force is not necessary! Revelation of truth is sufficient! Perhaps the term "Christianity" has become trite. May I substitute "Christ-centeredness."

In a Christ-centered society, life would be ruled by love and respect of man, and reverence toward God. Meaningless "religious" practice would cease. Individuals would remember Christ's presence and guidance, even after they left the "service" and returned to the daily routine. Personal expression of powers of God would permeate. When worship was needed it would be accepted and sought. Actions, speech, associations with others, and worship of God would be guided by Christ. This is more than "religion!"

Individuals cannot rise above conformity unless they think for themselves!

Rhoda M. Null

The struggle between Form and Spirit is continuous in the individual and corporate life of man. Perhaps we can do no more than make ourselves available to be caught by Spirit, and this could be done in a variety of ways, but basically by our life attitudes.

What are your reactions to the expressions by Mr. Jones and Miss Null? The next Echo will be published four weeks from today; this gives you ample time ot prepare your thoughts for the Forum. —The Editor

Kappa Phi Names Leading Ladies, Plans Formal

Kappa Phi held its Leading Lady Show on February 21. Leading Ladies for 1958-59 were Zona Gogel, Barbara Davis, Nancy Jones, Betty Boone, Pat Parks, and Sue Tourtellotte.

Spring Formal is drawing near and many hands are needed. Jim Culbertson is Kappa Phi chairman for the dance. Those wishing to help should see him as soon as possible.

Wrestlers Compete In SEC Tourney; End Regular Card On Winning Note

Wrestling this week-end at the Southeastern Conference tournament at Chattanooga, Maryville College's wrestling team previously won two matches and dropped one in action over the past three Saturday nights.

Maryville matmen trounced the Knoxville YMCA squad by a score of 19-9 on February 7.

Maryville recorded two pins, one by Don Elia, a promising freshman, the other by Dave Campbell, another freshman, who was a regional wrestling champion in high school.

In exhibitions, Maryville's Bob Kirkpatrick and Bob Riddle also pinned their opponents.

Results of the Knoxville Y match:

Campbell (M) pinned Smith (Y); Robinson (M) decisioned Maddux (Y); Jenkins (Y) decisioned Sharp (M); Findeisen (M) decisioned Grodeman (Y); Jones (Y) decisioned White (M); Hartman (M) decisioned Wood (Y); Elia (M) pinned Witherspoon (Y); Huffstetler (M) decisioned Parker (Y).

Sewanee barely managed an 18-13 win over the Scottie grapplers in a match on February 14.

From the start the Maryville grapplers asserted themselves. Dave Campbell, disregarding reputation, decisioned Harris, the reigning SEC champion in the 115-pound tournament class.

All of the matches were closely contested and a pleasure to watch.

Tempers flared on the mat and in the stands as action seemed to become unnecessarily rough in the last two matches.

Sewanee results:

Campbell (M) decisioned Harris (S); Sewanee won in 137-pound class on forfeit; Maryville won in 147-pound class on forfeit; Craig (S) pinned Ayers (M); Layell (S) decisioned Kirkpatrick (M); Elia (M) drew with Yeats (S); Scarritt (S) decisioned Huffstetler (M).

An unfortunate loss to Maryville for the Sewanee match was Don White, who suffered a concussion during a practice session.

Maryville wrestlers turned in one of their finer performances of the season as they battled Emory University to the wire for a 19-11 victory on February 21.

Jim Coup, a newcomer to the squad, showed promise after being out for only a week.

Results:

Wilson (E) decisioned Campbell (M); Robinson (M) decisioneed Lacy (E); Allison (E) pinned Coup (M) Hartman (M) pinned Mayer (E); White (M) decisioned Wakelyn (E); Elia (M) decisioned Mullen (E); McClellan (E) decisioned Huffstetler (M).

Moved And Seconded

By Don Newroth
President of the Student Body

When I started this splurge into the literary world, I really didn't intend to make a career out of it. And the literary people probably don't intend that I should either. But having done it twice, I've established something of a tradition, and we're all kinda caught in the middle of it.

Seriously, someone has suggested that in the light of our present campus situation, I write about religious emphasis and that sort of thing. And that's all it takes; so here I am.

It won't shock anybody to say that we're concerned about religion. By "we" I mean the Student Council and the Student-Faculty Senate, but more important, the kids who drop by the room or stop me on campus. Somewhere along the line we're missing out—and we know it. Nor are we fooling anybody else. One thing about a religion: it has to be sincere. You can spot a phony a mile off. And I think you can walk on this campus and tell that we have pretty much on the surface. But some of us are concerned about it, and that's a starting place.

Perhaps it would help to realize our situation. Our religious attitudes at Maryville have been running in cycles like most things do. When my contemporaries and I were freshmen, there was a fanatical element on campus that none of us liked too well. If they had any common sense at all, they didn't use it in their particular method of giving witness. This, as you know, is commonly referred to as the "Holier-than-Thou" outlook on life. It's not wholesome. We began to wonder.

Some of us did not take them seriously. We knew that religion wasn't like that everywhere and we were thankful for it. Others of us were thrown into reaction. We became cynical and looked about for ways to degrade anything that might lead to Christian emphasis. A third group wandered helplessly somewhere between, not wishing to become either fanatical or cynical, not having anything solid to grasp.

Look at the campus today. The fanatics have gone on and left but few traces behind. The cynics are still reacting. The great majority are still wandering.

Yet I've sat in my room and talked to both cynics and wanderers, and I'm convinced we have potential. I've talked with some of the roughest guys on campus and seen their willingness to accept a religion that could reach them. Of course we can't frame our Christian emphasis to satisfy them, but since they're at least being honest with us, we need to keep our eye on them. Their attitude provides, in fact, the only answer I know. Be honest.

What does this involve? Mainly not following the crowd. Not joining the Tuesday Morning Club just because there is one. Not laughing religion down just because the guy across the hall thinks it's all very funny. Things like that—but you've heard that sermon before. It all comes back to a weakness in our spirit. We are afraid to express the constructive aspects that must be in us somewhere. It remains that we won't create an atmosphere by reforming somebody else. Those of us who are concerned need only get a firm grip on what we know to be good solid religion. We don't need to shout it from the street corners. People will see it. But they'll spot a phony a mile off.

I'll probably be accused of taking to the pulpit three years too early, but last spring I called attention to the necessity of being honest with ourselves, that through our interest and our action we would begin to reflect what kind of a college we really are. Frnakly, I don't know yet. And I don't think you do either.

But we need not give up finding out. We're talking about religious emphasis in Student-Faculty Senate. They tell us it's the first time it's been done. The discussion there will touch on almost every phase of campus attitude. Your Senate representatives are JoAnn Wyman, Mary Ann Phipps, Gray Wiley, Fred Tepper, Dick Jones, Dave Ross, Bob Muir, and I. Talk with us. I trust the forum on Wednesday night started you thinking and I hope you'll continue to express yourself. We have very little to go on without your interest.

Speaking of spring—I was way back there someplace— election time isn't so awfully far away. In the next issue, I will help you look forward to it by turning part of my column over to four council members, one from each class. They will give you a cross-section of council activity as well as their hopes for our future. I should say "your future," because I'll be gone—one way or the other. Anyway, maybe you can think about these things as the various campaigns develop. And if you want me to write about anything else, let me know. I'll try anything once.

Hunter Closes Pre-Min Series On America Today

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Professor of English discussed "Contemporary Literature and Christianity" at the Pre-Ministerial Association meeting on February 26. This was the last meeting of the year on the theme "Pious and Secular America," taken from Reinhold Niebuhr's recent book.

Recently the officers of the group voted to hold no meetings in March because of spring vacation and Holy Week. Other Holy Week activities will be substituted for the regular meeting.

On February 12 the group had a very informative meeting led by Dr. William E. Crane of Knoxville. Dr. Crane spoke and answered questions about marriage problems and pastoral counseling. Dr. Crane pointed to a confusion of roles as one of the chief marital problems today. Out of his experience as a full-time counselor, Dr. Crane was able to contribute valuable advice for future ministers.

Middle East . . .

(Con't. from Page 2)

Western foreign policies.

Question. Were the US Marines welcomed during last year's crisis?

Answer. The Marines were more than welcome by the pro-government party and by some Christians, but the anti-government elements and the extreme nationalists received them with distrust and hostility, and this is natural when you have a country torn by two opposing parties. Although they did not take part in the actual fighting, their presence was moral support for Chamoun.

Question. How do you find the way of life in the United States? Is it much different from yours?

Answer. When I see and hear of broken homes and the increase of juvenile delinquency in the States I begin to appreciate the Lebanese conservative and partriarchial families, where we have no teenagers' problems and no divorce.

The "Y" Store proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

BYRNE'S DRUG

Say Happy Easter with Whitman's — Pangburn's— and Belle Camp Candy

Phone YU 2-1461

PROFFITT'S

Everything For Descriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian

—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center

Broadway—Maryville

Proffitt's

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Hotel Ft. Craig and Coffee Shop

Welcomes you anytime

Don't Forget-

To Get—
Fruits, Cookies
Cheese, Candy and Party Fixins
on your way back from town
From
The J&K Super Store
Church St.

STERO RECORD PLAYERS

As low as $79.95

Magnavox — RCA — Motorola — Zenith — Philco — Sonic Radios and Record Players

Hitch Radio & T.V.

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK

BIBLES — R.S.V., PHILLIPS BOOKS
CARDS GIFT ITEMS

Maryville YU 3-4982 229 College St.

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.

CHEVROLET

IRC Prepares Latin America Party, Has Japan, Atomic Energy Programs

Latin America song, music, and dance, and pinata will highlight the International Relations Club's Latin American party, which will be held March 2 at 6:30 in the Y Rooms.

The group will be led by Joe Burgos, Frank Garcia, Edgar Moros, and Roberto Schiller, Maryville students from Latin America.

Club members, prospective members, and guests are invited to the party. The Club's only request that all who attend buy cookies by twos to fill the pinata.

Appropriate costume for the party will be white blouses and shirts and black skirts and trousers.

Glimpses of today's Japan were presented through slides and comments for the International Relations Club on February 24. Tim Hanks, Harold J. Jones, and Ed Krebs, Maryville students who have visited Japan, presented the program.

The pictures showed the mixture of traditional and modern in Japan, where a mature culture flavors industrialization. The island nation's largest single economic problem, overpopulation, recurred often in the photographs. Other slides gave views of rural life and rice cultivation.

The motion picture "The Petrified River" and a talk by John A. Harris, public information officer from Oak Ridge atomic plant, informed IRC members about atomic energy in their February 16 meeting.

The movie is a United States Bureau of Mines production showing the geological formation of uranium-bearing ores and processes of mining and refining these ores.

Mr. Harris outlined the program of the various installations at Oak Ridge. The largest phase of work at Oak Ridge is the production of fissionable U-235 through refining processes. This isotope is produced by methods of gaseous diffusion and electromagnetism, both of which separate U-235.

The Oak Ridge Nuclear Research Laboratory has two projects. Research is conducted on the genetic effects of radiation on humans and on development of a chemical compound to protect human beings from these effects. Another research project is trying to develop a "miniature sun" which would use deuterium, a hydrogen isotope, from sea water to produce energy.

Related to work at Oak Ridge is a University of Tennessee experimental farm, where observations are made on the effects of radiation on livestock and livestock feeds, and on occurrence of mutations in livestock due to radiation.

The Oak Ridge Nuclear Studies Institute co-ordinates the work of 38 Southern universities in nuclear research.

Questions followlng Mr. Harris' talk ranged from subjects such as the impact of nuclear energy in world affairs to vocational opportunities in nuclear studies.

Classes Compete In Theta Contest

Theta Epsilon is having competition among the classes. Members from each class are presenting skits, which will be judged by the officers. A reward will be made for the best skit.

Harriette Blankenship received the 1959 Theta Bingo Medal on February 7.

Theta and Alpha Sigma are entered in the mixed doubles ping-pong tournament against Kappa Phi and Chi Beta.

Faculty Invited To Conference

The Maryville College faculty has been invited to attend the Fourth Regional Presbyterian Faculty Conference. This conference will be held at the Presbyterian center at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville on March 7-8.

Dr. Arnold Nash of the University of North Carolina School of Religion, a prominent theologian, lecturer, and editor of Protestant Thought in the Twentieth Century, will be the speaker. Dr. Nash will give a series of three lectures daily with the general subject of "The Community of Learning and the Community of Faith."

Public Relations Begins Printing Of New Bulletin

As part of the Maryville College development program, the Public Relations office has begun publishing a new four-page bulletin, to be published eight times yearly, replacing the Maryville College Bulletin.

A feature aimed at bringing more information to the College family is the inclusion of four extra pages for alumni news in four of the editions each year.

Edited by James W. Hampton, director of public relations, the first issue will be distributed to alumni, parents, friends of the College, Presbyterian ministers, and business firms and corporations interested in higher education.

USNSA. . .

(Con't. from Page 2)

taken the form of visits to campus by national and regional officers, publications such as Guide For Student Body Presidents, Campus Justice, and periodicals such as National Student News, and the only professional journal in the field, The Student Government Bulletin. NSA has also compiled extensive files on all sorts of problems faced by students. These files are available to campuses through the Student Government Information Service.

Because of the need for inexpensive travel abroad for students, NSA organized Educational Travel Incorporated, a non-profit travel program with competent guides to lead the student on interesting, informative, and inexpensive tours.

NSA immediately became associated with other national student unions in other nations. Therefore, NSA has a large international program with representatives abroad, and with delegates at each meeting of the International Student Conference. In order to train students better in the field of international relations, NSA sponsors each summer at Harvard University an International Student Relations Seminar, to which any student from any member school may apply. Those accepted for the seminar are granted all expense paid scholarships.

Students are naturally concerned with the race problem in the South, since it affects education. Beginning last year, NSA began sponsoring a Southern Students Human Relations Seminar. A small group of Southern students meets for two weeks with competent authorities on both sides of the question. They study all facets of the problem, especially as it is applied to colleges.

Starts Race Seminar

This is only a partial listing of the programs of NSA open to all students at Maryville. As yet we have not begun to exploit the possiblilities open to us as members. Only once have we had a representative at the National Student Congress, the policy-making body of NSA. This lone representative attended because he was selected for the Human Relations Seminar, and not because of any effort on the part of the student body to be represented there.

We have an opportunity to express our opinions on issues which affect students. Let's take advantage of it.

Size Problem Slows German Club Plan To Buy Heine Bust

The German Club's plan to buy a bust of Heinrich Heine, outstanding German poet and critic, were slowed down by information that the bust intended for purchase is too large.

The Club had planned previously to use funds remaining from first semester for purchase of a Heine bust to accompany those of Goethe and Schiller which already decorate the German room's walls.

The plan was deferred by news that the Caproni Galleries, Inc., of Boston, Mass., could offer only a 27-inch bust, which would be inconsistent in size, as the other busts are 12-inch.

Harvey S. Reber, German Club adviser, offered to continue looking for another company which does such work, and suggested that the group might buy song books or pictures for the classroom instead.

Members opened the meeting by saying the Lord's Prayer in German, led by Steve Flagler, president.

The group decided to try to obtain a program by a German war bride living in Maryville for the March 23 meeting.

Herr Reber asked members Sylvia Smith and Steve Flagler to prepare reports for future programs. Miss Smith would report on the cloisters at Ephrata, Pa., a city in the region of her home. Mr. Flagler would tell about the Wyoming Valley Massacre in Bedford County, Pa.

The Club will elect new officers on April 13 and climax the present semester with a spring party April 27.

Magill Leads Beta-Phi Sing

Dr. John Magill, February Meetings song leader, was the guest at the joint meeting of Kappa Phi and Chi Beta on February 7. Dr. Magill led the group in the singing of some folk songs and familiar rounds.

Chi Beta did not meet on the following two Saturdays because of the Sweetheart Show and the Leading Ladies shows.

Members of Chi Beta are participating in basketball and ping-pong tournaments through WAA. Plans are being made and committees are being set up for the spring dance.

Vols' Programs Feature Africa, Latin America

Donna Laubach and Bobbie Larsen worked together to produce a program on the Union of South Africa at Student Volunteers on February 15.

Donna spoke about the present racial segregation in that part of the continent, where the outnumbered British and Dutch whites oppress the negroes, as well as other races. The reason for oppression is the whites' fear of being eventually driven out of Africa.

Bobbie spent some time in the Union of South Africa last summer on her way back from Junior Year Abroad in Lebanon. She showed slides of the work camp where she went and played part of a tape made by some of her friends among the African students.

The Rev. G. E. "Pop" Goodman presented a program on Latin America, with emphasis on Ecuador, at the meeting on February 22. He showed slides, played a tape about the five young missionaries killed by the Indians in Ecador two years ago, and commented on the duty of young Christians in America to make the most of the advantages of wealth and freedom. He remarked that we are facing an enemy more deadly than any primitive savage: Communism.

Meetings for the rest of the semester will include more programs on Latin America.

SNEA Learns Of Education In Visit To State School At Knoxville

On the southeastern edge of Knoxville, at the end of Island Home Blvd. is located the Tennessee State School for the Deaf. Perhaps very few are aware of its existence in this vicinity.

Several members of the Student NEA found the school a warm and touching spot as they made the acquaintance of faculty members, counselors, administrators, students, and the work carried on there. Arrangements for the visit began last semester when Mr. W. Lloyd Granke, superintendent of the school, was guest speaker at SNEA November program. The visit materialized on January 28 and 29.

In 1845 the Tennessee State Legislature set aside a more $1,000 to found a school for the in Knoxville. The enrollment, first composed of five students, has grown to more than 400. As the only state school of its type, it is open to all Tennessee children six years and older who have been deaf since birth or have lost their hearing after starting public school. The state provides for all educational, room, and board expenses.

Preferable entrance age is six years. Language is completely unknown to the deaf child and therefore knowledge of the world around him is limited as a result of inabilit yto communia result of inability to communicate. For three years, he is placed in the primary department, which serves as a preparatory period. He is encouraged to develop oral communication and the use of residual hearing.

Music plays an all-important part in this long process of teaching language to the child through the two senses of sight and touch. Rhythmic activities including rhythm bands, tap dancing, and choral speaking, are made possible through the feeling of musical vibrations.

To provide as much individual help as possible, the classes are small—about ten children to a teacher. Each classroom is well-equipped, including a centrally-located microphone to which sets of earphones are attached. As the teacher speaks, each child receives the sound vibrations. The method using oral language is now preferred to the once accepted sign language. But the deaf person is taught to use his lips as well as his hands. Special training is given in both in order that the deaf person may be able to communicate with both hearing and deaf associates.

The Tennessee School for the Deaf aims to fit its students for their place in society as well-adjusted, self-supporting citizens. Therefore, in addition to the emphasis on speech and speech reading, the course of study offers the usual academic subjects provided for in the public school curriculum. As an extra feature, intensive vocational training is given to all students. For boys, instruction is provided in such fields as woodworking, metal working, shoe repairing, and printing, including linotype operation and offset lithography. Courses in arts and crafts, foods and nutrition, dress making, and business practices are offered to the girls.

The most promising students have the opportunity to continue their education in a five-year course of study at Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C., the only college for the deaf in the United States.

It is interesting to note that all states except Delaware provide an institution for this special education.

The Tennessee School for the Deaf is interested in showing its work to all and welcomes visitors.

Christian Ed. Club Discusses Women's Church Vocaetions

The Christian Education Club met on February 16 for a program on church vocations open to women.

Sharlene Brokering, who led the program, discussed the many church vocations open to women today and the requirements of each.

The purpose of the Christian Education Club is to help the students acquire first hand information about church vocations.

The club is open not only to Christian Education majors, but also to alt students interested in any type of church work.

Europe. . .

(Con't. from Page 2)

sengers.

I worked with splendid people. One fellow wiper had just gotten out of prison after serving 15 years for murder. He maintained he was innocent until the day I left. Every time I handed him a wrench I wondered if I was going to be an accessory to another slaughter— perhaps my own.

With some time off in Zeebrugge, I flew down to the beach to see if what they say about European bathing suits is true, I didn't see many.

The area we were in was really very attractive. The people spoke Flemish, which was just fine with me. All of them managed to say one or two words in English, like "Go home." But on the whole they were friendly.

Brussels is a beautiful city, but with the World's Fair the prices were sky-high. The Fair was truly magnificent, with college girls from all over the world serving as guides. I believe this helped international relations more than any single exhibit.

Amsterdam, a city of canals, is another interesting city. Besides having thousands of bicycles and thousands of people, it has thousands of things to do. When you go there be sure to walk everywhere you go, and be sure not to miss Canal Street. It's very educational.

When you get your chance to go to Europe I suggest you don't go as a wiper. But if it's a question of that or not going at all, a wiper's Europe is better than nothing.

Students Enjoy Shopping at

McARTHUR'S

Dept. Store

Barbara Davis
President YWCA

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •

Cosmetics—Lavin● Rubenstiene● Dorsay● Revelon● Tussy● Cochran and Other Famous Lines

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

MARYVILLE DRY CLEANERS

Has Agents in All The Dormitories

Carnegie:

Butch Christie

Ron Randon

Pearsons:

Betty England

Helen Rankin

Baldwin:

Carol Black

Memorial:

Alice Curd

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings

Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

Student Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

College Hill Grill

● Friendly Atmosphere
● Good Food
● Moderate Prices

Hamburgers — 25c

Cheeseburgers — 30c

"COKE" IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK. COPYRIGHT © 1959 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.

Abracadabra

Foolish boy—the best way to make a bottle of Coke disappear is to drink it! Yes, swallow after swallow, that cold crisp taste is so deeply satisfying . . . and the lively lift is so bright and cheerful the whole day seems happier, just like magic. So open sesame! Just uncap the bottle and get ready for The Pause That Refreshes!

BE REALLY REFRESHED . . . HAVE A COKE!

Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by

RODDY MANUFACTURING CO.

"C" RAY TIPTON

Jeweler

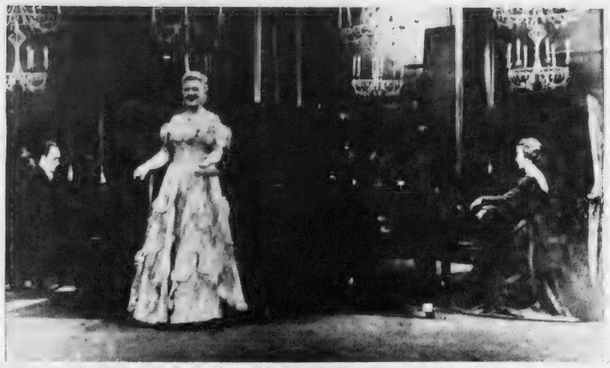
DIAMONDS
ELGIN PRODUCTS
Phone YU 3-2161
Watch Repairing
All Work Guaranteed

In

McArthur's

Maryville, Tenn.

Hungry at Night?



Don't break up your evening studies! Get your Food ahead of time at

COLLEGE HILL FOOD MARKET

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES

YUkon 3-4762 Maryville, Tenn.

WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

SOPRANO MARJORIE LAWRENCE SINGS, flanked by Harry Neal and Allison Nelson, duo-pianists. The team will present an Artists Series number here on March 31 at 8:15 p.m. in the Chapel.
(Photo Courtesy Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

Marjorie Lawrence, Nelson & Neal To Perform March 31

Marjorie Lawrence, soprano, and Nelson and Neal, duo-pianists will appear on the Maryville College-Community Artists Series in Wilson Chapel at 8:15 p.m. on March 31.

The life story of Miss Lawrence was filmed as the musical play known as "Interrupted Melody." Although she remains the victim of polio, she sings as beautifully as ever.

In his review of Mr. Neal's book, "Wave as You Pass," one critic says: "Onstage they're poised and sensitive artists, totally absorbed in their music. Offstage, they're also parents, mechanics, diplomats, stagehands. . . and young people in love with each other and their work."

"Harry Neal was a Paris, Tennessee, boy who had hardly ever heard a live concert. Nor had his family any musical background. Nevertheless, Harry Lee Neal wanted to become a concert pianist, and eventually he did become a pupil of the formidable, near-legendary Mms. Vengerova at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. It was at Curtis that he met and fell in love with Allison Nelson, a gifted young Australian pianist who had been brought to this country by Eugene Ormandy."

'59-'60 Will See Curriculum Change

The Maryville College catalog for the year 1959-1960, which is expected to arrive from the printers in approximately two weeks, includes several major changes for the coming year.

There will be a return to three semestr hours' credit for most courses with the exception of the sciences. Also the graduation requirement has been increased to 128 semester hours. The Physical Education Department will give letter grades in required physical education courses. For students entering next fall, foreign language will be required for all majors. The core curriculum has been reduced somewhat in amount and the flexibility has been considerably increased by provision for core electives.

Band To Perform Jazz Numbers In Concert Soon

The Maryville College Concert Band will present its annual concert on April 10. The concert will be performed in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 8:00 p.m., with Bernard Linger conducting.

The program will include Rossini's Italian in Algiers and an arrangement of The American Patrol by Paul Yoder.

The Street Corner Sketches by George Frederick McKay will feature Bob Reichenbach playing a piano solo.

Several marches, and Malagrena, from Andalucia's Suite Espanola will also be played.

Several jazz numbers are also on the program. Perhaps the high point of the program will be Jazz No. 5 in Red.

Serigraphy Prints On Display In FAC Starting April 1

Works of the nationally known artists, Sister Mary Corieta, I.H.M. will be shown in Maryville during the month of April. The Fine Arts Center Art Gallery will present 53 of her serigraph prints in an exhibition that will open April 1.

Sister Mary Corita is a professor at Immaculate Heart College, in Los Angeles, California. This school is particularly known for its fine art department.

The works of Sister Mary Corita usually have religious meanings. This makes her also one of the foremost religious artsits of America.

The medium in which she works, serigraphy, is done through a process commonly called silk-screening.

Maryville To Greet Easter With Worship At Sunrise

The 22nd annual Easter Sunrise Service at Maryville College will be held in the amphitheatre of the College Woods on Sunday at 6:27 a.m.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of the College, will speak on the text "For They Were Afraid," selected from Mark 16:18.

The 60-voice College Choir under the direction of Harry H. Harter will sing several numbers. Brass ensembles directed by Bernard Linger will playin various parts of the campus prior to the services.

Easter Vespers

Easter Vespers will be held in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at 7 p.m. Sunday. The Choir will sing two groups of anthems and Dr. Lloyd will lead in an Easter meditation using as his text a selection from Acts 1:1—"All that Jesus began to do and teach."

The public is invited to all of these services.

Holy Week

Holy Week has been observed in daily Chapel Services. Four members of the Department of Religion, Dr. John Dales Buchanan, Miss Matilda Cartledge, A. Thomas Horst, and Mrs. Margaret Cummings have led in short meditations in chapel services, Scripture and prayers appropriate to each day were used.

In the Annual Good Friday Service, five-minute meditations were led by faculty members based on the "Seven Last Words of Christ." Speakers were Arthur D. Ainsworth, Miss Frances Massey, and E. Newell Witherspoon. The choir rendered special music.

Y Plans Drama For Easter Eve

A contemporary religious drama, "Christ in the Concrete City," will be Y's offering for the annual Easter Eve program, which will take place at 6:15 this evening. The Chapel Court will be the setting for this "drama in dialectic" to be presented by the Oral Interpretation class under the direction of Charles B. Lane, instructor.

In the event of bad weather the play will be presented on the steps of the Theatre lobby.

Y's Holy Week program began last Sunday with Mrs. Richard E. Beard's presentation of a chronology of religious art masterpieces on Christ's Passion.

Mrs. Beard brought before the meeting some of the finest expressions of religious art and explained the intentions of the artists. "The paintings are intended to speak as the Bible speaks," she said.

Mrs. Beard's program followed a presentation by the Knoxville College Octette in the YM-YWCA schedule; the octette sang to a large audience of Maryville students in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall on March 8.

The Highland Echo

Z 703

Vol. 44 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENN., MARCH 28, 1959

Elect Brininger New YW President

Lou Brininger was elected president of YWCA for the 1959-60 school year, in balloting which took place March 26.

Miss Brininger is a junior English major from Fair Lawn, N.J. She has worked this year in publicity for Y. She is a member of Writers' Workshop and of BG Club and Chi Beta.

Other officers elected Thursday were Joan Menk, vice president; Linda Dobson, secretary; Mary Gray Goodwin, treasurer; and Sue Fagan, Nu Gamma chairman.

Shakespeare Movie Slated For April 3

Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be the next movie presented in the Maryville College Playhouse Film Series. The movie will be shown April 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Theatre.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for 35 cents each. This performance offers students the opportunity to see a Hollywood all-star cast.

Echo Mailbag Yields Fashion Tips, French Reviews

By Betsy Lonsinger

The newspaper is one of the chief distributors of information for the public; thus, even a small college bi-monthly like the Echo is the target for countless stacks of correspondence. Most of this correspondence can never receive the consideration it deserves, due to the sheer numbrs of pieces.

Receives Notices of Opportunities

Perhaps most important of all the mail which the Echo receives because of its personal significance to college students are the numerous letters listing opportunities abroad for undergraduate and graduate study and summer work.

One of the organizations sponsoring this type of activity is the Institute of International Education, which sends notice to all colleges and universities whenever a new scholarship or fellowship appears on the international horizon. For example, according to the most recent bulletin, there is now available a group of five fellowships for graduate study in any Canadian university in the fields of the arts, humanities, and social sciences. These scholarships, offered by the Council of Canada for the academic year 1959-60, each have a stipend of $2000 for the year plus round-trip travel. They may be renewed upon evidence of satisfactory work. Anyone interested in learning more about these scholarships should write to the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York.

Other educational groups, such as the Association of Hungarian Students, the Scandinavian Seminar for Cultural Studies, and the Puerto Rico Student News Service, offer a variety of seminars, festivals, and summer sessions in the universities of their respective countries. There are countless fields of student relations open to the adventurous, interested American student, and many of them are accompanied by awards to lighten the costs.

Ranges from "Soup to Nuts"

The mail ranges from press notices of books and movies to Red Cross newsletters and detailed information concerning student work and study opportunities abroad.

For instance, among the material received by the Echo in the past few weeks have been spring fashion tips from the women's magazine Mademoiselle and Fifth Avenue's exclusive men's shop, Cluett, Peabody and Company, and isolated reviews of Samuel Beckett's recent book, The Unnamable, and of a controversial French movie of medical background, The Case of Dr. Laurent.

Copies of the periodical Southern Observer, a widely-known monthly review of new southern books published by the Tennessee Book Company, of Nashville, find their way to the editor's desk.

Even a lone postcard from an individual in California, pleading with every newspaper to make the public sensitive to the perils of reckless driving was not lost among the huge stack which had accumulated up to last week.

Advertising Campaigns Send

Among the paper's regular and more important correspondents are organizations like the Red Cross, which sends a monthly newsletter and previews of its coming events, and the National Advertising Council, with its yearly campaigns for greater public support of such institutions as NATO and the Crusade for Freedom.

Such is the variety of the Material received by the Echo for dissemination among students. The sheer number of pieces of correspondence makes them almost defy merely sorting. It is hoped that students intersted will contact the Echo editod and plan to visit the Echo office to inspect the correspondence for themselves.

Bloy Tells Club Of German Life

James A. Bloy, assistant professor of music, gave an informal and most delightful talk, at the March 23 meeting of the German Club. He related his experiences, particularly in Frankfort, Germany, where he studied organ with Helmut Walcha and in Salzburg, Austria, where he studied piano with Bruno Seidlhofer. He preceded this with a resume of his trip to Germany, which included stops at London, Paris, and other places of interest.

In addition to mentioning some of the famous plays, concerts, and churches he had attended and from which he passed around many programs, Mr. Bloy told about many of the German customs different from American ones.

He also pointed out the contrasts and similarities between German and American food, dress and general living conditions, especially emphasizing the difference between the station of women in the two countries (the German women being much more conservative and submissive than American women). Following the talk, members of the club asked questions, after which discussion refreshments were served.

For the next program, April 6, Pat Pearson will tell of his experiences in Germany while he was in the military service there. The members will elect new officers then, also. The German Club has entered a team in the volleyball tournament.

Name MC's Ham Wilson Fellow

Keith G. Ham, Maryville College senior, has been appointed by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, as one of its Fellows for 1959.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation is concerned with the critical shortage of college teachers and by its awards hopes to alleviate this crisis. The Wilson Foundation is supported by a $25 million grant of the Ford Foundation.

Describes Teacher Crisis

Hans Rosenhaupt, national director of the program, has pointed out that the need for college teachers in the 1960's cannot be met unless for each Wilson Fellow there are thirty other members of the class of 1959 who also plan teaching careers.

Predictions estimate that between 30 and 40 thousand new full-time college teachers each year will be needed for the wave of students who will flood the colleges in the next decade. Only half of the current yearly average 9000 Ph.D.'s enter college teaching.

Tell Current Fellows' Plans

Maryville's Ham is one of 1200 fellows appointed March 15. Winners were selected from a field of 7000 candidates from 700 undergraduate institutions. Of the 1959 winners 875 are men and 325 women. Of these, 38 per cent will work in the humanities, 34 per cent in the social sciences, and 28 per cent in the natural sciences and mathematics. They will begin graduate work this fall in 80 different universities.

The Fellowship provides a living allowance of $1500 plus full tuition and fees.

Ham has not decided definitely what university he will use at the award.

MC Alumni Also Wilson Fellow

Ruth Morris, a member of the Maryville College class of 1958, also won a Woodrow Wilson fellowship. She is presently studying botany at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Debaters Enter National Tourney

Joyce Williams

The veterans of the debate squad and their coach, Dr. Arda S. Walker, have been participating in the National Debate Tournament at Bowling Green University in Ohio. This event, held March 22-29, consists of eight debate rounds and the various individual contests.

Entered as a debate team are Keith Ham and Dan Ellis; Ross McGill will participate in the discussion groups. These three, along with approximately 800 from other schools, have been competing for awards of superior, excellent, and good ratings.

Squad Goes To Hickory Tourney

At the South Atlantic Tournament in Hickory, N.C., the men's debate team, consisting of Keith Ham and Dan Ellis, received the cup for the best affirmative debating.

Ross McGill and Dale Young, forming the men's negative team, were undefeated in the seven debate rounds; Barbara Tierney and Judy Gano finished third among women's negative team.

Win Individual Awards

Certificates for individual awards were awarded to Keith Ham, second in extempore speaking; Dale Young, first in after-dinner speaking; Ross McGill, first in men's impromptu, and Patsy Davis, second in women's impromptu; Dan Ellis, first in problem solving; Ross McGill, and Joyce Williams, second, in poetry reading; Ross McGill, second in radio poetry; Dan Ellis, first in original oratory, and Keith Ham, second; Joyce Williams, second; and Ross McGill third, in situation oratory.

McGill, Ham Accorded Honor

Special recognition went to Ross McGill and Keith Ham, who were among the 10 top debaters of the 80 participants in the South Atlantic meet.

Cast, Crew Prepare "Oklahoma"; Offer Music Dance, Romance, Fun

Rehearsals and crew work are under way now for the glee clubs and drama department's production of "Oklahoma," the musical play that had a seven-year run on Broadway.

Already the Theatre office has received calls for 40 reservations for the performances to be presented April 17 and 18 at 8:15 in the Theatre.

Color Scheme

Mr. Lane's color scheme for this show will be different values of brown, orange, and yellow. These colors will be carried out in the costumes, set, properties, and lights.

Crews will be haeded by Ron Randon, costumes; Susan Parkinson, sets; Mary Faye Bundy, publicity; Ruth Wagner, properties; and Ron Pearson will be stage manager.

Members of Cast

The cast will include Judy Springstead as Laurie; Frances Arnold, Ado Annie; Steve Miller, Will Parker; Don White, Jud Fry; Bruce Townsend, Curley; Margaret Sample, Aunt Ellen; Ron Randon, Ali Hakim; Susan Parkinson, Gertie Cummins; Don Stupak, Andrew Carner; Bill Murphy, Ike Skidmore; Harry Page, Fred; Tim Hanks, Slim; Dave Campbell, Carl Elam; Bill Yeats, Jess; Tom Dickerson, Chalmer; Lew Pelkey, Mike; John Mitchell, Joe; Billy Renfrow, Sam; Marilynn Lundy, Ellen; Oralea Ziegler, Kate; Cheryl Gould, Sylvia; Judy Gano, Armina; and Sue Bloomer, Aggie.

Chorus and Dancers

Members of the chorus will be Bill Aring, Bob Conner, Dick Hornbuckle, Dave Pate, James Rankin, Millie Trower, Regina Garrison, Jane Stewart, Jo Anne Hauck, Marlene Phillips, Jeanne Wilson, Janet Kilgard, Harriette Blankenship, Barbara Neilson, Becky Kinnamon, Heather Dyson, and Marjorie Luckenbach.

Dancers in "Oklahoma" will be Sue Lemme, June Conerly, Jane Allen, Bob Schultz, Blair Moffett, John Vandebrooke, Leo Chen, and Bob Emmert.

Tickets will go on sale about two weeks before the production. Prices will be $.75 for faculty and students and $1.00 for others.

Frosh Talent Plan For April 4 Show

The Freshman Talent Show has been planned for April 4 at 7:30, it was announced after a meeting of the freshman class on March 25.

This year's talent show may take the form of a television program called "Arlette Sings" with Arlette Rosetti as a TV hostess. The freshmen discussed 10 tentative acts.

A committee to work out details met yesterday. Members of this planning committee are Eleanor Lockwood, Connie Bondurant, Carol Greenwood, Lois Lockett, and Martha Turnbull.

Grant MC $1125 Student Loan Fund

Maryville College has received $1125 from the government this semester to set up the new National Defense Student Loan Fund. To this amount the college has added one-ninth of the sum to make a total of $1250.

Although the fund for this year has already been used, students interested in a loan for next year are urged to come to the Student-Help Office as soon as possible to make their applications.

Maryville's fund is part of the six million dollars appropriated by Congress last summer to set up the National Defense Student Loan Fund in United States colleges.

Fred Hope Fund Stands Half-Way To $1500 Goal

The Fred Hope Fund has reached approximately half of the goal of $1,537.55. Miss Mary Miles, the secretary of the Fred Hope Fund Committee, announced, however, that very few payments were made in March.

All students who have made pledges or who are interested in doing so are urged to bring their donations to the Self-Help Office at any time. A special table will be set up near the office on the Tenth of each month to receive donations.

Challenge Develops Study, Action

The Committee on Ecumenical Encounters was recently organized to create an awareness of world problems within the group itself, on the campus, and in the community, and to take an active part in ecumenical work camps.

The committee is a direct outgrowth of the challenge presented by Dr. James H. Robinson of the Church of the Master in New York City, when he spoke in chapel on January 23, 959, concerning the seething continent of Africa and the action being taken on African problems by the United States government and by various independent, church-related, and student groups.

Part of Y

A temporary committee of YM and YWCA, this Committee on Ecumenical Encounters is functioning as a study group on Africa and is taking concrete action to send three Maryville College students on the work camp caravan to be led by Dr. Robinson in Africa during the summer of 1960.

At present the group consists of approximately thirty members. The chairman is Stan Stefancic; recording secretary, Phyllis Stine, treasurer, Blair Moffet; corresponding secretary, Nancy Jo Martin; publicity chairman, Nancy Smith; and orientation chairman, Ralph Ayers.

Outgrowth of Concerns

Organized spontaneously out of concern, the members seek to reach beyond concern into action. It is the aim of the group to become a part of Maryville life by helping one or more Maryville students to take part in an ecumenical work camp each summer. The caravan under the leadership of Dr. Robinson has been adopted as the first project.

It is the hope of the committee to fulfill its goals through the organizational channels of he YM and YWCA and by preparing and presenting programs on the subject under study to various organizations and groups on the campus and in surrounding communities

These study groups are held each Sunday afternoon at 4:00 in the Little Chapel.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1959 No. 4

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Charlotte Cathey, Marilyan Lundy, Phyllis Stine, Joe Williams

Contributors this issue ... Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Mary Faye Bundy, Charlotte Cathey, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterly, Tom Eberhard, Kathy Eisenhart, Dan Ellis, Sylvia Fugate, Leon Gabrielian, Fred Kay, Eleanor Kenst, Elva Leonhardt, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilyan Lundy, Sandy Macneill, Howard McCuen, Steve Mouton, Don Newroth, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Phyllis Stine, Joe Widner, Joyce Williams.

Typists ..... Barbara Davis, Marianne Inglis, Pat Penland

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers ..... Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants ..... Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Jo Widner

Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

For Sachons' Sake— And the Rest of Us Too

A letter signed "Sachons" came to the Editor just before spring vacation began. This signature is very interesting. A bit of questioning brought to light that the word is a first person plural imperative of a French verb meaning "to know." The form can be translated thus: "Let us know." This particular verb has the sense of knowing in order to be prepared—of being ready by being informed. So Sachons is one who wants to help somebody prepare themselves for something.

Now this Sachons fellow certainly knows that the Echo has clearly expressed its policy not to print letters signed anonymously of Sachons' letter. Because Sachons' concern is so timely it will not hons has done and try to circumvent this policy.

By now one's curiosity is undoubtedly aroused as to the content of Sachon's leter. Because Sachon's concern is so timely it will not be inconsistent with the Echo's policy to say that he writes a plea toto students to vote wisely in the student body elections next week. Now Sachons wroe a very good piece! It is regretable that his piece cannot be printed intact.

Sachons states his concern that the students not take the "C" schedule of election day morning as an extension of spring vacation and hat the students not get so overcome with election excitement and passion that they become incapable of intelligent listening that morning.

Further on Sachons requests the students to make themselves accessible to news and proceedings of the present student government. He suggested that students attend regular Council meetings for this purpose. Well, it is too late for this now. (The Athenians used to have things so arranged that almost every man took his turn in the Council of the 500; the Athenians might not have profited from this kind of government—but at least they were present at its meetings!)

It is a shame that we could not make use of Sachons' work.

Student government is the concern of everybody in the campus community, for this is the channel through which students and administration co-operate for improvement. Furthermore, it is in the campus community that we as individuals develop the habits and the attitudes that we will carry with us throughout our whole lives; political participation is of vital importance.

An important part of political participation is an ability to acquire a thorough knowledge of issues and candidates. There are several ways a student can gain a good acquaintance with the issues and candidates of next Wednesdy's election, even at this rather late date. Today's Echo has articles on behalf of each of the three candidates for Student Body President. The candidates are campaigning; they are distributing their own materials, and they have backers who will be happy to tell of their records and qualifications. The records of the candidates is a good source of information; all have held various offices in campus organizations and have had experience in Student Council. We can discuss the election as we talk informally in the next few days—and also in those that follow, for the election is merely the beginning.

This election for student body officers presents us choices of several good candidates. Our choices should be the ones who can most effectively and creatively guide us in student affairs and represent our interests to the administration of the College. It behooves each of us to discover which candidates these are in our own minds and to vote for them on Wednesday.

A Consenting to Die

By Charlotte Cathey

A flower withers, turns to seed, and—dying, makes way for new life. Leaves wrinkle and fall—their falling and decay nourishes the land where they fall, making new life in that place. We are familiar with this seasonal death and burial that makes new life possible. But when a man is buried it is confirmation that he no longer has a present; no longer has a future. He becomes pure past. He is committed only to the memory of those who can and will remember him before they themselves are buried. And, says Karl Barth, "The future toward which all human present is running is just this—to be buried." Man is buried, but what hope has he of new life?

To look for a "Christ," that is, He who conquers death. To conquer death the Christ must be buried. Jesus died and was buried, a fact historically undeniable. His contemporaries, witnessing his death and subsequent removal to the grave, were, with few exceptions, doubtful and disillusioned. "But we trusted that it had been he who should have redeemed Israel," they said. We may find echoes of this doubtful intonation today, within and without.

How does the Easter message answer this doubt? The answer is not predigested happiness, rather it is an ultimate possibility, subject to our choosing. None of life's basic realities is cut and dried. There are no contrived soap opera endings, no matter how we may wish them. There is always a choice involved, a problem to be worked out.

A case in point is the parable of the Prodigal Son. Jesus never told what happened to the young man after he returned to his father's forgiveness. Possibly he thereafter chose to live productively; possibly he chose a gradual return to dissipation. The point is (and this is not intended to replace the original meaning of the story) Jesus evidently felt that even those who glimpse the Holy Other can still turn away in nonrecognition.

There is an awesome choice to be made, a choice that involves dying to the old life. The Easter message is ours to recognize, to enter into, precisely because Christ was buried, signifying the complete end of the old life. The new life has come out of the grave, and the Messiah has appeared.

> "Alone, alone about a dreadful wood
> Of conscious evil runs a lost mankind. . ."
> "For the garden is the only place there is,
> but you will not find it
> Until you have looked for it everywhere > and found nowhere that is not a desert. . ."
> "And life is the destiny you are bound to refuse > until you have consented to die."
>
> —W. H. Auden, from For the Time Being

An Education Within An Education

(A Defense of English 205-206)

By Edwin R. Hunter, Ph.D.
Professor of English and Chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature

General courses in such fields of expression as the plastic arts and music take no account of artificial boundaries such as those of race and nationality nor, indeed, of such equally artificial stratifications as ancient, medieval, and modern, which are useful only in recognizing the continuous chain running through all times.

Art is long, and the human sense of beauty is perhaps as close as we come to universal understanding. Looking back into time thousands of years and seeing there the beautiful ojects of Chinese and Egyptian, and Greek art which were beautiful to those who made them and are still beautiful to us, we come close to an understanding of what is meant by Beauty is truth—truth beauty.

The language of beautiful creation is the universal language of men.

It is because of this that these general courses in the arts are of such high value—they stretch the mind and endlessly invite the appreciation.

This is true also of courses in the Literary Arts, such as our World Literature course at Maryville College. This type of course is relaitvely recent in American colleges and is still not used as widely as the more conventional English and American Literature surveys. But in such a course there is no hesitation at boundaries of race and lanuage and nationality. (There is, of course, some loss because translations never quite convey the full flavor, but a good translation is far better than total neglect). In our course we include pieces from eight languages and cultures beside English. And we go back to the age of Homer fully 1500 years earlier than the beginnings of literature in English. These are some of the benefits that come in such a course:

(1) One vital benefit is the resulting realization that human natur eand human behavior, whether it be Greek or Italian or Russian or American, whether in 800 BC or 1300 AD or 1959 AD, is essentially the same.

(2) Another gain is the discovery that each age and each culture is in debt to what has gone before—that stories and themes and characters reappear age after age in only slightly more modern dress.

(3) There is also the proper realization that, fine as our own English-speaking contribution to the great world library has been, it is only good and worthy, but not in any sense superior or more important. Our great poets and playwrights and novelists just happened to be Englishmen or Americans just as Homer happened to be Greek and Goethe, German.

(4) Still another valuable discovery is that human nature and conduct is the prevailing subject of interest to mankind. Humanity is the one constant ingredient of comedy, tragedy, romance, adventure and biography. Is it not natural that such a study is a part of what we call the Humanities?

(5) Finally there is the emerging realization that the ultimate test of an artistic work is that it possess esthetic worth. This is more than nobility of idea (Divine Comedy); more than truth to human nature (Odyssey), more than strong pull on the emotions (Hamlet). It is the factor most nearly named, perhaps, by the single word—style. This involves many factors: (1) musical and candenced patterns of speech:

> Duncan is in his grave;
> After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.
> Treason has done his worst. Nor steel nor poison,
> Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,
> Can touch him further.
> —Macb. III, li, 22-26

(2) image-evoking words:

> Fair as a star, when only one
> Is shining in the sky.
> —Wordsworth, "She Dwelt Among the Untrodden Ways"

(3) incisive and arresting new uses of otherwise familiar words:

> Day after day, day after day,
> We stuck, nor breath nor motion;
> As idle as a painted ship
> Upon a painted ocean.
> —Coleridge, "Rime of the Ancient Mariner," 115-118

(4) an aptness of expression that strikes the sense as the ultimate (inevitable way) of saying what is being said:

> The world was all before them, where to choose
> Their place of rest, and Providence their guide;
> They, hand in hand, with wandering steps and slow,
> Through Eden took their solitary way.
> —Paradise Lost, XII, 646-449

This is to say that the real final and distinguishing level of value and appreciation comes when one realizes the importance of manner of expression. The ultimate value is not in what is said—important as that may be—but in how it is said. Read again some of your favorite passages. Imagine them in prose paraphrase, reduced to stark literality and flatness. Perhaps this is the quickest way to a discovery of how important the esthetic aspects of great literary expression are.

One Man — Two Titles Moved And Seconded

By Don Newroth,
President of the Student Body

There are two titles that go with this job I have. Official titles, I mean. I've picked up several more along the way, but I won't bother you with those. I like to think that they were kidding anyway. The two I started with when I landed the thing are President of the Student Body and President of the Student Council. Now before you accuse me of dealing with the trivial, stay with me for a minute, because the success or failure of what I've tried to do evolves from the understanding of these separate functions.

The President of the Student Council has to be a legislator. He meets with his council, and from that meeting of campus leaders must come the suggestions that find their way to Anderson desk tops. But if a council president neglects his other role, this capacity is very limited.

With that observation in mind I asked for your confidence last spring. I can admit now what politics kept silent then—I'm not the most effective legislator in the world. It was my sincere belief, however, that even adequate legislation wasn't going to mean much at Maryville until we changed our tone, until students really got interested in something. And so I set about being Preisdent of this Student Body. Everything I have presented for your consideration has had a motive behind it. My mainspring has not been "change just for the sake of changing things," as several have thought it to be. That's the most narrow view of Student Government I've run across. No proposal should ever be discussed with that in mind. I can just as easily say that someone else wants to oppose the suggestion just for the sake of keeping things the way they are, and we're all back where we started—except we both have a mental block that overshadows the merits and defects of the proposal. No, the principle that has dictated my action has been the creation of an atmesphere. I wanted the whole campus to think about those things which have their direct and indirect influences on responsible students. With the realization of this tone would come a solid foundation for legislation. I doubted then and I doubt now whether we'll accomplish anything significant without this groundwork.

The question for us now is whether or not my intentions have grown into actuality. If they have, what will issue from all of this? If they have not, will they ever? Should they ever?

I'm not going to answer any of this for you. In next week's election you're going to answer it for me. The guy that takes my place will be your standard-bearer.

I will venture to say that the pendulum does need to swing back a little—partly because I can sense something of what I was striving for, partly because our situation requires an attempt at advanced legislation. If next year's Student Council can maintain the balance, you'll do well.

Now if you'll agree with all this, you'll see why I don't think of the distinction as anything to pass over without thought. You'll be looking too for the proper balance in the candidates you vote for, and Council will be improved for our effort.

That's all I can say that will help much. I just wanted to share these thoughts with you, and now I'll leave you to your choice.

—Candidates Afrec:

MC Students Need Responsibility

By Dan Ellis

A story is told of an incident that happened during the French Revolution. It goes something like this. A large mob was running through the streets, screaming wildly; they were destroying everything in their path. From the door of a nearby house stepped a man who exclaimed, "Where is that mob going? I have to follow them. I'm their leader."

All too often student leaders, like the man in the story, follow the mob. I know, for I have had such moments. But as I declare my candidacy for the office of President of the Student Body, I would offer a higher standard of leadership than that. I would aspire to uphold the best confidence of the student who casts his vote for me.

The key to the whole thing, I feel, is responsible leadership. By this I mean simply responsible leadership by a student government that believes that students, Maryville College students, are inherently responsible (although at times we behave irresponsibly when we are not made to feel the burden of responsibility). Many factors have precipitated a situation in which we as students do not assume our share of responsibility. We need to make an honest diagnosis to see why this is true.

Part of the diagnosis has been made. We know, for instance, that nothing is to be gained by constant demands for "student rights" and "privileges." We can only become more privileged by becoming more responsible.

But how, you ask? Several points in my platform will help answer this, I think. It is my belief that the existence of student government is justified only when it contributes to the education of the student. I will expand on this idea in my handbill.

In the meantime let us demonstrate our responsibility by giving careful thought to our purposes as we vote. I would appreciate your support.

By Dave Morris

Has a governor been placed on student government? Why hasn't student government progressed at the speed we desire? Is is perhaps our attitude?

The goal of the administration is the same as ours—the maintaining of a school of which we will ever be proud. But I believe the administration is firmly convinced that the end doesn't justify the means. The present student administration has found through expreience that the attitude and approach to campus problems matters greatly. We need not pretend to know more about running a college than does the administration, but they cannot run an effective college without our insight and co-operation.

We must interpret to the administration that we are a new college generation and that our needs and desires differ somewhat from preceeding generations. I feel that if these needs are interpreted properly the administration will be more than willing to meet such needs.

But this is not to say that we need petty reforms or change for the sake of change. Rather we need a general transformation of attitude and action. Only by thinking through our complaints to see if they are well founded can we hope to attain a spirit of co-operation between the student body and the administration. Through the proper approach to campus problems, a sincere desire to better Maryville College, and a spirit of harmony, student government will find a more effective place.

In high school our generation had much responsibility and freedom. But only through responsible use of the freedom we have can we hope to achieve more freedom and responsibility in the life of each of us on this campus.

I am running for Student Council president to further these principles.

Let us not cuss the administration — Let us communicate with them through effective student government.

By Fred Tepper

I have been concerned about one of my own ideals in that I detest doing a mediocre job of anything for which I am responsible. An effective Student Council President is helpless without an enthusiastic, responsible, hard-working student body.

We are limited by our finan- yet, apathetically ignore the present condition of ourselves and our environment—which constitutes Maryville College. It is well known that the students have acquired within the past few years many privileges not available to our more remote alumni. With these privileges we have failed to assume comparable responsibility and concern necessary for a solid and worthy institution whose purpose is to prepare students for a more responsible position in the life of the community, state, nation, world. We, as students, faculty, and administration must work with openmindedness, stamina, sincerity, and common sense for a mature and instrumental college that produces well rounded men and women.

We are limite dby our financial status, geographical location, and internal conflicts, but these limitations need not prevent constructive chages and sound improvements from each individual within our college community.

We must begin now and continue through renewed enthusiasm to build a stronger college educationally, socially, and religiously. The next Student Body president of Maryville College must be capable of and willing to work for a stronger college through a stronger, more enthusiastic student body, faculty, and administration. Begin now by seriously considering and discussing each candidate, and vote for the person whom you feel can do the best job with you and for you. Your responsibility does not end with the marking of the ballot—there it begins.

Playhouse Board To Select Plays

Soon the Maryville College Playhouse Board of Controls will meet to select three plays to be produced by Playhouse during the 1959-60 season.

Below are listed several plays which are presently under consideration. Faculty and students are urged to express their ideas and opinions about these suggested plays to members of the board, who are Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Charles B. Lane, Yandell B. Collins, Miss Matilda Cartledge, Miss Katherine Davies, and Miss Susan Parkinson.

Suggestions for the 1959-60 season are The Skin of Our Teeth, The Shoemaker's Holiday, Anna Christie, The Matchmaker, Oedipus Rex, The Vultures, Three Sisters, Candide, Arms and the Man, The Devil's Disciple, Blithe Spirit, The Rivals, Member of the Wedding, The Lark, The Crucible, Stalag 17, Dial M for Murder, Inherit the Wind, J. B.

Other suggestions will be welcomed.

Scots & Soda

By Steve Mouton

Dear Uncle Alfred:

Well, I had a letter from Mother the other day and her opening line was, "Well, we're on the move again!" and believe it or not, Uncle Alfred, she meant just that—our family is moving once more! You'd have thought the last time was enough for them, wouldn't you?

Uncle Alfred, you don't know how lucky you are having that big old house, even if it is empty—at least it's yours. You don't have to move. Believe me, you don't know how fortunate you are.

Coming back to the last time we moved—and what an experience that was—it all went something like this:

The apartment had begun to pall on us and mom kept saying that she was tired of looking at the same old molding on the walls and she was quite sick of the same old window everyday, especially since the view it opened on was a brick wall. So we notified an agent that he could bring people around to look the place over for rental. Once we'd done that we felt like staying, just out of spite.

People who are "looking at" an apartment are unpleasant people by the very nature of things. They are passing judgment on a place in which you have been living for some time. There's an insult right there. And while you may have thought you kept the place fairly neat and clean, the minute the "lookers" come in the door it takes on, even in your eyes, the appearance of a house in a William Faulkner novel about "poor mountain-whites."

Then they begin. You try to pay no attention and to give them the run of the place by themselves, but you hear them whispering, or see them exchange glances. It's those sly glances that really get your tail feathers ruffled.

"I suppose this is the dining room," the woman says. "It's not very light, is it? But it might be a little more cheerful with other curtains."

Then they pass into the kitchen, where they think they are out of earshot. "Wilma would never work here, I know." Then you hear an "Ugh!" There certainly is nothing in that kitchen to go "Ugh!" about, unless she has got into the refrigerator and doesn't like cold beets. Well, by jove, she'd better get out of that refrigerator or you'll have the police.

When they come back the woman says they have almost decided (an exchange of glances her) that the place is not quite big enough for them. So they leave, with polite thanks, and you come back into that dear little nest that you call Home, and that you know darned well you are going to call Home for at least another few months.

But you do take a little look into the kitchen to see what the "Ugh" was for.

Well, Uncle Alfred, you get the picture, I'm sure. Best regards to Aunt Zelda and the kids. Write soon.

Your nephew,
Steve

P.S. Our new address is:
2875 Ocean Avenue
Sheepshead Bay, New York

Scottie Nine To Take On U-K Wildcats In Opener Today As Honaker Begins 38th Year With 398-191 Record

The Maryville Scottie baseballers will open their 1959 season this afternoon against the University of Kentucky nine, in a game at 2:30 on the Maryville diamond.

Coach Lombe S. Honaker is beginning his thirty-eighth year of baseball with the U-K opener. The veteran Highlander mentor in 37 previous seasons has coached his teams to 398 wins as against 191 losses and 11 ties. Up until 1940, when Maryville dropped out of the Smoky Mountain Conference, Coach Honaker led Maryville to 17 league championships in 20 years. His 1958 team had a 14-6 record. With only three losing seasons in Honaker's career, it is safe to expect another winning season this year, in spite of the fact that only two lettermen are returning from last year's team.

Maryville will be working with a completely revamped team. The loss of all but the two lettermen has necessitated the use of young and inexperienced but promising men. These men will have to fill spots vacated by such outstanding performers as Earl Lawson and Jack Woodhull, who was touted by Coach Honaker as "the best second-baseman in the past 10 years."

The returning lettermen are Bill Owenby, pitcher and infielder, and Mike Talley, catcher. A rundown of positions shows Fred Morrison, Gayle Ferguson, Fred Feitler, Joe Griffin, Leon Baird, and Bill Crisp vying for the infield positions. The outfielders are Dyrk Couser, "Happy" Kidd, John Badders, and Lynn Webb. Catchers are Dale Sterner, Mike Talley, Jim Renfro, Jon Brindle, and Stan Stefancic. The pitching staff consists of Owenby, Aring, Harry Page, Gene Gilreath, and Don Harward, with any of these also filling in at other positions.

A probable line-up for Saturday's game is Ferguson 1b, Crisp 2b, Morrison 3b, Baird ss, Gilreath cf, Aring rf, Owenby p, Talley c, with left field undecided as yet.

Following is the Maryville baseball schedule for the next two weeks:

March 28, Univ. of Kentucky, home.
April 2, Alma College (Mich.), home.
April 3, Alma College, home.
April 4, Jacksonville State, home.
April 7, Tennessee Wesleyan, home.
April 9, Lincoln Memorial, away.
April 11, Slippery Rock Teachers (Penn.), home.
April 14, Univ. of Tennessee, away.

Maryville is the University of Kentucky's last stop on a Southern tour which began March 23. The Wildcats have played Georgia Teachers, South Carolina, and Wofford previously on their trip.

Intramurals....

Men's intramural basketball championships were determined without playoffs. Leaders of both A and B League were far enough ahead of their fields that tourneys were not needed.

In the A League the Rosebuds won the first round by surviving a playoff which involved three teams in a first-place tie — the Rosebuds, the Alpha Sigma Sledgehammers, and the Mavericks. The Rosebuds took the second round championship with victories over the Mavericks and the Sledgehammers.

In the B League the Gunners walked away from all competition in both rounds of play to win the championship.

Season results, including playoff games, are as follows:

A League	Won	Lost
Rosebuds	9	1
Mavericks	6	3
AS Sledgehammers	5	4
KP Knights	2	8
AS Piledrivers	1	7
B League
Gunners	10	0
AS Shieks	8	2
AS Hammers	6	4
KP Sputniks	3	7
KP Barons	2	8
G-Strings	1	9

Netmen Have Inexperience Problem; Meet Kenyon In Next Home Match

Tennis prospects for Maryville College looked good until three of the four returning lettermen chose not to play this season.

The Scottie netmen might have expected to take all the opponents on their 16-game slate except perennially strong Carson-Newman and Chattanooga.

In actuality Tom Eberhard, a junior, is the only returning letter winner. Lack of seasoned players changes tennis prospects from good to hopeful.

The team's first five matches will be trial runs in which the new material will gain experience, which is probably the most important factor in intercollegiate tennis matches.

Eberhard, who played in the No. 5 slot last year, will play the No. 1 position this year.

Jeff Grote currently holds the second position and is doing well in his freshman year. Grote should be a mainstay on the squad in coming years.

Dick Mayer, in the third position, needs consistency but is expected to be improved by the middle of the season.

Fourth place has Roger Nooe showing promise. Presently his serve is weak, but with this improved, he should be able to hold his own in competition.

In fifth spot is George Roselli, a left-hander, who will win his share of matches when experience comes his way.

Presently George Poland is the No. 6 man; although his serve needs work, Poland has the will to win, which is a strong advantage on the court.

Dick Heishmann, Paul Conklin, Charles Crissman, Joyce Trautwein, and Mary Cooke back up the first six and will keep the regulars on their toes.

Of the runners-up on the squad, most improved is Charlie Crissman, who began playing tennis only last year and has come a long way since then.

Next home match will be with Kenyon College of Ohio, on March 31, at the Memorial Court. The team needs the support of students at its matches.

One of the biggest factors helping this year's team is the coaching of Ted Engle, who graduated last May and was the No. 1 man of the 1958 tennis season. Dr. Ralph T. Case is the faculty coach who "wins and loses" each match with the team.

The 1958 tennis schedule follows:

March 27, Centre, home; March 31, Kenyon (Ohio), home; April 7, Tennessee Wesleyan, home; April 9, Carson-Newman, home; April 10, Chattanooga, home; April 13, Lincoln Memorial, away; April 16, King, away; April 17, East Tennessee State, away; April 18, Emory and Henry, away; April 20, Tennessee Wesleyan, away; April 23, Carson-Newman, away; April 25, East Tennessee State, home; April 30, Chattanooga, away; May 1, King, home; May 2, Emory and Henry, home; May 5, Lincoln Memorial, home.

Trackmen Work Out For Meets; But So Far Find Few Opponents

Maryville College's track team is working out in preparation for the new season.

Coach Marvin Mitchell reported that the biggest problem for the team is finding competition. Thus far meets have been scheduled only with Tusculum and the University of Chattanooga. Coach Mitchell pointed out that the main purpose in track this year is to build for the future.

Those on the team who return from last year are Karl Diller in the 440 and the mile relay, Bob Wyman in the weights, Frank Griffith in the high jump, Larry Stearns in the dashes, Ed Milam, Bill Hartman, Don Budde, Clarence Story, and Bryson Struse in the hurdles and shot put.

There is also much promising new talent on the team. In the high jump and pole vault are Hank Andrews, Norris Shank, John McFadden, and Dave Cost.

Also promising are Phil McGaha and Bruce Dalstrom in the weights.

Coach Mitchell indicated that it is too early to conjecture as to the success of the track team. The interest in track at Maryville isn't as great as it might be, and another purpose of the team is to stimulate more of an interest, he said.

Societies Play Soccer In WAA

Soccer is the word in WAA now. Last Tuesday, a small group of girls assembled on the Women's Intramural field to try their luck at the sport of dribbling the ball by foot instead of by hand.

Although this sport is not very well known by most of the lassies thusiasm, pep and above all, skinned knees.

Donna Sarver is the able coach in the group, there was much enof Chi Beta, while Harriet Blank ership is tutoring Theta. The big question at present is "Who's going to win the tournament?"

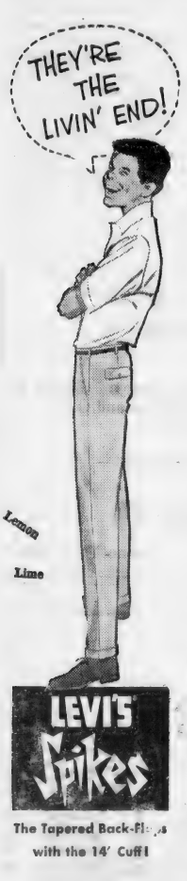
Foundation Places US Students With Summer Jobs In Europe

Work this summer in the forests of Germany, on construction in Portugal, on farms in Sweden and Denmark, in a kibbutzim in Israel, on road construction in Norway!

These and countless other jobs have been opened by consent of the countries' governments to American university students going to Europe in the summer of 1959. Last year, the first group of students made their way across the Atlantic to take part in the actual life of these countries, and the success of the project has caused a great deal of enthusiastic support both in Europe and America.

Live With Europeans

How is it done? Through the work of the American-European Student Foundation, a non-profit organization formed for the purpose of affording sutdents opportunities to get into real living contact with the people and customs of Europe. In this way, a concrete effort can be made to learn something of the culture of these lands, perhaps for the betterment of international relations. This is one way to put Preisdent Eisenhower's "People to People Program" into vigorous action.



Variety of Jobs Available

In return for his work, which might be child care, farm work, forestry, road construction work, hotel work, or perhaps some other more specialized job requiring special training, the student will receive his or her room and board, plus a wage.

However, applicants should realize that they will be working within the framework of European economy and wages will naturally be scaled accordingly. The working conditions (hours, safety, regulations, legal protection, work permits) will be strictly controlled by the labor ministries of the countries involved.

In most cases, the employers have requested American students especially. They are all informed of the intent of the program, and will help the student in any way they can to derive the most from his trip to their land.

For information write to the American - European Student Foundation, PO Box 33, 712 Vaduz, Lievhtenstein, Switzerland.

The Tapered Back-Flares with the 14' Cuff!

CARLS

Wiley Tours North, Visits High Schools

Miss Ann Wiley, Admittance Counselor under the new development program, has recently returned from a three-week tour of the North.

Leaving at the first of March, Ann flew north to Newark. She then toured the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia for twenty days. The main purpose of this tip (planned fo October). During lay the ground-work for a future trip (planned for October.) During this time Ann visited many high schools, meeting and talking with guidance counselors and prospective students.

Visits McGill

She stayed a week-end with Dr. and Mrs. MaGill in Philadelphia. An evening meeting was held on March thirteenth at the Abingdon Presbyterian Church (Dr. MaGill's Church) for high school students in that area. Dr. Barraclough (Barry) was also pesent at that time.

High Schools Visited

Some of the high schools visited were Irvington, Columbia (in South Orange), Bloomfield, Plainfield, Abraham Clark (in Roselle), Cliffside Park, Princeton, and Hightstown, all in New Jersey. In Philadelphia Ann visited Girard College High School. In Wilmington, Delaware, Ann visited the DuPont High School; in Maryland, Towson, Anacostia, Northwestern (in Hyattsville), and Bethesda-Chevy Chase; in Virginia, Fairfax and Falls Church High.

Chi Beta Plans Dances, Hayride

Chi Beta entertained the men of Kappa Phi, at its meeting of March 7. A skit pantomiming the poem "The Highwayman" was given and refreshments were served. Helen Martenis was honord for her service to Chi Beta and Kappa Phi, and was presented with a corsage by Fred Tepper, president of Kappa Phi.

Kathy Eisenhart has been chosen Chi Beta's dance chairman for the spring formal.

Plans are being made for a hayride and an informal dance to be held in the near future.

The Chi Beta scrapbook has been brought up to date by Betty Boone, vice president of Chi Beta.

May Day Coming

When March and April showers come our way, remember that May, not only with its flowers, but also with our May Day Queen and her attendants, will soo nbe on its way. Be present May 1, 1959 for the gala May Day Festival.

Phi Has Program In Stereo Sound

Kappa Phi met last Saturday night with a program in stereophonic sound. Dr. Cooper provided the entertainment.

The society is preparing plans for the spring formal.

Kappa Phi will not meet tonight due to the special Y Easter presentation at 6:15 in the Chapel Court.

The society will meet at its regular time next Saturday, however, and a special program is being planned to follow the freshman talent show.

Decius - On World Order

By Fred Kay

I've heard, Marius, that some believed
Him to be a god of sorts, but gods
Don't die that way even for the Worst of crimes. I'll not discuss
The point with such a learned
Man as you whose knowledge from
Both book and scholar far surpasses
Mine. I've served in every Roman
Camp from Gaul to Egypt and done
To death a hundred rogues. He was A man, I say, and died as well as any Might, but died as others do. Your Homer
Has us to believe that gods may come
To earth and dwell here guiding,
Sporting, and begetting other gods from Fair-formed maids. This Jew came not
With silver bow or golden sceptre
Much foretold by awesome signs or Portents. He was a carpenter, they Say, and in His province taught
The simple folk, the rabble, if I don't Offend, to love their enemies. If by
These words we make him God, 'tis
Sad indeed that Caesar's foes don't Worship him, I'd throw my short
Sword in the Tiber and lie me
Down beneath the arbor on my Brother's farm. These willful Jews
Have not yet learned what gifts the Mighty Caesar can bestow. They Grumble over tax, invoke their mighty
God of Wrath whose power places
Them forever in a mortal realm, but Nothing ever comes of it. They're asses
Not to see what good's been done them.
Such people don't make gods of simple
Carpenters but fighting zealots armed With sword or spear. Aye, that's their Way; a blade in the back o nsome
Dark night. If God or son of God he was,
The Jews won't say so. Too many Laws forbid it. The one they worship
Dwells within yon city and can by Further rule be visited only once
A year. He's Jove and Mars in one
But seems to be relaxing now or Changed his favor to more noble
Folk. No, Marius, you can't be right;
For even if he were a god, would Love or virtue ever burn their Way to man's unquestioned
Interest? Mark you this. The cross
That held that man is what will
Be remembered, for it is a symbol
Of triumphant Rome and justice,
Be you Jew or Gentile.

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

Sat. Sun. Mon.
Tues. & Wed.

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET

PROFFITT'S
Everything For Discriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian
—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center
Broadway—Maryville
Proffitt's

Have You Forgotten Someone?
HARTMANS'S FLORIST
We F.T.D. Flowers anywhere

STERO RECORD PLAYERS
As low as $79.95
Magnavox — RCA — Motorola — Zenith — Philco — Sonic Radios and Record Players
Hitch Radio & T.V.

Student Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
BIBLES — R.S.V., PHILLIPS BOOKS
CARDS GIFT ITEMS
YU 3-4982
Maryville 229 College St.

"How isn't that just like a wife? Questioning, always questioning!"

Clinton Principal Informs MC Students Of Events Since Dynamiting

The present school situation in nearby Clinton was personalized to the group of Maryville College students who attended a special Student Council meeting on March 25.

W. D. Human, principal of Clinton High School, spoke at the meeting, which was attended by about 50 Maryville students. Mr. Human reviewed the events leading up to the dynamiting of Clinton High last fall. He also described progress on construction of a new high school in Clinton and in fund-raising for the new building.

The Clinton principal said that Anderson County had no Negro pupils in its schools until fall of 1956. In that year desegregation was ruled accorning to the 1954 Supreme Court decision. Clinton had a test case in the appeal to the federal court at Cincinnati by a group of Negro parents from Clinton. Before desegregated schools were given a trial, however, racist John Kasper appeared in Clinton and incited townspeople to reject desegregation.

Kasper was eventually disposed of, and the Clinton school proceeded with integrated classes. There were no further major incidents until October 6, 1958, when Clinton High School was dynamited during the night.

Lost No School Days

The explosion did $250,000 damage to the building and rendered it useless. Governor Frank G. Clement was especially concerned when he learned of the dynamiting; a delegation of Clinton schoolmen flew to Nashville to confer with the Governor, and it was decided to attempt to continue without losing even one day of classes.

An unoccupied ggrade school in Oak Ridge was procured for Clinton High. Students went to school in Oak Ridge by bus (Mr. Human supposes Clinton is "the only high school in the country that is completely on wheels." School is in session under these conditions now.

Graham, Pearson Visit Clinton

Construction began last week on the new one-and-a-half million dollar Clinton High School. Mr. Human turned to mention the variety of help that has come from many sources in the school's time of crisis. He mentioned the visits simultaneously of evangelist Billy Graham and commentator Drew Pearson. Pearson's efforts have brought more aid to the school than any others, he said.

Another important group in helping raise funds for Clinton High has been REACH, a group at Temple University in Philadelphia. Contributions have come from every state in the country and from several other countries.

Mr. Human read a letter from a high school in Tanganyika which had sent a contribution to funds. Although they perhaps misunderstood the actual situation at Clinton, he said, their sacrificial gift reflects their concern. The boys at the high school sent 35 shillings, a month's wages in Tanganyika. Their own school facilities at the same time are pitiable, as there is only one hig hschool of 100 students in their area, which has 100,000 population.

Explosion Hurt Relations

Returning to comment on present race relations at Clinton, Mr. Human stated that the October dynamiting opened old sores and increased bad feeling. The Clinton community has been drawn together in its drive to build the new school, however.

Mr. Human displayed articles on the Clinton school in the New York Times Magazine of October 26 and November 2, 1958.

A question-and-answer period followed the principal's remarks. The regular Student Council session convened after this special meeting.

Diane Hatch, NSA National Officer, Challenges Students' Interests

Have you read a newspaper today? Have you read a news magazine this week? These were questions asked by Miss Diane Hatch, Executive Vice President of the United States National Student Association, as she spoke in chapel on Tuesday, March 3.

Miss Hatch, who was traveling in the Kentucky-Tennessee Region of USNSA following the Annual Spring Regional Assembly, directed a number of pointed questions to the student body in general and to student leaders. What are you doing to improve the intellectual climate on campus? What are you doing to help remedy the teacher shortage in our colleges, which is growing more acute each year? Are you talking to any of your classmates whom you feel are qualified about entering the profession?

She spoke about the need for adequate counseling, especially for freshmen, and asked Maryville students what they are doing about it. She asked the student leaders on campus, "What are your reasons for being a student leader?" She also asked the students what our concept of a good student leader is.

Miss Hatch pointed out that that students are lacking in knowledge of world affairs. Besides asking if we read a newspaper each day, she asked us how prepared we are to combat Communism, if we could recognize Communism if we came in contact with it. She asked us if we know what bills are now in Congress which affect us as students, if we know how the recent draft legislation (then contemplated, and since passed), would affect us. She asked us if we are even concerned about such legislation.

Miss Hatch then mentioned some of the services of the National Student Association, and asked if Maryville students have made use of them. Do we know such services exist? Are we aware that Maryville is a member of the Association? Most students had to answer most of Miss Hatch's questions in the negative. A number of Maryville students spoke with Miss Hatch during her visit; many commented on the pertinency of her remarks.

(Miss Hatch's talk made a great impression on Maryville students at the time it was given. It is to be hoped that we will remember her words and their rousing impact, and that they will become the starting point for changes in us as individuals. The Editor)

Recital Slated For March 31

Elva Leonhardt and Sandy Macneill, senior music education majors, will give a joint recital on March 31, at 4:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Miss Leonhardt, organist, will perform Bach's Prelude and Fugue in F minor, Lord Jesus Walking On the Sea, by Weinberger, and Boellmann's Suite Gothiquc.

Miss Macneill, pianist, will play Le Tambourin, by Rameau, Sonatas in C minor and A major by Scarlatti, two intermezzi by Brahms; the Rag Doll, and the Puppet by Villa-Lobos.

Dr. Frank Cross To Speak Here

Dr. Frank M. Cross, Jr., authority on the Dead Sea Scrolls and well known Old Testament scholar and archaeologist, will lecture at Maryville College on April 16. The subject of his lecture will be the Dead Sea Scrolls.

At present Dr. Cross is Professor of Old Testament at Harvard Divinity School. He graduated from Maryville in 1942, attended McCormick Theological Seminary, and received his Ph.D. from John Hopkins University in 1950.

Dr. Cross has received inter national recognition for his work with the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Dolch, Lynn Read At Pi Gamma Mu

Reading of papers on the French and Indian War and on the origins and development of patent medicine advertising between 1800 and 1860 formed the program at the March 20 meeting of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science society.

Tom Dolch, senior history major, and Dr. Robert A. Lynn, assistant professor of economics, were the respective readers of their papers. The meeting was held March 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Dr. Ralph T. Case, secretary of the group.

Dolch's paper gave a brief summary of causes of the French and Indian War, the Battle of Quebec, and the significance of the war upon the American nation.

Dr. Lynn's paper was interspersed with quotations from original advertisements, which made for a highly enjoyable evening.

Guests at the meeting were recently-elected members of the organization: Fred Kay, Dan Ellis, Joe Tropansky, Sue Tourtellotte, Don Buddle, and Jane Planitzer.

The main item of business was selection of a place and date for the annual society banquet.

Following adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. Case served refreshments.

Garcia To Speak On Cuba At Vols

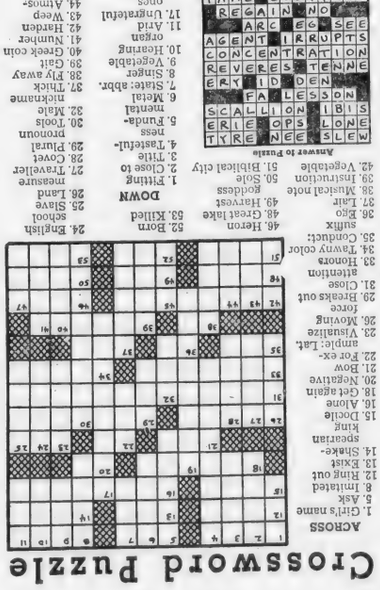
Frank Garcia, president of Student Volunteers, will speak and show slides on Cuba at tomorrow evening's meeting of the group following the Easter Vesper service.

Shadow of the Almighty, by Elizabeth Elliott, was reviewed by Phyllis Stine at Student Volunteers on March 3. This book is the story of Jim Elliott, a young Christian missionary who was killed by Eucador savages. It is taken from the journal, prayers, and letters of the missionary. Through the Gates of Splendor, a record of the mission in Ecuador which includes the other four couples there, also written by Elizabeth Elliott, was reviewed by Betsy Lonsinger. This group pioneered in communication in that area, working with this motto in mind: "He is no fool who gives what he can't keep to gain what he can't lose." All five of the young men were killed in 1956.

The program on March 10 was presented by Dr. D. W. Proffitt, former modeator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, who spoke and showed slides on his travel in Latin America.

Wiley Went South In January Trip

Miss Ann Wiley returned to Knoville January 23 climaxing a week of traveling as representative for Maryville College at several high school College Day programs.



She had started out January 19 and had traveled to Atlanta, Ga., where she was a guest at the home of Frances Matthews, a Maryville College senior.

On Tuesday she went to Decatur, Ga., where she visited two high schools, speaking about the curriculum and life on Maryville campus.

Wednesday found her in Rome, Ga., for another speaking engagement, and Wednesday evening she battled the "tornado" in order to get to Redbank High School in Chattanooga and Chattanooga Central High where she was one of 26 speakers representing various colleges.

On Sunday afternoon a group of students from Greeneville, Tenn., were brought to Maryville by Rev. Rodger Cowan, class of '50. The group of three sophomores, three juniors, and three seniors toured the campus and had supper in the dining hall.

Ides of March Crossword Puzzle (15 Days Late) or Ides of April Crossword Puzzle (15 Days Early)

Answer to Puzzle

ACROSS
1. Girl's name
5. Ask
8. Imitated
12. Ring out
13. Exist
14. Snake-spectrum
15. Doctle
16. Alone
18. Get again
20. Negative
21. Bow
22. Ex-ample: Lat.
23. Visualize
26. Moving force
29. Breaks out
31. Close attention
33. Honors
34. Tawny color
35. Conduct: suffix
38. Musical note
39. Instruction
42. Vegetable
46. Heron
48. Great lake
49. Harvest
50. Sole
51. Biblical city

DOWN
1. Tithing
2. Close to
3. Title
4. Tasteful-ness
5. Fundamental
6. Metal
7. Slate: abbr.
8. Singer
9. Vegetable
10. Hearing organ
11. Arid
17. Ungrateful one
19. Highways
22. Mistake
23. Rotate
24. English school
25. Sleeve
26. Land measure
27. Traveler
28. Cover: nickname
30. Tools
32. Male pronoun
36. Plural
37. Trick
38. Fly away
39. Gait
40. Greek coin
41. Number
43. Weep
44. Harden
45. Particle
47. Sulcin
52. Born
53. Killed

Crossword Puzzle

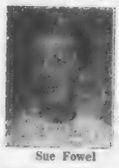
Beware the Ides of March!
Beware the Ides of April!
Lirpa Loot!

GIFTS • CARDS •
• STATIONARY •

Cosmetics—Lavin • Rubenstiene • Dorsay • Revelon • Tussy • Cochran and Other Famous Lines

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.



108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

'pri Is The Best

... and put us to the test,
... e to please all of you,
And we deliver orders too,
So hurry down or call us then,
Even if it is about ten.

Students Enjoy Shopping at
McARTHUR'S
Dept. Store

Sue Fowel
Editor of Chilhowean

Glamor Shops
118 Broadway
Matching Co-ordinates

Pedal Pushers	$3.99
Jamaica Shorts	$2.99
Shirts	$2.99
Skirts	$3.99

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 3-4762 Maryville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

The "Y" Store proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

"COKE" IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK. COPYRIGHT © 1958 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Dr. Livingstone?

What a happy man he would have been if his man Stanley could have brought along a carton of Coke! That cold crisp taste, that lively lift would certainly hit the spot with any tired explorer. In fact, after your next safari to class—wouldn't Coca-Cola taste good to you?

Drink Coca-Cola

BE REALLY REFRESHED...HAVE A COKE!

Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by
RODDY MANUFACTURING CO.

Scots & Soda Extra
Special Lirpa Loot Diet
(Compliments of Echo Staff)
By JOE WILLIAMS

We are, in a sense, reluctant to see the old column go. It had a number of very admirable features—warmth, cleverness, charm, and that certain bizarre humor which so endeared it to all of us.

We do feel, however, that for all its appeal, the old column had something missing which is vitally needed. Levity is fine in its place, and we unquestionably need a sprinkling of it here and there, now and then. But we strogly feel that it is secondary to the vital issues of life. In these times of uncertainty and change, when our old ways of existence disappear overnight and are replaced at once by untried, frightening new ones, we need to be in constant touch with contemporary dangers, needs and challenges.

In keeping with such a view, then, we present today the recent findings of a panel of noted German doctors who have studied American society over a period of the last ten years. These men have concluded that disease in America is due chiefly to the American can habit of high-calorie diets. Their findings, as most of you have undoubtedly read, have astounded the medical world. They have proposed an ideal diet, simple, inexpensive, easy to obtain, which they contend will be a true panacea if strictly followed by American families.

So, without further preamble, and in keeping with the new aims of Scots and Soda, we present this Low-Calorie Diet, with high hopes for its immediate use and effectiveness.

Monday
Breakfast—Scraped crumbs from burnt toast.
Lunch—Weak tea, 1 bouillon cube, ½ cup diluted water
Dinner—1 pigeon thigh, 3 oz. prune juice (gargled only.)

Tuesday
Breakfast—Shredded egg shell skins
Lunch—Navel from a navel orange
Dinner—2 eyes from fish potato (diced)

Wednesday
Breakfast—Shredded egg shell skins
Lunch—1 doughnut hole (without sugar)
Dinner—Breathe deeply passing delicatessen

Thursday
Breakfast—Rolled-out stains of tablecloth
Lunch—½ doz. poppy seeds
Dinner—1 guppy fin

Friday
Breakfast—2 lobster antennae
Lunch—Lick one bare popsicle stick
Dinner—Bees knees and mosquito knuckles sauteed in vinegar

Saturday
Breakfast—Aroma of empty custard pie plate
Lunch—Pickled hummingbird tongue
Dinner—Pickled ribs of tadpole

Sunday
Breakfast—4 chopped banana seeds
Lunch—Broiled Butterfly liver
Dinner—Fillet of soft crab claws

Extras
½ cup of peach fuzz
Water from strained squash seeds.

CURLEY MAKES ADVANCES, and Laurie appears shyly receptive, as the theme of OKLAHOMA! movesoutdoors. Bruce Townsend and Judy Springstead are the respective leads. The joint production by Women's Choir, Men's Glee Club, and Playhouse will be staged April 17 and 18 at 8:00 p.m. in the Theatre.
(Photo courtesy Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

(Photo by Don Buddle)

Oklahoma! Perhaps To Play Extra Night; Half Seats Sold

Tickets for the production of Oklahoma! went on sale Monday, April 6. Within a week's time, enough reservations have been sold and received to more than half fill the seats for both Friday and Saturday nights, April 17 and 18.

Compared to The Glass Menagerie, there are more tickets sold for Oklahoma! now than there were opening night for it! It is expected that the show will have to be held over for another night.

Possibly the reason for the great interest in Oklahoma! is its popularity on the stage and screen. Another reason for the great expectations is that the recent plays and Experimentals seen in the Playhouse have been so well received.

Color Scheme

The color scheme of the musical will be centered around brown, orange, and yellow. All-new costumes in "gibson girl" style have been created for the girls in the cast. Boots and hats have been rented for the men in th show.

The story of Oklahoma! as its name implies takes place in the West not too long ago, when Oklahoma was not a state. The people have a lovely simplicity about them. They are mostly farmers and cowboys who squabble at each other about which one has the right to the land.

Cast of Characters

Laurie, portrayed by Judy Springstead, is a farm girl who lives with her aunt Eller, Margaret Samples. Curley, Bruce Townsend, is a cowboy who is terribly in love with Laurie.

The only realistic person in the story is Jud, characterized by Don White. He is unbalanced and full of complexes. Jud also tries to posses Laurie and brings evil into their world.

Ado Annie, a friend of Laurie's, is played by Frances Arnold. She becomes a dumb but lovable person who attracts the attention of both Will Parker and Ali Hakim. Steve Miller will be Will and Ron Randon is Ali Hakim, the peddler man.

A combination of people from the Women's Choir, Men's Glee Club, and the Playhouse comprise the cast, and chorus. Performances will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the Theatre.

Grants Received To Be Used For Operational Costs

Maryville College has just received $25,000 from the estate of the late Charles E. Merrill. The $25,000 grant was part of a $50,000 grant, half of which was received last year.

Mr. Merrill, who was an investment counselor and partner in the Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith firm, died in New York. In his estate he left cash grants and trust funds totaling nearly a million dollars. Maryville College was the only institution named in the will. Mr. Merrill did not attend Maryville College, but it is reported that his parents did.

Use of Grant

This money will not be used in the present budget of operational costs. Since a rather large amount of money is needed to make up the 48 per cent deficit in student expenses, it is also important that the college receive donations for operational expenses. (The student pays only about 52 per cent of the cost of his education.)

Other Gifts

Recently the development of five has received three gifts to help meet current operation expenses. The first was a $1,500 grant from the Alcoa foundation. The second, amounting to $1,000, was donated by the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Michigan. The pastor of this Church is Dr. W. Glen Harris, a member of the College Board of Directors. The third gift, amounting to $250, was received from the Tenafly Presbyterian Church in Tenafly, New Jersey. This is the first installment of a four-part gift of $1,000.

Hoefer Elected YMCA President

Ron Hoefer was elected president of YMCA for 1959-60 in a run-off election held April 8.

A second ballot was required when Hoefer and Graham Bardsley received most votes in the original three-man slate of nominees for balloting on April 7.

Hoeffer is a sociology major from Claymont, Delaware. He has served this year as YM secretary.

Other officers elected Tuesday were Lee Odell, vice president; Don Buddle, secretary; Dave Doyscher, treasurer; and Dave Meneely, sophomore rerpesentative to the advisory board.

Schiller To Speak On Modern City

Roberto Schiller will present a program on Brazilila, the most modern city in the world, at Student Volunteers on Sunday, April 12. This will continue the series on Latin America.

The program on April 5 was given by president Frank Garcia on Cuba, his native country.

Student Vols prayer meeting, open to the student body, is at 5:30 each Tuesday afternoon.

Applications Here For Work Camp

The newly organized Committee on Ecumenical Encounters has received application blanks from Dr. James H. Robinson, chairman of African Crossroads 1960, the ecumenical work camp project which has been chosen as the local committee's first undertaking. Those who are interested in applying for the project can obtain further information at the study group to be held tomorrow at the regular time, 4 pm., in the Little Chapel.

Bobbie Larsen, senior English major ,will lead the group study and discussion on the race problems in Africa. Bobbie took her junior year at Beurit College for Women in Beurit, Lebanon. At the close of the academic year she went to the Union of South Africa where she participated in an ecumenical work camp for the duration of the summer.

MC To Host Smoky Tourney On April 17-18

The Maryville College debate squad will act as host for the Smoky Mountain Forensic Tournament, to be held April 17-18. Eight colleges and universities will participate in this meet, and elimination tournament with four debate rounds, semi-finals, and finals.

MC Entrants

Maryville College entrants are Dan Ellis, Ross Magill; Gene Fieg, David Pierce; Steve Graham, Don Leo; Patsy Davis, Joyce Williams; Barbara Tierney, and Judy Gano. Participating in the individual contests will be Keith Ham and Dan Ellis in oratory; Dale Young and Don Jackman, in aftre-dinner speaking; and Patsy Davis, Dan Ellis, and Ross Magill, in extemporary speaking.

These debaters will also help in managing the tournament, as organized by Dr. Walker. Dan Ellis and Don Jackson, who are in charge of soliciting time keepers, urge anyone interested to see them or Dr. Walker.

National Tournament

At the National Tournament, held March 22-29, in Bowling Green, Ohio, Dan Ellis won an excellent rating in oratory and placed in the top one-sixth of the 800 participants. Keith Ham won a good rating in extemporary speaking and placed in the upper one-third of the entrants.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Selects Eleven; Chooses Ann Leitch As Third Junior

Alpha Gamma Sigma, the scholarship honor society of Maryville College, has recently elected eleven new members. The following ten seniors, with their home addresses and majors listed, have been elected:

Judith Anderson (Maryville, Tenn.)—biology

Anne Elizabeth Brown (Roxboro, N.C.)—English

Charles Eugene Brown (Maryville, Tenn.)—psychology

John Emery, Jr. (Pitman, N.J.)—chemistry

Zona Lillian Gogel (Miami, Fla.) music

Bruce Stephan Greenawalt (Philadelphia, Pa.)—history

Keith Gordon Ham (Merrick, N.Y.)—history

Richard Eugene Jones (St. Petersburg, Fla.)—English

Don Bruce Newroth (New Castle, Pa.)—English

Nancy Steere (Collinsville, Ill.)—home economics

The only junior elected was Elizabeth Ann Leitch (Tulsa, Okla.)– Christian Education

Membership Requirements

In order to be eligible for membership a student must possess a point-hour ratio of 2.33 for his first seven semesters of work. Juniors who have particularly distinctive records may also be elected. Miss Leitch is only the third junior to be elected in the history of the society. No more than 10% of the graduating class may be elected in any single year. These requirements for membership roughly parallel those of the nationally known honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

Three of those elected graduated from Maryville in December: Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Brown and Mr. Greenawalt.

Recognition Day

A recognition day for the new members of Alpha Gamma Sigma will be held on Thursday, May 7, during the chapel hour. Dr. L. L. Williams, Professor of Biology, will be the speaker. This is the one-hundredth anniversary of the publishing of Darwin's Origin of Species and the one-hundred-fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Darwin. For this reason, Dr. Williams has been asked to discuss the impact of Darwin's magnum opus in the intervening century.

At present there are around 300 members of Alpha Gamma Sigma. New members have been elected each year since the society was founded in 1934.

During these years, Alpha Gamma Sigma has developed its own scholarship fund from contributions of the members. A scholarship is presented each year to the incoming junior with the best academic record in his class. Winners of this scholarship in the last three years were Ruth Morris, Robert Bowman, and Ann Leitch.

This year's president of Alpha Gamma Sigma is Dr. Robert A. Lynn; Dr. Edwin R. Hunter is the secretary.

Y Will Present MC Debate Team On Nuclear Ban

On April 12 YM-YWCA will present the Maryville College Debate Team who will argue on the question, "Should Nuclear Testing be Banned?" Don Ellis and Keith Ham will present the affirmatives, while Ross McGill and Dale Young take the negative.

Y presented John Walker Jr., a senior from Young High School, Knoxville in a program on Switzerland Sunday, April 5. The Young Merit Scholarship Finalist spoke of his summer as an exchange student and illustrated his talk with slides. He stated that the most important thing that we, as Americans, could learn from the Swiss is ::to keep the home." He lauded the Swiss people for their history of peace and stability in an explosive world.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1959 NO. 5

Dr. Ferris Points Out Need For Fred Hope Sterilizer In India

By Miss Nancy B. Hunter

In January Dr. Dorothy Ferris wrote from India: "We are happy that Mayville is helping again this year, and thank you all for the pledges made. The pressure sterilizer is a big item in a hospital with surgical services, and the Fred Hope sterilizer will be much valued."

A large number of operations are performed each year in the Frances Newton Hospital and, as Dr. Ferris points out, in a hospital with such surgical services a sterilizer is a big item. The operations are of all types except the most specialized, for which patients are referred to hospitals like Ludhiana and Vellore (also mission hospitals) where there are large staffs of specialists.

Much of the medical work has to be done for no payment or very small payment because so many of the patients are very poor. Those who can pay do so, but no one is turned away because he can't pay. This means that while the hospital may meet its current expenses it cannot build up a surplus from which to purchase large items like this sterilizer. Most of the current income and expenses are very low by our standards, but many of the big pieces of equipment have to be bought aboard where the financial standards are much higher. Therefore the hospitals very much needs the help of the Fred Hope Fund.

The Frances Newton Hospital is a very attractive place and is widely known. A Canadian nurse who came to it said it was known all over India as being very clean. She later brought several other nurses to see it.

It is a tremendous task to keep a hospital there clean for very few of the people have any idea of antisepsis or of its importance. The staff makes an effort to teach health and preventive medicine but it is difficult when the people have so little knowledge about these things. One of my duties each week was to give out pamphlets on various diseases— prevention, symptoms, treatment. One of the difficulties in all work in India is that of language. Most of the pamphlets were printed in four languages and the nurses had to ask each person if he or anyone in his family could read and if so what language.

At the dispensary one day I saw Dr. Gugger (M.C. '43) treat a young girl's infected foot. The girl had stepped on a nail, the wound had become infected and yet the father would not have a tetanus shot given, although he was comparatively well to do and could have afforded it. There is great need for teaching as well as for treatment.

Of course the immediate problem at the hospital is always the treatment of the sick. The Frances Newton Hospital is the only one in that area offering surgery for women and children, and people come many miles to it. It was usually possible to tell whether the morning train had arrived by the number of people waiting in the out-patient department.

Dr. Ferris' reputation was so great that she occasionally received messages like this one I copied from a postal card in her mail:

"My wife wants to get an operation so please let us know on what day Dr. Ferris operates. Please send us your reply soon so that we may come one day earlier."

With this continually growing service, a large sterilizer is of ever-increasing importance.

To Install Gilmour Pre-Min Prexy

At the Pre-Ministerial Association meeting on April 9, officers for next year were elected. They are president, John Gilmour; first vice president, Nancy Jo Martin; second vice president, Pat Loud; secretary-treasurer, Karl Diller.

These newly-elected officers will be installed at the Association's banquet meeting to be held at the Simple Simon Restaurant on April 23 at 6:00 p.m. The speaker for this banquet will be Mr. Tolar, associate professor of mathematics at Maryville. Graham Bardsley, this year's president, will lead the installation service.

In addition to the election of officers, a discussion was led by Karl Diller concerning the purpose of the Pre-Ministerial Association and why it has failed to meet the needs of our pre-ministerial students.

Officer Training Prepares Marine For Commission

On April 17 Captain H. L. Litzenberg, III will head a procurement team who will try to interest freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in good standing into the two officer training programs. These programs will prepare men for a marine Commission by two summer training camps, each six weeks during the regular summer vacations from school. Candidates are paid at camp and receive first class transportation to and from Quantico, Virginia. Upon graduation they are commissioned second lieutenants.

Seniors and recent graduates are eligible for the officer candidate course program, which is a direct assignment from civilian life to a ten-week course as an officer candidate. This is also held in Quantico. But in these cases the candidates receive their commissions immediately after their ten-week period.

After enrollment a man is ... course to train for either a ground or air commission. When he graduates and is commissioned he will immediately assume a duty as a marine officer in his chosen field. Newly commissioned ... officers begin their ... as platoon leaders ... Private ... assigned to ... combat ... ... to command for duty.

Johns Hopkins Mentor Calls Cross Foremost Dead Sea Scrolls Authority

Dr. Frank M. Cross, Jr., an internationally known authority on the Dead Sea Scrolls, will speak in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at 8:15 p.m. on Thusday, April 16, on the subject The Manuscripts from the Wilderness of the Dead Sea. This is the third program of this year's Lecture Series.

W. F. Albright, a professor at Johns Hopkins University, says, "Mr. Cross is easily the foremost authority on the Dead Sea Scrolls today." Dr. Cross is an authority on classical Hebrew and on West-Semitic studies, and he is also a scholar of Assyrian culture.

MC Graduate

A native of California, Dr. Cross received his A.B. degree from Maryville College in 1942. He graduated from Maryville cum laude, majoring in philosophy. In 1946 he earned his B.D. degree from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago. He was awarded a Ph.D. degree in Semitics at Johns Hopkins University in 1950.

Dr. Cross taught for one year at Wellesley College and then joined the faculty of McCormick Theological Seminary in 1951. He remained at McCormick until he accepted a position at Harvard Divinity School in 1957.

During this past summer, Dr. Cross was appointed Hancock Professor at Harvard University; this is Harvard's third-oldest chair, established in 1764. As Hancock Professor, he is Curator of the Semitic nations. In addition to these duties, Dr. Cross is associated with the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at Harvard. Although he is now a member of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Cross continues to teach in the Harvard Divinity School as well.

Book On Scrolls

In 1958 The Ancient Library of Qumran and Modern Biblical Studies by Dr. Cross was published. A copy of this has been placed in our library.

His father, Dr. Frank M. Cross, is a Presbyterian minister in Birmingham, Alabama and is a director of Maryville College.

Dr. Frank P. Graham will conclude this year's Lecture Series on April 28.

Brahams Will Be Vespers Speaer

In connection with National Christian College Day Mr. Raymond I. Brahams, Jr., Director of Development, will be the speaker at the Maryville College Vespers service on Sunday, April 12.

Mr. Brahams graduated from Maryville College in 1949. He majored in History and among other offices served as vice-president of the student body during his senior year. Before coming to Maryville this fall, he was associated with Wintworth College in Washington.

College To Supply Speakers For Presbytery

COLLEGE TO SUPPLY

Maryville College will provide speakers tomorrow for many of the churches in the Presbytery of Union of the Synod of Mid-South of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA. Tomorrow is the Sunday which is being observed throughout the nation as National Christian College Day.

Students, faculty members, and alumni will serve as personal representatives of the College discussing its program as well as presenting the cause of Presbyterian higher education in general.

The Presbytery of Union includes churches in the Blount County and Knoxville area. Speakers who have been assigned to the various churches are as follows: Corryton, Washington Presbyterian, Don Newroth, president of the student body; Greenback, First Presbyterian, Dr. Robert Lynn, associate professor of business administration.

Knoxville— Caledonia, Commodore B. Fisher, associate professor of history; Erin, E. Newell Witherspoon, assistant professor of economics and business administration; Graystone, Raymond I. Brahams, Jr., director of development; Kirkwood, Dr. Frank D. McClelland, dean of the faculty; Shannondale, Miss Ann Wiley, admission counselor; Springplace, Arthur S. Bushing, dean of men; West Haven, Dr. Paul I. Cooper, associate professor of French:

Maryville—Highland, Earl Blazer, Maryville business executive; Big Spring, Edwin J. Best, TVA budget analyst Houston Memorial, Rev. A. Thomas Horst, assistant professor in religion and philosophy; White Pine and Dandridge, Dave Morris, president-elect of the student body.

Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, will observe National Christian College Day on the 19th. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Maryville College President, will preach, the Maryville College Choir will sing, and Raymond I. Brahams, Jr. director of development, will speak. The service will be telecast on Station WATE TV.

Check Book List. Page 4

The Highland Echo

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Charlotte Cathey, Ross McGill, Pat Penland, Phyllis Stine

Contributors this issue——Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Maryanne Braidwood, Charlotte Cathey, Dick Crowder, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterley, Tom Eberhard, Kathy Eisenhart, Leon Gabrielian, John Gilmour, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilynn Lundy, Howard McCuen, Ross McGill, Don Newroth, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Jane Plantzer, Georgene Rohlander, George Stewart, Phyllis Stine, Herb Thompson, Joyce Williams

Typists ..... Barbara Davis, Marianne Inglis, Pat Penland

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers ..... Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants ..... Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Jo Widner

Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

And Now Some Shouting

Retiring (soon) Student Body President Newroth remarks in his Moved and Seconded column today that it's all over but the shouting. Let some shouting begin here in praise of President Newroth.

The students are indebted to Don Newroth for his leadership this year—and are further indebted for widespread support which they failed to give when it was needed. "I opened (the student council office) for your questions and suggestions. I closed it for the lack of them."

Newroth could be lauded also for his scholarship and character. But we wish here to accord him the gratitude we feel toward him for his leadership of our body politic. His scholarship and character have enabled him to perform the quality of leadership he has given.

Consider the total work of student government under Newroth's administration this year. (And here we recognize several others who have worked alongside the president.) This year's student government has brought Maryville College students advances in responsibility and in privilege. It has opened new vistas for student government in this college. Here we will single out developments which seem to us significant; the reader will think of others. The Newroth administration has worked through Student-Faculty Senate to communicate student attitudes to the administration—a vital function of student government. Discussion ranged from the subject of the religious situation of the College to agreement on a student chaperone plan, which has brought students greater responsibility in the social life of the College. Possibilities for later programs have been foreshadowed by exchange visits with Knoxville College and the visit of W. D. Human, Clinton High School principal. Another important advance has been some realization of the existence and activity of the United States National Student Association (USNSA). These and other advances have come through the current administration under President Newroth—and several of the ideas have had their local origin, at least, with him.

No administration begins with itself. The work of student government under Newroth came after foundations laid in previous years. But this year under Newroth's leadership has made us as a student body aware of greater possibilities for student government.

As president, Don Newroth brought to his work at least two talents that he has in abundance—those of speaking and of writing. His address on election day crowned a sucession of words through the year expressed clearly and firmly, yet applied with humor. Last Wednesday's address should get frequent re-readings by Maryville College students. There is probably not available a better expression of a thoughtful student's understanding of this College's present position. Newroth's words require reckoning from every person interested in Maryville College, from directors and administrators to students and former students, the alumni, and parents and friends. We believe Don Newroth's address is an accurate and noble expression for current student generations of the College.

But it speaks mainly to current student generations. It is an address to the student body.

In his Moved and Seconded column in the Echo, Newroth has combined the same clarity and humor of expression to report current developments to the students. His sense of humor should also be singled out. By his subtle wit he has done the same as using a knife to spread with instead of to stab.

Newroth's sensitivity has enabled him to speak students' language to students, to speak the students' voice to the administration, and all the while o keep objectivity to lead the one and to understand the other.

A good political leader is one who succeeds in connecting a situation with universal goals. Newroth has succeeded to a large extent here. The Echo wishes to express at least once the gratitude of his fellow students for his sacrifices of time and energy and for his contribution to our lives and to the life of our alma mater.

Where, O Where. . .

A recent Chapel announcement by Student Body President Newroth [illegible] that there are 50 books missing from the Library. He [illegible] in his announcement that the loss of 50 books means an [illegible] of 100. Lost with the 50 books are 50 possible completely new [illegible] which cannot be purchased because funds must be used instead to replace the 50 lost.

Young adults mature enough to seek privileges with their related responsibilities would also recognize the value of books to students. A concerned student body would organize a campus-wide search for the lost, strayed, or stolen books.

A list of the missing books will be found on Page 4, Column 7.

Neglected Streams

By John Gilmour

Before the Maryville College Lecture Series began about five years ago, many students exprssed a wish to have prominent speakers visit our campus. The present Lecture Series was designed to hear outstanding persons speak. How do we respond to this opportunity?

One glance at the attendance at these lectures should give us an answer. With the exception of the Carl Sandberg lecture, we have failed to show much interest. For this poor attendance, there is no excuse—no, not even the well-worn "too many assignments" story.

Why have we failed to respond to this program? Certainly we cannot say, "Because the speakers are uninteresting or unknown." This year's series, in particular, contains brilliant leaders. Might this be just another example of our apathetic indifference?

Whatever answers we may give to these questions, we must realize that the Lecture Series is one of the better opportunities that we have to gain an education. If we persist in looking upon "education" as a dirty word, we will reflect that attitude by neglecting the lectures. If, on the other hand, we take a more healthy attitude toward our purpose here, then we can make the Lecture Series reach every student, as is intended. Let us show that we are mature enough to take advantage of our opportunities by going to the lectures on April 16 and April 28 and drinking deeply from the streams to which we have been led!

Moved And Seconded

"All Over But The Shouting"

By Don Newroth
President of the Student Body

What is it they usually say about this time? "It's all over but the shouting"—or something like that. Candidates have been changed into office-holders, and office-holders have—well, never mind. The question is, what will become of the people who cast their votes? Dave and Mike have their roles well in mind, I'm sure. The challenge is there, and they realize it. But what about you? As far as you're concerned, it might all be over—but the shouting, of course.

I hope not. Politics does funny things to people, though—even on a small college campus. There's always a tendency to say, "He ran, I voted, let him conquer." And until the leader provides the inspiration, this is justifiable. But what then? Or some of you could say, "I voted for somebody else. Let his people do the work." This doesn't last very long. The "somebody else" usually becomes an effective part of the new administration, ill-formed opinions break down, and the campus becomes one again. And what then? Only time will tell, if I may borrow a phrase. The important thing for the moment is that neither of the above attitudes prevail, that the student body be behind Dave and Mike.

I say this because someone has expressed concern that no matter who would have won the third election, the student body could not have been unified. There's nothing particularly subtle about stating that some people win and in consequence others have to lose. It might be helpful to emphasize that the third election was the result of a ruling by the election committee, not the result of a protest from anyone. It's also immature to suppose that Fred was trying to pull something over on us. He misunderstood the procedure, and the committee realized that the barrier should be cleared before any attempt was made to designate a winner. Anything else you might have heard probably arises from a misunderstanding of the misunderstanding. There is no objective reason to suppose that our little string of elections involved anything more than what I have stated here.

Meanwhile student government is still going on. We have established separate elections for class officers and student council representaitves, thereby making losers in the first election eligible for candidacy in the second. We're giving you all sorts of opportunities to exercise the voting privilege here. We are seriously concerned that the people who have leadership ability not be denied the opportunity to exercise it in one area or another. We have also devised a nomination system which will cut the length of the class meetings. Gray will be coming at you with that.

Other committees are working too. You might be interested in their reports on Wednesday nights. I have three or four weeks to mess things up a little more. Then it will all be over. But the shouting

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCE

The International Relations Club and the YMCA-YWCA will sponsor an evening of international folk dancing on Saturday, April 11, from 8 to 10 p.m. The renaissance at the present time is the great demand ". . . for more and better scientists, more and better science in our schools and universities, better facilities for scientific research, more attention to pure science . . . more prestige and greater material rewards for the scientific research worker." The disparity of this, according to the article, is the focusing of more attention on the success of applied science which is causing a poor showing in theoretical advances.

It is predicted that the "new" scientific age will create an increase in physical well-being as well as different ways of thinking and a modification of sentiments. Changes, however, are always taking place in our environment as knowledge is gained. The changes predicted shall be different in that they shall be greatly accelerated.

We have already been influenced very much by scientific technology, but our education has been based on the "humanities."

Mr. Whitehead writes that humanistic education has been based, until the present, upon a specific time and place as in China, Ancient Greece or wherever cultured tradition may be found. Such education is dependent upon discipline, a body of particular facts and relating ideas to be studied and mastered as a condition of scholarship. He also states that the least result of an education based on humanism is to fulfill Matthew Arnold's definition of culture which places the life of man in the primary cultural position. In physical sciences, the student is taught "the logic of the discovered", this is "a system completely divorced from man himself."

The problem considered here, it seems, is one which is frequently brought out when discussing education in general: shall we educate individuals to be considerate of human beings or should we educate automatons.

T. North Whitehead was educated in England and worked in the National Physical Laboratory and the Admiralty Research Laboratory before coming to America twenty-six years ago. He is now the Director of Management Training, Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass.

Will Scientific Renaissance Produce Automatons!

By Richard Crowder

In a recent issue of the American Scientist, T. North Whitehead wrote an article for "Perspectives" which I feel is appropos to some of the discussions going on about campus. Although written primarily for the benefit of the physical scientist, I believe Mr. Whitehead's stand for the humanities shall be applicable to all of us in the future. Mr. Whitehead feels that we are 'in the grip of another Renaissance, caused, this time by the galloping pace of scientific invention".

The implication of this new dance will be held on the lawn in front of Thaw.

Members of the freshman and advanced folk dancing classes will be the instructors. During the intermission the folk dancing classes will present a show. The numbers they will perform are "La Raspa," "Put Your Little Foot," and "The Waltz of the Bells."

The Student Center will sell refreshments on the lawn during the evening.

Scots & Soda

By Maryanne Braidwood

Hello Darlings;

Yes, it's that time again, that wonderful time of year when awards are given. Everyone knows about David Niven and Susan Hayward receiving their Oscars. Congratulations, kids! Here, though, are some awards that even Jimmy Fiddler and Louella Parsons don't know about. We have our own Academy Awards right here on MC campus—which goes to prove that all talent isn't in Hollywood. Here is our scintillating list of newcomers (and don't tell Louella)!

Best Actor—Dr. Lloyd
Best Actress—Miss Massey
Best Actor in a Supporting Role—Deans McClelland and Bushing
Best Actress in a Supporting Role—Miss Lightfoot
Best Special Effects in Chapel—Mr. C. B. Lane and Dr. Copeland
Best trend toward Bohemianism—Zona Gogel, Bob Schultz, Mr. Harter
Best Beard—John Vandebrooke
Best Special Effects in the Parlor—Mrs. Robinson
Best documentary in black and white—Mass award to all pedants
Best Book—Can't you guess?
Best Musical Score—The Hymnal
Best Musical Production—Choir Concert
Best Food—Open award
Best Special Effects on Icy Day—Mrs. Purnell
Best Stunt Performer—"Mom" Jones
Best Special Studies student—Pat Dow
Best Sound—M.C. Orchestra
Best Producer—Mr. Ash
Best Script Adapted from fiction—The View Book
Best Lighting Effects—The Sun
Best Information Outlet—Dave McCahan
Best—The years of our lives at Maryville.
Best Special Effects—Jill Smither
Best "Thud"—Susan Parkinson

Well, darlings, the evening calls. So with choruses of "No Business and None of Yours Blues" I shall close now.

Ta! Ta! Darlings.

Hedda Braidwood

Peiffer's "Exciting Trio" Brings MC Contemporary Jazz

By Herb Thompson

At 8:15 Monday evening, April 13, Maryville College will witness the first jazz concert in its 140-year history, when the Bernard Peiffer trio entertains as one of this year's Artist Series attractions. We are fortunate to have this opportunity to hear an outstanding jazz artist whose "exciting trio" (to quote Downbeat) produces a contemporary jazz idiom for all to enjoy and understand.

Peiffer's music is distinguished by his fantastic technique which sets it apart from the majority of keyboard jazz heard today. A glimpse of Peiffer's history accounts for this distinction.

During World War II, while serving in the First French Army, Peiffer's love for jazz exceeded even his concern for personal safety. He risked his life to pursue the art form of his choice. The German occupation troops banded participation in jazz, but after their expulsion Peiffer managed to eke out a living playing jazz piano in Paris, Nice, and elsewhere in France. Peiffer was strongly influenced by clarinetist Hubert Tostaing, the composer and eminent jazz critic Andre Hodier, and the legendary jazz guitarist Django Reinhardt. Upon the death of the latter, Peiffer became the commanding figure of continental jazz.

Peiffer has won acclaim for jazz proponents everywhere. He was the first non-American to win France's Grand Prix du Disque in jazz. Twice he was thus honored. In 1956, the well-known American jazz critic Leonard Feather and the influential jazz writer Barry Ulanoff picked Bernard Peiffer as the outstanding new star on piano for that year. Peiffer is the only musician ever to receive the International Downbeat poll of new jazz pianists for the last three years.

Peiffer now makes his home in Philadelphia. He has joined talents with drummer Jerry Segal, also of Philadelphia, and bassist Gus Nemeth of Trenton, New Jersey, for his concert tour.

If you want to have the continued pleasure of the sound of Peiffer, there are several albums available. Decca has recorded "Piano a la Mood" and "The Astounding Bernard Peiffer." The latter contains his performances at the Newport Jazz Festival in 1956 (he was urged to return the following year). Presently Peiffer is recording for Emarcy and on the jazz label of Mercury records, which has released one Peiffer album entitled "Bernie's Tunes."

On Thinking of Eva and April and Things

. . . .

By Charlotte Cathey

It must have been April or near it when Eva (Adam's wife) first wandered astray. It must have been April like our April here when the first balmy breeze, warm as a tabby cat, slipped 'round her shoulders and led her astray. Not that the apple was offered in April, it was not ripe for the ultimate test. But the first breath of April, the languor of April, the deep-reaching fragrance and hunger of April sent her on her way.

We know such an April here on our campus and wonder if this is the place it began, back in the ages, back before mountains made arm 'round this land. Did Eva walk here? We do, and the same breath and languor fragrance and hunger of April that moved her moves us.

Astray from our books and away from ourselves we walk back into memories, back into childhood when we played kick the can, played baseball, and ran all about in the sun. We try to recapture that innocent day when our greatest concern was a new game to play (or Tommy's new ball bat or Jennifer's cat).

But childhood is twilit, we regain but an echo, and then it's away. April carries new secrets to draw us still on:

"Did you hear? There's a small street, our own secret place."

"Where an elderly pear tree is wearing white lace?"

That's the place!"

Eyes all aglitter the secrets are spread, exchanged by inclining head against head (in pleasant repose).

And April continues to lead us astray, like Eva, it leads us astray. Shall we study this book, or shall we read that? Shall we sit by the window, watching the treetops, the drowsy green treetops, and the people below? Who's to know?

Poor Eva, poor us! We must make a choice. We can't linger here indecisively so. We can't leave our books and go out in the land, following April so willingly——oh! Perhaps if we sleep now tomorrow we'll know.. Tomorrow is May— — and tomorrow we'll know.

Note: Ralph Hodgsdon, a gifted British poet, wrote a poem entitled simply "Eve." The fluid meter, the happy combination of words contained in that poem have served as inspiration for the above piece.

Berlin And The Summit

By Robert A. Lynn, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Business Administration

The most important subject of international news in recent weeks has been that of the Berlin problem and the forthcoming foreign ministers' conference at which it will be discussed. It seems very likely that a summit conference of the heads of the American, British, French, and Russian governments will follow the foreign minister's meetings after the basic issues have been established.

Berlin has posed a constant problem for the West since the division of Germany after World War II. The city lies about 100 miles inside the borders of the communist East German Democratic Republic. East Germany controls the Eastern part of Berlin, but the Western part is associated with the German Federal Republic, or West Germany. East Germany and Russia attempted to drive the West out of Berlin in 1948-1949, but these attempts were thwarted by the determination of the United States, illustrated by the famous airlift, to hold control of the Wesern sector of the city. This demonstration of determination resulted in relatively settled conditions in this locality, despite its extremely weak position from the standpoint of military strategy.

By November of 1958, however, Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev proposed changes for Berlin and Germany that have reopened the area as a site of major concern. Khrushchev said that Russia was going to transfer its functions in Berlin to East Germany. This would raise the problem of dealing directly with the East German government. Khrushchev later stated that Berlin should become a demilitarized free city; he gave the West six months to prepare for this new plan. This six months will end in May.

In response to the Russian proposals Western leaders have been preparing for conferences to work out a new solution for the inevitable trouble spot. The most active Western leader has been Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain. President DeGaulle of France and President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles of the United States now appear ready to proceed toward the summit talks proposed by Khruschev, although they have been substantially less enthusiastic about it than Macmillan.

The major issue in addition to Berlin itself that will probably arise in the meetings will be military disengagement in Central Europe, political unification of Germany, and the place of West Germany in NATO. Berlin itself poses a problem for East Germany and Russia because it has been a chanel for refugees and perhaps intelligence data, it has been made a showplace city for the West behind the iron curtain, and it has symbolized our determination to contain communist expansion in Europe. For these reasons it would be to Russia's advantage to make Berlin into a free city not under Western military protection.

Arising out of demilitarization of Berlin may be the whole question of military disengagement in Central Europe. A first step in disengagement might be establishment of a north-south band of which the "iron curtain" would be the center, and in which military establishments would be removed. This might appeal to Russia because of possible savings in cost. It might also be part of a Russian desire to secure an agreement that nuclear weapons not be stocked in West Germany. Russia is often said to possess a deep-seated fear of Germany, and absence of atomic weapons in West Germany would probably be regarded as highly desirable by the Soviet Union.

In connection with the Berlin problem Russia has proposed that East and West Germany be united in a confederation. Khruschev may have suggested this because of Secretary Dulles' position that no settlement can be made in Germany except after unification based on free elections. Khrushchev probably envisions no elections that the West would regard as free; it is also doubtful that Russia seeks a united and stable Germany because of its experiences in two world wars. Thus Khruschev's proposal may be in actuality an invitation for a counterproposal.

Surrounding all of these negotiations is the question of our NATO obligations to West Germany. A solution which involved retraction from our committments would have unfavorable implications for relationships with other allies and also with neutral nations. On the other hand, the securing of changes that did not involve basic abandonment of obligations to Berlin and West Germany might be the means of strengthening the alliance with France and Great Britain. Progress made thus far appears to be tending in the direction of closer Big Three unity.

The conferences will be of great interest, but they will probably not result in basic settlement of any of the foregoing issues. War ness to compromise and negotiate for peace. The West has tended communications, since no fundamental threat to either side's security is present. The balance of power will probably remain about the same as at present even with such an agreement in allied cooperation, closer diplomatic contact with the Soviet Union, and the opportunity to gain some diplomatic advantages. If we were to offer Russia reasonable counterproposals and Russia were to refuse them, we would have at least demonstrated to the World our willingness to compromise and negotiate for peace. The West has tneded to be the side on the defensive; we wait in silence until Khrushchev acts—as in the current situation—, we take in transigent positions, we lose the initiative. The forthcoming talks may give us a chance to regain a greater degree of world leadership which can be of real value in our efforts to gain the support of uncommitted nations.

Inexperience Hurts Tennis Team

The next 12 days will find the Maryville College tennis team playing six matches, including three in a row.

Monday will see the Scots at Lincoln Memorial University for an engagement with the undefeated Railsplitters.

A three-day trip to Emory & Henry, East Tennessee State, and King will give the netmen successive matches on April 16, 17, and 18.

On Monday, April 20, Tennessee Wesleyan will host the travelling Scots; then there is a two-day rest before the team meets Carson Newman on their court April 23.

"Chalk it up to experience," said Tom Eberhard, captain of the 1959 tennis team, when he was approached on the recent losses to Centre, Kenyon, and Tennessee Wesleyan. George Roselli and George Poland won their singles matches in the Wesleyan fray, which should bolster their confidence.

Honakermen Engage Slippery Rock (Pa.) Here Today

Holding a 1-4 won-lost record as of a week ago, the Scots take on touring Slippery Rock State (Penn.) at 2:15 this afternoon on Honaker Field.

Once again the byword for Maryville sports is inexperience as capable but untempered ball hawks have failed to fill in for the seasoned veterans of last year. However, in baseball, perhaps more than in any other sport, there is optimism with a fine baseball authority coaching good material.

In the inaugural game on March 28, Maryville played host to the University of Kentucky Wildcats who were, to say the least, surprised at Maryville's showing. The Scotties, behind the pitching of Bill Owenby, held the reins for seven innings. Not until the last inning did Maryville falter as UK exploded for four runs, the final score being 6-4, favor of UK. Highlights of the game over the hitting of Fred Feitler, who hit safely twice in three times at bat, and the power hitting of Fred Morrison, who smacked a ball far into right center for an easy triple in the second inning.

Maryville's next foe was Alma of Michigan, who took two games from us, 8-6 and 6-1.

In the first game Bill Aring, starter, was relieved by Gilreath and then by Owenby in the seventh.

The Scotties got their six runs by virtue of three hits, all provided by Fred Morrison's big bat. Errors hurt Maryville as the Highlanders committed four misques. Alma collected their eight runs on nine hits and had but one error.

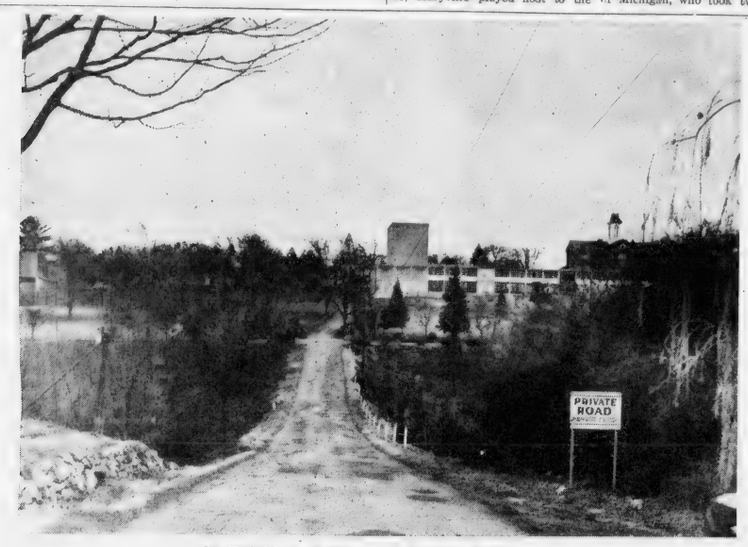
Bill Owenby received little support in the second game as Maryville erred incessantly in the 6-1 defeat. Hitting too was deficient as the Scotties chalked up only two in the hit column, these off the bats of Feitler and Gilreath. Alma got their six runs on four hits as Owenby was relieved in the sixth by Stan Stefancic.

April 4 saw Maryville come up against a powerful Jacksonville State team composed of former semi-pro and service players. Bill Aring, after relieving Bass in the third, sustained the 12-4 defeat as a lack of defensive experience cost the Scotties five errors. The offensive punch was lacking also with but three hits, Jacksonville tacking nine on the board. Bohannon, the Jacksonville pitcher, swished 10 batters on the way to his win.

Exhibiting their potential really for the first time, Maryville rolled over Tennessee Wesleyan 10-2, Wesleyan's runnings coming late in the game as Gordon Gilbreath stemmed rallies throughout the game. The Scotties smashed 10 base knocks in the onslaught but still showed a defensive deficiency with five errors to their discredit. A sparkling game at first base was played by Dale Sterner, freshman addition to the starting nine. Besides gobbling up all the balls that come his way, Dale had a good day in the batters box as he went two-for-three.

Schedule for next two weeks:

April 14 U.T.	Away
April 17 Tusculum	Home
April 18 East Ky. State	Home
April 20 L.M.U.	Home
April 23 Tennessee Wes.	Away



Intramurals....

Intramural softball players got a chance to loosen up their arms and sharpen their batting eyes in a week of practice games.

League competition began Monday with the usual slug-fest type of softball that is typical of the beginning of the season. The Pre-Mins dropped the Alpha Sigma Hammers 12-9. Tuesday the AS Sledgehammers managed to rose out the Sugar Plum Fairies, 13-11. The most spectacular aspect of this game was a triple play pulled by the Sledges in the first inning.

There are now six teams in the league, as follows: Alpha Sigma Sledgehammers, Kappa Phi, Alpha Sigma Hammers, Sugar Plum Fairies (independent), Pre-Mins, and The Johnny Rebs (independent).

Little speculation is being made as to the outcome of the season because of the closely matched teams.

On Thinking of Eva and April and Things . . .Spring comes to MC.

USNSA 1959 Guide Tells How Student Can Work, Study, Travel Abroad

The United States National Student Association announces the publication of the eleventh edition of "Work, Study, Travel Abroad," a comprehensive guide to student travel. The CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR had this to say about the 1958 edition:

"The publication is so useful, so comprehensive that all college students and teachers interested in an overseas experience this summer or any time would do well to secure a copy."

"Work, Study, Travel Abroad" is divided into the three main classifications of work, study and travel. Subdivisions of the travel section deal with tour selection, advantages and disadvantages of tour travel as opposed to independent travel, a currency conversion table, passport data, clothing hints, transportation material, a listing of inexpensive student hostels and restaurants, and a listing of festivals and special events in Europe in 1959.

Under the study section, the reader will find material on summer sessions at European universities, seminars, workshops, scholarships, and awards for study abroad, Junior Year Abroad programs, etc. Organizational sponsoing scholarships are also listed, and descriptive information concerning several scholarships is given.

The Work section discusses prospects of American students for obtaining summer or permanent employment abroad; the restrictions involved, the swindles and rackets to aviod, and all necessary information for the student who is looking for an exciting job abroad. A listing of work camps and voluntary work projects is also given.

A special feature of this year's book is a survey made by the Maxwell School of Public Affairs of Syracuse University, dealing with the much neglected topic of the preparedness of the student traveler for his or her European experience.

"Wok, Study, Travel Abroad," costs $1.00, and may be obtained by writing USNSA EDUCATIONAL TRAVEL, INC., 701 Seventh Avenue, New York 36, New York.

Kappa Phi Holds Yanks-Rebs Game

Kappa Phi meets tonight at 6:15 in the Kappa Phi House. Yankees and Rebels will compete by furnishing the evening's entertainment. The group with the best program will have the honor of flying its flag at all meetings for the remainder of the semester.

Last week a business meeting was held at the regular time. Square dancing was enjoyed later in the evening on the Baldwin tennis courts.

Plans for the spring formal are under way.

Your 24-Hour Host For Fine Foods

- Breakfast any time
- Fountain Specialties, Sodas, Sundaes
- Complete Short Order Menu
- Delicious Home-made Pies and Do-Nuts

You are Welcome for a Meal or Snack

Anytime

Gilbert's Coffee House

Candidates Wanted Election Changes, United, Responsible Student Body

Don Newroth, student body president, called the student body to order on Wednesday, April 1, to hear the campaign speeches of the candidates for the student body offices of president and vice president.

After delivering his election day address, Don turned the meeting over to the student body vice president in charge of elections.

The candidates were introduced in this order by their campaign managers: Linwood Snider, Mike Talley, and Ann Newcomer for vice president, and Dan Ellis, Dave Morris, and Fred Tepper for the office of president.

Lin Snider promised a broadening of the Student Forum Program and Student Polls if he was elected.

Mike Talley echoed the old saying "united we stand, divided we fall" and promised to bridge the gap between the dormitory and town students. The town students, he observed, make up about 20% of the student body and are essential to effective collective bargaining with the administration and faculty.

Ann Newcomer, the last candidate to speak for the office of vice president, stressed her concern for the present and future of Maryville College. Ann, who approached the student body as executive secretary of the Kentucky-Tennessee division of the National Student Council Association, said that she would, if elected, seek to change the election regulations so that a greater number of qualified candidates might "run" in the future.

The first candidate for the office of Student Body president, Dan Ellis, proclaimed that the door to student rights was not locked. The key, he felt, was student responsibility, and that we had previously overlooked this factor.

A radical change was called for by Dave Morris. Radical, he defined, as fundamental and going to the root. Dave spoke of improving communications with the faculty and administration, the need for responsibility among the underclassmen, and a positive approach to improve present conditions.

Fred Tepper, the last candidate to speak, began by expressing his belief in the student body. He stressed improvement with clarification and simplification. One of Fred's aims was to change the method of placing faculty members in the student-faculty senate. He hoped that in the future they could be elected to this position rather than appointed.

Lloyd To Indiana

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week Dr. Lloyd was in Indianapolis, Indiana, filling the annual lectureship on Church Union conducted by the Christian Theological Seminary which is the school of religion of Butler University. Four addresses were given, two on each day, dealing particularly with the church union developments in the Presbyterian family of churches.

Time Mag. Says Former MC Instructor Now Teaching In Moroccan Village

James Hamlett, who was a French and Spanish teacher at Knoxville college and also taught Spanish for a year here at Maryville College, now is in Morroco.

In the recent issue of Time there was a long article about Mr. Hamlett and his work in the little market town of Azrou in the middle of the Atlas Mountains. Hamlett's arrival in this town has effected a great deal the life of most of Azrou's 4000 rug weavers, farmers, wood carvers. No American had ever lived in this region until Hamlett came there six months ago. He teaches English classes 15 hours a week and has also volunteered to teach Spanish classes for another six hours. Being a Negro himself, he is sometimes mistaken for a native. Morroccans are much concerned with race prejudice in the United States and listen carefully to Hamlett's explanations that reported outrages are only part of the story.

Thetas See First Of Class Skits

Last Saturday night the Theta girls saw the first skit in the interclass program contest. The contestants were the senior Theta's represented by Madame Parkinson who gave the class's prophecy. and Vesta Travis who probated their last will and testament. Tonight the sophomore class represented by Gloria Schwam and Marianne Inglis will present their entry in the contest at Theta parlor at 6:15.

The last part of the program was a money raising scheme that was highly successful. The senior Thetas contributed articles of clothing, etc., that they won't be needing when they leave college and these were auctioned off to the other girls by our chief auctioneer, Ruth Wagner. The bidding ranged from ten cents for a pair of souvenir ash trays to two dollars for a length of corduroy. The meeting closed to the sound of "Going, going, gone! Sold for forty-three cents!"

Dr. Livingstone?

What a happy man he would have been if his man Stanley could have brought along a carton of Coke! That cold crisp taste, that lively lift would certainly hit the spot with any tired explorer. In fact, after your next safari to class—wouldn't Coca-Cola taste good to you?

BE REALLY REFRESHED...HAVE A COKE!

Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by RODDY MANUFACTURING CO.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Students Enjoy Shopping at McARTHUR'S Dept. Store

Mary Ann Phippo W.S.G.A. President

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

Christian Book Nook

Bibles — R.S.V., Phillips
Books. Cards.
Gift Items

229 College St., Maryville
YU 3-4982

CAPRI'S

Steaks and Chops are the best,
Pizza Pies and the rest,
We deliver orders two dollars or more,
So hurry down to your favorite eating place.

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •

Cosmetics—Lavin • Rubenstiene • Dorsay • Revelon • Tussy • Cochran and Other Famous Lines

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

As low as $79.95

Magnavox — RCA — Motorola — Zenith — Philco — Sonic Radios and Record Players

Hitch Radio & T.V.

Inter-Racial Committee Has Program Of Crafts, Discussion, Classes

Under the able direction of Linda Messer and Graham Bardsley, the inter-racial committee has been carrying on its program at Hale School since September. This program is under the co-sponsorship of YM and YWCA and includes activities for all the age groups taught at the school.

There is a drama group led by Phyllis Bennett and Brenda Hewett composed of both girls and boys. This group presented a one-act play at the annual Christmas party last semester, and they are now rehearsing another production which they will present on April 24. The proceeds from this will help to pay for a senior class trip to Atlanta.

On Wednesday afternoon, weekday Bible classes are taught by Bobbie Larsen, Phyllis Stine, Eileen O'Brannon, and Joan Ellis at the AME Zion Church near the school. The classes last about an hour and are divided according to age.

On Wednesday evening the senior high young people come to the Maryville campus for a youth meeting under the guidance of Jim Culbertson and Linda Messer. Here they discuss problems important to them and how to solve these problems in a Christian way.

Marilynn Lundy helps with art work one afternoon a week and Don Buddle conducts a class in photography.

A recent alumnus, Bob Moses, who was connected with the program while a student here still carries on a workshop for the boys where they turn out lovely and useful wood articles.

Thursday afternoon a program of organized recreation for the fellows is supervised by Bob Duggan and until recently a similar program was conducted for the girls. This program is now under the direction of the Community Recreation class at Maryville.

A community council, composed of Mr. Ross, the principal of Hale School, several of the ministers, the president of the P-TA, the student leaders of Inter-Racial and a council co-ordinator, meets periodically to discuss the program and to seek solutions to difficulties that arise. This council serves as a unifying link between the community, the college and the program.

Besides the play already mentioned, coming events include a program for May day. Hale school is closed early that day and the members of the committee bring the students to the festival here as their guests. After the program here will be a picnic for the group in the college woods.

The new officers assigned to Inter-racial for the coming year are Brenda Hewett, Jo Widner, and Jim Culbertson.

Chi Betas Swing At Square Dance

A wiener roast has been planned for Chi Beta and Kappa Phi for April 25. The outing will be held at the Kinsinger's ranch.

Following the Freshman Talent Show Chi Beta and Kappa Phi held a square dance on the Baldwin tennis courts on April 4. The calling for the dances was done by Bill Pennock, Bobbie Larsen, Dona Sarver, and Paul Evans. The highlight of the dance was the presentation of Chi Beta's Leading Men by Patsy Parks, president of Chi Beta. Those who were honored and presented with corsages were Tom Dolch, Dave Ross, Fred Tepper, George Poland, and Bill Pennock.

SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER is shown with Dr. Lloyd and Mrs. Verton M. Queener in the president's office. Senator Kefauver was here last Satuday to discuss plans for the establishment of a political science scholarship to be granted to the outstanding junior in that major at the 1960 commencement. The late Dr. Queener served as chairman of the Division of the Social Sciences at Maryville College.
(Photo courtsy of Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

Camping Offers Opportunity For Interested MC Students

Maryville College students interested in camp counseling experience are being offered a valuable opportunity. Some of the Blount County Schools are organizing their school camping program for this spring and recruiting college students for counselors.

This interest in school camping is sweeping the country. School systems realize the valuable experiences which their students can gain from such a program. Maryville College students realize the value and experience they gain from participating in this program. Those students who have already taken part are Betty England, Alice McCombe, Barbara Mueller, Ron Randon, Georgene Rohlander and Betsy Watson. The major fields which have been represented are Art, Christian Education, Drama, Education, English, and Greek.

The children, ranging from 11 to 14 years, spend a week at Montvale or Laurel Lake with their teacher and counselors. Resource people from the State of Tennessee lead them in discussions on such topics as game and fish, soil conservation, astronomy, entomology, forestry, water biology, and the interdependence of nature. The campers and counselors attempt to build a home in the woods, plan and carry out a cook-out and campfire program, and do square dancing.

This spring the camps will be held at Montvale and Laurel Lake on April 26 to May 2, May 3 to May 9, May 10 to May 16, and May 10 to May 17.

The opportunity to counsel is open to all upper classmen who are interested in valuable camping experience, working with children, and a great deal of fun. Fortunately, because of approval of the activities, the participants from the college receive half-cuts.

Those interested in this program should contact Mrs. Kramer or Mrs. Maurine Sweitzer at YU 2-1739.

Committee Makes Recommendations

The Long Range Planning Committee of the College met on April 3 and 4 and formulated a number of important recommendations to the Board of Directors which will meet on May 8 and 9.

Details of these recommendations are not available until they can be considered by the Board of Directors.

MC To Give Pol. Science Scholarship

Maryville College will present the first scholarship in memory of Dr. Verton M. Queener to the outstanding junior in political science at the 1960 commencement.

Senator Estes Kefauver laid the groundwork for the scholarship March 28, when he conferred with President Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd and Mrs. Queener, assistant professor of physical education for women.

GENESCO, formerly General Shoe Corporation, is making possible the scholarship by a donation of 20 shares by the secretary-treasurer, Nobel Caudill. Former students of the late Dr. Queener are also expected to make contributions which will boost the sum.

As income from the scholarship fund grows, the amount in the annual scholarship will be divided with half of it going to the top junior in American or English history.

Dr. Queener died in New York, December 20, 1958, while he and Mrs. Queener were enroute home from a five-month stay in London where they enrolled for graduate school at the University of London. Dr. Queener served as chairman of the Division of the Social Sciences.

Vacation Brings Jobs And Travel

By Betsy Lonsinger

"Earn, Learn, and Travel While You Vacation!" Sound Wonderful? Well, its quite possible, for this is the offer made by the World-Wide Summer Placement Directory for 1959. Published by the Advancement and Placement Institution of New York, this handy little magazine lists annually countless opportunities for summer work and study, many of which are openings which can actually lead to permanent careers. The 1959 volume tells of over 1200 jobs around the world and in all 49 states, including names, salaries, types of work, how to apply, and other useful information.

Interested in camp counseling? Well-known organizations such as the American Camping Association still have many positions open for both teachers and college students, in areas such as craft instructing, life-saving and water-front directing ,as well as general counseling. Most of these positions offer salaries between $200 and $500 plus maintenance, while at the same time giving valuable experience, and in some cases, even credits which can be added toward your college degree.

Perhaps you would like to give your time to working with people. Then for you there are numerous chances for jobs in health centers, hospitals, children's homes, and community houses. For instance, did you know that the Arkansas State Welfare Dept. is offering to sociology majors $160 to $200 a month this summer for work with their underprivileged children—plus tuition for a year of graduate study, if the applying students will agree to work in the department for a specified length of time after graduation. Then too, the Lutheran Church is calling for staff assistants in their settlement houses, homes for the handicapped, homes for the aged, Bible schools, playgrounds, and hospitals. They offer a minimum pay of $100 a month plus maintenance.

Looking for experience, drama majors? Then why not contact the Westport Country Playhouse in Connecticut, or the Gretna Playhouse, Mt. Gretna, Pennsylvania, about openings for technical assistants, props men, apprentices, and theatre secretaries—all with opportunities for casting should openings occur.

And you music majors—are you aware of the many camps open to you for study and experience? The Berkshire Music Center of Tanglewood, Mass., which is maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is offering a 6-week summer session under the direction of Charles Munch.

Youth caravans, summer sessions, civil service appointments, work abroad—all are there in the Summer Placement Directory for 1959. A copy can be found on the small table in Deans Massey and Bushing's outer office.

Division Meets

The Division of Bible, Religion, and Philosophy held a joint meeting on Thursday evening in the Y-Rooms. Students and faculty members joined in an evening of social enjoyment and discussion.

Games were led by Mr. and Mrs. Horst and Mrs. Cummings and Miss Cartledge served refreshments.

The remainder of the evening was spent in discussing curriculum changes and suggestions from the floor for impovements in the division. Dr. Buchanan serves as chairman of the division.

50 BOOKS ESCAPE LIBRARY

Library Books Reported Missiong 1958-1959

As the editorial on page 2 mentions a number of books are missing from the Library. Following is the list of 66 books and periodicals absent from Library shevles. Students should attempt to locate these boks as quickly as possible.

R016.822	Drury	Drury's Guide to the Best Plays
		A Dictionary of Musical Terms
R780.3	Baker	Everyman's Dictionary of Music
R780.3	Pratt	The New Encyclcopedia of Music
R780.3	Blom	Musicians
R807	Thrall	Handbook to Literature copy 3
R909	Williams, ed.	Historians History of the World vol. 7
R911	Bartholomew	A Literary and Historical Atlas of
131.3	Van Buskirk	America
132	Moss	Religious Healing and Health
137	Allport	Foundations of Abnormal Psychology
160	Copi	Studies in Expressive Movement
265.3	Phillips	Introduction to Logic
320.9	Key	Appointment with God
332.11	Goldenweiser	Politics ,Parties, and Pressure Groups
332.11	Kemmerer	Federal Reserve System Operation
351.74	Whitehead	ABC of the Federal Reserve System
370.15	Kingsley	The FBI Story
612.6	Tietz	The Nature and Conditions of Learn.
392.5	MacKay	Commercial Motor Transportation
		Law of Marriage and Divorce
398.2	Writers Prog.	Simplified
	Tennessee	God Bless the Devil
578	Bausch	Use and Care of the Microscope
591.3	Patten	The Embryology of the Pig 1931 Ed.
591.3	Pincus	The Eggs of Mammals
611.019	Ham	Histology
612.6	Chesser	Practice of Sex Education
612.6	Tjetz	The Art and Science of Marriage
615.7	Robinson	Victory Over Pain 1946 edition
616.998	Perry	Who Walk Alone
641.5	Fitzsimmons	You Can Cook If You Can Read
642	Kinder	Mael Management 1956 edition
658	Johnson ed.	Modern Business volume 9
734.92	Rea	Donatello
786.4	Hamilton	First Two Years of Piano Technic
790	Butler	Introduction to Com. Recreation copy 2
791.8	Hemingway	Death in the Afternoon
792	Thorndike	Shakespeare's Theatre copy 1
793	Cooperative Recreation Service	Handy Games
796.33	Nat. Fed of State High School and Atheltic Assoc.	Football Play Situations
796.33	Tatum	Coaching Football and the Split-T
M784.061	Schumann	Four Song Cycles
M786.4		Twenty-one Old English Compositions of the 16th and 17 Cen.
808.2	Campbell	Tragic Drama in Aeschylus,
		Sophocles, and Shakespeare
808.5	Henneke	Reading Aloud Effectively
820.8	Bernbaum	Anthology of Romanticism copy 2
822.33	Hunter	Shakespeare as a Morality
840.9	Caudwell	Introduction to French Classicism
842	Rostand	Cyrano de Bergerac copy 1
922	Robinson	Road Without Turning
923	Fowler	Locke
940.28	May	Age of Metternick
940.343	Shotwell	What Germany Forgot
977	Hinsdale	The Old Northwest
Fic.	Agee	A Death in the Family
Fic.	Troyat	Red and the White

PERIODICALS

American Sociology Review	June 1958
Atlantic Monthly	July-December 1950 (Bound)
Good Housekeeping	August 1958
Mademoiselle	October, November 1958
Newsweek	Jan. 5, Feb. 16, 1959
Research Bulletion of the NEA	January 1957
School and Science and Math.	October 1957
Science Digest	October 1958
Scientific Monthly	September 1943
Sociology and Social Research	November 1957
Time	January 19, 1959
U.S. News and World Report	March 14, 21, 1958

It's Picnic Time
And J&K's Chock Full of The Finest Picnic Goodies-You Ever Saw
So when you plan that next "Eat Out" Plan on Buying it From
The J&K SUPER STORE

Student Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

PROFFITT'S
Everything For Discriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian
—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center
Broadway—Maryville
Proffitt's

Murphy-West Motor Co.
CHEVROLET

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 3-4762 Maryville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

Glamor Shops
118 Broadway
Matching Co-ordinates
Pedal Pushers $3.99
Jamaica Shorts $2.99
Shirts $2.99
Skirts $3.99

The "Y" Store proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 Vol. 44 SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1959 No. 6 No. 6

UN's Dr. Graham To Close Series In April 28 Talk

Dr. Frank P. Graham, U. S. delegate to the United Nations will speak in the Theatre on April 28 at 8 p.m. This program is the final number in this year's Lecture Series.

A lifelong student of public affairs and human relations, Dr. Graham is especially known as an expert on India and Pakistan; he has been active in the U.N.'s attempts to negotiate the Kashmir boundary dispute between these two nations. Also, Dr. Graham has served as a special advisor on Indonesian affairs to the Secretary of State.

Being a versatile leader, Dr. industrial boards, and the President's Committee on Education, various Social Security councils, industrial boards, and the President's Committee on Civil Rights. In addition to these, Dr. Graham was the first President of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

He served an unexpired term in the United States Senate from 1949-1950, but his bid for reelection was defeated by reactionary elements.

From 1930-1949 Dr. Graham was the President of the University of North Carolina. He has earned his Pd.D. degree from North Carolina State College and has been awarded numerous honorary degrees.

Dr. Graham today qualifies as one of the most careful and constructive thinkers in international affairs; his voice carries much authority is pointing to our nation's responsibility in the world.

Nominations Due In Written Form By April 21

Nominations for class officers must be made in writing and by means of a nomination blank, and must be filed with the elections committee by April 21, it was announced April 14 by Gray Wiley, student body vice president.

Candidates for president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer of the rising classes can obtain nomination blanks from Mrs. Wiley. This year's sophomores will also elect editor and business manager of the Chilhowean. The blanks must be completed with the name of the candidate and of one supporter; the blanks must be returned to a student council member by noon of April 21.

Nomination may be made by the candidate himself or by the supporter. In either case the nomination form must contain the signature of both the nominee and the supporter.

The above procedure is the only form of nomination in this year's class elections. There will be no nominating from the floor in the class meetings, on April 23, where voting will take place.

The same procedure will be followed for the election of student council representatives, which will be held later.

Foster To Preach

Reverend James Foster of Knoxville will be the vesper speaker on Sunday evening, April 19. He is the college pastor of Knoxville College and the pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Knoxville.

Hold Voluntary Biology Seminar; D. B. Williams Directs Study Group

By Richard Crowder

There has been a new addition to the interests of biology majors this semester. Junior and senior biology majors have been under taking a voluntary biology seminar and have been invited to attend only if they are willing to give up two evenings a week to its support. Mr. and Mrs. Donaid B. Williams direct the seminar in which the following are members: Sondra Wagner, Barbara Gronbach, Pat Smith, John Christie, Bill Hoffner, and Dick Crowder.

In this very informal group each member takes part by preparing and giving a lecture. A topic is chosen from biology or a related subject. The meeting time is arranged on Thursday in order not to conflict with Pre-medical Club meetings.

Topics which have already been discussed are these:

1. The Adaptation of Animals to their Environment (the use of camoflouge and an explanation of "natural selection")—Mr. Wil liams.

2. Cancer: Cirus Relationships (viruses as causative agents of cancer theories and some proof) —Dick Crowder.

3. Cancer: Tobacco Relationships (statistics of research done on tobacco products, namely smoking, to decide if there are carinogents present in inhaled smoke and other habits involving use of tobacco)—Sondra Wagner.

4. Viruses: (what they are and their composition, how they are observed)—Bill Hoffner.

5. Ecology: (the study of location and spread of animals and plants and some methods used when studying an area for the types of life present)—P[illegible]

Vesper Choir To Sing Mendelssohn's "Elijah"

Maryville College Vesper Choir will present two-thirds of Mendleson's oratorio, Elijah. This is the first production of Elijah at Maryville and it will be conducted by Mr. Harry Harter in the chapel at 7 p.m.

Mr. James Bloy will accompany the choir on the organ and Miss Carolyn Knowles will accompany on the piano.

Richard Conway will be the soloist Elijah and Obadiah will be portrayed by Charles Justice and Harold Mays. Harold Mays will also sing the part of Ahab. Mary Hayden McEver will be the soloist for the widow. The youth will be sung by Zona Gogel. Mary Murphey and Rosemary Barrett will be angels.

A duet, "Lord Bow Thine Ear," will be executed by Sue Oxendine and Zona Gogel.

The second part of ELIJAH will be opened by a soprano solo by Lessie Anne Rhodes.

The presentation of ELIJAH will include the complete Baal scene, "He Watching Israel" and the familiar pieces, "Be Not Afraid," and "Blessed Are the Men That Fear Him."

Other familiar parts to be heard are "If With all Your Hearts," "It Is Enough," Then Shall the Righteous Shine Forth," and "Oh, Rest in the Lord."

Phys. Ed Classes Prepare May Day

The annual May Day Festival will be presented in the College Amphitheater at 2:30 on May 1, 1959. The highlight of the program will be the crowning of the May Day Queen and the presentation of the attendants and escorts representing the four classes.

The Physical Education Department is in charge of the May Day Festival, with majors from this department heading the following committees: publicity — Carole Black, Lois Lockett; properties—Ruthanne Campbell, Sharon Sweat; court and ushers—Pat Frazier; story—Jo Thacker.

The story of "The Tortoise And the Hare" will be given. Those featured will be Arlette Roselli, Tortoise; Judy Springstead, Hare; Kay Phillippi, Duck; Helen Moore, Henry Hawk; and Tom Dickerson, Taxi Driver.

The traditional dance around the May Pole will be performed by Roberta Berger, Gretchen Ide, Kathy Smith, Linda Dobson, Cindy Aber, Margaret Kelso, Karen Kennedy, Glenda Gray, Phyllis Hembree, Jane Bohanan, Emily Wood, Judy Agee, Harriette Blankenship, and Elizabeth Martindale.

Other highlights of the program will be tumbling and dances. Included in the tumbling act are Gail Bradley, Sue Fowell, Judy Perov, Dona Sarver, Jane Stewart, and Carolyn Thomas.

The Tap Dance class will present "The Chipmunk Song" fea

(Cont. p. 4, col. 3)

WSGA Active Now With Future Plans

For the past several weeks the WSGA Council has been working with Miss Massey on organizational plans for the dormitories next year. Approximately thirty freshmen women have been selected to live in Baldwin Hall next year as sophomore aides. The remainder of the sophomore women and several juniors will live in Pearsons, and the remainder of the junior women and all seniors will move into the new dormitory.

Women students will nominate for WSGA president at their meeting April 23, following the class meetings. Election of the WSGA President and of the three dormitory presidents will then be held on April 30.

The Women's Student Government Association Co-Ordinating Council were the guests of the University of Tennessee Women's Student Government Council at the mass meeting of all women students at UT on April 6. Following this meeting the two groups met together to discuss the organization and projects of the women's student government at the two schools.

Members of this year's Co- Mary Ann Phipps, Mary Murphey, Carolyn Gass, Jay Wiley, Jane Plantizer and Joan Menk, and Nona Roil and Becky Lewis.

3 Juniors, 6 Sophs. Earn Band Awards

Music was followed with awards at the Spring Band Concert, Friday, April 10. Dr. Lloyd presented the awards for service.

Receiving pins for six semesters of band membership were: Paul Burger, junior, Ken Churchill, junior, Bob Kallstrom, junior.

Receiving letters for four semesters of band membership were Brenda Hewitt, sophomore, Eugenia Millier, sophomore, William Roberts, sophomore, Tod Jablonski, sophomore, Martha Henry, sophomore, and Dave Gilmore, sophomore.

Small Group, Big Idea

By Charlotte Cathey

What are you doing these soft spring evenings? Likely it has something to do with biology—in some vague sense or another. But I am not going to talk about the more evident nocturnal activities this ime. There is anoher force moving these nights (not Slim) and we thought you should know about it.

It seems there is a small group with a big idea at work. This group is willing to forego other activities (and lately to brave the effects of spring fever) in order to pursue that idea. You have, I hope, read about them in Mr. Crowder's article. Of course I am referring to the biology seminar, which is one of the finest examples of well-channeled energies on this campus.

Talk to any member of this group if you want to know how it operates, how successful it is. Naturally, if it sounds intriguing, we hope you won't decide to join the crowd in the Williams' front room.

Therei s room, though, within the idea. What is your major field? Whatever it is has there been a voluntary movement such as Mr. Crowder describes, a gathering to add new dimensions to your comprehension? Here is an opportunity within the idea of voluntary, small group learning (and that includes refreshments!) It is so easy to allow our sensibilities to be "purloined away" by these spring evenings. What will you do?

Sunday, Go To Meeting Day

By Karl Diller

—Remember the Sabbath-day, to keep it wholly crammed full with meetings.

——Wait a minute! I never read the fourth commandment that way. I'd swear (if I weren't here) that it reads, "Remember the Sabbath-day, to keep it holy. (period).

—Look in the M-Book.

—The M-Book? Well, let me see. Hmm. (reading) "Sunday School. Church. Young Men's Christian Association. Young Women's Christian Association. Ecumenical Encounters Committe. Vespers. Student Volunteer Movement." But it doesn't say anything about a commandment to keep the Sabbah wholly crammed full with meetings.

——That's implied. We have lots of implied commandments, you know.

—Hmm. . . (wholly crammed full of meetings). . . Then I don't think we're keeping this rule very well.

——We're not?

——No. There is on hour and a half between Y and Ecumenical Encounters. Besides, the little spaces before and after meals aren't filled.

——Horrors What can we do?

——I know. We have a lot of other religious organizations. Why don't we have the "All-Campus" Prayer meeting, the Student Vols Prayer meeting, the Christian Education Club, the Pre-ministerial Association, and all those other organizations fill in the gaps on Sunday?

——That wouldn't work, and you know it. Firstly, we'd have to change things to do it. Secondly, there must be some time on Sunday when good little men and women can't talk to each other.

——Oh, don't worry about that one. They seem to make up for it all in the parlors after supper.

——No comment. Thirdly, it wouldn't solve the problem.

——What problem?

——The problem that people aren't coming to these meetings anyway.

——They're not?

——Don't you know?

——Oops! (sheepishly) I guess not. I don't go to many to find out. (suddenly beaming) But not everyone should go to all of them anyway!

——You must try to tell that to one of the officers of these organizations. (Most of them still attend these meetings.) Why, you're pharisaical, hypocrtical or something if you don't attend their particular church surrogate.

——You mean they call me "pharisaical" or "hypocritical" or "something?"

——Certainly.

——Well, I still won't go to their meetings!

——Why not?

——Somehow I feel I have other tihngs that are more important. Besides that, most of these meetings are negatively habit-forming.

——Negatively habit-forming? Nonsense. It must be just in your mind.

——No. They all do so much of the same thing that it's easy to get an overdose. And you know what overdoses do.

——But people can't get an overdose of religion!

——Maybe not, but I've got an overdose of meetings.

Beatniks "Burn" From Coast To Coast

By Betsy Lonsinger

"The ones who are mad to live, mad to talk, mad to be saved, desirious of everytihng at the same time, the ones who never yawn or say a common-place thing, but burn, burn, burn. . .

—Jack Kerouac, in On the Road

Here we read a strong definition of the Beat Generation, and it leaves us—where? The term "Beatnik" is a pretty loose and handy label these days, a loose and handy label for the loose philosophy of a loose cult. Who are they? One writer says of them, "A generation of oddballs who celebrate drink, dope, sex, and despair." Their leaders and prophets are such men as a 32-year-old Allen Ginsberg of Paterson, N.J., author of a chockfull catalogue called HOWL. ("I saw the best minds of my generation destroyed by madness, starving, hysterical, naked.")

Beatniks hold their own in almost every major city of the United States, ranging from San Francisco to New York, and on to Paris. Wherever they are the smoke-laden air clinks heavily with their strange philosophy, culture, and "sensitivity." All of this sounds rather vague until one is confronted with examples. Three Chicago Beatnicks were recently interviewed by a Time reporter. Would they like to make any comment?

"Yeah, man," said one. "Fried shoes. Like it don't mean nothing. It's all a big laughing bowl and we're caught in it. A scary laughing bowl."

Added another, with the enigmatic quality of a true Beatnik: "Don't shoot the wart hog."

Chimed in Allen Ginsberg: "My mystical shears snip snip snip."

With the crashing madness of a Marx Brothers scene run in reverse, these Beatniks read their poetry ("I talk to the fire hydrant, asking: 'Do you have bigger tears than I do?'"), make pitches for money for a new Beatnik magazine, The Big Table, and then perhaps stalk out into the night for a mystical pilgrimage to Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo (which, incidentally, has no wart hogs and no laughing bowls).

No manners, no morals, "freedom of expression and revolt against society" is the war-cry. Peculiar mechanical art, jabberwocky poetry, off-beat, but Bet, music—all are the characteristic off-spring of the strange cult.

What's to be judged from them? Is the Beat Generation just another more-widely-publicised phase of restless youth? Or is it rather an insidious implication of growing cultural malaise among the younger generation? Certainly thier keyword "self-expression" has passed beyond the ranks of the Beatniks alone to become a major goal for the majority of today's youth, even if in a more subtle manner. How much time will they spend vaunting their individuality before the realization should come that there is nothing more inside to express, either worthy or unworthy? Will this creed, if such a formalized word dare be used with regard to the Beatniks' beliefs, stagnate?

From all indications, the Beatniks are not just trying to create a sensation. They are actually daring to live a type of life which many others, old and young, have tried before—but they are living it more flagrantly, more violently, more deadly in earnest than anyone ever imagined.

It's been said of the Beat Generation: "They want what they cannot get and get what they no longer want." Youth has always been labeled rebellious, adventurous, seeking. What is it that the Beatniks are seeking? Something they've lost? Or something that they've never had? And even more important, will they ever find it?

Talks on Germany

The German Club met April 13 in Herr Reber's classroom. Because there were not present enough members eligible for the offices of the club, the members decided to postpone the election of officers until the next meeting.

Charles Pearson then gave an interesting and informal talk on his experiences in Germany during the war. Beginning by showing many pictures of famous cities and sites which he had visited, Charles then, in answer to questions, discussed many of the German customs and living conditions. Having seen some of the German customs from a different point of view than that of Mr. Bloy, who spoke a few weeks earlier, an interesting discussion was had.

To Show Fashions May 2

The Fourteenth Annual Fashion Revue, Holiday of Fashion, will be presented by the Home Economics Department of Maryville College in the Theatre on Saturday, May 2, 1959 at 7:30 p.m.

The participants in this revue will include all those students that have been enrolled in Elementary Clothing, Costume Design, Taioring, Advanced Dressmaking and the Bride's course, a class for non-home economics majors, during this school year. All garments made in the above named classes will be modeled.

Water Show

Aqua Moods, presented by the synchronized swimming class, will be the theme of this year's water show, to be held on May 7 at 8:00 p.m.

West Prefers Nasser To Communism In The Struggle For Control Of Iraq

By Leon Gabrielian

During the past six months the scenery on the Middle East stage has been dramatically shifted. Previously, Egypt's Nasser has been regarded by many Western ers as the Arab world's No. 1 enemy of the West, a threat to peace, and a puppet of Moscow. Now he is looked at as the most important factor for stability. It seems that Egypt's president is being courted by West as well as East. Various kinds of delegations are now on their way to Cairo with their special objec tives. Each of them uses in his own way different strategies, from cultural exchange to Financial aid The chief purpose of the West is to prevent the spread of Communist influence in Iraq by means of Nasser's leadership. In the beginning it was feared that Kas sim would join Nasser, walking in his foot steps, and enlarge the United Arab Republic forces, which could result in the absorption of Jordan, Saudi Arabia, and even Lebanon. But soon it became evident that Kassem did not accept Nasser's leadership and was opposing pro-Nasser elements in Iraq. Many Iraqi Communists had taken over key positions and joined the forces against Nasser. Although Egypt continues to receive miliary and economic aid from the Soviets, the West began to wonder whether the best way to keep peace in the Middle East and also to hold back Russians might not be to support Nasser. It was reasoned that Egypt's president more or less is opposing communism in spite of his absolute ambitions in the Middle East and Africa. Not only has he suppressed the Communists in Egypt but he has dealt with them in the same way in Syria. It has also been said that Communist victory did not result in Iraq because of Nasser's opposi tion.

Whatever the case might be, if the choice is between communism and Nasserism, many officials in the West contend to choose Nasser.

Mobile Lab Rolls In With Program On Isotope Handling For MC Students

A bus-type mobile laboratory has been stationed on our campus to train members of the faculty and student body in the techniques of handling radioisotopes.

The mobile laboratory is part of a special program planned by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. This program also includes daily lectures.

The mobile laboratory is a 35 foot bus type vehicle housing its own 10-kilowatt generator to provide power for more than $25,000 worth of equipment. The total cost of the mobile laboratory and its equipment is $56,000. It is one of two laboratories which the United States is presenting to the International Atomic Energy Agency as part of President Eisenhower's Atoms for Peace Program.

The course will extend over a two-week period from April 13 through April 24. The following students and faculty members will participate in this program: Dr. F. A. Griffitts, Dr. Isabel Bacon, E. Clinton Ash, George D. Howell, Donald B. Williams, and Charles F. Taylor. Students participating in this program will be: Miss Barbara Gronbach, Ray Hannah, William Hoffner, Robert Muir, Earl Smith, Sam Speed, Miss Sondra Wagner, and Robert Weaver.

Institute staff members participating in the course presentation include Drs. L. K. Akers, A. L. Schipper, R. T. Overman, H. K. Ezell, Jr., and Elizabeth Rona.

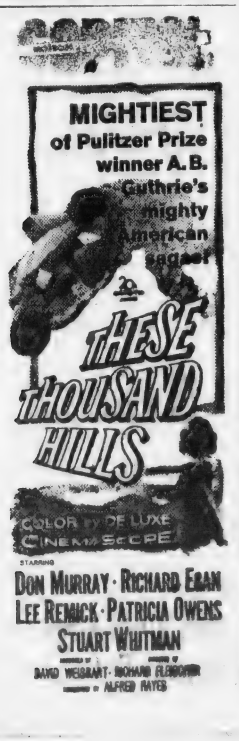
MC Alumnus Speaks To Student Vols On Religious Persecutions In Colombia

Reverend George Day, former Maryville student, was the speaker at Student Vols on April 12. His subject: Colombia, not only as an individual country, but in The problems of the church are many. Colombia has more persecution of Christians than any other country except Spain. Although the constitution guarantees freedom of religion, it is overruled by a concordat with the Pope which requires military defense of Catholicism.

Although the Catholic church professes a stand against Communism, Communism flourishes in this country where Protestantism is persecuted and is often identical with Communism, in the Roman Catholics' implications. The only areas open to Protestant missions are those in which the Catholic Church has evangelized already.

The predominant Roman church has nothing to do with moral teaching; thus social and economic systems are corrupt. Thievery is common, even among Christian Colombians. The rule is that a man is guilty until proven innocent.

Yet amid all this crime and persecution—and indeed, because of it—the Colombian Christians are true to their faith. Mr. Day ended with the idea that perhaps the Christian church in the United States needs persecution to increase faith.



Sophs To Take Test

Maryville College Sophomores will take the annual Sophomore tests Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. This General Culture Test, which is part of National College Testing Program, contains five parts requiring 30 minutes each. The three sections concerning Social Studies, Literature and Science will be given Tuesday afternoon. Students will take the remaining two parts, mathematics and fine arts, on Wednesday afternoon. The tests will be scored and results will be available for individual sophomores before the end of the semester.

The college requires all those classified as sophs either semester of this year to take this test unless, of course, they took it last year.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET

Students Enjoy Shopping at
McARTHUR'S
Dept. Store

FRANK GARCIA
President of Vols

The "Y" Store proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 8-4762 Maryville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

Student Forum Discusses Productions Suggests Fewer, More Varied Shows

A Student Forum was held April 14 in the Thaw Hall Lecture Room to discuss student productions. Since only 15 students came to the meeting, it did not reflect a cross-section of student opinion. But there were some valuable suggestions resulting from the meeting.

Jan Peterson, presiding over the meeting, mentioned that some people feel that the quality of student productions has been lower recently than in previous years. She asked if the reason for this lower quality might be that we try to do too many productions. Dave Ross pointed out that the same students are involved in all these productions.

Many agreed that there are too many productions. Listed among the student productions were Barnwarming, Skit Nite, Leading Ladies Show, Sweetheart Show, Rush Week Shows, and the Freshman Talent Show. In addition to these, the societies sponsor the two big dances each year.

Someone asked if the rushweek shows were fulfilling their purpose. Several persons felt that a shorter show with a party afterward might be more valuable. There was also considerable discussion about the rushweek dating program.

Most of our student productions in recent years have been of the musical comedy type. Jan Peterson urged that we vary the shows by getting out of the musical comedy rut and producing such things as circuses. Everyone agreed that we have too many productions of the same variety.

Many suggestions from the floor concerned the elimination of various shows. For instance: dropping Skit Nite, combining Skit Nite with the Leading Ladies and Sweetheart Shows, dropping the Leading Ladies and Sweetheart Shows, or presenting the leading Ladies and Sweetheart at the fall and spring formals.

Kefauver, Caudill To Present Fund

Senator Estes Kefauver and N. C. Caudill, vice president and treasurer of GENESCO, formerly the General Shoe Corporation, of Nashville, will be at the College Chapel service on April 25, to make pubic presentation of the poitical science scholarship in memory of Dr. Verton M. Queener.

It is expected that Senator Kefauver will speak concerning this award and also that he will discuss matters of current national and international interest which fall within the general area of political science, for which the scholarship fund is given.

Christian Book Nook

Bibles — R.S.V., Phillips
Books. Cards.
Gift Items

229 College St.,
Maryville
YU 3-4982

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

"C" RAY TIPTON
Jeweler
DIAMONDS
ELGIN PRODUCTS
Phone YU 3-2161
Watch Repairing
All Work Guaranteed
In
McArthur's
Maryville, Tenn.

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •

Cosmetics—Lavin ● Rubenstiene ● Dorsay ● Revelon ● Tussy ● Cochran and Other Famous Lines

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

MAY DAY . . .

(Cont. from page 1)

turing Laurette Sherrod, Sue Price, Mary Monson, Nancy Jo Martin, Ann Newcomer, Nancy Frame, Joan Ellis, Virginia Blue, Carolyn Thomas, Ruthanne Campbell, Eleanor Lockwood, Nancy McCahan, Jo Anne Hauck, Kay Phillippi, and Rosemary Barrett; "The Children's Marching Song" featuring Frances McCleod, Constance Holloway, Harriette Fuhrman, Ann Kennedy, Gloria Schwam, Carolyn Gass, Barbara Jayne, Leona Barnes, Mary Emert, Carol Greenwood, Linda Smith, Lois Loveday, Pat Frazier, and Jeanne Wilson; and "Siamese Children" featuring Nancy Hord, Dona Sarver, Lois Lockett, Dee Powers, Mary Faith Anderson, Jo Thacker, Nancy Bingham, Marilyn Smith, Arlene Ford, Judy Hunter, Barbara Williams, Jeanette Payne, Helen Anne Easterly, and Eleanor Ross.

The Folk Dance class including Mary Cooke, Paul Evans, Sylvia Fugate, Rachael Goddard, Franklin Griffith, Helen Marie Haynie, Patricia Hundley, Barbara Larsen, David McCahan, Martha Messman, Anne Nakamura, Lynne Parks, Mardi Quick, Robert Reidenbach, Patsy Riley, Roberto Schiller, Sarah Ray Smith, and Margaret Stevenson will also perform.

The Women's M Club will sponsor the Concession Stand.

PROFFITT'S

Everything For Discriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian

—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center

Broadway—Maryville

Proffitt's

Glamor Shops

118 Broadway

$1.99

Skirt and Blouse Set
Pedal Pushers and Blouse Set
Shorts and Blouse Set

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MAY 2, 1959 No. 7

Home Ec Students Climax Projects

The Home Economics Department will sponsor its Fourteenth Annual Style Show tonight at 7:30 in the Maryville College Theatre. The show will be the culmination of a year's work, presenting the garments of every girl who has made clothing in any home economics course either semester. Teachers in the department will also model clothing they have made throughout the year.

Special features of the show will include several outfits designed and created by class members, maternity clothing, a suit made for and modeled by a four year old, a convertible evening gown, and dresses for a wedding party. In special recognition of the Fiftieth anniversary of the American Home Economics Association, a hand-made wedding dress fifty years old will climax the show.

Special music will be supplied by the music department of the college. An informal reception will be held in the Chapel Court immediately following.

Y Holds Retreat; Moser Keynotes

Once again Laurel Lake was the scene of the annual Y Retreat for old and new YMYW Cabinets. Close to seventy people met together for evaluation and planning, April 24-25.

Miss Frances Moser of the Southern Regional Council of YWCA keynoted the retreat with emphasis on "dialogue" and "authentic selfhood," two terms coined for use at the National Y Assembly this year. Miss Moser's talk triggered new ideas which were carried out through discussions and specific plans.

The week end was brought to its conclusion with a consecration service. Rev. Warren Rutledge charged the new Cabinets to be "trustworthy stewards" and Presidents Hoefer and Brininger carried the charge with candlelight to each member.

The next issue of the Echo will include a more detailed report of the retreat.

Apply For Echo Jobs

Anyone desiring to enter the competition for the positions of editor or business manager of the 1959-60 Highland Echo, should give their names to the present holders of these positions by Tuesday. Prospective candidates for editor should see Ed Krebs, and those for business manager should see Doug Koehler or Lyndhurst Gulliford.

Class Officers Elected Recently For Coming Year

Dan Greaser was elected to the presidency of the class of '60 during the elections held last Friday The other senior officers include Lessie Anne Rhodes, vice president and Helen Rankin, secretary-treasurer.

Next year's junior class will be headed by George Poland with Phyllis Stine as vice-president and Carolyn Gass as secretary-treasurer. The class also elected Bill Green as editor of the Chilhowean and Gay Landis as business manager of the year book.

The future sophomores elected John Brehm to be their president. the vice president will be John Eaddy. Elsie Harris was elected secretary-treasurer.

Fred Hope Pledges Donations Needed

The Fred Hope Fund has received a total of $946.25. Since the goal pledged is $1,537.55, there is a great need for all pledges to be paid as soon as possible.

Those who have pledged or who wish to make a donation may make their payments at the Student-Help Office at any time.

MC Senior Artists To Display Oils In May Exhibit

The Annual Student Art Show will be featured in the FAC Art Gallery during May. The serigraphics executed in silk screen-Corita will close at that time.

Featured in the show will be the oil paintings of the graduating seniors. These seniors are Mildred Browder, Nancy Jones, Virginia Lurton, Barbara Mueller, and James Sanborn.

Oil paintings from several juniors will also be included. Sophomore work will consist of graphics executed in silk screen ing, etching and woodcut. The freshmen will display pictures in color done as exercises in order to learn the principles of art.

Ceramics and sculpture done by all classes will also be included in the showing. Some of the sculpturing is done in synthetic forms called sculpt-metal and pracitillite. Pracitilite is also a synthetic name devised by the students!

Something new will be displayed this year. That will be metal sculpture. It is made from various interesting shapes of scrap metal, wire, and screening.

Choir To Present Elijah Tomorrow

The Maryville College choir will present Mendlsessohn's oratorio Elijah on Sunday, May 3, at seven o'clock in the College Chapel. Approximately two-thirds of the oratorio will be produced. This will be the first time it has been produced at the College in more than fifteen years.

Mr. James Bloy of the Division of Fine Arts will accompany the choir on the organ, and Miss Carolyn Knowles will furnish the piano accompanyment. Herman H. Weinrich will be the tympanist.

The oratorio begins with a prayer in the midst of famine as the Israelites seek rain. As the prayers are unanswered, Obadiah bids them forsake their idols for the Lord, but they turn away and pray loudly to Baal, their pagan god. Finally, they turn to Elijah, who intercedes for them, and shortly the rains descend and the crowd gives thanks.

In part two, the people are again worshipping idols. Queen Jezebel, angry with Elijah, promises to take his life. Weary of turmoil, he flees to the wilderness. Angels appear, and he is called upon to make a long journey. Elijah's prayer for death is finally answered, and he is taken to heaven in a fiery chariot.

The oratorio is under the direction of Harry H. Harter, associate professor of music. Richard Conway will be the soloist Elijah and Obadiah will be portrayed by Charles Justice and Harold Mays. Harold Mays will also sing the part of Ahab. Miss Mary Hayden McEver will be soloist for the widow. The youth will be sung by Miss Zona Gogel. Miss Mary Murphey and Miss Rosemary Barrett will portray the angels.

A duet "Lord, Bow Thine Ear," will be sung by Mrs. Sue Oxendine and Miss Gogel.

The second part of Elijah will be opened by a soprano solo by Miss Lessie Anne Rhodes.

The presentation of Elijah will include the complete Baal scene "He Watching Israel," and the familiar numbers "Be Not Afraid," and "Blessed Are the Men That Fear Him."

DIRECTORS MEETING

The annual spring meeting of the Directors will be held on May 8 and 9, beginning with lunch on Friday and ending with lunch on Sunday.

Junior Class Veep Names Daisy Chain

Fourteen junior women have been named members of the Daisy Chain for the 1959 Commencement. These fourteen will present the traditional chain of daises at Maryville's 140th Commencement on May 20.

Members of the Daisy Chain are chosen on the basis of character, scholarship, and service to their class. Selections are made by the vice president of the Junior Class.

The members of the 1959 Daisy Chain have been announced as follows: Gail Bradley, Charlotte Cathey, Gloria Evans, Sue Fowell, Ann Leitch, Helen Martenis, Karen Meier, Joan Menk, Linda Messer, Ann Newcomer, Margaret Reynolds, Margaret Samples, Dona Sarver, and Carolyn Thomas.

Announce Staff For '60 Chilhowean

Bill Green, editor of the 1959-1960 Chilhowaen announced his staff of editorial assistants. Brenda Hewitt will edit features and activities, while Barbara Williams will serve as copy editor. Both Pat Penland and Peggy Reiter are in charge of class editing, and the sports section will be in the hands of George Poland. The staff also includes class representaitves who are Don Buddle, senior representative, and Becky Kinnamon, Sophomore representative.

In addition, business manager, Gay Landis, released the names of those working on the business staff. Jay Wiley, Linda Roberts, Sylvia Fugate, and Gary Hall compose the staff.

Elect New Council

The Class of '60 has elected the following members to Student Council for the coming school year: Gail Bradley, Dan Ellis, George Stewart, Fred Tepper, and Joyce Trautwein. The class president, Dan Greaser, also serves on the Council.

Virginia Bass, Karl Diller, Gretchen Ide, Ron Pearson, and Bryson Struse, with the class president, George Poland will represent next year's junior class.

The incoming sophomore class has elected John Hayes, Becky Lewis, Dave Muir, and Sue Stewart to Council positions.

DREAM ALONG WITH Chi Beta and Kappa Phi
at
THE STREET OF DREAMS
May 9 at 8 P.M.
in CHAPEL COURT

Organization, Man!?

One way in which student "uninterestedness" shows itself is the general feeling of futility that we come to hold about student organizations. It is generally agreed that our various groups on the Maryville campus are either failing to interest us or failing to meet our needs.

The kind of student group especially referred to here is the club. Although there are a few good student groups of the club type, the general level of participation and activities leaves a good bit to be desired. Some groups are almost defunct.

There is not space here to attempt analysis or suggest solutions for this problem. Here we will simply put forth a definition of an organization and some suggestions as to how an organization should carry on its work. The Echo will welcome letters presenting other viewpoints. This is another subject worthy of our discussion both privately and in the Echo Forum, and worthy of our thought during the summer months.

An organization is a group of people who work together for a common interest, because they desire to. An organization should be a channel through which an individual may experience sought-after universals. Thus, an organization must remain "grass-roots," must always try to understand and meet the needs of the individual, if it is to be of value to him. Has it not been grass-roots spontaneity that has led to the original formation of man's basic institutions?

A club or similar group should give interested individuals an opportunity to share thoughts in the interest. Desire should probably remain the prime qualification for membership. But there should also be some standards set as to preparedness and background for membership in a group of interested and informed fellows. Some sort of full membership and an associate membership standards could be set to provide minimum requirements.

Study or seminar groups like the biology seminar reported in the last Echo are outgrowths of the "grass-roots" variety of interest. Such groups form out of genuine desire to learn about something; this kind of desire should be an extension of our motivation in regular courses, however, and not in addition to that motivation.

Obviously it would take a lot of time to participate in such a group, for preparation would be required. However, participation in such a group would be worth the sacrifice of a course and credit. Certainly it would be worth experimenting with.

Another suggestion is that we have fewer but better of the kind of meeting now generally used. A goal for the present type of meeting could be that every club meeting be attractive to every student.

Much more needs to be said and done about this kind of student group, which should be one of the spearheads in our student life.

Echo editorials seem to be concerned continually with local campus situations and problems. The Echo does not wish to be the cause of a campus-wide Narcissus complex, but these problems demand analysis. Narcissus died from looking at his own reflection. He probably would have been all right if he had looked up and around himself. Maybe we would be too.

Library's Recent Acquisitions Range From Chaucer To Children's Lit

By Peggy Reid

The College Library has recently added a surprising number of books to its collection. These new books can be found in the display trough in the browsing alcove along with a list of available new books.

One of the most outstanding new additions is the World Kelmpscott Chaucer which contains all the writiting of Chaucer, including the little known Treatise on the Astrollabe, which Chaucer wrote for his ten-year-old son. The original Kelmpscott Chaucer is considered second only to the Gutenberg Bible as the outstanding typographic achievement of all time. The present facsimile edition is a faithful reproduction, slightly smaller than the original. It contains all the drawings, woodcuts, initials, and borders of the original work. Written in the South Midland Dialect of the late Middle English, it presents no great problem for the intelligent modern reader. There is pleasure in reading Chaucer's works as he wrote them.

The ranks of juvenile fiction are swelling with many well known, beautifully illustrated books. R. McCloskey's Homer Price and his Make Way for Ducklings, Millions of Cats by Gag, and Rabbit Hill by Lawson are a few of the best known editions. And The Five Hundred Hats of Bartholomew Cubbins by Dr. Seuss has been called a modern legend worthy of Hans Christian Andersen. One of the newest books in the juvenile collection is M. Petersham's The Peppermints, a delightful story of a family who wants to buy "Paradise Valley" but cannot afford it.

Top quality books newly added to our library also include books listed by the American Library Association as "Notable Books of 1958." Among them are Malcolm Cowley's Writers at Work which contains interviews with contemporary writers of five countries revealing the method and ideas of their craft, Mary Renault's The King Must Die, a brilliant recrea-

(Continued on Page 3)

MOVED AND SECONDED

Task Demands Support

By Dave Morris

In the past school year student council has greatly increased its effectiveness. Next year's council faces a big challenge in attempting to equal and surpass the work of this year's student governing body. The only way in which we can properly maintain the standards set by this year's council is for each one of us to become concerned about the activities and program of student council. Student government is only effective insofar as those working with it are responsible and capable persons.

Don Newroth, in his election day address, quoted Lincoln, "He has the right to criticize who has the heart to help." Perhaps this is what we need to remember as we face the coming school year. If you expect student council to progress next year then we need your concrete support and active interest. Through the proper attitude and approach we, as a student body, can go far in our attempt to maintain a school of which we can be proud.

Scots & Soda

By Pat Penland

First of all, I'd like to say if you are looking for humor, I'd suggest an anthology of James Thurber. It is funny and quite easy to come by if you'll just saunter over to the library——you know the place, the stopoff between the dining hall and the parlor on week nights.

Now that you have the location in mind, I'm sure nothing will deter you. But should an obstacle come between you and James Thurber, just sit down and allow the local color to seep in. I really didn't mean for you to read Thurber anyway, at least not until you finished this literary delight. Of course, if you are halfway through Selected Tales from James Thurber, you aren't reading this, and I've been a little late in expressing myself.

Back to the library and local color——to me this is the most fascinating locale on campus (there is no accounting for taste and the emotional strain which produced this reaction). Did you notice the creak in the floor as you walked to the door (the last line contains internal rhyme, If you didn't notice). Well, the creak is pure symbolism. This may be interpreted in several ways.

As you come in, you will see tables segregated to the right and to the left. I classify those people going to the right as right wingers and those going to the left as left wingers or left. (It would be rather confusing, if I designated them vice versa). As you situate yourself, either in the right or left wing, depending upon your tendencies, you can begin to watch the othre local colors seeping in.

Have you ever really noticed the different types that file into the library and tried to imagine something about each one—this is known as stereotyping. It is a game sport, but until you become experienced enough not to blurt out oyur findings, you'd better stick to just guessing majors. It's quite a simple. For a starter, physiscal education majors have an athletic bounce. English majors tend to have a sly smile (probably a Hunterian influence), history majors hold a look of foreign correspondent in their eyes, while science majors are more easily distinguishd by the olfactory sense—chemicals you know.

If you remain situated and silent, there isn't too much likelihood of difficulty with the library staff. But if you happen to mutter and mumble, upon looking up you may discover one of the staff peeping at you over a dictionary or through a shelf of bound periodicals. Finding myself in this situation, in my wilder moments, I imagine myself a brave scout trekking through the oriental jungles (if there are such things) trying to avoid Japanese spies, at all cost. However, experience tells me that you may be asked to call a halt to your activities or even to relinquish your right to the playing field. But hold no grudges, others have gone before you.

The real trouble arises, when you attempt to take an active part by going to the stacks. I issue a word of warning, don't carry a book past the desk without filling out a card. I made this sad mistake, was promptly apprehended due to my own stupidity, and was nearly taken to Dean Massey (I am out of Dean Bushing's jurisdiction for one reason or another).

When paying a fee for an overdue book, if you happen to be a delinquent book borrower (a most heinous crime, upon which I will expound in a later essay), notice the calendar they use to count the days. I'm convinced the library has become a profit making organization by this practice alone. How could anyone accurately see the numerals on that tiny card stuck securely beneath the glass, I ask you.

Now for the didacticism of the piece, you shouldn't really have pondered upon these things at all, you should have quietly read your Thurber as I suggested in the first place.

Maryville Nine Takes 3-9 Record Against Emory & Henry Here Today

Carrying a 3-9 won-lost record, the Maryville Scotties will be trying to better their record as they engage the Emory and Henry Wasps at Honaker Field today at 2:15 p.m.

The past three weeks saw Maryville fall to Lincoln Memorial, U-T, Tusculum, Tennessee Wesleyan, and East Tennessee State, while overcoming Hiwassee and Carson-Newman.

In an away game on April 9, Lincoln Memorial lashed the Scotties by a score of 26-4. The onslaught was not all the Methodists' doing, however, as Maryville aided their own destruction by committing 16 miscues.

In another away game on April 14, the U-T Volunteers won a squeaker over the Scots, 5-4, in the bottom of the tenth inning. Maryville drew first blood in the third with a two-run outburst. U-T tallied one run in the third and another in the sixth. Going into extra innings, Maryville picked up two runs in their half of the tenth on two bases on balls, two sacrifices, and a single by Lou Baird. The aroused Volunteers came back strong for a game-winning three-run rally. U-T counted on a base on balls, two singles, and the culminating double. Maryville got four runs on but three hits as U-T gathered nine hits in posting their five runs. Massey was the U-T winning pitcher, and Owenby took the loss.

Playing heads-up ball, the Scotties drudged Hiwassee 10-3 on Gordon Gilreath's five-hitter. Dugan gave up nine hits to the Scotties in the tilt. Maryville's defense, still shaky, committed only three errors while Hiwassee bobbled eight times. Clarence Storey had a good day in the batter's box, going two-for-three. Bass had two-for-four and Owenby two-for-five in the Hiwassee tussle.

Tom Bass lost his first credited game this season after holding the reins for the greater part of the game with Tusculum. Tusculum topped the Scotties, 10-5, in outbursts in the sixth and eighth innings. The game was close until Tusculum's three run burst in the sixth and a four-run splurge in the eighth.

Highlights of the game were Storey's hitting (again two-for-three) and Dale Sterner's solo homer in the second.

Facing Tennessee Wesleyan for the second time on April 23, the Scots fell 9-1 before the vengeful Methodists, who banged out eleven hits. Dave Meneely, Maryville's freshman pitcher, was charged with the loss, although he allowed only two runs in five innings of relief after Wesleyan had taken a 7-1 lead.

Once again Clarence "Baby" Storey had a good day at bat, with three hits in three trips to the plate against Wesleyan.

Playing Carson-Newman on the Eagles' home field, the Scots came home with an 11-10 decision. Bill Owenby went the route for Maryville, but Carson-Newman paraded seven hurlers to the mound in their attempt to avert the loss. Storey set the pace that Maryville batters followed all afternoon, as he slammed a home run to open the game. Collecting two more hits, Storey again became the hitting star with three-for-four. Sterner, Bass, Baird, and Talley added to the outcome with two safeties each.

East Tennessee State manipulated a 7-6 win over Maryville after trailing until the last inning. Dave Meneely, in relief of Owenby from the fifth inning, lost the heartbreaker, as ETSC came up with two runs in the ninth to end the game.

Storey powdered the horsehide for three more safeties as he and Bill Owenby accounted for five of the eight Scottie safeties. Storey has hit .722 in his last five games.

The Scots have five games remaining on their 1959 slate. Victory in all five could return their record almost to the .500 mark. The remaining schedule:

May	2— E. & H.	Home
May	5—U-T	Home
May	7—E.T.S.C.	Home
May	11—Tusculum	Away
May	12—E. & H.	Away

"Aqua Moods" Is Swimming Theme

"Aqua Moods" will be presented by the members of the synchronized swimming class on May 7 at 8 p.m. in the college pool. The theme of this year's show is day dreams.

One interesting number in the show will be a take-off on the Mickey Mouse Club. Margie Luckenbach will act as Mickey and Lou Parrot, Reggie Garrison, Heather Dyson, Doris Engle, and Sue Fenimore as Mousekeepers.

An interpretation of a bull fight will be given to the music of Malaguena. Norm Goodson and John Mitchell will act as toreadors with Lou Parrot portraying the bull.

The show is divided into three sections. Each class member will appear in each section. Along with the actual participation in the show, each person is on a committee doing the behind-the-scenes work.

The whole show is under the direction of Mrs. Edith Largen.

Library . . .

(Continued from Page 2)

tion of the legend of Theseus. Also outstanding are Harry Ashmore's Epitaph for Dixie, an analysis of the present Southern dilemma by a liberal southerner, Laurence Durrell's Bitter Lemon, a moving study of Cyprus today by one of England's leading poets, and John K. Galbrailt's The Affluesent Society, a searching evaluation of the American economic system by a prominent economist

SAT. thru THURS.

Do You Get Hungry
While Studying, or Are You Planning a Party?
College Hill Food Market
Can Supply Your Needs of
Cakes, Cookies, Fruits, Candy or Nuts

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

B & B PHOTO SERVICE
All types of Photo work
Reasonable Prices
Carnegie 319 or 223

Students Enjoy Shopping at
McARTHUR'S
Dept. Store

RUTH WAGNER
Pres. Theta Epsilon

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •
Cosmetics—Lavin • Rubenstiene • Dorsay • Revelon • Tussy • Cochran and Other Famous Lines
—Prescription Specialist—
CITY DRUG CO.
108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 3-4762 Maryville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

Dr. Graham Lectures On U. N.

"The United Nations in Perspective and in Hope" was the topic of the lecture by Dr. Frank P. Graham in the Theater on Tuesday, April 28. Dr. Graham is a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

World War I demonstrated a need for some world alliance to promote peace, he said. Dr. Graham described Woodrow Wilson as a great prophet of modern history for seeing the need for such an organization.

In setting the perspective of the past, Dr. Graham noted three distinct revolutions which drew the world together. The Commercial Revolution, the Industrial Revolution, and the Atomic Revolution have made the nations of the world interdependent, he thinks. Today it is imperative that the different nationalities and races of the world sit down and talk things out instead of shooting them out.

Dr. Graham described the UN as an infant organization on which has very little power. The real foundation and strength of this group is in the nations which compose it.

Four specific changes within the present framework of the UN were suggested by Dr. Graham. First of all, he said that the UN needs to have a military peace force available to stop conflicts before they come. A bold economic development program was also suggested. Dr. Graham offered as his third proposal that the UN take jurisdiction of problems in the polar regions and in outer space. Finally, he emphasized the need of transferring more responsibility to the General Assembly of the UN.

In a discussion period which followed, Dr. Graham expressed the opinion that the issue of the admittance of Red China to the UN should be brought before the General Assembly. The U.S. has constantly opposed this move. When asked if he thought the UN might some day become a world-wide government, he replied that if so it would be in the very far distant future.

Someone asked Dr. Graham what he thought of the recent resolution against the United Nations which was adopted by the DAR. He said that he had once expressed the hope to one group of DAR's that the Daughters of the American Revolution would not become the "mother of the American reaction".

MC Studnts Give Local Programs

Talented Maryville Colege students have been visiting local high schools with Admissions Counselor, Ann Newell Wiley. The purpose of these trips has been to create an interest in college education and to acquaint local high school students with Maryville College.

On April 2 some Maryville students presented a program at Alcoa High. Zona Gogel, accompanied by Rosemary Barrett, did songs from "My Fair Lady" and Steve Miller, a graduate of Alcoa, gave a short talk.

Ann has also attended the College Day program at Clinton High and held individual conferences at the following Knoxville High Schools: East High, Rule High, Holston, Fulton, Bearden, and South High.

IRC Elects Officers

The International Relations Club has elected the following officers for 1959-1960: President, Lynn Gulliford; Vice-President, Amal Halaby; Secretary, Priscilla Newcomer; Treasurer, Edgar Moros; Co-Program Chairmen, Mimi Mattes, Joe Burgos; Assistant Program Chairman, Roberto Schiller, Historian, Bob Reidenbach; Publicity Chairman, Nancy Smith.

These new officers will be installed at the final meeting, Monday, May 4, at 6:45 in the Y-rooms.

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

Christian Book Nook

Bibles — R.S.V., Phillips
Books. Cards.
Gift Items

229 College St.,
Maryville
YU 3-4982

The Spring Formal is Coming Soon!

We can supply all your Floral needs.

HARTMAN FLOWERS

Phone YU 2-7500

Charles Crissman, Dorm Agent

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.

CHEVROLET

Get Your
COSMETICS AND CANDY
For MOTHER'S DAY
at
BYRNE DRUG STORE

The "Y" Store proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

PROFFITT'S

Everything For Discriminating
Tastes of the Budget-Conscious
Collegian

—Your Friendly
One-Stop Shopping Center

Broadway—Maryville

Proffitt's

MSC Establishes Fund For E. E. McCurry Scholarship

In view of the more than 30 years of service rendered by Mr. E. E. McCurry to the men of Maryville College, the 1958-59 Men's Student Cooperative has made the initial investment of $250 in the establishment of a permanent fund. The fund is to be known as the E. E. McCurry Scholarship fund.

The prize, in complete agreement with the college spirit and standards, has been approved by the administration. It is to be based on scholarship and need, and will be awarded to a prospective sophomore. The first award, which will probably be made next Spring, will be applied to the room-rent of a male student chosen by a committee of seven. This is not a cash award.

The award committee will consist of the Registrar, the Dean of Men, the chairman of the Student Help committee, two officers of the MSC and two appointees from the MSC, selected by the Cooperative's President.

It is hoped that alumni familiar with Mr. McCurry and his work in Carnegie Hall will contribute to help this fund grow. It is also hoped that in the future the Men's Student Cooperative will continue to add to this fund.

A public recognition service in which the check will be presented will be held Wednesday, May 13, in the chapel service.

Schedule Events Of Commencement

Commencement week activities begin on Friday, May 15, with the first of three productions of the Commencement play, "Mad Woman of Chaillot," and end with the graduation exercises on Wednesday, May 20, at 10:30 a.m.

Saturday, May 16, is Alumni Day with the various activities culminating in the annual alumni dinner.

Sunday, May 17, is Baccalaureate Day with the Baccalaureate service at 10:30 a.m. at which President Lloyd will preach the sermon; the music hour at 4:00 p.m.; and Commencement Vespers at 7:00 p.m.

The President's Reception at Morningside will be from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19.

At the graduation exercises on May 20 approximately 100 seniors will receive degrees and diplomas, and the address will be given by Dr. James I. McCord of Austin, Texas.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 44 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 9, 1959 No. 6

'Mr. Mac' Retires From Cargnegie Post After 39 Years As Friend To Men

Mr. Eulie Erskine McCurry ("Mr. Mac"), a member of the Maryville College staff for 43 years and Proctor of Carnegie Hall for the past 39 years, is to retire from his position during the coming summer.

Mr. Mac, because of his ability and reliability, was employed by the College while he was still a student and delayed his graduation to serve full time: for two yers as an assistant in the men's dormitory and in the maintenance department; and for two years as Proctor of Memorial Hall, then occupied by men. He then left the College to supervise some farms he owned near Greeneville, Tennessee. But two years later, in 1920, he was called back to Maryville College as Proctor of Carnegie Hall, which position he has held for the past 39 years.

Taking such classes as time permitted, he completed the graduation requirements and received the B.A. degree from Maryville College in 1934 (making him a member of this year's 25-year class). He then began taking graduate courses at the University of Tennessee and in 1937 received the M.S. degree. His graduate major was Education and the title of his Master's Thesis was "An Analytic Study of Five College Student Bodies." To carry his work as Proctor and at the same time complete the requirements for two degrees was a notable accomplishment.

Mr. Mac has the respect and affection of ten generations of college men who have lived in the building where he has been not merely a supervisor but also a wise counselor and Christian friend. One immediate evidence of this fact is the establishment by men now in Carnegie Hall of an E. E. McCurry Scholarship Prize, about which a more detailed announcement is being made.

During all these years Mr. and Mrs. McCurry have lived in the first floor apartment in the south wing of Carnegie. They have one son, now married, who grew up here and graduated from the College in 1941.

Mrs McCurry is an Assistant in the College Treasurer's Office and will continue to serve there. Mr. Mac will give a large amount of his time to managing his business interests in the community.

Seniors Learn Of Alumni Work At Banquet

On Thursday evening ,April 30, the members of the Senior Class were guests of the Alumni Association and it is hoped that the Green Meadow Country Club.

This idea was approved by the executive board of the Alumni Associatio, and it is hoped that it will become an annual feature. It is also believed that it will be productive of a closer Alumni-College relationships.

At the banquet the class prophecy was read, and entertainment was supplied by Mrs. Barbara Bailey, ventriloquist. The principal address was given bw Arnold Kramer, a Knoxville attorney and a graduate of Maryville College of the class of 1940 .

Transportation was provided by the local alumni, who aSo acted as host or hostess at each table.

Waltz Along 'Street Of Dreams' Begins At 8 Tonight In Chapel Court

Tonight at 8 o'clock Maryville students will step into a dream world as they pass along the "Street of Dreams" to the Chapel courtyard. This is what Chi Beta and Kappa Phi are presenting as the annual spring formal.

The colonnade of the Chapel will represent a street with street lights and signs which will lead to the dance floor. Music will be furnished by a band from Knoxville. A male quartet will provide entertainment for the dancers.

Patsy Parks, president of Chi Beta, Fred Tepper, president of Kappa Phi, Jim Culbertson, and Kathy Eisenhart are the overall chairmen of the Dance. The chaperones for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ash, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harter, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart McNeill.

The various committees and chairmen are as follows: publicity—Sue Fagan, Mary McEver, and Lee Odell; decorations—Connie Bondurant, Elsie Harris, Jane Planitzer, and Chuck Moffett; tickets— Gretchen Ide, Margie Stevenson, Ken Churchill, and John Stoler; programs—Eileen O'Bannon, Barbara Jayne, and Bob Kallstroin; invitations—Linda Roberts, Jane Bohanan, Carolyn Lacy, and Phyllis Hembree; and refreshments—Gay Landis, Sue Stearns and Carole Black.

The Social Board and the Student-Faculty Senate set the regulations to govern dances at Maryville. It is stated that the rules shall be printed in the Echo once each semester. They are as follows:

One formal, all-college dance may be held in the Fall, and one in the Spring, at times to be decided by the sponsoring organizations, Social Board, and Faculty Committee on Scheduling of Activities. Each dance will be under management of sponsors of the brother-sister societies and faculty. The sponsors student and faculty, in co-operation with the Dean of Women and Dean of Men will make all arrangements and supervise the dance. An admission fee will be charged of not more than $1.50 (including tax) per couple, and only couples will be admitted. These will be securtd with the purchase of the ticket. Guests are subject to the same regulations as are students. The dance shall terminate at 12:00 midnight.

Jobs, Study, Marriage Await Members Of Class of '59

The class of 1959 have made quite varied plans for their post graduate careers, some plan to travel, some to do office work, while others plan to teach or continue school.

Esther Balph, Alice McCombe and Janet Smith have immediate plans of touring Europe together. Esther will teach later in Murree, West Pakistan, while Alice plans to teach the fourth or fifth grade in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Paul Bergmueller plans to work for the summer in a gas and electric company, and in the fall to enter Princeton Seminary.

Betty Boone will be working with the Welfare Department here in Maryville and will be married in September.

Mildred Browder will be teaching remedial reading, arts and crafts in a mission in Ozona, Texas, this summer. In the fall she will become a full-time teacher in a high school in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mary Faye Bundy will travel over Alabama as an assistant in a remedial reading workshop and will remain in Birmingham teaching speech and drama in the fall.

John Burnette will also travel this summer and will enter the University of Tennessee Graduate School of Business in the fall.

Barbara Coates will marry in June, after which she and her husband will move to San Antonio, Texas.

Paul Conklin and Carol Cole will be married late this summer. Paul will take a full-time job in the field of biology, and Carol will teach.

Butch Christie will work for the summer at National Camp and for the next two years will study at the General Assembly's Training School at Richmond, Virginia.

Richard Crowder will attend the University of Tennessee's summer session and will remain there in the fall to work on his master's degree in bacteriology under a teaching assistant.

Judy Cummings will act as food supervisor for the School of the Outdoors in New Jersey and will teach home economics in the fall.

Barbara Davis will be working as a group worker at a neighborhood house, Firman House, in Chicago. She has been accepted to do graduate work at McCormick Seminary.

Peggy Davis is going to study music in graduate school this fall.

Tom Dolch will enter Princeton Seminary in the fall.

Ted Frauman will serve as Ranger Director for the YMCA in the summer months and hopes to be employed as a teacher in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Frank Garcia will return to Cuba before entering Princeton Seminary this fall.

Dan Gilmour will work as a bellhop in the summer after which he will enroll in McCormick Theological Seminary.

Lib Guerin will be a June bride. This fall she will teach in an elementary school in Toledo, Ohio.

Dot Hembree will serve as Director of Christian Education at the First Presbyterian Church in Clifton, New Jersey.

Chuck and Joan Herbert plan to work in Ocean City,New Jersey. Chuck will attend Lutheran Seminary in Philadelphia in the fall.

Wendell Huffstetler will teach or do graduate work this fall.

Arlene Jones has obtained a full-time job as a Director of Christian Education in a church in northern New York State. In the following year Arlene plans to marry.

Dick Jones will marry May 30. This summer he will work as a student associate at Meadowview Church in Louisville.

Ed Krebs may join the military service— either navy or army.

Norma Taubert will begin work with the New Jersey State Welfare Department.

Bobby Larsen will probably attend seminary.

Elva Leonhardt will work at Chautauqua, New York, this summer and will teach elementary school music in Annapolis, Md., this fall.

Lou Lewis has a job in the American National Bank in Chattanooga for the summer. Later she will teach in elementary school in Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sally Lumley plans to work this summer at the Florida Power Company in St. Petersburg and to be married in October.

Virginia Lurton will be married in July and hopes to work in either design or teaching.

William Lynch's summer plans are to work in Fort Wayne as a lifeguard; he will be married in August to Mary Newton, who will work for a Volkswagen Company during the summer. In the fall Bill will enter Indiana University School of Medicine.

Sandy Macneill will do office work in Philadelphia for the summer. Her teaching plans are indefinite as yet.

Mary Emma McClure will be a housemother at the Presbyterian Children's Home in Barium Springs, North Carolina.

Mary Haydn McEver will begin work as a Director of Religious Education at Lake Forest Presbytery in Knoxville.

Jane Marshall will work at the Blount County Court House in Maryville for the summer. In the fall, she will probably teach French in Knoxville.

(Cont. on Page 4)

Lloyds Will Go To Brazil, Rhodes During Summer

President Ralph W. Lloyd will go to South America about the middle of July for two major meetings of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches. Mrs. Lloyd expects to accompany him.

The first meeting is the 18th General Council of the World Presbyterian Alliance to be held in Sao Paulo, Brazil, July 27-August 6, 1959. This will last for two weeks, will have delegates from more than 40 countries of the world, and will deal with many important themes. President Lloyd is Chairman of the Committee on Program and Arrangements for this meeting. The Alliance holds such a General Council every five years.

The other meeting which Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd will attend is the Centennial celebration of the beginning of Presbyterian work in Brazil, to be held in Rio de Janeiro August 9-12.

President Lloyd is due also to attend the annual meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, to be held this year in August on the Island of Rhodes in the eastern part of the Mediterranean Sea. To reach this meeting it will be necessary for Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd to fly from Rio de Janeiro immediately after the celebration there and travel through North Africa and western Europe to Athens, Greece from which they will take ship to the Island of Rhodes. They will return to Maryville for the opening of college September 1.

SNEA Fetes Mrs. Kramer

This Is Your Educational Life.

On Thursday evening, May 7, the Student National Education Association feted Mrs. Thelma Kramer, assistant professor of education, with a special surprise program entitled "This Is Your Educational Life."

The program was designed to emphasize Mrs. Kramer's many contributions to the field of education in the home, the church, the elementary school, and the college. Members of the college faculty taking part were Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dr. Lincoln Barker, Miss Jessie Johnson, Miss Frances Massey and Mrs. Florence Patterson.

Rosemary Lee served as mistress of ceremonies for the occasion. A reception followed afterwards in the Fine Arts

McCord, Princeton's President-Elect To Speak At Commencement

The Commencement Day speaker at Maryville College this year will be Dr. James I. McCord of Austin, Texas, President Ralph W. Lloyd has announced.

Dr. McCord is one of the younger, dynamic leaders in the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches of America and of the world. Not yet forty years of age, he has taught philosophy at the University of Texas for two years and for a number of years has been Dean of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Texas, and is President-elect of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Dr. McCord, a native of Texas, is a graduate of Austin College, Texas, and has taken his graduate work in philosophy and theology in Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, in the institution where he now teaches, at the University of Texas, at Harvard University, at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and the University of Geneva, Switzerland.

He holds the degree of Master of Arts from the University of Texas, the degree of Doctor of Theology from the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Knox College, Toronto, Canada.

He has attended many conferences in different parts of the world; has lectured in Canada, South America, Great Britain, and Europe as well as in the United States; and is the author of numerous articles and reviews.

Two More Dorms Face Remodeling

The major building program on the campus during the coming summer will be the rehabilitation of Memorial and Pearsons Halls.

Architect's plans for rehabilitation somewhat similar to that done in Carnegie Hall are now in the hands of contractors for bids. It is hoped that work can begin in these two buildings immediately after Commencement. That in Pearsons will include the dormitory floors but not the dining hall floor. It is expected that Memorial Hall will be returned to its original use as a dormitory for men.

The completion of the new dormitory is in sight but has been delayed from time to time and will likely not be ready for occupancy before Commencement, thus disappointing the hopes of the past months.

Executive Group To Visit May 12

One of the important visiting groups on the campus will be the Executive Committee of the United Presbyterian Women of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. on Tuesday, May 12.

The Committee consisting of approximately twenty members and executive staff represent some three quarters of a million United Presbyterian women throughout the nation .

The President is Mrs. Ernest H Hoeldtke of Buffalo, New York, and the Executive Secretary is Dr. Margaret Shannon of New York City, a member of the Maryville College Board of Directors.

The Committee will attend chapel Tuesday morning; will participate in a seminar on Christian Higher Education conducted by President Lloyd, Dean McClelland, Dr. Hunter, Miss Massey, and Mr. Brahms during the morning; have lunch in the college dining hall; and hold conferences for women church leaders of this territory during the afternoon.

Slate Symphony, Two Dramas For '59-'60 Series

Plans for the 1959-1960 Artist Series have already been made. The committee has selected three special attractions.

The first number, to be presented October 29, is the Atlanta Symphony. They will open the Series with Henry Sopkin conducting the 80-piece group. Lillian Kallir is the pianist for the symphony.

On January 28, 1960, Players Incorporated will present Shakespere's The Comedy of Errors: This is the fine group that gave us Romeo and Juliet last year.

The production of Carmen will be given by the National Grass Roots Opera Company on March 1, 1960. It is a colorful new English version of Bizet's opera, Carmen.

Anyone wishing to retain his present Artist Series seats for the 1959-60 series, must reserve the places by May 18. Ticket sales will be open to the public on September 15.

Play To Show May 15, 18, 19

Susan Parkinson will play the title role in this year's Commencement Play, The Madwoman of Chaillot.

The rest of the cast will include Helen Marie Haynie as Constance, Joan Mattice as Gabrielle, Maryanne Braidwood as Josephine, Larry Stearns as Pierre, Ken Hartman as the Sergeant, Tom Dickerson as the Sewer Man, Jane Bartlzley as Irma, Steve Miller as the Deaf Mute, Bill Green as the Ragpicker, Harriette Fuhrman as the Flower Girl, Ron Randon as the Baron, Ron Pearson as the President, Bob Reichenbach as the Prospector, and Clyde Flanagan as the Waiter. Jan Aaron and Gienda Gray will play the Ladies.

Tickets may be reserved for the performances by calling or coming by the Theatre office between 1:30 and 5:30 any day. Prices are 75 cents for students and faculty, $1.00 for others. Susan Parkinson is in charge of ticket sales.

Performances of Madwoman of Chaillot will begin at 8:30 p.m. on May 15, 18, and 19 in the Theatre.

Recommend Plays For '59-'60 Season

The Playhouse Board of Controls met recently and voted to recommend the following plays for production during the 1959-60 season: Witness for the Prosecution, by Agatha Christie, a good murder mystery; The Lark, by Jean Anouilh, a Joan of Arc drama; and The Matchmaker, by Thronton Wilder, a sparkling delightful farce.

MC To Host June Meetings

The month of June on the Maryville College campus will be a month of church conferences. Beginning with the second week in June there will be two weeks given to the Leadership Training School of the South; one week to the meetings of the Synod of Mid South, the Women's Synodical Society of Mid-South, and the Youth Synod Westminster Fellowship; and one week to the Senior High Westminster Fellowship for East Tennessee.

Elect Newcomer WSGA President

Ann Newcomer was elected president of WSGA for the coming school year by the women dormitory students during the election held earlier this week. Also elected were the house chairmen who are Nona Roll for Baldwin, Louva Lawson in Pearsons, and Lessie Ann Rhodes for the new dorm.

The other officers of Baldwin Hall for the first semester of next year will include Judy Gano, vice house chairman; Patsy Davis, secretary; Sue Lemme, treausrer; and Becky Kinnamon, fire captain.

The house committee in Pearsons will include Connie Bondurant, Oralea Ziegler, Lou Parrot, Barbara Neilson, and Becky Lewis.

Jan Peterson will be vice house dormitory. The secretary treasurer chairman of the new women's will be Ann Barnes and Mary Turner the fire captain.

The respective house committees were elected by the girls who will be living in each dormitory next year. The Baldwin committee was chosen by the thirty sophomores who will serve as aides in the freshmen dormitory.

Alumni Day, May 16, To Feature Class Reunions, Banquets

The annual Alumni Day program will highlight the pre-Commencement week-end activities at Maryville College on Saturday, May 16, with alumni returning from all over the United States.

An unusually large representation from the Class of 1909, the 50-year class, will be present. At least nine of the 16 living members of the class have notified Mrs. Howard B. Phillips, local chairman of arrangements, that they will be present. There will be a reunion luncheon for the 50-year class at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Paxton, whose mother was a member of the class. Fifty-year certificates will be awarded by President Ralph W. Lloyd at the annual alumni dinner in Pearsons Hall at 6:30 p.m.

The 25-year class (1934) is planning an afternoon of activities, with luncheon at Spike's Restaurant at one o'clock. The local committee on arrangements consists of Andrew L. Alexander, Miss Frances Massey, and Miss Viola Lightfoot.

Other reunion plans and committee chairmen are as follows: 35-year class (1924), reunion dinner on Sunday, May 17, at the Simple Simon Restaurant; 30-year class (1929), reunion luncheon at Friends' Haven, Fort Loudon Lake, meet at Chapel at noon, Mrs. G. H. Traylor and Mrs. Edward Lyle, chairmen; 10-year class (1949) leave chapel at 12:45, lunch at Dave Proffitt's summer cottage at Miller's Cove. Miss Jane Huddleston and Mrs. Bill Proffitt, chairmen; 5-year class (1954) picnic lunch at Amphitheater on campus, 12:30 p.m. Mrs. Robert Lynn and Mrs. Richard Abbott, chairmen.

The 40-year (1919) class and the 15-year class (1944) will have tables reserved at the general alumni luncheon at the Simple Simon to which alumni not involved in reunions are invited. Reservations for the general alumni luncheon may be made by calling the Alumni Office at YUkon 2-2701.

In the afternoon there will be an officers' reception on the lawn near Pearsons Hall, to which all alumni are invited. Music will be provided by the Highlander Marching Band under the direction of Bernard Linger.

The annual alumni banquet will be held in Pearsons Hall at 6:30 p.m. with H. F. Lamon, Jr., president of the Alumni Association, presiding. The nominating committee will present a new slate of officers for the coming year. Andrew L. Alexander is chairman of the committee. Other members are Mrs. G. H. Traylor and James Campbell.

Alumni may register at the registration desk in the Chapel colonnade all day Saturday. Mrs Roy Blackburn is chairman of the committee on alumni registration Entertainment for the banquet is being arranged by Mrs. Joe C. Gamble.

The Highland Echo

THE HIGHLAND ECHO, APRIL 18, 1959

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Ed Krebs

Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Charlotte Cathey, Ross McGill, Pat Penland, Phyllis Stine

Contributors this issue——Pat Baker, Graham Bardsley, Maryanne Braidwood, Charlotte Cathey, Dick Crowder, Dave Doyscher, Helen Anne Easterley, Tom Eberhard, Kathy Eisenhart, Leon Gabrielian, John Gilmour, Betsy Lonsinger, Marilynn Lundy, Howard McCuen, Ross McGill, Don Newroth, Pat Penland, Bill Pennock, Jane Planizer, Georgene Ronlander, George Stewart, Phyllis Stine, Herb Thompson, Joyce Williams

Typists ..... Barbara Davis, Marianne Inglis, Pat Penland

Business Staff

Co-Business Managers ..... Lyndhurst Gulliford, Doug Koehler

Business Assistants ..... Jan Aaron, Sylvia Fugate, Eleanor Kenst, Jo Widner

Faculty Advisor ..... Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription rate: $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be given consideration only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation on subjects of general interest. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

Echo Stretches After Waking

One practice that is a genuine tradition in that it is renewed through new realization of need, is the practice of reviewing the work of an organization at the end of a work period. Thus it is now necessary to review the work of the Echo this semester.

Some comment has found its way to the editor that the Echo has not taken up many great causes editorially this semester. The first editorial perhaps forecast that such would be so. The statement in that editorial that the Echo would not print "half-cocked explosions of half-barked individuals" was not meant to establish a policy of leaving important issues alone. The statement was meant to prevent us as a student body from "hollering wolf too often" and thus ruining our best chances for change. It has been the conviction of the editor that students' right to question has too often been abused. The quality of student leadership this year insured that a minimum of abuse of this right came through student government this year. At any rate, editorial policy has followed the principle that students have failed to act responsibly and also that students should not take their troubles to the administration until we have solved for ourselves the problems which are rooted mainly in ourselves and not in administration policy.

Analysis will show that most of our problems have this basis; nonetheless, the newspaper should serve the vital function of a catalyst on the campus by presenting material that will stimulate improvement in administration policy as well as in student attitudes. Any degree of failure to fulfill this function does indeed fall to an editor. The present editor admits a degree of failure here, for reasons ranging from lack of experience, in campus politics to an overriding pressure to complete Special Studies. It is too late now to do anything about the past (except learn from it). The editor will not admit that he was a poor choice for the job, but will make one comment on the method of selecting an editor. The power of the press is great and can be made even greater by leadership which continually improves. The position of campus newspaper editor should be more important, and more campus leadership should get involved in the race for the position, as well as in the whole work of the newspaper. Election of the newspaper editor might somehow be included in the student body general election.

The emphasis this semester has been an attempt to establish a balanced, quality student newspaper. If we have been successful in this attempt, we hope that Echoes of succeeding years will continue it and improve upon it.

Enough has been said in our review. Withal, the editor considers that this has been a good semester for the newspaper, and hopes that the Echo itself provides basis for agreement. He wishes to thank all who have contributed to the newspaper this semester: to those who have worked closely and for long hours; to all the members of the reporting and business staffs; and to all who have shown interest, whether expressed in letters for the Forum or in vocal comments about the paper.

And last, the editor would remind all that this is every student's newspaper.

'59 Y Retreat Points to Encounter In College Life

By Charlotte Cathey

Y Retreat — to some of us this is only a name for some nebulous "outing" various Y members take each spring at Laurel Lake. For others of us, through, it is a high point of each year as we gather our wits (and our sleeping bags) for a week-end of evaluation and planning in the out of doors. And this is the Y Retreat that you should know about.

What is Y Retreat? Let's look at the one just past. The old and new cabinets reconvened at Laurel Lake this year, after a year of pulling our ailing organization up by the bootstraps. We met together knowing that we had made mistakes, but we knew, too, that those mistakes were tempered with progress. And we met with the desire to weld our organization into an organic whole, more so than it has ever been before.

But wholeness must come from a unifying purpose. What would it be? Miss Frances Moser of the Southern Region of YWCA suggested this purpose in an address populated with such terminology as the "search for authentic selfhood," "dialogue on campus," "breaking stereotypes." These terms were planted in our heads so that our Saturday morning discussions became honest "dialogue" as we sought to find a purpose. There was not enough time to include all that our enthusiasm would have provided once the idea caught hold. Dialogue accompanied supper, recreation, and rest hour.

Through dialogue we began our search for authentic encounter with each other, with you, and with our faith. It is through such searching that we grow and contribute to our community.

How does Y provide this meaningful encounter? We in Y feel that every aspect of our organization affords this encounter with each other and with God. Through community service we find such opportunities: as we work with the underprivileged; as we understand the parentless child; as we break the color barrier. Y also provides social and cultural opportunities through the operation of Y Store, the maintenance of Y Rooms, the sponsorship of Artist Series, the programs of Nu Gamma and Ten Key Men, the provision of Big Brothers and Big Sisters for incoming freshmen, and a host of other functions.

Sunday programs are directed toward encounter, too, as we seek to involve ourselves in a search for answers to the ultimate questions. Therein we try to include every phase of human activity and how it relates to God at work in the world today.

Y then provides you opportunities for encounter, the encounter that leads to authentic selfhood. In a large measure Y is able to do this because we do have Retreat, because we take apart, we discard, and we rebuild. But the attitude of searching and service which makes Y Retreat valuable grows out of something greater than Retreat. It emanates from the sense of togetherness already existent in Y. Dr. J. Herbert Otwell of the Pacific School of Religion has spoken relevantly to this matter:

". . .The group proclaimed by the Christian tradition not only satisfies man's deepest need for fellowship, but it is based upon an experience of God which compels its members to strive endlessly to relate themselves to all men — even to those who have rejected them — for the good of all mankind. Thus it is a redemptive community."

STUDENT ART SHOW UNTIL MAY 20

Books In Biology, Philosophy, History, Given In Memry Of Faculty Members

By Peggy Reid

Many thoughtful persons have enhanced the College Library collection by donating gift books in memory of the late faculty members—Mrs. George E. Brown, Dr. Horace E. Orr, and Dr. Verton M. Queener. These Memorial books serve a two-fold purpose as they pay tribute to worthy personalities, and serve the entire college community. The Library has chosen to purchase Memorial Books in the area in which the professor was most interested.

The books given in memory of Mrs. Brown are in the field of biology. Among them are The Macmillan Wild Flower Book, by Hylander, given by the Maryville College Faculty; Plants of the Bible, by Moldenke, given by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Crawford, Jr.; Life, by Simpson, a carefully illustrated introduction to biology with a discussion of the scientific method, given by Mrs. Martin Badgett; The Tropics, by de La Rue, a pictorial record of the more typical and striking aspects of the infinity of forms which the plant kingdom has assembled in the tropics, given by Rev. and Mrs. P. F. Jones.

Gift boks in the field of philosophy and religion, in memory of Dr. Orr include The Dialogue of Plato, an excellent four-volume edition given by Mrs. Fred Proffitt, Mrs. Dave McArthur, Mrs. Martin Badgett, and Miss Viola Lightfoot; The World's Great Thinkers, a four-volume set by Commins which treats "Man and the Spirit," "Man and State," "Man and the Universe," and "Man and Man," given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kramer; The Evidence of God in an Expanding Universe by Mosma, in which forty scientists declare their affirmative views on religion, given by Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Crothers. The Maryville College Faculty and Staff has given a set of four volumes entitled The Great Books: a Christiantian Appraisal by Gardiner which is a refreshing appraisal of the Great Boks, and of their contribution to our civilization based on Christian concepts. The family of A. B. Gamble, Jr. has given a book by Weber entitled Religion in India.

The gift books in memory of Dr. Queener are mainly in the field of English history. They include five volumes of the Oxford History of England, given by Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Kramer and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kramer. Among the titles of these volumes are Roman Britain and the English Settlements, by Collingwood, Anglo-Saxon England, by Stenton, From Domesday Book to Magna Carta, by Poole, and The Thirteenth Century, by Powicke. An additional volume given by Mr. and Mrs. H. Wagner Newberry is The Age of Reform, by Woodwar. Mrs. John Cummings has given a book entitled The United Presbyterian Story by Jameson, and the Maryville College Faculty and Staff has given Russia and the Soviet Union, by Walsh, a volume in the University of Michigan History of the Modern World series.

In addition to these Memorial Books, there are several books from the personal libraries of these faculty members. The library expresses thanks to those who have made possible the purchase of these Memorial Books, and recommends the books to the use of the college community.

USNSA Report Describes Issues In Academic Freedom

By Lewis Plate

Academic freedom may not seem to be an important issue to American college students, because we have such things as the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights to protect or free any teacher or student from any limitations on their right to teach or to study what and how they like.

"You shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," but the word truth has been found to need definition, and those things classified as truth cover a broad plane of ideas and concep . . . Recently the United States National Student Association published a report on "The Student's Stake in Academic and Educational Freedom," by Reginald H. Green and Elnora H. Coleman Most of the present article is taken from this report.

There are five major arguments for academic freedom:

1. "Truth may be unknowable or changing." For this reason it is deemed necessary to review and investigate known truths in order to keep them up to date.

2. "Approximations to the truth may be knowable and refinable with or without the possible opportunity of ultimately attaining exact truth." Knowledge must be known in order for it to benefit mankind. Its suppression can do limitless harm, even though the truth often hurts.

3. "Unexamined knowledge is neither effectively known nor fully available for further use." I should not only be examined, but it should be re-examined constantly to insure its value to the human race. Democracy should never become so taken for granted that it ceases to be.

4. "Reason and research are the only proper criteria for evaluating what are or purport to be the products of reason and research and at least a preliminary test for that which claims title to truth." People seem more often lacking in this respect. Americans are noted as the most gullible people in the world; look at some of our advertisements if you do not believe this. It takes time to examine the things that are reported as truth, but what could be more worthwhile? In the fields of religion and human relations does the need for this examining of truth seem most necessary and most rewarding to the individual

5. "Knowledge freely available to the expert and the 'average man' is essential to a democracy." Little elaboration is needed on this point.

Although the United States would seem to be in the nation with the most freedom of speech, it often fails to live up to this ideal because of fear or prejudice. It is commonly thought that today's college students are generally incapable of effective evaluation or judgment or incapable of making important decisions. This thought lies behind most of the censorship that takes place on American college campuses. It is believed by many institutions that students are not capable of using academic freedom and would abuse it. Of course, the student simply asks, When will we be capable or mature enough to do so?

There are many problem areas concerning academic freedom. There are two sides to every argument, two viewpoints to every difference of opinion. A truly educated man should know both sides. For this reason, all schools should allow their students and teachers to follow their search for truth and knowledge to an infinite degree.

Restrictions are necessary in some cases. The University of Tennessee could not advocate the election of a particular candidate for the governor's mansion, but they could allow both candidates to speak if they so desired and if the student body or a sufficient number of the student body desired them to do so. The late Dr. Verton M. Queener, a professor at this institution, was an active and ardent Democrat, and this was made known in his classroom by what he said and how he said it. He certainly did not preach Democratic politics over Republican politics nor outwardly endorse a particular candidate from the classroom. He did not abuse his position as a teacher by promoting his political views, but this school might have taken the narrow-minded viewpoint that holding strong opinions on such a controversial issue as politics was unbefitting a member of this institution, even though he was not using his position as a teacher to advocate his political opinions excessively. Such a thing has happened in some colleges and universities.

Would we take the broad-minded view if a teacher similarly held strong feelings about socialism or communism without abusing his position? We might even add a strong opinion one way or the other on segregation as a hypothetical case, for this has been an extremely difficult problem in Southern schools.

This article has not even mentioned all the major points in this important issue of academic freedom. No particular examples have been cited, although there are many involving the teacher in the classroom, students in their relationships with certain organizations such as the Young Republicans Club or the Young Democrats, and college newspapers in their fight for a free press.

Serious problems do exist in these areas. They could exist here at Maryville. As free citizens of the United States, advocates of all the principles of democracy, it is our duty and our obligation to continually keep these ideas and principles at the peak of perfection. As stated above, the principles of our democratic way of life should never become so taken for granted that they cease to exist.

Scots & Soda

By Pat Penland

For my many (I just casually tossed that word in) readers, wherever they may be scattred between the Grill and the ruins, this is a second endeavor or sequel on my part. One should bear in mind a second attempt is never as good as the initial piece, no matter how miserable the first proved. I might say many of the greats of literature refused to buck this obstacle. Did Boswell even attempt to write The Life of the Son of Samuel Johnson, did Melville write he Re urn of Moby Dick? It is perhaps Poe's failure that is most obvious to the casual reader. This man failed to pen "The Mask of Red Death Rides Again." Many never realized the implications of this fact before.

But I know that you readers long to run into the arms of nature, flexing your restricted muscles, as the birds twitter a siren call, and to forget all about books. Yes, this very week, we should all get into the sunshine of the open spaces and enjoy our athletic heritage. Disregard trivialities! Devote yourself fully. For the lack of appropriateness of some activities and the participants, to say nothing of the spectators, I shall suggest golf. There is absolutely no other reason that I would mention it.

I might say I have had some great success in any field of athletic endeavor. I wasn't even allowed to enter hopscotch tournaments in grade school. On softball teams I used to wait as the captains quarrelled over who would not get me. (You won't be surprised to know some of my worst enemies were softball captains.) I was just predisposed to be one of those Un-American girls not born with a tennis racke in her hand (the only time I have that wind blown look is when I have been in a Hurricane).

Golf, which I mentioned before is my latest athletic trial. Not having had much greater success in attempts since elementary school (I do distinctly remember winning a shuffle board match by default), I thought perhaps this was my sport. I walked into class with my head high and looked the other prospective golfers in the eye. This gay, happy, wild dream lasted, however, until the instructor handed out the clubs. I could see immediately that difficulty loomed again. I could stand the correct stance and hold the club properly but I could no move in that position. When the teacher instructed me to bend my knees, I panicked and my whole stance collapsed.

Not yet trusted on the outside with real balls, in our second session, we began to work to hit a practice ball. I placed mine according to directions on a fuzzy catrepillarish looking doormat. I waved the club about in practice, slicing the air in swift decisive strokes, and finally stepped up to the mat for the real follow through. I swung. My upstroke was slow and deliberate. I came down with brute force. That mat just lay there and let me hit the floor with a thundering crash. Have you noticed how objects tend to roll to the center of the intramural gym lately?

On the actual course with real balls (Tiger, the cheapest brand), I am little better. I hear talk of re-seeding the entire course.

I fear that this cannot end as a fairy tale; I did not meet a handsome golf instructor who taught me to play with the skill of a female Mike Souchek and with whom I walked hand in hand forever. I lost in the golf tournament. Oh yes, I entered under extreme duress. In the future I plan to enjoy my sickly palor and flabby muscles minus poison ivy and little fungi. I will live a life secluded aind definitely apart from athletic fields.

Echo Forum

Dear Editor:

What's wrong with Maryville College? The most acute problems at the moment seem to be academic in nature and most severe in the foreign language departments. That which is stated in the requirements in four years. This is the case. There are five German majors who need more German courses than are being offered. One teacher cannot be expected to teach every course in his department. Yet in several cases this is expected.

There are problems in the Spanish department too. Miss Martin has recently spent several years studying in Madrid, Spain. Next semester she is returning with a Ph.D degree in Spanish. This may seem fantastic, but she will not be teaching a single Spanish course! She is scheduled for five French courses!

We're not even bother to consider the . . . n problem.

To those who want to graduate a semester early, the Personnel Office replies, "This is not a seven-semester college." For those who can't accumulate enough major hours, the Office suggests summer school. I would like to make a suggestion too. If this college is bulletin is not the same as what is actually practiced.

A German, French or Spanish major must complete 30 semester hours of courses above the "100" level in his major field. This means that the German major must take every course listed in the bulletin. The German major must take six hours of advanced German the first semester of his junior year. If no more than one advanced course is offered during that semester, a student cannot accumulate su . . . cient hours to meet the graduation not able to offer a major in a foreign language, a statement to that effect should be inserted in the bulletin. Another plan would be to state in the bulletin that the foreign language major follows a five-year program. Still another pla plan would be to advise prospective-year program. Still another tive students of the necessity of obtaining summer school credits in case a foreign language major is chosen.

Otherwise, instead of building up the physical shell of the college by constructing new buildings, some funds should be provided to hire some teachers who will be able to help build Maryville College spiritually and academically. We want a college we can be proud of, and it cannot be made with nothing inside its glorified walls.

Larry Gibbs

The "Y" Store proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S

Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

PROFFITT'S

Everything For Discriminating Tastes of the Budget-Conscious Collegian

—Your Friendly One-Stop Shopping Center

Broadway—Maryville

Proffitt's

Baird Former MC Athlete and Student Body President, Will Assume DA, Head Football Coach Posts In Sept.

Boydson H. Baird, currently a member of the faculty and coaching staff of the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, has accepted the position of Director of Athletics, Head Football Coach, and Associate Professor of Physical Education at Maryville College.

As Director of Athletics, Baird will succeed Lombe S. Honaker, who is retiring at the close of the present college year after an outstanding and nationally famous service of thirty-eight years at Maryville College. Baird brings to Maryville not only excellent training but also eleven years of experience in college coaching. From 1948 to 1952, he was varsity basketball and freshman football and baseball coach at Davidson College.

Since 1952, Baird has been at the College of William and Mary, where he holds the faculty rank of Assistant Professor of Physical Education. He has served for seven years as head freshman football coach and five years as varsity basketball coach.

A native of Ohio, he entered Maryville College in 1937 and was graduated in 1941. He will be remembered as one of the famous three Baird brothers who played together on the various varsity teams, including the track team which won the state championship. Baird won nine varsity letters. He was on the basketball team four years, was elected captain his last year, and was on the football team for three years. He was on the track team two years, running on the mile relay team which set a relay record, and in his junior year, teaming up with his brothers for a total of fourteen first places. In his senior year, he was President of the Student Body and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. His brothers, Weldon, and Bill, also were elected to Who's Who.

After graduation from college, Baird entered military service for the duration of World War II. He spent two more years in graduate study, the first at Ohio Wesleyan University as a special student in Physical Education and assistant coach in football and baseball, the second as a graduate student at the University of Indiana from which he received his Master's degree in Physical Education in 1948.

At Maryville, Baird will have strong athletic assistants in John A. ("J.D.") Davis, Associate Professor of Physical Education, well known as a versatile and capable coach in four major sports; Marvin ("Big Mitch") Mitchell, who became a valuable member of the college faculty and coaching staff two years ago after a successful career as high school coach; and a new Intramural coach soon to be appointed.

Baird will spend part of the month of June in Maryville making plans for next year before going as a staff member to a New England summer camp. At the end of August, he will bring his wife and three children to Maryville to live and will assume his duties as Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach.

BOYDSON H. BAIRD, MC '41, one of a famous brother act in athletics, will begin in September as Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach.
(Photo courtesy Maryville-Alcoa Daily Times)

'59 Tennis Season Produces No Wins, Experience Gives High Hopes For '60

A winless season is not a pretty picture in any sport, but the 1960 Maryville College tennis squad will be rosy cover for a dark year such as the one that has recently ended.

Next season will find three lettermen returning to form a nucleus for a seasoned squad that will have six returnees of the '59 campaign. George Poland and George Roselli have joined Captain Tom Eberhard, as the three lettermen. Next year will see tennis veterans Dick Mayer, Jeff Grote, and Roger Nooe also coming back to give the Scotties the strongest team experience-wise in many years.

Dr. Ralph T. Case, coach, and Ted Engle, assistant coach, have high hopes for the 1960 tennis squad. "The potential is there if the fellows develop it this summer and next fall," Ted stated after the last match Tuesday with Lincoln Memorial University. Both coaches have been pleased with the spirit of the fellows— the fight was never gone.

German Club Elects Vogt

The German Club climaxed the spring semester with the election of officers and a party held in the Y-rooms April 27. The club chose as their president for the coming semester Leonard Vogt; vice president, Tod Jablonski; secretary, Bill McGuire; and treasurer, Barbara Tierney.

Herr Reber discussed with the members possible programs for the next semester's meetings. Having decided the bust of Heine was almost impossible to get, the club thought of buying pictures for the German classroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Reber provided refreshments of cake and sodas.

Intramurals..

The Johnny Rebs, Maryville's championship intramural softball team, will take on a softball team from Carson-Newman today. The game will be at 2:00 p.m. at the Intramural Field.

Though the season is not over, the Johnny Rebs have clinched the title with a 5-0 record. Behind the speed-ball pitching of Gayle Ferguson, the Johnny Rebs should stand a good chance against Carson-Newman.

Alpha Sigma played heads-up softball to win the Stinkin' Shoe game over Kappa Phi, 12-3. Joe Williams was the winning pitcher, allowing Phi only three hits.

Other softball scores:
AS Sledgehammers 14, Pre-Mins 2
KP 24, AS Sledgehammers 23
AS Hammers 24, SPF 17
Johnny Rebs 7, AS Sledgehammers 3
KP 9, SPF 4
Johnny Rebs 28, AS Hammers 1
Johnny Rebs 4, Pre-Mins 3
Pre-Mins 10, KP 10
Johnny Rebs 20, SPF 5
Joahnny Rebs 11, KP 8

Parks, Emery Rule May Day

The annual May Day Festival was presented in the College Amphitheater at 2:30 P.M. on Friday, May 1. The highlight of the program was the crowning of the May Day Queen and the presentation of the attendants and escorts representing the four classes.

The story of "The Tortoise and the Hare" was given. Featured were Arlette Roselli as the tortoise, Judy Springstead as Bugs Bunny, Kay Phillippi as the duck, Helen Moore as Henry Hawk, and Tom Dickerson as the Taxi Driver.

The traditional dance around the maypole was performed by Roberta Berger, Gretchen Ide, Kathy Smith, Linda Dobson, Cynthia Aber, Margaret Kelso, Karen Kennedy, Glenda Gray, Phyllis Hembree, Jane Bohanon, Emily Wood, Judy Agee, Harriette Blankenship, and Elizabeth Martindale.

Other highlights of the program were tumbling and dances. The tap dance class presented three numbers, "The Chipmonk Song," "Siamese Children," and "The Children's Marching Song."

The Physical Education Division of the College was in charge of the May Day Festival. Majors from the department head the following committees: publicity, Carole Black, Lois Lockett; properties Ruthanne Campbell, Sharon Sweat; court and ushers, Pat Frazier; story, Jo Thacker.

CHI BETA

Chi Beta Society met on April 18. The program was led by Linda Dobson and other members from Memorial Dormitory. Several games were played and a skit was presented.

On April 25 a wiener roast picnic was held at the Don Kingers' "ranch" for both Kappa Phi and Chi Beta. The group was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. E. Clinton Ash.

"Ernie" of the campus crew has requested the Echo to print his address so that former students may write to him. The address is as follows: Ernest Farr, 1406 Monroe Street, Maryville.

Scots' Second Win Over C-N Makes Losing Season Successful

Although they have recorded only a few victories, the Honakermen can nonetheless consider this season successful as they dropped Carson-Newman for the second time this year.

The contest took place on April 30 at Honaker Field. The game started with the Owenby brothers facing each other on the mound—Bill for Maryville and Jack for C-N. Carson-Newman drew first blood with two quick runs in the first. Maryville came back with a pair in the second and from then on it was a nip-and-tuck battle. Baird come on in relief for Carson-Newman in the fourth, followed by Barr in the seventh, but Maryville's Bill Owenby went the route to record the win. Going into the ninth, Carson-Newman trailed by an 8-7 score. In the top of that inning, however, they came up with a run to break the score. In their half of the ninth, Maryville pushed over one run on Leon Baird's single to cop the contest.

Not only did Owenby pitch a successful game, but also went four-for-five at the plate.

May 2 saw Maryville meet Emory and Henry and fall by a score of 6-2. Cester recorded the win for the Wasps, holding Maryville to but three hits, these by Talley, Giffin, and Owenby. Aring started for the Scots, but needed help from Meneely.

The University of Tennessee visited on May 5 and emerged triumphant by a score of 12-2 in a game marked by miscues. U-T, collected 12 hits while holding Maryville out in front. From then on, however, U-T held the reins, scoring in five different innings, the most devastating of which was the fifth, in which the Vols picked up five markers. Massey recorded the win while Maryville started with Owenby, who was relieved by Meneely in the sixth.

Moved and Seconded

Memo To Morris

Memo to Dave Morris:

In the rush to get things done and administrations changed, there are one or two things that we haven't considered. As I walked out of the Y-rooms Wednesday night, passing as it were from the world of red tape to that of memories, these impressions of serious concern entered that high vacancy of mine, where in the cases of more fortunate people, the mind has chosen to locate itself.

You'll have two main things to do. You are, first of all, the students' representative to the administration. If you succeed in carrying something of the campus attitude and tone within earshot of Anderson Hall, you will have laid the foundation for whatever progress you may have designed. Your listeners, of course, will not always like what you have to say.

You're also the administration's interpreter of policy. It's difficult to function in this capacity because the listeners who aren't liking what you're saying this time are the people who elected you.

There you stand. And what should your attiude be?

I think it was Franklin who said something about experience being a comb that Nature gives to men when they are bald. A mess of the things I know now, I can't put into words; I can just hand you the comb and let you learn. I have to drop my symbolism here because I do want to tell you to get beneath the surface, but you should avoid being scalped if possible. There are two kinds of surfaces, though. The one is caused by those who hold to tradition without calling to mind what it represents. There are too many things here that remain, and nobody knows why they were instituted. The second surface is dwelt upon by those who complain without reason; they've just become fond of it.

There's the problem. I've been working for the solution in Sente. I hope it will come. If it does, it will be in three words — explain, explain, explain!

There are two things that could happen in the light of explanation. Either the various elements of our tradition will appear reasonable, or they will not. If they do not, the next step is out the door. If they are reasonable, those who hold to them should have no reluctance concerning their constant re-examination. A religion that is not subject to constructive criticism, is also not in danger of being a living, powerful, and dynamic force.

That's the situation as I saw it when I took my last look around the office that is now yours. It's discouraging at times. But when things got rocky, I always went for a walk someplace and decided once again that I'd rather be President than right anyway.

Goodbye, and Good Luck.

Sincerely,

DBN

Yearbook Staff Makes Correction

The staff of the 1959 Chilowean would like to make public this correction. A mistake appeared on page 67 of the yearbook which stated that Nancy Jones instead of Ann McLeod is Head Majorette. The mistake was made by the staff, and we apologize to Miss McLeod for the unintentional slight to her efforts.

CAP and GOWN PICTURES
BARGAIN PRICES
See
B & B PHOTOS
319 and 225 Carnegie

Gilbert's Coffee House
Your 24-Hour Host
For Fine Foods
Try Some: *Fresh Strawberry Short Cake
* Home Baked Pie
* Cool off with a Lime Freeze
Remember—Breakfast Anytime

It's About Over-
BUT NOT TOO LATE
To Have a Picnic—So why not drop by the J&K on Church Street
Where you can get Everything for The Finest Picnic Yet—
Potato Chips — Pickles — Cheese — Salads — Cold Cuts— Hot Dogs— Fruits— Plates— Cups and Just about Anything else you might think of for A Real—"Eat-Out"
The J&K SUPER STORES

Hotel Ft. Craig and Coffee Shop
Welcomes you anytime

Congratulations Seniors!
Carl's wishes for your continued success in your chosen field. We will be looking forward to serving those who return in the fall, with smart, stylish young men's and ladies' clothes.
Remember Carl's for your back-to-school wardrobe from nationally advertised lines, both sport and dress.
CARLS
Broadway, Maryville

MARYVILLE CLEANERS
We wish to thank you, the students of Maryville College for your patronage, and we sincerely hope you will have a happy summer

"C" RAY TIPTON
Jeweler
DIAMONDS
ELGIN PRODUCTS
Phone YU 3-2161
Watch Repairing
All Work Guaranteed
In
McArthur's
Maryville, Tenn.

GLAMOR SHOP
118 Broadway
BATHING SUITS
$5.95 up

"COKE" IS A REGISTERED TRADE-MARK. COPYRIGHT © 1956 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.
Prom trotter
She's the queen of the campus, and of course she favors you know what . . . the cold crisp taste of Coca-Cola. She knows that anytime, everywhere, Coke is the real refreshment. We don't say that the secret of her success is Coca-Cola . . . but it helps!
Drink Coca-Cola
BE REALLY REFRESHED . . . HAVE A COKE
Bottled under authority of The Coca-Cola Company by
RODDY MANUFACTURING CO.

STEREO RECORD PLAYERS
As low as $79.95
Magnavox — RCA — Motorola — Zenith —
Philco — Sonic Radios and Record Players
Hitch Radio & T.V.

Class of '59 . . .

(Cont. from Page 1)

Mickey Van Metre will teach art and history in a Charleston, S. C., high school.

Barbara Mueller hopes to attend graduate school, but her plans are uncertain.

Mary Murphey will work in a National Camp this summer and in September will serve as a Director of Christian Education.

Patsy Parks will attend YWCA Professional School in Painesville, Ohio, during July. She hopes to be placed in a YWCA in the Midwest as a teenage director.

Bill Pennock will be teaching Bible school for two weeks and counseling at church camp during the summer. In the fall he will attend McCormick Seminary in Chicago.

Mary Ann Phipps will work at the city swimming pool in Wheeling, W. Va., until August, when she will marry.

Louise Pratt is marrying Jay Bollman, '58, and will live in Santa Ana, California.

Marianne L. Richman will work as a reservationist with the Northeast Airlines in Philadelphia.

Georgene Rohlander plans to teach in an elementary school in Champaign, Illinois.

David Ross's immediate plans are to fulfill his military obligation.

Nancy Stere will ba married to John Ribble, '58, in May and will teach seventh-and eighth-grade English in Harriman, Tennessee.

Bob Stevens will have employment in a church as Director of Young People's Program. In the fall of 1960, he will attend Pitt-Xenia Seminiary in Pittsburgh.

Bob Stoutt will start work with Retail Credit Company in Knoxville.

Suzanne Tourtellotte will perhaps attend YWCA training school and have a staff position with the YWCA.

Joe Tropansky will work for the summer in his Presbytery's summer camp and preaching program. In September he will enter Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh.

Betsy Watson will work as a waitress at Lake Chautauqua in New York during the summer months. In the fall, she will teach fourth grade in Winchester, Kentucky.

Sue Trotter will work in Trotter's Restaurant in Pigeon Forge, Tenn. At Duke University she will begin a dietetic internship in September.

Doris Watt will marry in August and begin teaching home economics at the Bethel Borough Junior High School in Bethel Park, Penn.

Keith Ham will work in Cape May, New Jersey, for the summer months. This fall he will begin work on his doctor's degree in American history.

Robert Higerd plans to work in Beaver, Penn., and to go in to the armed services in September.

Denver Childress will spend nine weeks of basic training with the Tennessee Air National Guard in Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. This fall he plans to teach high school mathematics in the East Tennessee area.

Jack Emery will work in C. I. Dupont and Company in a chemical laboratory and will enter the Duke University Medical School.

Bob Muir plans to work at the Army Ballistic Missles Agency in Huntsville, Alabama, this summer. He will enroll in the University of Tennessee's graduate school this fall.

Ben Gorbea will work as a super-market cashier this summer and will take his family to Pittsburgh, where he will attend Western Theological Seminary.

Bob and Joann Wyman will work this summer. In the fall Bob will enter Princeton Theological Seminary, and Joann will teach second grade in New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Theta Programs

Since the last issue Theta has seen two more programs in its contest. On April 11, an illustrious person visited the meeting. Jan Murray (Peggy Reiter) the famous television quiz master gave away hundreds of dollars worth of valuable prizes. Agnes Gooch, (Doris Watt) a contestant chosen from the audience, won among other things a solid gold pin box. The commercials were presented by Gloria Schwam and Marianne Inglis.

The following week Theta Epsilon broke the world's record for speed. The entire society was transported around the world in the space of twenty minutes. Mary Turner was the stewardess and tour guide. First step was Paris where two little girls, Fifi Moore and Gigi Collins sang several French songs. Hopscotching it over to Hungary, found them in a cozy cafe where the star billing was given to a dancer by the name of Zsa Zsa Lee. Then a quick run to Germany found Fraulein Pat Smith reading several amusing German tales. The last stop was in Spain. Here entertainment was presented by a pretty singing senorita by the name of Lessie Anne Rhodes.

Thus concluded the world tour. This week the program will be provided by the freshman girls who are represented by Rachel Goddard and Faye Shelton.

Brazil Builds New Capital

Roberto Schiller spoke on "Brazilia: The Newest and Most Modern Capital in the World" at Student Volunteers on April 19.

Moving the capital of Brazil to the central plateau has been planned for 300 years. The land is still fertile, waiting for progress. The new capital will solve problems for the civilization of the country: centralization and defense.

The people of the interior of Brazil are naive. To them, the present capital, Rio de Janeiro, is "in the other part of the world." Although many people in all of Brazil except the Amazon Valley are led by Roman Catholic priests, probably the Roman Church doesn't know what is going on in the interior.

With this new interest to draw them together, all Brazilians are interested in the new capital. With modern highways for new communication, and powerful rivers and waterfalls for power, Brazilia is well on its way to carrying out its slogan: "Order and Progress." The great movement into the central plateau may be termed "the Gold Rush of the Twentieth Century"—this time in South America. On April 21, 1960, will be inaugurated "the city that opens its arms to every race and culture."

Pakistani Tells Mid-East Problems

The distinguished speaker at Student Vols on April 26 was Dr. M. A. Q. Dascawie, principal of Gordon College in Pakistan.

Dr. Dascawie presented the present situation in India, Pakistan, and surrounding countries, in the light of past history. He emphasized five important things in the present history of his country; martial law, which will supercede ordinary law by being stronger; improvements in agrarian systems, as to division of land; achieving unity for the nation, which is now divided by theological differences; building up the shattered economy; and settling problems of the educational system, such as whether to teach in Hindu or English.

He added that in the prospectus of Gordon College, the school is declared a Christian institution. Bible is taught on a level of importance with other subjects; if a student objects to taking it he may take ethics instead. Chapel exercises are open.

Besides, A newscarer is published and [illegible] festivals at such Christian seasons as Christmas and Easter, [illegible] there are many opportunities for witnessing.

Plan MC Breakfast At Gen. Assembly

The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will be held in Indianapolis, Indiana, for the week beginning on the Maryville College Commencement Day, May 20.

On Saturday, May 23, the annual Maryville College breakfast will be held for all alumni, directors, students, and parents who may be attending the General Assembly from different parts of the country or who may live in the general vicinity of Indianapolis.

The breakfast will be held at 7:15 a.m. at the Severin Hotel and those who wish to attend should make prior reservations. There will be Maryville College hostesses in the lobby of the auditorium on which those wishing to attend may sign up. Also reservations may be given to [illegible] Maryville College Alumni [illegible].

WSGA Considers Uni[illegible]g With National Women's Group

At a supper meeting held Tuesday evening at Miss Massey's home, the past work of the Women's Student Government was evaluated and plans for the coming year were made. Although WSGA has been organized at Maryville College since 1946, it has been most active and powerful during the last three years. One of the major accomplishments of the group during this time has been the inauguration of the program of senior counselors in the underclass dorms. The girls who have been selected on the basis of their friendliness, attitude, and leadership to serve as counselors next year in Baldwin are Ann Leitch, Helen Martenis, and Peggy Reid

One of the most significant steps forward taken in recent years by WSGA has been the modernized sign-out system which was put into operation last year. And this year, through the joint cooperation of the Town Nighs Committee of Student Council and the WSGA Council, the sign out plan for town nighs was incorporated into the WSGA sign-out system.

Another result of the work of WSGA this year has been the plan for sophomore aides in the freshman dormitory. Approximately 30 girls have been selected to live in Baldwin Hall next year and function in this program.

The WSGA Coordinating Council, which is made up of two representatives from each class, attempted this year to inform the women students of the power and authority which is vested in the group. They are responsible for the general jurisdiction of matters of discipline and have the authority to withdraw privileges for violation of the regulations; they advise the House chairmen in dormitory problems; and they review the exisitng rules for women students each year and suggest changes when necessary.

Since the Maryville College [illegible] is considering the possibility of changing from WSGA to the AWS organization (Associated Women Students), the Council has met several times this year with the AWS Council of the University of Tennessee to receive ideas and comments from them as to the benefits that are received from AWS membership. AWS is the national association of women students and provides to the member colleges the many advantages that union with a national organization gives. The WSGA Council hopes to send a representative to the AWS Regional Convention that will be held next year at the University of Missouri. This observer will then recommend to the group whether or not they should unite with the national association.

In addition to evaluating the work of this year, the Council also formulated plans for the welcome of the new women students next fall. Both the welcoming committee for the freshman dormitory and the WSGA officers will greet the new women students and help them get settled in the dormitory. The WSGA officers are planning to wear next fall outfits of black skirts, white blouses, and red weskits with the WSGA initials on them. This will help the new students recognize the girls who will be able to give them "expert" information.

Pre-Med Closes With Banquet

The Pre-Medical Club culminated its yearly activities at a banquet held at the Simple Simon Resaurant on April 30. President Fred Tepper presided, and the election of 1959-60 officers was held.

Dr. Lawton H. Smith from Oak Ridge spoke and slides were shown on the "Modification of Radiation Injury in Mammals."

The new officers of the club are Bob Freidank, president; John Eaddy, vice president, Louva Lawson, secretary-treasurer.

Students Enjoy Shopping at McARTHUR'S Dept. Store

FRANK G. CLEMENT
President of Vols

CRAWFORD and CALDWELL HARDWARE

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

We appreciate your patronage this past year, and are looking forward to serving you again in the fall.
The Capri

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YUkon 3-4762 Maryville, Tenn.
WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

Christian Book Nook
Bibles — R.S.V., Phillips
Books. Cards.
Gift Items
229 College St., Maryville
YU 3-4982

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONARY •
Cosmetics—Lavin • Rubenstiene • Dorsay • Revelon • Tussy • Cochran and Other Famous Lines
—Prescription Specialist—
CITY DRUG CO.
108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

Daugherty & Waters
GENERAL CONTRACTORS
Knoxville, Tennessee
Builders
Of The
New Women's Dormitory

1959 - 1960

The Highland Echo

Vol. — 45 | Maryville, Tennessee, September 12, 1959 | No. 1

14 Added To Faculty Staff

Fourteen new faculty and staff members have been appointed at Maryville College this year.

Boydson H. Baird, a graduate of M.C. in the class of 1941, will be director of athletics, head football coach, and associate professor of physical education. Mr. Baird did graduate study at Ohio Wesleyann University, and received his master's degree from the University of Indiana. For the past eleven years he has been coaching at Davidson College and at the College of William and Mary.

Mrs. Jessie B. Flynn, of Maryville, will be House Mother at Memorial Hall and assistant in the Office of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women. She attended Carson-Newman College and has held secretarial and bookkeeping positions in Maryville.

Mr. Bob F. Leonard, of Lexington, North Carolina, has been appointed instructor in speech and drama. He will also be Technical Director of the Theatre. He is a graduate of Catawba College and holds a Master's degree from the University of Arkansas. He has recently finished a term of service in the armed forces, prior to which he was an English teacher and director of dramatics in Reeds High School, Reeds, North Carolina.

Miss Carlanna Lindamood, of Bristol, Tennessee, will be instructor in history. She has a bachelor's degree from Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia, and a Master's degree from the University of Tennessee.

Mrs. Martha S. Lindsey, a native of Georgia, now from Townsend, Tennessee, will be the Secretary to Mr. Hampton, the Director of Public Relations. Mrs. Lindsey's husband is now a student at Maryville College.

Robert J. Love, of Walland, has been appointed night watchman. He has previously been on the College Maintenance Crew.

Miss Ann Ruth Myers, of Warren, Ohio, has been appointed instructor of Music in the field of piano. A major in music at the Eastman School of Music, she has a bachelor of Music degree from Eastman, where she also received her Master of Music degree in Music Literature, with a major in piano.

Mrs. Robert N. Navratil of Maryville will rejoin the faculty

(Continued on page four)

Rush Weeks From "Buccaneer Daze" To "Big Town"

From the primitive savagery of a pirate's den to the heart of a sophisticated metropolis seems a difficult transition to make. But to Maryville's freshmen (who are a hardy bunch) and her upperclassmen (who are a determined bunch) it will be as normal as ice cream for dessert.

This week Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon are putting in their bid for new members by presenting their Rush Week entitled "Buccaneer Daze." Wednesday evening brought the startling news that a band of ruthless pirates had invaded the campus.

Fashion Show

Thursday afternoon the freshmen girls were invited to the lobby of the New Dormitory where they learned what every well dressed pirate slave will be wearing in the coming year. The show was the first social event to take place in the New Dormitory and was presented under the auspices of Rich's College Board.

Thursday evening the men treated themselves to some old-fashioned, hand-made ice cream. Immediately following they treated the girls to dormitory serenading. Friday night we discovered just what the pirates had come for. After a diligent and exhaustive search a treasure was turned up in an authentic 100-year-old chest. Having found their long lost treasure the pirates, their slaves and the freshmen celebrated with a water show at the pool and a marshmallow roast on the baseball field.

Much to our surprise on awakening this morning we find that even after discovering their hidden treasure the pirates are still here. No one knows what their are rumors that our girls are to be carried off to the pirate grotto for who knows what.

"Big Town" Week

Next week Kappa Phi and Chi Beta will present their Rush Week on the theme "Big Town." Their plans are well guarded and the only information available is that there will be parades, movies, teas, and shows. Because of the football game Saturday night their show and other features will be moved back one day, the show being on Friday evening.

Workshop To Plan For Future Needs, Report Progress

The second Maryville College Development Workshop will be held on Monday, September 14, at 4:00 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall. The purpose of the Development Workshop is to plan for current needs and report on past progress of the Development Program.

This "Workshop" convenes once a year in the fall. It consists of five fund raising committees: The Alumni Annual Fund Committee, the Capital Gifts Committee, the Church Relations Committee, the Foundations Committee, and the Individual Current Gifts Committee. The administrative officers of the college, the six academic chairmen, the Director of Athletics, the Maryville Associates, and the local members of the Board of Directors will also be in attendance.

President Lloyd will open the annual program with a report on current financial needs and the financial record for the past year.

The five Development Committee's Chairmen will follow with reports of work accomplished by their individual committees in the year past.

Dinner will be served at 6:00 P.M. in Pearsons Dining Hall. The members of the "Workshop" will eat at the same time as the students.

The workshop will conclude with an address delivered by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Professor of English and Chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature.

Election In Brazil Calls President Lloyd To Head World Presbyterian Alliance

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, Maryville College Persident, was this summer elected President of the World Presbyterian Alliance, known also as the World Alliance of Reformed Churches.

The election took place in Sao Paulo, Brazil, on August 6, at the close of the 18th General Council of the Alliance, which had begun two weeks before. The election is for the period extending to the close of the 19th General Council, which will probably be held five years from now, in 1964.

78 Churches Allied

The World Presbyterian Alliance is composed of 78 Presbyterian and Reformed Churches (denominations) in approximately 50 Countries. Ten of these Churches are in North America; and the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., to which Maryville College is related, is one of them.

These Churches are known under different names in different parts of the world. In addition to various Presbyterian bodies there are others under the names of Reformed or United. For example, the Reformed Church in America (Dutch), the United Church of Canada, the Reformierter Bund in Germany, the Church of Scotland, the Reformed Church of Hungary, the United Church of Christ in the Phillippines, and others.

The total constituency of the Alliance is estimated at something over 45 million people.

Meets Regularly

The Alliance meets in General Council ordinarily once in five years. The General Council is a delegated body and the one just held in Brazil registered approximately 400 delegates, fraternal delegates, observers, and accredited visitors from 53 countries of the world. Dr. Lloyd had served as chairman of the Committee on Program and Arrangements for this meeting.

The World Presbyterian Alliance is the oldest of the ecumenical bodies in the world having been founded in London in 1875.

Home In Geneva

The headquarters of the Alliance are Geneva, Switzerland, on the grounds of the World Council of Churches. It has also an historic center known as the Calvin Auditorium, a building of the Middle Ages used by John Clavin and John Knox which has just been restored with funds raised throughout the world. It is located next to the cathedral of St. Pierre on the highest point in Geneva. Dr. Lloyd preached to an English-speaking congregation in the Calvin Auditorium three weeks ago as he was going through Geneva to a meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches.

President and Mrs. Lloyd left Maryville July 15, spent several days in Brranquilla and Bogota, Colombia, and Caracas, Venezuela on the way to Brazil. They were in Sao Paulo, a great industrial center of more than 3½ million people, for about three weeks, then in Rio de Janeiro one week for the centennial celebration of the Presbyterian Churches of Brazil, from there they went by air to Geneva, and then by way of Rome and Athens to the island of Rhodes for a ten-day meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, of which Dr. Lloyd is a member. They returned to Maryville at the end of August by way of London, where they spent a week-end.

YM-YW Presents Worship Workshop

Sunday, September 13, YM and YW will present the Rev. Warren Rutledge in a program on the meaning and function of worship in our time. This program will be presented at 1:30 P.M. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall and will launch the Worship Workshop projected last spring at Y Retreat. It will provide direction for the six programs which will follow, devoted to fostering an encounter of the Christian faith with the present-day culture through new possibilities of worship.

Theology of Jazz

The last two Sundays in September will be devoted to The Theology of Jazz. Campus talent will be used for the first meeting, while a relevant film will be shown the following Sunday.

October will be ushered in with a two-Sunday treatment of the modern drama, featuring panel discussions and spot dramatizations from the play "J.B." by Archibald Macliesh.

Dance in Worship

After a two week interim, allowing for Homecoming week end, Y will resume the series with presentations in the dance (one of the newest — and one of the oldest worship expressions). Probably selections from the Psalms will be chosen for the first dance presentation, and the second presentation will be a kinescope entitled "Crisis of the Soul."

The remainder of the semester's programs will be announced.

Faculty, Staff To Hold Retreat

The second annual Maryville College Faculty and Staff Retreat will be held at Laurel Lake on Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13. The theme for the Retreat will be The Pursuit of Academic Excellence.

The week-end program will be built around the workshop idea, with brief panel discussions followed by small-group work sessions. At the afternoon meeting on Saturday, problems which will be considered include the strengthening of teaching and the improvement of standards of evaluation, the recruitment and retention of superior faculty members, the method of challenging the superior student, etc. Dr. John Dales Buchanan, professor of Bible and Christian Education, will preside.

At the evening session, Milton Smith, vice presdent for development and public relations at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois, will speak on the subject Great Teaching. Raymond I. Brahms, Jr., director of development at Maryville College, will

Chekhov Festival Of Experimentals Opens Playhouse

Beginning soon is the official season of Playhouse. This organization is open to anyone who is willing to work in the theatre, acting or on crews. Experimentals are first this year, the date being tentatively set for October 2nd. Miss Kathleen Craven, director, who has just returned from a year at Yale, plans to present plays from various foreign countries Since 1960 is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Russian Anton Chekhov, Miss Craven plans to present a Chekhov festival, featuring three of his plays for the experimental theatre.

The three major productions are The Matchmaker, by Thornton Wilder, Witness for the Prosecution by Agatha Christie, and The Lark by Jean Anouilh. The fall presentation, The Matchmaker, is a farcical comedy full of slapstick and the usual Wilder philosophy.

This year's officers are president, Ron Randon, vice president, Helen Rankin, secretary, Maryanne Braidwood, and treasurer, Randy Rosensteel.

A new addition this year is technical director and speech teacher, Biff Leonard from North Carolina.

Listen for announcements for tht first meeting of Playhouse which will be soon. The officers are looking forward to another successful year and urge everyone interested to try out or sign up for committees. Come to the theatre for an exciting combination of hard work and fun.

Graphics Exhibit In FAC Gallery

Persons who have been to the Fine Arts Center recently know that there is a graphics exhibit in the gallery. This exhibit, sponsored by the International Graphic Arts Society, Inc., will be up for another week.

The serigraphs on display represent patient workmanship, for the process by which they are created is tedious. The work is a cross section from all over the world.

Future exhibits will be announced in this paper.

Vespers Speaker

The speaker at Vespers on Sunday, September 13, will be Rev. Dr. Paul M. Edris, Pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Daytona Beach, Florida.

Dr. Joseph B. Copeland, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, Tennessee, was the speaker for the first Sunday Vespers on September 6 1959. Dr. Copeland preached on Jesus' question to the disciples while they were fishing, "What have you got?"

The Highland Echo

THE HIGHLAND ECHO, SEPTEMBER 12, 1959

Published bi-monthly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.
The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc. ..... Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tenn. under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Editorial assistants this issue ..... Pat Penland, Betsy Lonsinger, Phyllis Stine
Contributors this issue ..... Pat Baker, Helen Anne Easterly, Mary Anne Braidwood, Sue Fowwell, Howard McCuen, Eleanor Lockwood, David Morris, Ralph Ayers, Bill Green, Butch Christie
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Bonnie Borough

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Faculty Advisor ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Frank Layman

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING -Editor

Of Classes. . .

By now you have your "sea legs," so to speak, and are well enough acclimated to the campus that you can get to and from classes without mishap. But familiarity with your surroundings does not guarantee academic success, you well know. Probably at this point you feel dismembered by classroom assignments, pulled in too many directions at once. But remember, all of your classes compose a larger body of knowledge—and it is up to you to keep it functioning as an entity. Too many of us wear battle scars unhappily earned because we neglected areas of our studies. Don't be guilty of this. In a word — study — now.

. . . and Clubs

You will find in this issue a rundown of most campus organizations. The article is mainly a reiteration of the club information you will find the M Book. We have printed this information because we believe that organizations have a part to play in your college life. They should provide the necessary informal outlet for your interests. But do not let these organizations rule you. Choose one or two that will extend and reinforce your education, and be loyal to them. Remember, however, that studies come first. Let them be the control for your activities.

Person to Person

The world is shrinking—and there is no better evidence of it than the number of foreign students we have on campus. Japan is represented this year, and Thailand, Formosa and Iran. Nearer home we have students from Venezuela and Brazil, from Canada and Mexico. We hope that these students will find their stay here worthwhile. This depends largely on us. Most of us cannot trek halfway around the world to go to school. but we can engage in some valuable ecomenical encounter right here on our campus. We have much to gain from these students' presence. What do we offer them?

When You Speak

In the interest of effective campus communication we invite you to express your opinions and concerns through the Echo. We would ask that what you write be carefully thought through before you submit it and that you will write with the dignity which you would like to be accorded as an individual. The Echo may not always agree with you, but we will defend your right to say what you think.

A Word About Size

Yes, the Echo is smaller this year. We have chosen this tabloid size in hopes of improving the quality of the paper, and we think you will find it easier to handle. As the year progresses the paper wll expand. There will be an insert to take care of our publication needs. Remember, this is your paper, as worn out that may sound, and we want your suggestions and criticism.

EDITOR

Moved and Seconded

BY DAVID MORRIS

Now that the rush of getting settled has passed, perhaps it would be well if we were to think of some areas of individual responsibility where each of us can do our part in establishing a more positive attitude on campus. Among the areas in which we have become lax during the opening days of this semester is dress in the dining hall. There seems to be an influx of the casual dress trend. In some cases it may be getting too casual. I hardly think that we would sit down at our dinner table at home in Bermuda shorts if there were guests present. This is essentially the situation here on campus, which, I am sure, we would like to see remedied.

For the freshmen the opportunity to exercise responsibility is coming with the class elections. In the past we have had exceptionally high percentages in campus elections. This is a credit to Maryville students and indicates a positive outlook on the student's part.

The pattern we set in our college years is the one that will determine our strength as we confront the problems of a challenging world. The beginning of the school year is an ideal time to start, with renewed enthusiasm, to build a more effective relationship both with our fellow students and the administration. Student Council needs responsible, hardworking and active support in order to assume an effective role in college life. If each of us does his part we can look forward to a successful year socially, academically, and spiritually.

Anybody's Freshman by R. E. Ayers

"I thought $75.00 for room and board was kinda cheap!"

"So you're the night watchman!?"

ECHO Introduces

Dear Readers, It is my pleasure to introduce, in the very first issue of this year's Echo, a new friend of mine. I call him "Anybody's Freshman." He represents everything that is typical of college students, especially freshmen. He represents the brain whose insight is phenomenal, and the innocent, whose naivete is equally phenomenal. He does all the things that typical college students do or dream of doing and ht gets caught in equally typical fashion. Any similarity to you or any of your friends, living or dead, is absolutely intentional.

Although this is the first time that he has appeared in print, sufficient interest has been stimulated, that he may soon appear in many other places and forms.

His antics and escapades are sympathetically dedicated to the enjoyment of college students everywhere, especially freshmen —and most particularly to certain people who have given encouragement and inspiration to my efforts in the past.

Sincerely,
R. E. Ayers

An Ovation

Our hat is off to President Lloyd. Once again he has brought honor to our campus because of his distinguished service to the church at large. His world-dimensioned interest should set a pattern for us as students.

Looking At Books

'The Ugly American' Slaps U.S. Policy

By Bill Green

The Ugly American by William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick, Norton Press, New York, 1958, 285 pp. — $3.95.

The United States is upheld to day as the model of democracy in the eyes af the world and in the eyes of too-easily blinded patriotic Americans. Under these circumstances a book such as The Ugly American is bound to arouse mixed feelings. The source of its controversy is its disclosure of U.S. hypocrisy in foreign relations. Lederer and Burdick have boldly related how the nationalism which affords common grounds of communication for the world's people has, in our embassies, become "creeping nationalism." This is the American variety of nationalism that inflicts hero worship of Uncle Sam on native peoples. Definitely an essay of contrasts, The Ugly American succeeds in proving that Americans abroad are like in particular but hated in general.

The Ugly American presents the crass facts about our own diplomacy. The next war, contend the authors, will be fought on the most dangerous and most vulnerable battlefield of all —the minds of men, men who live in countries actively witnessing our foreign policy. Lederer and Burdick have used friction to point out that America is rapidly losing ground to communism in all areas of the world as she continues to ignore actual relations between other common peoples and our self-centered ambassadors. In truth, communism is capitalizing on our folly.

Southeast Asia provides the setting, but the force of the novel leaves the impression that such prostitutions of American foreign policy are not confined to the Far East.

The authors have coupled the most subtle, perfected satire with concentrated use of freedom of speech. The result: a startling, thought-provoking treatise for the modern world. The Ugly American will not be remembered as a book to warm the cockles of the heart or conscience. It will have value only as Americans find with humility and willingness its truth and desire to disprove its accusations.

Scots and Soda

By Pat Penland

Well, summer vacation is over (if you don't know this already you aren't college material and it doesn't make any difference whether you know or not). Classes have begun, and chapel seats—in so far as I have been able to ascertain chapel seats are still in the chapel. Traditions are traditioning in full tradition. And as I have said classes have begun.

And have you noticed how classes have begun? Of course, this depends on whom (Harbrace 5fl) you are as to how they begin for you. If you are an upperclassman, you will probably move from estivation to hibernation to the announcement, "This is an advanced course in _____*" (You fill in the blank). The "advanced" is said in meaningful overtones full of ominous prediction, enough to chll th ehemoglobin, if you allow that sort of advance to get under your skin. Now, if you happen to be a sophomore, the more standard procedure involves the statement, that since you are past your freshman year and have, at last, adjusted and have selected a major (one of the most temporary and eternally changing choices made in college life) you are prepared for the real rigors and specialization required of academic endeavor. Finally, you poor freshmen are told that now you are in college. (This is not to be taken lightly)————remember the closing college door——it could have gotten you).

You may wonder how I am acquainted with the various procedures. It's elementary. I'm enrolled in classes of every classification. ——Yes, nestled in the foothills of the Smokies, surrounded by brick walls, crawled over by cockroaches, swarmed over by yellowjackets, and attempting to see over, under, or around my textbooks in order to see a view of the Smokies in which I am nestled, I ask myself, why I registered for every possible course in every possible field. I don't know what occurred during registration but it would seem every class not conflicting, automatically ended in my schedule. Had there been a class offered in the Advanced biochemistry of the Goober Pea (A course not too relative to an English major) my name would have, no doubt led the roll, (Abou Ben Adhem and myself)

The full impact of my folly struck with brute force on the initial day of classes, as I wandered from building to building and then to Fayerweather. I was assigned three research papers (this was most disconcerting since I had definitely planned to do no research papers this semester because of several—two to be exact—traumatic experiences during my freshmen year) and was asked to read a grand total of parallel reading pages resembling the national debt (I do not have the figures of the national debt at this time, but I do have a few pertinent facts relating to debts in general at the Student Help Office——

Others of you, who were afflicted with catapulting ambition during registration week, may have awakened to the same realization—perhaps in the bookstore as you spent your soap and toothpaste allowance on The Primary and Outstanding Secondary Political Parties of the Ubangies, knowing all the while you could never have that Zest glow from head to toe, nor an invisible shield protecting you from millions of tiny bacteria, much less a Dial feeling.

Sheer will power had kept me from the drop cards (a coward's way out) and common (horse, if you prefer) sense had led me to the decision that I shall cease to attempt to look over, under, or around my books for a view. This view affords only a tree, at any rate. Now tree lovers, do not take offense. I too love trees and this tree is actually a very nice tree; however, trees remind me of Joyce Kilmer and Joyce Kilmer died at an early age in battle. Battles upset me. The whole effect is quite depressing.

* This blank is taken from and is an exact replica of those blanks appearing on registration cards issued from the Personnel Office.

Join The Echo

If you can write, report, type, read copy, do layout, then YOU should work with us. The ECHO needs your talent and your ideas. Listen for an announcement of the first staff meeting, and plan to attend. — ED.

Scots Look Improved; Still Need Practice

There's new spirit on the Scot practice field. As it looks right now, Maryville should field an improved football team.

But, don't expect too much of the Scots this year. They still need to fill a few gaps and they need some experience. The coaches have a lot of work to do with the Highlanders.

The backfield is fast and shifty. Tyson McClanahan, a transfer from East Tennessee State College, can run like a rabbit and is an excellent breakaway runner. Ken Chambers, who starred for the Scots two years ago, has the power to smash the line and the speed to outrun most any man on the field. Quarterback position seems to be a tossup between Jim Renfro and Tally Davis. Both are good ball handlers. If possible, Dan Greaser, our honorable-mention All-American quarterback, may be back at that position for the Scots.

The line is where the Scots need work. There is very little depth and they are small. But they make up for that with their hard charging and blocking. The line is headed so-far by Roger Smithey at center, Mike Talley and Bill Woodby at guards, Joe Stafford and Art Fairchild at tackles, and Frank Griffith and Rufus Bowers at end. Also, Ed Smith will see much action.

The first game of the Scotties' eight game schedule will be with Howard College. There is no doubt that the boys will do everything they can do, but what they are going to need more than anything is a student body backing them all the way.

Beat Howard!!

Grid Predictions This Fall LSU, Browns Favored In

By Butch Christie

College Football

Louisiana State University should be a strong favorite to win the National football crown this year. But they will be pushed hard by Wisconsin, Southern Methodist, Auburn and Texas Christian. Army and Oklahoma could land on the top this year. Probably the National Champions will come from one of those seven squads.

LSU lost only four players from the first three teams last year. They also have Billy Cannon and those defensive giants ,the Chinese Bandits. Wisconsin is loaded with a well-rounded team. In the Southwest, SMU has Don Meredith, probably the best passer in college football today, while TCU sports a strong defensive team.

Besides having an unmistakably great defensive team, Auburn has a speedy backfield. They may be the team to beat this year. Then there are the perennial winners . . . Army and Oklahoma. With Army boasting Bob Anderson at halfback and Bill Carpenter at the Lonesome End they may come out of the season undefeated. Oklahoma is counting on another backfield strong man (Prentice Gautt) to carry them through.

Looking over the pre-season polls and roundups, this is my 1959 prediction:

1. Louisiana State
2. Wisconsin
3. Southern Methodist
4. Auburn
5. Texas Christian
6. Army
7. Oklahoma
8. Iowa
9. North Carolina
10. Air Force
11. Texas
12. Purdue
13. Southern California
14. Clemson
15. Mississippi
16. West Virginia
17. Syracuse
18. Ohio State
19. Navy
20. Penn Statt

Professional Football

In the professional ranks, the Cleveland Browns and the New York Giants should be battling it out for the Eastern Championship while the Chicago Bears and tht Baltimore Colts should be the two top teams in the Western Division. Fullback Jimmy Brown may be the difference to make the Browns the Eastern champs. The Bears seem to have solved their pass receiving problem to put them back on the top berth of the Western Division. But never leave Baltimore out. They are last year's top team and haven't lost a thing.

Here is my prediction for the National Football League:

Eastern Division

1. Cleveland Browns
2. New York Giants
3. Chicago Cardinals
4. Pittsburgh Steelers
5. Washington Redskins
6. Philadelphia Eagles

Western Division

1. Chicago Bears
2. Baltimore Colts
3. Los Angeles Rams
4. San Francisco 49ers
5. Detroit Lions
6. Green Bay Packers

Baseball

In baseball, it seems as though the Chicago White Sox and the San Francisco Giants will be meeting for the World Series. Los Angeles has a good chance of overtaking the Giants while both Milwaukee and Pittsburgh still have cutside chances in the National League. Only Cleveland has a chance of overtaking the White Sox for the American League Pennant but that chance is small.

Football Schedule

Maryville

S. 19 Howard
S. 26 Morehead
O. 3 Centre
O. 10 Georgetown
O. 17 Emory & Henry
O. 24 Sewanee
O. 31 Lenoir Rhyne
O. 31 Carson Newman

University of Tennessee Knoxville, Tenn.

S. 26 Auburn
O. 3 Miss. State
O. 10 Georgia Tech.
O. 17 Alabama
O. 24 Chattanooga
O. 31 North Carolina
N. 7 L.S.U.
N. 14 Mississippi
N. 21 Kentucky
N. 28 Vanderbilt

Faculty Retreat . . .

(Cont. from page 1,

preside.

At the devotional service Sunday morning, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, MC president, will speak. This will be followed by further discussion of the problems involved in the achievement of academic excellence. Dr. Elizabeth H. Jackson, professor of English, will preside.

There will be an orientation meeting for new faculty and staff members followed by a final session which wil lfeature group reports and a general summation by Thomas M. Cragan, assistant professor of sociology.

The committee on the Faculty Retreat consists of Dr. John D. Buchanan, Thomas M. Cragan, Dr. Elizabeth H. Jackson, Mrs. Thelma H. Cramer, Dean Frank D. McClelland, and Dr. Arda S. Walker, chairman.

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONERY •

Stationery 100 Sheets 50 Envelopes 98c

Cosmetics—Lavin. Rubenstiens. Dorsay. Revelon. Tussy. Cochran and Other Famous Lines

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

108 W. Broadway hone YU 2-7162

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

The CAPRI

Welcomes Freshmen and Upper Classmen

For Fine Food and an Enjoyable Atmosphere

Featuring: Real Italian Piz za-Steaks-Chops-Seafood

New Location:

523 W. Broadway Well Worth the Walk Open: 6 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Buy The Best From

Murphy-West Motor Co. Chevrolet Oldsmobile

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

Complete Selection of Batteries For Transitors and Portables

PARK DRUG STORE

CAMERA STORE

SECOND FLOOR

EVERYTHING FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER

106 EAST BROADWAY DIAL YU2-1670

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Religious and Study Materials to fit every student's needs!

Students Always Welcome!

New Faculty . . .

(from page 1, col. 2)

as Special Studies Editorial Supervisor. She will also teach English and serve as clerical assistant in the Library. She is an alumna of Maryville College.

Lynn Early Sexton, of the class of 1956, has been appointed Proctor of Men's Residence and Supervisor of Intramural Athletics for Men. Mr. Sexton is from Friendsville. After being in the military service from 1956 to 1957, he has been a teacher in the Knox County Schools.

Mrs. J. P. Sloan, of Jamestown, Tennessee, will be Periodicals and Reserve Librarian. An alumna of Maryville, she has been for several years a teacher of English town.

at the York Institute in James

Dr. Paul W. Stansbury, a native of Pennsylvania, has been appointed professor of psychology and education. Dr. Stansbury was graduated from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conneticut, and received his Master's degree and his Doctor's degree at Ohio State. He came to Maryville from the University of Toledo in Ohio where he has been since 1927.

Mr. Howard Tomlinson, of Norfolk, Virginia, has been appointed instructor in Health and Physical Education. He was graduated in June from the College of William and Mary where he played football under Boydson H. Baird. Mr. Tomlinson was an All-State Center in high school and made All-Southern Conference at William and Mary.

Robert Ford Triplett, of Chester, South Carolina, will be instructor in Music with special assignment in organ. He has a B.F.A. from the University of Georgia, and the degree of Master of Sacred Music from Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

Miss Elizabeth S. Welsh, a 1959 graduate of Maryville College, will be the assistant in the Alumni office. Miss Welsh is from Kentucky.

MC Clubs Offer Entertainment, Fellowship, Education

Maryville has many organizations and clubs, all of which need new and interested members every year. The following list includes all the organizations except the four societies and the clubs with elected members.

The Y.W.C.A. is one of the largest and most influential organizations on campus. Its underlying purpose is to serve the Christian needs of the women on campus.

The Y.M.C.A. plays an important role on campus by furnishing us with many of the outstanding activities of the year and helping to fulfill the Christian needs of the men on campus.

The Art Club is a friendly informal group of art students who meet once a month for fun and refreshments.

The German Club is composed of those students who are interested in German culture. Members enjoy slides, movies, and German folk songs at the bi-monthly meetings. The advisor is Herr Reber.

The French Club is composed of students studying French and maintaining a set grade standard. Interest is maintained through study of the French people, language, and culture. The advisor is Mademoiselle Wilkinson.

The Spanish Club is composed of students studying Spanish and has the advantage of having several students from Spanish speaking countries as members who provide first hand knowledge of the Spanish language, culture, dances and customs. The advisor is Senor Schwam.

The Pre-Medical Club has a membership made up of those who are science majors or who are interested in science. Meetings feature many interesting outside speakers, panel discussions and short movies which promote interest in scientific knowledge.

The Pre-Ministerial Association is made up of men and women who intend to enter the ministry or some other phase of Christian endeavor. At their bi-monthly meeting they help to plan such activities as the All Campus Prayer Meetings.

Student Volunteers is a group of students interested in missionary work. Such activities as studying the church in the Middle East and Latin American countries is made possible through the use of speakers, slides, panel discussions, and movies. The advisor is Mr. Fisher.

The Music Education Club is affiliated with the Music Educators National Conference. All those interested in Music Education are eligible for membership Studies of the current trend in music education through the use of field trips, movies, outside speakers, and discussions is one of the major goals of the group.

S.N.E.A. or the Student National Education Association is a club open to all those who plan on a teaching career. Organized in 1949, the club is active throughout the year.

The Camera Club spends most of its meeting time in the practice and discussion of photography. In the Bartlett Hall darkroom, they experiment with new methods in the developing and enlarging of pictures taken on field trips. The advisor is Mr. Kinsinger.

The Debate Team is open to anyone who is interested and is operated on a class basis as college credit is given at the end of second semester. Our team participates in many local, regional, and national tournaments. The advisor is Dr. Walker.

The International Relations Club promotes campus interest in current international affairs by sponsoring various student-led discussions and provides an opportunity to meet and get to know people from different countries Other activities include programs and displays of general interest.

IRC Plans Party, Informal Program

Interested in learning how to eat rice with chopsticks or how to do the Mexican hat dance? Then come to the International Relations Club and hear first-hand accounts of life and customs in other countries.

On September 14 from 6:30 to 7:30, I.R.C. will have a get-acquainted party in the Y-rooms. Other plans for the year include exchange programs with other International Relations clubs at the University of Tennessee and Knoxville College, a float for the homecoming parade, and a banquet to be held in December. This year Dr. Arda S. Walker will be the sponsor.

The club includes students from Korea, Mexico, Lebanon, Japan, Brazil, Iran, India, Canada and Venezuela. The purpose of I.R.C. is to help us get acquainted with students from other countries through parties, conversation, and informal programs.

Welcome

to

New and Old Students

from

"The friendly drug store on the corner"

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

Keepsake Diamonds

Welcome Back Students

SPECIAL:

Parker Jotters

FREE 79c REFILL

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

27 W. Broadway Phone: 2-6273

Keepsake Diamonds

Freshmen Sophomores Juniors Seniors

NEW STUDENT, OR OLD, You'll soon learn that Scotties' favorite hang-out at any hour of the day or night is 'THE COFFEE HOUSE"

SCOTTIE FAVORITES

Deluxe Hamburger with French Fries

Chipped Ham Sandwich

Orange, Lemon or Lime Freeze

Golden Brown Pancakes with Maple Syrup and Bacon

The Best Coffee in Town—

Latest Hit Parade Records on the Juke Box—Still 5c

We now feature our own homemade pies.

Orders of $5.00 or more delivered to the dorms at any hour

We Make Our Own HOL'N ONE DONUTS Fresh Daily

GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Broadway at the Bus Terminal YU 2-1541

Dean's List Names 74; Seniors Lead With 33

Seniors led the Dean's List last spring with thirty-three students qualifying. The sophomores and freshman classes had twenty-four students each, while the junior class came last with seventeen junior students.

The breakdown by classes is as follows:

SENIORS

Balph, Esther May 2.7; Bowman, Robert Gray 2.6 Browder, Lyles Mildred 2.37; Brown, Charles Eugene 2.75; Bundy, Mary Faye 3.0, Burnette, John Shirley 2.4; Childress, Denver Ray 2.6; Crouch, Linda Hayes 2.5; Dolch, Thomas Edward; Eldridge, Wesley Clark 3.0; Garcia, Francisco Oscar 2.5; Gogel, Zona Lillian 2.6; Ham, Keith Gordon 3.0; Huffstetler, Wendell Burl 2.25; Kay, William Frederick 2.4; Larsen, Barbara Jean 2.7; Lumley, Sara Elizabeth 2.5; Lurton, Virginia Marian 2.3; Lynch, William Austin 2.27; McCombe, Alice Lynn 2.5; Marshall, Jane Eleanor 2.6; Mueller, Barbara Alice 2.6; Muir, Robert Bruce 2.3; Parkinson, Susan 2.3; Pratt, Louise Maxine 2.4; Robinson, James Perry 2.4; Rupp, Sarah Jane 2.25; Stere, Nancy 2.8; Taubert, Norma Ella 2.4; Tourtellotte, Suzanne Joan 2.5; Wagner, Ruth Ann 2.6; Watt, Doris Ann 2.6; Welsh, Elizabeth Sloane 2.7.

JUNIORS

Braden, Nancy Louise 2.3; Brigham, Vine Bernard 2.29; Cole Elizabeth Ann 2.5; Gabreilan, Leon 2.4; ilmour, John Calvin 2.8; Lee, Rosemary Byrd 2.3; Leitch, Elizabeth Ann 3.0; Llewellyn, John Clark 2.26; McCulley, Patsy Carroll 2.25; Peterson, Janice Lee 2.3; Pierce, David 2.4; Planitzer, Jane 2.6; Rankin, Helen 2.3; Scott, Shirley 2.3; Thomas, Carolyn 2.3; Wagner, Sondra 2.3; Woodby, Billy, 2.3.

SOPHOMORES

Barrett, Rosemary 2.4; Bass, Virginia 2.28; Birch, Bonnie 2.4; Darling, Mary 2.5; Diller, Karl 2.4; Darling, Mary 2.5; Diller, Karl 2.4; Doyscher, David 2.75; Feitler, Fred 2.4; Fieg, Eugene 2.3; Frazier, Pat 2.3; Gass, Carolyn 2.75; Gilmore, David 2.27; Gould, Cheryl 2.3; Harward, Donald 2.4; Ide, Gretchen 2.8; Landis, Gay 2.27; Laubach, Donna 2.4; Lovingood, James 2.3; Messman, Susan 2.4; Pearson, Charles 3.0; Penland, Pat 2.25; Shelley, Sarah 2.8; Smith, Kathy 2.26; Smith, Sara Ra 2.4; Stevenson, Margaret 2.4; Talmage, John E., Jr. 2.3; Tathwell, Sue 2.25.

FRESHMEN

Anderson, Mary Lynn 2.25; Baker, Patricia 2.25; Bondurant, Connie 2.25; Dalton, Brenda 2.5; Donaldson, Raymond 2.5; Evans, Paul 2.27; Ford, Arlene 3.0; Fuhrman, Harriette 2.7; Gray, Glenda 2.94; Harris, Elsie 2.5; Hanks, Arthur 2.25; Jenkins, Larry 2.5; Kinnamon, Rebecca 2.5; Lemme, Sue 3.0; Marshall, Ruth 2.25; Mitchell, John 2.25; Moffett, Blair 2.3; Nakamura, Anne 2.5; Newcomer, Priscilla 2.7; Oxendine, Sue 2.5; Pelkey, Lewis 2.25; Phillips, Richard 2.75; Spencer, Bobbie 2.25; Waddington, Lynn 2.25.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Honor Pearson

Alpha Gamma Sigma Scholarship Honor Society awarded to Charles Patrick Pearson, class of '61, the annual prize, amounting this year to $60. Charles "Pat" Pearson majors in English and has maintained a perfect average throughout his sophomore year. He attended Maryville High School and served overseas in the United States Army prior to his entrance to Maryville college. He will enter seminary upon graduation from college.

The Alpha Gamma Sigma Alumni members provide this fund which is now close to $1400, by individual contributions. The income from this fund constitutes the award.

Each year this award is given to the incoming junior who at the end of the sophomore year has the highest scholarship record in his class and is judged superior in character, citizenship, and leadership. Ruth Morris, class of 58 won the first prize offered by the society. Robert Bowman was given the second such award, and last year's winner was Ann Leitch of this year's graduaitng class.

The Highland Echo

VOL. 45 The Highland Echo, September 26, 1959 NO. 2

MC Development Committees Cite Science Building As Greatest Need

The second meeting of the Development workshop was held last Monday in which the various committee heads submitted their reports. Mr. H. F. Lamon, Jr. heads the committee for the Alumni Annual fund which will contribute $25,000 of the $110,000 for current gifts to subsidize students. $30,000 from the Church Relations Committe headed by Rev. Paul F. Jones and $20,000 from Individual Current Gifts headed by Mr. Raymond I. Brahams will also go for this purpose. To total the amount of $110,000 needed there will be $20,000 from business and industry and $15,000 in miscellaneous amounts. Other committees are Capital Gifts headedby Mr. David Proffit and Foundations headed by Mr. Edwin F. Best.

Dr. Lloyd voices optimism for the future in that the budget is balanced and prospects are excellent.

It was brought out that the most pressing need at the present is for a new science building for which funds are now being sought. The estimated need for this project will be $400,000 for a new building and $100,000 to be used for renovating the old science building. Director of Development, Mr. Raymond I. Brahams says there must be patience and continued planning.

Dr. Hunter concluded the work shop by calling attention to the place of the church related college and its importance to higher education.

Film Series Features 'Great Plays On Film'

Great plays on film will be the theme of the Maryville College Playhouse Film Series this year. Five films are to be presented this year. "The Mikado," by Gilbert and Sullivan is presented by the D'oyley Carte Company, which is a light musical.

"Rasho-Mon," is a Japanese film with English dialogue which won the Academy Award as the best foreign film in 1951. The film is composed of four contradictory tales of crime woven into a single story.

"Valpone," is a French satire derived from a play by Stefan Zueig, performed in New York by the Lunts. It is based on one of Ben Jonson's comedies "Valpone."

A new production of "Romeo and Juliet" comes next from Italy, featuring castles, marketplaces, costumes, and monasteries as they were in the time.

From Sweden comes "Miss Julie," based on Strindberg's psychological drama of passion. Directed by Al Sjoberg, this film won the Grand Prize at the Cannes Film Festival.

"Ruy Blas," a film adopted from a play by Victor Hugo, is a "swashbucklin" and romantic recreation of the intrigue and corruption of 17th century life in Spain.

Season tickets will be available at the price of $1.25 for five films. Admission at each performance will be thirty-five cents. Information about tickets will be announced in chapel.

Schedule for Film Series

October 9—The Mikado
November 7—Rasho-Mon
January 15—Volpone
February 19—Romeo and Juliet
March 11—Miss Julie
April 20—Ruy Blas

Dr. Lloyd To Attend A.C.E. Meet

On Saturday, October 3, President Ralph Waldo Lloyd, Dean Frank D. McClelland, and Mr. Raymond Brahams, Director of Development, will attend the Inauguration of Ralph Wilson Mohney, the new President of Tennessee Wesleyan College.

President Lloyd will also attend the annual meeting of the American Council on Education on October 8 and 9. The meeting will be held this year in Washington, D.C.

MC Enrollment Up

There are currently 727 students enrolled here this semester, hailing from all parts of the United States and from points around the world.

This year's enrollment represents a gain of 27 students over last year's enrollment. Divided according to classes we have in the freshman class 121 men and 161 women; the sophomores number 77 men and 120 women; there are 66 junior men and the same number of women; and the senior class is smallest with 58 men and 56 women. Two special students complete the total.

Tonight Curtain Rises On Last Opera Workshop Performance

Tonight the Maryville College Opera Workshop, under the direction of Mr. Harry H. Harter, will present the second of two performances of two short operas in the College Theatre at 8:00 p.m.

Last night the curtain rose on Alec Wilder's "Sunday Excursion," a light production featuring Elvoa Yohe in the role of Alice and Rosemary Barrett as Veronica. The story is set on a train and takes place somewhere between New York and Connecticut.

The second production is Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Old Maid and the Thief," a grotesque opera in fourteen scenes. Lessie Ann Rhodes portrays Miss Todd, the Old Maid; her gossipy neighbor, Miss Pinkerton is played by Lee Gageby; Donna Laubach plays Miss Todd's housemaid Laetitia; Bob, the thief by Dick Conway; the policeman by Bryant Cureton; and the narration is done by Robb Gwaltney.

Admission to the performance is .$75 for students and faculty and $1.00 for townspeople.

Fulbright Awards

Only a month and a half remains to apply for some 900 Fulbright scholarships for study or research in 28 countries, according to the Institute of International Education. Applications are being accepted until November 1.

Inter-American Cultural Convention awards for study in 17 Latin American countries have the same filing deadline.

Recipients of Fulbright awards for study in Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific area will receive tuition, maintenance and round-trip travel. IACC scholarships cover transportation, tuition, and partial maintenance costs. IIE administers both of these student programs for the U. S. Department of State.

General eligibility requirements for both categories of awards are: 1) U. S. citizbenship at time of application; 2) a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by 1960; a knowledge of the language of the host country; and 4) good health. A demonstrated capacity for independent study and a good academic record are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously lived or studied abroad.

Applicants will be required to submit a plan of proposed study that can be carried out profitably within the year abroad. Successful candidates are required to be affiliated with approved institutions of higher learning abroad.

Students should consult the campus adviser Dean McClelland for information and applications. Others may write to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of Internal Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York, or to any of IIE's regional offices.

Competitions for the 1960-61 academic year close November 1, 1959. Requests for application forms must be postmarked before October 15. Completed applications must be submitted by November 1.

Bishop Ensley To Lead Chapel Oct. 7

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Des Moines, Iowa, will lead the chapel service on October 7. He will be in Maryville to conduct special services at the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Dr. Arthur Miller

The chapel speaker on September 24 was Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Miller, Moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and Pastor of Montview Boulevard Presbyterian Church in Denver, Colorado. Dr. Miller was in Maryville as the guest preacher at the Preaching Mission at New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Paul Floyd Jones

Rev. Paul Floyd Jones, the Pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the Vespers speaker on September 27.

Rev. Warren Edward Haynes

The speaker on September 20 was the Rev. Warren Edward Haynes, the new rector at St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Maryville. Rev. Haynes spoke on the attainment if life through Christianity.

Rev. Frank R. Gordon

On October 4 Rev. Frank R. Gordon, the Pastor of the Shiloh Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the Vespers speaker.

Student Recital To Be Thursday

The first student recital of this school year will be presented Thursday, October 1, at 4:00 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Students performing will be Marguerite Gilly, Paul Evans, Donna Laubach, Rosemary Barrett, Elva Yohe, Herbert Thompson, Lee Gageby. and Charles Justice.

Recitals are usually held on alternate Tuesdays of each month. Future recitals will be announced in this paper.

Y Cabinets To Hold Fall Retreat

The YWCA and YMCA Cabinets of Maryville College will hold their autumn retreat today at the Presbyterian Camp near Walland and Chilhowee Mountain. Leaving from in front of the chapel at about 1:30 this afternoon, the Y Cabinets, headed by Lou Brininger and Ron Hoefer, Presidents, look forward to an afternoon and evening of planning and fellowship. They will return to the campus around nine this evening. Both cabinets are prepared for a session of discussion and mutual idea-exchange which will enrich all phases of their current activities and utilize the resources open to them.

YM and YW will meets as usual tomorrow for the second part of the Theology of Jazz. This week a film by the National Council of Churches featuring Rev. Al Kershaw and jazz musician Dave Brubeck will be shown. The Worship Workshop will continue along the cultural lines announced.

Following the Y Retreat "Y" will be prepared to publish a tentative list of the entire year's programs which will have to do with social concern, world affairs, vocational outlook, and marriage and the family.

The Highland Echo

The Highland Echo, September 26, 1959
Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Pat Penland, Pat Baker
Contributors this issue ..... Pat Baker, Helen Ann Easterley, Maryanne Braidwood, Sue Fowell, Bonnie Burrow, Eleanor Lockwood, David Morris, Fred Kay, Betsy Lonsinger, Butch Christie, Mary McCampbell, Pat Crossley, Kathy Eisenhart.
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Priscilla Newcomer, Ann Mccleod Kathy Eisenhart.

Editorially Speaking

Of Seminars . . .

Far from the Gothic surroundings of Princeton or the scholarly atmosphere of Harvard is an idea that might well have originated there. And this idea is finding fruition here, on our own campus—that idea is the seminar. Springing from a need for spontaneous education, seminars have grown up almost overnight—seminars in biology and social science, in English and in drama.

Unlike clubs, seminars are informal and spontaneous. They are not extra-curricular so much as they are extensions of curriculum, invaluable extensions to deepen our appreciation and awareness.

Of course there is a danger of becoming "seminar-happy" of over-doing the idea. But that is yet afar.

This is a new movement, re-vitalizing movement, an encouraging movement ,and the Echo commends it.

. . . And Stereotypes

If you are a freshman you have doubtless already run into a few academic brick walls. By that I mean you have probably had some old concepts shattered by the force of new knowledge. You may look around you at the wreckage and think that like Humpty Dumpty you "can ne'er put the pieces together again."

But then you shouldn't. This experience should have opened your mind to a whole new world. Don't let fearfulness close it up again.

Lift the Chorus . . .

School spirit is a nebulous thing. It swells and shouts at the slightest provocation—and at the slightest provocation it can slip away. School spirit has returned to our campus with renewed force after a depressing vacation that no one quite understood. But once again it permeates our campus—evident not only on the athletic field but in the classroom and dormitory—it invades conversations and unifies atttudes.

It can be prerserved if we will practice it. It's up to us.

From the Podium . . .

The unusual vocalizing you have heard from the Fine Arts Center since before school started has resulted in another fine presentation of the MC Opra Workshop. The ingredients of such high quality performance are numerous and ofttimes surprising. (Even weight lifting has played its part in the preparations!)

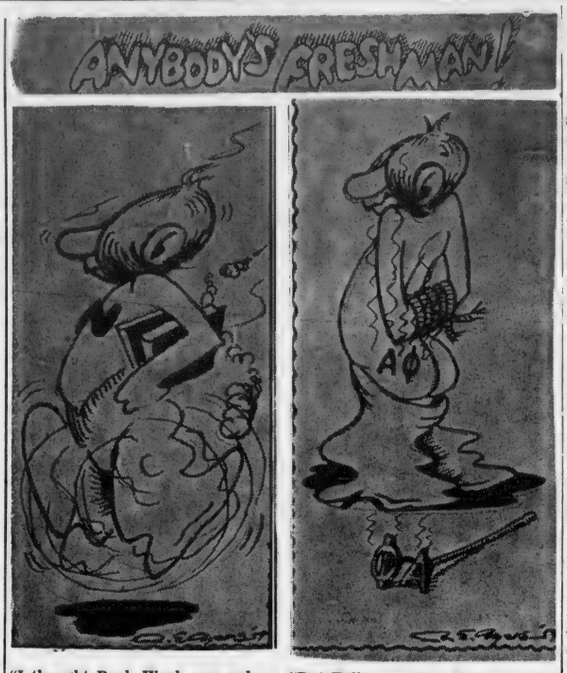
Seldom do we stop to realize the wealth and diversity of cultural opportunity open to us. In fact, there is more than we can take advantage of—there are recitals every week, there are lectures, plays, and concerts. We should approach them with an air of expectancy that their workmanship deserves.

—Editor

Moved and Seconded

During the spring of last year a wave of concern for school spirit swept the campus. Upper classmen complained, and "student apathy" was a phrase heard on every side. As students we lacked energy and concern. Unfortunately this affected various areas of our campus life.

But this is a new school year and has the earmarks of improvement. I feel that last weekend's activities demonstrated Maryville College school spirit as it hasn't been expressed in many a day. The turn out for cheerleader elections, the pre-game pep rally, and the game itself are indicative of our concern for our school and what it stands for. If as a student body we can maintain this enthusiasm and interest and express it in the proper way I am sure that we will make a contribution to our school. A spirited student body is a united student body.



But it is not only in the area of athletics and social life that we ought to be expressing our concern. There are numerous areas of our campus life that merit our attention. It can always be argued that the average student has never been vitally involved in student affairs except on a very few isolated occasions. Our responsibility as individual students consists of three things:

1) Facing the campus as it is and the structure of its courses and activities as they are.

2) Evaluating them in terms of the goals of higher education and the specific purposes of the institution.

3) Developing and inaugurating cooperative action with the faculty and administration to fill gaps, build up weaknesses, and eliminate inadequacies in all areas.

One of the primary sources we have at our disposal in filling our

"I thought Rush Week was only a name!"

"But Fellas, I Don't Want To Join 'Alpha Phi'!"

'ECHO FORUM

To the student body:

CONGRATULATIONS! Your spirit at last week's game was excellent. It was the best display of school spirit I've seen since I've been here. Also—a big hand should be given to the cheerleaders. I'm sure it was their enthusiasm and spirit that aroused such enthusiastic and overwhelming response and school spirit—even in the very last minutes of a game with the score on the wrong side.

Congratulations also should go to the swell job done by the Pep-Committee.

Above all, congratulations to the coaching staff for the wonderful job they have done with the team—both in instilling team spirit and sportsmanship.

So, congratulations to all for a job well done in supporting our team.

But let's not sto pnow—there is always room for improvement—so let's get behind the team even more than we have been.

D.E.B. '60

Looking At Books

No Antidote For Caesar'

Caligula: In Four Plays
by Albert Camus
302 pages—Alfred A. Knopf

Caligula, a mad emperor of the Romans, has been turned into a vehicle for French Rationalism. Camus, in his introduction to the play, maintains that it was not intended to be philosophical. Is it possible that an author's words, in connection with his work may not always be taken at face value? If the play itself is considered, the answer to the above question is yes, for if Caligula is not chiefly concerned with philosophy, then neither is Man and Superman. Camus has his emperor ask, in a round about fashion, what is real in the world? The answer, developed through four arts, is nothing. All is without meaning, and there is no answer to anything.

As the play opens, Caligula tells his steward that his desire is to obtain the impossible—the moon. His companions inform him in the most logical way that such desires are folly, and that one must accept things as they are. Natural law and human nature cannot be changed. Thus, the basic conflict of the play begins in outline. The emperor has subjected all values to the cold eye of reason and has reached the conclusion that purpose and value are unreal, chimerical things—the products of man's thought in an ether-dream existence. Since he alone posses absolute power from the Senate and people of Rome, Caligula alone has the method leading to complete freedom, detachment from a world of illusion. Here is no picture of a mad despot driven insane by the corrupting influences of absolute rule. He is mad only if insanity is a minority of one.

The emperor exercises his freedom by proscribing his wealthier subjects, for his treasurer has informed him that nothing is as important to the state as full coffers. What are lives of men when measured by such an "obvious" truth? Caligula's many and varied crimes are unfolded dramatically. His friends have more to fear than do his enemies. Everyone is guilty of some crime and must pay through forfeiture of life and property to the ruling prince.

Evil, a secondary problem for Caligula is considered both in quantity and in quality. He answers an old comrade's criticism with deceptively simple reasoning. The emperor had deliberately avoided any number of wars during his reign, and he reasoned that the people whom he had murdered were relatively few in number compared to the mass death of the battlefield. To the modern reader who remembers Cracow and Buchenwald, such logic is unanswerable. In this is Caligula's downfall. Since everyone lives in terror of his foibles, all security has vanished, and unrefuted reason has destroyed or shaken the entire system of truth and faith that his subjects had utilized to add purpose to their lives. The emperor is killed by his best friend—not for more obvious crimes committed, but for denying that life had any purpose at all.

From the dramatic point of view, the play retains its artistic merit well. It is neither stilted nor oratorical, and its characters move and speak as men of action, princes, subjects, soldiers and slaves. The dialogue is fast-paced. It has lost little through translation. One might wait a long time before any opportunity to see it performed would arnse, however, as with most plays it should first be read.

Scots And Soda

By Maryanne Braidwood
Primer

Run, Jerry run.

This is for those stalwart souls who are still fighting progressive education.

Alice is a girl
Jerry is a boy.
Alice and Jerry run and play.
Run, Alice, run.
Faster, Alice, faster.
No, Jerry, no.
Alice falls down, down, down.
Alice cries and cries.
Jerry laughs and laughs.

Mother

This is mother.
She is very fat.
She likes to go to the store.
She brings home lots of toys for Alice and Jerry.
Sometimes she does not come home for a long time.
Mother has a big, big shopping bag.
Father says she is klepto.

Father

This is Father.
He is fun.
He stays home and plays every day.
He writes books on the telephone.
Sometimes he plays cops and robbers with real guns.
Now he is very far away.
He is in San Quentin.

Kitty

Alice sees the Kitty
The kitty is very pretty.
It is big and yellow.
Alice pulls the kitty's tail.
Alice laughs and laughs.
The kitty is very angry.
The kitty growls and growls.
Run Alice, run.
Jump Kitty, jump.
Where is Alice?
The kitty chews and chews.

Granny

Granny is very old.
Jerry likes Granny.
She tells funny stories.
She has lots of medicine.
Granny likes medicine.
It makes her tell very funny stories.
Jerry likes medicine, too.
Jerry and Granny laugh and laugh.
Medicine is very funny.

Rush Week Over, MC Societies Plan Active Semester With New Members

Chi Beta Plans Formal Initiation

Tonight at 6:15 in Bartlett Hall. Chi Beta will have formal initiation for all new members of the society. At this time the new Chi Betas will be placed in chapters.

Since returning to school the members of Chi Beta have been busy. Most of their energy was devoted to Rush Week under the direction of chairman Susie Fagan and Judy Perov. One of the important events of Rush Week for Chi Beta was a tea given for the freshmen girls so that they could become better acquainted with the society. Entertainment was supplied by a trio of Arlette Roselli, Rebecca Kinnamon and Cheryl Gould and a pantomime given by Peggy Reiter. The president of the society Helen Rankin told the freshmen the objectives of the society.

Under the leadership of President Helen Rankin, Vice President Helen Martinis, Secretary Kathy Eisenhart, Treasurer Anne Nakamura and Program Chairman Patsy Davis and Arlette Roselli, the society has made plans for the semester. The chapters will take a more active part of the over-all program. Plans for future programs, Homecoming and the fall formal sponsored by Chi Beta and Kappa Phi are underway.

Sigs Will Field Three Intramural Teams

This semester under the leadership of Tom Bass, the Sigs have successfully rushed and initiated a promising crop of freshmen. The initiation which took place yesterday was planned by Hank Andrews and his assistants Charlie Crissman and Norris Shank.

Sig is starting its Intramurals this year with two teams—the Hammers and the Sledgehammers. In their game last week the Hammers (the Sig "little" team) smashed the Sledgehamers by a score of 12-6. Both Hammer touchdowns scored on long passes from Morrison to Shank. The Sledgehammers scored in the fourth quarter on a lengthy pass from Muir to Morris. Future plans include fielding a freshman team.

Sigs' officers this year are:

President, Tom Bass; Vice-President, Bill Owenby; Secretary, Don Harwood; Treasurer, Jim Coup; Program Chairmen Bill Murphy, John Vandenberg.

Kappa Phi Looks Toward Intramurals, Fall Formal

Kappa Phi officers for this year are, Ed Smith, President; George Poland, Vice-President; Lew Pelkey, Secretary; Dave Campbell, Treasurer; Gary Hall, Athletic Chairman; John Mitchell, Program Chairman.

The members of Kappa Phi have in their purpose the desire to cultivate a spirit of fellowship and to encourage initiative among the students of Maryville College. As has been shown in the past few weeks, this is very strong among its members. This enthusiasm has been shown through the working with Chi Beta in the presentation of our 1959 rush week "Big Town".

Intramurals look as if they will be a highlight in our program this year. At present three teams have been entered into the football schedule. They are the Knights (Dave Campbell, capt.), Dukes (Don Buddle, capt.), and the Squires (Bill McClure, capt.).

Future plans for this semester will be centered around the Fall Formal. These plans are incomplete now, but it will not be long before they begin to materialize.

We would like to express our thanks to the "cabbies" for their undemanded cooperation. Congratulations for making it through the day with few flats and plenty of mileage, and we welcome you to our fellowship.

Theta Welcomes All New Members

A cargo of thanks goes to all those Sig and Theta bucanneers who sailed this year's Rush Week to a leeward sccess.

Upperclassmen Go Theta

Melinda Frier, Clara Green, Amal Halaby, Barbara Kroger Mimi Mattes, Jan Peterson, Shirley Scott, Libby Spinning, and Oralea Ziegler have recently joined Theta. Welcome! Theta officers are: Peggy Reid, president; Joyce Morris, vice-president; Faye Shelton, secretary; Nina Jo Tarver, treasurer; Ellie Lockwood, program chairman.

On To Victory, Scots!

Did you hear the enthusaistic cheering at the football game last last Saturday night? We hope so! Sig and Theta will continue cheering the Scotties on to victory. Join us, everyone!

Welcome Aboard Freshmen

You plundered the corsair and found Theta among the spoils, but then you were shackled in ball and chains. Though you were captives in chains, you will be treated as mates. Together, we will loot many more good times.

Theta Announces Formal Initiation

Formal initiation for all pledges to Theta Epsilon will take place in the Chapel Court on Saturday, October 3, at 6:30 p.m. Dark skirts and white blouses are in order.

Attention All Thetas!

Soccer practice has begun. If you are interested in being on the team but have had no previous experience, come out anyway. Your society needs YOU!

We're proud to see so many Sigs and Thetas leading the way in campus-wide activities. Let's keep up the good work!

College Seniors
Enroll in the Marine
Officer Candidate Course
- Be a Marine Officer
- Complete college
- Choose air or ground
- No on-campus training
- Enroll now for more pay

Contact: U.S. Marine Corps Officer Selection Officer

On Campus Soon

THE MARINE CORPS BUILDS PRIDE!

EAT
At The
CAPRI

Civil Service Offers Promising Career

Applications are now being accepted for the 1960 Federal Service Entrance Examination, according to the United States Civil Service Commission. This is the examination, first announced in 1955, through which young people of college caliber may begin a career in the Federal Civil Service in one of some 60 different occupational fields. The jobs to be filled from the FSEE are in various Federal agencies and are located in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States.

The examination is open to college juniors, seniors, and graduates regardless of major study, and to persons who have had equivalent experience. Starting salaries will be either $4,040 or $4,980 a year depending on the ualifications of the candidate. Management Internships will also be filled from this examination with starting salaries of $4,980 and $5,985 a year.

The first written test will be held on October 17 for those who apply by October 1. Five other tests have also been scheduled under this year's examination. Dates are November 14, January 9, February 13, April 9, and May 14.

Acceptance of applications for Management Internships will be closed on January 28. For all other positions, the closing date is April 28, 1960.

Interested persons may obtain further information about the test and how to apply from Civil Service Announcement No. 206 which may be obtained from college placement offices, many post offices throughout the country, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Marine Recruiters To Visit Campus

October 14, 1959 will mark the campus visit of the Marine Corps Officer slection team headed by Captain W. C. Wilson. The team will talk to college men and women about the officer training programs offered by the Marines.

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors in good standing are eligible for the platoon leaders class. Seniors and recent graduates are eligible for the officer candidate course program.

Upon enrollment in either the platoon leaders class or the officer candidate course, each man may choose to train for either a ground or an aviation commission.

BADGETT STORE
WELCOMES
OLD AND NEW STUDENTS
Come in and look around, We have items of interest to all.
109 W. Broadway YU 3-1651

WELCOME BACK TO THE CAMPUS!
We at CARL'S do not know YOUR names but we are sure you will recognize the fine merchandise represented by the names below
1. CATALINA SWEATERS
2. ENRO SHIRTS
3. HAGGAR SLACKS
4. LEVI CONTINENTALS
Stop in and browse around—We are certainly not the biggest store, but CARL'S trys to be the friendliest. — Charge Accounts Invited
CARLS
140 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-3742

WRITER'S CORNER

THREE POEMS

By Helen Ann Easterly

1.

This is an age of wonder—and who dares
Dispute the light of that far stranger sun
Which rises now upon each gilded youth?
It is proud to stand and look upon
The world in our strong hands—and it has now
Our swift, sure minds! Without us it would fall.
Our swift, sure minds! Without us it would fall.
Polishing steel to sun that dims our fears,
We forget to scan the lonely heart.
Will your youth feel regret when your calm eyes
Meet mine at last across the silver years?

2.

Five swift strokes and I had made immortal
The tall, stark pine.
In seven words I made you see
The raven's flight heavenward.
I opened my mouth and sang well;
Lifting my head, I spoke, and the world listened.
I smiled, and the universe smiled back.
(My fingers skipped and a fugue crystalized.
Laying my head in my arms on the keyboard, I wept—)
Happiness comes slowly.

3.

I have forgotten. And if you return
Amid some urchin dream that dares invade
The grey repose I drew about myself,
I steel my heart: and I shall ask—in vain—
That you go back to that far sun that sired you.

Life is not always. I shall yet again
Lie down alone to rest. You will become
The satellite that rose and soared among
The other stars of my wrong universe,
Brighter than they because I made you so.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

In the interest of encouraging more creative expression among members of the student body, the Highland Echo announcs the beginning of a new series entitled the Writer's Corner. The content of this series will consist wholly of original compositions submitted by students and faculty members; and it is hoped that contributions will be of such quanity and quality as to permit appearance of the series in each issue of the Echo. All literary forms will be considered—prose, verse, essay, etc.,—but because of limited space, it is asked that all prose works not exceed 1000 words.

The editor of the series, however, reserves the right to print only those works submitted that he considers worthy of publication. Persons interested in contributing to the success of this series are asked to submit their material in person to the editor of the Highland Echo. All contributions will be carefully considered, and those selected for publication will appear in subsequent issues of the college paper. The editors hope that the student response to this new series will be of sufficient medium for individual creative expression; but also, in an eually important sense, to enrich the intellectual climate of the college in general.

The Turn of The Times 'Merci, M. de Gaulle"

"Merci, M. de Gaulle"

Last week in a radio-television broadcast to the French nation, including Algeria, President de Gaulle brought forth his proposal for the settling of the Algerian crisis. It was upon this issue, it will be remembered, that he returned to power sixteen months ago. Until now, however, he has not been able to effect a solution.

The proposition that President de Gaulle put forth gives the Algerians three choices. They may choose independence, complete freedom from France, although the French would retain control of the rich oil-fields in the Sahara. Or they may choose integration, to remain an integral part of France. Finally, they may choose autonomy. This means, according to de Gaulle, "the government of Algerians by Algerians, backed up by the help of France and in close union with her for economic affairs, education, defense, foreign relations."

This plan would go into effect within four years after peace is restored. M. de Gaulle describes peace as less than two hundred violent deaths in a year (1,613 persons have been killed in the last eight months in Algeria). Thus it will be necessary for responsible persons on both sides to restrain hot-heads and radicals, as well as Communist-planted instigators who do not want to see peace come to Algeria.

Thse Algerian situation has for some time been a thorn in the side of the Western world. It has strained U.S.-French relations, it has hurt the West in the eyes of the Afro-Asian nations, and it has given the Communist bloc an excellent propaganda source. Also, many Americans have had an uneasy feeling about the moral aspects of our sending NATO arms to France, only to see them used against Algerian nationals.

President Eisenhower has strongly commended M. de Gaulle for his forward-looking plan and it seems likely that the Algerians will accept it. This will relieve one source of tension in an already overstrained world. For this we say, "Merci, M. de Gaulle, grand merci."

MC Library Offers Variety Of Services

For all those freshmen who went through their library tour in a daze and all those upperclassmen who walk in the door and automatically reach for the card catalogue, the library would like to point out that it has many important facilities besides required books for outside reading and The Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature.

For instance, there are two bulletin boards, one of which features important news stories of the week, while the other one is based around a different theme each month. The present bulletin board contains a salute to Maryville's football team as well as a display of books on football.

The library also has two other exhibits which change regularly. One of these is the large case immediately inside the door which now features Samuel Johnson, who was born on September 18, 1709. Another table contains a display on Arthur L. Miller, the Moderator of the General Assembly, who spoke at New Providence from September 22-24.

Another facility offered by the library is the new book table. This month there are many interesting new books on anything from rainbows to bullfighting. Near the new book stand is the Browsing Alcove. It contains current and popular fiction and nonfiction books, comfortable chairs, and magazines for those who wish to relax for a few minutes.

The library has a lot more to offer than books. Look around and see.

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

'Madmoiselle' Opens Contest For New College Board

Mademoiselle magazine is now accepting applications from undergraduate women for membership in its 1959-60 College Board.

Mademoiselle's College Board Contest offers a chance (for the freshman as well as the senior) at winning one of the twenty Guest Editorships—a month on the staff of Mademoiselle.

A girl who is accepted on the College Board will do one assignment during the college year designed to help her discover her own abilities and job interests, and to develop her critical and creative talents. For her assignment a College Board member may write a feature about life on her campus; or submit art work, fashion, feature, fiction or promotion ideas for possible use in Mademoiselle.

College Board members who come out among the top twenty on the assignment win a Mademoiselle Guest Editorship and will be brought to New York next June to help write, edit and illustrate the August College issue. They will be paid a regular salary for their month's work, plus round-trip transportation to New York City.

While in New York each Guest Editor interviews a celebrity in her chosen field, visits fashion workrooms, newspaper offices, stores and advertising agencies, besides working daily with the Editor to whom she is assigned.

November 30 is the deadline for applying for College Board membership. Successful candidates will be noitfied of acceptance on the College Board before New Year's.

For further information write the College Board Contest, care Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York, or see the August, September, October or November issue of Mademoiselle.

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

"The friendly drug store on the corner"

SPECIAL

Indoor Pictures without Flashbulbs
with
The New Polaroid 3000 Speed Film

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

MC Loses To Howard, 14-0; Tonight Scots Face Morehead

Sportlights Intramural

By Joe Quinn

Knights, Hammers Score Victories!

Intramural football got under way last week under its new director Mr. Lynn Sexton and under some new rules. The action was more wide open and seemed to all participating to be a much better brand of football.

Knights Down Falcons

The opening day action saw the Kappa Phi Knights down the Falcons, an independent campus team, by the score of 17-6. After a brief exchange, the Knights scored on a pass by Ross McGill to end Campbell. The play covered nearly 40 yards. Minutes later freshman Bill Weissemberger scored a safety for Kappa Phi making the score 9-0 at the quarter. In the second period, the Knights again scored through the air on a pass from McGill to Fred Tepper. After kicking the first extra point, McGill missed his second try and the score read 15-0 at the half. The second half saw the Falcons awaken to the situation somewhat and play the Knights on even terms. After a scoreless third period the Falcons pushed across their line tally just before the quarter's end. Two frosh turned the trick as Kruzman hit Shember for the TD. The point after touchdown failed. In the fourth period, Fred Tepper nailed a Falcon in the end zone for a safety rounding out the scoring in a well played ball game. Final score again, was Kappa Phi Knights 17 and the Falcons 6.

Hammers Upset Sledges

The second day of competition saw a mild upset as the Alpha Sig Hammers upset the Alpha Sigma Sledgehammersr 12-6. The Sledgehammers were favored over the second team. The combination of Fred Morrison and Norris Shanks proved too much for the Sledgehammers as the pair collected touchdowns in both the first and second quarters of the contest. The Sledges relying heavily on Tom Morris were unable to get any offense going at all but finally on a partially deflected pass in the last quarter Morris pulled one in for their lone tally. All extra points failed.

This year new rules and standards have been drawn up but the same old spirit and rugged play prevails. Under its new director Lynn Sexton many assignments have been made and more activities have been scheduled.

In the football league, we have seven teams with the possibility of an eighth team being added.

Schedule

The schedule for the week is as follows:

Monday—Kappa Phi Dukes vs Chinese Bandits
Tuesday—Kappa Phi Knights vs. Kappa Phi Dukes
Wednesday—Falcons vs Alpha Sigma Hammers
Thursday—Alpha Sig Sledgehammers vs. Kappa Phi Frosh
Friday—Alpha Sigma Frosh vs. Chinese Bandits

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

Nation's Gridirons Marked By Upsets

College football got under way this week-end with upsets marking the way. Maryland pulled a big upset by mauling West Virginia by a 27-7 score. Other upsets were Georgia Tech's 14-12 defeat of Kentucky and South Carolina's blasting of Duke 12-7. Clemson pulled a mild upset in defeating North Carolina 20-18. Two big surprises occurred out west as UCLA fought highly touted Purdue to a scoreless tie, and Colorado State downed Dick Bass and company of the College of the Pacific by a 9-6 score. Probably the biggest and most hysterical upset was when unknown Westchester State Teachers College defeated Villanova 13-7. This was the year that Villanova had hoped to hit the big time.

In other games throughout the nation, LSU stomped Rice 26-3, Gorgia downed Alabama 17-3, Florida walked over Tulane by a 30-0 score, and Navy defeated Boston College 24-8. Washington beat Colorado 21-12, while Oregon edged Stanford by a 28-27 score.

MC Opponents Show Up Well

Here are some scores of teams that Maryville is to play. Morehead State (tonight's foe) downed Georgetown (October 10) 15-12. Centre (October 3) defeated Wilmington of Ohio by a 20-7 score. Emory and Henry (October 17) fell to a very strong Appalachian 21-0. Lenoir-Rhyne (October 31) showed their usual power by downing Wofford 15-8. Carson-Newman (November) was outclassed by Western Carolina 44-0.

Chicago Leads Pro Ball

In Pro football, the Chicago Cardinals and the Chicago Bears won the exhibition titles. The Cards took the Eastern Division with a 5-2 record while the Bears topped the Western Division with a 5-1 record. The Bears barely missed going undefeated as Cleveland edged them 33-31 in their last exhibition game. The Green Bay Packers ended a surprising exhibition schedule and with a 4-2 record.

Football Schedule

Army
West Point, N.Y.
S. 26 Boston Col.
O. 3 Illinois
O. 10 Penn State
O. 17 Duke
O. 24 Colo. St. U.
O. 31 Air Force
N. 14 Oklahoma
N. 28 Navy

Navy
Annapolis, Md.
S. 19 Boston Col.
S. 26 Wm. & Mary
O. 3 S.M.U.
O. 10 Syracuse
O. 16 Miami (Fla.)
O. 24 Pennsylvania
O. 31 Notre Dame
N. 7 Maryland
N. 14 Geo. Wash.
N. 28 Army

Vanderbilt
Nashville, Tenn.
S. 26 Georgia
O. 3 Alabama
O. 10 Mississippi
O. 17 Florida
O. 24 Virginia
O. 31 Minnesota
N. 7 Kentucky
N. 14 Tulane
N.21 Florence

Georgia Tech.
Atlanta, Ga.
S. 19 Kentucky
S. 26 S.M.U.
O. 3 Clemson
O. 10 Tennessee
O. 17 Auburn
O. 24 Tulane
O. 31 Duke
N. 7 Notre Dame
N. 14 Alabama
N. 28 Georgia

Florida State
Tallahassee, Fla.
S. 19 Wake Forest
S. 26 Citadel
O. 3 Miami (Fla.)
O. 10 V.P.I.
O. 17 Memphis
O. 24 Richmond
O. 31 Georgia
N. 14 Wm. & Mary
N. 21 Florida
N. 26 Tampa

U. of Florida
Gainesville, Fla.
S. 18 Tulane
S. 26 Miss. State
O. 3 Virginia
O. 10 Rice
O. 17 Vanderbilt
O. 24 L.S.U.
O.31 Auburn
N. 7 Georgia
N. 21 Fla. State
N. 26 Miami (Fla.)

Penn. State U.
Univ. Park, Pa.
S. 19 Missouri
S. 26 V.M.I.
O. 3 Colgate
O. 10 Army
O. 17 Boston U.
O. 24 Illinois
O. 31 W. Virginia
N. 7 Syracuse
N. 14 Holy Cross
N. 21 Pittsburgh

STOP
At The
CAPRI

MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER
OPEN BOWLING 2 P.M.
BOWLING
Open Bowling: Any afternoon and Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday after 8:30 P.M. Student Rates till 5:30
BOWLING
BOWLING

Coach Baird Encouraged By Scots' Performance; Team Is Improved

Howard College of Birmingham, Alabama, defeated Maryville 14-0 in the Scottie's first game of the 1959 season.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs hit the air for a 44 yard touchdown play. Quarterback Joe Milazzo hit end Don Coleman on the Scots 30 yard line with a pass. Coleman immediately lateraled to halfback Buddy Boyeman who raced for the touchdown. This play completed an 80 yard touchdown drive. The kick was blocked in the try for the extra point.

Howard scored their second touchdown in the third quarter. Halfback George Versprille skirted Maryville's left end for a 45 yard touchdown jaunt. This ended a drive that started on their own 35. The attempted pass play for the two points was knocked down.

Howard's final two points came in the fourth when Bobby Jackson blocked a Maryville punt. Rex Fox recovered the ball in the end zone for a safety.

Maryville's big chance came early in the first quarter when the Scots had a first down on the Bulldog's eight yard line, but the Scots were unable to score.

Coach Baird wasn't at all displeased with the Highlander's performance. He was very pleased with their hustle. This week he worked more on tackling and blocking. Baird also worked on some new pass patterns.

It was good to note that Tyson McClannahan, the Scots' speedy halfback, did not have a broken jaw. He was back out for practice on Monday. McClannahan had made many good gains against Howard, including a 35 yard punt return.

John McFadden, fullback, will be out for at least one game with a sprained ankle.

Tonight's game with Morehead State is to be a tough one for the Scotties. Morehead, who defeated Georgetown 15-12 in their first outing, faces Maryville with 18 returnees and 33 of the best freshman the school has ever seen.

Next Saturday the Scots will return home to play the Centre College "Praying Colonels."

PENNEY'S
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY!
MARK III
3-PIECE
Hopsacking
BLAZER SUIT
complete with reversible vest

$35
The fabric! This year's newest fashion look. . . wool hopsacking! The tailoring! Penney perfect! Get all 3-pieces . . . blazer jackets with metal buttons and foulard rayon lining, vest that matches lining or reverses to match the suit. . . plain front pants with back flap-pockets. Get charcoal grey, brown, dark olive. In regulars and longs.

Moved and Seconded

(Continued from Page 2

role as responsible and concerned students is your student council. By attending meetings, through discussion, and individual concern Council will be able to assume its proper role in our campus life. Too often we catch ourselves saying, "Let someone else do it," "I can't do anything about it." Your Council could be and should be the pulse of student opinion and activity. For example, I feel that a great deal of our appreciation for last weekend's activities is creditable to the work of the football team, coaches, and the Pep Committee. The spirit we expressed last weekend could not have existed without the capable interest and work of the individuals who helped create an atmosphere of enthusiasm and vitality.

This is the beginning of the school year and we are off to an energetic start. If every student will do his or her part in maintaining the enthusiasm and interest which we all felt last weekend, we can all look forward to a profitable and successful school year.

Looking at Books

(Continued from Page 2

In summation Caligula is a picture of a mind sick with reason. Caligula could find no purpose, phrase, nostrum or antidote to cure his disease. He could find only death in which he cried, "I still live." Truly, he was a man who, as Will Durant said of Leonardo, "Could see no better fate for love or genius than obscene decomposition, and a little flame flickering out in man's forgetfulness."

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Religious and Study Materials

to fit every student's needs!

to fit every student's needs!

Students Always Welcome!

Oils And Graphics Shown In FAC Gallery

"Small Paintings by Americans," belonging to the IBM Company, is the title of the exhibition currently being shown in the Fine Arts Center Gallery. The paintings in this show range over the past century and display a number of styles and "schools." Spectators have until the end of September to see this exhibition.

On October 1 the second half of the International Graphic Arts Society show will go up. The first half was shown in early September. IGAS follows a program of balanced selections, ranging from realistic and traditional to abstract and expressionist forms. The selections are a fair representation of all styles current in the U.S. and abroad. They are selected according to technical competence and aesthetic expression.

Not only is IGAS responsible for the exhibit being shown here, but it makes possible the low-cost purchase of new works by the world's leading graphic artists. These works are available to members of IGAS. Members pay $10.00 as membership dues, entitling them to one work of Graphic Art and the Bulletin. Membership obligates the purchase of at least three selections in two years. IGAS is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization.

Further information about membership in IGAS can be obtained from Mrs. Beard in the art department.

Ordinarily an art show will remain in the FAC gallery for a month. Following the IGAS exhibit there will be an exhibit of reproductions available for student-faculty rental.

The gallery is open weekdays and evenings until 7:30 p.m. except for Friday and Saturday evenings and all day Sunday.

Societies Compete Through W.A.A.

Chi Beta and Theta Epsilon once again take to the field as the Women's Athletic Association gets underway for another year. For the woman interested in competitive team sports and in individual sports W.A.A. offers a full and varied program. Featured are sports such as soccer, softball, volleyball, basketball and fencing.

During the year two meets will be held in swimming and track. These meets, along with a number of tourneys, will not only provide healthy athletic competition for women but will also bolster society spirit.

Practice times are held on Tuesday and Thursday in the intramural gym from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Each society will practice an hour apiece on those days, but a definite time for practice has not yet been settled.

For women interested in the Women's "M" Club, membership is attained by a point achievement system. These points can be gained through participation in the intramural program. Four hundred points make a woman eligible for membership.

Women's "M" Club members enjoy two overnight hikes during the year. And the three women making the highest number of points over 600 receive a letter and a sweater. Those who earn 400 points receive an MC monogram.

This program is open to all interested women students.

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONERY •

Stationery 100 Sheets 50 Envelopes 98c

Cosmetics—Lavin. Rubenstiens. Dorsay. Revelon. Tussy. Lanvin, Reubenstein, D'Orsay, Revlon

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413 YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

Freshmen Sophomores Juniors Seniors

NEW STUDENT, OR OLD, You'll soon learn that Scotties' favorite hang-out at any hour of the day or night is 'THE COFFEE HOUSE"

SCOTTIE FAVORITES

Deluxe Hamburger with French Fries

Chipped Ham Sandwich

Orange, Lemon or Lime Freeze

Golden Brown Pancakes with Maple Syrup and Bacon

The Best Coffee in Town—

Latest Hit Parade Records on the Juke Box—Still 5c

We now feature our own homemade pies.

Orders of $5.00 or more delivered to the dorms at any hour

We Make Our Own HOL'N ONE DONUTS Fresh Daily

GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Broadway at the Bus Terminal YU 2-1541

MC Alumni Homecoming Promises Full Schedule For Campus Visitors

Arrangements for the annual Alumni Homecoming at Maryville College on Saturday, October 24, are nearing completion, it was announced today by the Alumni Office.

The first event of the Homecoming program will be the Founders' Day Convocation in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at 9:45 a.m. Registration of alumni will take place in the Chapel colonade beginning at 8:30. Mrs. James W. King is chairman of the committee on registration.

The annual alumni luncheon at the Simple Simon Restaurant will be held at 12:30. Alumni are requested to contact the Alumni Office for reservations for the luncheon.

The traditional Homecoming Parade is scheduled for 3:00 p.m. An Open House at the new residence hall for women and at Memorial Hall will be held at 3:30. Memorial was completely remodelled last summer and is now being used as a dormitory for men.

The alumni barbecue at Honaker Field will take place at six o'clock. Ernest B. Lowe is chairman of the committee on arrangements. The day's activities will be concluded at eight o'clock with the annual Homecoming football game.

Sewanee, undefeated last year, will meet the Highlanders. During the half-time program the Homecoming Queen will be crowned by John K. Tope, President of the Maryville College Alumni Association.

New Dorm Adopts Honor System

Last Sunday, October 4, the women of the New Dormitory voted unanimously to accept the honor system. The voting took only a few minutes but the work behind it had taken a considerably longer period of time.

The plan was initiated in the dormitory with House Chairman, Lessie Anne Rhodes and WSGA President Ann Newcomer heading the project. Working closely with Miss Massey, these girls plus a committee of four elected by the women of the dorm worked out a set of rules and principles on which the system is to be based. The committee members, two from each floor are Sue Fowell and Phyllis Hembree, 2nd floor, and Phyllis Stine and Edith Walker, 3rd floor.

One of the first steps was to conduct some research into the question of honor dorms on other campuses. This was done by sending to a number of colleges and universities requesting the equivalent of our "M"-Book. It was found that the honor dormitory is a relatively rare idea. The next big step was the laying out of rules that would apply to the new system. Following the "M"-Book each existing rule was raked over and its value estimated by the committee. After some weeding and revising the new proposed set of rules was taken,

(Continued on page 3)

The Highland Echo

VOL. 45 — The Highland Echo, October 9, 1959 — NO. 3

Writers' Workshop Reconvenes Oct. 5

Writers' Workshop reconvened last Monday, October 5, at 4:30 P. M. in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Dr. Hunter presided over the meeting, at which fifteen members were present.

In an effort to redirect Workshop, the members decided upon a more flexible program than the one followed in the past. The details of the program have been worked out by the Workshop Governing Board, which was elected October 5.

The members elected to Governing Board are Sue Fowell, Steve Mouton, Charlotte Cathey, and Dr. Hunter.

Writers' Workshop is entering its thirty-second year on Maryville campus. It has met weekly for that entire period, and will continue to do so.

Vols To Welcome World Speaker

Mrs. Pat Fenske is visiting the campus to interpret to students the 18th Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission which will bring together 3,000 students from 100 different countries around the world. This conference will be held in Athens, Ohio, from December 27, 1959, to January 2, 1960. She will speak at STUDENT VOLUNTEERS ON SUNDAY AT 8:00 O'CLOCK IN BARTLETT HALL. She is traveling for the Commission on World Mission of the National Student Christian Federation. Mrs. Fenske has just returned to the United States after a hree year term in Hong Kong.

Mrs. Fenske received a B. S. degree in the field of education at the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville. While a student she was active in 4-H, Westminster Foundation for Presbyterian students, Student Christian Councils, and YWCA on local, regional and national levels.

In 1952, Mrs. Fenske was the recipient of a Danforth Graduate Fellowship at the University of Nebraska. The following year she was assistant in campus work at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, and served the Interseminary Movement as editor. Mrs. Fenske and her husband both have received B. D. degrees from Eden Seminary in Webster Groves Missouri.

Mrs. Fenske speaks out of her experience in working with students at Chung Chi College in Hong Kong. Many of the strategic issues facing the Church and the world are focused in this city between two worlds.

Rehearsals Begin For Messiah

The first rehearsal for the 27th annual performance of the Messiah will be held at 7:15 on Monday, October 12, in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

The Messiah chorus will be under the direction of Mr. Harry H. Harter, and the orchestra will be rehearsed by Mr. Bernard Linger. Miss Garnet Manges will be the accompanist.

Those who will perform in the Messiah will include members of the Vesper Choir, Women's Choir, Men's Glee Club, and any others from the faculty, student body, or town who are interested in singing with the chorus.

Band Marches Chris Columbus

The Highlanders Marching Band will base the half-time show for October 10 on the story of Christopher Columbus. The show will feature the percussion section in a drummer's routine, and the majorettes will twirl with fire batons.

On October 17, the band will travel to Bristol, Tennessee, for a parade in the morning, and then will go to Emory and Henry for the afternoon football game.

Annual Y-Hike To Be At Montvale

Next Saturday, October 17, the YWCA will hold its annual Y-Hike. Groups will leave from in front of the chapel on Saturday afternoon by car for Montvale and will return to the campus Sunday morning.

Plans for the overnight hike are in the hands of Peggy Reiter, Social Committee Chairman. Open to all and any students who wish to join in, the hike will also include faculty members.

Barnwarming Cast To Be Selected Next Week

Tryouts for Barnwarming will be the 12th and 13th of October from 7 to 10 P.M. in Bartlett Hall. Barnwarming, completely produced by students, is the annual Thanksgiving production presented by the YMCA and the YWCA to raise money for a specified charity. This year the money is to go toward the Ecumenical Encounters to send delegates to Africa in the summer of 1960.

The committee head for YWCA is Rosemary Lee who wrote the script and is doing the choreography. Ron Randon is the committee chairman for YMCA and will become the co-ordinator for the production. Directing will be done by drama major, Ron Pearson. This year's show will feature original music composed by Bob Richenbach.

Anyone interested, whether in acting or crew work is urged to be at the first meeting, October 12, at 7 P.M. Watch the bulletin boards in your dorms to see when and where scripts will be available.

Miss Myers Will Present First Faculty Concert

Miss Ann Ruth Myers, pianist, will present the first concert in the Maryville College Fine Arts Faculty Concert Series in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center on Thursday evening, October 15, at eight o'clock.

Miss Myers, a new member of the Fine Arts faculty, began piano studies with Isabelle Morris in Warren, Ohio, at the age of eight. At the age of ten she began violin study with Mary Dunn, also of Warren, Ohio. In the summer of 1951 Miss Myers studied piano with Karin Doyas at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

In the summer of 1952 and until his death in December, she studied piano with Beryl Rubinstein at Cleveland Institute of Music, continuing her studies there until May of 1953 with Arthur Loesser. In 1957 Miss Myers received her Bachelor of Music Degree in piano from Eastman School of Music, studying piano from 1953 to May 1955 with George MacNabb, and from 1955 to 1959 with Cecile Genhart. She received her Master's Degree in Music Literature with a major in piano in 1959 from Eastman, having held an assistantship in teaching class piano from 1957-1959.

Russian Plays Are Experimentals

"Broke" by Ivan Turgenev and "Theatre of the Coul" by ——— ——— are the experimental to be presented in the theatre on October 17, at 8 p.m. Bob Bowman and Randy Rosensteel, two members of the directing class of Drama 307, will be directing these one act plays.

The cast of Theatre on the Soul includes Dave Morris as the professor, Steve Mounton as M1, Don White as M2, Alda Cortese as concepts of the wife, and Mary Hope Stewart as concepts of the singer.

"Broke," a comedy in one act, will include Steve Mounton, Paul Elliot, Fred Kren, Mary Ann Kramer, Barbara Cavern, Blair Moffett, and Sarah A. Lewis.

MC Vesper Choir Adds 23 Members

Twenty-three new members have been added to the Vesper Choir this semester. They are Larry Ansley, Susan Bloomer, Zaida Brown, Joy Bucher, Carole Cooper, Richard Freeman, Judy Gano, Mike Garrett, Doris Glenz, Steve Henderson, Joyce Hutchison, Larry Jenkins, Sue Minkes, Richard Norman, Eileen O'Bannon, Lee Odell, David Styles, Bruce Townsend, Janice Walters, Pat Williams, Mike Wilson, Sharon Wylie, Oralea Ziegler.

Three other members who were added last semester are John Breham, Edgar Moros and Virginia Pratt.

The new members of Vesper Choir were initiated on October 6.

Medieval Medicine Lecture Subject Of Dr. MacKinney

Dr. Loren Carey MacKinney, an author and lecturer of national reputation on many aspects of the history of the Middle Ages, will speak on Friday, October 16, at 8 p.m. in the theatre of the Samuel T. Wilson Chapel. The lecture will deal with the history of medical practices in the medieval period in Europe.

His special interest in medieval medical practices has taken the form of a vast collection of medical miniatures from medieval manuscripts. This collection now has mounted to more than 3,000 items. A selection of some eighty-five of these will be sehown here.

Dr. MacKinney now holds the Kenan Distinguished professorship in Medieval History at the University of North Carolina. He has taught at L.S.U., Ohio State, University of California, and University of Coloralo.

His lecture style is said to be not only marked by careful and scholarly treatment but is highly entertaining.

The second lecture of the series will b eby Dr. Frank M. Cross, Jr., of the faculty of Harvard University and the Harvard Divinity School on Friday November 13. This is the lecture that did not happen last spring.

The Lecture Series Committee for this year consists of Bob Conners, Ann Leitch, Janice Peterson, Sue Stewart, David Styles, Professor A. D. Ainsworth, Dr. John Dales Buchanan, Dr. E. R. Hunter, Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, and Mrs. Victor Schoen.

Pi Kappa Delta Initiates Seminar; Students Discuss Laos, 86th Congress

The problem in Laos was discussed by a small nucleus of students interested in world affairs on Tuesday, September 22. This was the first of a series of evening meetings sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta.

This week the record of the 86th Congress was the topic for discussion. Papers were prepared and read by Nancy Jo Martin and Brenda Hewitt.

The seminar meets every other Tuesday evening from 7:00-8:00 p.m.

This Current Problems Seminar has been sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta to help create an interest in national and international affairs. It represents a student effort to broaden the scope of their knowledge.

One would suppose that the seminar was frequented solely by political science majors. To the contrary, it is surprising to note that the great majority of hose participating are not. The scope of major fields represented varies from Greek to chemistry and also includes students whose fields are Christian Education, philosophy, drama, history, English and political science.

In the future the members hope to discuss topics such as: the effects of exchange visits across the Iron Curtain on international affairs; the integration problem, 1959; aparthied in South Africa; and the current

The Highland Echo

October 10, 1959

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants this issue ..... Phyllis Stine, Pat Penland, Pat Baker, Bonnie Burrow, Diane Merritt
Contributors this issue ..... Pat Baker, Pat Penland, Phyllis Stine, Kathy Eisenhart, Maryanne Braidwood, Sue Fowell, Bonnie Burrow, Diane Merritt, Shirley Scott, Betsy Lonsinger, Butch Christie, David Morris Dan Ellis, Joe Quinn, Howard McCuen, Typists ..... Geanne Wilson, Pat Baker, Priscilla Newcomer comer

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor of campus-wide interest will be considered only if signed. Such a letter should be addressed to the Echo Forum, and should show thoughtful, representative criticism or appreciation regarding subjects of general interest. The Editor reserves the right to edit letters for convenience of publication. In certain cases, names may be withheld in publication.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

OF ECUMENISM. . .

It is crucial, and it is creative—it is these things, and we have become a part of it. Three of our classmates and one of our faculty will cease to be simply four people and will become an arm, reaching out to give—and to receive, an arm reaching out from our campus to the "continent of tomorrow"—Africa.

As they teach, we will teach, and as they learn, so will we learn.

It is crucial—it is creative. It is a depth project in world concern. It is a project which requires intensive preparation, and it needs our support.

Read about it, talk about it, consider it. Above all, have confidence in it—for you are a part of it.

. . . AND HONOR

An honor dorm is in effect.

A door is opening now, a door that might not have opened, but it is. The stepping through comes next, the stepping through from yesterday to the now of willingness, of responsibility, and to other waiting doors.

For many of us this opening door is the realization of a hope sustained throughout our college years, a realization and a challenge to make it good for those who follow after.

And for those who will follow, this doorway is a promise and a pattern for an adult response to college living. It is the advent of things yet to be seen.

Other schools have made it work. Will we?

THE DULL ROAR

"On, Highlanders, down the field!" forcefully resounds each week end from the dining hall. And, judging from the subsequent commotion, evidently mealtime and gametime have converged.

Cheering at mealtime provides a stirring prelude to a game, but prolonged cheering usually turns to bedlam. Few of us would tolerate an excessively noisy child in our home, banging on the floor, shouting and disrupting conversation during the meal. Yet we are, in a sense, doing the same thing.

Let's keep on cheering—but let's control it lest we lose our right to cheer at all.

P.S. How abouletting off steam by cheering on the steps before and after meals?

. . . AND THE CHEERING

Three games down—but who's discouraged! Not the team and not the MC fans who have seen them play. Everyone is standing by to watch the battle-worhy Scots regain the field.

Three games down—and we've sustained loss, but not defeat. We have given up some battles, but not the fight.

School spirit still runs high—let's keep it there, and

BEAT GEORGETOWN!

—Editor

Moved and Seconded

MOVED AND SECONDED

By David Morris

The recent elections on campus bring to light an area of concern for every student. The voting percentages were exceptionally low for an election involving three classes. It is a small matter to stop by the election table on your way to or from class and cast your ballot. If we expect to have successful student leadership on campus then we must exercise our right to vote and insure the candidate of our opinion of their qualifications for the various positions.

In the near future we will be electing a Homecoming Queen, the senior class will be voting on Who's Who candidates, and each class will be electing its class sponsod. With voting percentages as low as those evidenced in the last election, we cannot be assured of a representative opinion of the Student Body. In the coming elections councils plea is for 100% student participation.

Another matter which perhaps should be mentioned is that of conduct in the Dining Hall. Certainly we all claim to be mature individuals. However, en masse we occasionally lose our individual dignity and get carried away with the feelings of the group. There should be a certain dignity about a college level group whether in the Dining Hall or out of it. And as often as we complain about responsibility and our limited opportunities to express our maturity and to prove ourselves as responsible

(Continued on page 3)

Four To Represent MC In Operation-Crossroads Africa

By Blair Moffett

No doubt many of you were puzzled by the recent announcement in chapel three students students and one faculty member have been chosen to represent M.C. in Operation—Crossroads Africa. This article is intended to answer your questions about their destination, the sponsoring organization, and the opportunity for you to assume an active role.

There is little history to relate concerning Ecumenical Encounters because it is only one semester old. Its inception was inspired by Dr. James H. Robinson, pastor of the Church of the Master in New York City. Through him, a group of students became enthusiastic over the idea of sending some representatives on a work camp project to Africa.

Upon further organization, which included becoming a committee of the "Y", we decided that we wanted a more lasting purpose. The final decision was to support a work camp project each year, and to send representatives if possible. For this year's project we adopted Operation—Crossroads - Africa. In carrying out our purpose we have had programs and discussions relating to Africa, and we have begun preparations for sending four representaitves on the 1960 work camp.

M.C. will be represented in this project by Miss Emma Curtis, Phyllis Stine, Nancy J. Martin, and Terry Lee Dick. These four have been picked from a group of applicants by a screening board of faculty and student representatives.

Just what is Operation—Crossroads Africa? Several years ago, Dr. Robinson and other leaders recognized the need for personal contact with the people of Africa. To meet this need they organized a work camp project of sixty college students which visited Africa in 1958. These students were so effective in reaching the officials, students, and tribespeople of Africa that plans were begun for a second project for 1960.

This winter the 135 who are chosen will conduct an intensive personal study of Africa and write a research paper based on their findings. On June 15, 1960, all participants will go to a camp in New Hampshire for a week of orientation before flying to Africa.

Once in Africa they will divide into groups of twelve and proceed to various countries of West Africa including Ghana, French Cameroun, Sierra Leone, Nigeria, and others. The project has been divided into three parts. The first will consist of an orientation period with government officials in the capitals. The second will be devoted to building schools, churches, drainage systems, etc. in the rural areas. The third will be used for touring the most interesting and important parts of the country. The group will then return to London for a free week at individual expense and return to New York late in August.

There remains the question, "What can I do now?" Ecumenical Encounters has set a goal of $5000 to finance the delegation from M.C. This sounds like a staggering task and it is. But it can be done. To make it possible, however, we need people to

(Continued on page 5)

Looking At Books

'95 Poems' Provides Occasional Delights

Harcourt, Brace & Company, 1958

His most recent collection of new poems by E. E. Cummings must disappoint his admirers in its unmistakable confirmation of his greatest fault — his failure to grow. Still clinging to his determinedly original style the poet contines to produce poems so marred by typographical distortions that the reader finds it difficult, if not impossible, to grasp any meaning in them at all. Often enough, we find, the ideas contained in these poems are not worth the effort it takes to untangle them.

Yet the book, and the poet, cannot be entirely discredited. Cummings, in spite of his strained unorthodoxy, does occasionally create a poem worth our attefition. Several of the shorter (and less distorted poems reveal the charm and wit which is Cummings at his finest. Lest you become hopelessly irritated at the inanities which make up the greater part of the collection, we call your attention to numbers 28, 53, 64 and 66 — all well constructed, evocative poems that restore one's faith in Cummings' style and ability.

The most powerful revelations of Cummings' merits, however, are his savage satires on current events. In "Thanksgiving (1956)" he describes, with biting sarcasm, the unfunctuous democracy of the United States which nevertheless fails to help the cause of freedom in Hungary, ending with the terribly wonderful stanza,

"so rah-rah-rah democracy
let's all be as thankful as hell and bury the statue of liberty
(because it begins to smell)"

Another of the bright spots in this collection is a refreshingly lyrical poem, already fairly well known, which begins "i am a little church no great cathedral)." In this poem, however, as in most of them, the disarrangements of punctuation, word order and sentence structure detract from the overall effect.

In summary, 95 poems will not greatly enhance the reader's appreciation of Cummings, but its occasional delights are certainly worth an hour or two on a quiet Sunday afternoon.

Scots And Soda

By Pat Penland

Good Evening. In case you are cogitating as to the why of "Good Evening," (assuming you are cogitable), this salutation is employed in the attempt to appear adult. Quite a trend, these days, the attempt to appear adult. Westerns try it, teenagers (more commonlly referred to by college students as the younger one at home who gets and spends more roots of evil than they did) try it. Most everything excluding adults, of course, try it. You are only old once!

Good Evening, again. Have you ever noticed how the alternate greeting of "Good Morning" is never used (sometimes infrequently in daylight savings time zones) except by fables, Kaptain Kangaroo, and French 101. The French, themselves, seem prone to bonjour. (I feel this is due, in part, to environment, linguistically speaking). Of course, there are exceptions that prove the rule. To be quite truthful, I've never understood what the ultimate meaning of this proves to be, but I have the inner sense that it is a safety measure and falls under accident prevention.

In this mature and maturing society, one hears only the phonetically liquid tones of "Good Evening." Even the little "Good Morning" groups are being replaced. Drawing Room comedy, vintage Noel Coward, is the Aesop. Jack Parr becomes the Kaptain Kangaroo and even French 102 uses bon soir.

Have you also noticed (these questions are mere vestiges of the Spanish Inquisition and the Senate floor hearings) there are distinctly morning and evening type people. At this point you technical persons are babbling something bout blood sugar (a sickening combination if I ever heard one) and metabolism. But I always say, and you may always quote me, technical people, like technical words, are too technical.

The fact remains that there are day and night people. Very few people realize this because day and night people rarely meet. You know "Day is day and night is night and never the twain shall meet." (This nearly surpasses blood sugar in a literary way). If you are a day people (perish and forbid) you crawl into your neatly made bed (day people always have made beds) as the night people slither into smoking rooms, bright lights, or dim lights—— there are varieties of night people, but I shan't get too complicated in my first treatise on the subject. However, if you are interested further, you may buy my alligator leatherbound (possibly crocodile leatherbound) book entitled Day and Night People with an introduction written by the eminent, unbiased sociologist, Dr. Knight. Or if by some small chance, you people (either variety) cannot afford the alligator leatherbound (possibly crocodile leather bound) edition, buy the paperback edition also with an introduction written by the eminent unbiased sociologist. Dr. Knight plus artwork.

You will find in this book, providing, of course, you did buy this book, (I rather doubt it will be at the reserve desk) a description of the two types of individuals. It begins thusly: The dayer crawls out of his neatly slept-in bed (the day type person always has a neatly slept-in bed) and begins each cheery day with a cheery song. No black coffee does this one drink—orange juice, (the middle-of-the road dayer will drink Ping or Tang on occasions). He works, actually works, and accomplishes things by 10 a.m. And, futhermore is happy.

A nighter would never naturally be up at this hour, nor would he be naturally happy. Someitmes, however, the natural law is broken. The nighter stumbles from one state of collapse, walks over his bed (not neatly slept in) and guzzles torrents of black (nat brown black, but black, black) coffee. The sight of a day person is extremely detrimental to the system of the night person. The dayer is also pretty adamanly averse to the nighter. (It's just as well they rarely meet, unless of course you are concerned with the excess population).

Toward evening (late evening) the situation reverses. The nighter's eyes brighten (by this I mean open), he stands (he has been slumpingly existing) and takes his place among the fellow soiree, as the day type crawls into his neatly made bed (the day type has a neatly made bed).

If one doesn't know the activities of an individual, one may still determine his type by mere observation. There are little things that are dead giveaways, such as bruises from walking over the bed or casts, perhaps. However, this covers an entirely different field. Buy my book, Day and Night People, Revisited.

S.E.A. Features Speakers, Panel

The second consecutive S.E.A. Workshop was held on October 8 in Thaw Hall. The program was planned and arranged by S.E.A. officers.

The afternoon session featured three speakers: Miss Janice McLean, psychiatric social worker from the Knoxville Mental Health Center, who spoke on "The Emotional Disturbed Child"; Dr. Melton V. Smith, Professor of Education at the University of Tennessee, who spoke on "Modern Methods of Evaluating and Reporting in the Secondary School"; and Dr. Virginia S. Hardie, the Associate Professor of Educational Psychology at the University of Tennessee, who spoke on "The Guidance Program in the Elementary Program and Secondary School."

The evening session presented a panel which discussed "Education in the Post-Sputnik Era." The panel members were: Mr. Bradford, the Editor of the Maryville-Alcoa Times; Charles Trotter, Principal of Fairview School; John Ed Cox, Supervisor of Instruction, State Department of Education; and John Sims, Aviation Educationist of the Southeastern Region of Civil Air Patrol.

Society News

THETA'S CIRCLE EXPANDS

Old Theta members formally received the new members into their circle last Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony held in the Chapel Court.

Humming the Theta Alma Mater and carrying candles, old members formed a circle within the Chapel Court. Secretary Faye Shelton called each new member who, with membership card in one hand and candle in the other, formed a circle within that of the old members. President Peggy Reid spoke on opportunities for active Theta membership. After Joyce Morris had explained the symbolism of the candles, old members lit those held by the new members, and the two circles became one.

Thetas Turn Interior Decorators

A few of our Theta members have turned temporary interior decorators for the Sigs. Under the supervision of Marianne Inglis and Mary James they have covered thirty of the chairs in the Alpha Sig House with navy blue ramona cloth. Thetas interested in helping should see Marianne or Mary.

Victory In Sight!

A volley of Theta cheers goes out to our efficient and peppy gals, for their volleyball victories over Chi Beta. . . scores: 17-15, 15-4, 15-2.

Be In Name Game Oct. 10th.

Do you want to meet some frolicsome people in a frolicsome way? Join in Theta's version of BINGO tonight.

CHI BETA ADDS NEW MEMBERS

The amphitheater of the Fine Arts Center was the scene for the official transformation of fully fledged Chi Betas at their former "statues of liberty" into meeting October 3.

The society was divided into chapters according to letters of the Greek alphabet. Kathy Eisenhart, secretary, announced each chapter chairman and the members of each group. President, Helen Rankin welcomed the new members, and the meeting was closed with a Chi Beta song.

Chi Betas Boost Game Spirit

Several of the freshmen Chi Betas made the "shakers" that were given out before the Centre game. Other projects will be carried out through the various chapters.

Jazz Fling, Fashions And A Hayride Yet To Come

Future programs for the society include a fashion show and a join tmeeting with Kappa Phi for a jazz festival. A Hayride is also planned on the fall agenda.

Hammers Make Good Showing

Athletically, the Sigs had a strong week. The Hammers beating the Kappa Phi Knights 21-0 and the Kappa Phi Squires 41-0, while the Sledgehammers romped over the Pre-Mins and the Kappa Phi Falcons. Outstanding players include Fred Morrison whose long passes to Shippy (Norris) Shanks form the backbone of Hammerahacks, while Bill Hartman thinks nothing of taking his own kick-off to run for a touchdown. Dan Johnson and Fred Fendeisen are becoming famous for their successful short passes. The Sledgehammers also have their share of exceptional players with Dave Muir and Tom Morris on offense assisted by defensive stars Larry Stearns, Robin Ladd and Charlie Crissman.

Sig Redecorates

Work on the redecoration of the Sig House is progressing with Theta girls helping out and promising to keep it clean in exchange for its use once a week. Ralph Ayres is working on wooden scroll letters spelling "Alpha Sigma," to be placed above the doorway of the house.

At last week's business meeting the Sigs planned the semester Spaghetti Supper and discussed a site for the Manning picnic.

Parish News

Miss Idella B. Ferguson is the new Director of Christian Education of the Faith Cooperative Parish for Maryville College.

Previous to coming to Maryville, Miss Ferguson was in Phoenix, Arizona, working in the Indian largesr parish under the Presbyterian Board of National Missions. After graduating from Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Oregon, Miss Ferguson taught school. She has done Christian Education youth work in Alaska and other parts of the country. Maryville is the farthest south she has ever been.

Miss Ferguson has been setting up the parish schedule and planning the overall program which will be in the "Ech" at a later date. Aside from her work directly on campus, Miss Ferguson is also in personal weekly contact with the seven parish churches.

The parish offices is located behind the printing office. A temporary schedule of office hours has been set up by Miss Ferguson in hopes that the students will abide by them.

Student Recital To Be Oct. 13

There will be a student recital on Tuesday, October 13, at 4:30 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Those performing in the recital will be the following: Gail Bradley, Richard Conway, Lynn Mitchell Montgomery, Lessie Ann Rhodes, and Mary Schmidt.

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Religious and Study Materials

to fit every student's needs!

Students Always Welcome!

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

You can find the newest by Speidel in Men's I.D. Bracelets at

BROADWAY JEWELERS

Broadway Phone YU 2-7500

Register now for a FREE girl's Sweater of Your Choice from our entire stock.

This offer for Maryville College Students (both male and female) only. Activity card must be presented to be eligible. Nothing to buy. Drawing to be held Homecoming Oct. 24

At the

GLAMOR SHOP

118 West Broadway

CAPITOL MOTION PICTURES AT THEIR BEST

THEATRE

"Anatomy Of A Murder"

Fri., Sat., Sun., Oct. 9-10-11

Mon., Tue., Wed. Oct. 12-13-14

THE COFFEE HOUSE

—Fast, Efficient Service

—Breakfast Anytime

—We Deliver on Orders of $5.00

Home made Chili and Pies YU 2-1541

Buy The Best From

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO. CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

Best Wishes from HARTMAN'S FLORISTS

Broadway Phone YU 2-5721

GIFTS • CARDS • • STATIONERY •

SPECIAL—

Dorothy Perkins Hand & Body Lotion
Reg. $1.00 Size Now $.50

Desert Flower Hand & Body Lotion
Reg. $2.00 size Now $1.00

—Prescription Specialist—

CITY DRUG CO.

108 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-7162

For A Firm Foundation WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

The Turn of The Times

By Dan Ellis

The Choice: War or Dishonor

When Neville Chamberlain returned from the now infamous talks at Munich in the autumn of 1938, where the free world had said in effect that it was better have peace than to prevent the subjugation of Czechoslovakia, he remarked that there would be "peace in our time." Winston Churchill more accurately observed "France and Britain had to choose between war and dishonor. They chose dishonor. They will have war." As the Nazi storm-troops goose-stepped across the continent during the next six years, the free world noted with horror the effects of their "peace at any price" policy. For not only did the Western world give Hitler a free hand in Czechoslovakia, not only did they give the appearances that they would bow before all of Der Fuhrer's demands in the future, but they also, as Frederick L. Schuman has stated, "surrendered all influence in Eastern Europe," leaving Russia free to build a chain of satellites there.

It was in one of these Eastern European satellites that the Hungarian rebellion took place in the fall of 1956. The citizens of this little nation fought and suffered and died on the supposition that the free world would come to their aid. They made impassioned pleas to the West to help them. The U.S. listened to proposed resolutions condemning the Soviets, the U. S. and other free nations opened their arms to the refugees, but there was not even an attempt at a show of force to discourage the Russians from moving back in and systematically putting down all vestiges of resistence. The democracies of the West stood by and watched the Russian bear crush the life from the Hungarian nation with one mighty sweep of her paw. Once again the free world had been challenged by a despotic power to choose between war and dishonor and had chosen dishonor.

Today in Tibet, Chou En-Lai's army is systematically destroying the life and culture of that ancient state. They have forced the Dalai Llama to flee for his life, they have done away with basic human rights, and according to accusations made before the General Assembly of the U. N., they are attempting to destroy the Tibetans as a people by rendering the women incapable of bearing children and redistributing the men throughout the interior of China.

A motion has been made by Ireland and Thailand that the U.N. discuss the Tibetan situation. Providing that this subject ever reaches the floor of that body, will the peoples of the free world be willing to take strong enough action to cause Communist China to cease this crime against humanity, or will we once again verbally chastise the offender and allow her to persue her goals without interruption? Will we ,if forced once more to choose between war or dishonor, choose the latter and answer in the affirmative Patrick Henry's famous question, "Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?" The choice is ours.

PARKS BELK Invites You To

Visit their completely remodeled Shoe department for outstanding quality and values.

"Home of Better Values"

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

Wealth Of Work In Parish Areas

Next week Maryville College students will begin another year of work and worship with the Faith Cooperative Parish as they initiate their weekday programs at Sunnybrook and Home Avenue Chapels. Under the auspices of the YWCA and YMCA on campus, these programs consist of craft in struction and recreation within a Christian Education curricula for the children of the area two afternoons a week.

The Home Avenue and Sunnybrook sections of Maryville are strategic areas of concern for both the college and Maryville churches united in the Faith Cooperative Parish. Here, where material resources are few and poverty has gained a strong hold, the Christian student seeking some vital field in which to "love his neighbor as himself" has through past years found a wealth of work to be done. The sections are as rich in potential as they are crowded with children and young people. Parish seeks to utilize that potential to its greatest extent within the range of materials and facilities.

This year leadership of the Faith Cooperative Parish will again be under the capable hands of Dr. Alfred Cropp, a veteran in the field. Closely allied with Dr. Cropp is Miss Margaret Ferguson, a newcomer to the campus, already affectionately known to many students as "Fergy", who is Parish Director of Christian Education.

Moved and Seconded . . .

and mature students. Student Council would appreciate your concern in this area of campus life.

Student Council will meet again this Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the "Y" rooms. All council meetings are open to the general Student Body. We cordially invite you to attend and express your opinions on the various items discussed. Y'all come!

NEW DORM . . .

along with the honor code, to the Dean's office for her approval. Meanwhile, at house meetings, the women discussed the value of the system, the philosophy behind it, and the practicability of it. Then last Sunday when the approved rules and code were presented at the house meeting it was given unanimous approval.

The philosophy behind the honor dormitory system is basically that each junior or senior woman is a mature person. As such it is assumed that she is capable of regulating her own behavior without outside surveillance. Recognizing this the honor system gives each woman a chance to prove her maturity by placing this responsibility on her. This responsibility involves obeying the rules set up with the understanding that she will report herself to the Honor Council when she violates them, and that she will report violations made by other girls in the dorm if they fail to do so.

The rules are not in final form for publication, but the code reads as follows: "I, ... do promise and am on my honor to abide by all rules and procedures pertaining to the Dormitory Honor Code. I do also promise to take the extra responsibilities that this code places upon me." It is necessary that every girl fully understand the code before it is signed.

WRITERS' CORNER

WHERE THE SUN?

Where winter trees cast a shadow
Lies the darkness, ice and snow.
Where sunshine draws a window
Spring begins to grow.

With moving sun the moving shadow
Covers the sun blest spot,
And sun lies now where darkness was.
Is sorrow real or not?

—Bonnie Burrow

THE ORGAN TUNERS

Far, in vast, suspended space
Together they create
With clear and sterile tones. . .
Masters of the single sound.
Here is no Bach to swell the heart,
Only monowinds of lonely pipes
That echo and cry softly
Through unmitigated emptiness.
In solitude their work is done. . .

Now waits the whirring silence
To be filled
By other knowing artist hands.

—Maryanne Braidwood

FRAGILE THINGS

My world is built on fragile things:
A spider web, a piece of sky,
Soft sliding sand, an iris bud,
Blue robin's egg, a butterfly,
The rosy-goldness of sun,
Pale mist, the wings of birds that fly,
A four-leaf clover, drop of dew,
Love, happiness, a baby's sigh.
My world is built on fragile things—
And fragile things are soon to die.

—Patricia Baker

REPLY TO FRAGILE THINGS

Thy world is built on fragile things,
But fragile things will always be:
Thee crushed a robin's egg and cried
But there's another thee can't see.

That sky took our breath away
Will never be the same again,
The tender words scratched in the bank
Will wash away tonight with rain.

But would there ever be a rainbow
Without the death of baby blue?
A fern is killed in giving birth,
But look—a baby bathed in dew.
The love thee gave to one for keeps
Is lost, but more will come at dawn,
If thee will let the memory grow
From pain to beauty, slowly on.

No, fragile things will always be
If thee won't so much love the one
That blindness at its death will hide
The brillance of the next day's sun.

—Lynn Waddington

RECORDS

Complete selection of Hi-Fi STERO Records—
All speeds available

HITCH RADIO and T.V.

Record Department

COLD OUT? WET MAYBE!

Then let us at the CAPRI deliver your orders.
$4.00 or more delivered free.

YU 2-9920

Thick Malts — Pizza — Hamburgers

Four To Represent . . .

make speeches, write letters, and make personal contacts. We need devoted workers who will dedicate themselves to the work of extending the hand of fellowship to people everywhere.

Africa is growing fast. Nationalism is spreading. Soon Africa will throw off the cloak of her traditional darkness and become a world power. How she will use her power is tremendously important to the world. Projects such as Operation—Crossroads Africa will be important influences in the decisions of the future.

Faculty Club

At the October 5 meeting of the Faculty Club, three members of the Maryville College staff were welcomed into the Twenty-Five Year Club. These persons include Miss Viola Lightfoot, registrar; Miss Margaret S. Ware, dietitian; and Robert Tom Hutsell, assistant in the maintenance department. They began their service to the college in 1934.

Tau Kappa Chi

Tau Kappa Chi elected Rosemary Barrett and Bryant Cureton as new members on October 2. Membership is based on scholarship and performance.

The new officers which were elected are: Gail Bradley, president; Edith Walker, secretary; Mary Schmidt, treasurer; and Miss Davies, sponsor.

Marine Recruiters To Visit Campus October 14

The Marine Corps Officer Selection Team headed by Captain W. C. Wilson will visit the campus of Maryville College on October 14. While on campus the team will talk to college men and women about the officer training programs offered by the Marine Corps.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in good standing are eligible for the platoon leaders class. PLC prepares a man for a Marine commission by two summer training camps, each six weeks, during the regular summer vacations from school.

During the school year, there are no classes or drills to interfere with study or activities. Both camps are held at Quantico, Va. ,and candidates are paid at camp and receive first-class transportation to and from Quantico.

PLC candidates are draft deferred through school. Upon graduation, they are commissioned second lieutenants.

Seniors and recent graduates are eligible for the officer candidate course program, which is a direct assignment from civilian life to a ten week course as an officer candidate.

Completion of this course, also held at Quantico, Va., means a Marine commission. Upon enrollment in either the platoon leaders class or the officer candidate course, each man may choose to train for either a ground or an aviation commission.

When he graduates and is commissioned, his chosen field is the one in which he will assume duties as a Marine officer.

Newly commissioned aviation officers begin flight training at Pensacola, Fla., while those commissioned in the ground components report immediately to Quantico for duty.

Scots Lose To Morehead And Centre

The Maryville Scottles dropped their second and third games of the season to Morehead State Teachers College and Centre College.

Up in Kentucky the powerful Morehead Eagles gave the Highlanders a sound thrashing by a 53-0 score. The Eagles, sporting 33 scholarship boys including one all-American high school quarterback) and 18 returning lettermen, wore down the Scots with a barrage of players. The first teams were almost even but Morehead's depth made the difference.

Morehead's Jim Hastings led their scoring barrage with 17 points. He scored two TD's from three and seven yards out and kicked five extra points. Buford Crager scored 12 points on a 35 yard plunge. Buddy Fields, Tom Sims, Wesley Worley, Paul West each added six points on runs of 35, 3, 25, and 3 yards respectively.

Tyson McClanahan of Maryville was the Scot's outstanding runner. McClanahan carried the ball five times for 23 yards. End Bill Owenby pulled in three passes to pick up 60 yards. Quarterback Talley Davis completed five out of ten passes for 67 yards.

Last Saturday night the Highlanders fell to the Centre College Praying Colonels by a 23-6 score. For the first time in the season the Scots were able to move the ball well. That is, until they neared the Centre goal line. Then they bogged down. Not until the fourth quarter were the Highlanders able to score.

Centre struck back fast early in the game as they marched for touchdowns the second third time they got the ball. For the Colonels first TD quarterback Kern Alexander went around their right end on a keep play for 17 yards to end a 56 yard scoring drive. Fullback Ray Kaelin ran for the two point conversion. Later in the first period Alexander hit Kaelin on a pass for a 50 yard scoring play. For the two points Alexander passed to end Mark Davy.

In the fourth quarter Talley Davis, Clarence Story and McClanahan plunged the final four yards for the TD. A pass attempt for the extra point failed.

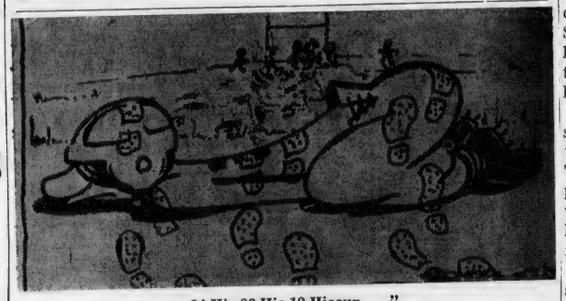
But Centre bounced back for a final score as Alexander intercepted a Maryville pass on the Scot 16 yard line. Four plays later Kaelin plowed over from the one foot line. Alexander kicked the extra point.

In the Centre game Maryville showed much improvement over their encounter with Morehead. The ends showed special improvement. Overall the tackling was much harder and the Scot line opened up many good holes for their backs.

McClanahan was again the outstanding back gaining 56 yards in 10 carries. But he had to share the rushing honors with four other backs. Ken Chambers picked up 29 yards in four carries, Rex Fox got 25 yards in four carries, Clarence Story moved the ball 27 yards in 3 runs and Eddie Vananda ran twice for 20 yards.

Maryville	0	0	0	0	0	0
Morehead	14	13	7	19	53

Surprise Athlete Revealed At MC



Two weeks ago, on the afternoon of Monday, September 21, students who passed by the Memorial Court witnessed a hard-fought tennis match. On one side, they recognized Tom Eberhard, the number one man on last year's tennis team. And opposing him was a surprise performer — Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

When approached, Eberhard exclaimed, "Surprise, my eye! I knew what I was getting into!" The onlookers wondered what he meant; then, as the two earnestly fought for points, they realized. The bespectacled President of Maryville College was running Eberhard hard with slicing shots and a twisting serve that Eberhard often failed to return.

Last year's tennis star won, but it was a pyrrhic victory as shown by his exhausted state when the two shook hands.

Dr. Lloyd was on the varsity tennis team while he was a Maryville College student (his classmates called him "Rabbi"). And he has not lost his ability. He and Eberhard teamed up on doubles on Wednesday of the same week, to defeat two aspiring members of this year's tennis team by the score of 6-0, 6-1.

Look for more tennis from Dr. Lloyd during good weather in weeks to come. Eberhard says he is ready, too (he regained some of his weight he lost that afternoon).

34-Hic-23-Hic-12-Hiccup. . ."

Highlanders Work Together, Show Promise For Future

The Maryville Highlanders lost their first three football games, but in doing so showed great promise for the future. Instead of falling apart, they have worked closer together. They block, tackle, and run like a new team. And they haven't gone unnoticed. The NCAA predicts that they should break even in games in the 1960 season. The NCAA also has two players (halfback Tyson McClanahan and center Roger Smithey) on their Little All-American check list for this year.

The Centre game brought the Scot Individual Statistics up. Here are the leaders in each field.

RUSHING

Player	Carries	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave.	TD's
McClanahan	23	110	7	103	4.5	1
Chambers	14	53	10	43	3.1	0
Fox	12	40	1	39	3.3	0
Vananda	5	24	1	23	4.6	0
Storey	4	35	0	35	8.8	0

PASSING

Player	Attempted	Completed	Gained	Intercepted
Renfro	24	7	77	1
Davis	22	7	105	5
Mobbs	3	1	8	0

TOTAL OFFENSE

Player	Carries	Net Rusihng	Net Passing	Net Gained	Ave.
McClanahan	24	103	0	103	4.3
Renfro	41	-11	77	66	1.4
Davis	32	-21	105	84	2.6
Chambers	16	43	0	43	2.7
Fox	12	39	0	23	3.8
Vananda	6	23	0	23	3.8
Storey	4	35	0	35	8.8

PASS RECEIVING

Player	Caught	Yards Gained	TD's.
Owenby	6	71	0
Bowers	3	31	0
McClanahan	2	31	0

PUNTING

Player	Number	Yards	Average	Blocked
Chambers	13	409	31.5	1
Owenby	2	73	36.5	0

PUNT RETURNS

Player	Number	Yards	Average
McClanahan	4	82	20.5
Vanada	2	26	13.0

KICK-OFF RETURNS

Player	Number	Yards	Average
McClanahan	4	86	21.5
Fox	3	60	20.0
Storey	2	52	26.0

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:30 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

INTRAMURAL CORNER

By Joe Quinn

The intramural football season has been rolling along for nearly a month and a good race has developed. At the present time the Chinese Bandits are setting the pace with three victories and no loses. They acquired this position by overpowering the previously unbeaten Alpha Sig Hammers 31-7. The Bandits were led by quarterback Baird who figured in all their scoring. He ran over two touchdowns and passed to Hamilton for a pair and also Crisp. Heatherly kicked one extra point to round out their scoring. Fred Morrison ran for a thirty yard TD just before the final gun. Morrison then passed to Johnson for the extra point. Final score again Chinese Bandits 31 and the Hammers 7.

The Kappa Phi Knights played two games last week, winning one and losing one. On Monday they were shut-out by the Hammers 13-6. Fred Morrison figured in all the scoring by hitting Reading for a TD and Shanks also. Later he ran over a TD himself and hit Reading for two extra points to round out the scoring. On Thursday the Knights whipped the Kappa Phi Squires 30-0. Ross McGill passed for four touchdowns. He hit Campbell, Mitchell, Christie and Campbell a second time. Campbell and White were on the receiving ends of the extra points. Don White scored a safety to round out the scoring.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Alpha Sig Sledgehammers crushed the Falcons 47-0. Kehoe, Morris, Muir, Stearns, Edgar and Ed Milam figured in the Sledges scoring. John Edgar and Dave Muir intercepted Falcon passes for TDs. All extra points were run over except John Edgar's placement in the final period. Sledges 47—Falcons 0.

Standings as of the week beginning October 5th.

Chinese Bandits	3-0
Kappa Phi Knights	3-1
Alpha Sig Hammers	3-1
Alpha Sig Sledges	2-1
Kappa Phi Dukes	0-2
Kappa Phi Squires	0-3
Falcons	0-3

Keepsake Diamonds
We Specialize In
EXPERT WATCH REPAIR
MARYVILLE JEWELERS
27 W. Broadway Phone: 2-6273
Keepsake Diamonds

DRESS RIGHT!
THE SHOE BOX
The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

220 Employed By Student Help

Miss Miles, secretary of Student Help for Maryville College, announced that there are 220 students employed in the program this fall.

The students are employed in various types of work which include assistants in the Book Store, laboratories, library and athletics; grading for teachers; waiting tables in dining hall; cleaning in dormitories and class rooms; hostess in the Student Center; clerk in Y Store; clerical work, both typing and non-typing; modeling for art classes and ringing the bells.

The pay rate to the students of these jobs ranges from a minimum of forty cents per hour to a maximum of seventy-five cents per hour.

The college has a Rotating Loan Fund in order that the students may borrow money to help finance their way through college. This fall 185 students are borrowing from this fund a total of $47,832.

This Is
Send
ECHO
Subscription
to Family
and Friends
Week

Bogged
Down — — —

Can't Write — — —

Send
the ECHO★

* People Appreciate
It

FELLOWSHIPS NOW AVAILABLE FOR GRADUATE STUDY

Washington, D. C.— The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has again been called upon to advise the National Science Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation's program of graduate and postdoctoral fellowships. The Foundation plans to award approximately 1,100 graduate and 125 postdoctoral fellowships in these two programs during the 1960-61 academic year.

Committees of outstanding scientists appointed by the Academy-Research Council will evaluate applications of all candidates; final selection will be made by the Foundation and awards announced on March 15, 1960.

Open only to citizens of the United States and awarded solely on the basis of ability, the fellowships may be applied to advanced study in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, and engineering sciences, including anthropology, psychology (excluding clinical psychology), and the following social sciences: geography, mathematical economics, econometrics, demography, information and communication theory, experimental and quantitative sociology and the history and philosophy of science. They are open to college seniors, grraduate and postdoctoral students, and other individuals with equivalent training and experience.

All applicants for graduate predortorail awards will be required to take an examination designed to test scientic aptitude and achievement. This examination, administered by the Educational Testing Service, will be given on January 16, 1960, at designated centers throughout the United States and certain foreign countries.

The annual stipends for graduate Fellows are as follows: $1800 for the first year; $2000 for the intermediate year; and $2200 for the terminal year. The annual stipend for postdoctoral Fellows is $4500. Limited allowances will also be provided to apply toward tuition, laboratory fees, and travel.

Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington 25, D. C. The deadline for the receipt of applications for regular postdoctoral fellowships is December 22, 1959, and for graduate fellowships, January 1, 1960.

Poetry Contest Announced

The NATIONAL POETRY ASSOCIATION announces its ANNUAL COMPETITION.

The closing date for the submission of manuscripts by College Students is NOVEMBER FIFTH.

ANY STUDENT attending either junior or senior college is eligible to submit his verse. There is no limitation as to form or theme. Shorter works are preferred by the Board of Judges, because of space limitations.

Each poem must be TYPED or PRINTED on a separate sheet, and must bear the NAME and HOME ADDRESS of the student, as well as the name of the COLLEGE attended.

College Teachers' National Anthology

Teachers and Librarians are invited to submit poetry mss. for consideration for possible inclusion in the ANNUAL NATIONAL TEACHERS ANTHOLOGY.

The closing date for the submission of mss. by College Teachers and Librarians is JANUARY FIRST.

There are NO FEES OR CHARGES for acceptance or submission of verse. All work will be judged on merit alone.

MANUSCRIPTS should be sent to the OFFICES OF THE ASSOCIATION, NATIONAL POETRY ASSOCIATION, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles 34, California.

Miss Wiley Visits High Schools In East

Miss Ann Wiley, Admissions Counselor for Maryville College, left early this week on a speaking tour of high schools in Florida, North Carolina, Washington, D.C., New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Maryville College students may find their alma maters on Miss Wiley's itinerary. In North Carolina Miss Wiley will visit high schools in Brenard, Forest City, Marion, Brexel, Lenoir, and Hudson.

While in New Jersey she will speak in high schools in Montclair, Nutley, Bloomfield, Belleville, Irvington, South Orange, Verona, Paterson (Eastside High), Passaic, Clifton, Hawthorne, Fair Lawn, Ridgewood, Kearny, North Arlington, and Hackensack.

Monday, October 19 will find Miss Wiley in Florida, talking to students in the high schools of Sarasota, Bradenton, St. Petersburg (Northeast High), Largo, and Claerwater.

Returning to New Jersey October 26, she will visit Summit, Madison, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Plainfield, Butler, Pompton Lakes, Thomas Jefferson High School, Battin, Abraham Clark High School, Johnson Regional High School, Linden, Woodbridge, Princeton, Somerville, Ewing Township, Trenton (Central High), Hamilton, Collinswood, Audibia, Haddonfield, Atlantic City, Pleasantville and Ocean City.

During November and December Miss Wiley will visit high schools in Pennsylvania and Washington. Maryville students are requested to stop by the PR Office to leave the name of any student he or she knows in any of the high schools mentioned. Miss Wiley will make personal contact with these students.

Proffitt's Salutes Maryville College With Display

Beginning Wednesday, October 14, Proffitt's Department Store will honor Maryville College. The occasion is the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of Proffitt's, started in 1919, and the 140th Anniversary of Maryville, founded in 1819.

Six aspects of Maryville College will be depicted in the store's windows. The theme will be "140 Years of Achievement in Higher Education, through. . . Academic Excellence . . Religious Emphasis . . . Meaningful Activities . . . Distinguished Alumni . . . Community Service." Ralph Ayers, Maryville senior, is working with Proffitt's on this display.

Last year this public salute was directed toward community news service. Each year Proffitt's renders this service to some aspect of the community.

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Proffitt's

40th Anniversary Sale

OCT. 15th, 16th, 17th

MEN'S $45.00 to $55.00
SUITS $33.00

MEN'S Orlon & Quilted Lined $15.95 Values
JACKETS $7.99

MEN'S Values to 4.98 (2 for 5.75)
SPORT SHIRTS $2.99

MENS UMBRELLAS
$4.50 Values $2.99

These are just a few of numerous SALE SAVING ITEMS—

SHOP PROFFITT'S THESE 3 BIG DAYS

PROFFITT'S—STREET FLOOR

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 | The Highland Echo, October 24, 1959 | NO. 4

The three lovely seniors pictured above will compose the 1959 Homecoming Court. Reigning at the game tonight will be Queen Lessie Ann Rhodes, center, and her attendants, Gail Bradley, left, and Peggy Reid, right.

Lessie Rhodes Reigns at MC As Scots Meet Sewanee Tonight

Reigning over the Homecoming festivities this week end will be Queen Lessie Ann Rhodes, a senior voice major, of Louisville, Kentucky. Peggy Reid of Worcester, Mass., and Gail Bradley of Maryville, have been chosen as the Queen's attendants.

The 27th Homecoming week end began officially this morning with the Founder's Day Service in the chapel. Following this service the annual alumni luncheon will be held at 12:30 at the Simple Simon restaurant.

This afternoon, at 3:00, returning alumni, townspeople and students will witness the Homecoming parade. The kilted Highlander Marching Band will lead the parade, which will feature floats sponsored by the dormitories, clubs and societies carrying out a Disneyland motif.

Open house will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 in the New Women's Dormitory and in Memorial Hall, which has been completely remodelled. Dean Massey is in charge of open house to which all friends of the college are invited. Residents of the dormitories will serve as guides for the visitors.

The Queen and her attendants will be guests at the alumni barbecue tonight. This event is scheduled for 6:30 on the baseball field.

At 8:00 on Honaker Field Coach Boydson Baird's Maryville Scotties will meet the powerful Tigers of the University of the South. The half-time show will begin with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and the presentation of trophies for the best Homecoming float.

Especially featured in the half time show will be the Highlander Marching Band, carrying out a Halloween theme. Trumpeters Herb Thompson, Tod Jablonski, and Larry Jenkins will play a "special," "Bugler's Holiday."

Following the football game a dance will be held in the Alumni Gym. The Women's "M" Club will sponsor this final event of Homecoming 1959.

MC-Community Concert To Be November 6

The first program of the season to be presented by the College-Community Orchestra will include "A Manx Overture," by Haydn Wood, "Symphony No. 5" in B Flat Major, by Franz Schubert, "John Jacob Niles Suite," by Weldon Hart, and "Three Dances from Henry VIII," by Edward German.

The "John Jacob Niles Suite" is a contemporary number based on various folk songs collected by the folk singer, John Jacob Niles, and will be of interest to all. The program is approximately one hour in length, and begins at 8:00 P.M. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Personnel of the orchestra includes students, faculty, and townspeople:

Flutes

Violins

Katherine Crews, Doris Linger, Bryant Cureton, Ann Myers, John Graulich, Charles Moffett, Margaret Stevenson, Rita Maritn.

Violas

Dorothea Saint, Laine Rowe Warden, Kay Hultuist.

Nancy Stere Ribble, Judy Hirst, Eugenia Miller, Lee Armentrout.

Oboes

Barbara Klepfer

Clarinet

Jackie Hunt

Horns

Herbert Thompson, Ronald Noble, Dolores Kimber, Marilyn Hunt.

Trumpets

Tod Jablonski, Larry Jenkins, Anna Baker.

Trombones

William Roberts, Perry Tooker

Tuba

Dan Park

Timpani

Bud Weinrich

Percussion

Joy Pearson, Larry Hutzly

Piano

Rosemary Barrett

New Faces To Be In Matchmaker

Many new faces will be seen on the theatre stage on November 28 and 29 when the Maryville College Playhouse opens its 1959-1960 season with Thornton Wilder's farce, The Matchmaker, The Matchmaker requires four 1890 sets which are being designed and built by Mr. Bob Leonard.

The play is a revision of Wilder's play The Merchant of Yonkers, and was first performed the Broadway stage as The Matchmaker in 1955, when it had a long and successful run.

Rehearsals are now in progress under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven with the following cast:

Horace Vandergelder — Bob Bowman; Ambrose Kemper — Larry Bush; Joe Scanlon — Ron Randon; Gertrude — Ann Harrison; Cornelius Hackle — Norris Shank; Ermengarde — Judy Cole; Malachi Stack — Blair Moffitt; Mrs. Levi — Sara Smith; Barnaby Tucker — Paul Elliot; Mrs. Molloy — Jeanette Payne; Minnie Fay — Nancy Slack; A Cabman — Larry Stearns; August — Randy Rosensteel; Miss Flora Van Huysen — Ann Lewis; Her Cook — Nancy Kinsman.

Due to the Founders' Day Convocation October 24 at 9:45 a.m., a revised class schedule will be followed. The schedule will be as follows:

A	8:00 - 8:40
B	8:50 - 9:30
Chapel	9:40 - 10:40
C	10:50 - 11:30
D	11:40 - 12:20

Vesper Speaker

VESPER SPEAKER

Speaker at the Chapel Vesper Service tomorrow night at 7:00 p.m. will be the Reverend Warren Rutledge, assistant pastor at New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Artist Series Opens With Symphony

Thursday, October 29, will be the first presentation of the Maryville College-Community Artist Series. Featured in this first performance is the Atlanta Symphony with Lillian Kallir as piano soloist.

The Atlanta Symphony, under the leadership of Henry Sopkin, has grown in fifteen years from an amateur organization of high school musicians to a fully professional, 80-member orchestra, ranked among the twenty-five day. The Atlanta Symphony performs not only in Atlanta but in concert centers of the seven Southeastern states.

(Continued on page 6)

MC Directors Hold Fall Meeting

The Board of Directors of Maryville College met on the campus yesterday, October 23, for their annual fall meeting. There are two meetings each year, the spring meeting being held in the early part of May.

The Board of Directors is composed of thirty-six persons and is the controlling body of the College. The present membership of the board represents twelve states and the District of Columbia. Eleven of the directors, including Dr. Joe C. Gamble, chairman; Dr. Joseph J. Copeland, vice chairman; and President Ralph W. Lloyd live in Maryville and Knoxville.

At its meeting the board received reports from the president, the treasurer, the officers and faculty, and committees of the Directors, and made various plans for the future.

Faculty Club Meets

The November meeting of the Faculty Club will be held Tuesday, November 2, at 7:30 p.m. in Pearsons Hall. Dr. Don B. Williams, biology teacher, will read a paper entitled, "Radiation Biology."

Jones Speaker At Founders Day Convocation Today

This year marks the 140th anniversary of Maryville College. It is the 27th year that we have had an observance of Founders Day.

Principal speaker at the Founders Day Convocation this morning was Warren F. Jones of Union University, Jackson, Tennessee. Chairman of the Committee on Standards and Reports of the Commission on College and Universities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Mr. Jones is a member of the Executive Committee of the Southern Association, which is the accrediting body for colleges, universities, and high schools for the area extending from Virginia to Florida and Texas. His address was entitled "Standards of Excellence for Colleges of Arts and Sciences."

There was also a brief address by the president of the Alumni Association, John K. Tope of Birmingham, Alabama, assistant sales manager in the Southeast for Republic Steel Company.

Other participants in the program were Dr. Joe C. Gamble, chairman of the Board of Directors; President Ralph W. Lloyd; and Reverend Dr. Joseph J. Copeland of Knoxville, Vice Chairman of the Board.

The choir sang two anthems, "Alleluia," by Randall Thompson, and "Pslamus 134" by Jan P. Sweelinck.

Adding to the halftime festivities this evening on Honaker Field, will be trumpeters Larry Jenkins, Herb Thompson, and Tod Jablonski. The outstanding trio will render their version of Bugler's Holiday.

The Highland Echo

October 10, 1959

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Phyllis Stine, Diane Merritt
Contributors ..... Howard McCuen, Dan Ellis, Pat Baker, Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Maryanne Braidwood, David Morris, Kathy Eisenhart, Dr. Donald B. Williams, Sondra Wagner, Sue Fowell, Butch Christie, Joe Quinn, Rosemary Lee, Bonnie Burrow
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Welcome Home . . .

Welcome back, Alumni—

You will find your alma mater ready to make this your best Homecoming yet. After you have revived memories with your old classmates and instructors, come see what is new.

Following the parade at three, the new dormitory will welcome you to open house. And be sure to see the game tonight when an eager team of Scotties meets Sewanee—this time to win.

You'll be proud of the Highlander Marching Band at half-time, too, as Queen Lessie Rhodes is crowned. And don't miss the dance after the game.

Have a wonderful time—We are glad you could come.

Of Atmosphere . . .

Iowans will tell you what deep pleasure it is to gaze across the broad back of the land when the corn is at its peak. Kansans know such pleasure, too, when the wheat stands tall for harvest.

Further north, in the flat dairy country of Minnesota and Wisconsin, the people point with pride to sleek cattle and gleaming dairy barns.

Astride the Middle West these states have made a vast contribution to the nation's health. And now strong indications are that, through no fault of their own, they may be imperiling that same health.

An invisible agent, "Strontium 90," is the culprit. What it is and what it does are discussed in the article by Dr. Donald Williams. We should all be concerned enough to read this article, for it deals with what easily could become a most prominent modern dilemna.

The implications are many scientific, sociological, political and religious. Will we react responsibly?

. . . And Enlightenment

At long last—light is falling into the dark places of Southern government. Inevitability has dispersed the make believe world of "separate-but-equal" that has occupied our legislative voice too long.

We predict no miracles, but now, perhaps, the Southern governor will speak more meaningfully to the world. And perhaps he can help free the South from the stigma that bespeaks lethargic narrow mindedness or la- -ocked proclamations—so detrimental in the past.

For details of this Southern awakening see Dan Ellis' byline 'The Turn of the Times' in this issue.

. . . And A Second Wind

Hard as it is to realize, the semester is already past the midpoint. In our first eagerness to become "well-rounded" we have likely rolled right past the halfway mark without stopping to check our direction.

It has been said that the "well-rounded" person, like a ball, rolls in any direction in which he or she is pushed. And this is probably true for many of us as we roll in accumulative circles of "things to do" without stopping to analyze why.

Before we gain too much momentum, let's slow down to evaluate. If the student recoils from the results of hasty "joining" or from too many-promises-made-too-soon—all of which impedes studies —that student needs to shift direction.

Let's be well-rounded individuals in the best sense of the word —gaining direction not from a random push, but from academic purpose.

Moved And Seconded

By David Morris

The other day a classmate of mine made the following statement. "It's good to have something to do with this place." Although this remark was made in a particular contest, it might well be the goal for everyone of us, "to have something to do with this place." Thus far this year many persons have expressed just such a desire. Students are visiting Student Council meetings, school spirit is improved over past years, and there is evidence of student concern in many areas of our campus life. Such facts evidence a mature and sincere concern for the purposes of Maryville College. With such an atmosphere, a student becomes aware of his individual responsibility to the unity of the whole.

Student Council supplies one opportunity for the interested student to become acquainted with the needs and the benefits of the Student Body as an integral part of this college. We need to realize our place in the goals of higher education. We can do this by using the means made available to us within the structure of our college.

By "having something to do with this place," each of us can contribute, and receive, a great deal. The approach we have toward campus problems greatly affects the solution we arrive at. Our attitude and approach largely determine the receptiveness of student ideas in the eyes of the administration. By taking an active interest as individuals the group as a whole benefits. Through student government we exercise our concern and our responsibility for our college.

We must respectfully interpret to the administration the needs of this generation of students. Through mutual and cooperative concern the status quo will improve. If we are to improve individually and collectively in regards to our effective contribution to this college, then we ought "to have something to do with this place."

Student government offers one avenue of opportunity available to us. Let's support it and use it to our advantage.

"You didn't happen to see a large wagon covered with crepe paper and pretty girls and with 'M.C. Homecoming' written on the side . . . did you?"

BEAT SEWANEE

What About Strontium 90?

The recent testing of nuclear weapons has released into the atmosphere a variety of radioactive particles including strontium 90, strontium 89, cesium 137, iodine 131, barium 140, carbon 14 and to a lesser degree tritium (radioactive hydrogen), and others. Only a small percentage of these particles, which eventully fall to the earth, find their way into human tissue. Experimental studies of the effects of ionizing radiation on plants and animals indicate, however, that even the smallest doses have a harmful effect, either to the individual or its offspring.

Strontium 90 has come into particular interest for we have found that the human body does not distinguish between calcium and strontium, thus incorporating this radioactive material into the bones an dteeth through normal growth processes. A disturbing report indicates that the radioactive material instead of being uniformly distributed can become highly concentrated in particular regions of the bones of mice and rabbits. In such concentrations the isotope can cause injury even though the body may be considered to contain an overall dose that is harmless.

Strontium 90 liberates radiation which causes injury to living tissue due to its ionizing action. Living tissue is adapted to a slow evolution of energy which is regulated through the process of respiration (internal oxidation) and this energy is then used to perform the various living functions. The exposure of cells to these relatively enormous bursts of energy released by radioactive material causes violent disturbances in the cell through activation of the atoms and molecules which compose the cell protoplasm. These are changed into electrically charged particles (ions and free radicles) which in turn react with other molecules (particularly water) to produce poisons such as hydrogen peroxide. The chemistry of radiation injury is not fully known, but it is believed to be a complicated process which when acting in a living system may take years, a lifetime, or in the case of genetic damage, centuries to be realized.

Certain bones of the body, such as the long bone of the thigh, possess in their marrow blood-forming cells. These actively replicating cells are much more sensitive to radiation than the more stable cells of the brain. It has been demonstrated experimentally that strontium 90 can induce leukemia by damaging the blood manufacturing tissue. Radiation causes bone cancer in mice, monkeys and other experimental animals, but at much higher doses than those to which we are exposed by local and world-wide fallout. On the basis of such studies responsible agencies have suggested a maximum permissible dose for man of 100 units of strontium 90. (One unit is equal to one million-millionth of the amount of radiation liberated by a gram of radium.) Recently another group has suggested that 67 rather than 100 units be considered a more accurate measure of permissible dose.

How many units of strontium 90 has an "average" person accumulated? A difference of interpretation of data exists. One source claims U.S. inhabitants on the average have received five units, whereas inhabitants of some eastern countries may have received at least twice that dose. Also they claim that in certain areas called "hot-spots" the exposure may be much higher. Based on this reasoning each U. S. resident will have been exposed to 48 units of strontium 90

(Continued on page 4)

Looking at Books - - - Agee Triumphs

A Review of "A Death In The Family," by James Agee.

by Helen Ann Easterly

James Agee, a native of Knoxville, died in May, 1955, just three years before his novel A Death in the Family was published winning the Pulitzer prize.

The editors who organized the material he left for this book did no rewriting. Agee had worked on the book for years; the part which serves as a prologue appeared as an essay in The Partisan Review in 1946. (The American composer Samuel Barber used this essay and its title for his work, "Knoxville: Summer 1915," for soprano and orchestra.)

The prologue and two other parts whose purpose is not certain to the editors are long melodies woven of words into a symphony of all the things that make up a little boy's universe. These parts are inserted one before each of the three parts of the basic story. Like the story itself, they are written with powerful introspection.

One night Jay Follet was killed in an automobile accident on a dark road near Knoxville. The effects, direct and indirect, of his death on the world of his son are the theme of the novel. It is drawn from the author's own experience. It reveals carefully the strengths and weaknesses of adults through the eyes of a perceptive, sensitive child, with a strange, detached subjectivity toward these components of his very existence.

The book is young and wise and vital. This is accomplished not through insight, but through experience; not with intuition, but with emotion. Every moment is crystallized and memorable. Some of the moments are simultaneously humorous and pathetic, as when Rufus decides that if his father is dead and his mother living, he is at least half an orphan. And he and his sister together are, thus, a whole orphan. He will not mention this fact unless someone accuses him of not being a "norphan," in which case he

(Continued on page 4)

SCOTS AND SODA

Quiet Things To Do In A Dull Class

By Judy Godfrey

1. Take apart and reassemble your watch.
2. Practice wiggling toes—they can become as dexterous as the fingers.
3. Create excuses to
   - Parents—for grades
   - Special Studies advisor—for S.S.
   - Miss Lightfoot—for cuts
   - Proffitt's—for that bill
   - The Housemother—for anything
4. Estimate cubic area of the class room.
5. Practice rolling cigarettes.
6. Make up limericks
7. Count and name the bones of your body.
8. Compute air pressure in the room.
9. Compound average height and weight of everyone in the class.

   Compute volume of air displacement of everyone in the class on clear days, rainy days, cold days, etc.
10. Imitate professor's facial expressions.
11. Think up rumors to start on campus.
12. Take your pulse.
13. Pretend you are an octopus.
14. Recall jokes for a pleasant expression.
15. Picture yourself on the Gobi Desert.
16. Picture yourself on Fire Island.
17. Think of the contrast.
18. Caricature everyone in the class.
19. Start a chain letter.
20. Draw a map of your home town.

WRITERS' CORNER

Excerpts from DWANDA SISILINA

By Rosemary Lee

A NEW FRIEND WHO WEARS COLORS AND DOES—OTHER THINGS

I did not have anything to do so I went outside. I went for a walk across the lots only getting caught once on a pricker bush. It was a kind of day that was too quiet for me. Not even the frogs in Michelson's fishpond were garumping. The stone I was wrecking my shoe on rolled down a little hill and I couldn't find it which made me mad because I had been rubbing it up all day on my jeans.

Then I fell over Dwanda and did that surprise me because what stupid girl do you find sitting in the middle of the old gravel road behind Michelson's place? I couldn't say anything because there she was, Dwanda Sisilina, and doing the stupidest thing. She had my red wagon there and she was filling it up with the prettiest gravel stones I ever saw. And I started to help her fill the red wagon.

And she said that she had been waiting for me there for a long time—while I was getting ready to find nothing to do and come outside, while I chased the stone. And all this was funny because I had never seen Dwanda before in all my life.

She said, "Duard, we are going to have some good times". And I can see what she meant because that afternoon got to be more fun and I was late to dinner because I had so much to do. And the day wasn't quiet at all and the frogs in Mickelson's fishpond were garumping all over the place.

DWANDA AND THE TREE

As usual Dwanda and I were blasting "Alley Cat" in the backyard. The animals were being particularly difficult but that didn't stop us, not Dwanda Sisilina, not me. Just then a black cat slawed its way up the tree and could not get down.

Dwanda Sisilina said, "Duard, go up there and get that black cat."

I said, "I'll not."

She said, "You better!"

I said, "Dwanda, you are a rat. I'll never!"

She said, "Okay! I'll race you up the tree." And we did that, but that rat Dwanda skipped four branches and beat me. After she threw the cat down, we sat there about eight feet above the ground swinging feet.

Then Mom called me for supper so I climbed down very quick because all that playing made me hungry, not including the peanut butter sandwich. Stupid Dwanda sat up there still hanging her feet. Then her mother called and she still sat there.

I said, "Dwanda Sisilina, get down here." I said that because no girl is better than boys in trees. She sat there and I got mad. I said, "Get down!"

Finally that stupid girl jumped off the branch and showed off by taking five minutes to reach the ground. She fell so slow I got mad and all she did was giggle that stupid laugh. Sometimes I think I will never play with her again. But she won't let me never.

THE YELLOW CRAYON

I was extremely disgusted at her again today. Dwanda and I were coloring books on the living-room floor and, drat her, if she didn't break four crayons. Some kids can't behave ever.

"Dwanda Sisilina," I said, "let's draw people now." And pretty soon we had colored up four papers each. I did not see hers because I ws busy. Then I said, "Give me the yellow crayon: Dwanda.'

She laughed and said, "I'll never because I'm not done with it." And she wasn't either because when I looked over there she had not finished the sun she was drawing. I didn't say anything even though my yellow crayon was melting and though Dwanda was getting sunburned. The kids in her picture of the beach were smearing on suntan stuff so I went into the bathroom and got some for us too. On my way back I stopped to get a mop for wiping up the ocean.

I said, "Dwanda Sisilina, you draw the dumbest things, and if my suntan peels, you'll be sorry!"

And she said, "I'll never!"

THE CIRCLE-INGER

One day last year Dwanda and I were building stuff with wood and stufff. Dwanda was disgusted because the Circle-Inger wouldn't go round. She turned purple four times, that's how I know.

She said, "Duard, get me a postage stamp and a piece of string for this oatmeal box." I was waiting to see the Circle-Inger go so I did.

Five minutes after I brought the junk back she got it going. I said, "Dwanda Sisilina, what is that thing for?"

And she said, "Why?"

I started to say, "Because I don't know what it is supposed to do because." But just then her mother called her and she had to go home for supper. I asked her if I could have the Circle-Inger.

She said I could have it. And everytime I go down to the basement to look at it, it is still going. Dwanda was stupid to give t away.

Library Features UN Display

Placed on display in the library this week will be articles from seven foreign countries to commemorate United Nations Week. These articles were borrowed by the library from Mrs. Loretta Preutt of Knoxville who maintains a home for foreign students at the University of Tennessee. Mrs. Preutt has had as many as thirteen countries represented in her home at one time and at the present time there are six foreign students living in her home. Over the years she has received gifts from these students and has representative articles from sixty-four countries, from practically all parts of the world. These students have named her home, "The Little U.N." The articles placed in the showcase represent the countries of South America, Thailand, Japan, India, Jordon, Korea and Burma.

'The Turn of The Times' - - -- Southern Realism At Last?

By Dan Ellis

Last week a meeting took place at Asheville, N. C., about which an observer remarked, "Now the important thing is for everyone, southerners and northerners alike, to realize that there is a new mood in southern leadership with relationship to the race problem."

The event referred to was the annual Southern Governors Conference, and indeed the observer referred to above seems to have grounds for his statement. For the first time since the Supreme Court decision of 1954 dealing with school desegregation, the members of this group did not spend the majority of their time debating the race question. What the governors did say was that they now were ready to face the problem realistically and to accept desegregation as inevitable.

This is certainly encouraging to a Southerner. For too long now the leadership of this section of the nation has been so concerned with the various aspects of the race problem that other and more vital issues have been neglected to the detriment of the states involved. As long as the leadership capabilities of the South are wasted in attempting to prevent a change that is inevitable, we can not expect to contribute our share of the leaders needed by this country and the rest of the world. Neither can we expect this section of the country to assume its share of America's rapidly rising standard of living.

At a time when the entire civilization in which we live is threatened with extinction through the possible use of nuclear weapons, when the lives of generations yet unborn are endangered by radioactive fallout, when an atheistic, materialistic,, despotic system is doing all within its power to "bury" democracy and Christianity ,it seems somewhat trivial to argue about what color the skin of the person who sits next to you in class will be. It is therefore with gratitude that we note that our southern governors have begun to give precedence to finding solutions to vital issues rather than to merely attempting to solidify the status quo.

Honor Dorm Rules Announced

The Honor Dorm has been organized by women who desire the opportunity of living under self-government. As members of such an honor system, the New Dorm residents realize keenly the responsibility involved and believe this to be a mature and growing process for each individual.

A. The following Honor Code is signed by each resident of the honor dorm:

"I, _____, do promise and am on my honor to abide by all the rules and procedures pertaining to the Dormitory Honor Code. I do also promise to take the extra responsibilities that this code places upon me."

B. Honor Dorm Procedures and Policies

1. Curfew Rules
   a. Signing in and out will be according to the regular system.
   b. If a girl is late, the number of minutes must be recorded on her late minute card when she comes in. Ten late minutes per semester are allowed for each resident. The exact time of return should be entered on the sign-in card.
2. Girls will maintain reasonable quiet so as not to disturb others at all time, especially in
   a. halls
   b. rooms
   c. laundry
   d. bathrooms
   e. smoking room
3. Study lounges should be completely quiet.
4. On Sundays light emergency pressing for immediate use may be done. Washing on Sunday is limited to hose and emergency underwear items.
5. At all times the halls must be kept clear of
   a. clothes racks
   b. sweaters on floors
   c. trash boxes
   d. coke bottles
6. The smoking room will be open after 11:00 as long as there are at least two persons using it. This is for safety purposes.
7. Each girl is responsible for her conduct and that of her guest or guests while in the parlors or lobby.

(Continued on page four)

Pre-Med Club Plans Varied Program

The Pre-Medical Club is expanding its program this year, in an effort to include speakers that will be of interest to all science majors. Any student interested in a feild of science is invited to attend the meetings.

On Thursday, October 29, Dr. Johnson, a local optometrist, will deliver a talk on the eye.

The first meeting of the year was held in the Fine Arts Center lounge on October 15. Dr. David Doherty, a biochemist from the Oak Ridge National Laboratories, Biology Division, was guest speaker. His address was on "Chemical Protection Prior to Radiation Injury."

Pi Gamma Mu Holds Fall Induction

The Maryville College chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science scholarship society, inducted one senior and one faculty member into membership at its Fall meeting on Monday evening, October 19, at Mr. Ainsworth's home. New members were Helen Rankin, a history major from Amarillo, Texas, and Miss Carlanna Lindamood, instructor in history. New members were welcomed by President Dan Ellis. The initiation will be held at the annual banquet meeting in the Spring. Membership in Pi Gamma Mu is accorded those of high general scholastic achievement with special merit in the area of the social sciences.

Two original papers were presented by members. Fred Kay's paper was entitled "The Ideaology of Apartheid," in which he presented a review of the various arguments, reasons, and rationalizations that have been developed in defense of the massive segregation policies of the government of

(Continued on page 4)

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

PENNEY'S

For men. . . soft brushed leather with Nylon pile lining, cushion crepe soles and heels. Sand or grey tops with black soles. B (7 to 12), D (6½ to 11). 7.95

$7.95

$9.95

Cotton Bedford Cord surburan.
Bulky Cotton knit trim.
Quilted cotton lining.
Junior and Misses sizes.

Society News

From Chi Beta

Getting into the fantasy of things, Chi Beta will present "A Little Girl's Dream" in their float for the Homecoming parade today.

Carrying through the overall Disneyland theme, the float will consist of a castle complete with moat, drawbridge, and flower garden. Atop the float Helen Mortez will portray the fairy godmother of the castle. Alice Salyer is in charge of design and decorations for the float.

Chi Beta football practice began Friday afternoon under the direction of head coach Dave Campbell. Plans for the Powder Puff game are not complete, but it will be played around Thanksgiving.

Society sweatshirts and the insignia necklaces are now on order. The bookstore will have a limited number of the necklaces on sale soon.

On October 11, the Chi Betas were entertained with a fashion show modeled by freshmen girls. Lynn Herring and Gwen Carlson narrated the program.

Last Saturday night the society held a bake sale in the Kappa Phi house.

From Alpha Sigma

The annual Sig Spaghetti Supper, held last Tuesday, the 13th, was a big success. Many couples enjoyed the good meal and the after-dinner dancing away from the normal rush of studies and activities.

This year's homecoming float was the main topic of discussion at the last business meeting. Plans and sketches were submitted by Ralph Ayres. The results of those plans will be revealed this afternoon at the parade.

On the intramural field we find the Sig Hammers ranked 2nd and the Sledgehammers 4th. Last week the Hammers rolled over the Kappa Phi Dukes 41-0. Again the scoring mainstay was Norris Shanks who scored four touchdowns, three on passes from Fred Morrison. Danny Johnson stopped one touchdown and starred offensively and defensively with his scrappy plays.

Alpha Sigma is glad to see so many of her men taking leading parts in campus activities. Let's keep up the good work!

From Theta Epsilon

Tonight in the Y-rooms at 6:15 Sig and Theta will join with former members of both societies for a reunion. All alumni plus Sigs and Thetas' and their dates are invited. Such illustrious alumni as Mr. Arthur S. Bushing and Miss E. Frances Massey will be present.

On November 7, Theta girls will go to Rich's in Knoxville for a tea and fashion show. Further details of the trip will be announced in the next ECHO.

Bravo! Theta girls! Under the able leadership of team captains Lois Lockett, Carol Greenwood, and Peg Reid, Theta took the volley-ball tournament, winning games out of This week be soccer. Good luck teams.

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

HONOR DORM . . .

(Continued from page 3)

8. Each girl is on her honor (1) to follow all rules and procedures as established by the Honor Dormitory Council and to report herself if the preceding code is violated, and (2) to report any other resident who does not report herself one day after warning.
9. All violations of this code will be handled by the HDC and may be brought to WSGA if necessary.
10. The HDC reserves the right to refuse or withdraw dormitory residency to any girl who
    a. habitually fails to sign in and out
    b. smokes in her room
    c. habitually fails to cooperate with the Honor Code in any way.

C. Honor Dorm Council

This Council will have authority and responsibility under WSGA to carry out the policies and procedures of this agreement.

The Council is composed this year of the following members of the New Women's Residence Hall: (1) House Chairman (2) Vice House Chairmen (3) Secretary-Treasurer (4) two representatives from each floor (5) Honor Council Committee (6) President of WSGA.

WHAT ABOUT . . .

Continued from page 2)

by 1962-65 provided weapon testing is not resumed. This is uncomfortably close to the permissible dose of 67 units. It should not be assumed that any dose over 67 units will be injurious nor any dose under that amount will not cause injury. The status of our knowledge of strontium 90's action on man is not sufficient to make any accurate statements on dose effects. The permissible dose simply represents a recommended ceiling for the lifetime concentration of strontium 90 in the body according to present knowledge.

Man probably gets the greater part of strontium 90 from milk. Cattle which feed on grass that has absorbed and incorporated strontium 90 from the soil concentrate it in the milk they produce. It is also known that grain products are sources of radioisotopes. Random samples of bread taken from the shelves of a N. Y. C. supermarket have shown concentration of the isotope of at least four times the maximum permissible level.

Current reports testify that present means of measuring fallout need to be improved and expanded. Only twenty-five percent of our testing stations are said to be "strategically" located, and many stations are understaffed. In spite of many brilliant discoveries and advances during the last 60 years biologists are working with the most complex substance possible, protoplasm. Thus radiation biology has proposed many theories regarding radiation injury and repair, but they are still in the very early stage of development. This is emphasized, for example, by conflicting reports regarding uptake of strontium 90 by children. One group reports children, due to their rapid growth, accumulate the isotope at a maximum level for humans. Another research team states children tend to descriminate against strontium 90 in favor of calcium. Clearly more research must be done before highly reliable statements can be made.

PI GAMMA MU. . .

(Continued from page three)

the Union of South Africa. The difficulties involved in the situation were discussed and possibilities of future solution were expanded. The overall conclusion was the racial situation there will not be easily or quickly remedied.

"A Story of Historical Research" was the title of Mr. Cragan's paper. his paper concerned an interesting research project that grew out of a graduate seminar at the University of Tennessee Starting with a rather obscure situation, the speaker developed the process of research, step by step through frustration and misleading information, until, finally, a vast amount of valuable material was uncovered. Techniques involved in the historical method were emphasized. The central character of this project was Yardley Warner, a Quaker educator, who worked among the Freedmen in the Maryville area in the post-Civil War period.

LOOKING AT BOOKS

(Continued from page 3)

will tell them so as to get the benefit. And what is a "norphan?" He turns to his sister and reassures her, "Both of together is a whole orphan."

His father died, and slowly Rufus grew up; Knoxville grew up too, and now Rufus is dead. But Gay Street is still there, and the Market and the old L&N depot. And in the pages of this novel, still, in the evening, a little boy lies on a quilt on the wet summer grass, surrounded by aunts and uncles and parents, and listens to the night go by. And when he is put in bed, "Sleep, soft smiling, draws me to her: and those receive me, who quietly treat me, as one familiar and well-beloved in that home: but will not, oh, will not, not now, not ever; but will not ever tell me who I am."

Job Fellowships Open In Home Ec

Home Economics Majors — Attention! How would you like to step into a key executive position with a major company immediately upon graduation? The Pillsbury Award winner for 1960 will do just that.

This Award Program, now in its second year, offers a unique "on-the-job" training fellowship to an outstanding home economics major who will graduate from college this June. She will become Associate Director of the Pillsbury Junior Home Service Center for one year — beginning July 1, 1960.

The Award wnner will receive a cash grant of $1,000, in addition to her salary of $4,500 for the year. At the close of her year as Associate Director, she will be offered another position with Pillsbury or a $2,500 fellowship for a year's graduate study in home economics.

Full information on the Pillsbury Award for 1960 and application forms may be obtained from your Home Economics Department. Applications must be submitted to Pillsbury, through your Home Economics Department, no later than December 1st.

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Charles Crissman—Agent for
HORNE'S FLORIST
Formerly Chandler's
Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

Giant
Clearance Sale
at
CARLS
We must clear our Stock as we are moving to a new, modern location—but we will keep our friendly service. Look for our opening under our new name
"MINTONS"
about the 1st of November.
We at Carl's also want to say:
WELCOME ALUMNI

Christian
Book Nook
229 College St.
Religious and Study Materials
to fit every student's needs!
Students Always Welcome!

• JACQUELINE COCHRAN • JACQUELINE COCHRAN • JACQUELINE COCHRAN • waken tired skin
nature's own way

JACQUELINE COCHRAN'S
FLOWING VELVET
...with Hydrolin
Smooth out lines and wrinkles of prematurely aging skin—with Flowing Velvet. For Flowing Velvet contains Jacqueline Cochran's exclusive discovery, Hydrolin, that supplies vital moisture below the surface...to tissues where dry-skin aging starts. Provides necessary oils that helps keep skin smooth and supple. Maintains the normal oil-and-moisture balance found in healthy young skins. What's more, it's greaseless and dewy-fresh—get a bottle today.
$3.00 plus tax
CONTAINS NO HORMONES Other sizes: $5, $8.50, $15. plus tax
CITY DRUG CO.
• JACQUELINE COCHRAN • JACQUELINE COCHRAN • JACQUELINE COCHRAN •

INTRAMURAL CORNER

By Joe Quinn

The intramural football campaign completed the first half of its regular season with the crowning of the Chinese Bandits as league champions.

The Bandits finished the first half of the unbeaten, untied list. They defeated the Sledgehammers 13 to 0 on the passing arm of Baird, who hit Herron and Webb for TDS. Heatherly kicked the only extra point. They ran over the Falcons 22-6 again on the accurate passing arm of Baird. He picked on Abbot, Heatherly and Crisp for touchdowns. The Falcons averted a shut out when Mike Garrett hit Kruzman for a tally in the fourth period. On completing their season, the yout manuvered the Knights 15-0. As usual Baird was tossing and his target was catching. This time it turned out to be Don Crisp for both touchdowns.

The Alpha Sig Hammers won their final games to finish second in the race with a lnoe defeat at the hands of the Banditts. The Hammers finished strong by trouncing the Kappa Phi Squires 41-0 and the Kappa Phi Dukes 40-0. Fred Morrison was on the throwing end of all touchdowns in the first game except for a blocked kick that Hartman fell on the Suire endzone. Again against the Dukes he accounted for all the scoring except a 25-yard run by Shank with an intercepted pass. Morrison's chief targets so far this season have been Shank, Reading, and Johnson.

The Kappa Phi Knights finished third in the standing losing to the Hammers and the Banditts. They were shut out by the Bandits 15-0 but to preserve their hold on the number three spot in the league, they edged fourth place finishers the Sledgehammers 13-12.

McGill hit Dave Campbell for both touchdowns and both for long yardage. The first play covered 40 yards and the second 85 yards. Ross McGill drop kicked the only extra point. Tom Bass hit Tom Morris for both Sledges' touchdowns but the extra point wrote the difference. The high light of the game came when Butch Christie returned a kick-off 100 yards only to have it called back by a refree's whistle.

The Kappa Phi Dukes threw away an opportunity to tie the Sledgehammers for fourth place when they were stunned by a fired up Squire team 13-12. Hayden was responsible for the Suire scoring punch with a touch down pass to Davies and an intercepte dpass touchdown run. He also threw to Ward for the all important extra point. George Poland ran both Duke touchdowns over for the only offensive move made by the Dukes.

Earlier in the week the Dukes and the Sledgehammers played to a hard fought 7-7 tie. George Poland hit Don Buddle for the touchdown and Standish for the extra-point. Tom Bass threw Ed Milan for both the TD and the point after touchdown.

The Kappa Phi Squires and the Falcons deadlocked for sixth place in the league on the strength of an all out effort on the last day of the first half by the Falcons. Led by Kruzman and Garrett, they rolled to an easy 39-7 triumph over the Squires thus forcing the tie.

The second half of competition gets under way this week, watch for results in the next issue. Also look for news concerning the up and coming intramural tennis tournament.

Final Standing

	W	L	T
Chinese Bandits	6	0	0
Alpha Sig Hammers	5	1	0
Kappa Phi Knights	4	2	0
Alpha Sig Sledges	2	3	1
Kappa Phi Dukes	1	4	1
Kappa Phi Squires	1	5	0
Falcons	1	5	0

ON TO VICTORY

SCOTS!

BEAT SEWANNE

Scotties Lose Last Two Games

The Maryville Scotties dropped their fourth and fifth straight games of this season to Georgetown and Emory and Henry by the scores of 14-0 and 46-12.

On October 10 Georgetown invaded Maryville with one of the biggest lines in the south, outweighing the Scots 30 pounds per man. They showed their power by taking the kick-off and driving 65 yards in nine plays with big fullback Jack Massie driving over from the 1 yard line. Dough Phillips ran the extra point to make the score 8-0.

The Tigers threatened twice more but both times were stopped when Clarence Storey intercepted two of their passes. The rest of the game was a see-saw battle with the only big play being a 30 yard run on a keeper play by Maryville's Jim Renfro. Twelve plays later Phillips took a 15 yard fourth down scoring pass from Herbie Kays. The extra point attempt was no good.

Last week at Emory, Virginia the Emory and Henry Wasps ran wild in the second half to roll up a 46-12 victory over the Scots. The Wasps' first score was on a 13 yard reverse by Jimmy Crews. In the second quarter Jimmy Guglis passed to Bob Lenoir on a 9 yard, fourth down scoring play. Bob Rose kicked both extra points.

The Maryville team struck back with its first score. Talley Davis hit Tyson McClanahan with a pass behind the Wasp defenders. No one touched McClanahan as he raced 80 yards to score. Jim Renfro's extra point attempt was no good. The half ended with the Wasps laeding the Scots 14-6.

In the third quarter Emory and Henry scored two more TDs. Blake Yost scored first with a one yard plunge. Later Kent Bailey ran 12 yards to score. Rose made on of this two conversions.

Then Maryville launched the longest drive of the game. Starting on their own 20 yard line Talley Davis completed 5 of 8 passes to direct the Scots to the Wasps 10 yard line. Ken Chambers then ploughed to the 2nd. On the first play of the fourth period Chambers ran the final Highlander TD. Jack Moore's attempted run for the extra point was no good.

Then the Wasps took advantage of the) desperate Scotty attempts to get back in the game. Their last three touchdowns came 2-2 yard plunges by Highs and Howard Ware and a 44 yard pass from Craig Barbow to John Dickinson. In three extra point attempts Ware made one.

Tonight the Highlanders take on Sewanee. There will be a good chance that the Scotties can break their 14 game losing streak against Sewanee. This will be the first time this season that Maryville's line hasn't been outweigher. Also, it may be noted that Howard defeated Sewanee by passing. And Maryville proved its passing attack against Emory and Henry completing 11 of 22 passes for 193 yards.

Marching Band

On October 17 the Highlander Marching Band traveled to Bristol, Tennessee, for a parade sponsored by the Bristol Chamber of Commerce. An estimated crowd of 8000 saw the colorful kilted band. In the afternoon of that day the group attended the Emory & Henry-Maryville football game and presented the half-time show.

5 Game Statistics (Unofficial)

RUSHING

	Carries	Gain	Loss	Net Yds.	Ave. Yds
McClanahan	29	123	17	106	3.6
Chambers	23	88	10	78	3.5
Fox	20	61	10	51	2.6
Vananda	8	33	1	32	4.0
Storey	6	33	8	25	4.2

PASSING

	Attempted	Completed	Gain	Loss	Net Gain	Intercp.
Davis	43	15	269	0	269	6
Renfro	34	12	147	5	142	2
Mobbs	4	1	8	0	8	0

TOTAL OFFENSE

	Plays	Net Rush	Net Pass	Net Gain	Ave
Renfro	65	-10	142	132	2.0
Davis	56	-13	269	256	4.6
McClanahan	30	103	0	106	3.5
Chambers	25	88	0	88	3.5
Fox	20	51	0	51	2.6
Vananda	10	32	0	32	3.2
Storey	6	25	0	25	4.2

PASS RECEIVING

	Caught	Yards Gained
Owenby	11	123
Fox	5	26
Vanada	4	52
McClanahan	3	111
Bowers	3	31
Mincey	2	37
Chambers	2	14
Huffstetler	1	25

PUNTING

	Number	Yards	Average	Blocked
Chambers	16	530	33.1	1
Owenby	12	419	34.9	1

PASS INTERCEPTIONS

	Number	Yards Returned
Storey	2	21
McClanahan	1	0

Welcome Alumni

from

"The Friendly Drug Store on the Corner"

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

PARKS BELK Invites You To

Visit their completely remodeled Shoe department for outstanding quality and values.

"Home of Better Values"

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT

"Y" Radio Sundays at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP 1400 KC

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413 YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

Buy The Best From

Murphy-West Motor Co. Chevrolet Oldsmobile

MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER

OPEN BOWLING 2 P.M.

Any afternoon and Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday; and Sunday after 8:00 P.M.

Student Rates till 5:30

BOWLING

First Aid Class Meets Monday

The Physical Education Department announces the beginning of an advanced first-aid class which will hold its first meeting Monday evening, Oct. 26 at 7:00. It will be for a minimum of fifteen hours and those holding a valid standing first-aid certificate will be eligible. Tentative plans are being made to offer an instructor's course in first-aid later in the semester.

ARTISTS SERIES

(Continued from page 1)

leading orchestras in America to-

It is a special privilege for Maryville concert-goers to hear Lillian Kallir. This famous continental pianist has scored triumphs throughout Europe and the United States.

Miss Kallir was hailed by the Washington Evening Star for her "Youthful elan that puts zest into everything she plays. She has taste, feeling, dynamic range, tonal power and a dazzling technique." And in Dublin, the Irish Times stated, "Rarely has anyone so pretty and attractive walked onto the Royal Dublin Society's platform. . . The performance was so good as her appearance. . . obviously first rate." Her native Austrians were no less complimentary; in Vienna Wiener Zeitung proclaimed, "Genuine romantic feeling, delicate dynamic gradation, luminous tone colors, and pearly brilliance."

Kweder Of Nat'l. Students Union To Come To MC

B. James Kweder, program vice president of the U. S. National Student Association, will discuss campus activities with student government leaders and administrators on the Maryville campus, Friday, October 30.

Mr. Kweder, 22, was named a member of the USNSA national staff at the Twelfth National Student Congress, held at the University of Illinois in August.

He is a 1959 graduate of Allegheny College in Meadville, Pa., where he majored in philosophy. He served as student body president in his senior year and as chairman of the campus' USNSA committee and Foreign Student Leadership Project.

From Du Bois, Pa., Mr. Kweder was one of 15 outstanding student leaders selected by USNSA to participate in a nine-week summer seminar in international student relations.

USNSA s the country's largest non-partisan representative student organization. Over 1 million students in almost 400 colleges and universities are represented .n USNSA through their democratically-elected student governments. Founded in 1947, it is dedicated to the increased responsibility and participation of students in the American educational community. It is the largest national union of students in the world.

MC Playhouse Organizes Staff For Year To Come

The Maryville College Playhouse organization has been considerably strengthened this year by the development of a permanent production staff which is made up of six students with considerable experience in particular phases of theatre work. The production staff includes Props mistress — Judy Eldridge; Wardrobe mistress — Kathryn Smith; Ticket Chief — Sarah Smith; Electrician — Randy Rosensteel; Publicity — Steve Mouton and Makeup Custodian — Reda Kay.

It is not anticipated that the members of the production staff wil lrelieve crew chiefs for individual productions of many of their responsibilities, but rather that they will give a certain continuity to the program, which has been impossible with complete changeovers in all phases of production work with each new play. he members of the production staff will work in an advisory and supervisory capacity with the crew chiefs for each production and with the Director and the Technical Director of the Theatre.

Reminders . . .

Student Recital

There will be a Student Recital on Thursday, October 27, at 4:30 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. Those performing are Gail Bradley, Rosemary Barrett, Virginia Pratt, and Charles Farris.

Art Exhibit

The Art Exhibit for the last two weeks of October features he rental collection of the Art Department. The exhibit includes both reproductions and originals.

These pictures can be rented from the Art Department for $.25 to $1.00, depending on their size.

'59-60 Student Chaperons Announced

The Student Chaperon plan was set up last year through a committee composed of members of the Student Faculty Senate. The plan is as follows:

I. The Student-Chaperon plan will operate in such araes as:

1. Y room and dorm parties
2. small picnics in the college woods
3. authorized automobile trips
4. other occasions upon arrangement with the Dean of Women

Note: These arrangements should be scheduled by the Dean of Women just as with the faculty chaperon plan.

II. The number involved will vary ,the total, including the chaperon may not exceed:

1. 20 for Y room and dorm parties
2. 10 for smll picnics in the college woods
3. 6 forautomobile trips

III. The responsibilities for the student chaperon include:

1. being present at all times at a function for which he is responsible
2. taking charge in case of emergency
3. seeing that students conduct themselves in accordance with the standards and ideals of Maryville College students
4. informing individuals present of unacceptable conduct and terminating the function unless such conduct is corrected
5. bringing to the attention of the Dean of Women and the proper branch of student government any infraction of regulations or improper conduct
6. seeing that the areas used are left in order

IV. Those eligible for selection as student chaperons are:

1. Seniors
2. Married couples, provided at least one is a senior
3. Other students selected because of unusual maturity and responsibility

Note: Dating couples will not serve as chaperons except as arranged with the Dean of Women. Persons recommended for student chaperons should be selected on the basis of honesty, integrity, maturity, respect of fellow students, and acceptable academic and social record.

V. In the selection of student chaperons:

1. The Student Council will submit a list of suggestions to a committee composed of the Dean of the College, Dean of Men, and Dean of Women who will select the final list.
2. The above-mentioned committee will determine the number on the basis of experienced need.

Note: A student may be removed from the list of accepted chaperons at any time by either the Student Council or the Committee.

The accepted chaperons are: Mr. and Mrs. Don Buddle, Gail Bradley, Lou Brininger, Charlotte Cathey, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Greaser, Ron Hoeffer, Ann Leitch, Helen Matenis, Joan Menk, Dave Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morris, Ann Newcomer, Jan Peterson, Helen Rankin, Peggy Reid, Lessie Rhodes, Dona Sarver, Edgar Smith, Fred Tepper, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Talley.

Welcome Home Scotties

Join all your frineds for that late snack or early breakfast.

GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

We deliver on orders of $5.00 or more

OPEN 24 HOURS

Register now for a FREE girl's Sweater of

Register now for a FREE girl's Sweater of your choice from our entire stock.

Your Choice from our entire stock.

This offer for Maryville College Students (both male and female) only. Activity card must be presented to be eligible. Nothing to buy. Drawing to be held Homecoming Oct. 24

At the

GLAMOR SHOP

118 West Broadway

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students. Same [illegible] as regular price.

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

MUMS

Get them at

HARTMAN'S FLORISTS

Broadway YU 2-7500

HEY GRADS

Remember the CAPRI!

Can't find us?

We're not out of business—just moved to a nicer location—we still have the same pleasant atmosphere and friendly service.

CAPRI

523 W. Broadway YU 2-9920

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 | The Highland Echo, November 7, 1959 | No. 5

Student Affairs Assembly Convenes November 9

By Maryanne Braidwood

The first assembly on student affairs will be held Monday, Nov. 9, from 8:00 to 8:20 A.M. in the old ethics classroom.

This assembly, sponsored by the Student Council, might be called a depth project. It is an attempt to cement student relations within the college and world communities through examining student affairs here and abroad. The issues treated Monday will be student support of Ecumenical Encounters and campus problems.

The assembly is an outgrowth of the Student Council meeting held last Wednesday, Nov. 4. Thirty-nine students gathered in the Y Rooms to discuss student government, USNSA and student world affairs.

MC Student Council Called "Third-rate"

The atmosphere generated by the meeting was electric. It was touched off by the observation made by USNSA Vice President Jim Kweder that our Student Council is a "third-rate organization."

It was further stressed that USNSA, of which we are a member, is the American answer to the Communist Youth Organization. Obviously our "answer" to communism must be supported by more than a "third-rate" group of organizations such as our Student Council

Too Little Contact Between Students and Council

The group's simple diagnosis of the problem of weak student government is that in the past there has been too little contact between Student Council and the student body. Consequently Student Council has not been an expression of a concerned student body but a halfway interested group of students, too often no more than a mouthpiece for student gripes.

This is not to disparage the past leadership and accomplishments of Student Council, but it is to emphasize the need for more effectual student government. This can come about only when the student body lets Council know what it thinks.

SC Program for Year Up To Students

At Wednesday's meeting one student pointed out that the student body would be asking to see the Council's program for the year. Another student replied that the student body should dictate the issues to go into the program. Still it is up to the Council to exercise leadership in organizing the student body's concern.

The student assembly has been planned to provide the much-needed contact among students and all others interested in student affairs. Monday's assembly will be in charge of Ron Pearson. All students are urged to attend. Interested members of the faculty and administration are invited to attend, also.

The success of this venture depends on student interest. If it succeeds, it will become a weekly affair. If it fails, it will be a backward step. Which direction will we choose?

Art Exhibit Features "Nature Again"

The Gallery Exhibition for the month of November is "Nature Again," a selection of original oils by West Coast artists. This exhibition is being circulated by the Art Bank of the San Francisco Art Association, which was established in 1958 to bring the creative work of the artists of that region to as wide as possible an audience.

The traveling shows are all worked around themes or styles, and the title of our show refers to the figurative elements that are returning to the work of several of the artists. These are paintings of simple everyday scenes and objects, not observed in a photographic manner, but with the new vision that working abstractly has given these artists, many of whom have recently begun to achieve national prominence.

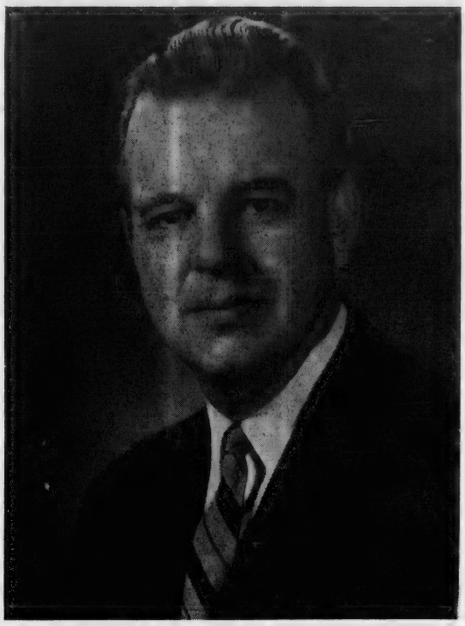
Student Recital

There will be a Student Recital Tuesday afternoon, November 10, at 4:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Those performing are Glenda Gray, soprano; Judy Collins, mezzo-soprano; Marguerite Gilly, pianist, and Donna Laubach, soprano.

Band To Present 'Travelogue' Show

The fifty-one piece Highlander Marching Band will base its last football show on a "Travelogue" theme. The band will give its version of a trip to Paris, Mexico, China, and Scotland. The majorettes will again be featured, this time in the "Mexican Hat Dance."



Two seniors will be making their final appearance with the band. Herbert Thompson and Dan Ellis both complete their school work at the end of the current semester.

Library Receives Memorial Books

The library has now received two books in memory of two who have died while a part of Maryville College. Mrs. John Cummings has donated the book, Biblical Archaeology by G. Earnest Wright in memory of Dr. H. E. Orr, who was head of the Philosophy Dept. at Maryville and a graduate of Maryville College. This book has been placed on reserve.

The other book was presented by Men's Student Cooperative and is entitled, Germany in Power and Eclipse by James Kerr Pollock and Homer Thomas. It is given in memory of Stephen Howard Flagler, a junior at Maryville, who was killed in an auto accident before school re-opened this past fall. This book may be found on display at the main desk.

KERNS TO LEAD FEB. MEETINGS

REV. DR. RAYMOND V. KEARNS, Pastor of Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ohio, will lead February Meetings this year. Dr. Kearns is outstanding in his work with students.

The dates for this year's February Meetings are February 3-11, 1960. The first service will be at 9:40 a.m., on a Wednesday, and the closing one at the same hour, on a Thursday.

The Leader and Preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Raymond V. Kearns, Jr., Pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ohio. With him to form "The February Meetings Team" will be Rev. Dr. John Magill, Pastor of Abington, Pennsylvania, Presbyterian Church, as song leader for the seventh year; and Dr. Henry Barraclough ("Barrie"), Philadelphia, Assistant Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church, as piano accompanist for the ninth year.

Dr. Kearns is one of the most outstanding among the pastors and ministers to college students of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Since graduation from Emporia College in Kansas and McCormick Theological Seminary, he has been a pastor in the state of Washington, Director of the Westminster Foundation at the University of Nebraska, Pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Manhattan, Kansas, Director of the Department of Adult Work of the Board of Christian Education, and since 1953 Pastor of Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the College of Wooster, a Vice President of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., and serves in various other posts.

This will be the 84th series of February Meetings since their beginning in 1877.

Vesper Choir To Appear With Symphony

The Vesper Choir has been invited to perform with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of David Van Vactor, on December 8th as part of the regularly scheduled series of the orchestra.

The choir and orchestra will present Dr. Van Vactor's "The New Light," and Mr. Harry H. Harter's "Requiem for Fallen Ninevah."

On November 22, in a special Vespers Service, the Vesper Choir will present the "Requiem for Fallen Ninevah," with Mary Schmidt accompanying on the organ. The soloists will be Lessie Anne Rhodes, Soprano; Gloria Evans, Soprano; Charles Justice, Tenor; and Richard Conway, Bass.

"The New Light" will be the Vesper Choir's contribution to the Christmas Vespers Service, with Mr. Robert Triplett as the accompanist. Lessie Anne Rhodes, Soprano, and Bill Green, Bass, will be the soloists. Dave Morris will be the narrator.

Messiah Soloists Announced

After a series of eliminating tryouts, the following students were selected as soloists for the December 6 presentation of Handel's Messiah: Basses — William Green, Richard Conway, Paul Evans, Mike Garrett, Bruce Townsend; Tenors — Charles Justice, Leon Bird; Altos — Rosemary Barrett, Arlette Roselli; Sopranos — Lessie Anne Rhodes, Elva Yohe, Donna Laubach, Gloria Evans, Lee Gageby, Virginia Pratt; Trumpeter — Tod Jablonski

Film Series To Be Tonight

Rasho-Mon, an outstanding Japanese moving picture, is the second Film Series selection of the year. This award-winning film based on a famous story, will be shown tonight at 8:00 P.M. in the Theatre.

Admission is 35c and tickets can be purchased at the door.

'The Turn Of The Times' - - - - - - Unity In High Places

By Dan Ellis

Last week a possible major breakthrough was attained on the disarmament front. The General Assembly of the United Nations passed a resolution sponsored by all of its eighty-two members — the first resolution in the history of that body to be so sponsored —to forward to the ten-nation Disarmament Commission all of the proposals made concerning "general and complete disarmament." This would include specifically the proposal made by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on September 18, the proposal made by Russian Premier Khrushchev on September 19, and all other plans put before the U.N., as well as the minutes of all plenary sessions at which disarmament has been discussed.

The East and West have been discussing disarmament for the past fifteen years and have rarely reached agreement on even small issues. Thus, the passage of this resolution, which is the result of compromise on both sides, may offer a ray of hope. The Disarmament Commission will convene in Geneva early in 1960. It will be only then that the free world will be able to tell if the Soviet bloc is sincere or is merely making another propaganda bid.

In order for the East and West to achieve rapport on this question, it will take a considerable amount of compromise on both sides. However, the free world must be careful lest it sacrifice its principles. This is especally true in the light of the fact that Khrushchev stated in his speech before the Supreme Soviet (the formal law-making body of the Soviet Union) that Russia did not intend to renounce any of her principles — some of which are diametrically opposed to those of the West. In his book A World Restored (Houghton - Mifflin, 1957), Henry A. Kissinger has commented, "Whenever peace — conceived as the avoidance of war — has been the primary objective of a power or a group of powers, the international system has been at the mercy of the most ruthless member of the international community. Whenever the international order has acknowledged that certain principles could not be compromised even for the sake of peace, stability based on an equilibrium of forces was at least conceivable." Probably the best recent example of this theory came in the latter 1920's when the West bowed one by one to the Fuhrer's demands until it was driven to a point where it could not avoid war. In other words, by pursuing peace to the exclusion of principle, the

(Continued on page four)

The Highland Echo

November 7, 1959

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Phyllis Stine, Helen Ann Easterly
Contributors ..... Dan Ellis, Pat Baker, Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Maryanne Braidwood, David Morris, Butch Christie, Bonnie Burrow, Fred Kay, Pat Crossley, Sue Bloomer, Bob Bowman.

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A Timely Proposal . . ,

Taking advantage of this semester's foward-looking spirit, we would like to send out a proposal. And we hope that it will land on fertile ground.

It is the concurrent opinion of a good many students that a student conducted chapel each week would be a tremendous spur to student leadership. It would provide another challenge to student responsibility—during one of the most meaningful parts of our day. And we feel that it would work in accord with the prevailing campus spirit.

Certainly there are considerations to be made before such a plan could take effect. Just how it could be formulated we are not certain, but a thoughtful committee should be able dispatch a plan in good order.

We suggest Saturday morning as the possible time, since that is already the time when a student organist takes part in the chapel service. Further we would suggest complete student leadership, from announcements to music to meditation, all in the interest of promoting significant student leadership.

If you are interested, please say so—to the Committee on Religious Life or through the Echo. We would to see this happen soon. Would you?

An Empty Mailbox . . .

There is no end to the mail which comes to the Highland Echo every week. We find everything from baking contests and men's fashion news to graduate study opportunities calling for attention.

Certainly mail is an important arm wihout which a newspaper could not function. Yet of all the letters we receive, none are from Maryville College students. Perhaps this indicates contentment, and contentment is a fine thing. But unless that contentment is the sharing of productive feelings and ideas, it may become stagnating lethargy.

We are glad to see the resurgence of student interest this year. We offer you an opportunity to keep that interest on the move and growing by expressing how you feel. Shared interest is the best kind—so when you have something to say, say it through the Echo Forum!

A Long Way To Go . . .

Last Saturday Jim Kweder talked to us about the National Student Association, of which we are a member college. Those of us who heard him could smile as he mentioned honor dorms and student chaperons, innovations on other member campuses, for we have those privileges here. Locally we seem fairly well abreast of other schools of comparable size and purposes—at least in some areas.

But USNSA is not confined to local campus problems, important as they are. As a member student body of NSA we are urged to look beyond the boundaries of our campus. The NSA provides opportunities for the concerned student body to extend into national and international affairs through student delegations

However we have not yet shown such interest. Probably the most talked about news story today is not the steel dispute or the Chinese-Indian border situation. Instead the quiz show scandals have captured our attention. It would not be so bad if we knew something about the world scene in addition to the appalling TV expose, but most of do not.

We have a challenge before us to take a penetrating look at campus problems; we also have a challenge to look more deeply at the world and thus to become mature participants in the National Student Association. It is a challenge not only to our student government but to us individually, as students and as citizens.

Whatever we decide—we have a long way to go.

Whither Now Disarmament?

The unanimous vote of the 82 member countries of the UN sounds a note of harmony unheard before in our lifetime. This move in favor of disarmament bespeaks a multitude of consequences. If disarmament occurs, what implications does it hold?

Not the least among the necessary adjustments would be the socio-economic change. We in America, while speaking so boldly for peace, nonetheless employ labor by the thousands to create new weapons. The defense budget is fantastic. To change it now would alter the national economy drastically.

It is sobering to realize that there are many who would keep disarmament verbal and would fight to keep the armament industry producing.

Probably none of us would deny the ultimate wisdom of disarmament—but what we can do to work it out remains a problem of great magnitude.

"Who ever saw a pregnant amoeba!"

Moved and Seconded

By David Morris

What is Student Government on our campus? What can it be and do for the average student. Recently the values of student government and the role of the college in influencing values in this area have been subject to critical examination. Many studies have produced notable reaction on college campuses all over the country.

In many cases administrations, faculties, and students of America's colleges and universities are failing in their responsibilty to create the atmosphere which encourages students to re-evaluate and develop their values in all realms.

This fact should be of major concern to college students of today. What are we as a student body contributing to the betterment of our college and ourselves? Our four years here are among the most formative of our lives. If we fail to re-evaluate and develop our values now, then we miss a great opportunity.

Your student government should play a major role in promoting an atmosphere which offers opportunity for stimulation of student values. We as a student body need to utilize the opportunities made available to us in order that we have the proper perspective in viewing our situation on this campus.

If we are to assume a responsible and reputable position in our world, then we need to assume a like position in our campus life. What are we concerned about? Do we want to contribute, or would we rather reap the benefits of others' contributions? What are we as individuals doing about the problems facing the student world today? Or do we here at Maryville ever know what those problems are? Perhaps we are too prone to be indifferent about anything which doesn't concern our immediate situation. It's easy not to be concerned about our own campus, to say nothing of the student world at large, but do we owe it to ourselves and others to be concerned?

Such questions as these merit our attention. Here on this cam

(Continued on page three)

Looking at Books - - - Lyric Promises

By Bob Bowman

Promises. By Robert Penn Warren, 84 pp. New York, Random House, 1957.

The versatility of Pulitzer-Prize winner Robert Penn Warren is well known to that small segment of the American reading public that takes its literature seriously. It is unfortunate, however — though hardly surprising — that the current popularity of his novels (All the King's Men, Band of Angels, and others) has considerably eclipsed his previous successes in the field of lyric poetry.

The present volume, containing poems written in the years 1954 to 1956, mark his return to the lyric medium after a decade devoted exclusively to the writing of fiction and narrative verse. For those who remember his earlier poems, this return to the more restrictive forms of verse will be most welcomed, since Mr. Warren has well proven himself a master of dramatic imagery and possessor of an extraordinary lyric gift.

The poems of his latest volume are divided into two sections: "To a Little Girl, One Year Old, in a Ruined Fortress" and "Promises" dedicated respectively to his infant daughter and son. With the exception of a series of haunting, surrealist ballads in the "Promises" section, most of the inspiration for both sections is derived largely from the contemplation of the children on the rocky Italian coast, while interspersed at random with material remembered from the poet's own childhood in the rural sections of Kentucky and Tennessee. Both are marked by strong themes and vigorous rhythems, but it is in the first section that the author's lyric power is more completely discernible.

In the lyrics occasioned by thoughts of his children, the poet assumes a gentler, more reflective tone. The metrics become more fluid, the language more subdued, and we have such sublime verse as these two stanzas from the lyric entitled "Colder Fire."

I cannot interpret for you this collocation
Of memories. You will live your own life, and contrive
The language of your own heart, but let that conversation,
In the last analysis, be always of whatever truth you would live.
For fire flames in the heart of a colder fire.
All voice is but echo caught from a soundless voice.
Height is not deprivation of valley, nor defect of desire,
But defines, for the unfortunate, that joy in which all joys should rejoice.

(Continued on page three)

SCOTS AND SODA

By Pat Penland

I wish to discuss bells* Isn't it an odd coincidence that you don't wish to, but that actually matters not one whit, since you can't say anything, anyhow. Of course, should you wish to discuss bells, stating your personal opinions concerning them, you may get in touch with me and other bell discussions on third floor of the new women's dormitory.

Bells should be brought out into the open. They are the very governors of our society. They are the stimuli of our civilization. They rule man and beast in every phase of activity—religious, educational, economic, and social.

To see their importance, one merely has to consult literature. Literature reflects the spiri of the age, you know. Edgar Allen Poe menions bells, significantly enough, in his masterpiece, "Bells." You will also recall, A Bell for Saint Adonna. Mother Goose even indirectly cites the influence of bells in her "Hickory Dickory Dock"

Their importance is further reflected in the music of the day. Look at "the bells are rining for me and my gal," and more recently, the musical saga of Jimmy Brown.

Bells are pervasive. Their forms and varieties are endless. Some are inside bells; some are outside bells. Some have clappers; some have gongs. Some keep their characteristics strictly unknown and classified.

Bells step in and indoctrinate and systematize the individual, thereby molding society.

Probably the first bell in your memory is the bell your mother rang, calling you in off the streets, away from childhood games of softball, hopscotch, or gang wars (depending on the streets.) My mother used a whistle. I use this illustration, only to say whistles are whistles are only one of the many accomplice and cohorts of bells. It also cites the eccentricity of my family background.

Then there is the church bell, calling everyone to a certain church at a certain hour.

It is through the school system, that bells do their greatest work. Yes, in he little red schoolhouse, P. S. 361. Here the life of a child becomes completely bellized. Bells ring to get the child in his seat. Bells ring to get the child out of his seat. Bells ring to get the child's hands washed for his mid-morning snack, of grapefruit juice. Bells ring to get the child's sticky little hands washed before lunch. Bells ring to get the child's greasy potatoed (all school lunches have potatoes) little hands washed after lunch. Cleanliness is healthful. Bells ring for afternoon recess. Bells rings for afternoon nap. Bells ring or special occasions, such as fire drills, and bombing raid drills.

Seconardy school brings very little change, bellwise. Except more bells—two each hour, one to get you there and one to get you out. And another special occasion is added—the Pep Rally.

College, higher education, deeper instills the bellness of our society. Here we become indoctrinated with the sentimental "Bell on the Hill." This "Bell on the Hill" calls students to any and every thing. This bell discourages the afternoon nap, in contrast with the P.S. 361 bell. This bell stimulates the four years of shove, push, drive, and hurry.

After graduation, the individual merely steps to the tune of other bells—factory, typewriter, etc.

Bells are dictators! They are so thoroughly in control there are even no Anti-Bell Leagues.

Anyone interested in such an organization, may get in touch with me and other bell discussionists on third floor of the new women's dormitory.

* not to be confused with Bell as in Alexander Graham or belle as in Southern.

Looking At Books . . .

Excellent as some of these lyrics are, Promises is not without its weaknesses. There is a certain unevenness in execution, an inconsistency in technique and effect which becomes more apparent when one contrasts the Italian poems with those inspired by images from the poet's childhood. In the best of the former, the effect is so natural, so fresh and spontaneous that the poet, in the manner of Wordsworth, seems to act as a passive medium of nature itself. In the latter, the general impression is quqite different. Although Mr. Warren posseses a keen ear for the common tongue of the southern highlands, the diction in these poems often seems too gritty for the poetic palate.

Tow hair was thick as a corn-shuck mat.

They had milky blue eyes in

(Continued from page two)

matching pairs.

And barefoot or brogan, when they sat,

Their toes were the kind that hook around the legs of chairs.

They had adenoids to make you choke,

And buttermilk breath, and their flannels asteam,

And sat right mannerly while teacher spoke,

But when book-time came their eyes were glazed and adream.

It would be inexcusably captious, however, to say that these weak points completely under mine the total artistic structure of the volume. True, they are there, but they are often defects of language rathr than of poetic vision.

If, however, these weaknesses seem to loom too largely, one has only to read such superb lyrics as "The Flower" and "Colder Fire" to reassure oneself of the consummate power and skill of author's art. Here indeed, is one of the major lyric voices of our time. Mr. Warren has most ably and most sensitively kept his promises. May there be more.

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

SPECIAL: Thursday Only for College Students!

Hot Chocolate—2 for 15c

At The

CAPRI

Buy The Best

From

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.

CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

Keepsake Diamonds

Gifts for all occasions

Pendants - $2.95 - and up

We find Maryville College our most reliable customers!

Charge accounts or layaway welcomed.

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

Keepsake Diamonds

Scots Fight Hard But Lose Again

The Maryville Scotties suffered losses in their sixth and seventh consecutive football games this year to Sewanee by a 22-6 score and to Lenoir-Rhyne 68-0.

Sewanee came to Maryville intending to win — no matter what. In that game, the Scot fans witnessed the most penalty-ridden football game played on Honaker field since UT's frosh squad played here in 1956. Sewanee pulled 160 yards of penalties (10 personal fouls) during the game.

In the first quarter Sewanee recovered a bad snap from center and started their first drive for pay dirt. Six plays later Ira Frye scored from the 3 yard line to end a 25 yard drive. Bill Shasteen kicked the extra point.

Sewanee hit again in the second quarter driving 69 yards in 14 plays. Frye hit Walter Wilder on a 4 yard pass play for the TD. After two offsides penalties, Frye ran the extra point from Maryville's ½ yard line.

Then Maryville drove 54 yards for a touchdown. The touchdown was set up by a Jim Renfro to Tyson McClanahan pass for 12 yards and a beautiful 19 yard run by Doug Mincy. Mincy later drove over from Sewanee's six yard line. The halftime score was 15-6 in favor of Sewanee.

In the fourth quarter Sam Gill directed Sewanee for their final TD. He ran eleven consecutive times for 66 yards for their score. Shasteen kicked the extra point. Final score: Sewanee 22, Maryville 6.

Then Maryville ran into the nation's second ranked small college football team in the nation . . . the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears. The Scots were no match for them.

Lenoir-Rhyne hit for 24, 16, 14 and 14 points in each quarter in the surprisingly clean game. Only twice did the Scots come near threatening the Bears for a TD. The first try came with the Scots starting on their 24 yard line Doug Mincy hit Bill Owenby with a short pass. Owenby quickly lateraled to Tyson McClanahan who raced to the Bear's 32 for a 44 yard pick-up. That was as far as the Scots got.

Just before half-time, tackle Bill Sayler intercepted a Lenoir Rhyne pass on the Bear 33 and ploughed back to their 25. But that play was called back.

Throughout the whole game the Highlanders ran from a spread formation. Maryville attempted 34 passes but completed only 7 during the game. They did stop the good Lenoir-Rhyne passing game as the Bears only completed 1 of 7 passes for 15 yards.

Bill Owenby was the outstanding player for the Highlanders. Along with playing a tremendous game at defensive end, "Big Owens" caught 2 passes to help the Scots. Owenby punted 10 times for Maryville for a 40.0 average which is ggreat on any football field.

SCOTS FACE EAGLES NEXT

Next Saturday night the Maryville Highlanders will be meeting the Carson-Newman Eagles for the 29th time. The rivalry dates back to 1903 when the Scots downed the Eagles by a 99-0 score. And Maryville dominated the rivalry through 1952 when they defeated the Eagles for the last time. Since then all the games were close with the exception of last year's 75-0 rout of the Highlanders. In 1955 Carson-Newman scored on the last play of the game to spoil a Maryville Homecoming by a 17-13 score. In 1956 the Highlanders led at halftime, 14-0. But C-N fought back in the second half to win 20-14. Two years ago the Eagles entered the game a 30 point favorite. But it took a desperation pass in the last of the game to tie the Highlanders 13-13.

Then there is last year's 75-0 shellacing. That's hard to live down. There are many boys on the Highlanders eleven who are ready for revenge. With school and team spirit Maryville could easily win.

Fencing On Top For WAA

Fencing is next on the schedule for WAA tournaments. Chi Beta and Theta will compete against each other on Tuesday, November 17, and Thursday, November 19, in the intramural gym. Instruction for girls who have never fenced will be given on November 10 and 12; Chi Beta will meet at 3:30 and Theta at 4:30.

Moved And Seconded . . .

(Continued from page two)

pus, we have, for example four representatives who have been selected to go to another continent and represent our values and our campus. "What do I care about someone going to Africa?" said one student. The point is that we ought to care. We ought to care enough to actively do something about it as individuals and as a united group. Not only in this instance, but in many areas, we need to care and to express our concern. We owe t to ourselves, and to those who will be influenced by such concern.

We ought to be actively supporting campus organizations, Student Government among them, which express an interest and offer an opportunity for us to develop our values in all realms.

Even a tombstone will say good things about a guy when he's down.

Remember the good ol' days—when charity was a virtue, not an industry?

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Religious and Study Materials

to fit every student's needs!

Students Always Welcome!

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT

"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP

1400 KC

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Give Your Time To Help 'E. E.'

By Ralph Ayers

Ecumenical Encounters needs money! This statement has a familiar ring, doesn't it. What do we need it for?

By now you must have heard that we are sending four people (three students and one faculty member) to Africa next summer for almost three months of work, study and travel. They will meet work with, and learn from people of other races, creeds and nationalities everywhere they go, from New York, to London, to Africa. They will return to share with you their experiences. They and over one hundred other students from all over the United States are giving their time to a cause designed to further understanding among the peoples of two of the greatest continents of the world.

We are pledged to raise $5000 by May 1, 1960. We don't think it is impossible, but we do need help. We are not asking for your money (although no contributions would be refused). We ask only for your support. Recently we have begun a program in connection with the Student Help Office. The Office locates odd jobs in the community for students to do, with the understanding that the money earned is to go toward the $5000.00.

If you have an occasional free hour that you would be willing to give, please place your name and the hours that you are free on the sign-up sheets in your dormitory. You may be called upon to rake leaves, trim a hedge or even babysit, but in your own way you will be participating in the spirit that has made our project possible. Will you help us?

Concert Band

The College Concert Band will hold its first rehearsal on Wednesday, November 18, at 4:30 P.M. in Room 101 of the Fine Arts Center. All non-marching band personnel interested should see Mr. Linger as soon as possible.

The Turn Of The Times

(Continued from page one)

free world was pushed into war.

But, on the other hand, the West can not be completely intransigent and expect to find peace. Both sides must be willing to sacrifice something if the cold war is to be lessened. Neither side can expect the othr to sacrifice all its national interests to satisfy its opponents demands.

Once again we turn to the thirties for an example. It will be recalled that one reason the disarmament attempts during that period — the Washington Naval Conference of 1921-2 and the Kellogg-Briand pact being the prominent ones — failed was because the European nations, particularly France, were unwilling to sacrifice their own position in order to achieve results. Each nation had what the other powers considered an exaggerated view of its "national security." This is especially distressing in the light of the present situation. France is once again on the defense in international relations, just as she was in the 1930's. She feels, and rightly so, that she no longer holds the prominent position that she once did. Accordingly, De Gaulle has stated that France will conduct tests of atomic weapons. He has delayed a summit meeting between East and West in order that Mr. K. may visit France as he has Britain and the U.S. Therefore, one wonders if France may again be the unmalleable nation in the disarmament talks.

The entire question seems to boil down to the problem: will East and West be willing to sacrifice petty sovereignty and national pride, but not principle, in order to attain approachment on disarmament?

The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts.

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

SCOTTIES - 88c

Get your miniature mascot Scottie Dog with plaid hat. Perfect conversation piece for dresser or bed.

GLAMOR SHOP

—— Broadway

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

GRAND OPENING of MINTON'S

Maryville's most modern clothing store. Stop in and shop in a modern atmosphere with friendly service and satisfaction guaranteed.

—— Broadway Formerly Carl's

New! the "VIA ROMANO" by Bianchi

Adam's Exclusive Continental Stylist

Styled the modern Roman way to go with the new Continental look in men's fashions! Note how the Center-Crease crown is opened up, and ringed with a narrower band for a gently slimmer appearance. In a soft, Italian finish felt that's sheer pleasure to the touch!

$8.95

BADGETT STORE CO.

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

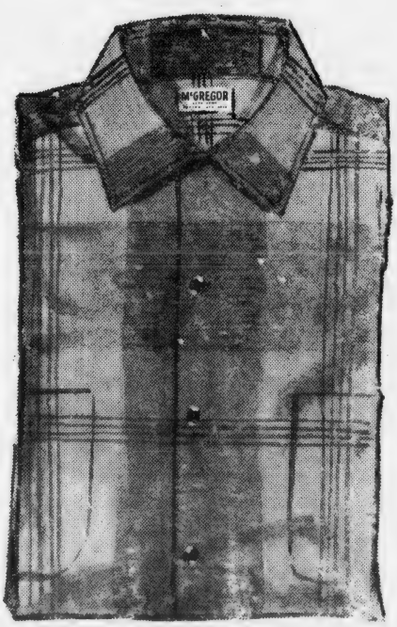
Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

Meeting Place Of The Scots

Gilbert's Coffee House

We deliver orders of $5.00 or more free



Open 24 Hours

Under New Management

Broadway Jewelers

Expert Watch and Clock Repair

YEAR AFTER YEAR it's the winter favorite

Eston Flannel Sport Shirt by McGREGOR

Warm as a crackling bonfire—softly-napped for wonderfully comfortable wear. Hardy, smooth 100% cotton flannel in the perfect weight for winter wear. Superb muted plaid in the glowing colors of Fall. Permanent-stay collar, perfectly matched chest pockets. At this price you'll want an armful. Just

$4.00

See Proffitt's for your rental Tuxedos

Proffitt's Men's Department

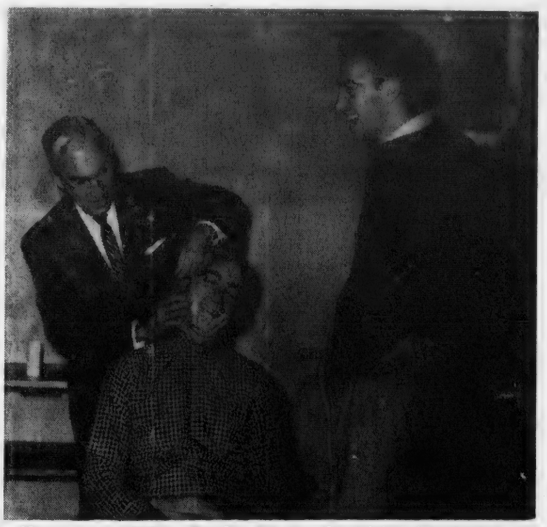
The Highland Echo

Barnwarming To Be Tomorrow Eve

Sue Lemme turns Hungarian as she practices the lively comic number "Hungarian Goulash," for her part as Olga in the Barnwarming show to be presented Thanksgiving night.

Donor To Match Proceeds To $500

Through the efforts of Senator Estes Kefauver, a friend has agreed to match the proceeds of MC's annual Barnwarming, up to $500. Sponsored by the campus Y, the proceeds will increase a fund to send four representatives of Maryville on Operation Crossroads Africa next summer. The four are Miss Emma Curtis, Terry Lee Dick, Nancy Jo Martin, and Phyllis Stine.



The annual student production will be presented in the Alumni Gym beginning at 7 p.m. on Thanksgiving evening. Concession booths operated by various student organizations will precede the curtain which will rise at 8:15.

"The Fire in the Wastebasket," a musical comedy written by Rosemary Lee and directed by Ron Pearson, will provide the evening's entertainment. A group of unusual characters numbering in the thousands composes the cast, among them: (in order of appearance) Bill Murphy, Arlette Roselli, Carl Dumford, Bob Schultz, Bonnie Munroe, Mary Hope Stewart, Gary Hall, Maryanne Braidwood, Arnold Milam, Sue Lemme, Ginny Marcum, Kay Zinnecker, Johnnie Conkle, Gwen Carlson, Paul Burger, Paul's friend, and Marilynn Lundy.

Dancers include Jane Allen, Johnnie Conkle, Suzanne Fryer, Ginny Marcum, Caroline McCaskill, Dorinka Phypers, Grace Rosser, and Kay Zinnecker. Special music will be provided by Bob Reichenbach, Margie Stevenson, Herb Thompson, Bill Green, Larry Hutzley, and others.

Ron Randon and Rosemary Lee serve as YM and YWCA Barnwarming chairmen respectively. The musical director is Bob Reichenbach; choreographer, Rosemary Lee; sets, Don McFarland; costumes and props, Helen Rankin, Ann Kennedy; house, Ron Randon; concessions, Susan Fagan and Lee O'Dell; typist, Peggy Reiter; publicity, Phyllis Stine, Marilynn Lundy, Howard McCuen, and Nancy Smith; and innumerable others.

Special credit and appreciation go to many individuals on campus and in the community who have contributed in some way o the success of the show.

Shave, anyone? Ron Randon learns the tricks of barbering as Mr. Earl Blazer of Maryville demonstrates on Bob Bowman in preparation for the current Playhouse production, THE MATCHMAKER, by Thornton Wilder.

Film Planned For Vespers

The Vesper Service on Sunday evening, November 29, will be in a new form. It will be held in the Theater, and instead of a sermon there will be a documented film entitled "Fod God's Glory." This film was originally produced in Paris in connection with the 400th Anniversary Observance of the Reformed Church of France. Originally the narration was in French, but it has now been put into English, German, Dutch, Portugese, and other languages, for use in the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches throughout the world.

The world premier showing of the film was on May 31, 1959, at the Palais des Expositions, Geneva, Switzerland, under the sponsorship of the World Presbyterian Alliance and was a feature of Geneva's Jubilee celebration of the 450th anniversary of John Calvin's birth and the 400th anniversary of his founding of the famous University of Geneva.

This motion picture was produced by Roger Leenhardt who has an international reputation among film makers and is well known for his documentaries. He has won numerous prizes in film festivals. It is a film of wide interest to all denominations but is of particular interest to Presbyterian and Reformed Church people.

Mr. Leenhardt examined more than 1,500 illustrations, drawings, and important papers representing life and activities of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches during the past 400 years. These were carefully sorted aind selected to tell the story. In a release from the United

(Continued on page four)

13 MC Students On Who's Who

"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," has selected twelve Maryville seniors for this honor. A quota of thirteen was set up for Maryville in proportion to the total membership of the school. This is the largest number Maryville has had in a number of years.

A committee was set up in December 1958, which was composed of Dr. J. D. Buchanan, faculty; Richard Jones, Student Council; Don Newroth, president of Student body; and F. D. McClelland, Dean of the School. This committee set up a proposal for selecting Who's Who, which was ratified by the Student Faculty Senate with two minor changes made.

1. Selection would be made from the top third of those scheduled to graduate before the next fall semester, on the basis of academic standing as shown by Personnel Office records.

2. This group (top third) would be voted upon jointly by the Executive Council of the Faculty and the Student Council, on the basis of the qualifications specified by the Who's Who organization. Each person would vote for the same number as the quota designated by Who's Who for that year. The top students in this vote, in number equal to twice the designated quota, would become nominees to be voted upon by the Senior Class. would become nominees to be voted upon by the Senior Class.

3. Nominees would be listed alphabetically on a ballot, and each regularly classified senior would vote for the same number as the designated quota, on the basis of the qualifications specified by Who's Who.

4. Senior ballots would be processed by a committee composed of the President of the Student Body and the Dean of the College. This committee would name the students with highest number of senior votes, in accordance with the quota designated by the Who's Who organization, with authority to establish the exact number (plus or minus 2) as considered best in the light of the voting tabulations.

Those seniors chosen to Who's Who are: Gail Bradley, organ major, Maryville, Tennessee; Elaine Louise Brininger, English major, Fair Lawn, New Jersey; Donald Buddle, history major, Maryville, Tennessee; Dan Ellis, history major, South Charleston, West Virginia; Rosemary Lee, elementary education major, Coral Gables, Florida; Helen Martenis, elementary education major, Elkton, Maryland; Ann Newcomer, Christian education major, Atlanta, Georgia; Janice Peterson, English major, Davenport, Iowa; Helen Rankin, history major, Amarillo, Texas; Peggy Reid, English major, Worcester, Massachusetts; Lessie Ann Rhodes, voice major, Louisville, Kentucky; and Edgar Smith, philosophy major, Holly Hill, Florida.

Lloyd, McClelland Attend Meeting

President Lloyd and Dean McClelland will be attending the Sixty-Fourth Annual Meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to be held in Louisville, Kentucky, November 30-December 3, 1959. This Association is the official accrediting body for this area.

Immediately following the meeting of the Southern Association Dr. Lloyd will go to Detroit to attend a meeting of the General Board of the National Council of Churches of which he is a member.

Maryville Playhouse To Present "The Matchmaker" This Week-end

The Maryville College Playhouse is celebrating several anniversaries this year. It is the 50th year of play production on Maryville campus, the 10th year of the Playhouse organization, and the 5th year in the theatre. To begin the celebration of these events, the Playhouse is presenting Thornton Wilder's farce The Matchmaker, November 27 and 28. The play, directed by Miss Kathleen Craven, features Sarah Smith in the title role and Bob Bowman as Horace Vandergilder. Others in the cast are Larry Bush, Ron Randon, Ann Harrison, Norris Shank, Judy Cole, Blair Moffett, Paul Elliot, Jeanette Payne, Nancy Slack, Larry Stearns, Randy Rosensteel, Ann Lewis and Nancy Kinsman.

Sets are under the supervision of Mr. Bob Leonard, technical director. The various sets will be seen through a false proscenium, in Victorian architectural tradition, which will remain stationery throughout the production.

Costumes for the production are under the supervision of Betty England, head of the costumes crew, working with Kathryn Smith, student wardrobe mistress of the Playhouse. Costumes will be of the 1885-1890 period.

Chuck Moffatt, who is in charge of lighting the show, will work with Randy Rosensteel, student electrician of the production staff. Steve Mouton is properties crew chief, working with Judy Eldridge, properties director of Playhouse. Pat Smith is in charge of ticket sales, working with Sarah Smith, who is tickets and house supervisor on the Playhouse production staff. Reda Kay is supervising made-up as head of that committee of the production staff.

Tickets are now on sale in the theatre. Reserved tickets must be picked up by 7:45 the night of the show or they will be resold. Prices are $.75 for students and $1.00 for adults. Curtain time is 8:00 P.M.

Choir Sings With Knox Symphony

The Requiem for Fallen Nineveh was written by Mr. Harry H. Harter in the summer of 1953 and was given its first performance by the Maryville College Choir in May of 1954 with piano accompaniment. It has recently been scored for an orchestra by its composer with the counsel and assistance of David Van Vactor. The performance with the Knoxville Symphony will be the 4th performance of the work, its having been performed by the Trinity University Choir in San Antonio, Texas, in 1955. The soloists for the performance will be: Lessie Anne Rhodes, Soprano; Gloria Evans, Mezzo Soprano; Charles Justice, Tenor; and Richard Conway, Baritone. Mary Schmidt accompanied on the organ and Miss Ann Myers accompanied on the piano for the Vesper performance. Tickets for the Knoxville Performance are available to the students and faculty at the student rate of $1.00. Tickets may be purchased in the Treasurer's Office and will be available until December 5th.

Student Recital Tuesday In FAC

Lynn Montgomery, organist, and Rosemary Barrett pianist will be presented in a Junior Recital, Tuesday, December 1, at 4:30 p.m. in the Music Hall. All students are invited to attend.

The program is as follows:

J. S. Bach,
Prelude and Fugue in D Major
Beethoven,
Sonata in E Op. 27, No. 1
Chopin, Etude, Op. 25, No. 7
Honegger, Fugue
Milhaud, Pastorale
Britten,
Holiday Diary Suite for Piano
Widor, Symphony No. 5: Toccata

Student Art Show Opens Dec. 1

On Tuesday, December 1, the Art Department will present the annual Student Art Exhibit.

The show will include watercolors, oils, ink and charcoal drawings as well as ceramics and three-dimensional designs in wood.

Also the exhibit will feature for the first time commercial designs, advertising art layouts, and interiors.

The Highland Echo

November 25, 1959

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Phyllis Stine,
Contributors ..... Dan Ellis Pat Baker, Sue Bloomer, Kathy Eisenhart Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Butch Christie, Joe Quinn, Pat Crosley, Bill Green, Norman Patterson, Fred Kay.
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Of Liberal Tradition. . .

The completion of special studies and the fast closing semester bring sober thoughts to the minds of seniors. Six more months and . . . what? To many of us the future is indistinct. Our earlier optimism that a college degree would provide us magically with all the answers is a rapidly fading illusion.

Many of us, not yet qualified to fill the demand for teachers, not planning on marriage right away, and not certain about graduate study, are faced with the uncomfortable question, "What has college prepared me for? What can I do?"

Certainly this is a real dilemma, and the answer to a great extent depends upon the drive and ingenunity of the individual. However, we should be reminde d that we have a contribution to make in society that no amount of technological or commercial training could have provided—because we are the products of the liberal arts tradition. We can count these words meaningless, or we can realize that our education has provided us with insight not only into the "how" of things but also in the "why" the motivation and the purpose.

Fred Kay's article Janus (which fills the space normally devoted to the book review) speaks directly to this point. We are obligated to remember that our work, whatever it is and wherever it is performed, should be an example in purposeful living and a credit to the deeper values we have gained in studying here.

* * * * * *

and Seasonal Signs. . .

Already strains of Christmas can be heard, as the season moves closer. Dormitory phonographs generate the nostalgia of Christmas in the Southern Highlands or spin out the gay wassail transported from across the ocean.

Downtown tinseled decorations and temporary toy displays remind us that Christmas has both feet in the door. And the moment Thanksgiving steps aside Christmas will enter with its month-long vigor.

Obviously the town is decked out for business reasons. But perhaps we listen to Christmas music prematurely because it recalls, as nothing else can, the feeling of fraternity and good will that occurs never more forcefully than at Christmastime. It expresses the need we have, now that winter has brought us inside, to communicate happily and successfully with one another.

May we suggest then, that now is the time to recultivate that friendship that has taken a bruising in the semester's rush. It can be punctuated not only by time out for good conversation and coffee (or tea, whatever your pleasure), but also by mutual enjoyment of, say, Schubert's 7th Symphony or some other equally convivial music. In this way an important part of what we love about Christmas can be preserved, without necessarily wearing out the time-honored carols, which, you must agree, are rather threadbare by the time December 25 comes around.

* * * * * *

Of Mendacity . . .

Up to this time we have refrained from commenting on the Van Doren proceedings. There has been no lack of editorial discussion and on-the-spot coverage of the matter in prominent national periodicals. What we could say would be mostly reiteration of an issue that is becoming as overworn as Sputnik.

However, the matter has been given thoughtful treatment in "The Turn of the Times." And we will add these thoughts. Mr. Ellis has said that the singling out of Mr. Van Doren as a witness could result in a wave of anti-intellectualism in the U.S. This may be true.

It does stand that Mr. Van Doren has done a serious disservice, both to his venerable family tradition and to the dignity of American higher education. Not only did he collaborate falsely to win money, but he perjured himself in a confession filled with bigoted self-abnegation and calculated melodrama. Only one congressman in the hearing remained composed enough to remind Charles Van Doren that a grown man should have no need to be commended for telling the truth.

It is a strange commentary on American judgment when a people will reward belated half-honesty such as that displayed by Van Doren. Two or three years ago a young girl ran for Miss Universe, having falsified her age and concealed her marriage. When she was found out the "good old U.S." patted her on the back and went all out to reward her—for some misplaced reason or other.

We hope that Van Doren's actions will not prove too detrimental to intellectual affairs where the public is concerned. But when the public exercises judgment such as exemplified above, who knows what will happen?

. . .

Student Assembly Directs Awareness

"It's Cheaper Than Streamers!"

A meeting at 8:00 a.m. on Monday, November 9, began a series of student assemblies directed toward increasing the awareness of the Maryville College student body.

The first assembly was opened by David Morris, student body president. After his introductory remarks, speeches were presented by Ron Pearson and Phyllis Stine.

Mr. Pearson's talk included an imaginary feature story in a Sunday supplement: dateline May 8, 1960. The fictitious writer had done a series of articles on higher education, and had as a result received an invitation to visit the campus of Maryville College.

Upon arriving at the college, the writer felt "motion. . . imparted into the very air.". His key question: "What do you feel is the most important factor in your student life?" The answers: A feeling of unity. A sense of responsibility. Concern. A sense of purpose.

This awakening required work, the students told the reporter. It all began one Monday morning at a student assembly. . .

Miss Stine spoke to the assembled students about Ecumenical Encounters, the program of raising money to send four representatives to an African work camp next summer. This project, already presented in detail to the student body, can be vitally important in broadening the concern of MC students. Whether the project is successful—and whether the student body benefits from it—is up to the students themselves.

The second meeting, on November 16, included talks on the responsibility of the college student in three capacities. The speakers were George Stewart, Eileen O'Bannon, and Dan Ellis.

Mr. Stewart spoke on the responsibility of students to faculty. The lack of stimulating classes on the teacher's part may be due to a lack of stimulation. The teacher has a right to expect receptiveness from the students. The student should make immediate and perspective use of learning, seeing how it relates to him. The purpose of education: learning to like to learn.

Miss O'Bannon spoke on the student's responsibility to himself. The student must realize

(Continued On Page 4)

"Janus" — A Defense of Liberal Arts

By Fred Kay

This a time in which something called science betrays signs of usurping the legacy of the meek. Educational institutions are advised to expand their facilities for teaching the subject, if they wish to attract the best students. Moreover, the phrase "science teaches us," tacked onto any new idea, discovery, or consumer product, imparts to one or all of them an element of universal truth. We even speak of the social sciences, although heaven only knows what a social science is. Obviously, the basic premise has to do with certain basic anatomical similarites in the historically evolved body politic—similarities which may be demonstrated according to scientific method. At any rate, a distorted view of this method and its accomplishments has become a major part of our thinking in the current era. It is a symbol of power, knowledge, fame, money and other time honoured verities.

Science per se cannot be criticized with any degree of justification save by the anti-intellectual. Indeed, few would deny the positive good that an applied scientific view has produced. We are fed and clothed by it. Many of us have lived beyond grave illness through increased knowledge of our physicians and surgeons. We can be transported across great distances in an absurdly short period of time due to the airplane, automobile and steam ship—all products of our advanced technology. These results are not to be disputed. The part of science which must be criticized, damned as the case may be, is the mental outlook which accepts science as the final word, the summum bonum, to which everything, past and present, must be subjected in order to retain its legitimate existence.

Many thinkers have broken their lances on the windmill of materialism. It is hoped that their efforts will continue, and will not be in vain. The rational sunlight of pure unrefutable knowledge needs a cloud or two in its path to remind men that like the gods of old, they are capable of great joy and unspeakable cruelty. There is a school of thought which would deny all old values if science pointed in that direction. This idea was popular some twenty years ago when a little Austrian paper hanger set out to conquer a large segment of the world. The magnificent results of his modernity can be seen in row upon row of white crosses dotting the Normandy countryside, or in the bombed out sectors of Hamburg, Warsaw, Stalingrad and London.

This slick, efficient, rapidly accelerating machine we call technology must have a governor, else we may realize Winston Churchill's "New dark age, made even more sinister by the light of a perverted science."

Why liberal arts? We are part of humanity's stabilizing factor.

(Continued on page 3)

SCOTS AND SODA

Dear Miss Penland:

I was shocked and deeply disturbed by your recent illfounded and prejudiced attack up on that great mechanical innovation, the Bell. Your advocations for an "Anti-Bell" league are indicative of that negative spirit that has always been teeming underneath society's more conventional customs, to wit: Bellism.

As you so aptly pointed out, the bell (and also the Belle—as in Southern—which you seemed to display some sort of distaste for by its reduction to a mere footnote) is essential to that strange manifestation of being, the human; and to his ego-invigorating concept of fellowship and brotherly unity, society.

Can you imagine what might happen just on this campus alone if suddenly we no longer had clanging clongs, clipping clappers, tinkling tanglers, etc., and vice versa? Why, students wouldn't know when to go meals, chapel, social dances, society meetings, "theology of theology" meetings, ad infinitum. (Mention should also be made at this time of classes which might also suffer extenuating absences.) Even more perplexing, without bells students would be totally unaware of alternate schedules which have been known to occur frequently in academic circles. For example, everyone would be operating on their own little individual schedules (no doubt, aptly adorned by some meaningless letter of the alphabet) and would be showing up at all sorts of varied and sundry times for say, February Meetings. Why, a group of students would be assembling in the chapel during exam week or perhaps even during summer vacation to hear a speaker who had appeared three months earlier, orated to an empty chapel, and had long since left with profound feelings of dejection (doubtless, to a village hidden deep in the valley to attend the final rites of one James Brown, whose complete and totally subjugated piety towards Bellism, so ecstatically enveloped his being that the curfew finally tolled his knell).

And consider also the altered schedule for evening meals. The college would suffer an overwhleming rise in malnutrition, dysentry, and indeed, starvation because no one would know when to attend meals. People would be appearing on the football field, in the intramural gym and everywhere else to partake of their daily gastronomical fill; and worse, without a bell, these eaters couldn't piously bow their heads in grace to their various Baals.

These are just a few examples of what would happen on this campus alone in a bell-less society. Consider what would happen on the national or the international scene. Or, consider the historical aspect. Paul Revere was another non-beller and he carried this asinine prejudice to the point of preferring to signal his countrymen by means of an obsolete lantern rather than ring the bell (that he no doubt would have had access to if he had merely signed up). He could have easily dropped that fool lantern, been unable to give a signal, and we would all be British today! 'Probably attending an Anglican Church college nestled deeply in the foothills of the Liverpool mountains, or molehills, which ever the case may be). I mention this to show how our petty biases and illfounded prejudices can affect yea, even endanger the lives of others when carried to such fanatical extremes.

It's people like you (and Mr. P. Revere) that produce the chaos and frustration of this world by attempting to get rid of our treasured conventions such as bells, poll taxes, prohibitions, and sweatshops. Why, without bells, people would be forced to think (or thimk) for themelves, and that always ends in trobule—usually for the bell-hating bourgeois.

If yo ushould be made to stand atop Anderson tower with semaphors and signal the students to their various appointments by code, you'd change your radical irrationalism, and probably go as far as to help hunt for the stolen bell-rope (of late Carson Newman fame).

Signed:
The Hunchback—Notre Dame

Intramural Corner

The intramural football season has ended, but a play-off game is needed to determine the second half champion. The Chinese Bandits and the Alpha Sig Hammers finished in a deadlock by playing to a 12-12 tie earlier in the week.

This play-off determines further action in the football circle. Should the Bandits win, they would take on an all-star team at a later date. However should the Hammers win, a third meeting between the two teams would result to determine the intramural football champion of 1959.

The Final Standings

	2nd. Half	1st. Half
Chinese Bandits	5-0-1	6-0-0
Alpha Sig Hammers	5-0-1	5-1-0
Alpha Sig Sledgehammers	4-2-0	2-3-1
Kappa Phi Dukes	3-3-0	1-4-1
Kappa Phi Knights	2-4-0	4-2-0
Falcons	1-5-0	1-5-0
Kappa Phi Squires	0-6-0	1-5-0

Stinkin Shoe Game

Last Saturday afternoon despite rain and cold, the annual Stinkin Shoe game was played between Kappa Phi and Alpha Sigma. Despite the bad weather a good crowd showed up to cheer their favorite team on to victory. In this case Alpha Sig prevailed by the score of 25-0. The weather failed to dampen the spirits of either squads as one of the finest games was played.

The two teams played to a scoreless first period but Alpha Sig hit pay dirt when Fred Morrison threw a touchdown pass to Tom Morris, a play covering 19 yards. The extra point try failed. Later in the same period Fred Morrison threw another touchdown pass, this time his target being Dan Greaser. The extra point again failed and the score at the half read 12-0 Alpha Sigma.

In the second half Alpha Sig took up where they left off when Tom Morris scampered with another Morrison pass for the third touchdown. Morrison himself scored the extra point and it was now 19-0.

At this point in the contest Kappa Phi launched its only threat. George Poland threw to Mike Garrett which put the ball on the Alpha Sig 12 yard-line. At this point the threat stalled and Alpha Sig took over on downs. Aplha Sig had time to add another score on the board with Fred Morrison's favorite target bringing home the bacon for the third time. Morris romped some 45 yards to pay dirt.

Kappa Phi playing a good spirited game were simply unable to keep up with the combination of Morrison and Morris. Neither team lost face and are to be congratulated for a fine, well played game. That final score again, Alpha Sigma 25 and Kappa Phi 0.

This reporter would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the M.C. football team and is coaches for their victory over Carson-Newman Saturday night. Congratulations to the student-body also for the part that they performed so well in the stands during the campaign. For those not graduating we'll see you in '60 for a continuation of that winning streak.

'59-'60 Basketball Schedule

Nov. 28—Milligan	T
Dec. 3—Milligan	H
Dec. 9—Sewanee	T
Dec. 11—Tenn. Wesleyan	T
Dec. 12—Tusculum	H
Jan. 6—Milligan	T
Jan. 8—Emory & Henry	H
Jan. 9—King	T
Jan. 18—Sewanee	H
Jan. 21—Tenn. Wesleyan	H
Jan. 23—Tusculum	T
Jan. 27—Birmingham Sou.	T
Jan. 30—Carson-Newman	H
Feb. 2—Chattanooga	T
Feb. 6—Cumberland	H
Feb. 15—Carson-Newman	T
Feb. 19—Emory & Henry	T
Feb. 20—Centre	T
Feb. 23—Cumberland	T
Feb. 27—&Chattanooga	H

JANUS

(Continued From Page 2)

Call what we study the liberal arts, or the humanities; the difference is only in the name. The real importance of such a study or world view lies in accepting values which at times seem to have little worth beyond the realm of pure speculation. Without these values, the world could become a place where the face of man, ground into the dust by the hobnailed boot of an absolute power, might degenrate into an insensitive mask. Imagine a world where the Iliad is replaced by a physics test, where Rembrandt is covered over with full color advertisements, and finally where the bustle of main street and the ticker tape market report replace the Sermon on the Mount. Imagine an ethical code based only on expediency. Faith in the practical is good, but like all faiths it must be tempered by belief in other values, or it will turn once again from Galilee the persecuted to Hitler the persecutor.

Scots Drop Eagles 14-15 Nov. 14!

We Beat C-N !!!

"Eagle meat" was served to the hungry Highlanders Saturday night, Nov. 14 as an inspired bunch of Scots battled their way to a 14-12 victory over traditional rivals Carson-Newman. The Highlanders took the lead for the first time this year and liked it too much to let it go. And never did any team deserve a victory more than the Scots. All through a losing season the team and school spirit never dropped. In fact, the spirit grew as the season went along. "And finally the season's effort paid off" commented Coach Baird.

Carson-Newman struck first in the first period. A Carson-Newman punt was blocked but still sailed past the line of scrimmage where a Carson-Newman man covered it. Even though the ball should have been given to Maryville, the referee mistakenly gave the ball to the Eagles on the Highlander 36.

There the Eagles started their drive. They made it to the Scot 2 with a first down and goal to go. After three unsuccessful attempts Albert Graves finally plunged over from the 1. Then Pat Cotter missed the fatal extra point.

Maryville took the kick-off and started a 64 yard drive for their first touchdown. Clarence Storey climaxed the drive by running 19 yards around left end for the score. Two beautiful blocks set up his score but he still had to fight for the last five yards. Then Jim Renfro kicked the all-important extra point. Halftime: Maryville 7—Carson-Newman 6.

Coming out for the third period, the Highlanders staged the longest drive of the game. Starting on their own 33, Maryville drove 67 yards to score. Tally Davis hit big Bill Owenby with a pass and Owenby drove over for the score. The play covered 17 yards. Then Jim Renfro calmly booted the extra point. At the end of the third quarter the score was Maryville 14—Carson-Newman 6.

The Eagles scored late in the fourth period with Graves plunging over from the five. On the extra point attempt Graves tried the right side and found no running room. He then reversed to the left and found himself in the clear, but tripped in the mud and fell before he crossed the goal line. That was all. Final: Maryville 14—Carson-Newman 12.

Coach Boydson Baird expressed his thanks to the student body and the faculty and especially the band, pep committee and cheerleaders for their great backing of the team this year.

Bill Owenby's long kick covered 58 yards.

Talley Davis completed 5 of 6 passes fo r 98 yards in the C-N game. Four of these were called at the line of scrimmage. And he really pulled it out on that 4th down passing play. Davis really did a great job.

	M.	C-N
1903	72	0
'05	45	0
'13	3	17
'14	0	3
'15	99	0
'18	12	0
'21	5	0
'24	7	10
'26	10	6
'27	26	0
'28	19	12
'29	12	0
'30	14	0
'31	7	0
'33	6	27
'34	7	6
'35	0	6
'36	0	26
'38	7	0
'39	19	6
'40	13	27
'41	7	0
'42-'45 WAR
'46	33	7
'47	7	7
'48	20	18
	M.	C-N
1949 (2)	13	0
	12	20
'50	6	28
'51 (2)	0	12
	6	27
'62 (2)	0	20
	21	7
'53	0	7
'54	7	7
'55	13	17
'56	14	20
'57	13	13
'58	0	75
'59	14	12

Maryville won 20, lost 16, tied 3

WAA Plans Swim Meet

Swimmers in Chi Beta and Theta will end WAA competitive tournaments for this semester in a meet to be held in the college pool at 4:15 on Thursday, Dec. 3.

Of the eight events scheduled, three are relays, in which each society will be represented by two teams. Managers Rosemary Lee for Theta and Donna Sarver for Chi Beta are presently organizing their teams. Anyone wishing to enter a relay should contact their team manager as soon as possible. The pool is available for practice ary afternoon, but Tuesday, Dec. 1 will be a special practice day for all participants when teams will be organized and individual events assigned.

Featured among the relays is the traditional pajama race, which is usually the most comical and entertaining of all events. The first swimmer for each team, garbed in pajamas, swims to the far end of the pool where a second girl then puts on the same pair of pajamas and races back to the starting line.

Individual events will include the breast and side strokes, (both for form), diving a plain front dive and a dive of choice; ping-pong race; and 25 yard back crawl race.

Carolyn Thomas, chairman of the meet, urges everyone to support his favorite society by attending the meet, for it is bound to be a good show.

Total events are

Relays

1—Pajama race
2—75-yard medley relay
3—100 yard free-style
4—Breast stroke
5—Side stroke
6—Diving
7—Ping-pong race
8—25 Yard back crawl

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Christmas Ideals

Gibson's Greeting Cards

Students Always Welcome

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP
1400 KC

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

MARYVILLE BOWLING CENTER

OPEN BOWLING 2 P.M.

Any afternoon and Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday; and Sunday after 8:00 P.M.

Student Rates till 5:30

BOWLING

The Turn Of The Times. . . . . Revelation and Reaction

By Dan Ellis

The hearing room was silent as the tall figure walked slowly down the aisle to slouch resignedly in the witness chair. "Name?" Charles Van Doren." "Occupation?" "Former Instructor in English at Columbia University.' There followed a long confession of corruption and collusion between producer and contestant on one of the most poplar of the many television quiz shows.

He was not alone. He was one of many. But as previous witnesses had revealed the dishonesty of the shows, most of his fans had held to the belief that "Charlie" was not one of them. He was the "scholar in a family of scholars." But not only had Van Doren betrayed the academic world by lying on the TV show, he had perjured himself before the New York grand jury, and even when he finally did admit his part his confession was phrased in such a way as to draw the greatest amount of public sympathy. It was a real "tear-jerker," about par for a middle-of-the-afternoon soap opera on the medium which he had committed his wrong. He was the man who was trapped into doing evil against his will; he had wanted to cease, but "they" would not let him; he was confessing now because he could no longer bear to deceive those who had placed their faith in him. But the facts showed otherwise. He was confessing because evidence dug up by the Congressional committee had finally been able to trap him with a supoena. Even so most of the members of the committee congratulated him for his straight-forward statement. One dissenter commented "I don't think a man of his age should be congratulated for telling the truth."

The tale of Charles Van Doren is a tragic one. His life may be ruined at this early age. But the story has even more tragic implications. Van Doren had become the hero of millions of viewers; he was the symbol of the learned man, the intellectual, in the eyes of his fans. It will be a tragedy indeed if the public, in in reaction to Van Doren's acts, becomes disillusioned with the academic world and the word "egghead" becomes a term of derision once again. If this happens the irony of the tale will be complete, for Charles Van Doren says he agreed to his part in the crime in order to better the cause of the intellectual world.

(Continued from page 3)

that if he is unprepared for class, his mind wanders, his notes are unintelligible, he is too nervous to benefit from discussion. Using Beck's ON BECOMING AN EDUCATED PERSON as a source, Miss O'Bannon cited the fear of failure as an obstacle to learning. She stated that the student must treat himself as a valuable, if not perfect, individual, and that he should strive for improvement rather than perfection.

Mr. Ellis spoke on the student's responsibility to other students. In the first universities, in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, students came together in groups to share their knowledge and then hired professors, thus forming their own universities. Now we rely on teachers and books; but because of the current teacher shortage, we will need to rely more on each other. We have a responsibility to challenge other students—to make them want to learn, to share what we have learned with each other; to promote a climate favorable to intellectual activity on campus.

Democracy cannot work favorably without education; we have an additional responsibility as citizens to see that every individual realizes and utilizes his potential.

As David Morris stated in his opening of the first assembly, this movement is not a rebellion. Its purpose is to improve co-operatively the intellectual atmosphere of Maryville College.

While this sounds intangible, a very active movement has already begun. Any student who has questions or suggstions may approach student council members, and the council meetings on Wednesday evenings are open to the student body.

Concert Band Needs Members

The Concert Band needs members. If you can play any of the band instruments with a reasonable degree of proficiency, you have the opportunity of becoming a member of what promises to be an excellent concert band.

The group is scheduled for a program on Friday, January 29, 1960 and has already begun preliminary rehearsals.

(Continued From Page 1)

Presbyterian Audiovisual Department in New York, the following remarks are made: "The pictures appear on the screen one after the other as the camera moves back and forth studying the details of each picture. The effect is one of vitality and urgency in the finished production which causes the pictures almost to come to life. A fast paced narration contributes to the effectiveness. Behind the entire narration is a very beautiful accompaniment composed of orchestral and choral selections. The entire effect is quite moving and inspiring.

The story opens in Europe in the middle ages, follows the works of the Reformers and the spread of the Reformation; and gives glimpses of the heroic struggles of the French Hugenots and the development of the Church in America, and the modern world movements.

The film takes twenty-eight minutes. The other half of the Vesper Service will consist of worship, including music by the Men's Glee Club.

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

BYRNE DRUG

FOR THANKSGIVING
NAME BRANDS
In CHOCOLATES
Whitman's — Pangburn — Belle Camp
"THE FRIENDLY DRUG STORE ON THE CORNER"

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in
"Smart" Styles
for
Young People

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name
Address
City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to colleg[illegible] students, fa[illegible]

Buy The Best

From

Murphy-West Motor Co.
Chevrolet Oldsmobile

BULKY STITCH

Coat Sweater

as advertised in LIFE

Robert Bruce

The casual sweater has become an important part of every man's wardrobe and the Robert Bruce version is the handsomest of all! It's "Magna" . . . a bulky stitch in a blend of 55% imported wool, 25% alpaca and 20% nylon. Seven fashion-right colors to choose from, all with contrasting striped band. S, M, L, X. . . $11.95

MINTON'S

W. Broadway

Christmas Vespers To Be Dec. 13

On Sunday evening, Dec. 13, campus Christmas festivities will culminate with the annual Christmas Vesper Service. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will speak on "The Real Meaning of Christmas."

All three of the campus choirs will participate in the service. The Men's Glee Club will sing, "In the Bleak Mid-Winter" (Hotst), with Philip Eslinger singing the baritone solo, and "Sing We Now of Christmas," a traditional French carol (arr.-Hanscom).

The Women's Choir will sing, "Christmas Bells" (Bampton), and "Still Grows the Evening," a traditional English carol (arr.-Dickinson). Next the combined Men's Glee Club and Women's Choir will sing, "What Does This Mean?" (Staley).

The Vesper Choir will present a Christmas oratorio, "The New Light," written by Dr. David Van Vactor, director of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra.

The soloists for "The New Light" will be Lessie Anne Rhodes and Willian Green. The Boys Choir of the Church of the Ascension, Knoxville, will also sing with the choir. Mr. Robert Triplett will accompany on the organ and Herman Weinreich on the tymponia.

All of the choirs will join in singing, "Unto Us A Child Is Born" (Shaw).

18 Will Graduate Mid-Semester

This semester 18 seniors who have completed their requirements of hours, special studies and comprehensives will be graduated. There will be no graduation exercises for them at this time ,but they are free to take part in the spring Commencement program.

On Sunday, December 13, these seniors will be honored at a tea from 3:00 to 4:00 by the senior class. The tea will be held in the lobby of the New Dorm. All seniors, faculty and staff members are invited. Those in charge of the tea are Leah Mucario, Helen Rankin, Lessie Ann Rhodes, and Shirley Scott.

Those seniors graduaitng are: William Aring, physical education, Trenton, New Jersey; Robert Bowman, English, Ashboro, North Carolina; John Christie, biology, Dunedin, Florida; Dan Ellis, history, South Charleston, W. Virginia; Margaret England, elementary education, Chevy Chase, Maryland; Charles Farris, organ, Maryville; Larry Gibbs, Spanish, Oxford, Pennsylvania; Amal Halaby, sociology, Kab Elias, Lebanon; Dean Hamilton, business, Rockford, Tennessee; Ruth Hargis, music, Frinedsville, Tennessee; Fred Kay, history, Hickory, North Carolina; John Llewellyn, math, Maryville; Opal McNeal, elementary education, Maryville; Susan Miller, art, Dover, New Jersey; Tom Morris, physical education, Maryville; Rhoda Null, elementary education, Uniontown, Pennsylvania; Herbert Thompson, music education, Momence, Illinois; Mitchell VanMetre, history, Maryville.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 — The Highland Echo, December 12, 1959 — No. 7

'Space Age' Draws Strong Support On MC Campus

By Rosemary Lee

On December 3rd a group of thirty students and several members of the faculty representing the administration gathered in a classroom in upstairs Thaw Hall for an orientation meeting of surprising nature. An onlooker would have had a difficult time deciding what their errand there was, because almost all the major fields were represented. This was a meeting for individual responsibility—as students and citizens of the world, for Dr. Frank Hendrix from the University of Tennessee Extension School explained a new course, "Introduction to the Space Age," which is currently being considered for credit on our campus.

Word-of-mouth publicity had attracted a crowd of diverse interests and abilities to that room. As they listened to what the course would consist of, they unanimously expressed their willingness to elect it. Dr. Hendrix said the course would involve a thorough orientation to the terminology and techniques of aviation and space today, with the instruction presented by experts in the field. If the course were elected for credit, it would involve excellent texts and materials for reading, discussions within individual fields of endeavor, and lectures by eminent aviation personnel and missilemen. He said that there would be innumerable local field trips which would include flying and viewing the physical aspects of the aviation world, and if there were enough individual interest, the possibility of becoming licensed pilots. The group was surprised to hear about the three-day optional field trip which they would probably take via military transport perhaps to Cape Canaveral or some SAC point.

The 2-hour credit course would cost $24.00.

Whether the course is offered or not, to those who are actively interested in becoming versed in space and aviation understandings to help children or themselves, it is extremely gratifying to see such interest in the world of today in a liberal arts environment.

Lecture Series To Spotlight Art

Dr. J. Edward Kidder, Jr., Professor of Art at the International Christian Univresity, Tokyo, Japan, will deliver the third lecture of the year January 15 in the theater. His lecture will deal with Japanese archaeology, with empahasis placed upon ancient tombs and monuments and will be illustrated with slides.

Dr. Kidder has written and published books and articles on Japanese aft which have brought him wide recognition as an authority in the field of art. He is this year on leave of absence from his work in Japan and has been lecturing in this country. His headquarters in this country has been Crossmore, North Carolina, Mrs. Kidder's home.

Dr. Kidder graduated from Maryville in 1943, and Mrs. Kidder graduated in 1944. He comes, furthermore, from a family of Maryville graduates. His father was an alumnus, as were two of his brothers. And another brother studied here for two years.

The date of the fourth lecture is still to be determined; however, it is tentatively placed sometime in March. The lecturer will be Senator Gales S. McGee of Wyoming, who is at the present time is touring with Tennessee's junior Senator, Hon. Albert Gore. It appears that the date cannot be fixed until Senator MGcee returns which will be before Congress reconvenes early in January.

Lloyd And McClelland To Attend Meetings

President Lloyd and Dean McClelland will be attending meetings of the Association of American Colleges, of which Maryville College is a member, in Boston from Tuesday, January 12, through Thursday, January 14.

On the day before the opening of the Association, the Presbyterian College Union, of which Maryville College is also a member, will hold its annual meeting; and Dr. Lloyd will be attending this meeting.

Dean McClelland will be attending the American Conference of Academic Deans which meets during the day of Tuesday, January 12.

2 New Economics Courses Offered

A course in Marketing Problems carrying three semester hours of credit will be offered at Maryville College during the second semester of the current academic year, it was announced today by the Personnel Office. The course, technically listed in the catalog as Economics 327, will be given each Thursday evening from seven o'clock until nine-forty, beginning 7 January and continuing through 17 May. The cost of tuition will be $54 for the semester.

Economics 316, The Principles of Accounting, will be offered also next semester. This is the second half of a full-year course, and will be scheduled for each Tuesday evening from seven to nine-forty beginning 12 January and conitnuing through 17 May. This will also carry three semester hours of credit.

Registration should be mdae at the Personnel Office of the College on or before January 5 and 6. If there is sufficient interest in the community, courses may be offered in Cost Accounting or Intermediate Accounting.

Information regarding any of these course offerings may be obtained by calling the College Personnel Office at YUkon 2-0912.

Exam Schedule

The first semester will end Saturday, December 12th at noon. Examinations will begin Saturday with Ex2 scheduled for 1:30-3:30. The examination schedule for the remainder of the week is:

Monday, December 14
9:00-11:00—E4, E3, E2
(Lunch at 12:00 all week)
1:00- 3:00—F4, Fl4, F3, Fl3, F2
3:30- 5:30—Fx2

Tuesday, December 15
9:00-11:00—A4, Al4, A3, Al3
1:00- 3::00—Ax3, Ax2
3:30- 5:30—X

Wednesday, December 16
9:00-11:00—B4, Bl4, B3, Bl3, B12, Bz2
1:00- 3:00—Bx3, Bx2
3:30- 5:30—By2

Thursday, December 17
9:00-11:00—C4, Cl4, C3, Cl3, Cl2, Cz2
1:00- 3:00—Cx3, Cx2
3:30- 5:30—Dx3, Dx2

Friday, December 18
8:00-10:00—D4, Dl4, D3, Dl3, Dz2

THE TURN OF THE TIMES ABOUT FACE INDIA

By Dan Ellis

At the opening session of the Indian parliament this week, Nehru's government appeared to be facing the gravest crises since its inception following World War II. The entire body seemed to be agreed in its move to call for the resignation of Indian Defense Minister, V. K. Krishna Menon. Then the Prime Minister himself appeared in the defense of his friend and comrade from colonia days. After his speech, in which he called for a united India in the face of aggression, he received a standing ovation. Thus, the Nehru ministry seems to have weathered the storm — at least temporarily.

Who is this man and why all the disturbance all of a sudden? Krishna Menon is a wry, acidic, personality who has been Minister of Defense of the largest free nation in Asia for two and a half years. Westerners know him best in his role as head of the Indian delegation to the United Nations where he upholds his own brand of "neutrality" — largely pro-Russian. He has long been a close friend of Nehru and worked with him in winning the independence of India from Britain. Since his appointment as head of the defense of his nation he has been accused of filling the high ranks of the army with his own friends and fellow-travelers of the Communist cause.

Indian citizens were as shocked as the rest of the free world when in early September of this year three hundred Chinese soldiers attacked a border outpost in the frontier province of Subansiri and pushed on to the garrison of Longju where they defeated the thirty-eight Indian guards stationed there. After further investigation it was found that China had been taking chunks of Indian territory for the last five years. They had even been able to build a road across the Indian portion of the state of Kishmir from Tibet to Sinkiang — the northwestern-most province of China.

Many of the politicians in India have concluded that if Krishna Menon had not become aware of all this during his term of office, it is either because he is grossly incapable or else it is because he did not wish to know. This is especially apparent when it is noted that General K. S. Thimaya, a decided anti-Red and one of the most capable officers in the Indian army, repeatedly reported Chinese activities to his superior. Meanwhile, the Defense Minister concentrated all his attention, and that of the nation, to attempting to gain territory from Pakistan, to denouncing the West and praising Khrushchev and Mao.

Mao has now notified the Indian government that although he is in sympathy with the doctrine of "Panchsheel" — the five tenets of co-existence — he does so only with those with whom he is in agreement. But as yet no word has come from the lips of Krishna

(Continued on page 3)

Fred Hope Fund To Go For "E.E."

The annual Fred Hope Fund pledges will be taken at a date to be designated after Christmas. The objective selected for the Fund this year by the Fred Hope Fund Board is "Operation Crossroads—Africa."

The first Fred Hope Fund was contributed by students and faculty on the Maryville College campus more than a half century ago. One of the leading students, Fred Hope, was the moving spirit in raising this money which was sent at that time for the support of missionary work in China. Later Fred Hope went as a missionary to West Africa; and during the forty years of his service, a similar fund was raised every year and sent to him to support his program in Africa. Since his death the Fund has served in various years in Africa, in China, and in recent years in India. For several years it has been allocated for the use of Dr. Dorothy Ferris, a graduate of Maryville College in the Class of 1928, who is head of the Frances Newton Hospital at Ferozepore, India.

This year, because of the special new effort on the campus on behalf of "Operation Crossroads—Africa," and the appointment of some of our students to participate in the program, the Fred Hope Fund Board has made this decision to participate in The African Project.

(Continued on page 3)

The Highland Echo

December 12, 1959

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors ..... Dan Ellis Pat Baker, Sue Bloomer, Kathy Eisenhart Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Butch Christie, Joe Quinn, Pat Crosley, Pat Penland.
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Of Iridescence. . . .

Another eleventh month is gone now, and the year is fast going with December's passing. Another year gone—and the world, as ever, draws capricious skirts about herself, iridescent garments that capture dark forebodings on one side and glint with hopefilled lights on the other.

All around the world the endless division, unification and redivision takes place.

The communist world is divided while China maintains her violent Stalinist policy (which Russia rejects) And India feels the repercussions. Nehru, usually so imperturbable and non-commital, has been forced to assert Indian's position on the side of the free world, as Chinese troops threaten Indian borders.

But while the Sino-Indian dispute threatens possible warfare, there is another warfare being waged on the economic front—one in which Kruschev declares Russia will outstrip us. The weapons of this warfare are made of economic prosperity—who can produce the best and greatest quantity. Neo-capitalist Russia is moving swiftly.

Russia, too, has been probing space to a greater extent than we. As a result we have feverishly pitted our "wise men" of science against theirs in a headlong race to the moon (which they have already reached). And it is likely that no one, especially the "wise men," has stopped long enough to know why we struggle so to conquer space. Are we plumbing out the Great Intelligence in an effort to better understand and appreciate our universe? Or are we "keeping up the Joneses" on a universal scale. . .

* * * * * *

And of Beauty. . . .

Christmas is upon us now as the semester ends. We have heard Messiah gathered by the fireside for Christmas Readings. Exams are but a morning away, and Christmas Vespers are promisingly near.

Most of us have pushed our way through department store crowds to make our holiday purchases and have been infected with the general atmosphere. Street decorations turn our thoughts homeward. And the smell of tangerines evokes that Christmas-stocking nostalgia.

Even more potent, however, is the sound of medieval carols brought out of hiding for another year to celebrate the season. The sky turns out a luminous wintry blue each dusk, as if in honor of the approaching Day.

It is a beautiful time of year—for some the most beautiful. It is candle-lit and star-lit, and it is bathed in gaiety and in reverence. And in the midst of all this beauty we are tempted to bow, not in the "beauty of holiness," but too often in the "holiness of beauty."

Much of our religious art has been criticized for its concentration on the latter, for its failure to reveal holiness while portraying beauty. And we, too, are guilty of this failure as we let sentimental beauty eclipse the holy season. The real beauty of the Christmas season springs not so much from its engaging trappings, however lovely they may be. The beauty comes when we recognize our need and our brother's need for the miracle of "The Word made Flesh," and are compelled to bow in the "beauty of holiness" that bespeaks the "happy morning."

Modern Pilgrimage - - and What Comes After

"President Eisenhower's swift trip now is beginning to produce those warm manifestations of friendship for which he hoped."—news from Ankara via The Christian Science Monitor, one eminent newspaper giving daily front-page coverage to the Eisenhower world journey.

Not one of us as citizens and prospective voters should allow news of this trip to escape our notice each day, either by periodical or newscast. This most significant air-borne pilgrimage is an effort not only to shift our attention to the next big areas of power struggle—Africa and Asia. Paving the way, Preisdent Eisenhower is the first American Preisdent ever to set foot in Asia. Karachi, Pakistan, received him with a powerful salute.

Eisenhower is planting good will and redirecting American interest and influence. But his term of office will end in a short time. If we agree, or if we disagree with his efforts, do we know why? And do we know who should receive our support in the coming elections in accord with our best judgment?

If you are asking on what you can base your opinion, we can only say that there are still great newspapers to be read and newscasts to be heard. Try the Monitor, The New York Times, and The Manchester Guardian. And keep a thoughtful countenance to the times.—Editor

"You hang up what you want from Santa . . . I'll hang up what I want!"

Moved And Seconded

By David Morris

The semester is rapidly drawing to a close as most of us well realize. Perhaps it is time we reflected upon the accomplishments and failures of your student government. In many areas of campus life we have illustrated a tremendous ability for the acceptance of responsibility. The Monday morning meetings, the Student forum, the success of Barnwarming, all tend to indicate a positive accomplishment within our midst. Unfortunately I cannot point to one basic area of concern and say that here is the answer to Maryville's problems, eliminate it. Rather, I should like to direct our thoughts as a student body toward the future, toward the goals which you expect from your student leaders in the coming semester.

If our individual and collective thinking continue to pioneer along paths which we have set for ourselves in the general atmosphere and concern of this past semester, then we can look to a socially, politically, and intellectually improved atmosphere in the coming months. It is difficult to point to any one accomplishment and say "This is what student government has done for you." However, to some it seems quite easy to point to a given area and say "This is where student government and student leadership failed." Such an attitude as the latter will only serve to keep us as a student body in our already established haven of achieved learning, reputation, tradition, loyalties and convictions which tempt us to build a place where we can feel secure and from which we seldom elect to move, even for the sake of continued growth.

We as students are the only reason why Maryville College deserves a future. It is in this realization that we must mold our opinions, attitudes, and actions to coincide with the purposes of this college, and of your student government. This does not entail a weekly publication of Student Council's minutes, or a torch burning rabble rousing mob scene. Rather, it requires, of every student, a concern and an interest in his contribution to the student body and to its student government. Both the tradition and hope of future promise for this college are empty unless we can point to the student on campus at this particular instant and say "This is Maryville."

It isn't what we as the student government body want from you that matters, it is rather what you expect of us as elected council members. An attempt has been made to undergird communication between the student and his elected representatives. In many areas it proved exceptionally valuable. In others it has been a complete failure. The intermediate difference between these two extremes lies in the hands of the individual student who is willing to express an interest in, and communicate to student council. The coming semester offers unlimited opportunity for improvement. It also may hold the unchallenging stigma of being ordinary in relation to what our potential as a student body is. Can we attempt to realize it and thereby continue to develop our values in all areas contributing to Maryville's improvement?

To those who are leaving Maryville in a few days, the best wishes for a prosperous and happy future go with you. To everyone goes the sincere wishes for a pleasant and enjoyable vacation. See "you all" next semester.

CHRISTMAS EVE

The afternoon spins out its final light,
Plays weak gold on the steeples and the tallest towers,
Then sinks beneath oncoming night.
The city draws its cloak of soot around,
And lights come on, penetrating smoke,
To glare and twinkle in the cold
Which swoops down between dark walls,
Invading every brick
Till fires in grates and furnaces drive it away.
"The stockings are hung. . . ." Another day, and,
Unto us a child is born,
Unto us a son is given,
And the government
Shall be upon his shoulders. . . .
Another day—the city will take down her lights
And place her worn-out Christmas, tissue-wrapped,
On all her shelves for one more year.
Another day—where is the Child
Whose birthday we have kept?
Is He, too, shelved, between the ornaments
And a music box (that tinkles "Silent Night")?
Where is He Whose name is Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God,
the Everlasting Father,
the Prince of Peace. . . .
Another day—Christmas Day, must not come or go
Till we no longer mourn the passing of the Day
But rejoice that He has come to us a Miracle in our path,
a Light through our anxiety,
and Life in whom we find our life.

SCOTS AND SODA

Merry Christmas. Jingle Bells. No Bah Humbug! I love Christmas, every sentimental (even maudlin and commercial phase of it. Christmas carols do not get stale to me. I even beat the over-anxious disk jockeys to the turntable. (However I don't know whether my good will is going to carry me through another David Saville, Alvin, the Chipmunk, Hula hoop piece till New Years or not. This year we have Santa's reindeer singing, oddly enough in the same key as the chipmunks. It actually never struck me that chipmunks and reindeer would sing that similarly. I do adjust fairly readily, however. I adopted Rudolph, red nose and all, almost immediately. In fact, I think some provision should be made for him in Clement Moore's "The Night Before Christmas." It wouldn't be a hard change, mathematically speaking——just from eight tiny reindeer to nine tiny reindeer. I don't know, nevertheless, how Rudolph would fit poetically with "Now Dasher, now Dancer, now Prancer, and Vixen. On Comet, on Cupid, on Donder, and Blitzen to the top of the porch. . . ."

To reiterate, I do love Christmas—white ones, (although I've only seen two white Easters) I also love gray ones and rainy ones. I do find sunshiny ones a little hard to abide, or, at least, the bright sunshiny ones. One should be cold enough to wear mittens.

Christmas smells drive me into ecstacy——the smell of a balsam, a white pine, a cedar or a hemlock. I imagine I could even smell one of those artificial plastic trees with a sense of Yuletide spirit. The aroma of the tree combines with other wonder smells. There is the smell of peppermint and tangerine. (My father says oranges affect him in the same manner, but having had a vitamin C conscious mother—you know an orange a day keeps beriberi away—oranges have become rather commonplace to me). Fruitcake also has a wonderful odor, sort of musty, promising smell, even though it looks a little leatherish and agglutinative to me.

Christmas shoppers can stomp, trample, and mutilate me. I love those non-mashed individuals at Christmas.

Best of all is the good companionship. Family gatherings are the very essence of Christmas (even though it may involve the oohing and gooing at new babies, providing, of course, you haven't oohed and gooed already during Thanksgiving) Yuletide is the time for friends and neighbors. I class these together during Christmas. These gatherings pour forth as much warmth as the Yule log, itself, in fact they can become a little heated, but I shan't go into that, not now at any rate.

The parties during the Christmas season are ehxilerating. You know the ones that the magazines picture in terms of the new Cadillacs, Pepsicolas (and other beverages, depending on magazine and editorial policy) and sleek women with sleek blonde tresses in sleek red taffeta cocktail dresses. Historically speaking, these parties are the outgrowth of the Junior High Dance. I've often wondered why the terminology dance is used in this connection—it's more of a sit-stand. Girls, twittering, sit in folding chairs while boys slumpingly stand jingling change in their slack pocket—these boys are the money boys. Those from the lower income brackets jingle rocks or other jingleable materials. Some of the holiday parties haven't digressed too greatly from their classic beginning.

But one could talk forever about parties an dtheir various hazards, and one could miss the deadline (which was two hours ago) doing so

So I will merely close with the innocuous words, Merry Christmas, Jingle Bells—and no Bah Humbug!

Buy The Best

From

MURRAY-WEST
FOR
OLDSMOBILE

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

PENNEY'S
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY!

Penney's lowers prices on full-fashioned stretchable nylon tights! 6 colors!

Penney's famous quality tights are sized to fit to perfection! Save now! We have the colors your daughters want for back-to-school or college! Red, black, royal, navy, dark green, beige. Hand washable.

Misses' Sizes: A, B, C. (for 5 feet 4 inches to six feet!)

Shop Penney's today . . . you'll live beter, you'll save!

PENNEY PLUS VALUE

1 88

Scot Cagers Open Season

The Maryville Highlanders got their basketball season going in a pretty good way. Although they have won only one of their first three games, they have showed much potential.

Playing at Milligan for their first game, the Scotties got off to a slow start, not scoring in the first 6½ minutes. Finally they got moving and pulled within 9 points at half time with Milligan leading 32-23. The Highlanders pulled within 4 points during the final 10 minutes but faded to lose by a 67-59 score. Tom Morris led the Scot scoring with 29 points while Bill Owenby added 13 points.

Then the Scots broke a Milligan four-game winning streak by downing them 58-57. Led by Bob Carpenter, Morris and Owenby, Maryville came from 14 points behind to take a 6 point lead with four minutes left. Then Milligan pulled within 3 points with 2 seconds left. The Highlanders let them make their last basket and kept from fouling them, preserving the first Maryville win of the season. Carpenter led the scoring with 16 points while Owenby and Morris netted 14 each.

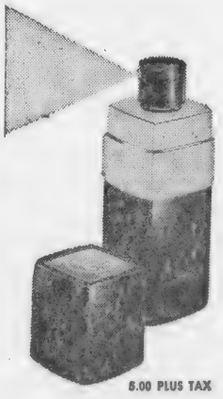
Down at Sewanee, the Tigers built up a big 19 point half-time lead and fought off the Scot threats in the second half to win 81-73. Maryville had its biggest offensive show of the season in the second half as they pumped in 49 tallies. Tom Morris again led the Highlander scoring with 29 points.

Powder Puff Ends With Tie

By Butch Christie

After many postponements because of the weather, Chi Beta and Theta Epsilon finally got their Powder Puff football game played. Each team used all their resources in trying to score but the stout. . .er. . . .good defenses kept the game at a 0-0 tie for the second straight year.

Quarterbacks Dona Sarver of XB and Ann McElhaney of OE did excellent jobs in leading their teams. Both teams deserved to win.



Owenby, Struse '60 Co-Captains

At the football banquet Thursday night, Bill Owenby and Bryson Struse were elected captains of the 1960 football squad. Pete Stafford was presented the trophy for being voted the most valuable player of 1959. Talley Davis received the Most Improved Player trophy.

The guest speaker was Arnold Kramer, a lawyer in Knoxville, who graduated from Maryville in 1940.

CHANEL

No 5 SPRAY COLOGNE

5.00 PLUS TAX

A PLEASURE TO GIVE—A TREASURE TO OWN

City Drug Store

Phone YU 2-7162
YU 2-7163
Maryville, Tenn.

Fred Hope . . .

The Board is composed of the Presidents of the YMCA, the YWCA, the Student Volunteers, and the Student Council; and of the following administrative officers of the College: the President, the Dean, the Director of Student-Help, the Treasurer, and the Deans of Men and Woman.

Further announcements as to the opportunity to contribute to the Fund will be made in due time.

Turn Of The Times . . .

Menon denouncing the Chinese Communists for their acts on India's borders or for their atrocities in Tibet.

Now it is unwise for Americans to meddle in the affairs of other nations, especially Asian nations. But perhaps it would be well if Mr. Nehru took a fresh evaluation of his Minister of Defense. The Indian ambassador to the U. S. tells us that India is decidedly pro-western, that if attacked outright by China she will probably ask for U.S. assistance. Yet Mr. Krishna Menon continues to generate ill will on the part of the west by his blind adherence to the idea that Communist nations are peace-loving (as noted by the fact that he cast India's vote against a UN resolution calling for the removal of Soviet troops from Hungary in opposition to the official stand of the Indian government), and that all western nations are war-mongers. India has courted the People's Republic of China since it was established in 1949 and has received malice in return. Perhaps it is time for her to turn her face toward the west. The first step in that direction would be to appoint a less predjudiced representative to the UN.

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP
1400 KC

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

NYLON HOSE

First Quality

Full Fashioned, 51 Guage, 15 Denier, Celo Envelope Pack.

Buy a Supply at This New Low Price

49c

BADGETT STORE CO.

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in
"Smart" Styles
for
Young People

Keepsake Diamonds

Gifts for all occasions

SPEIDEL I.D.'s -- 4.95 and up

We find Maryville College our most reliable customers!

Charge accounts or layaway welcomed.

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

Keepsake Diamonds

Student Assembly Discusses Gov't.

By Helen Ann Easterly

The topic of discussion at the last student assembly of the semester was "What Is Student Government?" Held on Monday morning, November 23 it was led by John Eaddy, George Poland, and Kathy Leitch.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Eaddy stated that the individual is the center of learning, and that education must be evaluated in terms of its effect on the student and in the community.

Mr. Poland said that a government is a group which controls the affairs of an institution. We elect our officers; the hub of our government is the council we elect to represent us spiritually, academically, and socially. The foundation is the committees; the student participate indirectly. The council has judicial power (for example, in the town night agreement); committees may recommend legislation to the administration. The student forum program takes up such problems as that of Christian attitude on campus for organized discussion.

Miss Leitch called the group's attention to the responsibility of the student, using as a clincher Mr. Hampton's "TWA airlift": Think, Work, Ask questions. Some ways in which students work are knowing their representatives and keeping track of council activities.

Mr. Eaddy concluded the assembly by reminding the group that the Student Council is an instrument to be used by the student body; that it can be efficiently used through attendance at assemblies, forums and council meetings; that some purposes toward which the council directs itself are creating an atmosphere of freedom, allowing students to move beyond tradition and to become creative; communicating with teachers, developing activities relevant to student abilities, and creating intereste in international affairs.

The remaining part of the period was open for students to suggest topics for discussion at forums. The first forum was held on December second, led by Mr. Erahams.

During Christmas activities and exams the student assemblies have been cancelled in favor of student forums. They will begin next semester, with the support and interest of the student body.

New Semester

The new semester will begin with chapel on January 6. The dorms will open at 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, January 5. The first meal served in the dining hall will be Tuesday night.

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

SEASON'S GREETINGS
From

Broadway Jewelers

Expert Watch and Clock Repair

BURNISHED COLORS of Fall captured in McGREGOR Scandia Sweaters

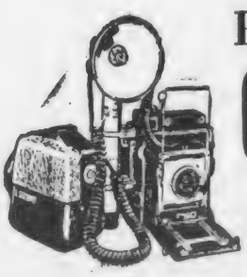
Bold, brawny styling—giant big-stitch—designed for rugged men on the move! Drenched in the virile, burnished colors of Fall: burnished greens, browns, russets — these are the colors that will make news in men's sweaters this season. Self-assured, wholly masculine, Scandia sweaters are a hardy blend of 75% lambswool and 25% Orlon—100% washable.

Scandia Pig's Whistle Pullover. New boat-neck styling in a classic pullover. $10.00

Proffitt's

Street Floor

Christian Book Nook



229 College St.

Christmas Ideals

Gibson's Greeting Cards

Students Always Welcome

CAMERAS AND PHOTO SUPPLIES MAKE IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS

PARK DRUG STORE

CAMERA STORE

SECOND FLOOR

EVERYTHING FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER

106 EAST BROADWAY DIAL YU2-1670

FIRST MC BAND CONCERT TO BE JANUARY 26

The College Concert Band, under the direction of Bernard Linger, will present its first concert of the season on Friday, January 22, at 8:00 P.M. There is no admission charge for the program wihch will be presented in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Featured on the program will be the "Folk Song Suite" by R. Vaughan Williams, and six selections from the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "South Pacific." Another composition, entitled "Cambodian Suite" will be of particular interest in that it was written by His Majesty, King Norodin of Cambodia.

The program follows:

Praeludium for Band
John Cacavas (ASCAP)
Folk Song Suite
Ralph Vaughan Williams
1. March—"Seventeen Come Sunday"
2. Intermezzo—"My Bonny Boy"
3. March—"Folk Songs from Somerset"
Adagio from Symphony No. 2
Robert Schumann
Gavotta from The Classical Symphony
S. Prokofieff
Gloria March
F. H. Losey
Cambodian Suite
H. M. King Norodin of Cambodia
Selections from "South Pacific"
Richard Rodgers
Proud Heritage March
William P. Latham

Robinson to Spark Fred Hope Fund

Rev. Dr. James Robinson, director of "Crossroads Africa," and pastor of the Church of the Master in Harlem (N.Y.C.), will return to Maryville for the January 27th Fred Hope Day chapel. All students here last year will remember Dr. Robinson's challenging speech on Africa in January. It is fitting that Dr. Robinson come for this Fred Hope drive, for this year the money from the Fred Hope fund will help send four Maryvillians to Africa on Dr. Robinson's Crossroads Africa project.

The Fred Hope fund has for many years given students and faculty an opportunity to share their money with peoples all over the world through church related projects. This is the first time that students themselves will travel to a foreign country in behalf of Maryville College.

Dr. Robinson made a world-wide speaking tour a few years ago for the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. This last year he has toured American colleges and Universities in behalf of Africa. Maryville's "Ecumenical Encounters" is only one of the many action groups Dr. Robinson has inspired throughout the world.

Two of Dr. Robinson's books are in the college library: Love of this Land, the progress of the Negro in the United States; and Road without Turning, his autobiography.

After Dr. Robinson's speech, students and faculty will be given the opportunity to sign pledge cards for the Fred Hope Fund Drive.

OPERATION CROSSROADS

By Phyllis Stine

One hundred fifty American students will go to West Africa next summer to share a work-study experience with a like number of African students. They will attempt to improve relationships between their countries through a mutual acquisition of knowledge and friendship.

During the summer of 1958 fifty American students participated in the first Operation Crossroads Africa. They spent the entire summer working and studying with African students. For a four week period they toiled in remote villages building schools, water systems, and chapels. They lived in conditions which most Americans would term "very primitive."

At the end of the summer one African student said, "I must confess that I had developed a bad taste about the American white whenever I came to think about the incident connected with Little Rock. I saw no use, at first, to mingle myself with people who just hated my color. I was a little suspicious about the project and I kept asking myself what benefits I would be able to get from such mingling. What would my people think of me if they saw me moving freely with you people. Those fears are gone away a bit from me now."

Another wrote, "You (the students) have inspired not only the villagers of Safo, but all of us here who are concerned about the welfare of our young country. Your enthusiasm to help has been a spark which has lighted up and quickened the tempo for self-help in the village of Safo. We have heard the news of their magnificent contribution of about 600 pounds collected within a week of your arrival at the village! We have also heard of the release of a new source of water supply, which before was sheer taboo!

"Above all else, we should like to express our deepest appreciation for this hand of friendship you have extended to us. We hope that this edifice will be the most lasting of all."

It was not only the opinions of the Africans that were changed but those of the Americans as well. Consider some of their remarks. "I have never been interested in politics, economics, government, or foreign affairs. Now, having been introduced to the freshest of nationalisms I can only reverse my

(Continued On Page 2)

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 — The Highland Echo, January 16, 1960 — No. 8

Third Artist Series Will Turn To Shakespeare

The third number in the Maryville College-Community Artist Series for the 1959-60 season will be the performance of Shakespeare's The Comedy of Errors by Players Incorporated. The comedy, one of Shakespeare's rarely produced works, will be presented in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at the College on Thursday, January 28, at 8:15.

Currently touring for its eleventh consecutive year, Players Incorporated has become the longest-running national classic repertory company in the United States. Founded on a shoestring in 1949 by Father Gilbert V. Hartke, Head of the Speech and Drama Department of the Catholic University of America, the troupe is made up of fifteen members, each of whom is responsible for several jobs. The company has made six trips abroad in behalf of the Department of Defense, two to the Fear East and four to Europe, with a side trip to the Arctic Circle!

Last spring, Players Incorporated made its New York debut with a limited four-week stand in the Carnegie Hall Playhouse and scored an outstanding success. Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times called the performance "intelligent and absorbing," with the "chorus interludes superbly spoken." The success led to the company's television debut. One entire program of CBS' Lamp Unto My Feet series was given over to the presentation of Oedipus Rex with the entire Players Incorporated company.

Two years ago, Players Incorporated appeared in Maryville in the 1956-1957 Artist Series. Dolores Viola, who played Juliet in Romeo and Juliet on that occasion, and Jack Formen, who will be remembered for his performance of the role of Paris, will both be cast in The Comedy of Errors.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the College Treasurer's office at YUkon 2-5312.

MC Playhouse To Feature Chekhov Plays

Playhouse activities will begin this semester with the first meeting on January 19 featuring a color cartoon, "The ABC's of Hand Tools." This informative movie stars Primitive Pete who is hampered by his lack of knowledge of the proper tools to use until he is taught how. Everyone is urged to attend — Playhouse members who intend to work in the shop especially.

Preparation for the Checkhov Play Festival has began. These plays are to be presented on January 30 for the Experimental Theatre. Directors Ron Randon and Randy Rosensteel will present two one act plays in celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the Russeian playwright, Anton Chekhov.

Rehearsals for the Spring play Ibsen's "Enemy of the People" have begun. The play's three sets will demand a great amount of work, and shop workers will be in great demand.

'Y' Programs Announced

This semester Y is carrying out the 1958 Y Assembly theme of encounter with God in every area of life. The programs have been divided into four different sections.

The first section, "Revolution in Our Midst—Race Relations," begins Sunday, January 17, with the Rev. Babbington-Johnson, a former West African, who is now minister to AME Church in Knoxville. He will speak at 3 p.m. in the FAC Music Hall on a new view of U.S. race relations.

Sunday, January 24, the film "Progress in Integration" will be shown at 1:30 in the Theatre. This film is one of the "Look Up and Live" series for television. January 31 there will be a panel of Knoxville College and Maryville students. The last program of this section will be either a program by Ecumenical Encounters or possibly a talk by former representative Brooks Hays.

"Men and Women in the Twentieth Century" is the theme for the next three programs. On February 14, Dr. W. E. Crane, Knoxville Pastoral Psychologist, will speak. A panel on campus morals will be held on February 21, and on February 28 the program will be on "The Modern Family in the U.S."

The third section, "Work and Vocations" will begin March 6 with a film, either "Patterns" or "Death of a Salesman." Problems brought out in the film will be discussed the following Sunday.

(Continued On Page 3)

Preaching Mission To Begin Sunday

There will be no vesper service on the campus this Sunday, so that the college may participate in the community United Christian Preaching Mission. The Vesper Choir will sing at the Sunday evening service, which is to be held at the First Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The speaker on Sunday evening will be the Honorable Brooks Hays, dircetor of the Tennessee Valley Authority, former president of the Southern Baptist Convention and former representative of the Fifth Congressional District of Arkansas. Other speakers in the preaching mission will be as follows:

Dr. Harold A. Bosley, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Evanston, Illinois;

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church in Winston-Salem, North Carolina;

Dr. George E. Parkinson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Canton, Ohio;

Dr. Morris Pepper, former Executive Secretary of the Board of Publication and Christian Education of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church; now pastor of the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Scottsboro, Alabama;

Dr. Earl G. Hunt, Jr., president of Emory and Henry College;

Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, president of Virginia Union University in Richmond;

Dr. Monroe F. Swilley, Jr., pastor of Second Ponce de Leon Baptist Church in Atlanta

Dr. Parkinson will speak at chapel on Tuesday morning, January 19.

The vesper speaker on January 24 will be Reverend George R. Edwards, Professor of New Testament at Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

Lloyd, Brahams To Represent Affiliation

On Monday, January 18, President Lloyd and Mr. Brahams, Director of Development, will fly to Memphis where they will spend several days calling upon business firms and corporations in behalf of the Affiliated Independent Colleges of Tennessee. Representatives of the other member colleges will be participating also. President Lloyd is at present chairman of the Affiliated Colleges.

Art Exhibit Features Textiles

Throughout the month of January the art gallery is showing an unusual exhibition of textiles loaned by the Scalamandre Museum of Textiles in New York. Entitled "The National Shrines of Colonial America," the exhibition consists of the textiles manufactured by Scalamandre for the refurbishing of many of the finest colonial homes, accompanied by framed photographs of the houses which show the materials in their actual setting and give descriptive material about the houses and their owners.

The earliest of the homes represented is the 17th century Howland House in Plymouth, Mass., which is reputed to be the only house still standing where some of the Pilgrims lived. Most of the homes shown have the added interest of belonging to some of the most famous early Americans. Most notable are the textiles designed for Washington's home, Mount Veron, but also included, among many others, are the homes of such familiar colonists as Paul Revere and William Penn.

All of the 63 textiles shown are in 5-yard lengths, and most of them are shimmering silks, which gives a very rich and colorful appearance in the gallery. Each of these reproductions of early textiles is strictly authentic. Painstaking research was done for all of them, in museums, through old records, through contact with the living descendants of the original owners, to make sure they would be entirely accurate.

Miss Wiley To Interview Area Students

From Development Office:

Until Jan. 30, local high school students will be given the opportunity to learn about Maryville College through interviews with Miss Ann Wiley, Admisseions Counselor.

Miss Wiley will visit schools mainly within a 200-mile radius of Maryville this semester. During the first two weeks of February she will be in the Atlanta, Georgia; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Huntsville, Alabama; and Nashville, Tenn., areas.

Montgomery B. Mus. Recital Jan. 29

A Bachelor of Music Recital will be presented by Lynn Mitchell Montgomery on January 29th at 8:00 P.M. in the Music Hall.

Lynn Montgomery graduated with a major in piano with a Bachelor of Arts degree in May of 1958. She is the second student to receive the Bachelor of Music degree in piano at Maryville College.

The following program will be presented:

Pastorale — Scarlatti
Sonata, K. 460 — Scarlatti
Sonata, Op. 53 — Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Adagio molto
Allegretto moderato
Children's Corner — Debussy
Serenade for the doll
The little shepherd
Golliwogg's cake-walk
Fantaisie, Op. 49 — Chopin
Quintet for Piano and Strings — Schumann
Allegro brillante
In modo d'una Marcia
Scherzo
Allegro ma non troppo

The Highland Echo

JANUARY 16, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors ..... Dan Ellis Pat Baker, Sue Bloomer, Kathy Eisenhart Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Butch Christie, Joe Quinn, Pat Crosley, Pat Penland.
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Of The New Year . . .

The new year is well underway as The Echo goes to press again. Already we have had our winter snow and warm winds, prematurely indicating spring. Classes have met, meetings have taken place — the "busyness" of school is once again resumed.

There is little in the way of new year greetings we can give you at this point, except to say Welcome Back! We hardly feel justified in reiterating the threadbare comparisons to a "clean slate" and "taking inventory" that crowd into sermons, editorials and resolutions at this time of year.

Nevertheless we do consider it worthwhile to remind you that no matter how old the refrain sounds that the future does offer not only a clean slate but a more promising one than history perhaps has ever offered. The next year, and the next decade will be the crucial years for our way of life. It is our responsibility to be able to sya in evaluation ten years hence that our freedom is still our most precious heritage.

What will we do?

. . . And Of New Issues

Most of us are acquainted with the term "government loan." To our limited understanding, it is a well-intentioned plan for aid to students. But how many of us understand the term N.D.E.A.? If we do not, we should, for the government loan is a product of this National Defense Education Act.

So what? you ask.

Simply this: the N.D.E.A. includes as one of its stipulations a loyalty provision requiring the student to sign an affidavit declaring himself non-subversive and a loyal citizen of the U.S., any breach of which oath would incur a fine not exceeding $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years or both.

Several prominent colleges have rejected use of N.D.E.A. funds on the grounds that the loyalty provision is "ineffective, unnecessary, poorly drafted, discriminatory, and perhaps unconstitutional," according to a distinguished pamphlet, "Worse Than Futile," issued on the subject by the Harvard Crimson.

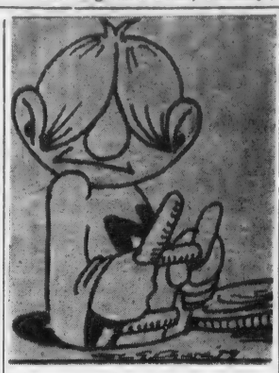
Amherst, Haverford, Antioch, Bryn Mawr, Reed, Princeton, Swarthmore, Oberlin, Yale and Harvard maintain that subversives would have no scruples about signing the oath and that there are already laws set up to prosecute these people. In the meantime students are being relegated to a suspicious position, merely because they receive government aid only after signing the oath. No other area of government benefits requires such action. No old age benefits, for example, entail a loyalty oath.

What happens in regard to this oath is in our hands as students; for until we voice objections to our congressmen at this curtailment of academic freedom, nothing more will be done. Senators Clark and Kennedy are working on amending or deleting the oath, but their efforts may be silenced by our silence. As recipients, now or in the future, of these funds, we are obliged to give this matter serious thought.

For further information on this subject, students are welcome to talk with the editor of this paper or the president of the student body. Copies of the pamphlet "Worse Than Futile" may be obtained by writing The Harvard Crimson, 14 Plympton Street, Cambridge 38, Mass.

Moved and Seconded

By David Morris



The time has come when student government has had to question itself as to whether it has lost its essential meaning — and, with it, its dignity. The problem comes to this: practically every college and university in the U.S. has some form of student "self-government"; also, widespread student government in higher education is practiced in a time marked by a deep and pervading disinterest in student government among faculties and administrative groups.

Studies which have attempted to find out what college people want from student government, or expect student government to contribute to education, have discovered that in many instances these groups see no important purpose for student government. They are willing to relegate it to several unimportant tasks which it has carved out for itself—usually some general supervision over the social life and social functions of the campus.

In addition to the burden of triviality in student government, we are now faced with several conditions which profoundly affect our opportunity to make student life more important.

There are three basic societies on our campus influencing this opportunity, each operating by a set of rules governed by our traditional past and idealistic future. One of these societies is the student body, another the faculty, and the third is the administration. Each, from the student view, is marked by its own set of rules by which it plays the game, and each is marked by its lack of communication with the others. The depth of the social fissures which separate these groups is responsible for a serious dilemma.

(Continued On Page 3)

Never should have asked for a basement room!"

"Looking At Books - Collected Reality"

The Collected Poetry of

W. H. Auden

Random House, New York, 1945

The Collected Poetry of W. H. Auden is not a new book in our library, but, judging from the number of times it is checked out, it is relatively unread. For a book of such intense reality and aptness of poetic thought, it is unfortunate that it has not come to the attention of more students. Yet it may be this same sure reality that keeps readers off.

Collected Poetry includes the two long poems, "The Sea and the Mirror," which is a learned commentary on Shakespeare's The Tempest, and "For the Time Being," a profound, paradoxical Christmas cantata in which the poet has combined classic and colloquial speech. With unerring directness Auden points up the dilemma of modern man:

"Alone, alone, about a dreadful wood
Of conscious evil runs a lost mankind,
Dreading to find its Father lest it find
The Goodness it has dreaded is not good:
Alone, alone, about our dreadful wood."

The final chorus answers this dreadful void:

"He is the Way.
Follow Him through the Land of Unlikeness;
You will see rare beasts, and have unique adventures.

He is the Truth.
Seek him in the Kingdom of Anxiety;
You will come to a great city that has expected
Your return for years.

He is the Life.
Love Him in the World of Flesh;
And at your marriage all occasions shall dance for joy."

Not only is Auden the master of expressing the ultimate passion of the human soul for God. He also proves a skilled artisan as a balladeer and as a patriot. And his elegy written "In Memory of W. B. Yeats," the great Irish poet, is one of the finest in the language. Many of us are familiar with the mournfully beautiful lines:

"Earth, receive an honored guest;
William Yeats is laid to rest;
Let the Irish vessel lie
Emptied of its poetry.
"O all the instruments agree
The day of his death was a dark old day.
In the deserts of the heart
Let the healing fountains start,
In the prison of his days
Teach the free man how to praise."

Auden, while not considered a major poet of our time, is nonetheless a Pulitzer Prize winner whose energies have produced poetry of outstanding variety, originality and intelligence. Perusing Collected Poetry the reader encounters a forceful comment on our times. As Louis Untermeyer says of the poet, "he summons eloquence without raising his voice,' 'and calls him "a superb rhetorician rich in learning and a lover of extravagant oddities, a dramatic lyricist and natural dialectician—in short, a poet who is equally adept at sheer fooling and pures enchantment."

and,

CROSSROADS . . .

(Cont. from page 1,

views." "The project added a distinctly new dimension to our understanding of the world community." "I hope to show others, the relevance of America's response in technical assistance, agricultural advice, medical training, and educationl training to this nationalism. But, again, we have the all important human element to contribute to Africa's quest for freedom, which can come only between relationships like we had this summer."

Operation Crossroads Africa 1960 will work in Senegal, Liberia, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Nigeria, French Cameroun, and Togo-Dahomey. The cost to the individual student is $875. The project is under the leadership of Dr. James H. Robinson, pastor of the Church of the Master in New York City.

The itinerary consists of a week of study at a camp on New Hampshire beginning on June 15. Further orientation will be conducted with national and governmental leaders in London and in the African capitals. In Africa the time will be spent at the work camp site in the interior and in touring significant parts of the country. After three days of evaluation the group will return to London where they will spend a week at their own initiative and expense. On August 25 they will fly back to the United States.

The campus YM-YWCA committee Ecumenical Encounters is attempting to raise $5,000 to send Miss Emma Curtis, Terry Lee Dick, Nancy Jo Martin, and Phyllis Stine on this study work camp. This fund now contains $1500.

(Continued On Page 4)

SCOTS AND SODA

By Pat Penland

Wasn't Christmas vacation wonderful, the warmth and the fellowship. I know the milk of human kindness is still flowing in your veins, providing it hasn't curdled a little in the first week and a half of school, what with the heated reactions to various courses' assignments, library work, and the record of last semester's messy slate coming in the mail a few days before school opened.

This spirit of warmth and spirit of giving permeated the entire holiday atmosphere. Everyone attempted to donate his best to his fellow man, not just material gifts, but gifts of time, energy, and forethought. I understand some of you worked in department stores, enabling others to purchase presents for loved ones; or in the post office, seeing to it that those separated might be together during Christmas through letters and cards; or worked babysitting, in order that some mother might get Christmas toys for her wee ones.

Not being in the working class myself, primarily because all prospective employers seemed instinctively to know I was not of this class, I too was caught up in the holiday altruism. I devoted my time fully to making the season brighter in some small way for those who were working.

My family coming first, naturally, I arose every morning to see them off to work. After they had fixed breakfast, I made helpful suggestions such as, "Now don't wear yourself shopping for me during your lunch hour — money will be perfectly all right."

I dined with my friends during their lunch hours to add the treat of witty discourse concerning the latest truisms of The Brighter Day and The Edge of Night to their less than exilerating punch-the-time clock lives. Of course, they had to pick up the checks since I wasn't working and had no means of income. I tried to spread myself out as much as possible in order that any one friend wouldn't feel neglected; hence, I didn't lunch with any particular friend more than three times a week.

I was especially nice to clerks, even clerks I didn't know, because I realized what a hard time clerks have with some customers. I would go into a shop and pass the time of day and ponder over the gold cufflinks with the engraving of the bowling pin at $14.98, or the silver cufflinks with the illegible initial design and fluted edge made with the distinguished man having illegible initials and a taste for fluted edges in mind, costing $19.98. Then there were the enameled cufflinks picturing a 1909 Stutz Bearcat for $9.98. Here I made no decision as to purchase, the main reason being that I had come in with no intentions of making a purchase and secondly, because of the grave economic circumstance of no capital and no credit. But I cheered at least two and a half hours of a salesman's time. It would have warmed your heart to see the fevered flush of pleasure in his cheeks.

I also tripped into the post office to pay my visit to these rushed, overworked civil service workers. I mean tripped in its most literal sense. Have you ever noticed how post office doors butt you inside over the always dislocated post office's doorstops. But despite the little unpleasantries—one must overlook these things in the Yuletide season — I personally greeted each post office teller, or whatever one calls those men behind those windows. I've often secretly wondered if those men have legs and torsos like other men, since all one ever sees is a head and hands. But, as I said, I greeted them anyway, because I wouldn't let a little thing like race difference influence me at Christmas time. When on easked me if it was four cent stamps I wanted, I told him I didn't believe I wanted any right now and that I was just sort of window shopping; but to keep from hurting his feelings, I said if I changed my mind and didn't find any at a better price, I'd be back because they looked like nice stamps.

I didn't forget the men who provide our transportation either. I stood by the bus stops and taxi stands, where I would be sure to see the bus drivers and cabbies as they approached. I would wave them a holidayish greeting, when they came into sight. As they would pull over out of the busy traffic into the side lane as if they were going to stop, I would always leaves, though, because I realized they were busy and really didn't have time to wish me a merry Christmas. And besides it would have tied up traffic for other motorists.

After Christmas this spirit of giving joy to my fellow men remained. I went back to lunch with my friends, but it seemed their lunch hours had been altered and no one quite knew to what time. When I again entered the shop to ponder over the bargain of the gold cufflinks with the engraving of the bowling pin reduced $2.98 and the silver cufflinks with the illegible initial design and fluted edges held over with the undistinguished man who didn't receive silver cufflinks with an illegible initial design and fluted edges for Christmas, in mind, having been reduced $3.98; and the enameled cufflinks picturing the 1909 Stutz Bearcat, I discovered the salesman had resigned. The post office teller was still there behind those windows. He spoke to me in remembrance, and it is his kind words that I will always recall in connection with this vacation. He suggested that I go instead of the letter that I was mailing to Guatemala to one of the bus drivers who somehow had gotten confused as to his route.

PRESIDENTIAL PREVIEWS . . .

Here are the Echo observations of the forthcoming national campaign year.

With his position as Vice-President, Richard M. Nixon is in the best place for campaigning. He is the unchallenged candidate for the Republican nomination, since New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller withdrew. Behind him Nixon has the President's support and the present peace and prosperity of the nation. In the coming months during the President's planned travel, Nixon will be acting in various presidential capacities and giving further evidence of his capability. He will make few public appearances in the time before the party conventions.

Among the possible Democratic nominations, Senator John F. Kennedy is picked by more Democrats at present. He is counting on early primaries and has a strong backing in New England. Against his are his youth (42), and his religion, although he has been quoted as saying that his being a Catholic has less significance for voters than for politicians. He has stated since announcing his candidacy on January 2 that he will not run for vice-president; he prefers his position in the Senate to the vice-presidency.

Having a following which is very intense if not quite so large as Kennedy's is Adlai Stevenson, twice a Presidential candidate before. He is the most probably compromise candidate in case of a deadlock, and until Kennedy declared he would decline the position of vice-president these two were considered an ideal ticket. Stevenson is not seeking the nomination.

Lyndon B. Johnson will not enter any primaries, but is expected to announce his candidacy just before the convention. He counts on his popularity in the South and his position as Majority Leader to aid him. Political debts are owed him by several senators and governors, but his conservatism makes him a little less popular with his party.

Hubert Humphrey, who announced his candidacy on December 30, presents himself as the candidate of the "plain people." He emphasizes the fact that he has more limited financial potentiality than the other possibilities. He is a "progressive liberal" with a primarily regional appeal (he is a senator from Minnesota), but counts on a deadlock as his principal chance for the nomination.

Widely considered a very probable candidate is Stuart Symington of Missouri. Behind him are former President Harry Truman, the South, labor, Negro voters and liberals. Although he has made no important enemies he is not well-known nationally and will have to count on a deadlock.

MOVED AND SECONDED

(Continued From Page 2)

As I stated in my last article, the present is the only reason our college or any college deserves a future. The present generation is the product of the heritage and tradition of the past. It is in the present that our problems of purpose, goals, function, and communicative gulfs, are found in relation to the three societies of which I have spoken.

Now, what does all of this mean? Simply this: many of our standards throughout the program of this college and particularly in relation to the functions of student government, seriously need regeneration in excellence. This can be accomplished only through the phrase which we glibly toss around — "student body," which means YOU!

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

Scots Topple Cage Foes

Maryville College successfully launched the second part of its basketball season by downing the Wasps of Emory and Henry College 82-69 on Friday night, and King College on Saturday by a 73-63 score. The Scots now boast five wins in seven starts.

Tom Morris was the offensive story on Friday as the team captain tallied 31 points, tops in the game. Marvin Rogers led the Wasps with 20 points.

Maryville got off to a slow start offensively and went off the court at half-time trailing 33-31. However in the second half the Scots got hot and had a team total of 51 points to 36 for the visitors. Morris scored 24 of his 31 total in that torrid second half.

On Saturday night, the Scots defeated a fast King College quintet by a 73-63 score. High point man for Maryville College was Bob Carpenter with 21 points.

As was the case on Friday night, Maryville was a little slow starting but they reacted more quickly and pulled out to a 36-28 half-time lead.

In the second half the Scots pulled to as much as a sixteen point lead. George Herron playing one of his best games kept the King defense off balance all night. The former Everett High guard scored 17 points and was very active on the boards. Tom Morris more conservative in his scoring than the previous night, hit 14 points but he did a tremendous job out rebounding the taller King players.

This game had its rough features. Two King players fouled out and a third was ejected for unsportsmanlike conduct. Maryville had two players with four personals. The foul-line proved to be the difference in the ball game. Each team had 23 field goals but Maryville made 27 free-throws while King collected only 17.

On Monday night Maryville travels to Bristol for a return match with King. Other games of interest coming up soon are the return games with Tennessee Wesleyan. The Bulldogs have lost only one game in nine starts. That loss was to Maryville by a 67-57 score. Needless to say both squads will be up for that one. Also we have two games with rival Carson-Newman. One at home and the other in their new ultra-modern field house. The Eagles are hailed as one of the top small college teams in the area. We also have a return game with Sewanee. The Tigers dealt us an 81-73 set back.

It was encouraging to see a fine crowd at the game Saturday night. Keep up the good work and let's get behind this ball club and its coach. We've got an excellent opportunity for one of the best seasons the Scots have accomplished in many a season. Go get 'em team!

'60 GRID OUTLOOK IMPROVED

Although the gridiron season has been completed, the Associated Press has released the list of Little All-America players as selected by their board. Ten players representing Maryville College opponents were selected this year.

It was an indication of the highly touted teams scheduled by Athletic Director Boydson Baird for the Highlanders who finished the year with a record of 1-7-0, winning the final tilt of the season with Carson-Newman, 14-12, to snap an 18-game losing streak.

Five linemen and five backs were named from teams the Highlanders engaged this season. Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press in New York City, listed the boys and their schools as follows:

Ends: Neal McFarran of Georgetown (Ky), Mark Day of Centre (Ky), Levi Otey from Emory and Henry (Va), and Buddy Bozeman of Howard (Ala).

Tackles: Wayne Chapman of Morehead (Ky).

Backs: Lee Farmer of Lenoir-Rhyne (NC), Larry Phillips of Georgetown (Ky), Harry Yost of Emory and Henry (Va), Buddy Fields of Morehead (Ky), and Kern Alexander from Centre (Ky).

Two Maryville College men were selected to the Small College Tennessee Team by a Knoxville Newspaper (News-Sentinel). Pete Stafford, freshman tackle, was chosen for the first team and end Bill Owenby was named to honorable mention.

Coach Baird has announced at least two new teams will be on the Highlander's 1960 grid schedule. One of these will be Bridgewater College of Virginia and one other yet to be announced. Also on the schedule will be Howard, Centre, Emory and Henry, Carson-Newman, Morehead, and Georgetown. Southawestern of Memphis will be added in 1961 to replace Morehead. Dropped this year were Sewanee and Lenoir-Rhyne.

Indications are that a large number of area high school seniors will report for the spring training. Another former East Tennessee State College player — John Bradley who starred at Maryville High School — has enrolled for this semester and will be eligible for action during the 1960 campaign.

'Y' PROGRAM . . .

(Continued From Page 1)

On March 27 a panel composed of a businessman, a teacher, a minister, and a doctor, will discuss vocations.

"World Affairs" will be the final topic for the year. The first program on April 3 will be entitled "Masters of Deceit," which concerns the Communist threat. This will be followed on April 10 by a discussion on "Will There Be Another War?" April 16 will be the Easter Eve Dramatic Presentation, and April 24 will be given to a retreat and installation services for the new Y officers. For the last program of the year, Y will present "Our Position in the Coming Political Year."

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Supplies and Accessories for All Courses

Students Always Welcome!

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

BROADWAY JEWELERS

WATCHES ELECTRICALLY REGULATED

EXPERT

WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIR

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

PREVENT CRIPPLING DISEASES

BIRTH DEFECTS
ARTHRITIS
POLIO

JOIN THE NEW MARCH OF DIMES

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

13 MC Students At USCF Conf.

During the Christmas holidays, there wase held on the campus of Ohio University in Athens a student conference of world-wide significance. This was the 18th Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission in which 3609 young people from virtually every country and culture in the world gathered for a concentrated week to consider modern issues in Christian perspective. Sponsored by the Commission on World Mission of the National Student Christian Federation, the Conference dealt in daily forums with such contemporary problems as technological upheaval, new nationalisms, racial tensions, militant non-Christian faiths, modern secularism, communism, and new patterns of obedience in missions.

Speakers from many countries included Professor Kermit Eby of the University of Chicago, student leader 'Bola Ige of Nigeria, Dr. Richard Shaull of Brazil, Rev. Harry Daniel of India, Dr. Bryan De Kretser of Ceylon, and the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, now of Atlanta, Georgia. Outstanding for his daily expositions and leadership in the Bible study hour was Bishop Lesslie Newbigin of the Church of South India, General Secretary of the International Missionary Counsel.

Maryville College was represented at this conference by 13 students as follows, Steve Henderson, Betsy Low, Janice Walters, freshmen; Priscilla Newcomer, sophomore; Kathy Eisenhart, Carolyn Gass, Donna Laubach, Betsy Lonsinger, Edgar Moros, juniors; and Ralph Ayers, Amal Halaby, and Edith Walker, seniors. Also present in Athens were Maryville alumni Jim Kren and Bobbie Larson. Ratio-wise, the College had one of the largest delegations.

CROSSROADS . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

Other institutions participating in Operation Crossroads Africa include Amherst College, Atlanta University, Barnard College, Colgate University, Emory University, Earlham College, Fisk University, Knoxville College, Lincoln University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Michigan State, Muskingham College, Occidental College, Phillips Andover, Phillips Exeter Academy, Queens College, Skidmore College, Syracuse University, Tennessee State, Tuskegee Institute, University of Notre Dame, Wake Forest College, and College of Wooster.

MC Takes Part In Science Meet

Maryville College was well represented at the meeting of the Tennessee Academy of Science, held at Vanderbilt University just before the Christmas holidays.

Dr. Donald B. Williams, assistant professor of Biology at Maryville, presented a paper entitled A Study of Cystment in Spathidium spathula to the Zoology section of the Academy.

Two senior Biology majors at the College, Miss Sondra Wagner and Miss Barbara Gronbach, each presented a paper based on her experiments done for Special Studies. Miss Gronbach won third place in the Collegiate Science Division with a paper titled Radiation Injury and Photoreactivation in Paramecium aurelia. There were twelve participants from various colleges and universities throughout the state.

Photo Contest Announced

Deadline for the Fifteenth Annual College Photo Competition has been set for March 11, 1960. The contest, the only one run by and for college students throughout the nation, is sponsored by Kappa Alpha Mu, photojournalism fraternity, the National Press Photographers Association, and the Encyclopaedia Britannica, with the cooperation of LIFE Magazine and the Association of College Unions. Judging will take place March 19 at the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri. The winning pictures will be displayed at the KAM national convention late in March and then will be sent to college unions, libraries and museums throughout the nation.

Classifications

A student may enter pictures in the portfolio category, or in the news, feature, sports, creativity, portrait or picture story classese. Winner of the portfolio earns an all-expense paid week at LIFE. All first place winners receive a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and all second and third placers are rewarded with plaques, trophies and World Language Dictionaries.

Here, indeed, is your chance to earn nation-wide recognition and some mighty fine prizes for yourself, as well as considerable honor for your school.

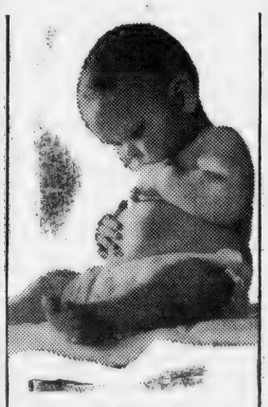
For rules and entry forms, writ.. immediately to Vi Edom, KAM National Secretary, 18 Walter Williams Hall, Columbia, Mo.

March of Dimes Campaign Opens

The theme selected for the New March of Dimes is a simple, direct statement: Prevent Crippling Diseases! Yet it says a number of things not always apparent to the average American.

Most of us are barely conscious of the crippled child or adult. We see a boy dragging along a braced leg trying to keep up with his playmates. The little girl on crutches or the man in a wheel chair are usually taken for granted as an unchanging way of life. There are many more handicapped thousands we never see at all living their lives in hospitals and institutions.

Crippling has many causes. The New March of Dimes, drawing on the vast medical research experience of its parent organization, The National Foundation, singles out three major fields of crippling disease for a frontal attack. These are birth defects, arthritis and polio.



Here is the size of the problem:

Every year a quarter of a million infants—685 a day—are born with birth defects. At least half of them face a lifetime of serious chronic illness and disability.

Upwards of eleven million people in the United States alone are affected by arthritis and rheumatism. Apart from the physical pain, the economic loss to the nation tops $1.5 billion annually.

In polio The National Foundation continues its aid to over 50-, 000 patients, most of them paralyzed in previous years. The past year added many to the patient aid roster. The need for braces, crutches and wheel chairs, to say nothing of iron lungs, rocking beds and other respiratory aids, went on without respite.

So this year when you join the New March of Dimes by giving your time and your money you will be helping many people toward a better life, protecting the nation against cripplers that may attack even you and your family.

National Foundation research is working to prevent the tragedy of crippling diseases birth defects

arthritis
polio

JOIN THE NEW MARCH OF DIMES

PIZZA NIGHT
At The
CAPRI
TONIGHT, SATURDAY, JANUARY 16
SPECIAL PRICE
Large Pizza 90c Size only 75c

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Charles Crissman—Agent for
HORNE'S FLORIST
Formerly Chandler's
Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

½ PRICE SALE
Tussy Wind & Weather Lotion
2.00 size—1.00 1.00 size—50c
Tussy Hand Lotion
2.00 size — 1.00
Helena Rubinstein Young Touch Lotion
2.00 size — 1.00
CITY DRUG CO.
108 W. BROADWAY YU 2-7162

DRESS RIGHT!
THE SHOE BOX
The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

Buy The Best
From
MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

SHEAFFER'S STUDENT
Handwriting Kit
1 GENUINE SHEAFFER'S SKRIPSERT FOUNTAIN PEN
Regular Retail Price $2.95
2 FIVE-PACKS FAMOUS SKRIP CARTRIDGES
Reg. Retail Price 49c each .98
1 HANDWRITING BOOKLET FREE
VALUE $3.98
SPECIAL FOR STUDENTS Only 98c
Maryville Jewelers

February Meetings To Start Wednesday; Kearns Will Lead

The 84th series of the February Meetings will open on next Wednesday morning, February 8, at 9:40 a.m.

Rev. Dr. Raymond V. Kearns, Jr. Pastor of Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ohio, will be the preacher for our series. Assisting in the services will be the song leader, Mr. Donald R. Mathis, minister of Music at First Presbyterian Church in St. Petersburg, Florida, and Dr. Henry Barraclough of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, guest pianist.

Dr. Kearns, a graduate of McCormick Theological Seminary, has done student work at the University of Nebraska and Kansas State University. For the past seven years he has been pastor of the Broad Street Church during which time he has participated in many college and university conferences and religious emphasis weeks, including Princeton University, Ohio State University, United States Naval Academy, Whitworth College, Washington and Jefferson College and others.

Mr. Donald R. Mathis is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan Conservatory of Music and holds a Master of Music degree from Westminster Choir College, Princeton, New Jersey. He has studied under such famous conductors as Bruno Walter, Guido Cantelli, Dimitri Metropoulos, Leopold Stowkowski, and Toscanini. Mr. Mathis has been active in choral work, and has taken tours throughout the Pacific Theater for the Armed Services during World War II. Also, a few years ago he took the Swathmore Presbyterian Church Choir on a goodwill concert tour, giving over 50 concerts in nine countries of western Europe and behind the Iron Curtain.

Dr. Henry Barraclough is a native of England who came to the United States as accompanist for the Chapman-Alexander Evangelistic Team, perhaps the most famous of that time. He had been a secretary to a member of Parliament in England and later became a secretary in the office of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church Church in the USA. He is now Associate Stated Clerk in that office. This is his ninth visit to Maryville as guest accompanist.

During the February Meetings there will be two services each day, one, the regular chapel service, at 9:40 a.m., and the other at 7:00 p.m. The evening service will be omitted on Saturday, and on Sunday morning there will not be a service in the chapel; but Dr. Kearns will preach at New Providence Presbyterian Church and President Lloyd will preach at Highland Presbyterian Church.

National Student Congress Takes Stand On Loyalty Provision

Student Group Urges Change

By Helen Ann Easterly

The National Defense Education Act, because of its Section 1001 (f), requiring an oath of loyalty and an affidavit disclaiming support of subversive organizations, has been a point of controversy since its drafting. The National Student Congress has formulated a formal stand on this loyalty oath, from which the following summary is taken.

The withdrawal of such institutions as Harvard and Yale from the NDEA program has been based on the discrimination against students alone, and against the neediest among students, as subjects for distrust.

President Eisenhower, questioned as to his opinion before his Near East tour, voiced no direct comment aside from citing the many oaths which he himself has taken. He did indicate a belief that the disclaimer affidavit is an unnecessary imposition and that he would not be opposed to its being stricken from the Act.

In a resolution passed by the Twelfth National Student Congress during the past summer, USNSA states its belief in the following principles: Loyalty is based upon ideas and cannot be legislated or created by slogans; loyalty oaths have been a source of much abuse throughout history; they do not serve their purpose, as no subversive would hesitate to sign; they threaten academic freedom as a first step toward more restrictive legislation and in the possible expansion of meaning through interpretation; the requirement implies that a student or faculty member is disloyal until he signs the oath; refusal to sign results in suspicion; they are discriminatory; it in no way exposes those subversive individuals who seek to overthrow the government.

USNSA urges amendment of the Act by deletion of this section, and repeal of municipal and state laws requiring such oaths or affidavits as conditions for graduation, student employment, or employment of faculty members at institutions of higher learning.

The Congress further urges attention to programs for increasing awareness of the nature of loyalty oaths and disclaimer affidavits; it urges students to consult with their administration in regard to their institution's participation in the NDEA program, and to communicate their resolutions and opinions on the subject to their respective representatives in Congress.

Senators John F. Kennedy and Joseph S. Clark stated that no thought or discussion was given in Congress at the time of the passage of the Act to how it would be enforced, who would investigate the veracity and validity of the act, or what danger was avoided by the requirement of this oath from students alone (instead of those, for example, who receive crop loans).

They expressed a belief that the oath has no place in a program designed to encourage education. The sole justification they pointed out was the possible prevention of student loan to a card-carrying member of the Communist Party; in any case, such a person would not hesitate to perjure himself.

The general view of the USNSA is best stated in an address by Judge Learned Hand in at New York University, in which he remarked, "For myself I had rather take my chance that some traitors will escape detection than spread abroad a spirit of general suspicion and distrust . . ."

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 | The Highland Echo, January 30, 1060 | No. 9

Vesper Choir Spring Tour Announced

The Maryville College Choir will leave on Thursday, March 10, for its annual spring tour, which will be made this year to the Washington, Philadelphia, and metropolitan New Jersey areas. Travelling more than two thousand miles in fourteen days, the Choir is scheduled to appear in five states and the District of Columbia.

The first concert will be given on Thursday, March 10, in Kingsport, Tennessee, the final appearance will be made on March 21 in Snow Hill, Maryland. On Sunday, March 13, the Choir will sing at three churches in Philadlephia, and on the following Sunday, March 20, will appear at two morning services in National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C., where President Eisenhower is a member. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Maryville College President, will preach at the National Presbyterian Church services when the choir appears there. Concerts in the afternoon and evening of the twentieth are scheduled at nearby churches in Maryland. A total of fifteen appearances by the Choir has been arranged by James W. Hampton, Public Relations Director at the College, who is this year the business manager for the Choir tour.

Tentative plans for alumni reunions on Saturday, March 12, in Philadelphia, and on Saturday, March 19, in Washington, D.C., are being made.

The Choir, one of the outstanding small college a cappella groups in the nation, has won wide recognition. Under the direction of Harry H. Harter, they have travelled extensively throughout the United States on concert tour, and have made numerous appearances on TV and and radio. In June and July of this year, the Choir will be featured on ten programs of the Protestant Hour, a program which is carried by some 365 radio stations throughout the nation.

The itinerary for the 1960 Maryville College Choir tour is as follows: March 10, combined Presbyterian Churches, Kingsport, Robinson Junior High; March 11, The Presbyterian Church, Vienna, Virginia; March 13, Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, Drexel Hill Presbyterian Church, Mayfair Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; March 14, First Presbyterian Church, Hightstown, New Jersey, High School Auditorium; March 15, First Memorial Presbyterian Church, Dover, New Jersey; March 16, First Presbyterian Church, South River, New Jersey, Campbell School; March 17, New Milford Presbyterian Church, New Milford, New Jersey, Junior High School; March 18, Third Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth, New Jersey; March 20, National Presbyterian Church, Wheaton (Maryland) Presbyterian Church; March 21, Makemie Presbyterian Church, Snow Hill, Maryland, Snow Hill High School.

Kinsinger To Give Recital February 12

Dan H. Kinsinger, tenor, of Maryville College Fine Arts faculty, accompanied by his wife, Bertha Laws Kinsinger, will present the third Faculty Concert Series program of the current season in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center at 8:00 P.M. on Friday, February 12.

The program will include airs, art songs, and arias from the works of Campian, Hopkinson, Purcell, Foster, Delius, Rogers, Britten, and Rowley, American and English composers from 1590 through 1950.

Playhouse Presents Chekhov

Celebrating the anniversary of Russian playwright Anton Chekhov, Experimental Theatre will present two of his works tonight at 7:00 p.m. in the theatre. To be presented are: "Swan Song," directed by Randy Rosensteel, and a comedy "The Celebration," directed by Ron Randon. Admission is free and it is emphasized that those attending will get out in time to see the basketball game.

The spring production has been changed to "A Doll's House," another play by Ibsen, and will be presented on March 4 and 5. Those interested are urged to lend their support on committees or in the shop.

Feb. Meetings

During February Meetings classes will take up at 8:00 A.M., the usual hour for chapel. Classes will be shortened to forty minutes in length. A and B hours will meet before the meetings, and C and D hours will follow. The meetings will convene at 9:40 each morning, and regular chapel attendance will be taken.

The evening meetings will open at 7:00 P.M. throughout the period, with the exception of Saturday night when there will be no meeting.

New Students

With the opening of a new semester we welcome to our campus several new students, both freshman and transfers.

Among the new Freshman we have:

Joyce Ann Koch, Ronald Martin Wolf, William E. Schanefelt, Richard Wells Pettit, John V. Leland, Thomas B. Christenbury, Beyoung Wong Chen, Gerald Stewart Bolden, Noris O. Robinson, Jr., and Jack Anderson.

Those who have transferred to Maryville are:

Carol Jean Myers, Beatriz Marrouin, Miriam Hall, Charlotte Ann Murchison, Penelope Wilson and Robert Kirkland Johnston.

'Project Hope' Launched In '60

Just as battleships symbolized America's might in Asia during the 1940's and early 50's, so a floating hospital promises to be the symbol of America's mercy in the new decade. With the launching of Project Hope (Health Opportunities for People Everywhere) this month, the reconditioned U.S. Navy Hospital Ship Consolation set out for Indonesia and Korea.

Project Hope is the principal activity of the People-to-People Health Foundation in Washington, D.C. Its president, Dr. William B. Walsh, conceived the idea of chartering the ship and using it as a privately supported, privately operated, medical aid and training center in friendly nations overseas. It will go wherever it is invited by the medical profession of a country. Indonesia and Korea extended the first invitations.

Funds and gifts for the experiment in people-to-people assistance and friendship were contributed by American corporations, organizations and individuals. The cost of launching the project and supporting it in its first year is estimated at $3,500,000 —about half the price of a military fighter plane or one fourth the cost of a modern bomber.

—From World Campus

Dr. Padervand To Speak Feb. 14

Rev. Dr. Marcel Pradervand of Geneva, Switzerland, General Secretary of the World Presbyterian Alliance, of which Dr. Lloyd is President, is in this country for a month and will be visiting Maryville College from February 11-15.

Dr. Pradervand will be speaking at Vespers on Sunday, February 14.

Lloyd Presides At WPA Conf.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, President of Maryville College, is in Toronto, Canada, where he is attending the annual meeting of the North America area of the World Presbyterian Alliance.

As President of the 45-million member Alliance, Dr. Lloyd will take an important part in the meetings and will deliver a major address on Wednesday.

Committee meetings today will precede the opening sessions of the Council which will formally begin tomorrow. The Council will include its meetings on Thursday.

The Highland Echo

January 30, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor — Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor — Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants — Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors — Dan Ellis Pat Baker, Sue Bloomer, Kathy Eisenhart Diane Merritt, Helen Ann Easterly, Butch Christie, Joe Quinn, Pat Crosley, Pat Penland.
Typists — Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson

Business Staff

Business Manager — Don Buddle
Business Assistant — Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors — Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

"Is There Any Word. . ."

Soon we will be involved in February Meetings once again. It is an occasion which we approach with varied memories and expectations. New students and freshmen, of course, have perhaps only an indication of days ahead. The rest of us will, however, be returning with opinions and attitudes based on previous experiences.

If this coming experience is to be a good one for most of us, there are one or two important things we must recognize. First we must be objectively fair-minded. Second we must face the fact that for many of our contemporaries—both student and faculty—and for some of us, too, the Biblical word has become faint and often meaningless. We hope now and especially during February Meetings for a restoration of that meaning.

How shall it come about? In a moving chapter from his book The New Being entitled "Is there any word from the Lord?" Paul Tillich says: "It is not easy to keep oneself open for a word from the Lord. And nobody can make it easier for us by giving us the direction in which to listen. No fixed place can be named, either in our religious tradition or in our cultural creations, or in the depth of our souls. But for this reason, no place is excluded from communicating to us a word from the Lord. It is always present and tries always to be perceived by us."

". . . . Therefore, let us keep open our ears and let us keep open our hearts, and ask with great seriousness and great passion: Is there a word from the Lord, a word for men, here and now, a word for our world in this moment? It is there, it tries to come to you. Keep open for it!"

More About The Loyalty Oath

The NDEA-government loan program seems to have become more than just speck in the academic eye. More institutions have taken action against the culprit discleamer affidavit discussed in the last issue of this paper, either by way of officil protest or refusal of funds.

Now we all acknowledge, as do our fellow colleges and universities, that government loans are essentially good and are invaluable aids to education. However, we do not have to acknowledge the loyalty oath, as it stands, as desirable or even right.

It seems only logical, then, that as an institution in which academic freedom is carefully practiced, that we should protest this disclaimer affidavit. It has been and is interpreted as a threat to academic freedom and is foreign to the basic concepts of democratic and, moreover, of Christian freedom.

Therefore we call on the student body, and above all the administrative body to consider carefully the issue involved and to favor official protest of this week, substandard loyalty provision.

The key to the controversey is found in this statement by Alan Barth: :: . . . Loyalty in a free society depends upon the toleration of disloyalty. The loyalty of free men must be freely given—which is to say, that those who give it must be genuinely free to withhold it. Nothing is more fundamental to freedom that that this choice be a real one. The premise on which every free society rests, the American society more explicitly than any other, is that only through such freedom can loyalty be evoked and counted on to endure."

A Tribute . . .

It has been a long time since the Alumni Gym has resounded with the cheers of a capacity crowd, calling for victory, and getting it. But this year the picture has changed, and we find the gymnasium creaking at the seams with excited spectators. Someone deserves a hand for the present situation.

The tide of school spirit which carried us through football season has swept into basketball season. Time and again fans are being rewarded with the sound of the ball being swished through the net. Not only have the points been adding up, but the teamwork has been notable. And clean play has been paying off.

Our hats are off, then, to the student body and other fans for their faithful support, to the pep bands and cheerleaders, and most of all to Coach Baird for his fine leadership. And, oh yes, the team—which speaks for itself.

There'll be a packed gymnasium tonight when the Scots conquer Carson-Newman again, Go Scots!

"But, Miss Ware . . . You said to serve the salad without dressing!"

Moved and Seconded

Profile of a Situation

By David Morris

Quietness pervades student environment. This quietness is fostered by our easy tolerance of diverse values. Being extremely conservative, we as students see little need to break this quietness or "contentment" as some few call it.

The traditional moral virtues are valued by most of us. We respect sincerity, honesty, and loyalty as proper conduct for decent people. But we are not inclined to censor the actions of those who depart from these canons. Indeed, we consider laxity and indifference a prevalent phenonmenon. Nor do we feel personally bound to consistency in observing the code, especially when a lapse is socially sanctioned. For example, our standards have lapsed in regard to academic honesty.

We discharge the obligations demanded of us but refuse to voluntarily to contribute to campus welfare. Nor do we particularly (as individuals) desire an influential voice in public policy. We are content to abdicate the citizen's role in the student

Continued On Page 3

Looking at Books - - - - - - - Subversion at Large

By Rosemary Lee

J. Edgar Hoover, Masters of Deceit, Henry Holt and Co., New York, 1958, 337p.

I am an American Communist. Unless I engage in a proven subversive activity there is nothing that American law can do to curtail my affiliation. I am a Master of Deceit. In the beginning I was not a Communist Man, but today, through the help of the Party Schools here in America, I believe that "the cause of Communism is the greatest and most arduous cause in the history of mankind." It is the only answer for the oppressed proletariat which is being gnawed by the jaws of world capitalism. I do everything in my power to weaken the opposition by participating in front organizations which number in the thousands in the United States. I participate in underground activities, espionage, and sabotage. I do or say anything anywhere that will hasten and violent overthrow of the social and economic conditions currently existing. In addition I do or say anything that will weaken the defenses and morale of Americans or disparage the American law enforcement agencies and courts. I help develop agitation in any instance when it may help the Communistic cause. I help confuse issues and to muddy rational consideration on issues, by compliance with the Party line. I enlist the unwitting aid of non-Communists.

If I am unable to attain intermediary goals legally, I do not hesitate if ordered to utilize illegal measures. I am interested in the rights of minority groups. I do not believe in any god.

I have homework every night. I read daily about Communist and non-communist news.

When I am informed that I must leave my family tomorrow for an indefinite period, I immediately comply.

When I am ordered to assume a new identity and to live with a woman not my wife, I do so.

I enroll my children in school under false names.

When I am meeting an important contact, I spend thirty-six hours crossing this city in order to "dry-clean" my route.

When I suspect that someone is following me, I select a heavily traveled intersection and enter it on a yellow light, hoping to cause a jam behind me that will hamper my pursuer. Similarly, I drive alternately at low and high rates of speed and stop abruptly.

I often leave taxi-cabs and instruct drivers to circle the block and pick me up again.

When a superior requests money I mortgage my house or sell it.

I take part in mass agitation campaigns. I want to have an Tnti-communist bill vetoed. The communist front organizations send in protests. They are signed by youth, veteran, and women's organizations. Many people thusly "protest" the bill's passage.

I help key associates obtain important positions in the "heart of the capitalist-system—the American shops, mines, mills, and factories."

I prepare for the day of violence when the capitalist society will be transformed through revolution into a socialist society.

I enlist the aid of the church and its officers and even attend the church whenever it provides a means to these ends.

"Lenin said, "As long as capitalism and socialism exist, we can not live in peace: In the end, one or the other will triumph—a funeral dirge will sung either over the Soviet Republic or over world capitalism."

I am an American Communist in 1960.

The above is a brief summary of some of the dynamic truths the modern American Communist might declare. It is drawn from the factual revelation and powerful gravity of Masters of Deceit written by J. Edgar Hoover—vintage 1958. The sub-title of the volume is: The Story of Communism in America and How to Fight It.

Scots And Soda

Actions speak lounder than words. If this is true, you may as well forget that axiom, strength is directly proportionate to number. There seems to be infinitely more words in the history of man than actions. How many conferences are held before a war. And how many after a war.

Have you ever thought how many of your own waking hours are spent in the art of conversation. And better still, have you ever thought how many of your own sleeping hours are spent in said art. Wait, don't rule yourself out that easily—just because you don't talk in your sleep, aloud. Chances are you say some pretty choice bits in your dreams. Of course, if you don't dream, you obviously have no imagination and probably don't say anything much, any where. I personally find my conversation in my dreams far superior to anything I say when I'm assumed to be awake. Of course, operating on the system of cause and effect, it is only fair to say that I find myself far superior in my dreams than I find myself in reality.

(For those of you not interested in this column, assuming you have forgotten this far, naturally, and would like something else to think about, I pose the question, what is reality—as opposed to the dream world.)

Now that I have the thinkers occupied, I'll continue my column on the art of conversation for the rest of you. (That's what it's about you know) G. B. Shaw says all art must be didactic, but I sort of snag on that idea because I've seen some pretty arty conversation having no intent of instruction, but rather a purpose more along the lines of saving one's own skin, neck, scalp, or other endangered areas, or of extracting a promise of deeds or treasures.

But getting more on the personal note, I know each of us worries about what we contribute to a conversation just as we worry about our personal appearance and ten-thousand other things that keep psychiatrists in couches of the latest, most expensive leathers and Scandinavian architectural design. But after painstaking and self-searching analysis, I have concluded, inductively of course, that it is not my conversation proving faulty, but those to whom I am talking. There are so many with so many faults, I could never include even a large segment.

However, there are the pronoun conversationalists, as I call them, wittily enough. First is the "I" talker. The "I" talker begins every sentence with I and ends with me, having a few myselfs thrown in between. Wiser men than I (not the humility) have said that time and tide waits for no man, but time by itself, if it doesn't stand completely still, certainly drags along in the effort for this conversationalist.

Second is the "we" speaker. He includes me and everyone else present in all sorts of things from the insufferably dull to the little too colorful, in an endeavor to be democratic. It can certainly make one awake of the loopholes in some forms of democracy.

Thirdly, we have the "they" talker. Contrary to the "we" talker, he includes neither himself, me, or anyone else in an yactivities ——dull or colorful. It is those others who fall in his class of the theys, who do all, think all, and know all. One never knows who these individuals are, and it needn't be said, but I'll say it anyway, that this type has the keenest imagination of the three mentioned.

The next one I shall treat is the intellectual boor, not a bore, this one goes the extra mile. His natural habitat is a college campus, where he shows himself to his greatest disadvantage. He's always there. He is the first to meet the incoming freshmen, introducing them to intellectualism with catchy little phrases, such as, "From a metaphysician's point of view," or "As an existentialist would say." I personally believe this to be the major factor in

Continued On Page 3

King Highlights Student Conference

By Betsy Lonsinger

One of the most prominent and popular speakers at the Ecumenical Student Conference, attended in Athens, Ohio, during the Christmas holidays by 13 Maryville College students, was Dr. Martin Luther King now of Atlanta Georgia. Dr. King is known to most Americans for his leadership and continued advocation of nonviolence especially during the days of the Montgomery, Alabama, bus boycott. He has now become a national figure in the struggle to overcome segregation.

Dr. King spoke to the Conference several times, but perhaps the most enriching and informative period for the students was a press conference held for representatives of all college newspapers present. The gentlemen of the press, eager for information to take back to their various campuses, asked many pertinent and disturbing questions which in turn brought relevant and thought-provoking answers. Kept stepping every moment by a profoundly concerned student congregation, Dr. King was by far the speaker in most demand.

After addressing a special consultation, Dr. King hurried to the governmental process and to leave others the effective power of governmental decisions. We prefer to be reactors rather than thinkers, waiters rather than doers. We become part of society at the expense of our own individuality. We become intellectually dead. We hear such terms as communist, socialist, radical, nonconformist, National Defense Education Act, even individualist and react negatively, not knowing quite what we're reacting to, but blindly taking someone else's word for it.

Continued On Page 4

MOVED & SECONDED —

Continued From Page 2

We need to become actively critical of our society and of our work, not just gripe for its improvement. We need to realize that reality is not a collegiate whirl, but rather is a problem worth coming to grips with and working out on a day-to-day basis. We need to shake the cliches and customs that we force upon ourselves and which we have accepted as the easiest way. We need to refuse to subvert ourselves at all times to the will of the groups. We need to think. Why should I write all of this? Simply for this reason. Success at obtaining a new function means prestige for student government, but success at maintaining the function efficiently over a period of time does not mean prestige. Student attitudes seem to rest upon a foundation that is not impossible but surely impractical to maintain, improvement and expansion of function for the sake of the effort of improvement and expansion.

There is a desire on the part of most student leaders for greater authority and range of activity, but there is a seeming paradox in the apparent apathy on the part of students as a group to assume the responsibility which such authority would incur. Student activities must make definite contributions to the educational needs of the students and of the college if these functions are to justify their continued existence.

MC To Play Wooster In April

Wooster, Ohio — Six baseball games will be played against teams in Tennessee during the College of Wooster's spring vacation, Coach John M. Swigart has just announced. This is Wooster's first southern trip.

Wooster will play Tennessee Tech at Cookeville, Tenn., March 28-29, move over to Maryville March 30-31 to play Maryville College and conclude the trip with two games against Carson-Newman at Jefferson City April 1 and 2.

Coach Swigart has 14 lettermen back from last season's squad which won 11 of 14 games for second place in the Ohio Conference, and had a 12-3 overall record.

Wooster's veterans are Tom McConihe, Ron Bobel and Bill Ashworth, pitchers; Dale Weygandt and John Tomasch, catchers; Dave Thomas first base; Bob Whitaker second base; Jim Dennison shortstop; Dan Thomas and Bill Washburn, third base; and outfielders Steven McClellan, Dave Fraser, Ron Miller and Bill Thombs.

Coach Swigart also has two pitchers, Gary Gall and Craig Wooster, who earned class numerals as Freshmen last season. The Scot coach may add to this squad after he gets a limited look at some Freshman candidates.

SCOTS & SODA—

Continued From Page 2

freshman dropouts, with homesickness and "momism" running poor seconds. But unlike the pronoun conversationalist he makes it his delight to be specifice and use the full name——no substitutions for anything. He calls Plato by his real name, Aristocles. His favorite poem is "Ode on Intimations of Immortality from Recollection of Early Childhood," not because he is particularly fond of recollections, or even immortality much less William Wordsworth (the name is too common, he prefers Hugo von Hofmannsthal), but because of the copiousness of the title.

Even more irritating to me than this scholarly name-dropper is the Minnehaha conversationalist. (Apologies to Longfellow). These are happy souls but not very contagiously so. Every sentence ends in a chuckling gurgle.

There are also the agreers. No matter what has been said, it's correct in its entirety. These assenters can't even wait until the speaker finishes, but begins nodding in nervous affirmation, coming to the inevitable, "Yes, how true," drowning out the speaker's last words.

Then in contrast are the disagreers. These are the men who think for themselves. The only thing they seem to agree on, is a brand of cigarettes. Black is not black but very, very, dark navy blue (the blue not being discernible) for them.

Finally there comes on the scene the nothing-nothing speaker—the worst, by far. His fault is not style, but content. Well, actually there is no fault in content; because there is no content. He speaks volumes of pure and eternal nothingness, ornamented elaborately with adjectives and adverbs.

As I said earlier, I make no attempt to include all types of conversationalists. If you were left out, I'm truly sorry. Perhaps you fall into that category of unmentionable conversationalists.

Scot Five To Meet C-N Tonight

Maryville College, enjoying one of its best seasons in years, rolled past four opponents before falling to Tusculum. Included in the list of victims were King, Hiwassee, Sewannee, and Tennessee Wesleyan.

MC had to come from a sixteen-point deficit to beat King College at Bristol. It was a battle to the final buzzer. The Scots were sparked by some clutch baskets by Tom Morris, who finished the night with 29 points, and Bob Carpenter, who notched 22. Tom Lewis led King with 17 points.

The Scots invaded upset-minded Hiwassee and after a close first half ran the Tigers off the floor. Again Tom Morris was high point man, hitting for 26 points. Bill Owenby, doing a great rebounding job, hit for 15 points and Bob Carpenter had 14. Hodge and Bell had 15 and 14 respectively for the Tigers.

Revenge was uppermost in the minds of the Scots as Sewanee came in for a rematch. Beaten on the Tigers' home floor 81-73, the Maryville club was intent on victory, and they got it. Bill Owenby and Tom Morris did an outstanding job of rebounding against the taller visitors and an all-around team effort made the difference. The final score was 74-66, Scots. Tom Morris collected 24 points while guard George Herron netted 21. Dick Dezell was high point man for the Tigers with 17.

On Thursday night a very near capacity crowd witnessed a thriller as the Scots handed Tennessee Wesleyan its second defeat of the season, 62-57. MC also administered their first, 67-57. The team really scrapped in this one. While Tom Morris was being closed in by the Wesleyan defense, George Herron and Bob Carpenter took up the slack, notching 23 and 17 points respectively. Wesleyan's record now reads 14-2.

Someone has said that streaks were made to be broken. Tusculum must have read that statement as they stormed past the Scots last Saturday, 79-70. Our gang didn't get going until it was too late. The team was not up to the game at all, and they made the trip without the coach, who was ill. Bob Carpenter finished hign for the Scots with 16 points, while Bill Owenby, Tom Morris, George Herron and Fred Porter all finished with 12 points each.

The team's attitude is that broken streaks can be started over again. Tonight is a good time to start, with the Carson-Newman game.

Because of illness on the team, the scheduled trip to Alabama was canceled and will be taken up again next year. The home game with Birmingham Southern has also been scratched, leaving the Scots a 21-game schedule.

Naval OCS Opens Doors

NAVNEWS—College men; you are a VIP—a very important person. You are forging ahead, moving to the top. Opportunities are knocking but yo uwant the best, where you can further your education and develop your executive ability—become an Officer in the Navy. A Naval Officer is a leader. A man trained a make the right decision when it counts. Become an Officer Candidate—during your four months at the Navy OCS you will acquire the additional know-how you'll need to become a shipboard Officer. Go where your college training is appreciated, earn your commission in the Navy. See your nearest local Navy Recruiter or the Officer Procurement Team when they visit your College Campus.

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CH
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP
1400 KC

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

'Were Not Beat!'

It would appear from popular magazine and newspaper coverage that we are destined to be called the "beat generation." We find, however, that our predecessors were labeled, too, when they were younger—"lost," "way out," "mad" —that was before they passed thirty and became our chief critics.

But the truth of it is that to call us "beat" is to classify us with the minority; it is inaccurate reporting: and it is to commit the inustice which always accompanies the stereotype. It is no different than naming all of us paragons of young virtue.

A more finely drawn picture of our generation is presented in the January issue of Intercollegian. In it a young man named Robb Burlage tells a different story. He says that we are, instead of being "beat," assured about what the "good life" can be. But he also finds that we have too willingly turned our backs on the possibility of the annihilation of our physical and spiritual worlds, saying helplessly, "What can I do?"

He indicates that we are trying to overcome this insecure situation by marrying earlier, hurrying up our families, an dpurchasing more and more social securities.

Moreover he finds that quietness pervades the campus. We have become afraid of our own voice. And it is well to note that the "contentment" we sometimes point to with pride is more meaningfully — and frighteningly—interpreted in the light of this quietness.

In the context of this quietness we find that our young energies of originality and creativity, of independent thought, have given over to our more immediate desire to "fit in" and to find whatever security we might. As our author says, ". . . the present student community is so quiet you could head a neutron drop."

We are conservative, and supposedly secure in our conservatism. But beneath this well-planned security, Mr. Burlage states, there is a frightening basic insecurity. When we lose our surroundings, wha thave we left as young moderns? Our security, we discover, is dismayingly shallow.

But can we let it rest here? Are we content to be simply a "social-animal" with no center and no direction?

Surely we cannot be in sympathy with the nihilistic security of the beatnicks, nor with the security of the plan-ahead, organization crowd, nor with the security of our present "peace," which is transitory as an April snow.

We must look for our leadership from those who seek the essential meaning of man — what he is, and what he is not. Those whose vision is not limited to the top of a skyscraper. We must have more insight than to want merely to find our niche or to exist solely for ourselves.

If we can open our minds and stop turning our backs on life, we will show ourselves not to be quiet but to be ready to fight.

And the time to fight—is now.

Note: The above is based on an article of the same title by Robb Burlage, appearing in the January issue of the National "Y" magazine Intercollegian.

KING HIGHLIGHTS —
Continued From Page 3

Forum on Racial Tensions where 700 delegates spilled over into the aisles and lined the walls of the auditorium. When the Chairman sought to terminate the discussion at the end of an hour, a South Indian student insisted, "Most of us have come to Athens primarily because we knew that Dr. King would be here. We want as much time with him as he can give us." The audience having confirmed his plea with prolonged applause, the discussion continued until dinner-time. Exhausted Dr. King, having arrived at 2:30 A.M. the night before, chose to sleep rather than eat, rising to resume the discussions at the evening firesides.

When asked how a segregated, persecuted people could avoid hatred in their struggle for social justice, Dr. King counseled forgiveness. Further queried as to his advocation of Ghandi's methods, the apostle of non-violence continued, "The aftermath of violence is bitterness, but the aftermath of non-violence is reconciliation."

"At Little Rock," King went on, "the governor's irresponsible actions left the President no alternative but the use of troops. If the good people, including a president who remained silent, had taken a stronger stand in 1954, the troops would not have been necessary. Now we must not only correct the glaring noisiness of those who are in the wrong but also the apathy and silence of those who long for the right."

Discussiong the international influence of the American racial situation, King said, "The US will lose prestige in the world if the problem is not solved within a few years. The state of things today just doesn't allow us the luxury of an anemic democracy."

Throughout the Conference students responded warmly to Dr. King's sincerity and devotion to this cause for they recognized that in his life the man authenticated his message. Perhaps his most remembered statement, so often reiterated in his books, was, "The victory in this most disturbing issue will by no means be that of the Negro. It will be a glorious triumph for all of God's people in God's world."

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Gibson Greeting Cards

Valentines

Students Always Welcome!

PIZZA NIGHT

At The

CAPRI

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 1

SPECIAL PRICE

Large Pizza 90c Size only 80c

Buy The Best

From

Murphy-West Motor Co. Kaiser Jeep Oldsmobile

FEBRUARY

"A MONTH OF MIGHTY SAVINGS"

For COLLEGE Men

PROFFITT'S Offer This Week

Three Outstanding Values

Men's McGREGOR" SLACKS

In Your Favorite "IVY LEAGUE" Models. You know the wonderful tailoring in "McGregor" Slacks.. These are 8.98 to 10.00 Values, PRICED FOR THIS WEEK — — —

$6.99

Men's "HAPP BROS." SLACKS

In the Growing Popular "Continential" Model. Priced t osell Regularly for 10.98 to 12.50. PRICED FOR THIS WEEK —

$8.99

Men's "McGREGOR" SPORT SHIRTS

McGregor leads in Sport Shirt Styles. This is an Outstanding Group of 5.00, 5.95 and 6.95 Shirts. And Priced For This Week — —

$3.99

BUY NOW AND SAVE

Proffitt's

MEN'S DEPARTMENT

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413 YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

Feb. Meetings Marked By Renewed Student Concern

Maryville College students have shown serious concern with the basic problems of life and seem particularly impressed with the importance of making the right vocational choice, according to Dr. Raymond V. Kearns, Jr., leader of the February Meetings at Maryville College this year.

Dr. Kearns found the students with whom he talked daily in formal services, individual conferences, and group discussions, intensely interested in some of the fundamental problems of our day. Speaking on the general theme "Your Faith and Your Life", Dr. Kearns challenged the students with a series of penetrating, yet simple and straightforward, analysis of the questions which perplex the professing Christian.

"How can we face the future with confidence? Where is God? How can we comprehend God? Who is the unpurchasable man?" These are a few of the questions Dr. Kearns posed in his sermons.

"The trouble with most of us is that we want to accept God on our own terms", he declared. "Christianity is not a form of pious auto-suggestion. The Christian life demands all of a person. It invokes self-denial and commitment. It may be difficult for one to be independent and courageous today, but the hope of society rests upon the man who is unpurchasable by this same society."

Students, as well as faculty members, were impressed in turn by Dr. Kearns' simplicity, depth, and humility.

"If he doesn't know something ,he says so", a student observed. "He doesn't try to make you think he knows everything".

Assisting Dr. Kearns as song leader was Donald R. Mathis, minister of music at First Presbyterian Church, St. Petersburg, Florida. In addition to leading songs, Mr. Mathis counseled with students also. Dr. Henry Barraclough, assistant Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA, was the third member of the February Meeting team. This was Dr. Barraclough's ninth visit to the Maryville College campus as guest accompanist for the Meetings.

World Leader Visits MC Campus

A distinguished visitor from Europe on the Maryville College campus this weekend is Rev. Dr. Marcel Pradervand of Geneva, Switzerland, General Secretary of the World Presbyterian Alliance.

Dr. Pradervand came to North America last month to attend the Nirth American Area Council of the Alliance in Toronto, Canada, January 25-28. However, he will remain in this country until February 22, filling speaking and conference engagements in New York, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, Atlanta, Charlotte, Maryville, Richmond, Washington, and Philadelphia.

He arrived at Maryville College on Friday afternoon for conferences with President Lloyd as President of the Alliance. In addition to leading chapel on Saturday morning, he will be the preacher at the Maryville College Vespers on Sunday evening. On Sunday morning he will preach at the First Presbyterian Church of Knoxville. He will leave Maryville Monday afternoon for Richmond.

The headquarters offices of the Alliance are in Geneva beside the offices of the World Council of Churches. The officers of the Alliance, in addition to the President and General Secretary, are a General Treasurer, who is a banker in Geneva, and seven Vice Presidents, one each in North America, South America, Great Britain, Europe, Africa, Australia, and Asia.

78 autonomous church bodies, with more than 45 million constituents, in approximately 50 countries. The Alliance meets in General Council ordinarily once in five years, the most recent meeting being that in Brazil last summer. The Executive Committee meets annually. The next meeting is scheduled for Geneva, Switzerland, next August.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 — The Highland Echo, February 13, 1960 — No. 10

Art Exhibit Opens

The Art Department is now presenting an exhibition of paintings from the Ford Times Collection of American Art. The exhibit will be shown through the 20th of February.

The forty-two watercolors in this exhibit have been selected from a collection now numbering more than five thousand contemporary Amreican paintings assembled during the past few years for reproduction in Ford Motor Company publications.

The watercolors represent famous or picturesque spots in the United States and Canada. The pictures in this particular group are painted by artists who are also teachers.

Dean's List

Due to unforeseen difficulties, the names of those who made the Dean's List last semester have not yet been released. However, the next issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO will contain the names of those who made it. Keep watching—one of them may be you!

Orchestra Leads Busy Life

The Maryville College-Community Orchestra is beginning rehearsals for two programs this semester. A formal concert is scheduled for Friday, May 6th, and will include works by Haydn, Sibelius, Anderson and a composition by Harry Harter, of the Maryville College Music Department, entitled "My Home Town."

On April 8th and 9th, the Orchestra will join the glee clubs for the presentation of the musical comedy, "Where's Charlie," a story based on the play, "Charlie's Aunt".

Orchestra personnel are still needed to fill certain vacancies which exist: All string players are cordially invited to join the group. There are, in addition, openings for one second clarinet, one second oboe, two bassoons, one fourth horn and one second and one third trombone.

No audition is required for membership in this organization; attending one rehearsal does not obligate you in any way. The orchestra rehearses at 7:15 p.m. each Monday and at 3:30 p.m. each Thursday, in room 101 of the Fine Arts Center.

Film Series To Feature 'Green Pastures'

Marc Connelly's classic fable The Green Pastures will be the next Film Series attraction, Friday, February 19, 8:00 P.M. in the Theatre.

In keeping with the theme of "Great Plays on Film", The Green Pastures is a play that has enjoyed wide audiences both here and abroad. Excerpts from the play have been presented from time to time in Experimental Theatre of Maryville College. Now local audiences will have an opportunity to see the entire play.

One authority describes The Green Pastures as "an attempt to present certain aspects of a living religion in the terms of its believers. The religion is that of thousands of Negroes in the deep South. . ." Connelly, writing a controversial play, was concerned primarily with translating into the play the "simple faith. . . of some of the old Negro preachers" with whom he had come in contact.

Admission to the film is 35c.

Lloyd And Wiley To Visit Rally

This afternoon and evening President Lloyd and Miss Ann Wiley, Admissions Counselor, will be speaking in Lebanon, Tennessee, at the Winter Rally of the Young Fellowship of Nashville Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Dr. Lloyd, as President of the World Presbyterian Alliance, will be speaking on the subject, "The Reformed and Presbyterian World," and Miss Wiley will be speaking concerning Maryville College.

Tau Kappa Chi Takes Members

On February 1, 1960, Tau Kappa Chi held its first formal initiation of the year in the FAC lounge. Those inducted into the chapter were: Donna Laubach, junior voice major; Virginia Pratt, sophomore voice major. Any music major or applied music student is eligible for membership in the chapter. Members are selected for outstanding music performance and the maintenance of at least a "B" average for two successive semesters.

MC To Host TPA Meeting; Open Sessions

Maryville College will play host to the Tennessee Philological Association during the association's state-wide annual meeting. The convention is to be held February 18 through February 20. Sixty to eighty members of faculties of Language and Literature from college and universities in Tennessee will attend. Several of Maryville's students and faculty members will participate in their program.

At the subscription dinner held Friday evening at the Simple Simon Restaurant, Mr. John Graulich and the drama seminar will read excerpts from Aeschylus, Euripides, Sophocles, and W. H. Auden's "For the Time Being" Students reading in the seminar include Maryanne Braidwood, Charlotte Cathey, Mike Ducey, Harriette Fuhrman, Rosemary Lee, Blair Moffett, Dave Morris, Norris Shank, Bob Shultz, George Stewart, and Lynn Waddington. Dr. Hunter, who serves as vice- president of the association, will preside over the dinner.

Both Miss Catherine Wilkinson and Dr. Hunter are former presidents.

Friday morning, in the first of three sessions of reading papers and discussion, Dr. Hunter will read his paper, "Some Observations on Chaucer's Monk." And in the same session Miss Jessie Johnson will present "Underwood and Eight Immortals." In the third session, meeting Saturday morning, Mr. Harvey Reber will present "Tell Legends before William Tell."

Sessions are divided into two sections, meeting concurrently. They are to be held in Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel. Thirty-one papersof literary and linguistic interest will be read. Students are invited to attend.

Choir To Sing In Knoxville

The Vesper Choir has again been invited to sing at the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. They will participate in the morning service, February 21, 11:00 a.m. The service is to be televised over WATE-TV. This is the second year that the choir has sung in the Knoxville church.

"Y" Spotlights Marriage And Family

The campus YMCA and YWCA will begin a new series of programs tomorrow, entitled "Men and Women in the 20th Century." The programs will be concerned with the problems of courtsh,p, marriage and the family.

Tomorrow's program will feature Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, who will discuss the role of the family in modern society. His talk is taken from a series of lessons he prepared for his student class at the Highland Presbyterian Church. The program will be at the usual time, 1:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center music hall.

Future programs in this series include a panel next week on campus morality, and a lecture the following week by Dr. William E. Crane, pastoral psychologist from the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. Dr. Crane will speak on marriage counseling with special emphasis on the psychological factors involved. Note: Dr. William Crane is not the syndicated columnist who writes for the Knoxville News Sentinel, Dr. George Crane.

Lessie Rhodes To Give Sr. Recital

Miss Lessie Anne Rhodes, senior voice major at Maryville College, will be presented in a Senior Recital, February 18, 1960 at eight o'clock in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center of Maryville College. She will be accompanied by Gail Bradley, senior organ major from Maryville, Tennessee. Miss Rhodes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Rhodes of Louisville, Kentucky, is a four-year member of the Maryville College Vesper Choir. She appeared with the choir as "Maria" in the December presentation of Van Vactor's "The New Light," performed with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, and also as soloist in Harter's "Requiem for Fallen Ninevah" presented at that time. During the past four years she has been soloist in the annual presentation of "Messiah" and has taken part on the Opera Workshop in which she played the role of Miss Todd in Menotti's "The Old Maid and the Thief," this past fall.

Weichet nur, betruebte Schatten

Russian Expert To Speak Feb. 25; Public Invited

An authority on past and contemporary Russian history will be presented in a lecture at an open meeting of Pi Gamma Mu. National Honorary Social Science Scholarship Society, on Thursday, February 25, 1960. Professor Lawrence Silverman of the Department of History of the University of Tennessee will offer his "Impressions of Russia" in a meeting open to the public.

Mr. Silverman is eminently qualified for the task. His graduate work has centered in the study of Russian history at Harvard University where his activity in the Institute of Russian Studies is well known. He recently has completed two years of doctoral work at Harvard where he studied under a Ford Foundation grant. Last summer he spent six weeks in Russia, a tour also undertaken under a Ford Foundation award. He is now in his fifth year at the University of Tennessee.

His wide knowledge of Russian history ,his advanced study, and his recent trip to Russia, where he conversed widely with many people in both the Russian and Hebrew languages give him unique insight into the meaning of the forces at work within the Soviet Union today. Since his return, he has spoken to a number of academic groups throughout East Tennessee. Pi Gamma Mu invites all interested persons to hear Professor Silverman at 7:30 P.M., February 25, 1960, in the lecture room in Thaw Hall.

The Highland Echo

February 13, 1960
Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Helen Ann Easterly, Pat Crossley, Joe Quinn, Bonnie Burron, David Morris
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson Ellen Dozier

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

In Retrospect . . .

February Meetings are over now—in a sense, at least. But the stimulus to thought and spiritual probing is just beginning, or being renewed. No one can measure the effect of the meetings, even in a personal way. But we can express our gratitude for a week of intelligent, thoughtful leadership.

We wish to make public the voice of students, both Christian and agnostic, who have expressed appreciation for the intellectual and spiritual integrity of the 1960 Meetings. It is our hope that all students who are moved to do so, will send personal expressions of gratitude to our leaders, especially Dr. Kearns, for their meaningful contribution to our college life, and direction for the future.

Continuing in the spirit of the Meetings, we will publish essential selections from Dr. Kearns' sermons in a future issue of the Echo.

. . . And Gratitude

Everyone knows the little man on campus with the broad smile and the big blue overalls. Like an omniscient godfather, he is always on hand to help—whether to remove an annoying squeak from a door, to chase a prowler, to offer you a coke, or just to exchange a little friendly conversation.

To him—nobody is a stranger. His first concern is to be a friend, and he knows almost everyone by name. There is a feeling of security when he is about—for he is a gentleman and has won the trust and respect of gratful MC students.

We would like to let him know now, while he and we are still around that when we say "Hi there, Ernie!" we mean "Thank you," too.

Because, Ernie—We Like You!

One Final Word . . .

It has been brought to our pleased attention that the administration has already protested the NDEA loyalty affidavit which we previously discussed. Now it is the students' turn to protest this matter of national importance.

We can do this, if we care enough, by means of letters to our congressmen and by means of campus petition. The voice of the educator counts—but it counts more if supported by the student voice.

Let us take this issue, then, thinking of ourselves and for the good of the future. And let us respond in a tangible, positive way. We can—you know.

Ask Tom Dooley. . .

Recently we pledged as a student body a good deal of money —and time—to the Fred Hope Fund for the purposes of the Africa project. Disturbing questions have arisen from time to time in reference to the value of the project. We have tried to answer these questions by publicizing the aims and expectations of the project.

Yet we feel that one final clarification is necessary. Doubts have been raised as to whether or not it is wise to give such a short term project our monetary support. Why not use the money to support a building or agricultural expert to teach the people to develop their resources.

The answer can be found, we think, in the words of Dr. Tom Dooley, which we have had the good fortune to share with you. With simple dynamism Dr. Dooley explains the necessity of such projects. Read his article thoughtfully. . . and reconsider.

Nobody Asked Us, But - - -

In 1960 we would like to see:
Mr. K. the first man lost in outer space.
Mao on a strict diet of cranberries.
Nehru switching to Viceroys.
Menon drafted by the Indian army.
Nasser selling bonds-for-Israel.
Castro spending a weekend with Trujillo.
Richard Nixon taking piano lessons.
Stu Symington exhibited in Truman Museum.
Eleanor Roosevelt marching with the WAC's.
Wayne Morse editor of "Good Housekeeping."
James Hoffa get a bit part in "Lassie."
Dorothy Kilgallen study journalism.
Tennessee Williams take a mental bath.
Jack Kerouac regain his health.
Ralph Edwards covered with oatmeal.
Jack Paar get a job.
And on the level:
Jubilee with a balanced budget.
Dr. Tom Dooley live a long life.
Dr. James B. Conant gain a larger audience.
Allen Drury win a Pulitzer prize.
President Eisenhower retire with honors.
All Mankind find peace, opportunity, God.

from World Campus

Remedy For The World's Ills: Service

By Dr. Tom Dooley

This is a wonderful era to be young. This is a wonderful time, this age of atoms. Never before has such a challenge been flung to youth. Never before have young people like you and me had to grapple with problems of such magnitude. And as never before can we, must we and will we answer these problems with the most heroic efforts in each of us. Students, I envy you.

If we are to have order and peace in the world, we must make it so. And when I say "we" I mean you and me. I do not mean the government. I do not mean Washington. I do not mean the State Department. I mean you and me. A government can only go so far. We cannot slough off our responsibilities as citizens to the government. The responsibility is ours.

And the greatest way that we are going to help regain order and peace is to help the people of the world is to teach them of us and to teach them to know and love and understand us.

It only does a backward people a minimum amount of good to build them a hydroelectric plant. It only does a minimum amount of good to build them an expressway. Nothing is as important as giving them of the hands and of the hearts of Americans, of you and of me.

In Laos, we of the Medico (Medical International Cooperation) team are not in the least interested in converting anybody, I am not trying to make my happy contented little Buddhists into mackeral-snapping, Irish Catholics. I am not interested in teaching them foreign policy. I am not interested in making them Democrats or Republicans for or against Senator Kennedy.

All I want to do, all we want to do, is to take care of them, to cure them. And, at the same time that we treat their sickness, I believe that we help God because humanity is God on earth.

Why don't we practice medicine in some of the more under developed parts of America? Because we want to go into the area where there is darkness—where the darkness is the deepest.

In all of Vietnam there are 12 million people in the free zone and less than 100 doctors. In Cambodia there are nine million people and seven doctors. In Laos there are three million people and one doctor. After 100 years of occupation, of colonialism, by the white men of France, is it difficult to understand why these people are reluctant to accept what an American offers? Or what a Frenchman offers?

These are the areas that Medico wants to work in. The statistics for Africa are equally staggering. The whole world is shrunken down to nothing, and yet the words of President Sukarno at Bandung are more applicable today than they have ever been before: "Great chasms yawn between nations and groups of nations. Our unhappy world is torn and tortured and the peoples of Asia walk in fear lest, through no fault of theirs, the dogs of war are unchained once again."

In Laos these dogs are unchained and once again they are mangling and mauling the people of the world while we sit in the luxury and the comfort of America. We know the danger of these dogs in Laos.

Wherever you go , these dogs are the same. They are the godlessness called communism. Communism is led by men—in Vietnam and in China and in the Soviet Union. Communism is led by men who denounce God, by men who deny individual rights, who despise freedom, who exalt treachery. Men who counsel deceit and who practice terror and intimidation and torture and atrocity as part of every day's work.

Communism is led by men who, when they find it necessary, do not hesitate to exterminate a whole ethnic group as they have done in Hungary and in Tibet. Communism is led by men who have an acknowledged supreme mission—the destruction of our country and the last vestige of our way of life. I beg of you to please remember this. In the days of ballet teams, in the day of international travel, in the days of foreign diplomats coming to our country, I think we Americans must not forget the real face of communism and those who lead this godlessness.

You students are now in a position that I wish I was back in so that I could do things over again and do them better. You are now in a position where you must collect facts and figures like a file of cards. You must collect them all and put them into your mind.

But at the same time you must collect the things of your spirit that you can get in your chapel and in your classrooms. You must do more than amalgamate all this fact, figure, and philosophy. You must form your own selves.

Do this now. Store up as much of this faith and grace and knowledge as you can. Then, like a delayed action bomb assembled here in the classroom today, suddenly, somewhere, maybe half a world away, maybe in a camp, maybe in a prison, maybe here in business life, suddenly you are going to realize that you have been well taught.

Lose yourselves a little bit, get beyond yourselves. Submerge yourself into something that is

(Continued on Page 3)

"Yes, I sat in the front row for Feb. Meetings!. . . How did you guess?"

Scots And Soda

Mother Deuce Rhymes

By Helen Ann Easterly

L'ttle Miss Muffet sat on her tuffet,
Watching all the boys go by. . .

The king was in his counting house,
Trying to balance the budget.

Tom, Tom, the Piper's son,
Stole a pig and away he run.
(Economy inflated as it is now,
He couldn't afford to steal a cow.)

Hey diddle diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the satellite.

As I was going ot St. Ives, I met a man with seven wives.
He was trying to lower the divorce rate.

Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn;
The sheep's in the meadow, the cow's in the corn.
Where is the boy who looks after the sheep?
He's down at the espresso house playing jazz, man.

Pease porridge hot, pease porridge cold;
Pease porridge in the pot, nine days old.
(The family's been eating at Howard Johnson's.)

This little pig went to market;
This little pig stayed home.
This little pig had roast beef;
This litle pig had none.
This little pig commented, "Looks like it's rigged, to me," and referred it to a Congressional investigating committee.

A diller, a dollar, a ten o'clock scholar, what makes you come so soon?
You used to come at ten o'clock,
But with the four-day week and guaranteed annual wage you rarely both to come at all, any more. . .

Polly, take the kettle off—
We've decided to have cocktails instead.

Jack he nimble, Jack be quick:
Jack, stand on the Fifth Amendment.

Little Bo Peep has lost her sheep.
Give her a tranquilzer.

Jack Spratt could eat no fat.
He had ulcers.

Little Jack Horner sat in a corner,
Eating his Christmas pie.
Mustn't be too harsh on the boy; he might grow up with a complex.

Old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard and gorged hersel.
After all, she has her troubles too.

Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white as snow.
Mary was jealous only briefly; she used Light 'n' Bright.

REMEDY . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

greater than yourselves. Focus on things that are wider than you are. Build your horizons broad. Let the tragedies of the things that have passed urge you on to finer things tomorrow.

Don't let time or space anesthetize you. There is no more time in this world. There is no more space in the modern world. Listen to the voices that speak to you. Do not stay safely within the margins of your own customs. Get beyond your campus and your continent. Listen to the voices that speak to you from all around the world.

Listen to the voices of Asia. Listen to the voices of new nations. Of old nations. Look at the civilizations that have been torn apart. Look at the shattering new ideas that have come into your and into my life. Look at the destinies that you and I have got to control, to handle and to mold.

Expose yourself to these ideas, and never forget that most of the people of the world, through ignorance, hate you. Know why they hate you. Understand this hate. Do not fear it. Realize that it can be best fought by the weapons of love.

To those of you who are going to go on into medicine as doctors and dentists and nurses: You are fortunate if you invest some of your humanity to take care of the least of His. Aim for this. Decide early in your training that you want to do this for part of your life. Remember, a very special challenge is flung to the men of medicine because our medicine can transcend the boundaries of nations. We can rise above the give and take of national rivalry.

Finally, I would like to offer you a personal code from the men and women of Medico. We all have a few underlying realizations. And I would like to offer them to you.

We believe that no man on earth can achieve his own happiness unless he strives for the happiness of others. We feel that to fulfill a debt is still to always feel that there is a debt. No duty should ever be completely satisfying to oneself and no debt should ever be considered as completely paid.

My crew and I have, in the putrid day to day grind of our life, much exertion to be sure. There is danger, there is some choking futility. And there is loneliness.

But when the chaos and sadness of the day melt down into the quiet silence of night, it becomes very obvious to us why we were put on this earth. We have not been put here to exist from our first until our last day. We have not been put on earth merely to vegetate. But we have been put on this earth to find a way, ot find a channel whereby we can be of service to our fellowman.

The channels of this service are many. You don't have to go out into the beyond. There are channels whereby we can be of service to our fellowman.

The channels of this service are many. You don't have to go out into the beyond. There are channels as educators, as doctors, as businessnessmen, as wives in community life, in political life. The channel in college is the path of preparing your ground for the time that will come.

When we give out to our patients the pills, we realize that it is you who have given us the medicine to give to them. It is you who have helped us to help them help themselves. We are the instruments. You must lift us up. We are the hands. You are the heart. And to you for your help now and in the past and with confidence in your constancy in the future, the men of Medico are grateful.

My crew and I all believe that these words of Carl Sandburg are some of the most eloquent of mankind: "There is only one woman in the world and her name is all women. And there is only one child in the world and the child's name is all children."

Scot Cagers Continue to Win

Maryville College romped over arch-rival Carson-Newman 65-56 on January 30th. The Scots got going and had as much as an 18 point lead at one stage. The visitors, led by center Jack Owenby, came roaring back cutting the lead to 3 points but the Scots under the expert directorship of Coach Baird pulled themselves together and won the game going away. Point makers for the Scots were Tom Morris, Bill Owenby, Bob Carpenter and George Herron. Fred Porter did a fine defensive job though hampered with personals.

Again a very fine crowd was on hand to witness the game and we hope to see many familiar faces Monday night when we travel to the Eagles new field house for a re-match.

Following the C-N game, the Scots hit the road for a game with Chattanooga. We lost 75-68 in overtime. There was no excuse for this one. M.C. got off to a real bad start. After five minutes we hadn't scored but then we got hot and surged to a 36-25 half time lead. However in the second half our lead dwindled till with just seconds remaining we held a scant 2 point edge. Instead of holding on to the ball, we shot it away and the Mocs, got red hot and scored a field goal to tie it up and send the game into overtime. In the extra period, Charley Carter, back court star for the home-standing Mocs, got red hot and scored 10 of the 12 points scored in the overtime. He wound up high scorer with 25 points. Despite fouling out, Tom Morris finished with 17 points while Bob Carpenter and Bill Owenby each had 16.

Last Saturday night, Maryville invaded Lebanon, Tennessee to engage Cumberland University. The Scots were defeated in a wierd one, 51-47. First off there were no more than 25 people at the game including both squads. Also the referee was more interested in boxing than he was basketball.

With seconds remaining on the clock and the score tied, a Cumberland man took the ball and went charging down the court and ran smack into Bob Carpenter. Much to the amazement of M.C. the foul was called on Carpenter. Coach Baird protested and was handed two technical fouls. He protested vigorously and justifiably so, whereupon the ref removed his whistle and invited the coach to join him outside. Things, apparently calmed somewhat, the Cumberland boy proceeded to make four foul shots. The game still not over, the ref walked off the court figuring the game was all but won by Cumberland. Again downstairs the official was eager to take on Coach Baird. This ball game should be submitted to Ripley's "Believe it or not" and he wouldn't believe it. Fred Porter was high scorer with 16 points.

The Scots now own a 10 win, 5 lost record. The team has had steady support from the student body and both the fellows themselves and Coach Baird are appreciative of that fact, however special recognition should be given to a group of fellows who have traveled over 800 miles with the team, lending their support. We have reference to Porky and the Simple Seven. These fellows have been the spark at both the home games as well as the away games. They are looking forward to making a couple of more trips with the team in the season still to come. In a later edition we'll be introducing the fellows individually so that you can get to know them better in case you're one of the unfortunates or fortunates however you look at it, that don't already know them.

We hope to see you all up at C-N next Monday night when we see what can do about feathering those C-N Eagles. "And they're the worse kind."

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

SHEAFFER'S STUDENT

Handwriting Kit

GENUINE SHEAFFER'S
SKRIPSERT FOUNTAIN PEN
Regular Retail Price $2.95

2 Five-Packs Famous Skrip Cartridges
Reg. Retail Price 49c each .98

1 HANDWRITING BOOKLET FREE
VALUE $3.98

SPECIAL FOR STUDENTS Only 98c

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

VAN'S BAKERY
1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920
We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders
WE DELIVER

RECORD SALE
All 45 RPM .50
EP's Albums .80
33 1/3 Albums 1.49-2.98
33 1/3 Stereo 3.98
WILSON'S
Radio & T.V. Service
ZENITH MUNTZ

VALENTINE'S DAY
FEB. 14
GIVE THE FAMOUS
Whitman's CHOCOLATES
VALENTINE HEARTS

Large variety of beautifully decorated hearts
FREE DRAWING!
A $14.95 Whitman Heart Box will be given away Feb. 13th. Purchase of any box of candy $1.00 or over gives you a chance.
PARK DRUG STORE

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Buy The Best
From
Murphy-West Motor Co.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

Jazz Cramped By Color Line

"Co-operate in helping us demonstrate that jazz music is one of the best aspects of American democracy."

This was the appeal issued by pianist Dave Brubeck as he explained the cancellation of his 25-day tour of southern colleges and universities because his quartet is racially integrated.

Brubeck's appeal, in the Feb. 18 issue of Down Beat, was directed particularly to young jazz fans in the south.

"We know the problem is not with the Soutnern jazz fans," Brubeck told the magazine. "They know us and they know who we are. And we want to play the southern colleges and universities. All we want is that the authorities accept us as we are and allow us—and all other integrated jazz groups—to play our music without intimidation or pressure."

Colleges at which the Brubeck group was to play began to drop out when they learned the Brubeck's bassist, Gene Wright, is a Negro. When Brubeck declined to accept an all-white clause in his contract, the tour dropped from 25 to 15 to 12 to 10.

When Brubeck ordered that these remaining 10 be specifically advised that the group is integratde, all but three—the University of Jacksonville, Vanderbilt University, and the University of the South—dropped out. These three still wanted Brubeck. In addition, when the publicity began hitting newspapers on the cancellations, Memphis State University rescinded its original cancellation of the group on racial grounds.

Brubeck's own comments on the college situation he encountered in the south are in a detailed report by Ralph J. Gleason in the Feb. 18 issue of Down Beat.

Copyright—Down Beat Magazine—1960.

Midnight Oil Burns For Africa

Lights are burning late nights in two Moscow office buildings, as preparations are made to spread communism throughout Africa. This is the picture described to the British Parliament by Anthony Head, former British Minister of Defense:

In one Moscow building, hundreds of men and women listen to obscure African languages, tabulate the words and translate them into Russo-African dictionaries. Others are studying the economic, agricultural, social, tribal and religious beliefs of African tribes. In another building technicians, engineers and future ambassadors are practicing African languages and learning about tribal customs.

According to Mr. Head, Russia's master plan includes two more main points: Offer innumerable scholarships to Africans for study in Communist countries, and flood the continent with subsidized literature

Latest NDEA Roundup: Con't. Protest

The battle to remove the loyalty oath and disclaimer affidavit provisions of the National Defense Education Act continues to rage in the nation's colleges and universities, highlighted by the protests of the University of Wisconsin, the first land-grant college to express disapproval of the oath requirements, and the withdrawal of the University of Chicago from the NDEA program.

Latest protests, however, have been directed only at the disclaimer affidavit and not at the affirmative oath of allegiance.

At the University of Wisconsin, faculty members voted to ask the next session of Congress to eliminate the loyalty oath provision, now required as a condition of eligibility for students wishing to borrow money to continue their education.

In the latest developments at the University of Chicago, the Board of Trustees voted to withdraw for the NDEA program unless the disclaimer affidavit clause is repealed by Congress within the next year.

A clear distinction was pointed out, however, between the affirmative oath and the disclaimer affidavit. Glenn Lloyd, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said "the clear and simple oath of allegiance lies within the American tradition. The affidavit does not. It could lead to starting chamber investigations into a man's beliefs and to government interference in the conduct of universities."

The action of the Board of Trustees was an endorsement of the resolution of the Council of the University of Chicago Student Senate, passed in December.

Latest developments in the nation's capital saw the introduction of Senate Bill 2828, calling for the repeal of the disclaimer affidavit, but not the affirmative oath.

A bill in the Senate last session calling for the repeal of both the oath and the affidavit was returned to Committee toward the ned of the session.

The final action by the Harvard Corporation was preceded by supporting resolutions from 10 of the Harvard faculties and by the decision of President Nathan M. Pusey to freeze NDEA funds in September after Congress failed to eliminate the affidavit requirement last session.

Oberlin's withdrawal followed a campus-wide referendum. Recently Oberlin's President Carr affirmed the college's stand and emphasized the disclaimer affidavit's danger as an attempt to regulate belief. He called this "contrary to democratic principle." A college quarterly pamphlet, Oberlin Today, has issued a special report to faculty, parents and alumni, explaining the college's recent withdrawal from the NDEA program.

Other colleges refusing to participate include: Amherst, Antioch, Bennington, Bryn Mawr, Goucher, Grinnell, Haverford, Reed, Sarah Lawrence, St. John's of Maryland, Swarthmore and Wilmington.

Recent developments throughout the nation include:

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON: The Board of Control took a stand opposing the disclaimer affidavit after an interested student accused the Board of being cowards if they failed to do anything about the provision.

In taking the action, the board made it clear that they didn't disagree with the loyalty oath as set up under the Act, but only the disclaimer affidavit. They also stipulated that they would not remove the funds granted to the University under the Act.

DARTMOUTH: The Undergraduate Council condemned the loyalty affidavit and urged the college to work for its removal but allowed "the college to remain in the program giving the individual student the right to accept or reject the funds at his will."

Most members agreed that the oath was undesirable and many denied that Dartmouth should remain in the program.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE CHESTERTOWN, MD.: The faculty of Washington College adopted a resolution also described the affidavit as a "dangerous precedent" because educators have feared Federal Aid would bring Federal interference in education. "It is dismaying to find such arbitrary conditions have, in fact, been attached to Federal Aid legislation," the resolution said.

ANTIOCH: Latest action at Antioch saw the committee for the repeal of the NDEA disclaimer affidavit provision urging students to send protests to their state senators and providing free post cards and information about the voting records and districts of those senators who will be voting on the loyalty issue when it comes before the Senate.

On the other side of the fence, recently the President of St. Mary's College, a sister school of Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana, defended the oath and affidavit. She said she is proud of her students who take the same oath that every American service man takes.

Almost without exception, the Student Council members at Tufts College favored accepting the NDEA funds without protesting the oath clause. The action was taken at a recent council meeting.

Band Positions Still Vacant

Any student who can play trombone, clarinet, or French Horn, is invited to come to Room 101, FAC, on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday afternoons at 4:30 p.m. to "sit-in" with the regular members of the concert band. The band is in need of several second and third clarinetists, one third and one fourth French horn players ,and one or two trombone players.

Many students are reluctant to consider band membership because of "auditions" or because they think the band will take up too much time. Students should, however, come to one or two rehearsals, on a trial basis. Auditions will not be requested nor will students be asked to play passages of music individually.

At Michigan State University, a majority of students indicated they have no objection to the oath reuirement. Students testified at an open hearing held on a resolution which termed the oath "not consistent with academic and political freedom" and called on MSU to withdraw from the program. The resolution had been filed with the student congress and referred to committee. The committee, after hearing testimony, decided to withhold a recommendation until it gets the reaction of the students who benefit from the NDEA program.

Band Members Honored

Three outstanding members of the Maryville College Concert Band have been selected for membership in the first all-college concert band in Tennessee. Donna Jensen, Lynn Herring, and Tod Jablonski will be in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, on Thursday and Friday, February 18th and 19th where they will join with other select bandsmen from Austin Peay, Carson-Newman, David Lipscomb, East Tennessee State, Memphis State, Middle Tennessee State, Peabody, Tennessee Tech, and Vanderbilt.

This all-college band will rehearse for a concert to be given on Friday evening, February 19th at the Tennessee Music Education Association Convention.

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

Gibson Greeting Cards

Valentines

Students Always Welcome!

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

Wide Selection of

Jeweler Store Costume

JEWELRY——

.50 — 1.00 — 1.95

BROADWAY JEWELERS

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

NOW! 2 TONES IN 1 HAT

(it looks twice as youthful)

THE Adam PLACID

Two different tones in a single hat...brim subtly contrasting with crown! It gives the new ADAM "Placid" a fresh, bold look that carries over to you. Extra style in the homespun band with sporty bow. Come and try one on —in two smart tones!

8.95

BADGETT STORE CO.

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

Vol. 45 Maryville, Tennessee, February 27, 1960 No. 11

The Highland Echo

Dean's List Results; Seniors Lead

The seniors led the honor roll first semester, with 13½% of their class. Included were John Gilmore who placed at the top with a 3.0 average, Robert Bowman, Bryant Cureton, Dan Ellis, Rosemary Lee, Ann Leitch, John Llewellyn, Joan Menk, Ann Newcomer, Jane Plantizer, Shirley Scott, Edgar Smith, Herbert Thompson, Edith Walker and Laine Warden.

In the junior class we find the second highest percentage (7½%), Karl Diller led with a 3.0 average, also included are Barbara Nielson, Virginia Pratt, Sylvia Smith and Joyce Williams. Williams.

Third on the list were the sophomores with 7% of their class. They are: Glenda Gray, leading with a 2.9 average, Janet Lee Aaron, Leonard Bickford, Brenda Dalton, Ellen Dozier, Paul Evans, Harriette Fuhrman, Rachael Goddard, Elsie Harris, Rebecca Kinnamon, Priscilla Newcomwere Mary Darling, Carolyn Gass, David Gilmore, Donald Harwood, Donna Laubach, Charles Pearson, Sarah Smith, Margaret Stevenson, and Wayne Whitelock.

6½% of the freshman class are on the list with Janice Privette at the top with a 2.9 average, Donna Sue Blackburn, Scott Bucher, Patricia Ann Crosley, Paul Elliot, Michael Garrett, Mary Lynn Herring, Sharon Jones, Barbara Ann Klepfer, Carolyn Lurcott, Sue Ellen McCoy, Judith Mikeal, Mildred Miles, Peggy Swafford, Rosemary Verrall, Janice Walters, Brenda Ward, William Ward.

Touring Choir Announced

The Maryville College Touring Choir for 1960 has been chosen. The members are as follows:

Barrett, Rosemary, Junior, Piano, Tennessee; Bloomer, Susan, Sophomore, Christian Education, Pennsylvania; Bradley, Gail, Senior, Organ, Tennessee; Brown, Zaida, Junior, Sociology, Virginia; Collins, Judith, Sophomore, Eng-

Continued On Page 3

Artist Series To Present Bizet's "Carmen"

The next Maryville College-Community Artist Series presentation will be the opera "Carmen" by Bizet. Sung in English, "Carmen" will be performed by the National (Grass Roots) Opera Company on Tuesday, March 1, in the chapel.

"Carmen" is among the world's most famous and most popular operas. Many will remember that the motion picture "Carmen Jones" was an adaptation of the opera.

The National (Grass Roots) Opera Company stems from a movement started by A. J. Fletcher, a Southern businessman, who wished to provide careers for promising young singers and to give the public a chance to hear opera in English. The ultimate goal was to make opera a means of mass entertainment in the United States.

This group has appeared in most parts of the United States; gave the premiere of Wilder's "Sunday Excursion"; and has recorded for the Voice of America.

MC Students Consider Honor System

On February 23 a Student Forum was held to discuss the possibilities of expanding an honor system here at Mayrville College. The topic was divided into four main areas.

The first area was concerned with the need for students to become responsible to both themselves and to others. Ray Donaldson suggested that students must recognize dishonesty and try to correct the problem. He emphasized that students can only accept an honor system when they feel that it is deisrable. He mentioned tha tthere must be mutual trust between all if an honor system is to work. Ray felt that with an honor system students would achieve ful intellectual and moral stature.

Lessie Anne Rhodes then explained the operation of the honor system as practiced in the New Girls' Dormitory. After listing the rules and regulations that are expected of each girl she emphasized that the honor system only works when the girls really desire the system. Lessie personally felt that the honor system in the New Girl's Dorm has proven sucessful so far. It was her belief that under this type of program each girl is provided a growing process toward maturity.

The third area was concerned with the honor systems in effect at other colleges and universities. Carolyn Gass listed examples of honor programs both in the academic and social realm. In her study Carolyn found that better than 90% of the schools which have some sort of honor program it had proven successful. She stated that once an honor system has taken root on a campus its effects expand to all realms of college life.

Peggy Reid and Ed Smith discussed the possibilities of expanding the honor system here at Maryville. Peggy expressed a concern about the cheating that occurs in the class room. She mentioned that the reason most students cheated was because of the pressure to make good grades rather than learning the material. She asked the question, 'What does a school stand for if it allows cheating? Most of the students would agree that it wouldn't be worth much.

Ed Smith expressed the need of an honor program outside the realm of the academic endeavor. The problem of stolen books from the library and umbrellas suddenly disappearing on a rainy day is an example for a need of an honor program. He cited examples where such programs existed in other colleges and universities. Ed then ended the panel discussion by showing the need to have every student honorable in this type of program.

After the panel had finished its discussion the forum was open to the students in the audience in order they express their opinions or give voice to their questions. The general concensus of opinion among the students was that something should be done about cheating in the academic realm.

After the concern of those present was presented, it was felt that htis problem should be taken to the Student-Faculy Senate fo rfurther investigation. It was requested that Senate organize a committee to study this problem t osee whether an honor system could be gradually introduced into the academic area.

'Doll's House' Next Playhouse Offering; March 4-5

Hendrik Ibsen's play, "O Doll's House" will be presented on Friday and Saturdya, March 4th and 5th at 8:00 p.m. in the theatre. Those appearing in the cast, under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craen are: Steve Mouton as Helmer, Ann Newcomer as Nora, Ralph Ayers as Dr. Rank, Mrs. Linde by Connie Holloway, Larry Bush as Krogstad, Abby Clarke as the nurse, Peggy Reynolds as a housemaid, and Charles Mouton as a porter. Mr. Bob Leonard is technical director. Ticket prices are $.75 for students and $1.25 for others. Reservations can be made by calling the theatre and can be picked up with tickets.

IBSEN'S "DOLL'S HOUSE" HAS SOCIAL AND ARTISTIC POWER

By Maryanne Braidwood

The spring offering of Playhouse will take place on Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5. Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll House," will be presented in the theatre.

This play is an excellent representative selection of a great dramatist who is known as the "father of modern drama." It must be remembered, especially in consideration of "A Doll's House,' 'that Ibsen was writing in an age that cherished bric-a-brac, affectation, and the double standard. He ignored the stage traditions of the time and attacked the outworn institutions of society and stifling hypocrisy of those who pretended to subscribe to them. To the people of his time, Ibsen seemed to be nothing but a scandalous breaker of the heroic image.

"A Doll's House," is significant in that it represents the author's startling view that woman is equal to man both in society and in the home. In exploding the Victorian ideals of feminine dependency, the play seemed revolutionary in 1879.

The events which close the play strip the sentimentality and sham which surrounds this "doll's house" type of marriage.

As a modern audience, we should consider Ibsen, first, for his contribution to the theatre of today, and second, as an artist. He is adept in his conception fo character. His creation of Nora, the heroine who plays a part for her husband of his little squirrel or his skylark which is completely opposite to the sincere mature woman that she could become, is so powerful that she dictates his argument because she seems to be a real person who really lives.

Ibsen may not compare favorably to modern playwrights in sensational stage effect, but when viewed with understanding of its purpose, "A Doll's House" is a powerful and moving drama.

NORA PLAYED by Ann Newcomer is detained by her husband, played by Steve Mounton in a tense moment from Ibsen's A DOLL HOUSE.

Class of 1909 Gives Art Books

The library has been presented with a new art reference set, The Encyclodedia of World Art. The class of 1909 gave $425 for the purchase of this set, which is being published in fifteen volumes at quarterly intervals. It brings together a comprehensive presentaiton of the visual arts of all times and places, in 6,000 pages of text and 7,000 pages of plates in color and black and white. It also includes diagrams, maps, and line drawings, nad the final volume is an index to the whole. It is the first work to attempt so comprehenisve a survey of art. Interesting for layman, student, or schoalr, it is an important addition to the library.

Psychologist To Discuss Marriage At Y

For its closing program of the series "Men and Women of the 20th Century" Y will present Dr. William E. Crane who will speak on marriage and marriage problems. Dr. Crane, an eminent counselor, is the pastoral counselor, at the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, not Dr. George W. Crane, syndicated columnist for Knoxville News-Sentinel). The program will be this Sunday, February 28, at 1:30 PM in the FAC.

Next Sunday Y will begin a new series of programs no Work and Vocations.

The Highland Echo

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Fberuary 27, 1960

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Catney
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Helen Ann Easterly, Pat Crossley, Joe Quinn, Bonnie Burron, David Morris
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson, Ellen Dozier

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Long Range Wisdom . . .

It has been said that the heart of our struggle with the USSR is in the field of education. Many schools, acknowledging this, have instituted "crash" programs in science; others have stepped up economic education, have re-emphasized the need for Truth, apprehended in all fields—the sciences and the humanities.

It is within this last classification that we find our college striving. Naturally we have not achieved the ideal, but we are taking steps in that direction.

Proof of this is immediately at hand.

Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas says that, in the field of higher education, "Our most pressing short-range objective should be to start now on our long-range programs." Our own leaders have recognized that need and have instituted a long-range program, consisting not only of increased facilities but of salary improvement and additional teaching staff—all of which point to a nearer realization of our ideal. There is hope for a better balance between science and the humanities—for the development of the truly cultured student—and for the restoration of intellectual greatness in the West.

We as students can contribute to this ideal by our thoughful support of the announced progrma. This is more than the usual "rah-rah" support of your alma mater—it is an urgent matter, for it is concerned with the whole of higher education and its impact on society.

A Quality of Greatness . . .

There is one characteristic which has always distinguished greatness. Whenever one finds greatness he finds a soul endowed with a vision of the future, an uncompromising commitment to an ideal—and the fortitude to pursue that ideal. History again and again reveals such greatness: Socrates, Augustine, Galileo, Milton, Lincoln are but a random few.

The great man realizes that life never has been and is not now a "local island" where he can escape the rest of the world (especially this world in which distance, time and space have shrunk so). To him the "pursuit of happiness" does not mean easy adjustment to one's environment, burgeoning economic comfort, or the prevailing commitment to trivialities and tranquilizers.

It would be folly to suppose that all of us will find our place in recorded history—not directly, at least. But we can, through genuine respect for excellence and through (to borrow from a friend) becoming unpurchaseable, develop a quality of life and thought, a quality of greatness:

With Good Reason . . .

Recently The Highland Echo has become a member of the University Press Service, sponsored by the USNSA. This exchange program enables you to hear the voice of other campuses, to become more aware of the college family as a whole, and to be in touch with widespread student opinion.

In addition to this we contribute our campus voice by means of press releases to make the contact a two-way affair. UPS will receive, for example, stories of major interest such as the current consideration of an honor system. An interested group of Japanese students has requested stories about American colleges and student attitudes for publication in the interest of better international relations. Maryville College will be described for the purposes of this sorely needed publicity.

By means of this exchange, then, we hope to stimulate not only local concern but widespread understanding. After all, the truly educated individual is one who uses his collective knowledge in an attempt to understand and to speak to the world in which he lives. That world extends beyond our clubs, our classes and our gates.

"I could swear he used an illegal hold somewhere!"

MC Political Interest Polled

This is the report of the temporary committee formed on February 10, 1960, to examine the possibilities of establishing a "Political Interest Seminar" on the campus of Maryville College. Questionnaires presented to the Student Body on February 20, 1960, as a result of Student Council action on February 17, 1960, revealed the following:

1. Of 750 questionnaires placed in circulation, 85 were not counted as the committee assumer 700 students to be enrolled (actual enrollment 728) and a 5% absence level to be a fair consideration. In addition 71 other questionnaires were picked up at 8:20 A.M. without being taken by students. This leaves a "working figure" of 629 questionnaires in the hands of students.
2. Or these 629 questionnaires in the hands of the students 163 were returned for audit. This is a return of 25.9%. (In addition 17 Student Council members of 28 returned questionnaires for 60.5%.
3. Of these 163 returned questionnaires, a) 88 or 53% asked to consider the mechanics of regsitration and absentee voting,
   b) 126 or 70% asked to consider the aims and ambitions of the major political parties.
4. Of these returned questionnaires,
   a) 40 or 24% asked for weekly meetings,
   b) 55 or 34% asked for meetings every two weeks,
   c) 47 or 29% asked for meetings every two months,
   d) 20 or 12% asked for meetings every month.
5. Of these 163 questionnaires returned,
   a) 4 or 2% asked for Monday afternoon meetings,
   b) 7 or 4 % asked for Tuesday afternoon meetings,
   c) 5 or 3% asked for Wednesday afternoon meetings,
   d) 3 or 1.8% asked for Thursday afternoon meetings,
   e) 10 or 6% asked for Friday afternoon meetings,
   f) 39 or 23% asked for Monday evening meetings,
   g) 24 or 15% asked for Tuesday evening meeitngs,
   h) 19 or 12% asked for Wednesday evening meetings,
   i) 31 or 19% asked for Thursday evening meetings,
   j)4 19 or 12% asked for Friday evening meetings.
6. Of these 163 returned questionaires,
   a) 95 or 57% asked for mock national elections,
   b) 82 or 50% asked for mock national party conventions.

DISTRIBUTION
President of Student Body (2)
Vice-president (1)
Secretary (1)

Moved and Seconded

By David Morris

In recent weeks we have been made aware of great plans for this college. We also have had before us the question of student government's contribution to the educational needs of the individual student. In the light of how few hours we spend in the class room, there is good cause to question the existence of student organizations which do not contribute to the educational process.

There are several areas in which Student Government on this campus contributes both to the training that it gives to those students involved in it, and in the contribution it makes to this college's educational objective.

At present your Student Council is interested in and concerned for many and varied projects which will affect you. I feel that these interests offer opportunity for intellectual growth to the individual student and contribute to the educational process in general. For example, The Political Interest Seminar has been discussed, a Student Forum on Campus Honor has been discussed on Wednesday nights. Student Council is presently negotiating with neighboring schools in an effort to establish a program of exchange chapel services in order that we be better informed about our neighboring schools. We have, for some time now been working on the building of a new campus bulletin board. We have conducted an investigation re-evaluating the function of the Bookstore on Campus.

Over some period of time students have, I feel, successfully contributed in other areas also. The student voice is represented on The Religious Life and Activities Committee, The Social Committee, The Curriculum Committee, The Disciplinary Board, Student Faculty Senate, Artist Series and Lecture Series Committee, Athletics Committee, Student Programs Committee, Highland Echo Committee, Pep Committee, Playhouse Board of Control, and the YM and YW Advisory Boards, to mention a few. To say the least we as student body have more responsibility and influence than we often give ourselves credit for. However, a seeming paradox in the process of Student Government, is that the average student expresses little interest in the maintenance of a function, rather than the capturing of a new area of authority.

In the shadow of the announcement of Maryville's plans for the future, as students we should be willing not only to continue to contribute, but to do so more effecitvely than ever before. It is the task of each of us to be informed "public relations personnel," strengthening our interest and support of the Bodies which represent us.

SCOTS & SODA

Itsn't it surprising how a little ill health changes an individual. I think it's something chemical between the foriegn bacteria and the fluids of the body. The active, normally healthy specimen (the type pictured in cereal ads) is reduced to a whimpering mass of immovable protoplasm. He hits the bed and stays there. The weak person becomes a martyr. Arm in arm with the grim reaper, he utters in a death rattle that there's no need for him to go to a doctor. The sweet, docile individual roars like a lion—a sick lion with a sore throat. Then th enasty ones immediately become the picture of the sweet invalid, issuing rays of sunshine. Warm blood seems to course in their veins instead of the usual vinegar and black coffee. There is a school of thought, however, that states the last type has undergone no real change; but, rather he is happy in the idea that others are catching his disease.

There is only one exception scinetific hypothesis and that's me. Illnesses offer me no variety. I'm just as dull as I ever was. I'm not even any duller. There are other exceptional phases to my illnesses. I'm not sick just like the ordinary run of people. I'm much sicker. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not a hypochondriac—it's just a stated fact. I'm sicker. When everyone else's medicine costs $12.50, mine costs $18.75. But I'm not illness prone. That's one good thing. When mumps (measles, chickenpox, or Spanish Influenza may be substituted here) go around, I'm not the first down. I wait two weeks. That says something for my resistance. And then I'm sicker than anybody else.

Take my last seige for instance. It all began with the common cold. Most of my colds are uncommon, but this one was pretty ordinary. My head felt like a ballistics missile on the launching pad. My nose dripped just like everyone's. And the last pop-up-one-at-a-time tissue had already popped up, laeving me destitute in my hour of need, just as all pop-up tissues do all people in their hour of need. But herein is the difference. My thermometer regsitered 97 degrees, instead of the 101, usually attributed to the cold-on-the verge-of-flu suffer. You see my temperature goes down instead of up. That just proved I was nearer death than most other pepole.

Next I lost my voice. Some wouldn't consider this a tragedy, but I did. I couldn't tell others of my suffering. And as the cold went into the flu, with my temperature steadily dropping, I was isolated with no means of communication. I was alone, completely alone, with a bottle of cherry-colored, castor-oil flavored, cough syrup, penicillin tablets (I'm a coward), anti-histamine capsules, vile-smelling nosedrops, and a family size of Bayer aspirin. Friends began to drop in, when they realized that I wasn't cutting classes because a research paper was due. But what can you say to people, even friends, when you can't talk. I just looked at them over the cherry-colored, castor-oil flavored cough syrup, the penicillin tablets, the anti-histamine capsules, the vile-smelling nosedrops, and the family size bottle of Bayer aspirin. And they just looked back.

Two particularly dear friends decided to say it with flowers. Hence, I received a rose from these two frineds (one of whom hasn't settled his share of the 50c debt, I understand). The rose was pink. Well, actually, it was more of an anemic red rose. Don't think I'm not appreciative. It afforded me many hours of pleasure, as I contemplated which was sicker me or that rose. A rose is a rose is a rose, but this one was suspect.

Then the climax came. There began an odd sensation in the area of my left one. Then you had to guess it was in the area of the left eye, because you could no longer see the left eye. It was swollen shut. This didn't do my right eye any good either. Can you imagine the impact on the right eye, when it saw the sad state in which it's fel-

(Continued On Page 5)

Insulin Praised At Pre-Med Club

INSULIN—ITS EFFECTS ON THE DIABETIC

At a recent meeting of the Pre-Medical Club, John Eaddy gave a most interesting, informative talk on "Insulin—Its Effects on the Diabetic," expounding his theme of what insulin is and what are its effects on the human body.

As we, the busy Americans that we are, hustle and bustle through life, we seldom stop to consider how it is possible for us to sustain the energetic existence which we have. There is, however, a segment of our population which is ever conscious of the physiological demands necessary for the sustanence of an active life. Having been a diabetic for eight yaers, our speaker competently made the observation that the diabetic individual must have a correct knowledge of the equilibrium between diet, exercise, and insulin if he is to maintain life in its normal status quo.

Insulin is one of the most complicated of the hormone sestudies were begun as early as cretions of the body. Although the 15th century, the diagnosis of insulin's actual physiological effect on the microbe cells of the anatomy was not discovered until 1858, the chemical functions have yet to be revealed by a future biochemist.

Insulin is a secretion of the pancreas gland. The pancreas has two main functions: (1) excretion of pancreatic juices; (2) housing of the islands of Langenhan, which produce insulin, the determining factor in the metabolism of carbohydrates.

Glucose sugar, the product of digestion of carbohydrate foods, is metabolized to form fats, proteins, carbon dioxide, water and energy. These functions are carried out in all muscle and connective tissues of the body. All of the products of this process are vital to health of an individual; therefore the effects of loss of metabolism can be readily seen. If this process is stopped, the whole chemical equilibrium of the body is disturbed. In a normal person's system, insulin is always present in the blood stream in equal amounts. However, if as in the diabetic person insulin is not present, the cell membrane remains closed to glucose.

Since the diabetic is unable to produce his own insulin, it is necessary for him to introduce the hormone into his system. Developments in research have produced some twenty types of insulin. The basic types being Regular (unmodified), NPH (protamine sulfate), and PZI (protamine zine). All other preparations are modifications of these. Many methods for administration of insulin have undergone experimentation, but the only proved method is by injectio of the fluid into the subcutaneous tissue.

"Insulin is the doorman to life," concluded John. "Without it, life's door remains closed and life is snuffed out like a candle. With it the human body is able to transform food into vast quantities of energy required by an active, abundant life. Insulin is a part of you. Take it, use it, and be thankful to God more than ever before as you begin to understand a little more about how He created man."

Leap Year Hits MC; Hapless Males, Beware

By Helen Ann Easterly

Leap Year comes only too seldom, and the girls' societies have big plans for the weekend of February 27-29. Twirp Weekend begins officially at midnight on February 26, continuing through midnight on Monday, February 29. During this brief but blissful period, the girls will in their own feminine way perform the various chivalrous duties usually the prerogative of the fellows. The fellows can relax and be catered to by the females for a change.

The first official event will occur Saturday morning, when the girls' combo will perform after chapel. On Saturday afternoon there will be an all-campus splash party at the pool, Southeastern Conference wrestling matches (which will continue in the evening), card tables set up in the parlors of the women's dorms, and the student center ping pong tables. For Saturday evening and Monday evening, the theater in town has agreed to give reduced rates to any girl with boy and activity card. The movie showing is "Journey to the Ceuter of the Earth," with Pat Boone and James Mason.

On Sunday, the same rules apply as to dating only to church and vespers for freshman and sophomore women. On Monday the girls will be dressed up all day. In the afternoon Chi Beta and Theta Epsilon meet Kappa Phi and Alpha Sigma for an all-society basketball game. At 6:20 p.m. an all-college sing will be held on the front steps of Pearsons.

But have you guessed? TWIRP stands for The Woman Is Requested to Pay, and so this week-end it is up to the girls to date up the fellows and see that that they have a good time. No defenses have been provided for the men—they can take care of themselves!

A Discourse On The Art of War

Look you at this my masterpiece you noble dauber, and tell me then what signs of beauty find you there. It is a map of Italy for sure, but note the marks upon it. They are victories of mine. What! Your eyes are blinded still? Then I would have your ear and just attention for a moment. That cross in red denotes a thousand lives which paid two-fold the loss incurred by me in one campaign. Can you in oil create the hardship, strife, and lust for gain caught in that simple sign? I think not, and that is but a brushstroke on my canvas. Ah! At last you've marked my method. Well, there are other strokes upon the map and bold ones too. Their worth? My friend, what painter gains as many ducats for his work, which may, if he is lucky, grace the chapel of a Pope? You captured woman's beauty for the ages in that last Madonna. Do you quibble then that I would hold the minds of men but for a lifetime? Power man, with sword as brush and in the oil of well planned scheme, we have a universal plan for making nations. My will be done in spite of nagging tongue and evil memory. But no, the sinner's life will linger longer in the eye of time than and staint's, although I think that you'll soon see a virtue in my cruelty. The cannon sir, is swifter than a crucifix in changing minds, and man's allegiance comes assured to one who holds a subtle whip. With fire and after that diplomacy, I'll have the whole of Italy while you sit home in Florence contemplating form and composition Return now to your workshop noble artisan and for us create a picture worthy of a ruling prince.

W. Fred Kay

Kappi Phi, Sig Choose Beauties For February

February, the Valentine month, again inspired Alpha Sig and Kappa Phi to honor their favorite sweethearts with shows and royal entertainment. Alpha Sig presented their Sweetheart Show on Saturday, February 13th, Valentine's Eve. Sweetheart Donna Reynolds, sophomore, and her court, Nina Jo Tarver, junior; Nancy Paul, Ann Kennedy, sophomores; and Jane Hough, freshmen, were presented and entertained with "Musical Months." The following Saturday night, February 20th Kappa Phi moved its court to a talent agency to entertain their Leading Ladies, sneiors, Helen Rankin, Lou Brininger, Helen Martines, Dona Sarver, Linda Messer, and Judy Perov.

TOURING CHOR . . .

(Con't. from page one)

lish, Florida; Gageby, Lee, Senior, Music Education, Iowa; Gray, Glenda, Sophomore, Mathematics, Tnenessee; Hutchison, Joyce, Freshman, Sociology, Pennsylvania; Irwin, Marion, Sophomore, Foreign Languages, Tennessee;

Kennedy, Karen, Junior, Piano, Pennsylvania; Laubach, Donna, Junior, Voice, Pennsylvania; Morrell, Anne, Sophomore, English, Tennessee; O'Bannon, Eileen, Sophomore, English, Tennessee; Peterson, Janice, Senior, English; Pratt, Virginia, Sophomore, Voice, Florida; Rhodes, Lessie Anne, Senior, Voice, Kentucky; Schmidt, Mary, Senior, Organ, New Jersey; Walters, Janice, Freshman, Mathematics, New Jersey; Williams, Patricia, Freshman, Elementary Education, District of Columbia;

Yohe, Elva, Junior, Voice, Pennsylvania; Ziegler, Oralea, Sophomore, Sociology, Kentucky; Brehm, John, Sophomore, Pre-Medicine, New Jersey; Conway, Richard, Senior, Voice, Pennsylvania; Cureton, Bryant, Senior, Music Thery, New Jersey; Davis, Dan, Sophomore, Psychology, Alabama; Ducey, Michael, Junior, Philosophy, Michigan; Evans, Paul, Sophomore, English, Connecticut; Feast, Charles, Sophomore, Philosophy, Pennsylvania;

Garrett, Michael, Freshman, Undecided, Missouri; Green, William, Junior, English, New Jersey; Gwaltney, Robert, Senior, English, California; Hall, Gary, Junior, Economics, Pennsylvania; Henderson, Stephen, Freshman, Undecided, Pennylvania; Hoffner, William, Senior, Biology, Pennsylvania; Justice, Charles, Senior, Voice, Tennessee; McCahan, David, Senior, History, Pennsylvania; Mease, Larry, Sophomore, Philosophy, Iowa; Moros, Edgar, Junior, Biology, Venezuela; Odell, Lee, Junior, English, Texas; Patterson, Norman, Senior, Art, West Virginia; Quinn, Joseph, Senior, History, Pennsylvania; Styles, David, Freshman, Biology, Georgia; Townsend, Bruce, Sophomore, Musilc Education, New Jersey.

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

Student Vols' Theme: Who Is A Missionary?

By Joe Burgos

Today God is at work in an Ecumenical church which embraces the entire world. Missionaries today are called fraternal workers, for the whole Ecumenical church shares Christ's mission; the United States being a mission field as well as a mission furnisher. And, all over the world, the church today is facing new frontiers, and God is calling Christians to accept new challenges.

But who is a missionary? Christ calls each one of us who have given our lives to him to witness each day. "Go ye into all the world," He said; and the world begins right where we are, our missionary service begins today—at any moment—now, as soon as we claim that we are Christians.

Accepting this larger definition and vision of the term missionary, seeking to come to a fuller understanding of and experience in our Ecumenical church, and trying to recognize the new frontiers on which God is calling us to work, are the purposes of Student Volunteers this semester.

Our programs will have two main themes: our mission here and now, and God's will for our future, either here or abroad.

First, what is our role right now, here at Maryville College? What are the frontiers and on what issues does God call us to take a stand? How will we live each day? How we answer these questions will depend on how we each one of us responds to God's call for obedience.

Secondly, when we leave college, will we work as lay missionaries or go into full time Christian service? Either way we must be aware of the frontiers of the church right at home; migrant workers, racial discriminations and all types of prejudice, juvenile delinquency, dope addiction and alcoholism, the American Indians, immigrants.

We must also consider the work of the church abroad, what it has done, is doing, and should do in the future. Problems such as nationalism and the emerging nations, challenges of non-Christian faiths, communism, and world government will face us. We will have to realize that it is the gospel that we are taking to other cultures, and not our American way of life. Exploring the past work of the church we will try to understand new and better patterns for missionary service.

Knowing that God is in the world and in control of it, that He is working His purpose to bring His heavenly kingdom we, as Student Volunteers will study the Ecumenical church, striving to find His will for us in this world, both now and in the future.

Liberal Ed. on Foreign Field: Does It Work?

On January 31, 1960 Y Radio broadcasted a program featuring letters from Maryville graduates presently teaching in Tehran, Iran. The context of the presentation, which was a result of three months preparation, consisted of questions concerning problems and adjustments that the graduate must face when he or sh eenters servcie on the mission field. Replies featured were those of Milton Carpenter and Fred Wilson.

Other former Maryville students at work in Tehran, Mrs. Madlon Laster and Bruce Inles, were kind enough to respnod to the Y's inquiries. Asked "What areas of your education here at Maryville do you think could have been intensified in order to help you adjust to the needs of the missionary field?", Mrs. Laster replied that "The mere fact that Maryville is a liberal arts college. . . provides a would-be missionary with the most important initial requirement for the field: a broad educational foundation."

"The wider the background experiences of an individual, the easier is the adjustment to the variety of situations confronted in a new country, a new way of life, a new standard of living," she went on. "Each mission station. . . will require a different reaction on the part of the individual. The same answer, basic to entering most professions upon graduation from college, holds true here. Take as wide a range of courses in as wide a range of subjects as is possible. Activities that can present you with opportunities for meeting and working with people are invaluable. In short, you can't do enough, you'll always wish you had done more. Perhaps the best answer is to keep an open and constantly interested mind."

Again, asked to discuss her living conditions and her satisfaction with them, Mrs. Laster summed up: "One thing has subtly impressed itself on my mind: living overseas in a different cultural pattern, slowly annd imperceptably changes one's values. At home we are so used to stainless steel, chrome, and electrical appliances that we lose sight of the things that count. Life can be exceedingly comfortable and sometimes more satisfying with less of the 'trimmings'. The person who can accept the immediate situation without comparing it or contrasting it with what he has known; who can evaluate conditions as they are and proceed as best as possible, is one who can adjust easily to any mission assignment."

Other questions were put to Bruce Ingles. His letter is printed in full below:

1. What were the main contribuitng factors that led me to consider devoting my service in a foreign, mission-minded school?

Most strongly I felt the necessity for some form of direct human service after years of study and preparation, and before more years of study and preparation. Beyond that, I can't evaluate my motives for coming. And whether the motives were selfish or sacrificial doens't matter too much. The fact is, I came. A more important question would be, "What are some of the benefits and difficulties I have found here?"

The guards said in Hamlet, "Sit down awhile and let us once again assail your ears, which are so foritfied agianst our story." This may be said of the Christian message in the world of Islam. There is a need for the preacher to waken man to a realization of his predicament. But the people are now deaf, or worse, they hear and agree, but don't understand—and forget. That is the horror. We must speak through deed a word. And in this society it must come in that order.

WRITER'S CORNER

TWO EVENING MOODS

By Bill Green

I

NEW SOUTH

Outdoor darkness can be black at first; but medtiation is the soul of comprehension; magnolia is a discoverable witness rather than the old end-in-itself. The last time anyone bothered to look, things were pathetically different.
In place of an industrious bollweevil, asphalt is thrown down as a sort of arbitrary cobweb for the interim.
Waking vision breaks anew the icon of symbolic provincialism;
a hope, deeper than any certainty, penetrates the bones of the ambitious. They—whose ideal and impeccable devotion have unfaltering made themselves—they are implements to handtool obscurity with reverence;
these socialist thoughts will breathe loftiness into apathy.
Husks that echoed the vacant mind's laughter are strengthened by the freshcorn small of sincere vitality.
Mountainshadows silently observe the moving world,
never before so torn between a purge of the tutelary
and cathartic unity.
The night plays Harlequin to all.
Beneath its still lastingness a busy forward look inspires the awareness that tradition is not futile:
hum of neon
and dust shaken off shifting hillsides incorporate recognition with the universal.

II

PROGRESSIVE ON W. 52nd

Laugh nightowl, laugh!
Plain and distant, burning and teeming,
is the song to which you bind all listeners.
Perspiring ivory resounds with a faint recollection of the chordsymbol. Yet F and G signify but the hollowness of imagination.
Cry from your tower, surge out of the depts of the storm—and cast the shackle of festered reverie from its highbinge of emotional tomfoolery.
God is a stonesthrow away and you can get there by cutting the bar clean and emptying malady.
Forsake the judicious and give the idiot his score to wait by—
you only can speak freedom this moment.

MORE POEMS

By David Morris

INSPIRATION OF AN EVENING'S CONVERSATION

Go gentle Spirit into the world
touching lives with good.
Each situation presents reality, as remarks passed, change outlooks,

Your light touch or contact
With the string stretched taut
Between existence and life brings sympathy and understanding.

Concern of yourself for others cares aids, enjoyment, nurtures friendship.
Abide and grow through thought, experience;
hallowing memories for future reflection.
Go gentle spirit into the world
touching lives with good.

A WINTER EVE

A winter eve creates an afterglow
Which oft lets one reflect upon the day
And its rewards. The smould'ring fire, the low
Of new fed cattle in the field, you pray
That this illusion will not pass away.
The sense of softness, comfort, peace, these will
In no way help one, transient, just as day,
Like fleeting glimpses, vanished, never still
Or firm. The biting wind, the cold, all kill
The vision of what we would keep as dear
As life itself. Yet we when living chill
Sensation, feeling, love, all these, we fear
Lest withdrawn into selves, we thus ignore
Our friends' desire for winter eves and more.

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

Buy The Best
From
MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET
OLDSMOBILE

Sit Down Protests Spread; USNSA Favors Actions

The sit down protests which had already spread to 9 cities by the first of the week, have now spread to 15, including New York, and have brought statements from N. C. State Attorney General Malcolm Seawell and The American Civil Liberties Union and USNSA.

The most recent scene of action was in Portsmouth, N. C., were fighting broke out on Tuesday when about 100 Negroes (mostly high school students) blocked the aisles, preventing white customers from leaving their seats at the lunch counter of a local department store.

The scuffle quickly moved to the street, where both sides battled it out with chains and tire tools, till police arrived and the youths scattered. No arrests were made. Police stated both whites and Negroes had been injured, and that one white student was taken to the hospital with an arm wound.

Word has just been received that Philadelphia will be the next area to stage a protest. Members of the Philadelphia Youth Committee Against Segregation will picket a West Philadelphia Woolworth store on Saturday. The committee is composed of college and high high school students.

Like the protest in Harlem, this one will be made to demonstrate support of the Southern movements, not to protest the policies of the branch store involved. Announcement of the strike was run in the University of Pennsylvania's Daily Pennsylvanian with an invitation to attend a planning session Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile students from Shaw University and St. Augustine College continue to picket the streets of Raleigh, despite the fact that 43 students were arrested and charged with trespassing in the Cameroon Village Shopping Center earlier in the week.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has issued a statement on the legality of the strikes. In a telegram to N. C. State Attorney General Malcolm Saewell, the ACLU cautioned him agains ttaking legal action against the students, stating that the students were within their constitutional rights.

The telegram was in reply to a statement Seawell had issued earlier protesting that the strikes "poses a serious threat to the peace and good order in the communities in which they occur and that the right of the owner of a private business to sell or refuse to sell customers has been recognized by the State Supreme Court."

In response to the request of many southern students and in recognition of the courage of those students who have taken part in the demonstrations, USNSA has issued a statement supporting the strikes and their student participants.

National Affairs Vice President, Curtis Gans will go into the Southland this week-end to learn more about the situation, and USNSA President Donald Hoffman is expected to make a further statement on the matter next week.

Race Conflict Verbalized By Students

"If we can stand up and be served, why can't we sit down and be served?" asked one Negro coed at North Carolina College Durham, verbalizing the thought that had first stirred action in a Greensboro, N. C. variety store two weeks ago, and by last Friday had sparked a movement which had spread to 9 cities in 4 states.

It all began at 4:45 p.m., February 1, when four freshmen from North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College in Greensboro entered an F. W. Woolworth store in the heart of Greensboro. They bought a few articles, then sat down at the lunch counter for a snack.

According to New York Times dispatches, the following conversation ensued. The students said they were approached by a Negro kitchen woman who said, "You know you're not supposed to be in here." She later called them "ignorant" and a "disgrace" to their race.

The students then asked a white waitress for coffee.

"Im sorry but we don't serve colored here," they quoted her.

"I beg your pardon," said Franklin McCain, 18, of Washington, "you just served me at a counter two feet away. Why is it that you serve me at one counter and deny me at another. Why not stop serving me at all the counters."

The four students sat, coffeeless, until the store closed at 5:30 p.m. Then, hearing that they might be prosecuted, they went the executive committee of the Greensbor NAACP to ask advice.

NAACP President, George C. Simpkins contacted the New York office of Congress on Racial Equality (CORE); since he had heard of their successful attempt to desgregate a Baltimore restaurant, and CORE's field secreatry Gordan R. Garey arrived in Greensboro the next day.

The Greensboro demonstration triggered off a number of similar demonstrations throughout the South. The movement's chief targets were two national variety chains, S. H. Kress and Co. and the F. W. Woolworth & Co. stores. Other chains were effected too, however, and in some cities the students demonstrated at local stores.

According to New York Times reporters, protests followed similar patterns. Students entered the stores and requested food service. They met refusals in all cases and remained at the lunch counters in silent protest.

The reaction of store managers in such instances was to close down lunch counters and, when trouble developed or bomb threats were received, the entire store. (Both Greensboro variety stores received bomb threats and closed down last Saturday.)

Hastily painted signs, posted on the counters read: "Temporarily Closed," 'Closed for Repairs," "Closed in the Interest of Public Safety," "No Trespassing,' and "We Reserve The Right to Service the Public As We See Fit."

After a number of establishments had shut down in High Point, N. C., the S. H. Kress & Co. store remained open, its lunch counter desegregated. The secret? No stools.

The demonstrations attracted crowds of whites. At first the hecklers were youths with ducktailed haircuts. Some carried small Confederate battle flags. Later they were joined by older men in faded khakis and overalls.

In a few cases the Negroes were elbowed, jostled and shoved. Itching powder was sprinkled on them and they were spattered with eggs.

The demonstrations have aroused action on the part of Duke University, whose Women's Student Government last week passed a resolution expressing "sympathy for the attempt to attain justice" and urging every attempt to be made to reach an equitable solution.

For A Firm Foundation
WEAR
SOUTHERN SHOES
116 W. Broadway

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Ten-Year Building Program Planned For MC During '60's

A $6,000,000 Sesquicentennial Development Program for Maryville College culminating in the 150th anniversary of the College in 1969 was announced February 16 by President Ralph W. Lloyd in a formal statement to the student body and the faculty at morning Chapel Service.

The ten-year program, authorized by the College Board of Directors, is based on studies made during the past four years by various College committees, and calls for a goal of $6,000,000 in additional funds with three principal objectives: $2,500,000 for additional current operating income, $1,500,000 for additional endowment, and $2,000,000 for college plant development.

The $2,500,000 figure for current operating income calls for a 100% increase in the salary budget through regular annual advances within an 80% overall increase in the educational and general operating budget. The necessary funds are to be realized from these sources: earnings of additional endowment, additional student fees, and additional gifts for current use.

A Sesquicentennial goal of $1,500,000 in additional endowment is a second objective of the Development Program. This will add approximately $75,000 a year to the current operating income of the College. The present endowment of Maryville College is $3,100,000.

To meet long-range demands, the Directors, since completion of the Chapel in 1954, have approved 28 major building and plant improvement projects. Seventeen of these have been given priority in the ten-year period leading up to the 150th anniversary in 1969. Nine have already been completed, including the new women's dormitory and the rehabilitation of three residence halls. Total estimated cost of buildings and improvements scheduled for priority through 1969 will be approximately $1,865,000. These will include a new science building, rehabilitation of the present Science Hall, two new dormitories, and a new student center.

A building program in the past ten years has featured construction of a new Fine Arts Center, a new Chapel, and a new dormitory for women. Total costs have been $1,700,000. An increase of 65% in average instructional salaries and the addition of $600,000 to the endowment have also been among the outstanding developments of the past decade.

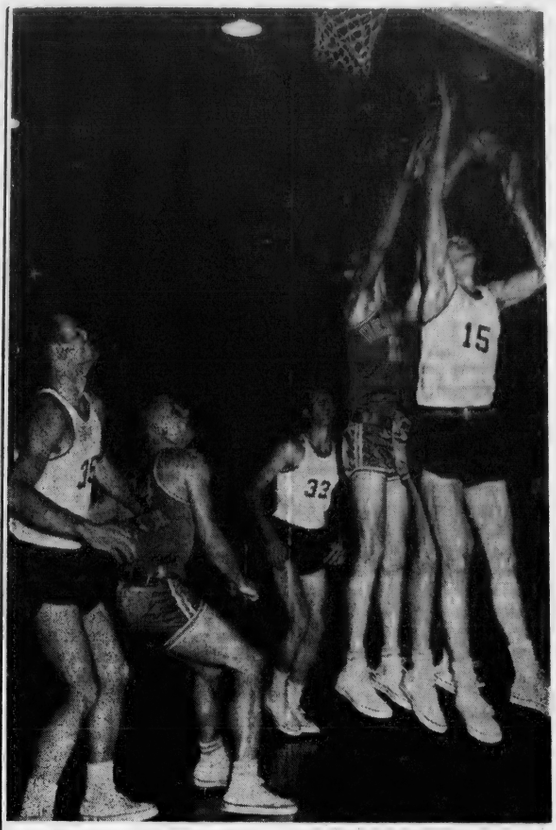
'Where's Charlie' Chosen By Glee Clubs

Loesser's "Where's Charlie" has been selected as the musical play to be presented April 8th and 9th by the combined Men's Glee Club and Women's Chorus. The singers will be accompanied by an orchestra prepared by Mr. Linger. "Where's Charlie" a long time run on Broadway, was taken from the book, Charlie's Aunt and includes many standard songs such as ,"Once in Love with Amy" and "My Darling, My Darling" Eligibility for participation and time of tryouts will be announced later.

Scots Wallop MOCS To Close Season

Morris Breaks School Record For Tallies

Maryville College concluded one of its best seasons in years, as the Scots roared past the University of Chattanooga 90-83 on Tuesday night to post the 14th win against 8 losses.



Tom Morris rewrote the record book for the Scots as he tallied an amazing total of 57 points aganist the tall, talented Mocs. Morris, who, along with Don Abbott was playing his last game as a Scot, scored on 26 field goals (he shot 27 times) and 5 foul shots out of 6 attempts.

Here are some of the records that the Indiana boy has re-written:

57 points in one game (old record set in 1952 by John "Meno" Shields—46 points also U.C.) 497 points for one season—(22.6 points per game) 1,611 points in college blal.

Maryville was up against a fired-up Chattanooga team. They hit over 50% of their shots in the first half and went off the court at intermission with a 51-43 lead. However, in the second half, the Scots surged ahead with some fine clutch shooting of their own. Bill Owenby collected 14 vital points and did some fine rebounding. Incidentally, the Scots out-rebounded their taller foes 59-44. Don Abbott also did a noutstanding job in the backcourt as he hit with some timely shots, enough to keep the Mocs' defense off-balance. Don really scrapped out there and did himself proud in his last appearance for M.C. Don has been a stady performer all season.

Coach Baird's first year at the helm couldn't have ended better. He was more than pleased with the team's showing and is eagerly awaiting next season when we will have a number of lettermen returning.

Box Score For Scot-Moc Game

Chattanooga—83	F.G.	F.T.A.—F.T.M.	P.F.	T.P.
Padgett	3	1 — 1	4	7
Whaley	2	0 — 0	3	4
Pollock	11	2 — 1	2	23
Cole	0	0 — 0	0	0
Davidson	3	2 — 1	3	7
Baker	4	2 — 2	0	10
Elliott	8	2 — 2	2	18
C. Carter	3	6 — 6	3	12
F. Carter	1	0 — 0	0	2
	35	15 — 13	14	83
Maryville—90	F.G.	F.T.A.—F.T.M.	P.F.	T.P.
Owenby	5	5 — 4	3	14
Crisp	2	3 — 3	2	7
Duy	0	0 — 0	1	0
Morris	26	6 — 5	1	57
Carpenter	0	0 — 0	0	0
Abbott	3	4 — 2	3	8
Porter	2	0 — 0	3	4
Webb	0	0 — 0	0	0
	38	18 — 14	13	90

Scots and Soda . . .

(Continued From Page 2)

low was. Having no desire to write a Paradise Lost, or at best to resemble the master of ceremonies on Shock Theatre the rest of my life, I called a doctor. Undoubtedly an allergy he said. An addition of anti-allergenic pills were made to the cherry-colored, castor-oil flavored cough syrup, the penicillin tablets, the anti-histamine capsules, the vile-smelling nosedrops, and the family size bottle of Bayer aspirin. The rose went.

Thereafter, I began steadily to recover. My temperature came up, my voice returned, and at least the eyelashes on the left eye became visible. And I returned to school in as normal a state as could be expected of me.

I leave only one note to ponder. Why is it that tests are never given in your absence, but are postponed until the day of return. Have you noticed this fiendish fact? It just doesn't add much to recovery, that's all.

More Chances In Naval OCS

I'd like to have the attention of all you college men in your final semester. Because of your thorough education, opportunity will come to you in many ways. One of these, and perhaps the most intriguing, is the offer your navy would like for you to consider . . . you see, as a college graduate you'll be eligible for the navy's officer candidate school program. OCS—three truly remarkable letters that can guarantee your future success. Now that's a broad statement but it has a solid basis.

DRESS RIGHT!
THE SHOE BOX
The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

VAN'S BAKERY
1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413 YU 2-7920
We Specialize in Birthday Cakes And Party Orders
WE DELIVER

BROADWAY JEWELERS
Jay G. Hill
Jeweler
Check Our Diamonds

ANDERSON'S
ON BROADWAY
Dresses for Spring
"Betty Barclay" —
"Henry Rosenfeld" —
"Lampl"
Swimsuits by "Marina-Del-Mar"

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Charles Crissman—Agent for
HORNE'S FLORIST
Formerly Chandler's
Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

Stationery Special
100 Sheets
50 Envelopes
Only $1.00
CITY DRUG CO.

Schmidt, Conway, Bradley To Give Senior Recitals

Miss Schmidt

Mary Schmidt, organ major from Paulsboro, New Jersey, will be presented in a Senior Recital on Monday evening, February 29, at 8:15 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Miss Schmidt is a member of Vesper Choir, Tau Kappa Chi, and Theta Epsilon.

Mr. Conway

Richard Conway, baritone voice major from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, will present his Senior Recital, Thursday, March 3, at 8:00 P.M. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. He is a member of Tau Kappa Chi and the College Choir.

Included in the program will be a solo cantata by Bach. This will be performed with oboe, strings, and harpsichord accompaniment, led by the String Ensemble under the direction of Miss Catherine Crews. Also on the program are a group of Schubert Lieder and one of contemporary works.

Miss Bradley

Gail Bradley, organ major, of Maryville, will be presented in a Senior Recital on Tuesday evening, March 8, at 8::30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Miss Bradley is a member of Vesper Choir and Tau Kappa Chi, honorary music organization, and Theta Epsilon.

Cornell University offered a certificate in journalism in the years 1875-79 before the days of journalism schools.

Living today is a game of robbing Peter to pay Paul in order to make it possible to stand pat.

MC Girl To Be Chosen For 'Glamour' Contest

For the fourth year, Glamour magazine is inviting colleges throughout the United States and Canada to assist them with the preparation of their August College Issue. We have been asked to select the "best dressed" girl on our campus, taking the following criteria into consideration: 1. Good figure, beautiful posture. 2. Clean, shining, well-kept hair. 3. Imagination in managing a clothes budget. 4. Good grooming—not just neat, but impeccable. 5. Appropriate campus look (she's in line with local customs). 6. A clear understanding of her fashion type. 7. Individuality in her use of color and accessories. 8. A workable wardrobe plan. 9. A neat way with make-up (enough to look pretty, not overdone). 10. Appropriate—not rah rah—look for off-campus occasions.

The young woman on our campus who best meets these requirements will be entered in Glamour's 1960 "10 Best Dressed College Girls in America" contest. Three pictures of her—in an on-campus outfit, a daytime off-campus outfit and a party dress (full or cocktail length)—will be subbmitted with the official entry form to the magazine in competition with hundreds of "best dressed" candidates. In March, a panel of GLAMOUR editors will name the ten most outstanding young women the "10 Best Dressed College Girls in America.

The "top ten" will be photographed for GLAMOUR's August College issue and will be flown to New York in June via American Airlines as GLAMOUR's guests.

Our MC contestant will be selected by a faculty-student committee, headed by the edtior of the Echo. She will be announced in the next issue of this paper in a story carrying further details.

NDEA Disclaimer Repeal In Sight

(UPS)—The elimination of the disclaimer affidavit provision of the National Defense Education Act of 1958 seemed possible last week when the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare approved a bill calling for the repael of the affidavit.

The bill (S.2929) was introduced anuary 29, 1960, by Senators Kennedy, Clark, and Javits. The bill would eliminate Section 1001 (f-1), the disclaimer affidavit of disbelief, leaving unchanged Section 1001(f-2), the oath of aliegiance.

No date has been set for report of S. 2929 to the Senate floor.

Meanwhile, three more universities have taken action on the loyalty provisions as feeling on this issue still runs high throughout the country.

At Dartmouth, the faculty voted urge the College to withdraw from the NDEA loan program until such time as its disclaimer affidavi tis repealed. In stating his position, Dean of the Faculty Arthur E. ensen said, "I feel that it (the disclaimer affidavit) is a violation of academic freedom."

According to Dean Jensen the affidavit is a political mistake. The important question, he contended, is not merely to agree that the affidavit is a mistake, but to do something about it.

The resolution will be presented to the Board of Trustees which meets in April.

Afte ra long, involved battle at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis last week, the Minnesota Student Association approved a resolution calling for the repeal of the oath and disclaimer affidavit provisions of the NDEA.

At Columbia University, the executive committee of the local chapter of the Amreican Association of University Professors stated that if the disclaimer affidavit was not repealed, the University should withdraw from the program and halt the administration of funds for which the affidavit is a requirement.

The loyalty provisions (Section 1001 (f) of the National Defense Education Act have been under fire for some time. During the last session of Congress a bill by Senator ennedy to eliminate the provisions was returned to committee. Colleges and Universities throughout the nation have expressed grave concern over the provisions.

Now Everybody Gets Into Act

Not too many years ago, almost the only voices raised on behalf of the underprivileged people of the world belonged to religious leaders. Now statesmen and political leaders, for various reasons, are echoing the same idea.

Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary General of the United Nations, contends that "the economic gap, already wide, between the prosperous countries and those less fortunate is steadily becoming wide." Calling for an increased sense of responsibility among the wealthier nations, he maintains that, for rich and poor alike, prosperity cannot be assured unless "all share in the progress and no country builds its wealth on the sacrifices of others."

Douglas Dillon, U.S. Under Secretary of State, claims that the future of the world depends on the effectiveness of aid to under-developed countries for the next twenty to fifty years. He says that the "shining goal of helping a billion human beings throw off their age-old bonds of poverty and ignorance" is essential to the survival of the non-Communist world.

Paul-Henri Spaak, Secretary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, suggests an ambitious program by Western allies to meet the problems of less advanced nations. In the face of a global economic threat to freedom and independence, he labels economic nationalism "the last refuge of all selfishness." He urges the West to "put an end to waste that is shameless," and work out coordinated plans to meet the needs of less favored nations.

The idea advanced by religious leaders is catching on, even though the basis—love of God and neighbor—may be disguised.

There is not one single authenticated record of the earth's having opened up and swallowed anyone or anything during an earthquake.

LIBERAL EDU. . . .

(Continued from page two)

Every man needs a time in the wilderness, when he is alone with God. Of course this can happen in America as well as in Asia.

In our job we work with students and faculty of about thirty nationalities and eight reigious faiths. It can be a time of real growth.

This leads into the second uestion.

2. How has this type of work challenged my spiritual growth?

Challenge is a good word, because this has been a time of spiritual struggle. Despite the stereotype of the nice stories to come from the mission field, we are not perpetrating sentimental hogwash. Christ has explained the big problems to us—and the answers are hard.

A year ago my mother died of cancer after five years of suffering. Her image has helped me to understand our suffering Lord whom I have never seen. A month ago I saw my uncle. He became ill and for a time had great pain, and as with my mother I was helpless. In this country I have looked on pain and passed by. One can become hardened to it, but must not. I can do this no longer and claim salvation.

Reading much of a religious nature, I've thought deep thoughts and gone all around the core. But I have avoided the core. Finally I've returned to J. B. Phillips' translation of the Gospels. What power! I believe one could study all about Christianity and maybe even become a religious leader and very seldom let Christ and His love show through him. It's not enough for me to have a scheme for world peace and church unity. If I can learn to show peace and love to those about me, that's enough.

The Christian message involves haeling the sick and guiding the healthy. A man may be sick in body, mind, and soul. I believe there is only one Physician for the sick soul, but man may take man to Him. This is the greatest vocation, and this may give meaning to any job and raise it to a calling.

America's year 'round Jacket Favorite

McGREGOR DRIZZLER

Worn here by TOMMY BOLT, U.S. Open Golf Champion

It's easy to understand why golfers prefer the famous Drizzler — it's chockful of the features active men want. For instance: deep-cut pivot armholes for full freedom, new cloth breather holes to keep you cool, double-protection shoulders keep you dry in a downpour. Elastic-insert push-up sleeves, full bi-swing pleats, hip-hugging elastic for snug, comfortable fit. Tab-closure collar, smart corded pockets. Great new iridescent and solid colors. A pro's jacket at price that's under par.

$10.95

LIFE

PROFFITTS

Mens Dept.

Christian Book Nook

229 College St.

A Vareity of Religious Items

Students Always Welcome!

"C" Ray Tipton

Jeweler

COLUMBIA Tru-Fit

Diamond Rings

Elgin & Hamilton

Watch Repairing — Phone YU 2-0141

All Work Guarnteed — Maryville, Tennessee

STUDENT Speciall

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

Gilmour Wins Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Honors

John C. Gilmour, senior philosophy major at Maryville College, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study next year; it was announced March 7 by Dean Frank D. McClelland.

Gilmour, who plans to attend Emory University and major in philosophy, has been a member of the Highland Echo staff, the Highlander Marching Band, Writers' Workshop, and the Pre-Ministerial Association. His home is in Belle Vernon, Penn.

Robert Gray Bowman, an English major at Maryville, won honorable mention in the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship competition. Bowman, who was a mid-semester graduate, was a member of the Maryville College Playhouse, Writers' Workshop, and the French Club. His home is in Asheboro, North Carolina.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has made known the names of 1,259 winners of its fellowship awards for 1960-1961. There were fifty-one award winners in Region Seven, which includes Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky, and Mississippi. Only eight of the forty-four colleges and universities in the state of Tennessee are represented with award winners.

The Woodrow Wilson Fellowships carry a basic stipend of $1,500 plus family allowances and full costs of a year of graduate study at any college or university in the United States or Canada. Winners were selected from 8,800 applicants representing 861 institutions of higher learning. They will study at 83 different graduate schools.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation awards are made each year to recruit promising students for college teaching. In 1957, the program received a $24,500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to increase the scope of its operations.

Key Changes Planned For Fall

'60-'61 Will Witness Semester, Tuition Change

Important changes in the college calendar and an increase in tuition for students at Maryville College will be announced in the new College catalog now at the printer's. The catalog will be available in about four weeks.

The calendar for 1960-61 contains a change in the opening and closing dates for the two semesters. The first semester will open on September 13, 1960, and close on January 24, 1961; the second semester will begin on January 27 and close with Commencement on May 31.

This change has been made in order to equalize the two semesters. Even though college has formerly begun very early in the fall, there has never been sufficient time for a standard length semester before Christmas. The new plan will give more time in September to prepare for the opening of college and will keep Commencement earlier than that of most colleges.

Also announced in the new catalog is a revision in tuition and the cost of room and board. Beginning next fall, tuition will be $240 per semester, and there will be slight increases in room and board amounting to $5 per semester for each. The total costs ($500 per semester) are still below those in almost all first rank private colleges in the United States and very much below those in a large proportion of such colleges, especially those in the North and in the East. Approximately sixty per cent of the small liberal arts colleges in America are raising fees next year in amounts varying from $100 to $300.

The system of grade points for computing scholarship standing has been changed to the following: A,4 points per semester hour; B, 3 points per semester hour; C, 2 points per semester hour; D, 1 point per semester hour; F, 0 points per semester hour. Under this system, the "C" requirement for graduating will be represented by a 2.0 standing, and the Honor Roll will require a 3.25 standing. A four-year average of 3.3 will be required for cum laude and 3.8 for magna cum laude.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 March 12, 1960 No. 12

Use Of College GI's Considered By Congress

A novel plan to channel the enthusiasm and skills of college men and women into international service is under study in Washington. Congress has been asked to determine whether:

- Large numbers of college men would sign up for two years of work on development projects in foreign lands in preference to military service.
- The percentage who would be interested in such work at a soldier's pay even if it did not substitute fully for military service, and how many young women would apply on a purely voluntary basis.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin has filed a bill calling for thorough study of the whole idea. He also inserted in the Congressional Record an analysis of the possible organization and functions of a "Point Four Youth Corps."

Only young men and women with at least two years of college would be considered. As a compromise to the substitute for military service feature, draft exemption might be offered to young men but without veteran's benefits. Members of the corps could be assigned to basic projects of technical assistance in

(Continued on Page 3)

Schoen Recital Will Be March 25

The Faculty Recital on Friday evening, March 25, 1960, will be given by Mrs. Sallie Schoen, pianist.

Mrs. Schoen holds a Bachelor of Music from the Oberlin Conservatory, Master of Music from the Indiana University. She has also done special study at the Mozarteum, Salzburg, Austria.

The program will consist of music chosen from Bach and Mozart, and is featuring the twenty-four preludes of Chopin.

Community And College Join For Current Fund Project

On Tuesday, March 8, approximately one hundred men and women participated in the Maryville College Day program designated last week in a proclamation signed jointly by Mayor Lea Callaway of Maryville, Mayor O. W. Brumfield of Alcoa, and County Judge Asher Howard. The objective of the program being to secure gifts for current operating purposes, including essential increases in salary budget, general operating and maintenance costs, and improvement of the educational program.

Earl Blazer, Chairman of the Maryville College Day committee, was very optimistic about the outcome of the project, basing his confidence on the enthusiasm and cooperation of the friends of the college who have given up a full day to devote their time in the Maryville College Day program.

Prior to the drive Mr. Blazer said, "For one hundred and forty years, we have enjoyed in Blount County the benefits which the college offers to our community. Seldom has the college asked for support. With the momentous Sesquicentennial Development program now under way, the hearty cooperation of the people of Alcoa-Maryville and Blount County will be a necessity. We look forward confidently to a highly successful effort tomorrow."

A "kick-off" breakfast at Pearsons Hall at 8:30 started the Maryville College Day program. There was a Report Dinner on Thursday at seven o'clock in which the final results were made known to the participants in the program.

ALCOA'S Gift Of $1,500 Starts Fund Rolling

A $1,500 check from the ALCOA Foundation was presented to Maryville College President Ralph W. Lloyd on Friday, March 4, by T. I. Stephenson, Jr., Manager of Tennessee Operations for the Aluminum Co. of America. It was an advance gift to be included in the Maryville College Day program held March 8.

This is the fifth consecutive year in which the ALCOA Foundation has made a gift to support the educational program of Maryville College. Maryville will also share in a $1,000 gift made by the Foundation to the Affiliated Independent Colleges of Tennessee, Inc.

In accepting the gift, Dr. Lloyd said: "The consistency with which The ALCOA Foundation has supported independent higher education has been most gratifying. We have been particularly grateful that Maryville College has been included. The gift this year is especially appreciated in view of the Maryville College Day on March 8. This day, when we will seek support of the community, constitutes an integral part of our recently announced Sesquicentennial Development Program, and generous gifts such as this which we have received from the ALCOA Foundation are essential to its success."

Scholarship Awards Tryouts To Be March 26

Maryville College Scholarship Awards Competitions in Music and Art will be held in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center Saturday, March 26, opening at 9:00 A.M. First place winners in piano, voice, and string instruments, will be awarded one year's full college tuition. In wind instruments and Art, first place winners will receive $220 toward their college expenses. Young people participating in the competitions must be eligible for admission to Maryville College.

'Where's Charley?' Cast Chosen

The cast for the spring operetta Where's Charley?, to be presented by the Women's Choir and the Men's Glee Club, has been announced.

The cast includes the following: Paul Elliott as Charley, Carl Dumford as Jack, Sue Lemme as Amy, Pat Blanton as Kittye, Phil Eslinger as Pettigue, Don Stupak as Sir Francis, Margaret Sample as Donna D'Alvadorez, and Harry Page as Brassett.

The date for Where's Charley? will be announced later.

'Lark' Tryouts Will Be Held Monday

Tryouts for the commencement play, The Lark, will be held Monday afternoon and evening, March 14, according to Miss Kathleen Craven, Director of Playhouse. Sign-up sheets are available on the theatre bulletin board for those who plan to audition.

Anouilh's The Lark, adapted from the French by Lillian Hellman, offers speaking parts for five women and fifteen men. Others needed for the cast will be Ladies of the Court, Monks and Soldiers.

The Lark is the most recent of the "Joan" plays and is in a category with Anderson's Joan of Lorraine and Shaw's St. Joan. It will be presented as part of the commencement activities on May 13, 16 and 17.

Lloyd And Choir To Meet At Nat'l. Presby. Church

On March 20, President Lloyd will speak at two morning services of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C., and the touring Vesper Choir will sing at the same two services.

Dr. Lloyd will fly from Maryville on Saturday, March 19; after the services in Washington on the twentieth he will go on to New York, to attend a meeting of the United Presbyterian Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations for two days, and a meeting of the Department of International Affairs of the National Council of Churches for one day. Both of these meetings will be held in the new Interchurch center on Riverside Drive, which is the headquarters of the World Council of Churches and the National Council of Churches, as well as of various denominations.

While in New York, Dr. Lloyd has appointments to talk with certain foundations and individuals concerning funds for the new science building and other Maryville College expansion.

Society Skits To Compete Tonight

The four societies will compete for "dramatic" honors tonight in the Alumni gym at 7:30. This is an annual event in which each society presents an original skit rated by three judges on originality, performance, and appropriateness. Each skit must remain within the 20 minute time limit. The judges will vote by ranking the societies first, second, third, and fourth. The society receiving the least number of points will receive the trophy and retain it until the following year. If a society wins it for three successive years, the trophy shall be retained permanently.

Chairmen for the societies are the following: Kappa Phi, George Roselli; Alpha Sigma, Hank Andrews; Theta Epsilon, Reda Kay and Mary Hope Stewart; and Chi Beta, Jane Planitzer.

Profits which formerly have been divided among the societies, will this year go to Operation-Crossroads Africa. Admission is $.25.

Spring Vacation Starts Wednesday

Spring Vacation officially begins Wednesday, March 16, at 4:30 p.m. Vacation will end as Chapel resumes on Thursday, March 24, at 8:00 a.m. Double cuts will b egiven students who not in class on the day preceding or following Sprig Vacation.

Beard Exhibits During March

The Art Department is now showing an exhibit by Mr. Richard Beard, head of the department. These expressionistic paintings and sculpture will be on display until April.

The next gallery exhibition will present a selection of graphics by David Bernard, who was formerly an instructor of art here at Maryville and is now an associate professor of art at the University of Wichita. The date of arrival for Bernard's show is not yet certain.

The Highland Echo

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

Maryville, Tennessee, March 12, 1960

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Patricia Baker, Ellen Dozier,
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Helen Ann Easterly, Pat Crossley, Joe Quinn, Bonnie Burron, David Morris
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Jeanne Wilson Ellen Dozier

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistant ..... Jerry Cooper
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate— $.75 per semester

Letters to the Editor should be carefully thought out and written on subjects of campuswide interest. They must be signed, but name may be withheld in publication if requested. Letters should be addressed to the ECHO FORUM c/o one of the Editorial Staff.

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Before Departing . . .

These last few weeks it seems that the whole U.S. has been trying to imitate its largest state—weaher-wise, a least. There are those of us seriously concerned that the crocus has abdicated in favor of the icicle as the first sign of spring. And indications are that the Vesper Choir may have to return home by way of dogsled or toboggan if the storms persist.

Most of us are even more concerned about the chances of going north, east, west, and even south for spring vacation. That being the case we want to urge you to be cautious going to and fro—and in between,—because we'd like to see you back, rested and happy (or at least happy, if not rested). Seriously, The Echo staff wishes everyone a good vacation and a safe return — whether you come back with Florida sand in your shoes or New England snow in your pockets. Have a good time!

About Sitting Down . . .

Scarcely two hundred miles away our fellow students are being put behind bars. UPS releases, daily newspapers, radio reports—all serve to remind us that students like us, studying the same things we study, participating in a similar campus life, and hoping, as we hope, for a meaningful future, are being jailed for pursuing their rightful hopes. Their hope extends beyond vocational consideration or choosing the right major, however. Theirs is the hope of new interpretation of equality.

These Negro friends of ours have risen to their situation, deciding that it's worth the fight now—and, Ghandi-fashion, they are fighting. We can speak only in praise of the dignity with which they have performed their duty. And we can do no less than offer our encouragement, as members of the USNSA, and as students actively concerned with freedom.

Where, Oh Where . . .

In an act audacious enough to be funny, someone ripped a change machine for a wall in Carnegie not long ago. Did we say funny? It might be if it weren't such a serious indication of a widespread laxity that pervades the campus in regard to others' property.

In every dormitory there are those who, when running low on their supply of sheets, "borrow" one off the line. Shirts and blouses, too, and even underwear are free for the taking, if no one is around to prevent it. Small change, too, and not so small, finds its way to acquiring pockets without so much as an I.O.U. to make it decent. And unless you have a special padlock, better not put your food in the dorm refrigerator. Worse than being taken completely, it may be nibbled on or sipped.

Money, however, seems to hold the greatest fascination. Not only was the change machine absconded with, but just a short time back a faculty member left her office briefly, only to return to find a sizeable amount of money stolen in her absence. The list of such incidents is deplorably long.

Perhaps we should recognize a communal or socialistic system for our living. But to be frank, we should stop this ridiculous inconsideration—and this serious breach of honesty.

A New Allegiance . . . . .

Special Editorial

One night not long ago a small group of MC students gathered to discuss the possibility of an honor system for the campus. One trigger for the proposal was the advent of the honor dorm; another was the growing awareness that academic honor is the rightful center of campus morality. Consequently this gathering was, at best, a centripetal effort to get our values back in the right place—away from so much emphasis on peripheral rules and back to the heart of the matter.

This has a very encouraging sound, doesn't it?

But if you will allow us to digress from the usual short editorial, we can take a sincere look at what actually prevails.

For example, while we are not the victims of the "big business" of organized cheating which plagues other campuses, cheating is by no means at a minimum here. One has only to look back a few a few months to recall an "incident" which occurred in regard to an ethics final. Respected students were found to possess copies of the test, in hopes, of course, of "acing" the exam. And there are, no doubt, an appalling number of individual and small group discrepancies carried on every day (the most common of which is probably plagiarism)—most of which might not be discovered.

This is attributable in part to the so-called "tyranny of grades." Pause for a moment to think of the short-cuts you have been tempted to take, the forgotten glances you have sent in search of your classmates' answers: all of this in obedience to the normal probability curve or in reverence of the longed-for "A" (or the comfortable "C" that means you'll pass).

Responsible, too, is the significance which has been placed on the breaking of the more arbitrary rules of policy: the nine demerits for possession of a car —three for smoking in your room—and so it goes. The emphasis has so changed that it is more dishonorable to own a car than it is to crib an exam—or so the consequences indicate.

Naturally the school must have its regulations and must discharge them accordingly. Rules, like grades, are here to stay (and with good reason). However, there must come a time when academic dishonesty is taken to task far more stringently than any disgression from localized policy; for the implications of the former are far more universal than those of the latter—and one follows another, if the emphasis is right.

The burden comes back to the student, however. Speaking to the classroom situation, Dr. Waldo Beach says in his excellent book Conscience on Campus, "There is no external mechanical device that can dislodge this deity (grades) from its place of emin-

(Continued On Page 4)

Over The Footlights - 'A Doll's House'

Reviewed by Lynn Waddington

On Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5, Playhouse presented the stirring psychological tragedy, Ibsen's A Doll's House, directed by Miss Kathleen Craven with Mr. Bob Leonard as technical director.

Given a play with little action or emotion and short rehearsal time, Miss Craven came through with a production which held the audience enough to bring a second curtain call on Saturday night.

In her first stage appearance at Maryville, Ann Newcomer as Nora played admirably the role of a woman playing a role. When alone, Nora, "the Skylark," relaxed just enough to let Nora, the mature woman, show through. Miss Newcomer preserved enough strength with the frivolity that her strong stand at the end was convincingly in character. In a few places, however, interpretation got caught up in a flood of excitement.

In a cold, theatrical performance, Steve Mouton presented Helmer, a shell of a man who preferred not to get involved in life or marriage; however, Mr. Mouton neglected a few opportunities for warmth which would have made Helmer truly human.

Veteran Playhouse member Ralph Ayers thoroughly lived the lovable Dr. Rank. Although aware that he was dying, there was none of the martyr in Rank. He admitted his love for Nora, not realizing it would prevent her asking for his help. Mr. Ayers' acting was most believable because of the degree to which he believed and felt it.

Constance Halloway gave an understanding but slightly stilted performance of Mrs. Linde. Krogstad was strongly portrayed by Larry Bush who was hindered by a difficulty with gestures and enunciation.

Minor supporting roles were filled by Abby Clark as the nurse, Peggy Reynlods as the maid, and Charles Mouton as the porter.

Perhaps the character most at home on the stage was Nora's son played by Curt Tomlinson. The warm, happy scene with him and Sarah Edmondson as the daughter was one of the highlights of the play.

Lights, props, and sound were handled smoothly in a well-designed but monotonous set. The doorway visible through the section of scrim was especially effective. Costumes were well chosen and handled naturally.

Although the action flowed well in the first two acts, lines came more slowly in the third, and a few long speeches could have been relieved by more movement. Often the movement and gestures became mechanical and thus meaningless with the accompanying words. There was also an unfortunate but avoidable hesitancy with lines.

A Doll's House is an intellectual rather than an emotional play, with a conflict of character rather than action. Thus, although the play moved slowly at times, this performance did justice to its true meaning.

"Traffic's Kinda Slow In Tennessee"

SCOTS and SODA

by The Abominable Snowmen

Ou sont les neiges d'antan? This means where are the snows of yesterday, for those of you who don't know. For those of you who do know, you can skip that last sentence. As you brighter ones may have guessed, it was said by a Frenchman (Francois Villon—not Maurice Chevalier, nor Brigette Bardot), and writers the world over have been quoting it ever since. It's sort of a theme with them, I think. Anyway, I just thought you might like to use this phrase when you are talking about the record snows way back in 1960. It will add a cultured air to the weather topic, and will impress your grandchildren no end.

Personally, I don't plan on talking about the snows. There are just some things better left unsaid, particularly in the presence of grandchildren. I'm not saying snow scenes aren't lovely, because all of us know snow scenes are lovely. It is just born within us to know senow scenes are lovely, and I certainly wouldn't want to go on record contradicting any innate truths. But by March, a world packed with snow on roofs (the reason I mention roofs, ours is about to fall in), on walks, and on dead branches, calls forth no poetic response from me. I am drained. Nature just looks black and white to me—you know like the late-late show. And late-late shows can look pretty bleak after a whole evening of nothing but black and white television. My soul calls out for technicolor and the N.B.C. peacock.

Of course, all this snow wouldn't have happened if we hadn't brought Alaska into the union. We, 50 states, must share things for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer; but let's share with Hawaii, too. And while we are about it, why not add Puerto Rica, as the fifty-first state—you know the warmth of Latin America.

Snow does provide for some forms of recreation (so does Latin America, but let's forget that for the time being). I feel it significant that the Winter Olympics were held in the United States this year. I also feel it significant that the Russians won (but we'll forget that too, before there are congressional hearings, etc.—a nasty business). We don't have to be olympics champions to enjoy the winter sports. Take the ski jump, for instance. We can do a leap right off our front porch steps and slide for, at least, 63½ meters. This is without skis, too. A little less competitive is the fun of putting chains on the car tires, and if we don't have chains, driving without them—sort of bobsledding with obstacles like a telephone pole and the kid-next-door in the path. Then there's the real muscle-builder—shoveling walks. This gives me the deep felt (and Ben-Gay rubbed) hope that through the women of this country (who else shovels walks) that the United States will win the Summer Olympics. They will be conditioned for the javelin throwing and weight-lifting necessary to overcome the Russian amazons.

Of course, the strenuous exertion of winter sports calls for nutritious, body-building foods. However, a little difficulty arises here. The grocery store has become inaccessible (unless we are one of the truly fortunate ones who own a full-fledged pair of "muck-lucks"). And so it becomes necessary to turn to theat perennial favorite of all red-blooded and blue-skinned winter sports enthusiast, the tantalizing bowl of snow-cream. It has been scientifically determined that a large mixing bowl of snow-cream will keep a shoveler shoveling for no more than 11½ minutes and no less than 10½ minutes. This is providing, of course, that the snow is not the wet, heavy variety. Should it fall (pardon me, occur) that it is of the heavier type, it is wise to turn to our little winter friends—the birds. Protein, you know—just a few shots from a sling-shot. Now come off it, we eat chicken all the time. No, it is not cannibalism. We just must try to think of it in terms of fowl. Of course, there is snow-cream for dessert. It is of the utmost importance to keep a steady supply of vanilla. Snow-cream without vanilla just leaves something to be desired.

Hark! Hark! I hear the Saint Bernards digging through.

Doors Opening Wide For Summer Spent Abroad

By Tammy Day

How many college students realize the wide variety of opportunities for summer travel abroad? If you're thinking that you'd like to spend the summer of 1960 abroad, here are some of the available opportunities.

Principally there are five major ways to spend a summer abroad. You can go as a tour member, live in the home of a foreign family, study abroad, travel by yourself, or elect a work camp.

As a tour member you will explore foreign countries accompanied by other students. These tours vary in price from $800 to $1700. There are approximately 30 students in a tour and in being part of a tour you receive guidance, companionship of people your own age, and a planned diversity of interesting activities.

By living with a foreign family you are actually living the customs of a country and sharing its traditions. Last year some 1200 students went to 28 countries including Mexico, France, Switzerland, Poland, Japan, and Israel. The cost of this varies with the location starting with $350 to Mexico, to as high as $1500 to Japan.

Formal study programs are both educational and entertaining. You learn much about the country you are in besides receiving valuable study under a foreign professor. It is possible to receive credit for your study in your home college. You will be studying with classmates from throughout the world and will learn much from them concerning their own countries and customs. The typical cost for such a study program is estimated from $750 to $1200 including tuition, again depending on the locale.

Perhaps you would prefer to make your trip by yourself without benefit of supervision and a pre-planned itinerary. The cost of such a trip is inestimable, but there are decided advantages to independent travel. You are able to change countries in mid-stream and can explore any fresh ideas you discover.

Finally, if you want to give as well as receive, you may choose to join a work camp. Hundreds of work camps are conducted throughout the world each year—many under religious or political auspices. Programs and prerequisities vary from construction work in Africa to volunteer workers with children in Europe. For these camps you must be able to stay for three months. Typically, no wages are paid, but room and board are furnished. Applicants must be in good health and should be able to pay for their own transportation and insurance, usually in the neighborhood of $550.

Whichever program you choose, you must qualify for it, and to find out the necessary qualifications it is wise to consult the Council on Student Travel, 179 Broadway, New York 7, New York. Write for free information.

Besides the above-mentioned opportunities, the National Student Association, Educational Travel, Inc., offers special interest tours for college students. In the summer of 1960 there are four major European tours being conducted.

Of principal interest is the student tour to the Olympic Games in Rome, stopping in several countries on the way. The all-inclusive price is $1480.

Other European tours for 1960 include two Red Carpet Tours, embarking from New York and traveling entensively through Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and England. Also, two "Special Interest" tours concentrating on attending several outstanding cultural events will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed upon the art treasures of Europe, in particular, The Shakespearean Festival and the Passino Play in Germany.

All tours and work camps provide special orientation to thoroughly acquaint you with the foreign countries to be visited.

Are you planning to travel abroad? For further information write: The National Student Association, 20 West 38th Street, New York 18, New York, or Time Magazine, Education Department, 540 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 11, Illinois.

WAA Carries Full Program

In the W.A.A. basketball tournament, Chi Beta defeated Theta Epsilon, after playing many close games.

More news of basketball finds the W.A.A. All-Star team traveling to Carson-Newman College for a basketball playday. By defeating East Tennessee State College ,the squad went to the finals of the tournament only to be beaten by Tennessee Wesleyan.

The ping pong tournament begins this week with both men's and women's teams eligible. This co-educational tourney is for the purpose of promoting more social activity between men and women by having them join in a cooperative sports.

Aerial darts also begin this week. This game is played much on the order of badminton, using an aerial dart paddle, closely resembling an elongated ping pong paddle.

These sports are an important part of the W.A.A.'s program and so far this year have been well supported by the student body.

ERNIE WRITES BACK

I appreciate the kind words you had to say about me in the Echo, and want you all to know that I enjoy working with you students and for Maryville College. These small things of life are needful as well as big things. There is no stranger to me, wherever you come from. We all have feelings and we should try to cheer each one as we go. I hope while you are here I can help you all in some way. There is one thing, try to be happy. Good luck to you all.

Ernie Farr

COLLEGE G.I.'s . . .

(Continued From Page 1) . . . village and rural areas, where their skills would be most useful. The great demand for English teachers throughout Asia and Africa opens a fertile field of service, as does the need in many areas for the programs to train local teachers in such subjects as sanitation, health, biology, mechanics and arithmetic.

College students in favor of the idea have a simple way of registering their approval: Write their Congressmen.

A Student Leader Speaks

Excerpts From A Statement By Curtis B. Gans, National Affairs Vice-President, United National Student Association, Before A Protest Demonstration By New York College Students In Washington Square, Saturday, March 5, 1960 at 1:30 p.m.

"This demonstration is only a small indication of the strong sentiment which has caused American students to rise up and express their deep concern over the civil rights situation.

"Ther eare many examples that I could cite, which explain what has motivated us to speak. The straw that broke the camel's back came from Nashville, where the public allowed Negro and white students, engaged in a completely non-violent demonstration, to be attacked by groups of white youths; where a public allowed the police to turn their backs on such violence, and allowed the Negro students to be arrested; where a public allowed Negro students to receive undignified treatments at the hands of local authorities and offered no protest.

"There are many other incidents which have incited us to action. Take the case of Raleigh, North Carolina, where 43 Negro students were arrested for "trespassing on a private sidewalk", or in Durham, North Carolina, where a white student supporting a sit-in demonstration was arrested for "obstructing the pavement" shortly after being pushed almost in the path of an oncoming car by two white citizens. Or take the restaurants in Hampton, Virginia and Charlotte, North Carolina, where coffee is sold at $1.00 a cup to Negro customres and 10 cents a cup to white customers; and coffee cake costs the Negro $2.50 and the white 15 cents.

"We're protesting injustice; we're protesting hypocrisy. We're supporting courage, human dignity, individual initiative, and that democracy which says that people should be judged on their own merits and not on the basis of race, creed or national origin.

"But most of all, we're supporting the courage of groups of students who have found the strength to rise up against ancient traditions which marked a certain segment of our society as second class people; we're protesting the situation which allows attitudes to exist so that Negro students in the South can be mistreated without any objections.

"We are glad, sometimes, when we see that perhaps the citizens are waking up to the injustice and hypocrisy that is prevalent in the Southern situation. . . and when we see an incident whereby a white woman suddenly becomes an avid desegregationist after observing the unscrupulous actions of white youths in taunting and physically mistreating orderly, non-violent Negro students.

"Until the laws, the leaders, the law enforcement officers and the average man on the street is cognizant of what we really mean by democracy, freedom is a very empty word.

"These courageous Southern students have taken the lead; it is for us to follow."

Buy The Best

From

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.

CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

SHEAFFER'S STUDENT

Handwriting Kit

GENUINE SHEAFFER'S SKRIPSERT FOUNTAIN PEN

Regular Retail Price $2.95

2 Five-Packs Famous Skrip Cartridges

Reg. Retail Price 49c each .98

1 HANDWRITING BOOKLET FREE

VALUE $3.98

SPECIAL FOR STUDENTS Only 98c

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

For A Firm Foundation

WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

116 W. Broadway

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT

"Y" Radio Sundays at 9:00 P.M.

WGAP 1400 KC

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream

and MILK

Smoother, richer, better tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Student Protest Becomes Nationwide--Sit-Downs Lauded

A nationwide student protest called by the United States National Student Association against the recent arrest of 100 Nashville, Tennessee students engaged in non-violent sit-ins has resulted in a deluge of over 50 telegrams sent to Nashville students and city officials, and several standing strikes by students across the nation.

The nationwide student protest was called in direct protest of the Nashville arrest and treatment of students by city officials.

Telegrams deploring the arrests and expressing sympathy with the sit-in movement poured in to Nashville students and Mayor Ben West and City Police Commissioner Hosey. By 4 p.m. Monday stand-up protests had been planned by the University of Chicago and other Chicago schools, Chatham and Lafayette colleges in Pennsylvania, Lehigh University, Douglass and Rutgers colleges in New Jersey and The University of California at Berkeley.

Telegrams to Senators Kefauver and Gore of Tennessee protesting the Nashville incident have been sent by the US National Student Association, and by the University of Wisconsin.

The United States National Student Association sent a telegram Saturday night to student leader Diane Nash in the Nashville City Jail which stated:

We have just been informed of the incidents of Saturday afternoon which led to your arrest and imprisonment without provocation. We are at once struck both by the justness and courage of your non-violent action and the injustice and bigotry with which it has been met. We realized that the struggle in which you are involved is neither your own nor limited to any one region of the country but is one in which the entire nation is involved. Hopefully this country can meet it with but a tenth part the courage which you have demonstrated. Your firm but passive resistance in the face of the indignities to which you were subjected and your continued refusal to accept many well-meaning offers of bail command our respect and that of the millions of students we represent. You have given us much to be proud of, in return we pledge our further support in any way which you may request or which may be possible.

The Association's telegram to Mayor Ben West and Police Commissioner Hosey expressed "shock at the actions of Nashville police and city officials" and said the Association "protests Saturday's gross miscarriage of justice in the arrest without provocation of 100 American students engaged in non-violent protest of unfair discrimination in your city."

The telegram continued, "You, as an officer of public trust, have erred greviously not only in fulfilling your obligations to the citizens of Nashville, but also to the people of this country and to the ideals of our republic, which you have blasphemed. You have offered yourselves for judgement before the people of this nation and the world, and you shall receive it."

The telegram also called for the immediate release of the students and "assurance that such injustice will not be tolerated in the future."

According to Miss Connie Curry, USNSA southern staff member who has been in close contact with the Nashville students, a statement has been issued by Diane Nash, student spokeman for the group, correcting certain inaccuracies in coverage of the Nashville incident.

The United States National Student Association has sent telegrams to six southern Governors expressing sympathy for the sit-in movement in the South and demanding action on the part of government officials toward equal opportunity for all in the South.

The telegrams were sent to Governors of Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, and Alabama.

The telegrams read:

OUR WHOLEHEARTED SYMPATHY IS EXTENDED TO THE COURAGEOUS STUDENTS STAGING SIT-INS IN THE SOUTH. WE VIEW THIS AS ONE OF THE MOST POSITIVE STEPS TOWARD DESEGREGATION SINCE 1954. WE ARE SHOCKED AND DISMAYED BY THE ARREST OF THESE STUDENTS FOR NO JUSTIFIABLE REASON. YOU, AS THE HIGHEST OFFICIAL OF YOUR STATE, ARE IN A POSITION TO CORRECT THESE WORDS. WE DEMAND ACTION.

Reminders . . .

Lloyd To Attend Inauguration

President Lloyd will represent the college at the inauguration of Dr. LeRoy Albert Martin as the tenth president of the University of Chattanooga, on March 18.

Vespers Speaker Will Be Woodward

The Vespers speaker on March 13 will be Dr. Frank T. Woodward, director of the Alborz Foundation in Teheran, Iran. The Alborz foundation is a center for university students, and provides classes in English for many other residents of Teheran. Mrs. Woodward prepares Bible school material and has a weekly Friday school for neighborhood children.

Allegiance . . .

(Continued from page 2)

ence in the soul of the student or professor. Freedom here comes only by an internal change of motive for study, from a preoccupation with the systems of rewards and punishments to a prior absorption with the intrinsic worth of what one is studying.

". . . Fortunately, there are points where this emancipation does take place, times in class when teacher and students are captured by the content of a Bach fugue or a sonnet of John Donne, or by the magnificent simplicity of an equation of Einstein. For the time being, the class is taken out of that calculating, bargaining relationship which marks a slavery to grades. Here is emancipation by absorption in truth. Or when a student gets so intrigued by the French novel as to read on his own beyond the chapters assigned, even beyond what the quiz will expect him to know (this miracle does take place now and then)—such a student will experience freedom from grades and have a partial glimpse of what education is about.

"Real maturity in studying comes when one has shifted in motivation from working for grades to working for the truth . . . ."

An honor system? Yes. We would like to see it happen. But will we give it freedom to take hold?

Poetry Anthology Invites Entries

The American College Poetry Society is now compiling its third semesterly anthology of outstanding college poetry. All interested students are urged to submit their poems.

Contributions must be the original work of the student who shall retain literary rights to the material. The entrant's name, address, and school should be marked on each page.

Poems, which may deal with any subject should not exceed 48 lines, nor may any individual submit more than five poems. Entries which are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but they cannot otherwise be acknowledged, nor will the Society compensate students for poetry which is published.

All entries must be postmarked by midnight, March 30, 1960, to be considered. The poems are to be sent to Alan C. Fox, Executive Secretary, American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles, 24, California.

It's dress-up time

GOOD GROOMING CALLS FOR

Weyenberg

shoes for men

10.98

Add the note of correct dress to your wardrobe with smartly-styled, comfortable new shoes by Weyenberg.

BADGETT STORE CO.

"C" Ray Tipton

Jeweler

COLUMBIA Tru-Fit

Diamond Rings

Elgin & Hamilton

Watch Repairing — Phone YU 2-0141

All Work Guarnteed — Maryville, Tennessee

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts — Transfer of Funds

Savings Accounts — Banking from Your Car

Christmas Club Savings — Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

STUDENT Special!

Thick Milkshakes—15c

Above with small Hamburger—25c

With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday

MY COUSIN

Get your St. Patrick's Day Candy at

BYRNE DRUG

Pangburn's — Belle Camp

BROADWAY JEWELERS

We size rings!

Rings cleaned and polished free.

J. G. Hill and Calvin Baldwin

Jewelers

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 — 207 W. Broadway

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

ATTENTION STUDENTS

If You Need Informals or Printing of Any Description Call YU 2-4760 or contact Don Buddle on campus.

THE MARYVILLE ENTERPRISE

FAST, PROMPT SERVICE AT REASONABLE RATES

White Office Machines

Maryville, Tenn.

Phone: YU 3-4762

Won't Write? Call White

Student Religious Forum Emphasizes Need For Future

By Ellen Dozier

As a result of a growing concern about the state of religious organizations on campus, a forum on student religious organizations was held last Sunday at the YM-YWCA meeting. In her introductory remarks, Charlotte Cathey pointed out that two of our main problems were lack of unity and lack of a concrete purpose. She said that one indication of this was the opinion of active ex-Maryvllians that there is a serious division between the expected religious climate of the campus and the actual situation.

Rev. Warren Rutledge went on to say that the religious organization on a church-related campus should be an organization within which students can express their religious motivation and which would stimulate motivation where none exists. He stressed that such an organization must be related to the nature of the church in order to find proper channels for religious motivation. As Mr. Rultedge said, any religious organization must exist in a tension; it must be able to change to meet the needs of the students.

A brief resume of the present functions and problems of the five religious organizations was presented, and it was apparent that some of their purposes and programs overlapped. Several of the groups felt that they were too small to undertake any major projects or programs.

One proposed plan for the formation of a Student Christian Association was presented by John Gilmore. This association would consist of a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, program coordinators, advisory board, and as many interest groups as needed. Each group would have a chairman and vice-chairman who would be on the SCA cabinet. These interest groups would include such areas as Student Vols, a pre-ministerial group, a Christian education group to work in conjunction with the regular parish program and community service.

Also suggested were groups to find expression of their Christianity in the fine arts, modern culture, politics, and sociological affairs. These groups would follow their own schedule and program, being called on periodically to share their activities with the total SCA through programs and /or workshops. At the beginning of the year a student would choose his interest group and devote himself to its well-being and accomplishments. Committees in charge of social functions such as the Y-rooms and hikes would be set up. The Welcome Committee, including Nu Gamma, Ten Key Men, and Big-little sister, Big-little brother program, would possibly work with Student Council. And such activities as Artist Series, Y-Store, M Book, and Y Radio could be sponsored by Student Council. A committee is being set up to invesigate affiliation with a national organization. Any suggestions or questions about this proposed plan should be submitted to the officers of the religious organizations.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER; DAISY CHAIN CHOSEN

Commencement Speaker Announced

The 1960 Commencement address on May 18 will be given by Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, of New York, President Lloyd has announced.

Dr. Fry is one of the most distinguished and widely known church leaders in the world today.

He is President of the United Lutheran Church of America; is President of the Lutheran World Federation; and is Chairman of the Central and Executive Committees of the World Council of Churches.

The Lutheran World Federation, of which he was elected President in 1957, is the largest and most active of the Protestant world confessional bodies. The chairman of the Central and Executive Committees of the World Council of Churches, which he has held since the Second Assembly at Evanston in 1954, is the most important elective office in the World Council.

Dr. Fry is a native of Pennsylvania, holds doctor's degrees from various institutions in this country and abroad, and is in demand as a speaker in all parts of the world. He is at present in South America for the second time since the first of the year. His visit at Commencement will be his first to Maryville College.

Daisy Chain Selected

The Class of 1960 will be preceded in the Commencement processions by fourteen junior women, selected this past week to be members of the Daisy Chain. It is traditional that the Daisy Chain, chosen by the Vice-President of the Junior Class, leads the Commencement procession.

Selected on the basis of their active contribution to the life of the campus are the following: Carole Black Baer, Virginia Bass, Harriet Blankenship, Linda Dobson, Kathy Eisenhart, Susie Fagan, Carolyn Gass. Brenda Hewitt, Nancy Jo Martin, Eugenia Miller, Peggy Reiter, Margie Stevenson, Phyllis Stine and Jaye Wiley.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 Maryville, Tennessee, April 2, 1960 No. 13

Henderson To Speak At MC; Offer Guidance In Vocations

The speaker at Vespers for Sunday, April 3rd will be the Reverend William H. Henderson, Associate Secretary of the Department of Vocation and In-Service Training of the United Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

At 1:30 p.m. April 3rd, he will address a joint meeting of the college religious organizations—YMCA-YWCA, Student Volunteers, Pre-Ministerial Association, and the Christian Education Club. Rev. Henderson's topic for this meeting will be "Church Vocations". All students interested in careers within the church, such as the Gospel ministry, missionary service, Christian Education directorship, and religious journalism are especially invited to attend this meeting.

Rev. Henderson will be on campus from April 3rd to April 5th. Opportunity will be provided for personal interviews and vocational counseling on Sunday afternoon, all day Monday, and Tuesday morning.

Rev. Henderson is from Lansdowne, Pennsylvania. His son Steve is a freshman here at Maryville.

Rev. William Henderson will speak to the combined student religious organizations on church vocations tomorrow. All are invited.

9 Schools Now Support New Point Four

"Power has revealed its limitations, why not try a little love?" a Lehigh University editorial asked, referring to Rep. Reuss' bill proposing a Point Four Youth Crop as an alternative to military service. The bill is drawing active support from colleges across the country in the form of petitions, editorials and student council resolutions.

Petitions and bulletins of information on the bill were distributed on the Lehigh campus in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania earlier this month. Support was urged on the grounds that the plan would be a tremendous boost to our foreign policy, "broadening the understanding. . . of the ideals and aspirations of Americans."

(Continued to page two)

Morgan Will Address Faculty

The speaker at the Maryville College Faculty Club on Monday evening, April 4, will be Dr. Elford C. Morgan of Atlanta, who is Project Director of the Self-Study and Periodic Visitation Program of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. For this purpose, Dr. Morgan is on a year's leave of absence from his position as Dean of Administration at Converse College, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Maryville College is participating in this project of the Southern Association and is now organizing a program of self-study to continue during the years of 1960-1961. A Steering Committee of which Dean Frank D. McClelland is Chairman has been appointed by President Ralph W. Lloyd, and Dr. Morgan will during his stay in Maryville hold extensive conferences with this committee.

Holy Week Services Announced

Maryville College Holy Week observances will begin with the vesper service on Palm Sunday, April 10, at which time Reverend K. Arnold Nakajima, Associate Secretary, Eastern Area, of the Department of Campus Christian Life in the United Presbyterian Church, USA, will speak. Arriving on Saturday, April 9, Mr. Nakajima will be available for conferences with students.

Other activities during Holy Week will include the special chapel services led by members of the Bible and Religion faculty, with special music by the choir.

The Good Friday service will follow the traditional program, with meditations on the seven words of Christ from the cross given by Mrs. Richard Beard, Mr. Thomas Cragan, and Miss Mary Miles. The choir will sing "The Crucifixion," a Ukrainian Canticle, and "Go to Dark Gethsemane," by T. Tertius Noble.

On Easter Sunday morning, April 17, worshippers will be summoned to the amphitheatre in the college woods by a brass choir playing traditional Easter music. This sunrise service, scheduled for 6:01 A.M., will be led by Dr. Lloyd and the Vesper Choir.

Waddington Leads; 'Lark' Cast Chosen

The cast for the commencement play, Jean Anouilh's The Lark, has been chosen, and work will soon begin on the production which will be given May 13, 16 and 17.

Lynn Waddington leads the large cast playing Joan; her mother, Peggy Reynolds; The Little Queen, Judy Perov; Agnes Sorel, Pat Smith; Yolande, Jeanette Payne; Ladies of the Court, Pat Baker, Kathryn Smith and Linda Messer; and the village women, Donna Reynolds, Nancy Slack, Virginia Blue, and Judy Cole.

Cast in the role of Warwick is Steve Mouton, while other men's parts have been filled as follows: Cauchon, Rich Grossweiller; Joan's father, Larry Bush; Joan's brother, Dan Park; the Promotor, George Stewart; the Inquisitor, Ron Randon, Brother Ladvenu, Jerry Boulden; Robert de Beaudricourt, Don Buddle; Archbisho p of Reims, Dale Young; Charles, Randy Rosensteel.

New Students Adapt Well

AFP New students at Maryville who transferred here after Christmas are finding their adjustment to this college fairly satisfactory. We find the following three students typical of those in the process of "fitting in."

Eli Murtz, brilliant home ec. physics double major, whose red hair and toothless grin have become the campus nightmare, told us that he came here because of the special studies program. He plans to do his thesis on the Molecular Construction of Chinese Fortune Cookies.

Another new student, Ethel Frong, says she is adapting nicely to her environment. A sociology major, Ethel says she soon hopes to become less "out-group" and more "in-group." Everyone knows Ethel with her plaid book satchel and yellow safety patrol belt.

One other student we found interesting was Gladys Sneed of Moxie City, N.J. She says that she spends her free time at the college farm, photographing farm machinery (her hobby). She also photographs cows. Her favorite song is the Zoo Parade theme.

Frosh Talent To Entertain Tonight

Freshman talent will be on review tonight as the freshmen present their annual talent show. Tonight the theme will be "Fool's Paradise," in keeping with early April, and the show will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumni Gym.

Songs, dances, pantomime and readings will provide a varied program for which there will be no admission charge.

'Where's Charlie'? To Be April 8-9

Where's Charlie?, the famous musical comedy, will be presented April 8th and 9th at 8:00 PM in the Theatre. This musical, selected by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs for their annual spring presentation, is under the direction of Mr. Dan Kinsinger, Ron Pearson and Mrs. Mitchell Van Metre, who is in charge of choreography.

Paul Elliott and Sue Lemme play the leads, Charlie and Amy, in this delightful spoof.

VC To Sing Home Concert Sunday Nite

On Sunday evening, April 3, at 7:00 p.m., the Vesper Choir will present its home concert. The choir will sing the same program performed on tour.

The work of Randall Thompson commands a large portion of the program, which includes his "Mass of the Holy Spirit," "Requiem," and "The Peaceable Kingdom." "Two Cities" by Darius Milhaud, another outstanding contemporary composer, will also be sung.

The concert also includes several Psalm settings: Psalm 34, "O Magnify the Lord," George Lynn; Psalm 134, Jan Sweelinck; Psalm 51, "Create in Me," Johannes Brahms; and the first performance of "When God Stirs," a setting of Pslam 68 by Mr. Harry H. Harter, director of the choir.

The Highland Echo

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.

April 2, 1960

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Helen Ann Easterly, Carrie Nation
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Helen Ann Easterly, D. H. Lawrence, Tammy Day, Joe Quinn, Yvonne Dionne, Steve Mouton, Pat Penland, Pat Crossley
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Rin Tin Tin
Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistants ..... Jerry Cooper, Porfirio Rubirosa, Graham Bardsley
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman, Charles Van Doren

Subscription Rate $75.00—Cheap

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A Word or Two. . .

You can relax; this isn't a continuation of the April foolishness here and there through this issue—not intentionally, at least.

Now that April is here and the snow is certainly gone, it is not too difficult to realize that the semester is swiftly closing. Only two more issues of The Echo will be forthcoming. And since those issues will be put together by candidates for the editorship, this column today is something of a swan song. . .

Looking Back . . .

Here it is, April now, with only a few weeks remaining in which to cram in, somehow, all of those commitments we made earlier in the semester. If we look back (and please allow us a last look), we can see a quiet year behind us and a promising one approaching.

It has been a quiet year, but quietness does not mean inactivity. We have seen new student government legislation, new systems try their wings, a vital new development program released, and we have seen the gratifying success of the seminar idea. Patient hard work and spontaniety keynote the year, and mark the gains that have been made.

Quietness, as it has been pointed out before, can also be a sign of complascence. And we have been silent, and complascent—about world affairs, and about personal honor.

But impending student elections will not let us be quiet much longer. The climate is one that invites our activity, our questions, and our resolutions to improve. Organizations needs a realistic overhaul, and student activities need meaningful redirection.

It is time—and we must make the most of it.

In Defense Of Us All . . .

. . . An Attack On Boredom

It is always somewhat amazing to come across the student who feels that he or she is actually bored in college. That everyone has on occasion 'run aground' with 'nothing to do' I have no doubt. But to harbor such boredom on a campus that offers such a rich and diversified contribution to our life is indeed sad. It points to an impoverished mind that gives little and naturally receives even less.

When speakng of boredom, often as not a student refers to the dating situation, which is far from ideal. And there are those, who, emerging from a big high school's excitement, find it pallid here at first. But this boredom usually dies down as the need for surface glitter passes away. For sooner or later most of us begin to realize the deeper value of human contact, in which a person is valuable for himself and not for what he has in the way of glitter.

There is something very basic in the atmosphere of a liberal arts college that nurtures the enduring relationships of man to man. One soon discovers that his excitement derives from a deeper stimulus than before: a remarkable photograph of Michelangelo's "David"; the pure adventure of tracing out an algebraic equation; the gaunt emotion of Macbeth; the psychological probings of Jung. And one begins to open up to the infinity of things "yet-to-be known."; to discover life in the extremities of art; and to relate more satisfyingly with his neighbor.

This has a philosophical, idealistic ring, but it is real because it is a proven product of human experience.

It even takes a bit of courage for a person to study in a liberal arts college nowadays, for the pressure of the dollar is greater than ever before. But in a society where practically anyone who is able and willing to work need not fear need, it is almost ludicrous that more men do not pay more attention to the humanities. The doctor, who, with such an undergraduate background, knows not only the psysiological necessities of his patient, but also knows the healing power of beauty, is the one who can most completely treat his patient. And the pattern repeats itself.

To become involved in the life of the school is to be most certainly free from boredom. The bored person who leaves in search of periphery diversion may find it, but he will be bored again.

(Continuation of Scots and Soda)

Therefore remember to cast your ballot for Abou ben Adhem—he heads the list.

*Carl Sandburg

World Book Encyclopedia, Volume 9, 3919.

Dr. Mudd, Little Known (For Obvious Reasons) Facts About Lincoln, 1.

*Hibbard Enthralled

World Book Encyclopedia, Volume 9, 3911.

 Ibid., 3912.

"I thought spring would never come!"

Good Reading Galore During Nat. Lib. Week

It is now National Library Week, 1960, and the college library is participating in the program. Set up two years ago by the National Book Committee, National Library Week turns a spotlight on the importance of our being a better-read, better-informed America.

The three objectives followed by the library here are to encourage use of the library beyond curriculum requirements; to publicize the library resorces to the college and town communities; and to encourage students to build good, personal libraries. Special emphasis will be given in displays to the wide selection of paperbound books now becoming increasingly available.

Students will find on display, too, books suggested by the faculty for reading in fields other than his or her major field. And, to provide further guidance to readers, Good Reading, prepared by the Committee on College Reading, and The World's Best Best Books: Homer to Hemingway, compiled by the experts, will be available for reference.

NEW BOOKS TELL ALL

The library staff is proud to announce that in connection with National Library Week the following volumes are on loan from the Congressional Library in Washington, D.C., and from the Trafalgar Library in London, England, for the month of April.

My Little World, Alexander the Great. A truly significant book by the young man who once ruled the world. Ghosted, presumably, by Aristotle, his tutor. The great general's candid opinions of the Hellenic campaigns. Also presents the true personality of his famous father, Philip of Macedonia, in an intimate, candid, never-before-revealed light. Illustrated (in later century by Da Vinci), with maps and battle plans.

The Accounts of Humur-Kanhk-tabi. The actual business records of the famed Babylonian grain dealer for the years 1750-1748 B. C. Cuneiform.

Fudge for Fun, Clementine Paddleford. A collection of famous people's famous fudge recipes, from Cleopatra's to France Nuyen's. Also a section on fondant and fruit-filling for chocolate covered candy.

(Continued from page three)

(Continued from page one)

In one day at Antioch College in Ohio, 270 students signed a petition supporting the bill. (This figure represents over one third of the campus.) It was then sent to Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Tufts College (Medford, Mass.) Weekly pointed out the two-fold loss in the current set-up. "The loss is the Army's," the editorial stated, "in that educated people have talents which could be used and aren't being used. And the loss is the students. . . their stints in the army are in no way a challenge."

The Daily Pennsylvanian of the University of Pennsylvania echoed this thought, adding that "the Point Four Plan would be valuable both to the individual involved and the nation as a whole."

While it pointed out some drawbacks to the plan, noteably the possibility of displacing native unskilled labor, thus aggravating a surplus labor problem, The Oberlin College Review stated, "We see in it a step toward transforming the sterile ideas of peacetime universal military service into the universal commitment of the citizen to serving the nation and the world."

The Minnesota Student Association at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis passed a resolution in support of the study.

This brings the total number of colleges actively supporting the bill to at least nine, Queen's College, New York, and the Universities of Colorado and Utah having expressed their support last month.

SCOTS and SODA

Recently, you as a student-body member, were handed a questionaire investigating your interest in the forthcoming presidential election. It has been brought to our attention that student-body interest is at an all-time low for a presidential election year. This we feel is explained by the initial shock of discovering this is an election year. (Many seem to recognize only the fact that this is Leap Year e.g. Sadie Hawkins Dance and TWIRP week-end)

As reputable journalists, we feel it our responsibility to acquaint you with the major issue of the year. (Just think ahead, — — you will be able to tutor the grandchild——provided you were successful in your leap year activities——on "identifying and giving the unique characteristics of the election of 1960")

The religious affiliation factor has come to the fore as perhaps the major pre-nominating convention issue. For some the crux of the matter seems to lie in "Should a Catholic be president?" While we do consider this worthy of some contemplation, we do not feel this to be the most relevant and crucial problem of the election year. The important question is "When will a Moslem be returned to the White House?"

Such a question arises from the facts surrounding our historically based theory that—Abraham Lincoln was a Moslem! We feel it only fair to state that one Lincoln Scholar* discredits our theory; however, numreous persons of staunch Islamic affiliations substantiate. it to the fullest degree. Among those noted authorities are King Farouk, ex-Princess Soroya, Rita Hayworth, and at least one Harvard fraternity man.

Scholarly material has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the Lincoln scholar is wrong:

"Mohammed commanded all Moslems to treat their slaves with kindness and taught that to set a slave free would win the approval of Allah."

Does not Mr. Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation then show a deep-felt desire to attain such approval.

This theory is further supported by lesser incidents in Mr. Lincoln's life, such as his death. His demise is attributed to an untimely exporation at the hands of John Wilkes Booth, whom research has shown to be merely the alias of a lesser known actress whom Lincoln had promised to make the second of his four wives in keeping with Moslem tradition

Mr. Lincoln's portrait appearing on the five dollar bill also indicated Islamic affiliation. The gaunt appearance found here obviously resulted from the fact that this portrait was made during the fast of Romadan.

Hence, we feel it safe to assume that the War Between the States was in all actually a Holy Crusade with Lincoln serving as Caliph of those Moslems seeking to free the slaves.

This is not surprising when one recalls how much of the American heritage proves to be Islamic. Call to mind the prominent Moslem sect known as the Puritans of Islam, carried their creed to many areas in their attempt to escape the religious persectuion of the larger body of Mohammendanism. No doubt these are the Puritans of Plymouth Rock.

Other trends in American history which point Moslem influence nclude the westward movement characteristic of the American expansion which was in reality the attempt of Islamic pilgrims to reach Mecca the hard way.

In April '49, a month of unusually sweet rains immediately following a parched March such Islamic pilgrims wended their way toward Mecca, providing their own entertainment through the exchange of pious tales, fabliauxes etc., from which Geoffrey Ibn-Boraxo-Saud drew his material for that great American travel-log, The Wells Fargobury Tales.*

Last, but in no way least, one notes the Mohammedan influence in the Prohibition movement which characterized the early twentieth century. This movement shows a definite tracing to the commandment of the Prophet Mohammed which:

"bade his followers refrain from strong drink and most of them did just that."**

With the repeal of nationwide Prohibition has come the decline and fall of the Moslem from the American scene. The Islamic dark ages have descended. Out of the chaos resulting from the lack of Moslem leadership have oozed, The Beatnik, and Ugly American, and A.A. Such destructive forces on the American scene descry the need for a modern Mohammedan leader for a nation so richly indebted to such origins.

Added to the obvious value received from such leadership outlined above, there are the following advantages in the election of a Moslem president: 1. The prestige of four first ladies, 2. utilitarian employment of Washington Monument as a Minaret for the Pentagon Prayer Call, 3. abolition of foreign-aid in that money-lending is contrary to the teaching of Mohammed***

(Continued under Editorial)

(Continued From Page 2)

Outdoor Experiences, R. Wills A scintillating account of the actual adventures of this dashing Explorer Scout, in his own words. Thrilling, breathtaking for pioneer and armchair adventurer alike.

Saskatchewan Sketches and Other Stories, An anthology of traditional Canadian stories for the slightly older child. Including the popular Miss O'Flanigan legend, from Winnipeg, and the Romance of the Maple Leaf. A good way to interest youngsters in our Northern neighbor.

These Made Me Laugh, Will Kemp. The most famous funny man of all has collected his favorite jokes, puns and anecdotes. It isn't so very strange; after all, that the minstrel jokes bear an uncanny resemblance to our own traveling salesman jokes. A bit high-toned. Will be most appreciated by scholars.

True Confessions of a Floramaniac, Luther Burbank. The famed horticulturist tells all—what those plants said back to him. Compiled from the Good Gardener's diaries and letters. Walter Burpee, editor.

Myself!, Walt Whitman. A most unusual, often obscure autobiography by one of America's most controversial men of letters. Answers many problems and accusations concerning his poetry and his life. The style requires some concentration as it seems to be one long poem.

In conjunction with the above books we have on display in the showcases a collection of 26 creations by Maria, the renowned potter. Don't miss this rare opportunity.

The above books are for use in the library only. AFD

Selective Service

Applications for the April 28, 1960 administration of the College Qualifications Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective System local boards throughout the country.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SECTION, Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the April 28 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 7, 1960.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

SCOTS READY FOR SPRING SPORTS

The long white winter is past, we hope, and at long last colleges throughout the country are embarking on their spring sports programs. Maryville College is no exception to this trend. The Highlanders will field teams in baseball, track, and tennis.

First, let's take a look at baseball. The Scots had a rough time of it last spring and are enthusiastic about improving that 4-15 record of 1959. The team has a few veterans returning such as Bill Owenby, a mainstay of the pitching staff and infielders Leon Baird and Fred Morrison. Fred Tepper, Don Heatherly and Joel Giffen are being watched carefully by Coach Baird. Some of the new faces showing promise are Marty Miller, John Kent, Dale Stearner, Dave Meneelee, Bob Kidd and George Shembre. The Scots will be without the services of a fine outfielder in Clarence Storey and a good receiver in Mike Talley. Work commitments have made it impossible for these boys to come out this year.

The Scots opened their season with a two-game series with Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio. Today they take on Emory and Henry here at M.C.

TRACK

Coach Tomlinson has had the cindermen working hard and feels he has the nucleus of a very good track team. Any boy with or without experience is urged to try out for the squad.

At present there are twenty-seven men working out. The team will have five dual meets and will also participate in the state meet at T.P.I., Cookeville, Tennessee, May 6-7.

TENNIS

Coach Lynn Sexton has nine men on his squad and challenge matches are going on to determine the line-up according to match play. Here is the list as it stands at present:

1. Eberhard
2. Grote
3. Nooe
4. Roselli
5. Poland
6. Johnston
7. Heischman
8. Owens
9. Reading

And here is the complete spring sports schedule as it now stands:

SPRING SPORTS SCHEDULE

Baseball

March 30—Wooster (H)
March 31—Wooster (H)
April 2—Emory & Henry (H)
April 6—Lincoln Memorial (T)
April 8—Jacksonville (H)
April 9—Jacksonville (H)
April 13—Tennessee (T)
April 15—East T.S.C. (H)
April 16—Hiwassee (H)
April 18—Tusculum (T)
April 21—Carson-Newman (T)
April 22—Lincoln Memorial (H)
April 25—Tennessee (H)
April 28—Carson-Newman (H)
May 2—Hiwassee (T)
May 3—ETSC (T)

Track

April 2—ETSC (T)
April 12—TPI (T)
April 16—Milligan (H)
April 22—Carson-Newman (H)
April 28—Tusculum (H)
May 6-7—State Track Meet at T.P.I.

Tennis

April 1—Carson-Newman (H)
April 2—Emory & Henry (H)
April 4—L.M.U. (H)
April 8—Emory & Henry (T)
April 9—ETSC (T)
April 11—Chattanooga (T)
April 15—King (T)
April 23—ETSC (H)
April 26—King (H)
April 29—Chattanooga (H)
April 30—Milligan (H)
May 5—Tennessee State
May 6-7—Tennis at Chattanooga

ROSE MARIE REID
RMR Juniors

TICK TOCK maillot gives curves a 17-jewel movement in its clever knit clock print...and keeps the smartest fashion time with a low back look! 7-15, 15.95

MINTON'S

BROADWAY JEWELERS

We size rings!

Rings cleaned and polished free.

J. G. Hill and Calvin Baldwin

Jewelers

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

Proffitt's

Our Man-about-the-World shouts "Ole!" for

OLIVE OF SPAIN by McGREGOR

A new fun color, discovered by our roving Man-about-the-World in the olive groves of Spain where fierce sun and cool shadow mix together to make this miracle of coloring! It's yours now in McGregor's light-as-air cotton Meteor sportswear that's washable for easy care. Come in now and acquire a taste for Olive of Spain by McGregor!

Contest Opens For Peace Essay Competition

The magazine NEW WORLD REVIEW announces an essay contest on the subject, "A Peace Program for Our Country". The contest is open to young people of 18 through 25. The entries are to be judged by four outstanding leaders in the field of international relations and peace:

(1) Rev. Henry Hitt Crane, Pastor Emeritus, Central Methodist Church, Detroit

(2) Gen. Hugh B. Hester, Brigidier eneral U.S. Army (retired)

(3) Dr. Guy Emery Shipler, Editor of The Churchman

(4) Dr. John Somerville, author of "The Philosophy of Peace"

The writer of the essay judged the best will receive a prize of $200; the second prize is to be $100; the third, $50; and ten honorable mentions will receive $15 each.

The deadline for receiving the essays is May 15.

The contest is particularly intended for college students, workers, all young people for whom the whole question of a peaceful future for our country and the world has a special urgency. Writing an essay for the NEW WORLD REVIEW contest will give young people the opportunity to formulate their ideas on the question that above all others will dominate the coming elections. The top prize winning essays will be published in the magazine.

Young people who are interested in the contest should write to:

NEW WORLD REVIEW
34 West 15th St.
New York 11, N.Y.

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

ONCE A YEAR BY LANVIN
SPECIAL SALE
My Sin $2.00 Arpege $2.50
CITY DRUG CO.

For A Firm Foundation
WEAR
SOUTHERN SHOES
116 W. Broadway

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

(cont.)

without permission from her parents. Naturally, proper action was taken. Needless to say, Bernice will pay for her misconduct. The tragedy of the entire situation is that rather prominent names in the community have been connected with the situation. Those with any information to further enlighten the problem are asked to meet in the Willbanks Memorial Alcove in the library. A demonstration agent will be there peeling carrots, potatoes, putting deodorant on statues and cornflakes, shaving peaches, and proving that Vel melts in your washer and not in your hand. Please be sure to enter the proper room or you may end up teaching school in Baltimore County. AFP

Arts Competition Open To Wide Range of Talent

Persons seeking a rewarding outlet for their creative talent may find such an outlet in the Religious Arts Festival related to the National Methodist Student Movement Conference, convening at the University of Missouri, Dec. 27, 1960—January 1, 1961.

One need not be a Methodist or be part of the Methodist Student Movement to enter this competition, which includes the drama, painting and sculpture, poetry and photography.

The dramatic competition seeks plays attempting to give dramatic expression to man's confrontation of himself as to his purpose as a human being, and as a creation of God; to man's greatest concerns and his responses to these.

Both full-length and one-act plays will be accepted, the prize-winning plays to be given at the Conference mentioned above. First prizes—full-length, $100. Manuscripts, with return envelopes and postage, must reach the Nat. M.S.M. office, P.O. Box 871, Nashville 2, Tenn. before June 1, 1960.

The painting and sculpture division will be divided into three sections: 1) Liturgical art (use of symbolism); 2) Religious themes in contemporary art; 3) Contemporary art and the image of Man. The objective of this section is to discover how the sacred is expressed through significant visual form.

Poetry submitted to the festival will not be what many classify as "religious," but will be judged as to whether it is a valid poetic expression of truth, or an attempt to confront truth, in the present age. Awards of $200, $150 and $100 will be given to those submitting poems which meet the standards of excellence.

Photography, especially photographic essays, embodying the same essential objectives of the above contests, will be judged by a panel of nationally known artists. Awards for entries in both black and white and color are as follows: $100, first prize, $75, second prize; and $50, third prize.

Entrance instructions and additional contest details are available now. Specify your special area of interest when writing for information. Write to:

Dr. Harvey C. Brown, Chairman
Arts Festival Committee
P.O. Box 871
Nashville 2, Tennessee

Summer Stock Invites Interest

Two college sophomores, one from Harvard and one from Yale, are forming a self-supporting, all-student summer stock company to play a ten week season in Connecticut this summer. They currently hold an option on the Groton Playhouse in Groton, Connecticut.

The two hope to form a company of 25 to 30 serious students. To assemble the company they have sent posters to many colleges and universities in the East. From the response to the posters they will set up an audition schedule.

Those who participate in the venture will be expected to put up a share of the budget, estimated at $4000 to $5000, and will share in the profits. However, highly talented candidates will be taken regardless of financial ability.

The company hopes to schedule such former Broadway plays as Blue Denim, The Detective Story, Stalag 17, and Tea and Symphony.

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
—Banking Services—
Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service
—Your College Bank—

For Your Floral Needs,
See—Charles Crissman—Agent for
HORNE'S FLORIST
Formerly Chandler's
Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

Buy The Best
From
Murphy-West Motor Co.
Chevrolet Oldsmobile

VAN'S BAKERY
1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920
We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders
WE DELIVER

SHEAFFER'S STUDENT
Handwriting Kit
GENUINE SHEAFFER'S
SKRIPSERT FOUNTAIN PEN
Regular Retail Price $2.95
2 Five-Packs Famous Skrip Cartridges
Reg. Retail Price 49c each .98
1 HANDWRITING BOOKLET FREE
VALUE $3.98
SPECIAL FOR STUDENTS
Only 98c
MARYVILLE JEWELERS

Easter Services Of Worship With Music, Meditation

The annual Easter Sunrise Service will be held in the ampitheatre of the College Woods at 6:01 a.m. The worship will be led by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd who will speak on the topic "As He Said," based on Matthew 28:6. Several anthems will be presented by the Vesper Choir.

Easter evening the Vesper service will be primarily worship through music. Choir anthems will be based on Ukraine folk songs of the Easter message. Dr. Lloyd will lead a short meditation entitled "The Eternal Life," based on Matthew 25:46.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Receives New Members

Members of the class of 1960 elected to membership in the Alpha Gamma Sigma Scholarship Honor Society: Robert Bowman, Gail Bradley, Doris Engle, John Gilmour, Jane Planitzer, and Ann Leitch, who was elected as a junior in 1959. Charles Pearson, class of 1961, was elected as a junior this year.

The recognition ceremonies for this group of new members will take place on Thursday, May 5, at the morning chapel time. The speaker is the newly inducted Vice President of the University of Tennssee, Dr. Herman E. Spivey. Dr. Spivey has been at the University of Kentucky for years, serving there as Dean of the Graduate School.

Robert Bowman, who was an English major from Asheboro, North Carolina, graduated at the end of the first semester. Gail Bradley from Maryville is an organ major. Doris Engle from Princeton, New Jersey, is an English major. John Gilmour, coming from Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, majors in Philosophy. Jane Planitzer is from Lawrence, Massachusetts, and is a sociology major. Ann Leitch from Tulsa, Oklahoma, majors in Christian Education. And Charles Pearson, the fourth junior ever to be elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma, is from Maryville and majors in English.

In order to be eligible, a student must possess a point-hour ratio of 2.33 for his first seven semesters of work. Juniors who have particularly distinctive records may be elected. No more than 10 per cent of the graduating class may be chosen in any single year. These requirements of Alpha Gamma Sigma roughly parallel those of the nationally known honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 Maryville, Tennessee, April 16, 1960 No. 14

Moffat, Fagan To Head "Y"

YWCA announces the following new officers for next year: President, Susan Fagan; Vice-President, Terry Lee Dick; Secretary, Barbara Neilson; Treasurer, Peggy Reiter; and Nu-Gamma Chairman, Elsie Harris.

The new president, Susie Fagan, is an art major and was the former Nu-Gamma chairman. Terry Lee Dick has been chairman of the Devotions committee. Barbara Neilson, who will be a junior next year, has been a Nu-Gamma leader. Peggy Reiter, is the present chairman of the Social Committee. Elsie Harris, another junior, is also a Nu-Gamma leader.

The YMCA officers for next year will be Chuck Moffat, president; Bill Yeats, Vice-President; Dave Gilmore, Secretary; Tod Jablonski, Treasurer; and Miles Standish, Sophomore Representative.

Dave Gilmore will be a senior next year; Chuck Moffatt, Bill Yeats, and Tod Jablonski will be juniors; and Miles Standish will be a sophomore.

May Day Festival To Be Held May 2; Pinocchio Theme

The May Day Festival, to be held on Monday, May 2nd, holds much in store in the way of musical entertainment.

This year's theme is to be built around the famous children's story, Pinocchio, with Jimmy Cricket as narrator. The festival begins with the procession of the May king and queen with their court.

The traditional May-Pole dance will be performed in a colorful mode by girls in green and yellow gingham dresses. Interpretive dances by the modern dance classes will be given to the music of Bartok, "The Last Time I Saw Paris", and "Happy Talk", taken from South Pacific. English and American Contra Reels will also be danced.

Tumbling feats will add an extra boost to the festivities, which will close with the enactment of the story of Pinocchio for the children.

Nu Gamma Leaders Chosen For 1960

Newly selected Nu Gamma leaders include Pat Adkins, Pat Williams, Lois Jones, Janet Lyerly, Sandy Burris, Sharon Jones, Cathy Poole, Sue McCay, Isla Fraley, Sylvia Gilmore, Adalind Brown, Beatrice Marroquia, Mary McCampbell, Trudy Vrendenburg, Charlotte Murcheson, and Ann Kuykendall.

Alternates chosen are Sally Hinn, Betty Talbot, and Midge Slater.

The selection was made by last year's Nu Gamma Leaders, as part of the program provided by the YWCA for welcoming freshman women. Each leader is responsible for writing to several incoming freshmen during the summer and for making their introduction to the college a friendly one.

Kinnamon and Reichardt to Head 'Chilhowean' Staff

Becky Kinnamon was recently elected by the sophomore class as editor of next year's Chilhowean. Business manager will be Beth Reichart.

The future editor reports that the yearbook staff is scheduled for complete reorganization. Those present sophomores interested in being on the staff should make application to either Becky or Beth stating their previous experience and type of work desired. Freshmen and Juniors interested in being class representatives should also apply. The staff will be chosen by the editor and business manager.

Y To Present Medieval Drama

The Way of the Cross, a religious drama stemming from the medieval period, will be presented by the members of Theta Alpha Phi in cooperation with Y, Saturday, April 16, at 6:30 p.m. in the theatre.

This drama, under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven, has enjoyed successful presentation at both Hiwassee and Tennessee Wesleyan Colleges recently, and will be presented for the first time here on Saturday. Dealing with the Fourteen Stations of the Cross, The Way of the Cross will be presented in medieval costumes and will follow the lines of a tableaux.

There will be no admission charge for this performance.

Laurel Lake To Be Site Of Annual YM-YW Retreat

"From whence cometh our help," will be the theme of the "Y" retreat on April 29 and 30. Both old and new cabinet members, Nu Gamma leaders, and Key Men will gather at Laurel Lake for the annual retreat.

Keeping in mind the purpose of the YMCA and YWCA from the community, campus, regional, and international standpoints, the students will evaluate this past year's program and plan for the immediate future. A panel on Friday night wlil discuss the opportunities for Y as a Christian organization. Panel members will include Miss Francis Moser who is the National representative for the Southern region of YWCA; Dr. Lea Callaway, mayor of Maryville and Dean Frank D. McClelland who will speak from the community standpoint; and some faculty members who are familiar with Y's campus program.

On Saturday morning this year's officers, chairmen, Nu-Gamma leaders, and Key Men will meet with their successors to discuss their respective duties. Further evaluation and planning will take place in discussion groups later that day.

Fun and relaxation will also be included in the retreat schedule. Some entertainment will be provided beside a campfire, while the Nu-Gamma leaders and Key Men present skits.

After a weekend of redefining and strengthening their commitment to the Christian purpose, Y leaders will end the retreat in a candlelight dedication service on the dock, which will be led by the Rev. Warren Rutledge, Assistant Minister of the New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Lloyd Will Attend 2nd World Council

On April 27-29, President Lloyd will attend the United States Conference for the World Council of Churches. There are two meetings invloved in the conference: first, the United States Executive Committee, consisting of members of the central committee of the World Council of Churches; and the meeting of the delegates to the second assembly of the World Council. This second assembly will be held in Evanston. The assembly was organized in Amsterdam in 1948, and will be held for a third time in New Delhi, India, in 1961.

Film Series

On April 20 the Maryville College Film Series will present "Ruy Blas."

Exam Schedule

No classes Wednesday, May 11

Seniors Only

Wednesday, May 11
9:00-11:00 F4, FL4, F3, FL3, F2
1:00-3:00 X
3:30-5:30 Ax3, Ax2

All Students

Thursday, May 12
9:00-11:00 A4, AL4, A3, AL3, Az2
1:00-3:00 B4, BL4, B3, BL3, BL2, Bz2
3:30-5:30 Bx3, Bx2

Friday, May 13
9:00-11:00 C4, CL4, C3, CL3, CL2, Cz2
1:00-3:00 Cx3, Cx2, Cy2
3:30-5:30 Dx3 Dx2

Saturday, May 14
9:30-11:30 D4, DL4, D3, DL3, Dz2
1:30-3:30 Ex3, Ex2

Monday, May 16
3:30-11:30 E4, E3, E2

All except seniors

Monday, May 16
1:30-3:30 F4, FL4, F3, FL3, F2

Tuesday, May 17
9:30-11:30 Fx2, X
1:30-3:30 Ax3, Ax2

MC Honor Society To Hold Banquet Install Officers

Tennessee Epsilon Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Socity, will hold an initiation of members and installation of officers at a banquet on April 29. Mrs. R. E. Beard, instructor of art at Maryville College, will be the guest speaker. Her subject is to be Renaissance Art.

New members to be initiated include Doug Bunker, Dave Gilmore, Dave Doysher, Dave Pierce, Helen Rankin, Phyllis Stine, and Miss Carlanna Lindamood.

(Continued on page four)

Voice Recital

Charles Justice, tenor, will give his senior voice recital on April 28 at 8:00 o'clock in the FAC Music Hall. He will be accompanied by Edith Walker, pianist; Miss Katherine Crews and Miss Ruth Ann Myers, Violinists; and Mrs. Bernard Violist. The program will include the Buxetudo solo cantata with organ and violins, Six Songs from the Schoene Muellerin by Schubert, "Die Wintersturme" from "Die Walkure" by Wagner, and four hymns by Vaughan Williams with the viola.

Orchestra Concert To Be On May 6

The Maryville College-Community Orchestra will presnet its final concert of the season on Friday, May 6th at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Featured attraction on the program is a short composition by Harry Harter, entitled "My Home Town." Also included on the program is Haydn's Symphony No. 101, "The Clock", "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius, and Leroy Anderson's "Syncopated Clock."

Personnel of the orchestra include: Violins: Katherine Crews, Doris Linger, Ann Myers, Bryant Cureton, Margie Stevenson, Charles Moffett, Kenneth Marmon, and Rita Martin; Violas: Dorothea Saint; Flute: Lee Armentrout; Oboe: Barbara Klepfer; Clarinet: Jackie Hunt; Bass Clarinet: Stephen Henderson; Horns: Ronald Noble, Dolores Kimber, Marilyn Hunt; Trumpet: Tod Jablouski Larry Jenkins, Anna Baker; Trom bones: William Roberts, Donald Spears; Timpani: Bud Weinreich; and Percussion: Larry Hutzly.

Awards Presented To Concert Band Members

During the Spring Concert presented on April 1st by the college Concert Band, the band members were given awards by Dr. Lloyd for sustained membership in the organization.

Letters for four semesters of band membership were presented to the following people: Alan Evans, Judy Hirst, Dwight Howes, Larry Jenkins, Donna Jensen, Anne Morrell, James Rechtin, Gary Smith, and Don Stupak. Keys were given for six semesters of band membership to David Gilmore, Brenda Hewett, Tod Jablonski, Eugenia Miller, and William Roberts.

Those who have had eight semesters of membership were presented with engraved gavels. They were Kenneth Churchill, Paul Burger, Robert Kallstrom. Three senior members of the infamous "Porky and the Simple Seven" organization were given "special" awards for their activities. They were Robert Kallstrom, Kenneth Churchill, and Paul Burger.

College Day Held

Sunday, April 24, is National Christian College Day. The Vespers speaker will be the Rev. William Robert Stevenson, pastor of Congregational Church of Christ in Tryon, North Carolina. Mr. Stevenson is a graduate of Maryville College, Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary, and Cornell University. His daughter, Margie, is a member of the Maryville class of '61.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Evolving Revolution

A revolution occurred on our campus last week-end—a revolution of attitude in the minds of many students.

Ten Negro youth from Knoxville College spent the week-end here as guests of various campus students. In a few weeks representatives of Maryville will return the visit. This exchange was an outgrowth of the Ecumenica lStuden tConference held this Christmas vacation in Athens, Ohio. Maryville and Knoxville students who attended continued to study together following the conference. Their study culminates in these two week-ends.

Those who actively participated acclaim the week-end as a great success. Through this sharing of all of life for a few days individuals were able to see beyond visible differences to the deep seated similarities of humanity and the unique characteristics of each individual.

This is the ultimate goal of study involvement groups and conferences. This is the value of student exchange. This is a quiet, yet nonetheless courageous, Christian witness. This is the evolution of attitude that is capable of steadily turning the world upside down. —P.S.

Thinking Time

The next fourteen days are perhaps the most important in the life of student government on campus. During this period candidates will campaign and be elected to the offices of president and vice-president of the student body and to various class offices.

Applications must be made to Mike Talley, vice president of the Student Council, by April 20. Petitions are to be circulated by April 22 by the respective candidates. Each must obtain seventy-five signatures in a twenty-four hour period. Campaign speeches and election for Student Council president and veep will be April 26. Class elections are scheduled for April 28.

This is our two weeks to think—to evaluate the role of student government on our campus, to determine what action we feel should be taken in the future. This is our two weeks to listen—to weigh the ideas presented by the candidates, to discuss them with friends, to find out what these students really think. It is then our prerogative to elect those whose ideas are most representative of our own. —P.S.

Morning Means . . . What?

Peter stood once in the Light, like a fellow standing bareheaded in the noon heat of the sun. Once, for a lifetime moment, he recognized the Light and was humbled and illuminated by the full fact of the Light.

But the Light grew distant, of necessity, leaving shadows like the sun leaves in late afternoon, and Peter was baffled by the multiplying shadows (which were one with his own doubts and human imperception). He was baffled and less certain of the Light. He was almost afraid.

When the Light disappeared, he turned his back on the Light, thoroughly disheartened. His despear was black, so black that he denied the Light. He could not se ethe hopeful mirror of the moon. He was afraid Morning came, as everybody knows. The Light restored Peter's hope, as the sun restores our vision by day. The story was completed by the Light's returning, an act which, having since that time been scrutinized, can be seen in its inevitability to be as certain as the sunrise.

Nowadays we have the story so completely in our grasp that neither night or morning makes a deep impression. Truthfully, the whole event is for most of us observed from a perpetual afternoon of shadows. Perhaps there is a measure of truth in being full of knowledge, but ignorant in understanding.

". . . The true light that enlightens every man was coming into the world. He was in the world, and the world was made through him, yet the world knew him not. He came to his own home, and his people received him not. But to all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God; who were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."

Student Voice Significant As 'Sit-In' Action Spreads

(UPS)—The spontaneous outbreak of protests against segregated eating facilities in the South, commonly known as sitdowns, has brought a wave of support from colleges and universities outside the South that is snowballing into what might, for the first time in the past two decades of student activity, be called a genuine student movement.

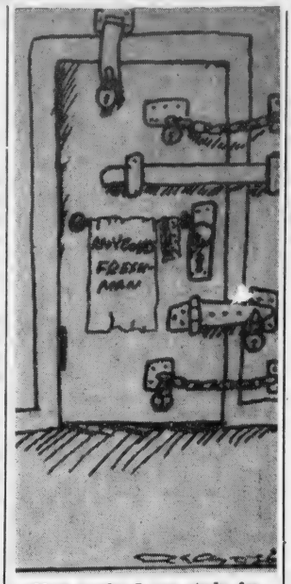
Support action has taken the form of mass meetings, demonstrations, picketing, telegrams, resolutions, and fund raising in colleges from Washington state to Washington, D. C., and from California to Massachusetts.

Students across the country have taken up the fight for equal rights begun in Greensborough, North Carolina, on February 1, which has spread to six Southern states and over 25 Southern cities.

College Newspapers Speak

College newspapers have joined the support movement with their editorial comment. The Queens College (New York, N.Y.) Phoenix, in a series of editorials on the sit-downs, summarized the support movement by saying, "At last the American student serves the American citizen as teacher, voice, and guide." The Phoenix called the student demonstrations the "expression of the long-dormant American conscience; they are the draining of the festering sore of mass guilt."

. . . "And significantly, the voice of that general public is at last, the student," continued the editorial.



In other editorial comment the Bryn Mawr College News called the segregation protests "a state of revolution . . . which suddenly, quietly, irrevocably has swept the nation."

"The revolution sprang out of an old awareness of the evils and inexpediences of segregation and the new realization that its elimination is as much the responsibility of the Northern student as the Southern Governor. The understanding that segregation is not only morally wrong but also a threat to national security is neither new nor revolutionary; the understanding that integration si our problem and action to effect it is our responsibility is bithe."

Rights Proclaimed Self-Evident

The Catholic University Tower broke editorial policy by commenting on the arrests, convictions and

(Continued on page four)

"Now maybe I can study for comps."

Phyllis Stine has edited this issue of the ECHO. The next issue will be done by Pat Penland. The election will be held following the publication of the final issue.

Moved and Seconded

The school year is rapidly drawing to a close and rumors are beginning to spread regarding the coming Student Body Elections. I should like to sincerely urge any reader who is considering running for office, to do so. It is an extremely worthwhile experience, and an education in itself just to run, and even more so if elected.

Another worthwhile topic that seems to make for good conversation is campus honor. Several times in the past few months this topic has been brought to our attention. It is a perennial problem, and perhaps will always be one. Particularly in the classroom we are offered an opportunity to exercise individual honor. It is a student matter and students ought to be concerned about correcting what could be a deplorable situation. As one person remarked, when speaking of this matter, "If we have any cheating, we have too much." Perhaps you feel that this is not student government business, but a matter for faculty to handle. Well, theoretically the student body and student government are one in the same thing, and faculty members certainly do not cheat on tests. This is not meant to be a reprimand, but rather a challenge to the individual to answer to the best in himself. If students can't help themselves, then who can?

Since this will probably be the last article I shall have the privilege of writing, I should like to express my most sincere heart felt thanks to you the reader for your interest, concern, and support of the various items discussed in this column throughout the year. With best regards for you all in the future,

I remain respectfully yours,
David W. Morris

WRITERS' CORNER

The following poems are two of four which have been submitted by Maryville College students and have been accepted for publication in the Anthology of the American College Poetry Society, announced in an earlier issue of the Echo.

The poems included here were written by Pat Baker, a sophomore English major from Decatur, Georgia, and Sue Bloomer, a sophomore music major from Berwyn, Pennsylvania. The next issue of the Echo will include the other poems accepted, which were written by David Morris and John Mitchell.

PENNIES
By Pat Baker

If you save enough pennies
Someday—maybe—
You'll have a whole jar full
I thought once that I could save up enough love to do anything,
But now I know
That love does no more good than a brown jar full of pennies.
"Assurance," said the book,
"Is the principal ingredient."
And I said, "Assurance and love."
And I believed.
Oh, how I believed. How I counted the pennies each day and said, "There will be enough."
But now I cry, "Fool.
Better to throw the pennies far out into the river.
Better to try to stop the wind or catch a star than to keep love.
Better to drink coffee alone in the moonlight and try to forget."

PURSUIT
By Sue Bloomer

How can I ward off Love when his shadowless form
Trails my footstep days;
His fingers catch in my hair pulling me backward until
My feet lose hold—I sink
Into the nothingness of everything, being no more mine, but
Only everything of Love.
I fear—and I should run—
but there is warmth within his arms,
And there I am not lonely.

Boroff On American Colleges

The April issue of Harper's contains a pertinent article entitled, "American Colleges: What Their Catalogues Never Tell You," written by David Boroff, who has done extensive studies of a dozen campuses, evaluating their present undergraduate systems. From his observations, Boroff has divided our colleges into two schools: those he calls "adolescent reservations, fenced off from serious concerns and those which represent a transition to adulthood."

Boroff laments the lack of more new ideas and heavily attacks curriculum and teaching. "Talk to students and you compile a bleak anthology of boredom, inertia, and ineptness among teachers. He feels college faculties should be shaken up some—life is too easy for many of them." To combat this problem, Boroff suggests the establishment of visiting professors or lectureships for talented outsiders, such as business men, journalists or trade-union people; more faculty seminars; and teams of teachers handling the same class in active opposition to each other. He is also very critical of the professors' "rage to publish," and terms their journals "a flood tide of the dull and repetitive—an expanse of spirit in a waste of footnotes."

Boroff is adamant in his point that the basic skills should be taught in high school, and the arts in the colleges, instead of the present inadequate combination of both. He claims, "it is self-evident that higher education is not good enough." He quotes a critic as saying, "If you have a high-school diploma and have stayed out of jail, then you can go to college." Boroff feels it is time to decide what we want from our colleges and follow our philosophy accordingly.

Concerning extra-curricular activities, Boroff stated that "the brash imperialism of personal services and student activities strive to dominate the students' private and social life. . . The administration lays down the ground rules and acts as umpire for the nursery games."

In conclusion, Boroff states his optimism in the rectification of many of these faults. He declares that we are now in a position to attempt a leap for excellence. We have the students; we even have the teachers. All we need is the will."

The Highland Echo

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.
April 16, 1960

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistants ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Helen Ann Easterly, Carrie Nation
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Helen Ann Easterly, D. H. Lawrence, Tammy Day, Joe Quinn, Yvonne Dionne, Steve Mouton, Pat Penland, Pat Crossley
Typists ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Rin Tin Tin
Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistants ..... Jerry Cooper, Porfirio Rubirosa, Graham Bardsley
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman, Charles Van Doren

Subscription Rate $75.00—Cheap

The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Scots And Soda

Steve Mouton & Pat Penland

Once upon a time, in a kingdom by a sea, a baby princess was born. She was so lovely her parents named her Rose Margaret which means "publicity hound."

The day of the Princess's christening was set apart as a holiday, as were the day she cut her first tooth, the day she said her first word, the day she took her first step, and the day she first bit the Archbishop of Fargobury (cf. Scots and Soda, Volume 45, Issue 13) during her daddy's coronation. Everyone in the kingdom was delighted. The lovely young Princess was showered with presents. There was a V-necked sweater set from Uncle Winnie. Loads of good wishes via western union and a "potted-chicken" from indigent Uncle Herbie across the ocean. Silver teething rings, solid gold diaper pins, jewel-encrusted rattles, and many platinum playthings were forthcoming from a world that didn't know where its next apple was coming from.

Almost-Auntie Wally, who had been overlooked on the birth announcement lists, soothed her wounded something-or-other with a prediction that on the Princesses's sixteenth birthday she would be doomed to eternal spinsterhood lest she be saved by the popping of a flashbulb at an unpredicted moment. The kingdom did not feel Auntie Wally's prediciton to be any more than sour grapes.

And so the little Princess grew from day to day, and from way to way. There was the joy of her becoming a G.B.S. (Great Britain Scout). There was the patriotic thrill of her Florence Nightingale service during the great war. There were also the days she wore her first strapless gown and smoked her first cigarette in public.

As the years rolled on, Rose Margaret entered the social whirl. The most important function in her early life was the wedding of her big sister, Beth. At this and other less-important weddings, Rose Margaret was always on hand for a new dress. It was for her that the poet laureate penned the phrase, "Always a bridesmaid, never a bride."

Happiness entered her life when Big Daddy, the king, hired a new stable boy. Romance blossomed in Cinderella (in reverse) fashion for the lovely princess and her groom.

Sadness entered her life at the death of her much-beloved father. Sister Beth, who by now was the world's most famous homebody-mother-imagine, became the new monarch.

Gossip columnists buzzed with excitement as word of the Princess's love for the stable boy leaked out. Speculation rose as to when Rose Margaret would on bended knee propose to the queen her intention to wed the groom of her horses. Miles and miles of newsprint voiced the opinions of everyone from Eliza Doolittle to Anthony Eden concerning the blossoming romance.

At last forced to take a stand, the Princess announced that since her lover's blood did no trun as pure as that of the horses he cared for, nor as blue as the skies around the stables, and because of a past that rivalled the characterizations of Tennessee Williams, their love could ne'er result in matrimony. And so once more the Princess was left to clatter around the palace night after night. Having learned to crochet, knit, embroider, tat, and sew; having waded through the Yale University Complete Works of Shakespeare and the Wells Fargobury Tales (cf. Scots and Soda, Volume 45, Issue 13); and being a little sick of it all (to say nothing of the strain on her eyes), she decided to make an official excursion to the colonies. 'Twas here she danced with a Mountie and was wined and dined by a barrister. No more came of this than calloused feet and indigestion, however. Rose Margaret now appeared on the best-dressed-women-of-the-world lists (she had learned to sew well) and often appeared with a handsome escort (her mother) at play-openings, operas, lectures, concerts, recitals, and other such falderal. Almost-Auntie Wally's something-or-other was well on the way to being healed when up popped a flashbulb in the form of a court photographer, Tony Weakkneed Smith. It was a picture book romance, purely a case of love at first light (obviously not sight, op. cit). More developed than negatives after constant exposure to one another.

Not to be outdone by the birth of another nephew, the Princess announced a forthcoming wedding. Invitations went out to all the royalty of the continent. However, many of these declined the invitations because of previous commitments, etc. Many have have felt these persons snubbed Rose Margaret, but actually, they are merely camera-shy! And so the Princess will be wed in a quiet little ceremony on May 6. The public is requested to line the streets on route to the church and to help fill the church so that the broadcast will pick up the tumultous tears that flow as the happy kingdom gains a lifetime discount from Eastman Kodak Company. The Princess is expected to honeymoon in the press rooms of I.N.S. or A.P.

Now we wonder what the papers will talk about Rose Margaret and her shutterbug are wed. Perhaps she will pass from the public scene and off the front pages for a while. But we, personally, will follow with n'er ending scrutiny developments of this union. Long live Daguerre and Walter Winchell!

Commentary On MC Varsity Teams

By Joe Quinn

Maryville College is having somewhat of a rough time finding victories this spring. However, things are looking better in all three sports on the local scene.

BASEBALL

The baseball squad after winning its opener against Wooster has gone down five straight times. Errors have been the main trouble. We have given away more runs than we have scored, which can lead only to defeat, However, things are looking up as noticed last Saturday when the Scots lost to Jacksonville State (Ala.) 4-1. The Scots got fine pitching from Fred Tepper. The senior hurler struck out ten, but alas, Jax was getting good pitching from John Allen. He, too, hit the double figures in strike outs. The Scots got off to a flying start when Joel Griffin walloped a solo homer in the first inning. Later in the eighth inning, Jim Erstringer clouted a homer for Jax to sew up the victory. This ball game was a real fine contest, giving Coach Baird and his charges real cause for enthusiasm for future games.

TENNIS

The tennis squad, doing most of its playing from home, has also had troubles. The Scots have won only one of their six matches. However, Coach Sexton has high hopes for future matches on home soil. Eligibility has been a problem. The netters have been forced to re-arrange their lineups for almost every match, but things are settling down and Coach feels the team will start collecting those valuable points. Mainstays of the squad are Roger Nooe, George Poland, Tom Eberhard, Dick Heischman and Ron Reading. Most of the games remaining on the schedule will be on the home courts.

TRACK

Maryville College's first venture into track in a couple of years, though a loss, proved to be of much value to the cinderman. East Tennessee State handed the Scots a sound trouncing, but Coach Tomlinson is very optimistic about future needs. Extensive improvements have been made on the track, under Coach Tomlinson's direction and with the valuable assistance of the maintenance crew. The track has been reinforced and new areas have been prepared for the field events.

G-Strings Lead Intramural Teams

The intramural softball league is under way with the following teams competing: Kappa Phi Knights, G-Strings, Kappa Phi Barons, Aces, KKK, Alpha Sig Hammers, Alpha Sig Sledgehammers, and the Falcons. The league will continue through April and the first part of May. The teams will play each other once, followed by a play-off, round robin style.

At present the G-Strings have two victories, having defeated the Aces and the Knights. The Knights have defeated the Barons, and the Sledges have won one and lost two, while the Hammers have won one. The league's standings will become more informative when the teams get a few more games under their belts.

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

Christian Book Nook
New Location
218 Court St.
Students always welcome

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

Subscribe Now at Half Price*
You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.
Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.
Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.
The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.
Send your newspaper for the time checked.
☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member
Name
Address
City Zone State
*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

Broadway Jewelers
Jewelry Store Costume Jewelery for Easter
Expert Watch and Clock Repair

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream
and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Buy The Best
From
Murphy-West Motor Co.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

For A Firm Foundation
WEAR
SOUTHERN SHOES
116 W. Broadway

Over The Maryville Footlights With Musical "Where's Charley?"

The Men's Glee Club, Woman's Chorus, and the orchestra put on one of their best musicals in years with Where's Charley? under the experienced direction of Dan Kinsinger. Judging by Saturday's performance, Where's Charley? was thoroughly enjoyed by both audience and cast.

Perhaps the most rewarding element in the play was the two-way communication between the audience and Paul Elliott who played Charley. Paul's lines were timed well and emphasized to suit audience reaction. However, he played the dangerous game of ad-libbing. The "15 yards for holding" anacronism took away from the play and some of his actions approached slapstick. But there's no doubt that the audienc e(including the that the audience (including the reviewer) thoroughly enjoyed them.

Sue Lemme was a graceful and lyrical Amy whose interpretation of "The Woman in his Room" and "Make a Miracle," sung with Charley, was charming. She handled the difficult blindfold dance with the chorus smoothly.

Pat Blanton as Kitty graced the play with her beautiful voice. Her role was well interpreted and natural.

Charley's moon-struck friend, Jack, was played with understanding but unnaturalness by Carl Dumford.

Spettigue was humorously portrayed by Phil Eslinger, although his extreme exaggeration in speaking and running became tiresome.

Almost every member of this large cast was a convincing individual while blending into a unified whole. One clever touch was the photographer's (Dick Myers') search for intelligence.

Enunciation was especially good throughout the play. Few words either sung or spoken were lost by the audience.

The chorus moved smoothly for its size, but the singing on the whole was weak, particularly in the title song. "Permambuco" and "The NAMSSC Band" were much better done.

The orchestra under the direction of Bernard Linger was excellent. It played with richness and spirit and entered into the play with an almost unnoticed transition.

Much credit should also go to Ron Pearson, the dramatic director, for balanced blocking, seemingly effortless scene changes, and entertaining pantomime, such as Charley's leap into his skirt. However, the choreography for "Once in Love with Amy" fell short of its possibilities.

MC HONOR SOCIETY . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Newly elected officers to be installed by outgoing president, Jane Planitzer, include Dave Gilmore, president; Dave Doysher, vice-president; and Dr. Ralph T. Case, secretary-treasurer. Advisor to the group is Thomas M. Cragan, assistant professor of sociology.

Tennessee Epsilon chapter is located at Maryville College. Pi Gamma Mu is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies and is affiliated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science and with the National Academy of Economics and Political Science. The purpose of the socity is to encourage study in the field of social sciences and to supplement existing social science irganizations.

Members of the local society are chosen from juniors and seniors majoring in one of the social sciences and who have a B average in these fields.

Student Voice Significant As 'Sit-In' Action Spreads

school expulsions of Southern students.

"These students who are engaged in the pursuit of truth, as we are, have done no more than affirm their belief in the validity of the "self-evident" truth that "all men are created equal" and their constitutional right to freely express their opinions and ideals as long as no other basic human right is placed in jeopardy. Whether the charge be disorderly conduct, conspiracy, or what have you, the crime for which these students have been expelled from school, and prosecuted, is none other than the peaceful (please note) expression of their opinion."

. . . "We hold, then, that racial discrimination does exist in sections of this country; that it is an evil; that it should be eliminated; that the Negro has the right to demand its elimination; and that any action to suppress, or infringe upon, this right is uncharitable, illegal, and immoral."

"We feel that the recent denials of academic and legal rights to college students in Alabama and Tennessee demand an expression of protest from the students of The Catholic University of America — as students, as Catholics, and as Americans."

Fund-Raising Movements Started

Support was expressed in numerous other ways during the past month. At Oberlin College in Ohio The Fund for Nashville, established to aid the 143 Nashville students arrested for participating in sitdowns, set a check for $2709.10 for use in paying court fees o Nashville students. The check represented a week and a half of fervnt campus and town campaigns to raise funds, and surpassed the Fund's goal by $709.10.

Dennis Hudson, chairman of the Fund for Nashville, said, "It is most encouraging to see the generous response o individuals in Oberlin and elsewhere to the needs of these Southern students who are sacrificing a great deal of personal comfort, security, and safety to put into effect the ideals of our American culture."

At the University of Colorado, established a campus fund-raising campaign to provide legal counsel for Southern demonstrators who have been jailed. The money, according to the resolution, will be channeled through the United States National Student Association (USNSA). The drive began March 17.

Student Pickets Denounced, Lauded

University of New Mexico students supported the Southern actions with a student demonstration and picket in front of the downtown Albuquerque F. W. Woolworth store. The manager of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, speaking as a private citizen, called the student demonstration "inexcusable". A bystander said he was not in favor of such action (picketing) by members of a tax-supported institution and said if it were representative of the student body "I would be in favor of closing it (University of New Mexico) down."

One woman commented, however, that the signs carried by the picketers were intelligent. Another said she would not go into the store again.

The placards read, "We are picketing Woolworths because they segregate in their Southern stores," "This store does not segregate but its company does," "Coexistence or no existence at Woolworth's southern lunch counters," "We of U.N.M. come to demonstrate for Southern civil rights," and "This is student sympathy for civil rights in the South."

At Wayne State University in Detroit more petitions were signed by 800 students expressing support for the Southern movement, and commending the Southern students who have participated in the demonstrations for the restraint they have shown. With regard to picketing in the Detroit area, the Wayne State Student - Faculty Council chairman said, "Picketing must be done on an individual basis without official support of the S-FC". The statement came following the censure of a picket group by the S-FC and the Dean of Students, who also ruled that handbills titled "Picket Woolworth", circulating on the Wayne State campus, were illegal.

The censured group declared they would continue to engage in pickets and urged other students to join the picket action on an individual basis.

The metropolitan New York area has been alive with student demonstrations involving students from every college in the city. Last weekend a coordinating committee for civil rights was formed in the city to give reputable leadership to the sympathy demonstrations.

WAA Active With New Spring Sports

The Women's Athletic Associaiton has been exceptionally active this past month with the different spring sports.

Theta Epsilon, represented by the team of Bill Owneby and Nina Jo Tarver, won the ping pong tournament, while Kathy Eisenhart carried away top honors in aerial darts for Chi Beta.

In softball, to date, Theta was won two games with more to be played in coming weeks.

For those horseshoe-minded folk, the horseshoe tournament will begin on Saturday, April 16th.

W.A.A. has been well supported so far this semester, and with all the other sports on the agenda for the remainder of the season, it should have continued successful participation.

THE FORMAL IS THE 23rd...

Why Not

RENT A TUX FROM PROFFITT'S

- ALL DARK TUXEDOS or those with white DINNER JACKETS

$7.50

- ALL DARK or with White Jacket, Shirt, Accessories, Cummerbund, Studs, Cuff Links

$8.50

Please Give 3 Days Notice!

MEN'S WEAR — MAIN FLOOR

Proffitt's

For Your Floral Needs,

See—Charles Crissman—Agent for

HORNE'S FLORIST

Formerly Chandler's

Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

Get Your Easter Candy at

Byrne Drug

Whitman's; Pangburns; Belle-Camp

"The friendly drug store on the corner"

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413 YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

DRESS RIGHT!

THE SHOE BOX

The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

Pearson, Green To Lead Students In Coming Year

The Student Body elected Ron Pearson to head student government for the coming year. Bill Green was chosen as vice-president. Mr. Pearson, a junior political science major from Maryville, competed against Gary Hall and George Poland. Mr. Green, a junior English major coming from New Jersey, ran against Kathy Eisenhart and Bob Emmert.

Their policy seems to be a trend toward a better informed campus. A weekly radio program is now under consideration. Mr. Corbett of WGAP favors such a program to present Council news and information concerning general campus life. If adopted, the program will go into effect next fall. Student Council minutes will be continued to be published.

Another project which is already taking form is the proposed inter-area college council. Four delegates from Maryville, George Poland, Bill Green, Carolyn Gass, and Sue Stewart are attending a conference this week end at Carson-Newman to discuss the feasibility of such an inter-area council.

Sr. Chapel to Begin Commencement Week

On Saturday, May 14, at 8:00 a.m., the senior class will hold its chapel program, led by President Dan Greaser. At 1:00 p.m. on Saturday will be the alumni luncheon, and at 6:30 the annual alumni dinner. At the alumni dinner fifty year certificates will be presented to those members of the Class of 1910 present; others will be mailed to absent members.

The Baccalaureate Service will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, May 15, with the sermon by President Lloyd. At 4:00 p.m. the Senior Music Hour will be held in the Fine Arts Music Hall, and at 7:00 p.m. will be commencement vespers. The speaker will be a Maryville graduate, Rev. W. Malcolm Gwaltney, pastor of the Calvin Presbyterian Church, San Jose, California.

On Monday, May 16, at the 8:00 a.m. chapel service, prizes will be distributed and a program of music held. At 8:30 on Monday evening the second performance of "The Lark" will be presented.

Tuesday afternoon, May 17, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., is the Presidnet's reception at Morningside. At 8:30 p.m. the commencement play will be presented for the third and final time.

The graduation exercises will take place at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 18. The graduation address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, New York; President, United Lutheran Church in America; President, Lutheran World Federation; Chairman, Central Committee, World Council of Churches.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 45 Maryville, Tennessee, May 7, 1960 No. 15

Peggy Reid Reigns In May Day Fete

May Day 1960 began with the processional of the King and Queen and court. Miss Peggy Reid and Dan Greaser were the rulers of the day's festivities. Attending the Queen were: Mary Schmidt and David McCahan, Senior Class; Ninajo Tarver and Bill Owenby, Junior Class; Janet Kilgard and Lou Pelky, Sophomore Class; Sally Hinn and Bruce Semple, Freshman Class, with Anne Marie Large and Mary Ann Cowan as flower girls, and Jimmy Law as the crown bearer.

The script of the show was the responsibility of Rosemary Lee and Ruthanne Campbell. May Day was sponsored by the Physical Education Department of Maryville College under the direction of Miss Emma Curtis, Mrs. Bob Davis, and Mrs. James Renfro.

The festivities began with the crowning of Her Majesty, followed by the traditional winding of the May Pole, by the Folk Dance Class. Interpretative Dances to Bartok and "Happy Talk" from South Pacific, were presented by the Modern Dance Class. English and American Contra Reels were demonstrated by the Folk Dance Class, and a tumbling exhibition was given by the Tumbling Class.

Concluding the day's events was the presentation of the story of Pinocchio for the visiting children of the community. The cast was:

Jiminy Cricket—Mike Garrett
Getpetto—Don McFerren
Stromboli—Doug Bunker
Gideon—Connie Bondurant
Pinocchio—Paul Elliott
Figaro—Barbara Neilson
Blue Fairy—Ruthanne Campbell
Foulfellow—Harriette Blankenship

A note of appreciation is extended to all thoee who helped make May Day 1960 a success, in particular to those who worked and headed committees, Ruthanne Campbell, Dona Sarver, Carolyn Thomas, Sylvia Fugate, and Carol Baer.

Student Council Gets Underway

Twenty members of the student body have been elected by their classmates to serve on Student Council in the 1960-1961 school year. Council will receive six more in September when Men's Student Cooperative Chairman, the president of the freshman class and four freshmen representatives are elected.

At the first meeting of the new Council, Margie Stevenson was elected Secretary-Treasurer. Ron Pearson, President, appointed 10 members to head certain committees. Virginia Bass will serve as chairman of Social Committee. Linda Dobson will head the Town Night Committee. George Poland wil be Committee Chairman for Student Organizations. Sue Lemme heads the Student Programs Committee, and Dave Muir the Athletics Committee.

John Eaddy serves as Projects Committee Chairman, while Bob Schultz leads the USNSA Co-ordinating Committee. Bill Weissenburger and Mike Garret work jointly as Pep Committee Co-Chairman.

NBC To Present Choir On May 8

The Maryville College Choir will be heard on the Great Choirs of America program, an NBC network presentation, beginning on Sunday, May 8, and continuing every Sunday through May 29. Station WATE in Knoxville wlil carry the Great Choirs of America program at 7:05 a.m.

Beginning on Sunday, May 22, the Choir will also be heard on the Protestant Hour, a program carried by some 365 radio stations throughout the United States. WGAP in Maryville will carry the Protestant Hour program at 7:00 p.m. It will also be heard on Station WNOX in Knoxville at 8:30 a.m.

Sophs Outrank Previous Classes

This year's sophomore class received a high rating on the annual achievement tests. Overall median for the class was 75, an improvement of six points over last year's sophomore class. Only in one division, that of Mathematics, did last year's class outrank them.

Sophomores proved to be better informed in the field of literature with an average score of 80. Other scores were social studies 62, fine arts 65, and science 75.

Chilcote To Hold Vespers On May 8

The Vesper speaker on May 8 will be Dr. Thomas F. Chilcote, Jr., pastor of the First Methodist Church of Maryville. Dr. Chilcote is the father of two children. He was educated at Taylor University and the University of Pittsburgh, Western Theological Seminary and Boston University School of Theology; he was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity by the University of Chattanooga. He is included in Who's Who in Tennessee, and is a delegate designated to the 1961 World Methodist Conference at Oslo, Norway. Dr. Chilcote has published three books: Youth Courageous, Jesus and Worship, and The Excellence of Our Calling.

Classes Choose New Officers

Last week class officers were chosen for the school year of 1960-61. Juniors elected as their president of the senior year, Don Harward. Todd Jablonski will serve as vice-president, and Stefancic wil be secretary-treasurer.

President for next year's junior class will be Don McFarren. Aiding him, as vice-president will be Roger Nooe. And Sue Stewart will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Next year's sophomores chose Don Pettinelli as president. Bruce Semple will be vice-president. Connie Myers will be secretary-treasurer.

Chilhowean Staff For '60-61 Named

While the campus is thumbing through the shiny new 1960 Chilhowean, the sophomore class is preparing for work on the 1960-61 edition. At present the new staff includes the following students:

Editor—Becky Kinnamon
Business Manager—
Beth Reichardt
Class Editors—
Glorianna Hutcheson
Martha Turnbull
Activities Editor—
Connie Bondurant
Blair Moffett
Sports Editor—
Ray Donaldson
Dave Muir
Business Staff
Jack Easter
Lucille Petree
Ginny Pratt
Literary Staff—
Penn Wilson
Donna Jensen
Jeanne Wilson
Senior Representative
Barbara Williams
Sophomore Representative—
Ann McIlhenny

Anouilh's 'Lark' Opens Friday Night; Three Performances To Be Given

The third major production of the Maryville College Playhouse is to be the commencement play Jean Anouilh's The Lark (adapted by Lillian Hellman). Among French dramtists, Anoulh is rivaled in international prestige only by Sarte, who cannot be regarded as a man of the theatre, so much as the leader of a philosophical party. His sparkling plays are always written with precision and style and are found quite actable both by men and women.

The Lark is the story of the trial of Joan of Arc, taking place in the courtroom with flashbacks to various incidents. Because of the unrealistic nature of the play, an unrealisitc set will be used, incorporating platforms of different levels, steps, projection on the cyclorama and many technical devices used to achieve special effects in order to preserve the "timelessness" and "Spacelessness" which the play itself exudes.

Production dates are: Friday, May 13; Monday, May 16; and Tuesday, May 17. Curtain time is at 8:30. Admission is $.75 for students and $1.25 for parents and others.

Playhouse Honors Given At Banquet

Twenty members of Playhouse were honored at the Annual Banquet held April 26 at Spike's Restaurant. Those receiving the Journeyman award (10 points earned in two semesters) are: Paul Elliott, Nancy Slack, Dale Young, Jan Aaron, Larry Bush, Judy Cole, Ann Harrison, Chuck Moffett, Ann Newcomer, and Jim Rechtin. This year's Players were: Charlotte Cathey, Blair Moffett, Reda Kay, Sue Lemme, and Lynn Waddington. Those attaining the rank of Master Player were; Judy Eldridge, Steve Mouton, Sarah Smith, and Maryanne Braidwood.

Seniors Reveal A Variety Of Post-Graduate Plans

The class of 1960 has made varied plans for their post graduate careers, some plan to travel, some to teach, some will be married, and others will continue school.

Ralph Ayers, an art major from Long Valley, New Jersey, will travel in Africa and Europe, work as a free lance artist or teacher, and go to graduate school for his master's degree. His ultimate goal is full time work as an art teacher for the board of Ecumenical Missions abroad.

Graham Bardsley, an English major from New Jersey, will enter Princeton Seminary. Thomas Bass, a biology major from Mooresville, North Carolina, hopes to enter either graduate school or medical school.

Carolyn Bilbrey, an elementary education major from Maryville, intends to join her husband at Fort Sill, Oklahoma for the summer.

David Blackburn, an English major from Atlanta, Georgia, hopes to do some traveling. Rufus Bowers, a physical education major from Maryville, will join the United States Marines. Nancy Braden, a math major from Andersonville, Tennessee, plans to enter the University of Kentucky graduate school.

Maryanne Braidwood, an English major from Miami, Florida, will probably teach school in Miami in the fall. Donald Buddle, a history major from Dover, New Jersey, may teach. Douglas Bunker, a political science major from Massachusetts, may work or travel after graduation.

Paul Burger, a biology major from Buffalo, New York and Linda Messer, a Christian education major from Columbus, Ohio, will be married this August. Paul will enter Vanderbilt University for graduate work. Linda will work.

Joe Burgos, a philosophy major from Mexico, will work for the National Council of Churches in New York this summer; he plans to enter McCormick Seminary next fall.

Charlotte Cathey, an English major from Fort Smith, Arkansas, will be working at the University of Pittsburgh in the Graduate Department of Public and International Affairs; she plans to begin work on her masters degree in the fall.

George Chapman, a business administration major from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, intends to work in the management training program with Grants. Kenneth Churchill, a psychology major from Jefferson City, Missouri, hopes to enter Central Missouri State to work toward his masters of science of education.

Rosemary Collins, an elemen-

(Continued on page six)

Fashion Review To Be Tonight

The 15th Annual Spring Fashion Review sponsored by the Maryville College Home Economics Department will take place tonigh,t May 7th, at 7:30 p.m. in the theater.

This "Potpourri of Fashion" will feature both spring and winter creations modeled by the girls who made them. All those girls taking the clothing course are participating.

A reception immediatley following the review is open to the public. Refreshments will be served. After the reception, a dance will be held in the chapel court, sponsored by the campus Social Committee.

The Highland Echo

Published bi-weekly during the school year by the students of Maryville College.
Saturday, May 7, 1960

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Charlotte Cathey
Managing Editor ..... Blair Moffett
Editorial Assistant ..... Steve Mouton
Contributors ..... Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier, Helen Ann Easterly, Tammy Day, Joe Quinn, Pat Crossley, Sue Bloomer, Lynn Waddington, Ron Pearson, Bill Green, Dave Morris, Steven Mouton, Marianne Braidwood
Typists ..... Jeanette Payne, Pat Baker, Ellen Dozier
Business Manager ..... Don Buddle
Business Assistants ..... Graham Bardsley, Bill Stueben
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate 75c a semester
The Maryville Printers and Publishers, Inc.—Printers
Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Of This Year and Next

The school year off 1959-1960 is drawing to a close. Only a few days of classes, examinations, and commencement activities remain. These few days are a period of mixed feelings for many of us. We are filled with a certain laziness brought about by warm spring days and a nervous energy at the realization that final examinations or papers are due. We are filled with anticipation of the summer months, and yet, we dread the thoughts of leaving our friends, many of whom we may not see for a long period of time.

These final days are also a period of transition. In actuality the 1960-61 school year has already begun. Courses are scheduled. Leaders for the coming year are chosen, and plans are being laid. Many of the decisions influencing your college life in the next year ar enow being resolved. It is a time in which we are straining to see in two directons——to the future to determine what it holds and to the past to evaluate.

This year has been a year of gain. Most recently, the post of Co-Chairmanship of Student-Faculty Senate has been created as a student office, thereby offering much greater opportunity for student leadership. Having had their beginning last year, the seminars have flourished and have shown their far-reaching possibilities. A new honor dormitory has been established on a three-year trial. In a successful basketball season, Tom Morris broke three previously existing records. Football is on the upswing. And there has been, I believe, at least a small step toward erasing the seemingly indelible line between campus and town students.

There have been failures in the year, also. Many organizations have felt the crippling effects of lack of interest and numbers of endeavors have been stymied. Some are living on, in a half existence.

Tis is only a very limited recording of the events of the year and is meant in no way to be an inventory, measuring the success or failure of the year. Such an inventory is, at best, a misleading and a dangerous guide.

It must be remembered organization activities play only a part in determining the success or failure of a college year. The progress of a college ear, of four college years, or of the college itself, is based first of all on the development of the individuals, and on activiites only as the individuals benefit and progress through them.

This seems to have been forgotten, or least overlooked, on a great many campuses today. The attempt to emphasize the necessity of participation in a variety of activities for a well-rounded character, has over-emphasized the point; and we are becomng one sided in our nedeavor not to be one sided.

Maryville College is no exception to this trend. It has been discovered Maryville has enough activities for a college with an enrollment several times greater.

Just the exact results of this are difficult to ascertain. But it seems plauisble an over-abundance in one area leads to lack in another. It seems this is a problem worthy of consideration in both our evaluation of this year and in our plans relative to the coming year.

A Note of Thanks

We feel a sincere note of thanks and apprceiation is owed to the staff of the 1960 Chilhowean. The yearbook shows explicity the amount of effort behind it. An outstanding job has been done. There are so many persons involved who did a fine job, we are not able to thank each one personally. However, a special commendation goes to Bill Green, the editor, and Gay Landis, the business manager for their important roles in the success of the annual.

S.M.

Now the Day is Over, etc.

By Bill Green

Thy bulbous breaker doth provide us with an echelon. Its mericiful calm rides the stormzenith, piercing once mor ethe coddler's breath with a fancy for undeniable. Big wreaker, he fashions furitively. Go, Phoebus, cut out.

Earth on a string is your monument, godaweful deliberation of advancing shade shocks all but the historical sense.
Perceiving, closing skyshell rains fire backgrounded with infinity. Ages saw this worship; it reasoned the future.

Unbound bowed assent recognizes Eternal: not the scapegoat of collective bargaining, but who does the better the more silently.

"I thought they just gave you the 'skin' for graduation, Boss?"

"On Honor . . . and All of the Talk"

By David Morris

"What's all this talk about honor systems on our campus. Who ever started this jazz anyway. It must have been those creeps that organized that honor forum last semester. Well, Man let me tell you they'll never get me to squeal on my buddy. I just don't go for spy organizations."

When we consider the advisability of having an honor system on this campus, if even only in the classroom, such views as those expressed above are bound to come up. If we ever expect to see any type of honor system we must not consider such a subject as tabbo in our campus conversation. All students should have enough interest to discuss their honor system. Both the pro's and con's need to be carefully examined, but even consideration of a system will not be realized if the present attitude of "being one of the boys" continues to prevail. Too many students consider an honor system as something to talk about but to ignore in practice.

Unfortunately "honesty" to many students doesn't seem to be the best policy. Too many of us want to get ahead, but seem to forget that the end doesn't justify the means. An honor system makes us think of the means rather than the end. It isn't a practical method of eliminating cheating unless YOU cooperate and support the systme. One is not a stool pigeon, but rather duty bound to bring attention to offenses. If a person who cheats on a test or assignment makes a better grade than you, then you look bad. We thing honesty and good moral standards are okay but we're not willing to put such standards into practice in the class room, or even out of it. By the time we reach college age we have attained an independent status; if this matter of honor is taken lightly here, it may well be an easy pattern to follow in future endeavors.

I think that we all realize that an honor system could be both beneficial and disastrous. It needs to be discussed and clearly thought through. We don't need anyone to take the soap box and pound such a system down our throats. What we do need, however, is interest on the part of each student regarding this matter.

Why do we object to talk of an honor system? Is it because it asks us to be honorable? If we were, then such a system would not bother us. This implies that at present many of us are dishonorable and we'd rather not think about such things. Perhaps each of us has some knowledge of somewhat shady activities regarding our academic standing here on this campus. Perhaps we know that in order to answer to the best in oursleves we ought to be doing something about it but we're just not sure what our friends would think about us if we were to discuss honor in a bull session or two. After all, we've got to be "one of the boys."

I personally an not advocating the installation of such a system on this campus at present, UN-

(Continued on page five)

Dear Fellow Students,

I have asked the Echo for permission to write just a short note of thanks from "Anybody's Freshman" and myself. Just a little over a year ago now, a funny little guy with a rather pathetic look on his face, first came into life on my sketch pad. Because Freshmen are traditionally the scapegoats of any campus, and for want of a better name, I decided to call him "Anybody's Freshman." During the past year, his escapades have filled several sketch pads, a few of which have been reproduced on these pages. It has been my intent to create a cartoon with which you all could at one time or another, sympathetically identify yourselves. His thoughts are your thoughts, his troubles are your troubles. In fact, what he does depends upon what you do; for, it is from your experiences as college students, that he derives his inspiration.

"Anybody's Freshman" is still an infant as cartoons go, perhaps someday he will "grow up." If you would like to see more of him in print in the future, won't you please tell him so. He was created by you, and for you. My job is only to bring him to life. And now, speaking for both of us, let me express my sincerest thanks for your encouragement and appreciation. And whenever in the course of your college career, the "going gets tough", just remember the days when YOU were "Anybody's Freshman."

Sincerely yours,
Ralph Ayers

Scots And Soda

Steve Mouton

Spection —— Intro and Retro

It was not so many a year ago in a small town in Tennessee
That a college existed that you may know by the name of old M.C.
T'was nestled away in the great foothills of the Smokey Mountains
Park
And t'was here I came as a simpering frosh, way back in the Ages
Dark.
What impressed me most when I first arrived
Was the friendly atmosphere that thrived.
I was greeted by "Hi" everywhere I went
As bubbling enthusiasm was given its vent.
Somewhat bewildered by college life
I felt somewhat of an inward strife.
Dorm life was great as was the Dining Hall too
Never saw such varieties on just plain old stew.
Chapel would find me each sunny morn
Looking half asleep and somewhat forlorn
Yet I came each day at 8 o'clock Ante Meridian
And heard all about David, Samuel, and Gideon
To say nothing of hymns which I soon memorized
As I bellowed forthwith of the "morn gilded skies."
Chapel somehow stands out from all other activity
As the trip there aech morn becomes somewhat a proclivity.
I especially recall the frequent guest speakers
Ranging from comics to many deep thinkers.
February brought always its annual meetings
When Barrie and John extended their greeting
And my how the hymn-singing really did move
As Barrie got the Steinway out of its groove.
Besides Chapel, though other things were important
Artist Series, for instance, brought a glamourous deportment.
It was here that my cultural taste gots its advancement
For exposed I became to what music and dance meant.
Playhouse too, offered for my aesthetic cravings
Humor, and music and great tragic ravings.
It was here I discovered much to my surprise
The fun of an audinece before my eyes
And I acted and worked on many productions
And oft times my sleep took some drastic reductions.
But honestly, I never begrudged one little minute
For t'was worth all for the fun I had in it.
Academically speaking, college was work,
Studies and reading were nothing to shirk.
Now that's over, my college career finally complete
It wasn't exactly the foreboding feat
Tha tI had imagined it, my freshman year
And somehow I've managed to reach the point here,
At the threshold of life at its starkest
And once more I'm simpering as in Ages Darkest.
The thought of life far away from my Alma Mater.
Seems like having to go without bread and water.
But leave I must with all other seniors,
And enter once more upon life's many green years.
To you who remain I bid a most fond farewell,
I'm sure that we'll meet again someday. . .

MOVED AND SECONDED

Ron Pearson

I find that in writing this article my mind is filled with the ultimate in optimism. There is no looking back, only a deeply moving feeling of the challenge and the responsibility of the coming year.

Every paper you pick up and almost every magazine te'ls of enthusiasm and action that is replacing the old complacencies and the heavy apathies of our student generation. As trite as it may sound it is "exciting to be alive and a part of all that's happening". It is certainly exciting to anticipate the "new year" and the endeavors that await our consideration and support. Looking ahead I would make this suggestion for your individual thinking before next year begins.

Properly given and properly undertaken, participation offers an important lesson to all of us. The student who is a part of his own education is likely to acquire a far deeper sense of actual responsibility for himself and those around him than is the student who is only held responsible.

Participation has a lot to offer. The participating student will become enough involved in the life of the college community to acquire an understanding of its functions and the role it plays in the world around it. The act of participation will also pull the student away from himself, his clique, his narrow field of interest, and grant to him a larger loyalty. If he will engage himself in activities of consequence to the larger group, he will automatically sense a responsibility for that group.

More than anything else, I hope that next year we can develop a lasting loyalty to Maryville College and to ourselves as possibly the most important part of it. When we graduate from this ol' place, we should be proud of our accomplishments, of what we've learned and the way we've performed.

John Sloan Dickey wrote in The Atlantic in 1955, "The American student at the peak of his physical powers and appetites, driving three hundred and seven big white horses across the scenes of an increasingly weird world, with week-end money in his pocket and with little prior exposure to trouble and tragedy, personifies an accident going out to happen." The way WE effectively use OUR energies is of great importance to US. If we can tie them in with lessons in responsibility they will help to fulfill some of the goals of our education for the kind of life we must lead to carry out our promise of significant service to the things and the God we believe in.

I urge each of you who plan to return next year to decide now to join in active participation within the whole program program of Maryville College. You are needed! You will be welcomed!

Yours very truly and sincerely,
Ron Pearson

"Looking at Books — Election Year"

CANDIDATES 1960.

Edited by Eric Sevaried

Basic Books, New York, 1959

Rarely has an objective political treatise appeared in the months preceding a presidential election; almost never has there been so wide coverage given both parties, in one volume. 1960 will be a crucial year for Republicans and Democrats, and the turning point of the decade for one or the other. Candidates 1960 presents the issues in a subtle way: through the men behind them.

November, 1960 promises to be the culmination of years—in some cases, lifetimes—of political planning. The election derives its power from the nominees; the conventions will center around the outsatnding leaders of each party. Nixon, to whom 2 articles are devoted) and even Rockefeller receive detailed attention in the book; the Democratic hopefuls Humphrey, Symington, Johnson, and Kennedy are introduced; a Stevenson chapter dispels any doubt that the former Illinois governor is out of the running, and "Of Horses, Dark and Otherwise" discusses the qualifications of any possible last minute tiebreakers.

Candidates 1960, already having caused some literary and political stir, is a collection of nonpartisan essays on each of the strongest possible presidential nominees. A biographical ent is emphasized, with a view to experience, personality, statesmanship, political philosophy, and anything else that might be expected of the next White House occupant. Written in the summer of '59 by Washington's best informed correspondents, the work has been edited by newsman Eric Sevaried. His introductory remarks, "The Ideal Candidate," seem under the surface to be disparaging of Eisenhowerism; the other writers have managed to keep their observations unbiased, and eulogizing comments are at a minimum.

Whatever else it may be, the book is extremely easy to read. Simple statement of material, wide scope, and objectivity are its characteristics. Candidates 1960 also has a tendency to arouse latent political interest in its readers. Virtually anything one needs to know about the aspirants is here in compact and well ordered form. And it has a line for future business, too: one of these fellows is sure to be the next president of the Uninted States.

Books Due May 12 In School Library

All library books are due Thursday, May 12. Each student must clear his record at the library before withdrawal tickets will be issued. This includes the paying of all fines at the library and the returning of all books. In addtion to the regular fines for books returned late, a negligence fee of 50c will be charged if books are not in the library by Tuesday, May 17, at 4:30 p.m.

Beginning Saturday morning, May 14 at 10:30 withdrawal tickets will be issued to students who have completed exams. If a student completes his exams earlier and is leaving before this hour, special arrangements will be made at the library to issue the ticket.

A list of unpaid fines and overdue books will be posted in the Dining Hall and Thaw Lobby on Monday, May 16, in the afternoon.

Kinsinger Gives Closing Recital

The last Faculty Recital for the 1959-1960 season will feature Dan H. Kinsinger, Tenor. Mr. Kinsinger's recital will be held Monday, May 9, in the FAC Music Hall at 8:00 p.m. He will be accompanied by his wife, Bertha Kinsinger.

Mr. Kinsinger's program is as follows::

British and American Music 1590-1950

A Book of Ayres (1601)
Turne Back You Wanton Flyer ..... Thomas Campian
Now Winter Nights Enlarge ... Thomas Campian
Thrice Tosse These Oaken Ashes .... Thomas Campian
Ode from Ossian's Poems .. ... Francis Hopkinson
De Glendy Burke Stephen Foster
Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair . Stephen Foster
King Olaf Heard the Cry (King Olaf) .. Edward Elgar

INTERMISSION

Five Quatrains from the Rubaiyat . James H. Rogers
A Book of Verses underneath the Bough
The moving Finger writes
Yet ah, that Spring should Vanish with the Rose
For Some we Loved
So when that Angel of the Darker Drink
Peter's Dreams (Peter Grimes) Benjamin Britten
The Mystical Songs Alec Rowley
Three Jolly Shepherds
The Prophecy
The Birthday

Sr. Music Hour

Th Senior Music Hour will be held on Sunday, May 15, at 4:00 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall. The program for the Music Hour will be announced later in chapel.

"Y" Holds Retreat At Laurel Lake

Laurel Lake again proved the setting for the annual "Y" old-and-new cabinet retreat. Friday evening, April 29, Dean McClelland, Miss Moser, National Secretary of YWCA for this district, Dr. Lynn, and Chuck Moffett presented a kick-off panel discussion concerning Y's work intrenationally, locally, and on the campus. After the discussion, Mr. Warren Rutledge led square dances.

Saturday morning, after morning watch, the groups split up into small discussion groups. Some of the topics included were: community relations; programming, purpose of "Y" on Maryville College Campus, coordination with other campus groups; and "Y's" stand in national and world affairs. Following these discussions were old committee meetings, new committee meetings, and cabinet meetings.

After dinner, cabinets were entertained by Mr. Rutledge, the Nu Gamma girls and the Ten Key Men. Sue Fagan and Chuck Moffett, incoming presidents of the YWCA and YMCA, respectively, summarized the week-end and presented the motto, "Whence cometh our help." Mr. Rutledge then conducted the dedication service, after which all returned to Maryville.

MUSIC EVERY NIGHT
"Y" Radio Sundays
at 9:00 P.M.
WGAP
1400 KC

Nothing New To Say About Pieces In Art Show; But Several Prove Good

While there are several outstanding pieces, the student art show is not at its best this semester.

From the beginning classes I particularly noticed two pastels, Mary McCampbell's "Ode to Statue of Liberty" and Mary Gray Goodwin's "Dawn and Despair". Mrs. Sloane's unnamed tempora of a lost child was also good.

Graphics are impressive on the whole. Some better Sergraphs are Ralph Ayers "Negro," Jim Gamble's "The Fool," and Charlotte Cathey's "Three Marys." From the etchings Ralph Ayers' color "Intaglio" stands out as a difficult attempt well done.

The oils lack novelty on the whole, but some are noticeable, four of which are on a city theme: Mickey Van Metre's "Tall City," Norm Patterson's "City Nocturne," Dave McCahan's "Dusk on the Back Street," and Jan Peterson's "Mexico City." Also Ron Randon's "Birthday Party" and Jan Peterson's "Woman" stand out.

The metal enameling section is good, but the ceramics is disappointing. Helen Rankin's and Dave Pierce's coil cylinders and Mickey Van Metre's blue wheel bowl are perhaps the best in this division.

There is a rich collection of sculpture highlighted by Mickey Van Metre's "Reclining Woman" and Susie Fagan's "Mother and Child."

The most disappointing aspect of the show was a lack of true originality. After mentioning particulars, I agree with John Canaday of the New York Times who said this about a review with the same problem: "But somehow these add up to nothing. They are not 'exciting'—the key word in contemporary art criticism—because their idiom has become familiar. Above all, there is nothing new to say about them."

All this means nothing unless you can compare your views with mine. Go; see it; and judge for yourself.

NSA Conference Endorses Sit-Ins

(UPS) "We shall overcome, We shall overcome, We shall overcome someday," (new words to an old Negro spiritual becoming a theme song for the Sit-In Movement), resounded forcefully from the walls of the All Souls Unitarian Church in Washington, D.C. this week-end expressing the opinion of the over 400 students from 38 states who had gathered there for a USNSA sponsored National Student Conference on the Sit-In Movement.

After a day and a half of listening to informed speakers and discussing the issue among themselves, delegates to the Conference passed resolutions endorsing the Sit-In Movement, condemning reprisal actions of government and educational officials, supporting the ideology of nonviolence, recognizing student responsibility and the need for student action, and calling for increased interregional cooperation in both the North and South. They passed six resolutions in all.

The Conference began Friday evening with a general session giving the history of the movement. Speaking for the Negro students who have been involved in the Sit-Ins were Al Rozier, editor of the campus newspaper at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical school and Bernard Lee, former student body president at Alabama State.

Rozier's and Lee's history of the movement was followed by analysis of the sit-ins by human relations experts Max Heirich of th eAmerican Friends Service Committee and Paul Rilling of the Southern Regional Council.

Mr. Heirich cited the many positive steps that have come out of the movement: the establishment of Mayors Advisory Committees on Human Relations, and participation in picket lines by dignified Negro community leaders.

Mr. Rilling made several points that were echoed by many others throughout the week-end. First, he emphasized the need to make the movement a truly national one, pointing out that segregationists gain much comfort from the manifestation of indecision in other areas. And second, the sit-in is not an end in itself. Or as another speaker put it later on, "Dime stores are (merely) the vehicle which is turning attention to the moral issue of equality of opportunity."

Mahendra Widjesinghe, a graduate student from Ceylon, received a standing ovation for an extremely perceptive sociological analysis of the situation based on the white man's desire to maintain "order" and his own supremacy over the Negro in the process.

Other speakers Friday evening were: Warren Wickersham, President of the Men's Student Government at Duke University; James Alrutz, President, Methodist Student Movement and Allard Lowenstien, former President of USNSA.

Saturday morning's session gave a picture of the supporting action in other parts of the country. Speaking on the point, Rolf Kjolseth, graduate student and instructor in sociology at the University of Colorado, stated that the Northern students owe a great debt to the Southern students for dramatically articulating this issue in all of its magnitude. He said that eleven student organizations at Colorado have sanctioned picket lines and each contributse personnel to the pickets held in downtown Boulder every Saturday. The ninth picket was held April 23.

Mr. Kpolseth and Sam Bowles, student from Yale University, emphasized the increased awareness of the entire segregation problem that the movement has brought to the North. The final speaker on Saturday morning was Curtis Gans, National Affairs Vice President of the National Student Association.

After a break for lunch, students met in groups of ten to twenty to discuss what they thought ought to be done from no won. All groups seemed to emphasize a need for plans to carry the movement over the summer months when schools are not in session and a need for continued fund raising efforts.

Plenary sessions began about 6:00 and, with only a 45 minute break for dinner, continued until about 11:30 that evening. Six of the resolutions which had come out of the afternoon's discussion groups were passed before the meeting was called because there was not a quorum present.

The Conference was made possible through a grant from the Taconic Foundation.

Debaters Come Through With Success

The Debate team for 1959-1960 had an eventful year. The first tournament was the Peachtree Tournament held at Atlanta, Ga., in which there were 11 rounds of debate. The affirmative team of David Pierce and Donald Leo came in second with five wins and one loss, and the negative team of Howard McCuen and Dale Young came in third in their respective divisions. Together they took second in men's sweepstakes. Donald Leo at this tournament also took the honor of being the best male speaker with a total of 129 points out of 150.

The second tournament was at Boone, North Carolina at Appalachian State Teachers College. Donald Leo and Robert Reidenbach received first place as the best negative team with a record of five wins and no losses. Donald Lee received first place for the best negative speaker in the men's division. Robert Connor and Stephen Graham took first place in the men's affirmative division with two wins and three losses. Other individual honors went to Robert Connor, second best affirmative speaker in the men's division.

Between this last tournament and the state tournament in the second semester the debaters were instructed to work on debate over Christmas holidays.

On February 11, 12, and 13, the Tennessee State Forensic Tournament was held at Maryville. Judy Null and Arlene Ford true by sending two men's teams Judy Null received the award for the second best woman debater. While Arlene Ford and Joyce Williams received second place in women's peace oratory, while David Pierce received second place in the same event in the men's division. All these awards revealed the fact that in the season of 1959-1960, Maryville College had the second best debate squad in Tennessee.

On March 3, 4, and 5, 1960, Dr. Arda S. Walker, who wanted to see if th eold slogan "United we stand, divided we fall" was true by sneding two men's teams to the South Atlantic Forensic Tournament to Lenoir Rhyne, Hickory, North Carolina, and some teams down to the Magnolia Tournament at Mississippi State College for Women, Columbus, Mississippi. The team of David Pierce and Donald Leo received a "Superior" rating by winning all five of their debates, on both sides of the question, "Resolved: that the Congress of the United States should have the power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Cour.t" Individual honors went to Caroline McCaskill, who received an "Excellent" rating in after dinner speaking, and Donald Leo, who acquired a "Good" rating in extemporanious speaking. Meanwhile in the East, at Lenoir Rhyne College, the team of Eugene Fieg and Howard McCuen tied for first place as the best negative team. Donald Jackman and Robert Reidenbach were the second best affirmative speakers in the men's division.

Donald Jackman received first place as the best male debater while Howard McCuen received second place in the same category and won first place in extemporaneous speaking. Dr. Walker proved that the slogan is false when the Maryville debate squad is concerned.

On March 24, 25, and 26, 1960, the debate team tried their skill at the Pi Kappa Delta Provincial Tournament held at Middle Tennessee State College, Murfreesboro, Tennessee. The teamwork of Joyce Williams and Arlene Ford rseulted in an "Excellent" rating and David Pierce and Howard McCuen used the same cause and effect theory and received an "Excellent" rating in the men's division.

Individual awards went to Joyce Williams who obtained a "Good" rating in after-dinner speaking, a "Good" rating in oratory. Arlene Ford took a "Good" rating in the same event, and Howard McCuen won an "Excellent" rating in original oratory for men, David Pierce received a "Good" rating in extemporaneous speaking.

The debate squad of Maryville College had a very successful year and great respect and congratulations should be given to Dr. Arda S. Walker, who led the team on to victory and should also be given to the students who participated and cooperated with her.

Alumni Schedule Activities

The annual Alumni Day program held Saturday, May 14, will be a part of the full schedule for Commencement week-end. One of the largest crowds in quite some time is expected for the reunions.

An Alumni dinner will be held on Saturday night at Pearson's Hall for the fifty-year class. And a luncheon is scheduled at the Chilhowee Inn for the 25-year class. A novel feature this year will be an Alumni Grab-bag. Several tables of pictures and snapshots taken in the past ten or fifteen years at Maryville will be placed on exhibition in the Theatre lobby.

The Calm After The Storm: A Lucid Look At Sit-Ins

National Student Conference on the Sit-In Movement may not have been the action drafting affair many hoped it would be, it was a truly educational experience for all who attended.

Even the casual observer could sense the aura of involvement and the desire to learn how the other person had dealth with the problem. Everywhere you could see people exchanging addresses so that they could keep in touch after the Conference had ended.

It was particularly effective as an eye opener for those from outside the South and it is a real shame that more of them could not have attended. Anyone who has said this thing is led by riff-raff, or is just a flash in the pan type thing would surely have been shaken by meeting some of its leaders—cool headed and soft spoken, sometimes even quietly amused, you can't help but see that these are students who have done a lot of thinking about what they are doing and how they are doing it.

Talking with the Southerners really made these things come alive. It is one thing to casually skim a sentence in the papers stating that the authorities turned water hoses on demonstrators in such a city, but it is rather another when a student tells you that he has had the clothes ripped right off his body, the water pressure is so strong.

We never want to let our faces reveal pain or fear, one North Carolina sutdent said, so before going on our first sit-in, we prepare ourselves for what we might meet by hitting one another and spitting in each others faces. But "even if someone got killed we wouldn't stop. . . because we want to get rid of this whole nasty business."

For the sit-inners too it was an education, for they could see how very deeply many Northern students felt about the whole problem. Especially it must have lifted them to learn that it was forcing Northerners to "examine the moat in their own eye". We are working to desegregate local housing facilities, said a student ffrom Yale; our administration is actively seeking Negro faculty, said a mid-westerner; it has made our community take a closer look at the Spanish-American problem, said a Coloradan.

Both sides of the picture were presented in terms of concrete gains and losses, permitting the participant to decide for himself whether or not the movement is a good thing. Cited on the pro side were: the establishment of Mayor's Committees which, in many cases, represented the first official recognition in recent years that racial problems should be dealt with by the city government; the awakening conscience of students in particular and the public in general; the real respect Negroes have gained in many areas of the South for the manner in which they have been met.

Students against the movement spoke too, stating that it has "only increased racial bitterness in the South", that the groups who were at least discussing the problem before February I will not even sit down together now; that before we integrate the races we need to raise the educational standards of the Negroes, and that it has brought adverse reactions such as the new trespassing laws in Alabama.

In the light of these things, perhaps one Mr. Stern, Negro student at Texas Christian set to face trial this week summed things up pretty well when, at the Conference's close he said, "Don't worry about passing resolutions, it is far more important that you have exhausted all possible lines of thought on the problem."

General Assembly To Hold Breakfast For M.C. Friends

Each year at the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA Maryville College holds a breakfast for alumni and friends of the College. This year it will be 7:15 a.m., Saturday, May 21, at the Auditorium Hotel, in Cleveland, Ohio, just across the street from the Auditorium where the Assembly is meeting. Posters will be put up in the Auditorium for those who wish to attend to sign up—students, parents, and other friends are welcome.

Directors Meet

The Spring Meeting of the Directors was held yesterday. There are two stated meetings each year known as the Fall Meeting and the Spring Meeting. The principal business done at the Spring Meeting has to do with the awarding of degrees, the personnel, and plans for the coming year. Most of the business items are handled in the Fall Meeting since the fiscal year does not close until May 31.

For A Firm Foundation
WEAR
SOUTHERN SHOES
116 W. Broadway

Sheaffer - Cartridge Pen Kit
3.00 Value only 98c
CITY DRUG

WATCH BANDS
½ Price Sale
Speidel, Jemex
Broadway Jewelers

Congratulations Seniors!
Minton's wishes for your continued sucess in your chosen field.
We will be looking forward to serving those who return in the fall, with smart, stylsh young men's and ladies' clothes.
Remember Minton's for your back-to-school wardrobe carefully chosen from nationally advertised lines, both sport and dress.
Have a nice summer!
MINTON'S
Broadway, Maryville

SEASON CLOSES FOR VARSITY

The spring sports program has come to a close. The team records of all three sports, baseball, tennis and track all show losing seasons but the endings were bright. The tennis team walloped Tennessee Wesleyan 9-0 in their closing match not even giving up one set. The track team ran away with Tusculum 96-35 after losing its other outings to Carson-Newman twice, Cumberland, East Tennessee State, Tennessee Tech once each. The baseball teams came out of a season long batting and fielding slumps to rout Hiwassee 15-3 to put a brief bright note on an otherwise disappointing season.

None of our teams will be affected a great deal by graduation fortunately. The track team, tennis squad and baseball team lose one man each due to graduation.

TRACK

The cindermen put up a fine showing against stiff opposition in their first campaign and there is a great deal of optimism as for as future successes in track are concerned. Coach Tomlinson molded a fine squad of boys and he and his charges should be commended on a creditable showing in their initial season. Some of the members to look for next year who have gained valuable experience this season are Hank Andrews, Perry Tooker, Denny Mobbs, Ed Milam, Karl Dillar, Dave Cost, Jim Moore, Danny Johnston, Doug Mincy, Scott Bucher, Frank Griffitts, Bryson Struse, Don Buddle, Keith Day, Jim Baxter, John Vordonis, Ed Smith and Bill Ward. Don Buddle is the only senior on the squad.

TENNIS

The tennis team wound up with a 4-11 record under Coach Lynn Sexton, his first year at the helm. With a few breaks going their way that record might have been considerably altered. The match that ended the season, however, made some of those defeats a little easier to take. Again an optimistic outlook is noted as the squad will lose one man, Tom Eberhard the no. one man on the squad. Tom also captained the 1960 squad. Those lettering were as follows: George Poland, Ron Reading, Dick Heischman, Roger Nooe, Bob Johnston, Jeff Grote and Tom Eberhard.

BASEBALL

The baseball team had the going rough this spring. Too many errors in the field and those dangerous "mental" errors as well. These mount up to losing seasons and make coaches' hair turn grey. The team thus lacked experience and depth. Many boys had to play two or three positions which isn't a healthy situation.

The hitting was generally weak with a few scattered exceptions. All in all, it was a poor campaign. Many games were thrown away by errors that opponents were quick to take advantage of The squad is not bothered by graduation except for the loss of pitcher Fred Tepper. Every other position finds a returning letterman. This should bring with it an improved season record for 1961.

This year M. C. had a unique situation in that all three spring sports had new coaches. It is disappointing that their first seasons weren't winning seasons but nevertheless they should be credited and acknowledged for a job well-done. Best of luck in '61.

White Office Machines
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

ON HONOR . . .

(Continued from page one)

LESS it has been thoroughly examined and has whole hearted student support. We need to think about it, it is important! I submit for your consideration the possibilities that each one of us have to discuss, examine, and think plainly and seriously about individual honor on this campus. It is my personal hope that the discussions currently taking place will continue and thus increase the strength of our already recognized basis for concern.

Intramural Wrap-Up

The intramural softball league crowned the G-Strings as champions for the 1960 season as they defeated their nearest competitor the Alpha Sig Hammers 14-11 to wind up the campaign undefeated. The Hammers with one game remaining against the Kappa Phi Knights can do no better than second place.

The standings:	W	L
G-Strings	7	0
Hammers	5	1
Falcons	4	3
Knights	3	3
Sledgehammers	3	4
Barons	2	5
Aces	1	6
KKK	0	7

Mr. Sexton was director of the intramural program along with Paul Burger and Bob Kallstrom. This coupled with his duties as tennis coach kept Mr. Sexton busy but he did the jod and did it well and our hats are off to him.

Awards for participation in intramurals will be made at a later date.

Exam Schedule

No classes Wednesday, May 11

Seniors Only

Wednesday, May 11
9:00-11:00 F4, FL4, F3, FL3, F2
1:00-3:00 X
3:30-5:30 Ax3, Ax2

All Students

Thursday, May 12
9:00-11:00 A4, AL4, A3, AL3, Az2
1:00-3:00 B4, BL4, B3, BL3, BL2, Bz2
3:30-5:30 Bx3, Bx2

Friday, May 13
9:00-11:00 C4, CL4, C3, CL3, CL2, Cz2
1:00-3:00 Cx3, Cx2, Cy2
3:30-5:30 Dx3 Dx2

Saturday, May 14
9:30-11:30 D4, DL4, D3, DL3, Dz2
1:30-3:30 Ex3, Ex2

Monday, May 16
3:30-11:30 E4, E3, E2

All except seniors

Monday, May 16
1:30-3:30 F4, FL4, F3, FL3, F2

Tuesday, May 17
9:30-11:30 Fx2, X
1:30-3:30 Ax3, Ax2

SENIORS
Keep
Up
On
The Latest
At
M.C.

SUBSCRIBE
To The ECHO For Next Year
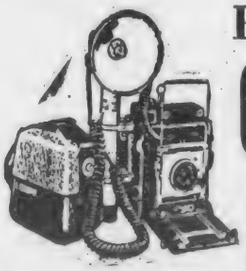
Only 75c a Semester

DRESS RIGHT!
THE SHOE BOX
The latest in "Smart" Styles for Young People

STUDENT Special!
Thick Milkshakes—15c
Above with small Hamburger—25c
With Activity Card—Monday thru Friday
MY COUSIN

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and MILK
Smoother, richer, better tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Graduation Gifts
Mother's Day Candy
Belle Camp — Pangburns
Bryne Drug Co.



For Your Floral Needs,
See—Charles Crissman—Agent for
HORNE'S FLORIST
Formerly Chandler's
Phone YU 2-2690 207 W. Broadway

THE LIGHT TOUCH WITH Weyenberg shoes for men
NEW GENUINE ComFlex PROCESS CONSTRUCTION

Soft, smooth, and sheared of every extra ounce . . . that's extra-flexible new ComFlex construction . . . the light way to make men's shoes.
$10.89
Badgett Store Co.

Complete Selection of Cameras, Films, Essentials — plus Camera Rental Service
PARK DRUG STORE
CAMERA STORE
SECOND FLOOR
EVERYTHING FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER
106 EAST BROADWAY DIAL YU2-1670

SENIORS REVEAL . . .

(Continued from page 1)

tary education major from Columbus, Ohio, will be married and then plans to teach in North Carolina. Richard Conway, a voice major from Pittsburgh, hopes to work with a church choir. Evelyn Crane, an elementary education major from Somerville, New Jersey, intends to teach in California. Bryant Cureton, a music theory major from Washington, New Jersey, hopes to enter graduate school.

Dorcas Curtis, an elementary education major from Friendsville, Tennessee, will be teaching in Florida. Robert Davies, a math major from Maryville, plans to do graduate work at Florida State University.

Tom Eberhard, a history major from Cincinnati, Ohio, will be married this summer; this fall he will be teaching seventh grade in Hampton, Virginia. John Edgar, a political science major from Highland Park, New Jersey, will either join the armed forces or enter law school.

Doris Engle, an English major from Princeton, New Jersey will continue her schooling. Susan Fowell, an English major from Yandley, Pennsylvania, will combine work and school. Leon Gabrielian, a German major from Los Angeles, plans to do graduate work at U.C.L.A.

John Gilmore, a philosophy major from Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, will be married in June; he will then enter Emory Univresity to work on his master's and Ph. D. degrees.

Jeanne Ginaven, an English major from Xenia, Ohio intends to work this sumer; in the fall she will travel to France to work and study.

Carleen Gregory, a Spanish major from Maryville, plans to teach Spanish. Frank Griffith, a health and physical education major from LaFollette, Tennessee, hopes to work and continue his schooling.

Barbara Gronbach, a biology major from Palos Heights, Illinois, is going to work at Presbyterian-St. Luke Hospital in Chicago; she will be married in December.

Robert Gwaltney, an English major from San Jose, California, will work as a tour escort for American Express Company this summer; in the fall he will enter McCormick Seminary to prepare for the Presbyterian ministry.

Ray Hannah, a chemistry major from Maryville, plans to do graduate work at Auburn University. William Hoffner, a biology major from Drexel Hill, Pennsvania, will go to school and teach. Keith Howard, a psychology major from Mooresvlile, North Carolina, is planning to work. Charles Justice, a music major from Maryville, will continue his schooling.

Robert Kallstrom, an economics major from Hialeah, Florida, will enter Texas Technological College to do graduate work. Reda Kay, a sociology major from Miami, Florida, will be married in June; she will then live in Miami and work for the Department of Public Welfare as a caseworker.

Douglas Koehler, a chemistry major from New Hope, Pennsylvania, intends to enter graduate school at the University of Georgia this fall. Ann Leitch, a Christian education major from Tulsa, Oklahoma, plans to enter Tulsa University graduate school of religion ot work on her masters degree.

Rosemary Lee, an elementary education major from Coral Gables, Florida, will teach swimming this summer; next fall she plans to teach second grade in Florida. David McCahan, a history major from Port Royal, Pennsylvania, will do graduate work either at Rochester or Washington, D. C.. Phillip McGaha, a biology major from North Carolina, will go on to school. Howard McCuen, an English major from Malvern, Pennsylvania, plans to enter Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

Helen Martenis, an elementary education from Elkton, Maryland, will be working in the Gary Neighborhood House in Gary, Indiana as a children's worker. Mimi Mattes, an English major from Rochester, New York, intends to teach in Melbourne Beach, Florida this fall.

David Morris, an English major from Pennsauken, New Jersey, is going to enter Drew University graduate school of theology this fall. Joyce Morris an elementary education major from Louisville, Kentucky, will be working. James Morris, a physical education major from Indiana, will also be working.

Stephen Mouton, from New York City, will be teaching English while attending graduate school to work on his master's degree in psychology. Leah Mucario, a dietitics major from New Jersey, will be married and then plans to attend school.

Ann Newcomer, a Christian education major from Atlanta, intends to enter graduate school. Norman Patterson, an art major from Bluefield, W. Virginia, plans to continue his schooling. Judy Peroy, an elementary education major from Lowellville, Ohio, will be teaching in Aberdeen, Washington this fall.

Jan Peterson, an English major from Davenport, Iowa, plans to enter Stanford University in California. Dave Pierce a political science major from Pennsville, New Jersey, hopes to combine work and school. Jane Planitzer, a sociology major from Lawrence, Massachusetts, will be married and return to Maryville to work. Joseph Quinn, a history major from Philadelphia, plans to work with the Y.M.C.A.

Ron Randon, a drama major from Fairview, New Jersey, will enter graduate school.. Helen Rankin, a history major from Amarillo, Texas, will be working in Colorado this summer; in September she will work in Houston. Peggy Reid, an English major from Worcester, Massachusetts, will be married in August; later she will teach in Kansas. Margaret Reynolds, an elementary education from Beaver, Pennsylvania, does not have any definite plans for the coming months.

Randall Rosensteel, an English major from Mount Union, Pennsylvania, hopes to enter Drexel Institute of Technology to work on his master's dgree in library science. Margaret Sample, a Christian education major from Maryville, will work as the education assistant in the First Methodist Church of Morristown, Tennessee. Dona Sarver, a health and physical education major from Louisville, Kentucky, will work in a camp in New Hampshire this summer; this fall she will teach.

Mary Schmidt, a music major from Paulsboro, New Jersey, plans to enter graduate school. Dan Greaser, a chemistry major from Maryland and Tennessee, will begin work this June as an associate chemist with the Union Carbide Corporation at Oak Ridge. Nancy Smith, a psychology major from Knoxville, will be married this May; later she will do graduate work in psychology.

Patricia Smith, a biology major from La Grangeville, New York, is undecided whether to work, travel, or go to school. Edward Smith, a physical education major from Maryville, will probably combine work and school. Claude Smith, a biology major from Binghamton, New York, hopes to go into research work. Edgar Smith, a philosophy major from Holly Hill, Florida, will work during the summer; in the fall he will enter seminary, probably Louisville.

Mike Talley, a physical education major from Maryville, will continue his schooling. Carolyn Thomas, a physical education major from Maryville, plans to work. Sondra Wagner, a biology major from North Fort Myers, Florida, intends to enter graduate school.

Laine Warden, a biology major from Knoxville, is undecided about her plans for the future. She may be working or teaching or doing biological research and going to school. Dale Weyer, a business administration major from Iow aCity, Iowa, will be married in June; in September he plans to enter graduate school.

Make Reservations for Family and Friends now at the
2 Miles South on 411-129
Phone YU 2-3090

Maryville Motel

VAN'S BAKERY

1001 W. Broadway Ph.: YU 3-4413
YU 2-7920

We Specialize in Birthday Cakes
And Party Orders

WE DELIVER

Christian Book Nook

New Location

218 Court St.

Students always welcome

Buy The Best

From

Murphy-West Motor Co. Chevrolet Oldsmobile

Keepsake Diamonds

MOTHER'S DAY GIFTS

at

Maryville Jewelers

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

—Banking Services—

Checking Accounts
Savings Accounts
Christmas Club Savings
Transfer of Funds
Banking from Your Car
Night Depository Service

—Your College Bank—

We Hate To Say Good-Bye—

It's been wonderful knowng you—
It's been pleasant serving you—
To those who Graduate our Best Wishes and congratulations—
To those coming back next year our Best Wishes for a Wonderful Vacation—

PROFFITT'S

MEN'S DEPT.

1960 - 1961

New Scholarships Go To Freshmen

Fifteen incoming freshmen have received scholarships, valued at $150 each, from the fund set up by Dr. and Mrs. John L. Kind. These fifteen, the first recipients of the fund, were chosen on the basis of their scores on the College Entrance or the ACTP, and on their personality, character, and general ability to benefit from a college education.

Names and home towns are as follows: Patricia Anderson, Bloomfield, New Jersey; Hall Blankenship, Rockwood, Tennessee; Meredith Brewer, Kansas City, Kansas; Judy Cate, Clinton, Tennessee; Charlotta Cook, East Liverpool, Ohio; Ernest Cox, Maryville, Tennessee; Margaret Dozier, Decatur, Georgia; Kenneth Harrison, Enterprise, Alabama; Dorothy Ann Heagen, Ezel, Kentucky; Bruce Hensley, Weaverville, North Carolina; Jane Hickey, Charlestown, Indiana; Bonnie Kuenzli, Louisville, Kentucky; Marjorie Lynne Loeffler, Beaver, Pennsylvania; Sandra Scofield, Glenside, Pennsylvania; and James Norman Skeen, Knoxville, Tennessee.

NIXON vs KENNEDY TO BE SEEN HERE

The TV Debate of Nixon vs Kennedy will be viewed Monday evening by MC students under the auspices of Hitch's Radio and TV of Maryville. Four other sets will be in the following places: the Fine Arts Center, the Kappa Phi and Alpha Sigma houses, and the lobby of the New Dorm. A discussion will follow in the Fine Arts Center refereed by one of the student leaders.

This service has been the engineering work of Don Harwood, president of the Senior class, with the help of Dave Doysher. The viewing times for the debate will be announced later.

NEW POTENTIALITIES

Fifteen new members of the College faculty have been appointed for this year.

Ruth E. Cowdrick, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is Associate Professor of French and Latin. She was a member of the Maryville College faculty from 1939 to 1948. She holds the B. A. degree from Barnard College, New York, the M. A. from the University of Pennsylvania, and the Ph. D. from Columbia University. She has also studied at the University of Paris and elsewhere in Europe. She has taught at Wittenberg College in Ohio and Colorado College, and now returns to Maryville to handle additional work in French as well as the courses in Latin formerly taught by Miss Evelyn Guss, who is continuing study toward her doctorate.

Roy Elwin Lindahl, Jr., of Ann Arbor, Michigan, is an Instructor in Classical Languages and Bible. He will teach the Greek courses formerly taught by Miss Guss, and will be an additional teacher in the field of Bible and Religion. Mr. Lindahl holds a B. A. degree from Monmouth College, Illinois, the B. D. from Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary in Pennsylvania, and the M. A. from the University of Michigan, where he has also made considerable progress toward his doctor's degree.

Gayle Jemison Hoskins, of Raleigh, North Carolina, will be an Instructor in Art in the coming year, substituting for Assistant Professor Richard E. Beard, who is on Sabbatical Leave for study toward his doctorate at Ohio State University. Mr. Hoskins holds the bachelor's degree from the University of Florida, the master's from the University of North Carolina. He spent a year at the School for Art Studies in New York City and three years as a student in the Art Students' League, New York. His experience in the field of art has been in New York and North Carolina.

Irma Birkelbach, of Brooklyn, New York, succeeds Mr. Harvey S. Reber, who has retired because of health. Miss Birkelbach, in whose home German was the parents' native language, attended college at Brooklyn and Hunter Colleges in New York, and spent her last two years at Maryville, graduating cum laude in 1958. She received her M. A. in German from Indiana University this year, before coming back to Maryville as Instructor in German.

Douglas Barr John, of Lexington, Kentucky, has been appointed Instructor in History. He took undergraduate work at Center College in Kentucky and the University of Louisville, and received his master's degree from the latter. He has done additional work at the University of Chicago, and at the University of Kentucky where he is now a candidate for the Ph. D. degree.

C. Marshall Lowe, of Columbus, Ohio, is Assistant Professor of Psychology. He received the B. A. from Princeton University, the B. D. from Princeton Seminary, the M. A. from Ohio State, and is scheduled to receive the Ph. D. from the latter this year. Mr. Lowe is an ordained minister in the United Presbyterian Church, having held a pastorate in Newark, Ohio, for three years. For the past year he has been a psychology trainee at the Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Mitchell R. Van Metre of Maryville has been appointed Instructor in Art for the coming year, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Beard. Mr. Van Metre graduated at Maryville College in December, 1959, returning for the second semester for subsequent work in art.

E. Parker Dupler, of Knoxville, has been appointed Asociate Professor of Drama and Speech. He has in recent years been Theater and Lighting Consultant with Knoxville Scenic Studios, a nationally know firm. He designed and supervised installation, in 1954-55, of the extensive stage equipment and lighting for the Maryville College Theater, one of the best equipped college theaters in the United States.

Mr. Dupler holds degrees from Juniata College in Pennsylvania, and Catholic University of Washington, D. C. Before entering the business field in drama, he served as a faculty member in three leading universities: University of Kansas City, University of Texas, and University of Maryland.

Ann Barthold Stidham, of Steubenville, Ohio, is Instructor in Education. Mrs. Stidham received her bachelor's degree from Muskingum College in Ohio, and her master's degree from Northwestern. She has taught on the faculties of Muskingum and Milligan Colleges.

Eleanor Gresham Stanford, of Cordova, Tennessee, has been appointed Instructor in Home Economics. She received both her bachelor's and her master's degrees from the University of Tennessee.

Charles DeSanto, of Leavenworth, Indiana, has been appointed Assistant Professor of Bible and Religion. Dr. DeSanto is a native of Philadelphia, a graduate of Temple University there and of Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He holds the Doctor of Philosophy Degree from Duke University, and is an ordained minister n the United Presbyterian

Continued on Page 4

The Highland Echo

September 24, 1960 Vol. 46 — No. 1

Faculty Concert Series To Open

The first program in the 1960-61 Maryville College Fine Arts Concert Series will be presented in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center at 8:00 P.M. Friday, October 7. Faculty members who will appear on this program are Miss Katherine Crews, violinist, at Maryville College since 1950 in the field of Music Education, and Miss Ann Myers, pianist, at Maryville College since 1951 as instructor in piano and teacher of the Pre-School Music Class

Both Miss Crews and Miss Myers are members of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra. They will be assisted by Mrs. Anna Lou Beeler Raulston, pianist, and Mrs. Virginia Tharpe Raulston, violinist, of Knoxville, well-known in musical circles of this area.

The program incudes "Concerto in d minor for Two Violins" by Bach, performed by Miss Crews and Mesdames Raulston; "Sonata in A Major for Violin and Piano" by Brahms, performed by Miss Crews and Miss Myers; and "Suite Antique for Two Violins and Piano" by Stoessel, performed by Miss Crews and Mesdames Raulston.

McKAY WILL SPEAK

Dr. Arthur R. McKay, president of McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, will be in the community as speaker for the preaching mission at New Providence Presbyterian Church, speaking at the Maryville College chapel service on Tuesday morning, October 4.

1961 CHILHOWEAN LOOKS PROMISING

The fall semester of a new year finds the annual staff planning the 1961 Chilhowean. With the promise of new and different features, the staff is now in the process of talking book orders. The total cost is $5, but a deposit of $2 or $3 will be accepted.

In a few days a freshman representative will be chosen to complete the staff. All interested freshmen should submit a summary of previous experience and qualifications to Becky Kinnamon editor, or Beth Reichardt, business manager.

HONOR ROLL
Second Semester

SENIORS

Bradley, Dona Gail	2.46
Brininger, Elaine Louise	2.60
Cathy, Charlotte Marie	2.64
Engle, Doris Evelyn	2.25
Gabrielian, Leon	2.25
Gilmour, John Calvin	3.00
Gronbach, Barbara Jean	2.41
Leich, Elizabeth Ann	3.00
Pierce, David John	2.38
Planitzer, Jane Elizabeth	3.00
Reid, Margaret Elizabeth	2.60
Rhodes, Lessie Anne	2.75
Schmidt, Mary Deborah	2.76
Smith, Edgar Wright	2.40
Thomas, Carolyn Kay	2.25
VanMetre, Mitchell Robert	2.63
Walker, Edith Louise	2.57
Warden, Laine Rowe	2.58

JUNIORS

Bickford, Leonard Richard	2.80
Darling, Mary Elizabeth	2.50
Diller, Karl Conrad	2.80
Gould, Cheryl Elizabeth	2.33
Pearson, Charles Patrick	3.00
Shelley, Sarah Cannon	2.43
Smith, Sarah Rachel	2.33
Stefancic, Jean Ann	2.68
Stevenson, Margaret Elaine	2.41

SOPHOMORES

Aaron, Janet	2.75
Dalton, Brenda Nadine	2.38
Donaldson, Raymond Thomas	2.33
Dozier, Ellen Harris	2.56
Ford, Arlene Sandra	2.27
Fuhrman, Harriette Joanne	2.45
Irwin, Marion Prentice	2.25
Jenkins, Larry Parker	2.50
Lemme, Sue Ann	2.44
Nielson, Barbara Alice	2.51
Spencer, Bobbie H.	2.33
Waddington, Lynn Edith	2.37

FRESHMAN

Elliott, Paul Cherry	2.50
Herring, Mary Lynn	2.44
Jones, Sharon Lambert	2.66
McCamphell, Mary Faye	2.29
McCoy, Sue Ellen	2.25
Mahley, Robert William	2.25
Miles, Mildred Lynn	2.43
Privette, Janice Lynn	2.88
Stanley, Karen Mae	2.25
Walters, Janice May	2.76
Ward, Brenda Gail	2.68
Ward, William Frederick	2.47

DR. EBY TO SPEAK

The speaker at the vesper service on September 25 will be Dr. Barnett S. Eby, the pastor of New Providence Presbyterian Church.

OBJECTIVES CITED FOR STUDENT GOVT.

The following objectives were expressed to the freshmen during orientation week. It is felt that they would be valuable to the rest of the student body as well.

1. Maryville College looks on student government as (a.) responsibility shared by faculty with students; (b.) cooperative action of faculty and students; (c.) experience by students in good citizenship; (d.) opportunity for students to grow in leadership.

2. Student government has responsibilities to the student (a.) to create an atmosphere which will allow the student to move beyond the limits of everyday interests and to become a creative and contributing individual, (b.) to give the student an understanding of the interrelationships within the college community, (c.) to provide services for the welfare and the the enjoyment of the student, (d.) to provide opportunities for each student to participate in areas which develop his potential, (e.) to create an awareness of national and international affairs and of their significance for the individual.

3. The student has responsibilities to student government and to Maryville College (a.) to devote himself to increasing his knowledge and understanding of the world around him, in preparation for the fulfillment of himself as a human being, (b.) to recognize that only through striving to the highest academic achievement will he fulfill his responsibility to himself, his fellow students and his college, (c.) to seek, discuss, and stand for the truth as he sees it and as he learns it, (d.) to respect the rights of the faculty, the administration, and the student body and its leaders, (e.) to support and administer student government and all student organizations in a democratic manner, (f.) to recognize and use the appropriate channels when exercising his ideas concerning student government and all student organizations in a democratic manner, (f.) to recognize and use the appropriate channels when exercising his ideas concerning student government and the college community, (g.) to uphold his personal integrity, the integrity of his governing body, and the integrity of Maryville College.

Theta-Sig Week In Preparation

Theta Episilon society members, with extensive cooperation from their brother society Alpha Sigma, are now working on rush week plans for the freshman girls. The theme and accompanying activities for the period September 29 through October 1 are shrouded in secrecy by the rush week chairmen, Carol Greenwood and Faye Shelton.

The committee chairmen, Ann McLeod, Lois Lockett, Nancy Slack, Karen Stanley, Janet Kilgard, Susie Ann Wilson, Helen Moretz, Hildy Shaw, and Sari Semmer, are in charge of coordinating the work of the members for the elaborate preparations involved. Larry Sterns is the rush week chairman for the assisting men's society, Alpha Sigma.

Cathy Poole wrote and will direct the main show to be presented for the freshmen.

Officers of the Theta Episilon society are: Martha Messman, President; Sandy Poole, Vice President; Karen Stanley, Secretary; and Ann McIlhanny, Treasurer.

Robin Hood Theme For Rush Week

Chi Beta and Kappa Phi's rush week came to an end last night when the freshmen girls were escorted to the college wood amphitheatre to view the life of Robin Hood in Sherwood Forest as written by Roger Nooe and his committee.

Wednesday a jousting tournament was held on the football field to show the spirit of the time of Robin Hood. On Thursday the girls were guests at a tea and at "Ye Olde Roadhouse," a talent show headed by Peggy Reiter.

The chairmen for the rush week were Sue Lemme, Judy Agee, and Bob Reichenbach.

CONVOCATION 27th

The annual formal convocation will be on Tuesday, September 27, at the 8:00 a. m. chapel service. It is the usual practice for the President of the College to be the speaker on this occasion. The address by Dr. Lloyd this year will be on the subject of memory.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

September 24, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Ellen Dozier
Exchange Editor ..... Tammy Day
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors ..... Pat Crossley, Nancy Seeger, Don Leo
Typist ..... Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Bill Stueben
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Mail Box

Dear Miss Editor,

There is much talk today about trouble spots in the world such as the Congo, Cuba, etc. I should like to submit that Maryville College is a trouble spot. It's a trouble spot in the minds of most of its students, because every one seems to have so much trouble adjusting to the way of life at Maryville. Well, I'm sick of this bickering so I should like to present to you my views as to what makes up a good student.

In the first place, I think the student should accept the ways of Maryville College without questioning them or doubting their value. And about the complaints concerning our "cut" system, if a student hasn't by this time learned to want to learn, then I think it's up to the college to make darn sure he does learn. After all the college has a great responsibility to many people. Maryville College can't afford to have its students flunking out just because they're lazy.

The same thing is true of religion and these honor reports that everyone is talking about. The college can't expect a student with all his other activities to want theological knowledge, too. To make a long story short, it is up to the college administration to take every step possible to make sure that the student gets the most out of his money. My thanks then to the college higher-ups that make my daily decisions so much easier. —Mr. Lee Mea Lone

IN MEMORIAM

Virginia Blue, junior English major, of Friendsville, was one of the two persons killed in a plane crash September 6, at Chester, Pennsylvania. She is survived by her parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Blue of Friendsville, her sister, Mrs. George Givens of Dryden, N. Y., and her brothers, Donald and George Blue of Friendsville.

As We Start

It is the custom at MC for these letters to be directed from the president of the Student Body to its members. There has usually been an attempt to coerce, to challenge, or to beg the students to participate in the activities of an academic year. Rather than follow the old custom, I would like to tell you that the indications and implications of the opening week serve to coerce, challenge, and beg student council and myself to serve you in the coming year.

As early as the first of July correspondence began to indicate to me that there was a new interest and a new hope for the coming year. This feeling was heightened by the return of the YM and YW welcoming committees, and the eagerness with which they had planned their welcoming activities.

In the same manner of the football team, after arriving on the first, showed determination and willingness to couple a great spirit with some new-found and improved talent.

When Bill, Dean McClelland and myself presented the topic to the freshmen, the students' responsibility to student government, we were met with question and enthusiam which indicated that students who had only been on the campus two days had been caught up in the spirit and hopes for the coming year. This was followed by a marvelous mixer, a crowded football send-off, a spirited powwow and square-dance.

I believe that all of you, and when I say this, I mean the entire college community, have indicated a willingness and a dedication which, if continued, can make this one of the finest years the college has seen.

This overt optimism does not, however, mean that I feel that the year is won, it has only begun. There is no end of hard work in store for everyone who wants to participate. We had a great start—one which we can be proud of, and one for which I sincerely thank you. —Ron Pearson

Editorially Speaking

On Students

We are responsible for our own education. We come to college to learn what we believe; to establish our own identity; to formulate our relationships and responsibilities to our society and to our world; to solidfy our ideals. We seek personal independence.

If we are passive, i.e., if we seek only to be taught, then our college experience is of little value. The sole contribution of the passive student is the perpetuation of the existing order. He does not think; he accepts.

We, as students, strive to be active. We are not content merely to learn, we must also think, question, protest. If we only sit silently or perhaps whimper occasionally when ideals are sacrificed for expediency, we are of no value — to ourselves or to anyone.

We are responsible for our own education. We can be passive permitting our professors only to teach us. We can also will ourselves to be active students — active in thought, establishing our personal independence.

On Patriots

Nathan Hale was an American spy sent behind British lines by General George Washington. Mr. Hale was caught. He refused to talk. His last words at the gallows were "My only regret is that I have but one life to loose for my country."

Francis Powers was also an American spy who flew a U-2 over Russia. He was caught; but he talked—plenty. He disclosed the size of his unit, its location, its commander, and the number of reconnaisance flights it had made in the past—among other facts. He was sentenced to ten years.

Nathan Hale is now an American upheld as an example of patriotism.

Francis Powers is pitied, although he completely violated his $2,500 a month contract which pledged him to complete secrecy. He sold his country to save his skin. The majority of Americans pity rather than condemn him.

Where is the stuff of which American patriotism was once made?

On Journalists

The aim of the editorial board of the Highland Echo is to publish a newspaper that is the voice of the student body. Interest in the newspaper seems to be great this year. Coupled with interest there is also a willingness to work. We feel that the Echo has the potential this year of being a student voice.

We realize that everyone will not agree with all of the opinions expressed within these pages. We hope not. It is up to the individual to say so. We are willing to print any refutation or original thinking which we as an editorial board find fitting.

A number of positions on the staff are still open. In addition to news and feature writers we need typists, proofreaders, and individuals interested in working on the business staff. Students who are interested are asked to meet in the Echo office in Thaw on this Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

Freshmen Sophomores Juniors Seniors

NEW STUDENT, OR OLD, You'll soon learn that Scotties' favorite hang-out at any hour of the day or night is 'THE COFFEE HOUSE"

SCOTTIE FAVORITES

Deluxe Hamburger with French Fries

Chipped Ham Sandwich

Orange, Lemon or Lime Freeze

Golden Brown Pancakes with Maple Syrup and Bacon

The Best Coffee in Town—

Latest Hit Parade Records on the Juke Box—Still 5c

We now feature our own homemade pies.

Orders of $5.00 or more delivered to the dorms at any hour

We Make Our Own HOL'N ONE DONUTS Fresh Daily

GILBERT'S COFFEE HOUSE

Broadway at the Bus Terminal YU 2-1541

Concerning The Presidency

by Donald Leo

On November 8 the American people will go to the polls to elect their leader for the next four years. This year both parties have nominated fairly young men to carry their cause to the American people. These are the two youngest candidates to oppose each other since the election of 1896 when William McKinley (53) ran on the Republican ticket against William Jennings Bryan (36) for the Democrats.

Also unique in this campaign is the fact that the Democratic nominee, Senator John F. Kennedy, is a Roman Catholic. This issue has raised a great deal of controversy in several predominantly Protestant areas and among several church leaders.

The important issue, however, concerns neither the youth nor the religion of the candidates, but their ability to handle foreign policy. Foreign affairs have been a major factor in campaigns before, but the main issue which has concerned the people has been their own economic status at election time. This year, however, since it appears that the American people are more concerned with foreign affairs than ever before, it will be all important to elect the man best qualified to shape America's foreign policy. The Constitution charges the President, and only the President, with forming America's foreign policy. This is a power which cannot be delegated to Congress or to the President's advisors.

It is for this reason that I have chosen to support for the Presidency the man I feel best qualified and determined to lead America through the trying years ahead. My candidate is a man well acquainted with the problems confronting America. For the past eight years he has made the office of Vice President a truly important one. He has been a strong, wise leader in the National Security Council. He has continually taken part in cabinet decisions. His many missions for our government have carried him from Ghana to Poland and from Indonesia to Russia. He has undergone much humiliation before Communist inspired mobs in Peru as well as Caracas. He has faced these incidents with a calm bravery and forbearance which thrilled the free world. For each humiliation, however, he also experienced great victories. In 1959 he received a hero's welcome form 250,000 Polish people deep behind the Iron Curtain. Certainly his many broad experiences and knowledge of the Communist threat cannot be denied.

It would indeed be foolish to elect a man only on the basis that he is experienced. But my candidate is also a man who firmly believes that the Communists can be met and defeated without the cost of war. Certainly it is evident that Pemier Khrushchev is trying to bring America under the Communist flag. Yet he also realizes that it would be impossible to engage in an international conflict and emerge a complete victor. Mr. Khrushchev is trying to defeat us economically and also diplomatically.

My candidate is convinced that we must try to ntgotiate with the Russians, but at the same time we must be concerned not only with the threats of missils and war. We must be concerned with propaganda which warps our mind. We must also be concerned with maintaining strong ties with our allies. This type of concern demands a strong leader who will guide the American people. My candidate has suggested that we "welcome Mr. Khrushchev's challenges for peaceful competition." He is ready to lead us in the cold war, but at the same time he is ready to keep us from a military war.

I feel that all Americans must be made aware that the Communist struggle is a new kind of struggle. Not one of war, but one of economy and diplomacy. We Americans have always rallied to meet the challenges confronting us, and under a strong leader we can do so again.

My hope is that all Americans will carefully weigh the issues and then vote intelligently. If they do, I am fully confident that on November 9th the headlines of our American newspapers will read "RICHARD NIXON ELECTED PRESIDENT."

BULLDOGS OUTLAST SCOTS, 14-10

by Andy Hayden

The new Maryville Scots under Coach Boydson Baird traveled to Birmingham, Alabama to meet the Howard College Bulldogs last weekend. The weather played an important role in the outcome of the game. The game was played on a sloppy field. The score does not justify the hard-fought game the MC team played. The Scots' line, led by co-captains Owenby and Struse, played one of its finest games in recent years. They were able to hold the Bulldogs to minus six yards rushing in the first half. The Scotties were able to move well, for the Scots were inside the thirty yard line four times. Our Scots were able to compile six first downs to the Bulldog's three in the second half. The lack of that scoring punch hurt the Scots all day.

The complexion of the game changed in the second half. The Bulldog's passing game came alive. They completed 10-17 for 113 yards the whole day.

The first score came when in the third quarter Halfback Versperlee took one of Owenby's punts from his own 33 to the Scot's 30. The running of Versperlee and Mitazzo carried the Bulldogs to the Scot's 2. At this point Mitazzo went over for the score, and the run for point after was good. Howard scored again in the fourth quarter on a six yard flip pass from Lairsey to Mitazzo. They fumbled on the point after and it was no good. The big highlight for the Scots was in the first quarter when Tyson McClanahan took a handoff from Ligefelter and rambled some sixty-one yards to the Bulldogs 10. Our air attack seemed to be hampered by the weather and we were unable to complete a pass in five attempts. All the quarterbacks saw action with Ligefelter doing the greater part of the work.

Though the battle was second only to a major war, the Scotties suffered only two battle scars, that of a black eye and broken nose. From all reports this reporter has coaches praised the fine play of the Scots. The Students voice nothing but praise of great a hard-fought game played by our Scots. They would like to see our scoring punch go hay wire next week against Morehead State.

	Maryville	Howard
First downs	7	10
Yards rushing	112	67
Yards passing	0	113
Passing	5-0	17-10
Passes intercepted	0	1
Kicks	7-29	6-37
Fumbles lost	1	1
Penalities	15	65

ROSELLI TO HEAD CHEERING SQUAD

Last Tuesday the following cheerleaders were cected: Madeleine Wilson, Peggy Reiter, Lois Anthony, Cathy Bruley, Bob Emmert, Ken Hartman, Carl McDonald, and George Roselli, captain.

On Tuesday afternoon more than twenty-five girls and boys tried out for the eight positions on the college cheering squad. After the whole group did a cheer called "Fight Scots," each girl and boy went before the Student Body and did a cheer which they had thought up. Then the whole group came back and closed the try-outs with "Howie, Howie."

Introducing

Bill Owenby

Bryson Struse

Beginning today and running until the closing of the football season, the Echo will present two players on the Scottie team.

We are happy to introduce to you the Co-captains of the Maryville College football team for the 1960-61 season, Bill Owenby and Bryson Struse.

Bill is a senior from Pigeon Forge, Tennessee majoring in Physical Education. During his college days he has taken active interest in his class and society. At present Bill is a member of the Student Council and President of Alpha Sigma. Sports being a main interest in Bill's life, he has lettered in the three major sports — football, basketball, and baseball.

When asked about the coming game against Morehead State, Bill admitted that it would be the toughest team on our schedule but he thought if the team played well anything could happen. He was quite impressed by the enthusiasm of the team and of the fine prospects who are out for the squad this year. On the subject of the team's chances on the whole season, Bill was comfident that the team could take the rest of the teams, if the team works hard and plays the heads-up brand of ball that Coach Baird is stressing in the daily practice sessions.

Bryson Struse is the other Co-captain. He hails from Phoenixville, Pennsylvania. Like Bill, Bryson is a senior with great interest n sports. He was a member of the track and football team and also was a member of the Student Council for three years. Bryson believed that this year's team is a much better ball club with considerable experience. With the right breaks he thinks the Scots could beat all the other schools on the slate. The passing defense is about the biggest problem facing the Scots but with the many good ballplayers on the Squad that situation soon should be ironed out.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

BROADWAY JEWELERS
New Fall Costume Jewelry
Watch, Clock and Jewelry Repair
PHONE YU 2-7500

FOR YOUR FLORAL NEEDS
See — BILL SHAWEFELT or
LARRY STEARNS
HORNE'S FLORIST
215 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-2690

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
New Location
218 COURT STREET
RELIGIOUS AND STUDY MATERIALS
TO FIT EVERY STUDENT'S NEEDS
Students Always Welcome!

NEW HIGH V GREENLANDER
by
McGREGOR

Magnificent new colors inspired by the moors and crags of the Hebrides Islands north of Scotland. New brush-textured and bulky-knit. "Orlon" acrylic makes it luxuriously warm—completely washable. Popular new high v-neck collar. Only $13.95

Proffitt's

Pachner's Art Featured In Show

by Arlene Ford

William Pachner, noted Florida artist, was fortunate to have his work chosen for touring exhibition under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts. Made possible by a grant from the Ford Foundation, the exhibit, now housed in our Fine Arts gallery, shows the artist's growth and development since 1943.

Mr. Gayle Hoskins, art instructor and new addition to the Maryville faculty, conducted an informal lecture on Pachner and his works in the lounge of the Fine Arts Center the night of September 16. Stressing Pachner's Czechoslovakian extraction and hate for the Nazis who killed his family, Mr. Hoskins related his first struggle in America as an illustrator for Esquire magazine. His ensuing painting career became a struggle to overcome this early realistic approach to painting. Developing texture, the importance of color and the influence of cubism bring Pachner to his present style, looking to the New York school of painting for guidance.

A tour through the galley points out certain striking examples of transition in the artist's development. Let Us Pray, depicting the indifference of the clergy to the Nazis, is indicative of his early illustrator technique. Figure in Prayer, with its stark realism, shows the strong powerful shape which marked his next phase. Moving toward a relaxation in the importance of form, Rosh Hashana presents an elongated body with exceptionally powerful hands. An experiment in color, Forbidden Blossom proves very striking. Blue Boy, a cubistic work, is an example of a more recent period. On exhibit until September 24, these paintings, with their variety of styles, point up the artist's attitude of experimentation and cause one to wonder what the next phase of Pachner will show.

Excited Freshmen Receive Welcome

Wide-eyed and excited, the Freshman class of 1960-61 descended upon Maryville College, September 12. Students from the 50 states, and from such foreign countries as Mexico, Thailand, and China, all streamed through the college gates to begin their life at Maryville.

When asked, "What is one of the most outstanding things you first noticed at Maryville?" the responses of the students varied from, "finding a roommate," for those who had none, to "the friendliness of everyone."

Many new and exciting things met the Freshmen as they became accustomed to the campus. Lines, lines, and more lines—those of registration, library tours, and the faculty reception line were only a few. Tests were also memorable events, as the students embarked upon the scholastic aptitude series and placement tests, some with confidence and others with misgivings.

Welcomes and orientation speeches from the different administrative heads added to the business of Freshman Week 1960. The picnic supper and all-campus sing will also be remembered as will the Big & Little Sister and Brother parties, the watermelon pow wow, and the square dance.

Many freshman had very funny happenings occur as they began the business of registration and classes. Cries of, "I have no books," "I'm in the wrong building,' and "I haven't even finished registering yet," were heard campus-wide. One freshman, wishing to practice her saxophone and finding the practice rooms closed for the day, practiced on the amphitheater stage of the Fine Arts building. A teacher, hearing the sound, thought someone had been locked in one of the rooms. After a frantic search through the building, the girl was discovered, and the teacher was greatly relieved to find the building not haunted by sax playing ghosts.

LLOYD TO TRAVEL

On October 2, President Lloyd will preach in the Newton Square Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, where Dr. George Davies, brother of Miss Katharine Davies, is pastor. On Monday, October 3, Dr. Lloyd will speak at a Presbytery luncheon in Philadelphia.

On October 4, Dr. Lloyd will speak on the subject "Maryville College" at a father-son banquet in Huntsville, Alabama.

On October 6 and 7 Dr. Lloyd will attend a meeting of the American Council on Education in Chicago.

BUS SCHEDULE

O—Old Highway
N—New Highway

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
A. M.	A. M.
O—5:30	O—6:30
N—6:00	N—7:00
O—6:30	O—7:30
O—7:00	N—8:00
N—7:00	O—8:30
O—7:30	N—9:00
N—7:45*	O—9:30
O—8:00	N-10:00
N—8:00	O-10:30
O—8:30	N-11:00
N—9:30	O-11:30
	Noon
O—9:30	N-12:00
	P. M.
N-10:00	O-12:30
O-10:30	N—1:00
N-11:00	O—1:30
O-11:30	N—2:00
Noon
N-12:00	O—2:30
P. M.
O-12:30	N—3:00
N—1:00	O—3:30
O—1:30	O—4:00
N—2:00	N—4:00
O—2:30	O—4:30
O—3:00	O—5:00
N—3:00	N—5:00
O—3:30	O—5:30
N—4:00	O—6:00
O—4:30	N—6:00
O—5:00	O—7:00
N—5:00	N—9:00
O—6:00	O-11:15
N—8:00
O-10:00 via N.P.

*Does not operate on Saturday Sunday Only

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
A. M.	A. M.
O—6:00	O—7:00
N—8:00	N—9:00
O-10:00	O-11:00
Noon	P. M.
N-12:00	N—1:00
P. M.
O—2:00	O—3:00
N—4:00	N—5:00
O—6:00	O—7:00
N—8:00	N—9:00

Girls should carefully note the times the bus leaves Knoville.

Congress Bill To Study Youth Corps

Of interest to the United States National Student Association is a bill introduced into Congress by Democratic Representative Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin. The bill, HR 9638, would amend the Mutual Security Act 1954 to provide for a study concerning the establishment of a Point Four Youth Corps. The Youth Corps would assure an adequate supply of man power in public and private technical assistance missions, including economic, medical, educatonal and community development programs in friendly foreign counties. In addition, it would provide to young Americans in their late teens and early twenties, who would possibly be working in conjunction with the Armed Forces, the sense of purpose they need.

If such a Corps is established, it will probably be conducted by private American foundations, or groups such as universities, service clubs, or religious, business and youth groups — not by the government. Although the bill has been referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and a similar bill has been introduced in the Senate, further study will need the support of American youth.

Minimum Wage Law Affects Students

WASHINGTON, June—Unskilled and non-white workers, physically and mentally handicapped workers, and student job seekers will suffer most if Congress tampers with the minimum wage law, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports.

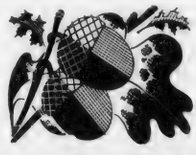
The low productive workers would be most vulnerable to work-saving devices which an increase in the minimum would encourage, the National Chamber points out.

Unemployment in the nation as a whole is now about 5 per cent of the work force, but among laborers and non-whites it is twice that rate. They have difficulty finding jobs at the present minimum, and they would have more difficulty if the minimum were increased, the National Chamber said.

The National Chamber pointed out that four years ago the minimum was 75 cents an hour. It was raised to $1 an hour. Now Congress is talking of boosting it to $1.25, a 66 per cent increase in a little more than four years. The increase is far beyond the rise in labor productivity in the same period.

The wage fixing for millions of employees could spur inflation as well as unemployment, the National Chamber noted. Wage fixing does not stop at the minimum. It goes right up the line; employees prize and desire pay that reflects different skills they have developed. Widespread wage increases cause general price increases. This is nothing less than inflation.

Grants Available For Foreign Study



Two hundred fellowships for graduate study in 13 foreign countries will be offered by foreign governments and universities through the Institute of International Education for the academic year 1961-62.

Applications for the fellowships are now available and will be accepted until November 1, 1960.

The scholarships cover tuition and varying amounts of maintenance in universities in Austria, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Iran, Israel, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland. Students applying for Italian university awards or Austrian, Danish, French, German, Israeli, Italian or Netherlands Government awards may apply for a Fulbright travel grant to supplement their scholarships. Two additional awards, offered by an American foundation, are for study in any country in the Far East, South or Southeast Asia and Africa.

General eligibility requirements are United States citizenshp, a Bachelor's degree or its equivalent before departure, language ability sufficient to carry on the proposed study, and good health. A good academic record and demonstrated capacity for independent study are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not had extensive foreign experience. While married persons are eligible for most of the awards described above, the stipends are geared to the needs of single grantees.

For further information and application forms, prospective applicants should write to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York; or to any of the Institute's regional offices.

NEW . . .

Con't Page 1

Church. He is married and has four children.

Mary Dee Leslie, of Old Hickory, Tennessee, is Instructor of Physical Education. She holds her bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Tennessee.

Sarah Brown McNiell, of Maryville, has been reappointed after a year's absence to the faculty, as Assistant Professor of History and Sociology. She was a member of the faculty between 1954 and 1959, and holds the bachelor's degree from Maryville and the master's from the University of Tennessee.

John A. Roberts, of Muskogee, Oklahoma, has been appointed instructor in Music, succeeding Bernard Linger, who is doing further graduate study, as director of the band and orchestra. Mr. Roberts received his Bachelor of Music degree from Oklahoma City University, and his Master of Music from Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York. He is married and has three children.

NEW! FOR TROUBLED SKIN...

Dermacare

medicated skin care by Coty

A NEW PLAN FOR BLEMISH CONTROL

This photograph is of F.D., age 16. Her dermatologist diagnosed acne, and put her on the new DERMACARE Plan. After only 30 days: a cleaner, healthier skin that satisfied both her and her dermatologist. Extra Bonus—treatment and dating did not interfere with each other, because DERMACARE Cream comes in six complexion-matched shades!

round-the-clock treatment...all in one wonderful kit

DERMACARE CREAM—for daytime and date-time! 6 shades to match your complexion and keep you looking pretty while it helps clear blemishes! $1.25

DERMACARE FOAM WASH—to gently and thoroughly remove make-up, oil and dirt, and fight skin bacteria! $1.25

DERMACARE NIGHT LOTION—for safe, sure blemish-control treatment through the night. $1.25

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER!!! This complete Kit of all 3 DERMACARE products for only $2.95

Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

Be sure to ask for your copy of the free booklet: TALK ABOUT TEEN-TROUBLED SKIN.

PARK DRUG STORE

106 E. Broadway — Maryville — Across from Proffitt's
Phone YUkon 2-1670 A Walgreen Agency

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

BANKING SERVICES

* Check Accounts
* Savings Accounts
* Christmas Club Savings
* Transfer of Funds
* Banking from Your Car
* Night Depository Service

— YOUR COLLEGE BANK —

BUY THE BEST FROM. . .

Murphy-West

Chevrolet — Oldsmobile

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 2 | Maryville, Tennessee | October 8, 1960

CAST IS CHOSEN FOR BLITHE SPIRIT

The Maryville Playhouse has announced the cast of their fall play, Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit. The play, which has been described as an improbable farce, will be presented on November 4th and 5th.

The cast is as follows: Edith, Cynthia Blanchard; Ruth, Carole Ansley; Charles, Bill Conger; Dr. Bradman, Dick Myers; Mrs. Bradman, Katherine Reed; Madame arcati, Ada Cortez; and Elvira, Merlee Knot.

Stage manager will be Judy Cole, and the designing and technical direction will be handled by Mr. Dupler.

Freshmen Elections

The following people were elected Tuesday as Freshmen Class Officers: Gordon Stewart, President; James Stewart, Vice-President; and Beverly Wills, Secretary-Treasurer. Freshmen Student Council representatives are Carol Brown, Dave Gritamacher, Sue Quigg, and David Whitaker.

This year for the first time freshmen candidates were allowed to actively campaign using campus decorations, signs, and campaign buttons.

BRININGER VISITS HIGH SCHOOLS

Admissions Counselor Elaine Louise Brininger left October 2 for a tour of high schools in five states: North Carolina, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Washington, D. C.

She will be away until December 26 visiting high schools, and church groups, as well as individuals, to interest them in Maryville College.

A copy of her itinerary is posted on the Development Office bulletin board. If you know of any high school students in these states who might like to talk with Miss Brininger, please come by, look over the itinerary, and leave their names in the Development Office.

Other members of the staff will be visiting high schools in Georgia, Florida, Kentucky and the Washington, D. C. area.

Paperbacks To Be Sold in Bookstore

In response to requests by numerous students and faculty members, a new program for the selling of paper-bound books will soon be launched. A planning committee under the chairmanship of Dr. Robert Lynn includes Dean Frank McClelland, Mr. Frank Layman, college treasurer, and Miss Margaret Hennemuth, bookstore manager.

The collection to be housed in the college bookstore, will offer approximately one hundred titles submitted by faculty members. Through such a program it is hoped that books of value may be added to personal libraries. that a maximum benefit of class work may be attained by the use of such supplementary meterials, and that interest will be stimulated in good reading and subjects of an intellectual nature.

Low expense, high quality, and variety of selection of "paperbacks" account for their popularity with college students. Announcement of the opening of sales will be made sometime this month in chapel.

Math Major Wins Scholarship Award

Miss Glenda Gray has been awarded an academic scholarship by Alpha Gamma Sigma Honor Society. This award has been made annually for five years to the member of the sophomore class who has the highest total scholastic standing at the end of the sophomore year.

Miss Gray is a mathematics major, a member of Theta Epsilon society and of the Vesper Choir. She is a graduate of Alcoa High School.

The scholarship fund has been built up from contributions of society members. It amounts to approximately $1650 with a $65 income to be credited to the first semester expenses in the winner's junior year. There are now about 300 hundred members of the society, and the fund is growing. When the fond reaches $2,000, the society has tentative plans to make two annual scholarship awards.

The award was won last year by Charles Pearson, also a graduate of a local high school. It was won in 1956 by Ruth Morris, of New York; in 1957 by Bob Bowman, of North Carolina; and in 1958 by Ann Leich, of Oklahoma.

QUIGG, RANDALL WIN SCHOLARSHIP

Two of Presbyterian College scholarship winners have been announced as MC Students. These are Susan Quigg, from Overland Park, Kansas and Bert Randall, from Amarillo, Texas.

The following are renewals of this scholarship: Mike Garrett, from Monett, Misouri; Blair Moffett, from Oyster Bay, New York; Virginia Pratt, from Winter Haven, Florida: Clarissa Seely, from Delaware Water Gap, Pennsylvania; Janice Walters, from Scotch Plains, New Jersey; competition award winners for Art, Piano and Voice, respectively: Jan Miller, from Alcoa, Tennessee; Linda Clark, from Knoxville, Tennessee; Carole Webster, from Knoxville, Tennessee.

Information regarding the Government Defense Loan Fund will be given in the near future by Miss Mary Miles, Director of the Student Help Office.

FACULTY CLUB

The first meeting this year at the Faculty Club will be held on Monday, October 10, at seven o'clock in Pearsons Dining Hall. Following dinner, Dr. Elizabeth Jackson, chairman of the group, will read a paper about the work she has done on a linguistic atlas for the United States and Canada.

STUDENT LOANS REACH $48,159

Loans to one hundred and thirty students have been made this semester, the Student Help office announces, touching $48,159.00 — it is expected that another $10.000 will have been added to this by the Spring semester of 1961.

The number of working students is about two hundred and twenty. Of these, thirty-nine are in the dining-hall, twenty-two in Thaw Library, sixteen in the Y-store and Student Center, and the remainder scattered diversely throughout campus.

YM, YW HIKES TO START TODAY

This afternoon the members of YM-YWCA will leave on their annual "Y" hikes which afford an opportunity for recreation and fellowship to all interested students.

The members of YW will leave from the chapel at 2:00 p. m. for Walden's Creek. The Social Committee, headed by Zeida Brown, has planned an interesting and enjoyable weekend which will include a hike, campfire, and devotions on Sunday morning.

YM will travel to Cades Cove where the weekend's plans will be under the direction of Lem Pelkey.

FILM SERIES TO START OCTOBER 14

The Maryville Playhouse has announced its film series which will begin on October 14 with the operatic film, Tales of Hoffman. The film will be shown at 8:00 p.m., in the theater, and an admission of 35c for students and 50c for others will be charged.

Tales of Hoffman will feature Sir Thomas Buchanan with a Philharmonic Symphony ochestra; Sir Robert Rounseville, will sing Hoffman; and the dancers will be Moira Shearer and Robert Helpman.

Future films will be shown on these dates:

November 26 — Kind Hearts and Cornets with Alec Guiness.

January 7 — The Cupboard was Bare featuring Fernandel.

January 28 — An American in Paris with Gene Kelley, Leslie Carron and Oscar Levant.

March 4 — High Noon with Gary Cooper and Grace Kelley.

April 27 — The Golden Age of Comedy which is made up of scenes taken from outstanding comedies.

WSGA COUNCIL ELECTS MEMBERS

The freshmen and junior representatives to the WSGA Co-ordinating Council were elected on September 18. Freshmen representatives are Gail Bielby and Ann Young. Representing junior women are Glorianna Hutcheson and Donna Jensen. Other Council members this year include Carolyn Gass, WSGA President; Nancy Jo Martin, New Dorm House Chairman; Nancy Kinsman, Pearsons House Chairman; and Pat Williams, Baldwin House Chairman.

Immediate WSGA activities are centered around Homecoming plans. This year the dorms have decided not to enter floats in the parade, but to concentrate on better dorm decorations. In connection with Homecoming, the New Dorm is planning an Open House and tea.

The need of some students to acquire more knowledge of etiquette, manners of dress, and use of certain social graces is also being discussed by the WSGA Council.

The Honor Dorm Council of the New Dorm for this year is composed of Bobbie Berger, Connie Bondurant, Linda Dobson, Carolyn Gass, Rachael Goddard, Phyllis Hembree, Glorianna Hutcheson, Donna Jensen, Nancy Jo Martin, Barbara Nielson, Phyllis Stine, Lynn Waddington, Barbara Williams, and Elva Yohe.

Council Sponsors Leaders' Retreat

The Student Council will sponsor a student leaders' retreat on Saturday, October 8, at Laurel Lake. Attending the retreat will be Council members; Miss Frances Massey, Dean of Women; Mr. Arthur S. Bushing, Dean of Men; Dr. Frank McClelland, Dean of Students; the presidents of the four societies; presidents of the YWCA and YMCA; and Terry Lee Dick, Nancy Jo Martin, and Phyllis Stine, students who went to Africa under Operation Crossroads-Africa.

The topics of discussion fall in two general areas. Area 1, Responsibility on the Campus, will include discussion groups on Campus leadership development; responsibility to individual students, faculty, and administration; the honor system; responsbility to student organizations; and academic social, and spiritual responsibility. Area 2, Responsibility Outside the Campus, will include discussion of USNSA and intercollege relations; National and community advantages; international advantages; the African venture; and inroads to the student body.

Each of these committees will be led by a council member, with four other council member, who have prepared previously for the discussion. Guest leaders will be free to choose discussion groups. Discussion will involve the relation and responsibility of the Council as a whole, individual Council members, and every facet of life in relation to the individual student. In addition to the small group discussions, there will be periods of open discussion by the whole retreat on each topic.

Messiah Rehearsal

The first rehearsal of the Messiah chorus will be held in the Fine Arts Center on Monday evening, October 10, at 7:15 p. m. The chorus, rehearsing for the performance on December 11, is open to Maryville College students and to members of the community.

FACULTY MEMBER

Miss Willard Pate has joined the English faculty this year. Miss Pate is originally for Hawkinsville. Georgia. She has received her B.A. degree from Emory Universitf and has completed her requirements for her M.A. degree from Vanderbilt.

Nell Rankin To Sing In Artist Series

The first concert of the 1960 Artist Series will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on October 21, in the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel with Nell Rankin, Metropolitan Opera's leading mezzo soprano, as soloist.

Miss Rankin will present numbers by Handel, Salvator Rosa, and Fernando J. Obradors; a group of German Lieder by Brahms and Schubert; and a group of English and American songs. Highlighting the program will be three numbers of unfailing popularity with opera audiences: "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix (from the opera "Samson and Delilah")", by camille Saint-Saens; and two arias from Bizet's "Carmen": "Habanera" and "Gypsy Song." Her accompanist is Lucille Dumas.

On January 27 the Karlsrud Chorale will be heard, followed on February 14 by the concert pianist Cochereau. The closing program of the season will be presented on February, with Sallie Schoen of the Maryville College Fine Arts Faculty appearing as piano soloist with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra. David Van Vactor, conductor.

Season tickets are being sold to students in the lobby of Pearsons Hall for $1.00.

MC Directors Meet Oct. 21

The regular fall meeting of the Board of Director of Maryville College will be held on the campus between 9:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Friday, October 21. Business sessions will be in the lounge of the Fine Arts Center, and the directors who are present will be at the college dining hall at the regular luncheon hour.

The Board of Directors consists of 36 men and women divided into three classes, each class serving three years. There are at present directors on the board from 12 states and the District of Columbia —Tennessee, Alabama, Florida. Georgia, Illinois. Iowa, Maryland, Michigan, New York. Ohio. Pennsylvania. and West Virginia.

The chairman of the board is Attorney Joe C. Gamble of Maryville, and the vice chairman is the Rev. Dr. Joseph J. Copeland of Knoxville. The Recorder or secretary is Miss Clemmie J. Henry of Maryville. The President of the College is a member of the board and its executive officer.

The board meets twice each year, once in the fall and once in the spring to receive repors, handle business, approve degrees, and set the general policies of the College.

New Housemother In Baldwin Hall

Mrs. Lou Epting is Baldwin's new assistant housemother. This is her first semester on the Maryville campus.

She has worked as a housemother for twelve years. During this time, she has held positions at the University of Tennessee, Anson Junior College, and Limestone College.

Mrs. Epting's original home is Athens, Georgia, but she spends most of her free time with her daughter in Atlanta.

Editorially Speaking

On Idealism

Within our lifetime we have read descriptions and heard radios blare accounts of Nazi gas chambers, American atomic bombs, Red hunts in our Congress, apartheid riots and sit-in violence. We have seen loyalty oaths, Congressional investigations and civil rights filibusters. We have seen democracy flaunted. Elders have warned us to be realistic and to remember that certain things are just not done.

We are quiet now. We are so realistic that we very seldom support an ideal for the principle in volved.

At Maryville we say we are Christian. If so, our responsibilities are tremendous. We are immersed in privileges here. So often we fail to recognize privilege because we see it as obligation. This is particularly true of church attendance.

We must revive the idealism of Christianity; for it only takes one generation to set a civilization on the road to decline.

On Ice Cream

Pearsons during meals has begun to sound like a Junior High Summer camp. Cheers for ice cream resound frequently. Chairs slide, silver tinkles, and voices whisper to one another — not to God — during the period of silence before the meal.

Have you ever mentioned to Miss Ware that you enjoyed a particular meal? Have you ever stopped to realize that we pay approximately $1 per day for three meals?

We often wonder why faculty and administration do not grant us the privileges and responsibilities we often seek during the school year. When they join us for meals are they impressed with our youthful lusty voices, our lack of respect and appreciation, rather than our mature manners and the respectful period of silence for grace?

On Cutting

We reserve the right to edit articles as we deem, expedient to page make-up and the intergrity of individuals involved.

Mail Box

Dear Miss Editor,

I would like to agree with the author in the September 24, Echo that Maryville College is a trouble spot. Not, however, because of the griping, but because some students in our college want their daily decisions made easier for them. In my humble opinion, people who want their daily decisions made easier are living in the wrong country. There are many governments throughout the world that would be only too happy to make their daily decisions so much easier that they would become non-existent.

I feel that the author of this same epistle would be given a hardy handshake by eleven out of ten "politicians" because he is just the sort of constituent they would like to depend upon. He would accept whatever they did, if he had the interest to find out in the first place, and would naturally vote for them again because there would be no reason to change. Thus the politician would have an easy lifetime job, and ignorance would indeed be bliss for the constituent.

As to Mr. Leave-me-Alone's opinion on required class and church attendance may I say this: I only wish that required class and church attendance could guarantee education or religion. Instead it usually works the other way around.

I am also in agreement with the creator of this opus on the subject of the bickering of Maryville College students. Only by putting these bickerings into action can they better the situation.

In closing I wish to thank the founders of the United States for the freedoms of press, religion, thought, and speech.

—Henry M. Weeks

Dear Editor,

May I voice my answer to Mr. Lee Mea Lone so that the student body may better make its own decisions by hearing, at the very least, one more side to the issue. I am not against reasonable bickering and should like to present my views as to what makes up a good student.

In the first place, I think the good student is one that must question the ways of Maryville College just as he must question the ways of all patterns, as did Darwin, Einstein, and Luther; for in questioning they came closer to the right and the true. Another point is the "cut" system; if the college does not realize that the student is here to learn, only then does it have the right to enforce a strict attendance of its classes. No institution can force a student to learn if he is not first willing to learn. The college's prime responsibility is to produce good citizens. Maryville College can't afford not to give its students the individual responsibility they need now to produce responsible citizens in the future.

The same thing applies to religion and these honor reports that everyone is talking about. The college must expect students to take responsibility in matters of theological knowledge. It must help us to decide in every possible way except that of deciding for us, for in doing so it would defeat its own purpose. Only for this reason do I attack enforced church or chapel.

We are blessed at Maryville by a brilliant faculty and by other excellent facilities for learning. May I ask that we, the student body, be given the greatest gift of all, the gift of responsibility asd of individual decision.

—William Brian Conger

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

September 24, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Ellen Dozier
Exchange Editor ..... Tammy Day
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors ..... Pat Crossley, Nancy Seeger, Don Leo
Typist ..... Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Bill Stueben
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

On Purpose

There is a sign over one of the "hatches" at Parris Island which is labeled the "Drill Instructors Prayer." It goes something like this, "Dear God, let no man's ghost come to me and say, 'If I'd only been better trained and prepared. Amen'."

Though this philosophy has adherers in the Marine Corps it is not uniquely theirs. The whole concept of leadership, teaching, and administratiin in the college community is based on the same hope and prayer. I'm only speaking for myself when I outline to you the training and preparatios I hope can be interjected into the Student Government phase of this year. I want the Student Body — and I mean every slushingfurger one of you — to become appraisors of your situation. By that I mean every facet of your existence; where you stand with yourself, your fellow man, and your God; exactly where you fit into the national and world wide aspects of life; where you're going and the motivation that compels you.

The mark of a good financial appraisor is the ability to see hiden value and weakness in a commodity. I think that through careful consideration, proper direction, and methodical evaluation of the year's efforts Student Government can provide you with the opportunities for appraisal. That's why we're going on the "Retreat" this afternoon—to plan such a program—to develop an attitude toward such service.

As corny as it might sound to some of you, I would paraphrase the DI's prayer for myself and other student leaders, "Dear God, never let a classmate's ghost come to me and say, 'If you'd only given me experiences and opportunities which would have taught me aboht myself'. Amen." —Ron Pearson

PICTURE RENTAL

The Art Department announced this week that reproductions of paintings will be available to the students for rental. A one dollar depisit plus $.25 for the use of the painting is required; the deposit will be returned later in the semester. Many favorite artists are included in the collection.

THE BIG QUESTION

Concerning the Campaign

It is a mistake to say that the primary difference of the two presidential candidates is in the field of foreign affairs. Both candidates have vowed to stand sternly against the threats of Communism and of Mr. Khrushchev. Both have expressed the willingness to increase taxes if necessary to build the nation's defenses. Still the Vice-President is said to have an exclusive hold on understanding the foreign situation.

I contend that Nixon does not hold an exclusive understanding. Senator Kennedy has for many years been gaining the experience and knowledge necessary for the Presidency. While a senior at Harvard he wrote his thesis Why England Slept which was intended to draw a warning parallel between England's unpreparedness for war and the danger of war to the United States. The thesis was published and drew laudatory reviews from such newspapers as The London Times and The New York Times.

There are those who maintain that traveling is a criteria for experience in foreign affairs. This Senator Kennedy has done on the level of the common people. On the eve of World War II he made trips to Poland, Russia, Palestine, Greece, Lebanon, Egypt, and Germany. He is now chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on African Affairs.

The Democratic Party, however, would not stop with these claims but would put the United States on the offensive, instead of the defensive, against Soviet Russia. In doing this Kennedy proposes to overhaul administrative machinery so that America may avoid diplomatic embarrassment. Another Kennedy recommendation would be to create mutual respect and understanding with non-communist nations of Asia, Africa, and Latin America by revamping and refocusing our foreign assistance programs.

The basic incongruity of the candidates then lies in domestic affairs, notably economics. The democratic platform aims at a more equal distribution of the nation's wealth through increased government aids, by which there can be a greater economic growth and therefore a greater American strength to combat the rising tide of Communism. The Republican program would assert that what is good for General Motors is necessarily good for the nation.

But how can the Democrats do this and still maintain a balanced budget? It can be done through the four point program included in the democratic platform which is (1) ending gross waste in Federal expenditures which needlessly raises the budgets of many Government agencies, (an example of this is the Kennedy-B — Paine bill, a revision in the accounting system which is estimated ultimately to save $4 billion annually), (2) collecting the billions in taxes which are owed to the Government, but not now collected; (3) closing loopholes in the tax laws by which certain priveleged groups legally escape their fair share of taxation; and (4) obtaining, through a greater economic growth, a greater tax revenue, though not a rise in rates.

The strength of Senator Kennedy and the Democratic Party lies in liberalism and in concern for the general welfare; a term so precious to our founding fathers that it was included in the Preamble of the Constitution.

Poet's Niche

The Distant Glow

It was a late spring evening as I reached the square;
The courthouse loomed above as if in solemn sleep,
Or silent meditation of its bygone days.

The shadows of the trees caressed the moonlit walls,
And rows of yawning casements fell beneath the spell,
Of wind and rustling leaves, the music of the night.

The beauty of the hour possessed my every thought,
Until at length my eyes beheld a warm red Glow,
Reminding me of other things—a distant hill,

A towering hall, a corner room, a faithful friend.

—Dave Pate

Introducing

Bill Woodby

This week we would like you to meet two senior members of the football team. Number 65 comes out of the pile for Maryville College after making another great tackle. Who wears number 65? He is William "Bill" Woodby, a senior from Townsend, Tennessee, where he played four years. Bill is a physical education major. His future plans include graduate study. Bill weighs in at about 190 and stands 5'9". He is one of the main factors in the success of our offense line. On defense, he anchors the middle of our line. In the Centre game, Bill was a standout on defense; he made six tackles and was in a number of group tackles.

Open Mind – One that is too porous to hold a conviction.

Mob – A crowd in which the scum is equal to all its parts.

Roger Smithey

Another local senior is Roger Smithey, who is playing tackle this season. Last season he played center. He weighs 210 and stands about 6'1". He is from Everett High school where he payed center and tackle. He is also a physical education major. He has no definite plans after graduation. Roger plays hard and tough football for the Scots in our defense line. Roger's pet peeve is double teaming. His favorite hobby is eating. Both of these players will be missed next season for both play important roles in their own right.

Tod Jablonski Heads Intramurals

On October 4th Intramural Handbooks were passed out to each of the men, both town and dorm students. Any man who did not receive one of these books may get one from Mr. Lynn Sexton, Supervisor of Intramurals.

As it is pointed out by Dean McClelland in the handbook, one of the "objectives at Maryville is to provide opporunities for the all-round development of each student. Intramural athletics can contribute greatly to this objective, but only in proportion to the number of students who take part." Each student is urged to participate in at least one intramural sport.

Although bowling, ping-pong, volleyball, wrestling, and tennis are represented, the "core" of the intramural sports consists of basketball, softball, and football. Usually an all-star football game is played at the end of the season, and interest in this game runs high. There is a possibility that an intramural soccer team will be organized this ytar.

Tod Jablonski has been chosen by Mr. Sexton to be the Senior Manager for 1960-61. Tod will pick two junior managers to work with him. His main duties include keeping records of all the intramural activities, and a schedule of events.

Teams may be entered eitrer by the societies or independent teams may be formed. They play a series of "round-robin" games to determine the team in first place. Students referee these games because of the lack of funds to hire outside referees, as there is no income whatsoever from intramural sports.

At the end of the year various trophies are given by the intramural committee. The YMCA also gives a sportsmanship trophy to the senior boy they think deserves it most. Mr. Sexton recommends deserving students to them for consideration.

Colonels Roll Past Scots at Centre

Last Saturday night the Maryville Scotties travelled to Danville, Kentucky to help the Preying Colonels of Centre College open its home football season. The Scots were tuned back to the tune of 17-6. Centre opened the scoring in the first quarter with a six yard sprint around the left end by halfback Bob Hourigan. The point after was made by Jack Pace.

The second half saw the home team add another touchdown to the scoreboard. Halfback Harley Veal raced around end for 20 yards and the second score was added on the following play by quarterback Kern Alexander on a quarterback sneak. Pace again added the extra point and the game looked it might turn into a rout.

The Scotties took the punt on their own 32 and drove all the way down field with the big gains coming on fine runs by Bill Geldhauser and Tyson McClanahan. It was the latter's 25 yard run that knotted the first Maryville score for the season. Al Roes' attmept for the point after was no good and as the teams went to the dressing rooms it was Centre 14 and Maryville 6.

The third period was a scoreless affair with neither team able to penetrate the opposition's territory. The Fourth quarter saw the Colonels add three points on a fine field goal from tre Scots 9 yard line by Jack Pace.

As in previous games Bill Owenby's punting was outstanding. He knicked out of trouble seven times for a 40.1 average. Another standout for the Scotties' cause was Doug Mincy, who carried the ball well and spearheaded the team's offence.

Wrestling Attracts New Members

Last week Coach Davis called the first meeting of his wrestling squad. Eighteen new faces appeared and displayed interest. Among the returning members who showed up for the meeting were Captain Don White and Southeast Conference 115 lb. champion Jim Barter. Coach Davis setup a practice schedule with practice on Mondays and Wednesdays, and then to be expanded into three a week. The Coach also stressed diet to the nem members. Coach Davis also wants the team to start now to lose weight before tre first match.

More men are needed on the team; no past experience is necessary, only a willingness to work hard.

Equipment will be given out Wednesday at 3:30 by manager Andy Hayden. Last year the wrestling team enjoyed one of its better seasons. Prospects of the coming season look hopeful.

	Maryville	Centre
First Downs	6	8
Rushing	6	7
Passing	0	1
Total Yds. Gained	152	245
Rushing	133	209
Passing	19	36
Passing	2-8	3-9
intercepted lost	1	0
Fumble Lost	2	2
Punts	321-8 40.1	99-4 24.3
Penalties	75	70

Scoring for Maryville McClanahan 25 yards of tackle second quarter 5 6 yd. driver ries missed the point after

WAA PROVIDES FUN, COMPETITION

The Women's Athletic Association is open to all women students who are interested n athletics and want to have the opportunity to participate in sports activities.

The purpose of W.A.A. is that all women students, regardless of ability, have the opportunity to participate in sports they are interested in. Each sports event is preceded by a series of practices and lessons. W.A.A. is not a club, but an activity. A person may participate in as many or as few activities as she wishes.

For those women interested in earning a varsity letter and membership into the Women's M Club, W.A.A. is the channel through which this is done. Women earn this letter and membership through a system of points earned for every sport entered and participated in. Points are also earned by extra activities such as hikes and swimming.

The association is set up on an intersociety basis. The two women's societies compete against each other to earn points. At the end of the academic year the society with the most points wins a trophy, presented by the Women's M Club. The society winning the trophy three years consecutively will be entitled to keep it permanently. For the past two years Chi Beta has won the trophy.

This year W.A.A. is offering a wide and varied list of activities, including horseshoes, volley ball, aerial darts, soccer, ping pong, swimming, badminton, basketball, fencing, track and softball.

W.A.A. activities take place each Tuesday and Thursday, beginning at 3:30 in the intramural gym.

BOWLING

STUDENT RATES TILL 5:30

PARTIES WELCOME ANYTIME

Maryville Bowling Center

Phone YU 2-4092

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK

New Location

218 COURT STREET

RELIGIOUS AND STUDY MATERIALS

TO FIT EVERY STUDENT'S NEEDS

Students Always Welcome!

BROADWAY JEWELERS

New Fall Costume Jewelry

Watch, Clock and Jewelry Repair

PHONE YU 2-7500

HORNE'S FLORIST

215 W. Broadway

Phone YU 2-2690

At the College See –

BILL SHANEFELT or LARRY STEARN

Be Our Guest at

MURPHY-WEST

See the NEW 1961 CHEVROLETS and CORVAIRS

and the NEW 1961 OLDSMOBILES AND F-85'S ! ! !

For the Buy that's Best – See MURPHY-WEST

GIFF'S SPORTING GOODS

202 Cusick Street – Directly behind Proffitt's

Phone YU 3-2166

Visit Maryville's newest and most complete Sporting Goods Store

Rawlings and Wilson Athletic Equipment

Converse and U.S. Ked Footwear

Magic Fleece Athletic and Sport Socks

Imperial Award Sweaters

York Barbells

Vesper Choir Adds 28 New Members

The Maryville College Choir has added twenty-eight members for the 1960-1961 season.

Membership in the choir is limited to 63 singers who are chosen by the director following auditions. Members are chosen on the basis of voice quality, ability to blend, ability to follow direction, general musical aptitude, effort, attitude, and character and personality.

Selected for membership this year were: Bobby Beard, Donald Black, Pat Blanton, Barry Birch, Chris Carlisle, Wendy Compton, Louise Dixon, Dean Dobson, Michael Dodson, Jean Dorscheid, Kent Fortenberry, Kay Glymph, Martha Hall, Bruce Jenkins, Joyce Koch, Richard Koo, James McDonald, Blair Moffett, Bill Moore, Jo Anne Morey, Patt O'Neill, David Pate, Mildred Slater, John Spangler, Judy Springstead, Phyllis Tepper, Sharon Waldron, and Carole Webster.

Under the direction of Harry H. Harter, the college choir has toured extensively throughout the country, and was chosen last year as the official broadcasting choir for the United Presbyterian Church.

Moth – an economical insect because he eats nothing but holes.

Wilson Fellowships For Graduate Work

On October 3rd thousands of faculty members from universities and colleges, in the United States and Canada, began to nominate college seniors for Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowships.

This program, designed to reduce a nation-wide shortage of qualified college teachers annually awards 1000 fellowships for first year graduate study at any university of the recipients choice in tre U.S. or 60 Canada. After rigorous screening and personal interviews, each selected fellow receive a $1500 stipend for living expenses plus full tuition and family allowances.

The program is open to college graduates mainly in the runmanities and social sciences. Both men and women are eligible, and there is no limit on the age of candidates or on the number of years he may have been out of college.

A faculty curriculum committee composed of reads of the divisions is now considering nominations. Students who are interested should speak to their major advisors.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation does not accept applications directly from students. Every candidate for the award must be nominated by a faculty member. Nominated students are invited to declare themselves active candidates for the award by sending the necessary application forms to the chairman of the selection committee for the region in which the prospective candidate is now located. A list of the fifteen regions and the names of the regional chairmen may be obtained from the foundation's national headquarters, Box 642, Princeton, New Jersey, or from the Woodrow Wilson representative on any campus in the U. S. and Canada. Names of fellowship winners will be made known by March 15, 1961.

Present Maryville graduates wro have received this honor are: Keith Ham, 1959 graduate in history, who is doing graduate work at the University of North Carolina; John Gilmour, 1960 graduate in philosophy; and honorable mention, Bob Bowman, 1960 graduate in English, who is now doing graduate work in that field at the University of Tennessee.

DAR Group To Make Visit To MC

On Tuesday evening, October 18, and Wednesday morning, October 19, the College will be hosts to a company of distinguished women visitors. The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is conducting a tour throughout the south visiting different schools and colleges. The two institutions that are being visited in Tennessee are Maryville College and Lincoln Memorial University, both of which are on an approved schools list maintained by the National Society of the D.A.R.

The President General of the Society, Mrs. Ashmead White, and the Chaplain General, Mrs. T. Earle Stribling, will both be with the tour and will participate in the Wednesday morning chapel service. Mrs. White will give a brief address dealing with American life. There will be a short musical program in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall followed by a reception on Tuesday evening. After the chapel service on Wednesday morning, the entire group will go to the college dining hall for a breakfast before their departure.

SENATE HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The Student-Faculty Senate met on Friday afternoon, September 30, for a discussion of organizational policy.

The Senate is made up of nine students and nine faculty members. The president of the college, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, and the student body president, Ron Pearson, serve as chairman of the Senate on alternate weeks. Other members include Dean McClelland, Dean Massey, Dean Bushing, Miss Johnson, Mr. Ainsworth, Dr. Buchanan, Miss Lighfoot, Mr. Horst; David Muir, Bob Schultz, Sue Lemme, Elsie Harris, Carolyn Gass, Don Harwood, Bill Green, and George Poland.

The Student-Faculty Senate is the first ground of action for student body moves on matters such as the Town Night agreement. A group of students presents a petition to the Student Council, if passed there, it goes on to the executive council of the faculty and then is presented to the student body for the final vote. The Senate meets on alternate Friday afternoon at 3:30.

Remedial Reading To Be Offered

A remedial reading course will be offerend this semester by Maryville College for students who need to improve their reading ability. This course, though purely voluntary, will be given only to those students who showed they needed such a course by their reading test scores taken at the beginning of their freshmen year of college.

Meeting on Wednesday and Friday, the AX2 period, the class will run from nine to ten weeks. Sixteen Harvard University reading films, issued by Harvard University for the purpose of remedial reading, will be used throughout the course. A manual selling for sixty cents will be the expense for the student. No credit will be given, but through this course the student will obtain a better comprehension and understanding of what he reads as well as increasing his reading skill.

LLOYD TO ATTEND MEETING IN NYC

On Monday and Tuesday of next week President Lloyd will be in New York City with a large number of other college presidents from non-tax supported institutions. The group will make visits to corporations to interest them in financial support of private higher education.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
Maryville, Tenn.
Phone: YU 3-4762
Won't Write? Call White

RECORDS
Complete selection of Hi-Fi STERO Records—
All speeds available
HITCH RADIO and T.V.
Record Department

College Hill Grill
Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street
DELICIOUS ITALIAN
PIZZA
All Meals Served Family Style

Welcome
to
New and Old Students
from
"The Friendly Drug Store on the Corner"
BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

For A Firm Foundation
WEAR
SOUTHERN SHOES
116 W. Broadway

THE COFFEE HOUSE
24 Hour Service
HOMEMADE PIES
BEST COFFEE IN TOWN
BREAKFAST ANYTIME
We Deliver on Orders of $5.00

It's Coming Next Week
Proffitt's
41st ANNIVERSARY SALE
This has always been the most exciting Sale of the year and this year will be no exception. Many students take advantage of extra Good "Buys" in this Sale.
The Men's Department will feature at Special Prices
SUITS – SLACKS – SPORT SHIRTS
UNDERWEAR – T-SHIRTS
SWEATERS
ROBES – HANDKERCHIEFS – GLOVES
SOCKS
See Wednesday's Times for Prices.
Sale Begins Thursday & ends Saturday !
DON'T MISS IT
Proffitt's
MEN'S DEPARTMENT

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 3 | Maryville, Tennessee | October 22, 1960

NINA JO TARVER REIGNS TODAY

Maryville College Political Poll

FOR NIXON—545

	Fresh.	Soph.	Jun.	Sen.	Faculty	Totals
Males	101	51	35	42	11	240
Females	121	83	51	34	16	305
I Plan To Vote	18	15	14	51	27	125
I'm Not Eligible	197	108	70	24	0	399
Party Preference:
Democrat	20	17	11	7	3	58
Republican	154	83	64	50	21	372
Independent	28	15	7	10	3	63

FOR KENNEDY—162

	Fresh.	Soph.	Jun.	Sen.	Faculty	Totals
Males	36	19	14	9	5	83
Females	33	21	6	17	2	79
I Plan To Vote	10	10	3	14	7	44
I'm Not Eligible	56	31	18	8	0	113
Party Preference:
Democrat	50	31	16	20	6	123
Republican	6	6	1	1	0	14
Independent	5	4	1	1	1	12

POLL BY STATES

	NIXON	KENNEDY
Alabama	9	2
California	4	0
Delaware	9	1
D. C.	5	1
Florida	21	7
Georgia	14	14
Illinois	16	2
Indiana	4	2
Kansas	5	0
Kentucky	22	3
La.	4	0
Maryland	13	5
Massachusetts	4	0
Michigan	8	0
Mo.	4	2
New Jersey	59	7
New York	34	6
North Carolina	10	6
Ohio	27	5
Pennsylvania	55	12
Tennessee	177	59
Texas	2	2
Virginia	6	2
West Virginia	4	1
Oklahoma	4	1

The states not listed here on this chart were either tied or carried by Nixon. Their totals were:

NIXON	KENNEDY
16	5

Dr. Proudfoot To Speak Here

Dr. C. Marion Proudfoot, Chairman of the Division of Humanities at Knoxville College will speak to the student body on October 26 at 8:00 P.M. in the Wilson Chapel. His topic will be the Knoxville sit-ins. It is hoped that this talk will stimulate interest and awareness on our campus of the true situation in the South.

Tentative plans are also being made for a panel discussion concerning this problem on November 30.

INCIDENTALLY . . . .

As could be expected there were several interesting and amusing ballots in this political survey. Just to list a few—some people voted for Nixon and Kennedy . . . others for Kennedy and Lodge, and various other combinations . . . one female voted yes for sex, then put (F) beside it . . . one freshman boy had as his party preference the Bull Moose Party . . . several were undecided . . . one male drew Achilles' shield and sword in the sex blank . . . some people didn't know what class they were in . . . one person from D.C. had Taxation Without Representation for his party preference . . . and several wrote in that they voted for the man, not the party.

It should be noted that because this poll does not represent an actual cross-section of all the American people, it cannot necessarily be looked upon as an accurate prediction of the outcome of the presidential election.

Original Music To Be Featured At Barnwarming

Tryouts for this year's Barnwarming production, "Man In The Hall" will be held in Bartlett Auditorium on October 25 from 3:30—5:30 P.M., and from 7:30—10:30 P.M. There are parts available for actors, singers, and dancers. All music will be original.

Co-chairmen of this year's Barnwarming production are Lynn Waddington — author and director, and Sue Bloomer — musical director. Gary Hall is business manager. Pat Baker wrote the lyrics and Bob Shultz is choreographer. The production is a musical comedy and is set in a modern-day girls' prep school.

MC's Homecoming Queen is pictured on the right. Susie Fagan, on the left, and Una Rankin, pictured in the insert, comprise the Queen's Court for the festivities of this afternoon and evening.

Dobson To Speak At Vesper Service

Dr. Dean Newton Dobson, Jr., will be the guest speaker at Vespers tomorrow evening. Dr. Dobson, a Presbyterian fraternal worker in India, has just returned to the United States on furlough.

Originally from Newark, New Jersey, Dr. Dobson is a graduate of Wheaton College, Wheaton. Ill., and of Princeton Theological Seminary. He received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa., in 1954.

Dr. Dobson has been working in the missionary field since 1940. His first work was in Kasur, which is now a part of Pakistan. In 1946 he transferred to Ludhiana, and later he did administrative work as executive secretary of the Punjab mission.

In 1952 Dr. Dobson was assigned to district evangelistic work in the Feroyepur area, where he was responsible for at least 10,000 Christians in 150 villages. Recently he moved to Rehra Dun, where he heads a boys' school.

Dr. Dobson's daughter, Linda, and son, Dean, are students here at M.C.

Phi-Beta Tonight

Kappa Phi and Chi Beta will present a special Homecoming program this evening at 6 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall. Phyllis Stine, one of the seniors who participated in Operation Crossroads Africa this summer, will speak and show slides of her experiences in Cameroun. The meeting is open to the campus.

MARCHING BAND TO PRESENT SHOW

The Highlander Marching Band will present a Homecoming Show tonight based on a tribute to Oscar Hammerstein II. Some of the songs to be featured are "Bali Hai," "Oklahoma," "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," and "Surrey With the Fringe on Top." Also during the half-time show the Homecoming Queen and her court will be introduced by the band.

The Marching Band this year is under the direction of Mr. John Roberts and is led by Larry Jenkins, drum major, and Linda Dobson, band sponser.

The half-time show for last week spotlighted Miss Carol Fowke, from Edinburgh, Scotland, dancing the Highland Fling, accompanied by the pipers, Anne Morrell and Dave Gilmour.

Colston Speaks At Founders Day

The annual Founders Day service is being held in the chapel at 9:40 this morning. This is a service of approximately one hour at which the college choir will appear. The speaker is President James A. Colston of Knoxville College, who is one of the leading Negro educators in the nation.

Maryville College was founded through a resolution by the Synod of Tennessee of the Presbyterian Church in the USA, adopted October 19, 1819. Therefore, this Founders Day is almost exactly on the 141st anniversary of the College.

However, the first Founders Day ceremony was held in 1933 when special tribute was paid to the founder of the College, Dr. Isaac Anderson. Part of the service was held at the college cemetery to which at that time the remains of Dr. Anderson and his family had just been brought from the old New Providence Church cemetery.

On October 13 Nina Jo Tarver was elected Homecoming Queen. Her court consists of Susie Fagan and Una Rankin.

Nina Jo Tarver is a French major from Atlanta, Georgia. She is a member of Y cabinet and program chairman for the French Club. She is a member of Theta Epsilon and was formerly treasurer. During her junior year she was elected to the May Court and was the Alpha Sigma Cupid.

Susie Fagan, one of the maids of honor, is an art major from Acworth, Georgia. This year she is the president of the YWCA, vice-president of the M Club, and a senior councilor in Pearsons. She is the former vice-president and program chairman of Chi Beta, and a former Nu Gamma chairman. In her sophomore year she was a representative to the May Day Court.

Una Rankin, another maid of honor. is from North Arlington, New Jersey. She is majoring in French, and during her junior year she was president of the French Club. She is also a member of SNEA and Theta Epsilon.

The Homecoming Queen and her court will be in the Homecoming parade this afternoon. They will ride in Chevrolet convertibles from Murphy West.

At the Homecoming game during the half-time program Nina Jo Tarver, escorted by Ron Pearson, president of the Student Council, will be formally presented along with Una Rankin and Susie Fagan. The Queen and her court will be presented with flowers. after which Ron Pearson will crown her.

The Highlander Marching Band will give a special tribute to the Homecoming Court. After the game the Queen will again be presented at the dance, which will be held in the Alumni Gym.

Triplett To Give Faculty Recital

Mr. Robert F. Triplett, organist, will perform at the second faculty recital of the season, which will be given on Friday, October 28 at 8 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Mr. Triplett received his BFA degree from the University of Georgia, and an MSM degree from Union Theological Seminary. He studied piano at Juilliard School of Music and organ at the University of South Carolina. During this past summer he did post graduate work at the University of Michigan.

His program will include works by Bach, Walcha, Liszt, Durufle, and Creston.

Welcome Alumni

Arms? Security? Suicide?

by Lynn Waddington

"When people deal with atomic weapons, no one could say to the other: 'Now the arms must decide'; they could only say, "Now we want to committ suicide — together." Dr. Albert Schweitzer has said America is now devoting 46 billion dollars, 18 million peope in uniform, and our best scientific minds to a contest which has mutual annihilation as the prize.

Far from seeking an intelligent solution. America has pretended the problem does not exist. When forced to act, we panic and turn to the handiest solution which happens to be an intensification of the root of the trouble. An individual with this type of behavior would be considered psychologically unbalanced.

"Sure we want peace — who would want war?" Then why do we do nothing? This is a democracy in which our voices help decide our nation's action. We cannot criticize without action and remain guiltless for the nation's decisions. And we can no longer hide behind denial, faulty reasoning or inactive pacifism and remain safe.

"But what can we do?" Become informed, discuss with others possible types of world government, international police force, conditions of co-existence, and local economic changes from a cutback in defense spending and employment. Write letters-to-the-editor, letters to your representitive in Congress, and to the Presidential candidates. Those who will not read the letters will count them.

Living together is no longer a pious hope, but an essential condition for survival.

"War is a part of human nature. You can't change night into day." Are you sure? We have now learned how to turn day into night — forever.

"But our only hope is in maintaining our defense." What kind of protection is there against atomic weapons? Our "defense" could turn and crush us at any moment. It would be more correct to use "deterrence" or even "retaliation" than "defense."

"We must balance power against power . . ." How do you balance destructive ability? How can you "catch up with Russia" when each side can destroy the other several times over?

"We must be careful not to endanger our national security." How can one nation be secure regardless of other nations? We cannot control weather, space — or fallout.

"Russia would attack us if we got behind her in the race." Would she? Russia realizes better than we the results of war. She has been bitten hard by war; we never have been. Russia also seems to have little trouble gaining uncommitted countries by peaceful methods, such as feeding the hungry. We often lose out — probably because our efforts turn out to be little more than a show of strength or wealth.

"But you just can't trust the Russians." Nothing makes a person more distrustful than constant suspicion. Nations have historically kept the treaties they believed to be of their own national interest. We can make a self-execution treaty, that is one which is so much to each side's self-interest that there is a built-in desire on both sides to keep it.

If this has not been achieved, it is only because of our lack of effort. For instance, the total number on the full time staffs of the two important Geneva Conferences, the disarmament staff in the State Department, in the office of the President, in the Congress and Defense Department, including planners, negotiators, and clerical help is somewhere between 50 and 75.

William Davidson, a nuclear physicist in Chicago, has compared the present world situation to a town whose fire department has become inadequate, so it goes out and sprays the whole town with high-test gasoline so that nobody will strike a match.

Mail Box

Dear Editor,

Is it right that we who have the military and economic resources for world leadership should show moral weakness of racial and religious intolerance? The religious issue of the present presidential campaign has made many persons look lop-sided. By that I mean that persons of good reason and intelligence suddenly are heard making statements somewhat like. "I'll never vote to put a Catholic in as President," or, "I don't want the Pope and all his sheep ruling our country." To clear up or at least attempt to clear up the incorrectness of such statements, may I say that the church does not interfere with the private political views of Catholics. They are free to choose any political party whose tenets or activities are not contrary to Christian Doctrine. Politics is bound up with human acts with which the church is very much concerned; she is therefore liable to have to interfere in politics at any time, not politically but morally. This stands true for all churches. I and I am sure many other of my fellow students will support me in my belief that all sects have the right to promote public morality, at times by civil action, this is best done when there is general community concern on the issue.

There is a great fear among voters that Kennedy's election will bring about the amalgamation of church and state. May I state here the words of James Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, Maryland, when in 1902 he wrote:

> "American Catholics rejoice in our separation of church and state and I can conceive of no combination of circumstances likely to arise which would make a union desirable either to church or state. We know the blessing of our present arrangement; it gives us liberty and binds together priests and people in a union better than that of church and state. Other countries, other manners; we do not believe our system adapted to all conditions; we leave it to church and state in other lands to solve their problems for their own best interests.

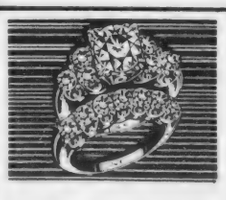
I would also like to add that the Pope is the Head of the Catholic Church and has ruling powers in regards to faith and morals, but not in matters of government.

Mr. Kennedy has strongly opposed the giving of federal aid to parochial schools. In argument with the belief that the Catholic hierarchy controls Catholic politicians, recall to mind that Kennedy favored aid to Yugoslavia and Red Satellite countries, both of these issues were opposed by several Catholic organizations.

As for my own vote. I still am doing research. The Republican candidate, Mr. Richard Nixon, has experience and Mr. Lodge on his side, two very valuable assets. Mr. Nixon plans increased methods of defense as also does Mr. Kennedy: however the Republican party has stated that they can give our country these added means for defense for less money than the Democrats. The Democrats and Mr. Kennedy are planning on spending more money but are also planning to make good use of it through the development of our natural resources, and federal aid to public schools. Of course his biggest issue is, as has already been stated, the development of greater defense methods. Mr. Kennedy has stated that we must move ahead and keep on moving, never stopping, going ahead to be the strongest of all nations and a world leader of peace.

A call to silence open criticism of Catholicism and what effects it might have on the country as a whole is hardly the American idea of free society; however, it would be wise before further statements and accusations, most of which stem from biased and thick headed individuals, are made to first do some thorough investigation of the faith in question. This presidential campaign is a difficult one, but I sincerely hope that the election will not be won or lost because of the ignorance of the church's true position. Let us pray that Americans of all faiths will be so shocked and awakened by the recent outpouring of religious articles that they will form into a real and lasting unity, which the moral strength of our nation needs, and which is essential for real world leadership.

—Cathy Poole



famous last words . overheard by Arthur Horner

Poet's Niche

In the end, there was God.
After the last bomb had exploded
And man had destroyed himself,
There was nothing left
Except God. Man, who had been
A little lower than the angels,
Was gone. All his magnificent
Works of creation were gone.
Everything was gone but God.
In the end there was only God.
And the earth was without form and void;
And darkness was upon the face of the deep.
But this time—this time
The spirit of God did not move
Upon the face of the waters.
And God said, "Let there be no light."
And there was no light.
And God saw that it was good.

Patricia Baker

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING SPECIAL?

We carry a complete line of fine quality watches, rings, and accessories designed to please the discriminating buyer. Easy terms are available on request. Why not stop in today?

BROADWAY JEWELERS

Maryville YU 2-5721

Editorially Speaking

UN ANNIVERSARY

"The United Nations is identified with the profound hope of the world's peoples that they might live together in peace, resolving their differences in the spirit of conciliaton and equity, and freely pursuing their just aspirations for material and social progress."

President Eisenhower's
UN Day Proclamation, 1959

Monday, October 24, marks the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations. This is the one day that all peoples of the earth—regardless of nationality, race religion, or social status —commemorate together.

In the past few weeks we have watched the floor of the General Assembly more closely than that of our own Senate. We also have this tense observation in common with the rest of the world's peoples.

For we realize that in the proclamations, debates, beratings, and fist-pounding-shoe-waving antics of these representatives lies our hope of continued existance.

As Americans we regard the UN primarily as the chief perpetuation of peace. Peoples of underdeveloped areas and newly independent countries look on it also as the source to aid in combatting hunger, malnutrition, yaws, malaria, venereal disease; to assist in the technological development of their nations; to aid in the improvement of labor standards; to provide protective forces against an aggressor when needed. We who are comfortable find it hard to comprehend the immense value of the specialized agencies of the UN.

In a speech here at Maryville on October 18, Mr. Alexander Robertson of the British Intelligence Service stated, "Our first object is to survive; our second is to make a world worth surviving in." This is the totality of the United Nations.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol, 46 No. 3 October 22, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange Editor ..... Tammy Day
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors ..... David Doyscher, Mike Garrett, Keen Compher, Will Skelton, Jeanne Price, Tanya Tripp, Marcia Rushworth, Ann Thomas, Carol Fowke, Joan Runyon, Carol Wood, Andy Haden, June Wilson, Patti Paul, Nancy Jo Martin, Bonnie Burrows, Carol Webster, Lynn Waddington, Arlene Ford, Jon Sypher, Pat Crossley.
Typists ..... Jean Keller, Gloria Schwam

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Bill Stueben
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Student Leaders Discuss National, Foreign Affairs

Helen Anne Easterly

The following is the first of two articles reporting the discussions at the Student Leaders' Retreat sponsored by the Student Council on October 8. Present at the conference were Council members, presidents of YWCA and YMCA, presidents of the four societies, the three deans, the three students who spent the summer at African work camps, and a representative of the ECHO. The purposes of the retreat were these: (1) an interchange of ideas among student leaders and the administrative personnel working most closely with them; (2) discussion of topics of mutual concern, to the end of achieving unity and constructive thinking through every phase of the college program. Discussions fell under two main divisions: student responsibility ouside the campus, and student responsibility on campus. This material is presented for the discussion of the student body; any further suggestion or discussion may be made to Student Council or the ECHO. Names of the leaders of specific discussions are mentioned in the article for this purpose. .

The discussions concerning student responsibility outside the campus turned frequently to race relations. The group entitled National and Community Advantages, led by Don Harward, centered upon three major concerns: sit-ins, educational responsibility to the community, and responsibility in student-community relations.

Concerning the sit-ins, a biracial committee was suggested for the purpose of easing racial tension in the city of Maryville. Presumably this committee would include students from the college. A question was raised as to how much recruiting of Negro students from northern high schools occurs, and the Southern Students' Human Relations Committee was mentioned as a possible aid.

Educationally, the student has a responsiblity to assist the church through the medium of the church-related college. Questions arose concerning academic freedom at Maryville: how much does the core requirement for courses restrict the student?

Student relations with the community have great potentiality, and need much improvement. While every senior is given a guided tour of the Alcoa plant, a wider interchange of ideas is needed between the campus and industry. (One student suggested a new aluminized student center.) In addition, the Businessmen's League has asked that college students make themselves known in town as students.

In the field of inter-college relations (a discussion led by Bob Schultz), this region is relatively inactive: Attempts at intercollege conferences have failed. There is a need for communication between colleges, locally and nationally. This has been filled at Maryville by membership in United States National Student Association.

Concerning international affairs, a group led by Bill Weissenburger, discussion centered largely around the African situation. In Africa there are two worlds confronting each other: the colonial and the tribal. In addition to economic and cultural differences, race has become an issue. What can American students do about this? An immediate action is attention to race relations in America, where present friction makes any action toward African conditions appear insincere. Suggestions on this point included a plan to get more Negro students to attend Maryville College; a letter to the President or to some other government official, expressing our ideas on international and national affairs; emphasis of education to bring underprivileged Negroes closer to the cultural level of the favored whites, before integration. This last plan is designed to make integration more acceptable to whites and to allow integration to operate more smoothly.

Guest speakers Terry Lee Dick, Nancy Jo Martin, and Phyllis Stine, who carried out the final step of Operation Crossroads Africa, were present in the group led by Don Pettinelli, the African Venture.

Having seen and heard and read the results of these students' work in Africa, how can we follow up with our own action?

One suggestion is to send a student to Africa every year, or to similar locations (many of which could be learned from our foreign students), thus keeping the student body as a group involved in things outside the campus. It is necessary to keep up a vital interest. Another place for interest and service is found in work campus and study conferences in America. In addition, our delegates to Africa are relating campus to community through speaking engagements.

Other possible methods of raising interest were discussed as Inroads to the Student Body in a group led by Sylvia Gilmore. Some ideas which could be carried through are a film series, informal discussion groups, chapel programs, and society programs on world affairs. An especially attractive plan was a program on world affairs for the Sunday vesper service once a month. Student Council could pay for visits of foreign students on campus for a few days or a few weeks

These plans must begin with the students themselves; they cannot be carried out purely on the initiative of Council or of the presidents of student organizations, by faculty or administration. They require the interest and efforts of the student body functioning as a whole.

Harter Directs Messiah Rehersals

Approximately two hundred singers and fifty instrumentalists participated in the initial rehearsal for the Messiah held on Monday, October 10.

Mr. Harry Harter is directing the chorus while Mr. John Roberts is in charge of the orchestra. Nine practice sessions remain before the performance on Sunday, December 11 in the chapel.

One man talking politics with friend: "We've had a piano player and a golfer. You know who I'd like to see get in now? A Bowler." Reader's Digest

---

Real education must ultimately be limited to men who insist on knowing, the rest is mere sheepherding.

Ezra Pound, A.B.C. of Reading, 1934

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name
Address
City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

WE'RE BOOSTING THE SCOTS !!

And invite you to try our delicious foods and round-the-clock service.

We Deliver on Orders of $5.00

THE COFFEE HOUSE

"Gilbert's"

Welcome Grads ....

We're always happy to see our friends from The Hill—old or new. Why not stop in after the the parade and visit with us?

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

"Your Friendly Corner Drug Store"

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

BANKING SERVICES

- Check Accounts
- Savings Accounts
- Christmas Club Savings
- Transfer of Funds
- Banking from Your Car
- Night Depository Service

– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION WEAR

SOUTHERN SHOES

Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.

116 W. Broadway

BUY THE BEST

from

MURPHY-WEST

East Tennessee's Outstanding Chevrolet–Oldsmobile Dealer

FIGHT SCOTS FIGHT

Good Luck in Your Homecoming Game !

Whether it's Game time or Class time, you'll look your Best in Clothing selected from our Complete Sportswear Department.

PARKS-BELK

Home of Better Values

First Prose Work

Helen Anne Easterly

Nice night to go walking. So I put on my three-sizes-too-big sweatshirt and left. Outside there was nobody. I walked down the concrete path for a while, but after that something happened and I didn't want to walk anymore. I ran — across the wet grass, dodging the lights of a dormitory and the bookstore. I passed the library and saw lights blazing there, and bravely I sat outside and waited, thinking somebody might come out and talk to me and — maybe — if they did, I wouldn't be too afraid.

I started at one end of the shadow of a lamp post, where it was so broad I could hide in it, and walked carefully as a cat along the shadow until I was standing beside the post and the shadow of my shoulders broke the outline of the pole. As soon as my shoulders stuck out on either side of the pole, I was no longer hidden, so I gave up and went back to the concrete path, although my sneakers were already wet. I was no longer a very convincing cat.

Three couples passed me on the walk, and each time I began whistling a meditative tune in the middle of a bar, so they would think, perhaps, that I had been whistling thoughtfully all along, and that they had just come into hearing range. I do not whistle too convincingly. I pretended that the other people were not there, and gradually I began not to whistle.

Suppose, I thought, that somebody who looks like a Greek god comes out of the library, and I run across the lawn toward him. He meets me and we walk away together . . . no, if I run I'll fall in the wet slippery grass, and he will walk away without knowing ever that I was there.

It was nice to be alone; it made me feel (and behave) like a person in a novel by . . . oh, I suppose by Truman Capote. For brief intervals I even felt like a Druid. I suppose that's because I like trees. So I was clutching this aloneness very close to me, like a cloak that made me invisible. I'm sure nobody noticed me much; I was very quiet. Except for the singing, softly and breathily and without thinking about it. I didn't meet anybody very real after that.

Suppose, I thought, that somebody who looks like . . .

There was no moon. No stars either. That's odd, I thought about the grammatical possibilities and impossibilities of that statement. This, then, was why I felt so along . . . even the man in the moon isn't watching, and I worry about subjunctives. It's a good thing God knows I'm here, or probably . . .

Probably I'd get lost. My roommate might miss me, and I feel that my presence in one or two classes is distinctly disturbing, if not properly stimulating. This thought was not precisely pleasant from any point of view, so I dropped it. Suppose I'm wandering along here too absracted to notice, and suddenly out of the library or some spaceship or something, comes a stranger who like a . . .

I am quite sure now that nobody noticed me very much that night. Nobody was even aware that I spent an evening walking alone. When the clock struck ten I decided to go back to the dorm by way of the chapel. And half an hour later when I signed in, nobody noticed that my knees were wet and dirty, my hair rumpled, and my face streaked with tears.

Mademoiselle Opens 1960-61 College Board Contest

MADEMOISELLE magazine announces that its 1960-61 College Board Contest is now open to women undergraduates under twenty-six years old who are regularly enrolled in an accredited college or junior college. The contest offers a chance at winning one of twenty Guest Editorships—a month on the staff of MADEMOISELLE.

To try out for membership on the College Board a girl may write a criticism (1,200 words or more) of the editorial section of a current issue of MADEMOISELLE or depict in words or drawings the follies of her campus.

Each College Board member will do one assignment for MADEMOISELLE. The list of assignments to choose from will appear in the January issue of MADEMOISELLE.

College Board members who come out among the top twenty on the tryout and assignment win a salaried month (June) in New York as Guest Editors on the staff of MADEMOISELLE. Besides working as apprentices to MADEMOISELLE editors, Guest Editors will be featured in the August issue and will represent the college girl in editorial meetings held to plan articles and fashions for forthcoming issues of the magazine.

November 30 is the deadline for submitting the tryout assignment. For more detailed information write to College Board Contest, MADEMOISELLE, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, requesting the Contest Rules Book.

No matter what the economists say, we all know what causes inflation: too much money going to somebody else.
Reader's Digest

Bowman To Teach French

Mr. Robert Bowman, a 1959 graduate of Maryville College, is replacing one of our former French teachers, Dr. Ruth Cowdrick. A native of Asheboro, North Carolina, he now resides in Maryville. During college he participated in the playhouse, the writers' workshop; he is a member of the Alpha Gamma Sigma Society.

Mr. Bowman was called from graduate school, at the University of Tennessee, where he was working toward his Master's Degree in English. He plans to return to U.T. next summer to resume his studies.

Parish Offers Service To Others

The Faith Co-operative Parish, which was begun in 1954, offers MC students many opportunities to render service to others. The Parish, which is in Union Presbytery, this year contains the following churches: New Providence, Highland, Houston, West Maryville, Mount Tabor, Sunnybrook, and Home Avenue. Support for the Parish comes in part from the churches and in part from the Board of National Missions.

Rev. Gale Dunham, pastor at Houston Memorial, will be the fulltime minister for the Parish this year. Miss Idella Ferguson, the Parish Director of Christian Education, will, in addition to her other duties, teach Christian Education courses here at Maryville this year. She will also work with college students doing work in Parish.

Students working in Parish do such things as teach in Bible School and Sunday School, preach, or conduct recreation for children. Any one interested in this work should contact Miss Ferguson.

Football Round-up

You say that you don't know how your big team did last Saturday? You say that you don't know what's going on in the sport's pages in America? Well, here's your chance to get a bird's eye view of the sport scene.

First let's take a glance at how the nation's "Top Ten" teams made out last Saturday.

1. Mississippi defeated Tulane 26-13.
2. Iowa defeated Wisconsin 28-21.
3. Ohio State lost to Purdue 24-21.
4. Syracuse defeated Penn State 21-15.
5. Navy defeated the Air Force 35-3.
6. Missouri defeated Kansas State 45-0.
5. Baylor defeated Texas Tech 14-7.
8. Clemson lost to Maryland 19-17.
9. Kansas tied by Oklahoma 13-13.
10. Minnesota defeated Illinois 21-10.

That's the way the best teams in the country did last Saturday.

"Western freedom will not survive just because it is a noble ideal. In the age we live in it will survive if, and I think only if, we can take freedom down with us into the hurly-burly of the competition and conflict and prove that a free society can make itself the good society."
Walter Lippman

PLAYHOUSE CREWS NOW WORKING ON "BLITHE SPIRIT"

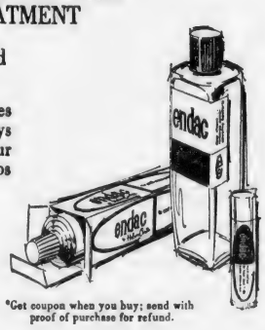
An organizational meeting of the crews for the Maryville Playhouse's production of Blithe Spirit was held recently in the Green Room of the theater.

Those chosen to work on the play staff include: stage manager, Judy Cole; assistant stage manager, Alice Curd; shop foreman, James Rechtin; stage carpenter, Bob Washburn and electrician, James Pugh. Crew heads are: construction, Ross McGill; painting, Dale Young; lighting, Sara Lewis; props, Kathryn Smith; sound, Dale Taylor and costumes, Isla Fraley.

Others working on the crews are: consruction: Janet Smith, Larry Sturmfels, Bruce Jenkins, and Carole Ansley; paint: Leigh Pennington, Anne Aubrey, Patricia Davis, and Barbara Jayne; lighting: Craig Snyder and Henry Weeks; props: Eugenia Miller, Ruth McDode, Sally Blair, Patti Paul, Roberta Dick, Beatriz Marroquin, and Mary Ann Duey; sound: Carol Shaggs; costumes: Lynne Parks.

Blithe Spirit is Noel Coward's most popular and most frequently produced play. The story centers around Madame Arcati, a medium who manages during a seance to materialize the dead wife of novelist Charles Condomines. Her attempts to return the spirit of Elvira to the other world are disasterous for all concerned.

The box office will be open Monday, October 31 from 3:30 to 5:30 P.M. in the theater foyer. Admission for students is $.75 and for others $1.00.



MC DEBATE TEAM PLANS SCHEDULE

The Maryville College Debate Team begins its 1960-61 debating season with 23 students on the team. The team is composed of many members of this year's freshman class.

A Novice Tournament to be conducted October 25 will be primarily a practice session for the new debaters.

Tournaments included in this year's schedule will be held at Emory University, Howard College, Birmingham Southern, and Applachian Teachers College. Also scheduled for this season, is the National Pi Kappa Delta Tournament held at Stillwater, Oklahoma.

The topic for this year's debates is: Resolved: that the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens.

try endac FREE!*
new Helene Curtis
endac™ MEDICATED ACNE TREATMENT helps end acne blemishes and embarrassment fast!
Goes deep down to dry up pimples—clears clogged pores—destroys bacteria. Endac blends with your skin—hides pimples as it helps heal them. Try Endac today!
Endac stick $1
Endac tube 89¢
Antiseptic Skin Cleanser $1

*Get coupon when you buy; send with proof of purchase for refund.
PARK DRUG STORE
106 East Broadway Dial YU 2-1670
DRUGS WITH A REPUTATION
YOU'RE ALWAYS WELCOME AT YOUR Walgreen AGENCY DRUG STORE

HORNE'S FLORIST
215 W. Broadway Phone YU 2-2690
At the College See –
BILL SHANEFELT or LARRY STEARNS

GO SCOTS!
We're with you – All the Way
And Remember. . .
Homecoming, anytime, we serve Fine Foods for your mealtime pleasure.
College Hill Grill

THE FAMILY STORE
(On Court Street – Just back of Byrne Drug Co.)
Good Staple Merchandise at Low Prices
*Fruit-of-the-Loom Shorts & T-Shirts – 69¢
*Fruit of-the-Loom and other Sport Shirts–$1.98
*Polished Cotton Cheenos – $3.98
*Briarcliff Belts –$1.00 *Socks for Boys and Girls

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
New Location
218 COURT STREET
RELIGIOUS AND STUDY MATERIALS
TO FIT EVERY STUDENT'S NEEDS
Students Always Welcome!

1960 MARYVILLE COLLEGE SCOTS

Coach Speaks

The Maryville Scots of the 1960 football squad have a nucleus consisting of a higher calibre of football know-how than in the previous year of 1959.

Even though this be true, there still remains the important factor of experience which is lacking with all freshmen and many sophomores. All our quarterbacks are in this category—all our fullbacks, several of our halfbacks, and many of the linemen.

This factor alone is conducive to mistakes which are fatal at times. Game experence is the answer to improvement here. It takes time for the younger players to acquaint themselves with the older hands—and vice-versa.

One might say that the teamwork and effort needed has begun to reap results with the Emory and Henry game. If true, then it is hoped that it continues.

The team needs the support and backing of the entire student body and all the people living in Blount County. This is a tremendous help to all the team members, and to the Coaching Staff.

The task in the years ahead is for the college to create the interest necessary for Blount County high school students including athletes naturally, to want to attend Maryville. This plus a greater effort to get alumni everywhere in the United States to inform prospective students about Maryville and get good athletes to join thoose from Blount County and Tennessee to form a fine football squad and other varsity teams.

There is certainly no end in having winning teams, paralleling a fine academic student at any school and particularly at Maryville. No one is interested in tearing down Maryville's academic rating—at the same time where is there harm in having both. An athlete at Maryville should be treated as any other student—not deprived of or gaining from his being on a varsity squad.

Therefore, at Maryville College, I would like to see an athletic program on the basis that the majority of the times a varsity team representing Maryville College go onto the playing field with a fifty-fifty chance of winning—and if this situation comes about — then Maryville will win its share. This depends on the future students attending Maryville and arranging a schedule which is best suited for Maryville. Come out and see the Scots in their homecoming game Saturday night. All of you are needed.

Coach Baird

EAGLES TO MEET MC SCOTS HERE FOR HOMECOMING

The Bridgewater Eagles travel this Saturday night to play our Scots in this year's Homecoming game. The Eagles, one of the members of the Mason-Dixon Conference. hare lost every game so far. The 35 Eagles, from Bridgewater, Virginia have been able only to score one touchdown this season. Bridgewater which has a total- enrollment of about five hundred, does not stress athletics nor gives out scholarships.

From all reports the Eagles are a smaller team than the Scots and are a young and inexperienced unit. Their offense has been very poor so far this season; their defense is nothing to speak of either, because they allowed better than twenty points a game.

On the other hand the Scots are coming into this game after a great game against Emory and Henry. Our defensive lines were able to stop every threat the Wasps were able to muster. The Scots are favored to win their first Homecoming Game in many a year. Since the team sustained few injuries in our last game and the team is in good physical shape. Coach Baird said after the last game that if they play like they played in their last game, they would win against the Eagles.

WAA

Volleyball is the current sport being played by women in the WAA program. This sport wil be played for two weeks between the society teams. Approximately 50 women from the two societies showed up to participate in volleyball.

Scots Tie Wasps In 0-0 Thriller

The Maryville Scots entertained the Emory and Henry Wasps last Saturday night to the tune of a nothing to nothing tie. In the first quarter Maryville kicked-off to the Wasps 15, a return of seventeen yards put the ball on the Wasps 32, and in seven plays the Wasps were on the Scots 18. The Wasps quarterback raced back and threw a pass for his receiver in the end zone, but his pass was intercepted by Tom Bowers. This later turned out to be the key play in our Scots great defense.

The Scots were then unable to move the ball, so Bill Owenby punted; he just got his punt away, because it was almost blocked. It only traveled twenty-two yards. With the help of a clipping penality the Scots were able to hold the Wasps, and they had to punt. The punt was taken by the Scots Storey who handed off to McClanahan, and he then raced some tweny-five yards. This was one of the biggest thrills of the night.

SECOND QUARTER

In the second quarter the Scots had the ball at the start but the Wasps were able to intercept one of Denny Mobbs' passes. The Wasps, and on fourth down a bad pass from center and a great tackle by Bryson Struse gave the Scots the ball on the Wasps 25. At this point the Wasps intercepted another pass and raced it back to their own 31. Again the Scots defense capitalized on a Wasps mistake when Al Ries recovered a fumble on the Wasps 43. A drive by our Scots fell short on the Wasps 19, so Al Reis attempted a field goal which was short.

At this point three minutes remained in the half and the Wasps started to roll. In three plays the Wasps were on our Scots 31, but here, too, our Scots rose up and held the Wasps to one yard. On fourth down the Wasps also tried a field goal but it was short and wide. This ended the half.

Third Quarter

The second half kick-off was taken by the Scots Storey and returned fourteen yards to the Scots 34. Again the Scots offense could go nowhere. Again Bill Owenby kicked. After another clipping penality and a number of downs the Scots Storey grobed off a Wasp pass on the Wasps 44. For the rest of the third quarter the game was played between the two thirty yard lines.

Fourth Quarter

In the fourth quarter the Wasps owned the ball deep in their own territory on the 15, and six plays later punted to the Scots 23. On the first play Ron Lingenfelter fumbled the ball, and it was recovered by the Wasps. At this point it looked black for our Scots, as they had given the Wasps the break that could win it for them. Two plays later Tom Bowers again came up with the football—this time on a Wasps fumble. On the next play Denny Mobbs fumbled the ball, and again a Wasp player fell on the ball. A play later, Bill Owenby came up with another Wasps fumble, and the fans breathed easier.

With the help of another clipping the Scots moved the ball to their own 42, but here on fourth down Bill Owenby had to punt. Again the Scots held the Wasps. They punted to the Scots who moved the ball to the Wasps 43 and here Denny Mobbs went straight back. He spotted Frank Griffith and threw, but Frank was unable to hold on to the ball. A penality for pushing after the play was over moved the ball to the Wasps 38, and a play later another one of Mobbs passes was picked off. The Wasps had their final chance to score with less than two minutes to play. but at this point Don Elia threw the Wasps quarerback for a loss. Two plays later the Wasps punted to the Scots 19. With ten seconds on the clock the Scots let the time run out.

Open Letter To Freshmen

Dear Freshmen,

It isn't often that I have a chance to sit down and write you a letter, but seeing that I have something important both for you and your friends, I'm taking time out right now.

Let me tell you a story which I remember quite well. To begin with, your Scotties had had a poor season. Let me be honest, they had lost more than fifteen games in succession. Then came your arch-rivals, the Eagles of Carson-Newman. They came to the Hill hoping to add a bit more gloom to your disastrous season. Well, as I remember it, the game started, and lo and behold, the Big Scots went across for a score. The student body went into ecstasy. From that point on the fans roared their cheers throughout the field. At halftime your team had the lead and to open the second half, the student body went to the end of the field and led their heroes in. The Scots scored again, and it looked like victory. But with just about a minute to go in the game, the Eagles scored. What do you think the fans of MC did? Why they yelled "Hold that line" so loud that the officials had to come over three times and ask them to be quiet so C-N could hear the signals. Needless to say, your Scots stopped them and won the game.

I have your last year's College annual. Let me quote you some of the description of that now immortal game:

"The headline read 'Scots Edge Carson-Newman,' the tower bell rang and rang, the Student body shouted itself hoarse; the coach and team were carried off the field; the girls were given late permission to join a victory snake dance. All these added to the bedlam which set in at MC after our Scots had clipped the Eagles of Carson-Newman . . . The whole team was the hero . . . The football season is over & gone, but the wonderful memories of the C-N game will linger forever."

Sincerely,

Uncle Scots

P.S. Just think—when you win Homecoming maybe the girls will get another late permission!

BEAT 'EM SCOTS

M CLUB

The Women's M Club issued a questionaire in chapel this past Tuesday. The purpose of the questionaire was to gather information as to what types of intramuural sports are preferred by the student body. From this information the M Club plans to evaluate their program and point system.

13TH ANNUAL NSA CONGRESS HEARS INDUSTRY LEADERS

Some 1,000 students met in Minneapolis, Minnesota, this summer for the 13th annual NSA National Student Congress. Meeting on the campus of the University of Minnesota, the students spent 11 days in workshops and legslative subcommittees, committees and plenaries. The Congress dates were August 22 through September 1.

Participants heard addresses by Victor Reuther of the UAW; George Romney, president of American Motors; Charles Percy, president of Bell & Howell and chairman of the Republican Platform Committee; Allard K. Lowenstein, past president of NSA; and O. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Minnesota.

Wilson, who delivered the keynote address, called upon the participants to make sure that their education did not become a "spectator sport." He said the country needed good students even more than it needs good teachers. "The demonstration to be sponsored by this organization that would be of the greatest value would be the demonstration that the university is primarily a place of study," he said, while at the same time recognizing the value and importance of the sit-in movement and sympathy demonstrations.

2 — NSA CONGRESS

The delegates adopted proprosals of NSA policy for the coming year which included:

— Strong support for the sit-in movement and for non-violent protest action, including provisions for close cooperation between USNSA and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee composed of sit-in leaders, continued circulation of information on the events of the movement to American students in an attempt to promote understanding of its purposes non-violent picketing and selective buying campaigns, fundraising campaigns for legal defense and scholarship assistance, and continuing pressure to eliminate discriminatory practices on the campuses of USNSA member schools and in their surrounding communities. The resolution passed 305-37.

— Establishment of a set of criteria which must be met before USNSA will consider attendance at the September, 1961 Moscow Youth Forum. The criteria includes prior publcation of agenda and speakers list to prove the representativity of the meeting.

— Establishment of a set of principles for the freedom of the student press and accompanying set of responsibilities of the student press.

For HIGHEST QUALITY
at LOWEST PRICES
It's
MARYVILLE JEWELERS
–KEEPSAKE DIAMONDS–

WON'T WRITE ?
CALL WHITE
Keep your typewriter working at its best.
White's factory-trained repairmen are at your service.
WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YU 3-4762

Council Selects 33 Chaperones

Senior chaperones were recently selected by the Student Council to attend small student gatherings throughout the year.

Those chosen were Zaida Brown, Mary Darling, Terry Lee Dick, Linda Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. John Eaddy, Susie Fagan, Carolyn Gass, David Gilmore, Bill Green, Gary Hall, Don Harward, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hoefer, Lee Odell, Bill Owenby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Pearson, George Poland, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinn, Peggy Reiter, George Roselli, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Lin Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Stefancic, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Talley.

— Calling for the modification of the directives issued by President Clark Kerr of the University of California representing opinion of the student body from taking positions on the "off-campus political, religious, economic, international or other issues of the time."

— Urging that the National Defense Education Act of 1958, which comes up for review by the 87th Congress this year, be enlarged to include scholarship as well as loan provisions, and eliminate those provisions of the act which justify federal aid to education solely on the basis of national defense.

— Disapproval of loyalty oaths and disclaimer affidavits, and especially those provisions in the NDEA, including the Prouty Amendment.

3 — NSA CONGRESS

— Condemnation of all expulsions, recriminations and reprimands of students and professors which are in violation of the principles of free expression of ideas. "Freedom of discussion in the classroom and in academic consultation is fundamental to higher education," they stated.

— Establishment of a new project called "Project Awareness" designed to combat apathy and increase student awareness on the American college campus and develop a new concept of the American student movement. "Project Awareness" calls for the selection of one major issue as a theme of action and discussion for all college students for the forthcoming year. The topic ras not yet been selected. The project is based on the principle that "mature and intelligent refection on any issue can only be afforded by individuals well-informed of both world and national affairs."

The program includes provisions for holding a national student referendum on the issue of the past year each October if the issues is such that it can be divided and voted upon. This would in no way limit action and discussion on other issues during the year, the resolution states.

— A Basic Policy Declaration stating that the college student should be concerned with off-campus issues of political and social natures. The student should be concerned not simply with the probems of direct relevance to the academic community, but as well with those great problems and issues of our national and international life.

Some 50 remaining pieces of legislation were referred to the National Executive Committee for action due to lack of time on the Congress Penary floor.

Prior to the Congress three special 5-day conferences were held for Student Body Presidents, Student Editors and NSA Coordinators.

Fourth College Poetry Anthology

The American College Poetry Society is pleased to announce that its fourth semesterly anthology of outstanding college poetry is now being compiled for publication early next year.

Contributions must be the original work of the student (who shall retain literary rights to the material), submitted to the undersigned, care of the Society, with the entrant's name, address, and school on each page. Poems, which may deal with any subject, may not exceed 48 lines, nor may any individual submit more than five poems. Entries which are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but they cannot be otherwise acknowledged, nor can the Society compensate students for poetry which is published. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, December 9, 1960, to be considered, and the decisions of the Society judges are final.

Dr. Griffitts To Be Vice Chairman

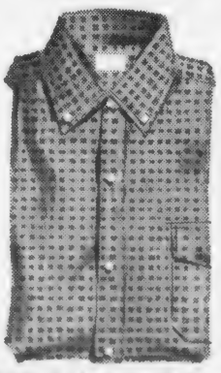
Professor F. A. Griffitts was honored by being elected Vice Chairman of the South Central Independent College Association of Chemists when it met at Centre College, Kentucky, last week. Dr. Albert Myers of Carson-Newman College was elected Chairman.

While at that meeting, Dr. Griffitts extended an invitation to the Association to meet on the Maryville College campus in 1961, and the invitation was accepted. This will probably take place the first weekend in October.

Dr. Griffitts has been further honored by being elected General Chairman of a committee to plan for the 1962 Southeastern Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society when the East Tennessee Section of the Society is host to that body. The meeting is to be held in Gatlinburg, probably the last week in October, 1962.

Dr. Lloyd Attends Two Conferences

During the last week of October Dr. Lloyd will attend two conferences. On October 28 and 29 he will be in Knoxville for the East Tennessee Education Association meeting where he will speak on "Cultural Changes in Education."



October 30 through November 1 Dr. Lloyd will go to Louisville Kentucky, where the newly organized Council for Financial Aid to Education will meet. The Council, which consists of business leaders interested in higher education, was founded by its present chairman Irving S. Olds, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corporation.

Among the council's distinquished directors are G. Keith Funston, President of the N.Y. Stock Exchange; Alfred P. Sloan, honorary chairman of the Board of the General Motors Corporation; Robert W. Woodruff, chairman of the Financial Committee of the Coco-Cola Company; and De Witt Wallace, editor and publisher of the Readers Digest.

McGrand LS

SURPRISE
by McGREGOR

Channel Surf Trad

765 Herthshire Authentic Down

Magnificent Patterned Wash 'n Wear Shirts

World famous McGregor sportshirts in bold conversation prints, neat paisleys and muted plaids. Tailored of crisp wash and wear cotton with custom details men demand. Choose from a variety of different styles including button down or traditional collars. In new misty Colors of the Hebrides Isles.

for only $5

Proffitt's

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 4 | Maryville, Tennessee | November 5, 1960

SCOTS ACCEPT BOWL BID

Judge Luther W. Youngdahl

Cast Chosen For Barnwarming Show

The cast for the 1960 Barnwarming Musical. Man In The Hall, was chosen October 25, as follows: Beth. Glenda Gray; Skeeter. Charlie Feast; Mrs. Biernbaum, Arlene Ford: Mr. Biernbaum. Bob Washborn; Lorraine. Ginny Pratt; Scott. Mike Garrett; "Mole," Nancy Slack; Maggie. Cathy Poole; Tina. Cynthia Blanchard; Maris, Barbara McCarter; Vee, Judy Springstead; Danny. Bruce Jenkins; Girls on the Hall. Kay Hubber. Janet Kilgard, Sarah Lewis, and Patt O'Neill.

Man In The Hall is written and directed by Lynn Waddington, with music by Sue Bloomer and lyrics by Pat Baker. The play takes place in a girls' preparatory school, making the setting, situations and characters familiar to the audience, yet different enough to avoid a direct parody of Maryville.

Tryouts for a dancing chorus will be held soon. Anyone interested in this or in playing in the combo should contact Lynn Waddington or Gary Hall, technical director.

The performance will be held on Thanksgiving night. The admission charged will go to a community or world concern which will be announced later.

New Study Program Proposed For Sophs.

A type of Independent Study program for underclassmen is now being considered at Maryville College, Dr. Edwin Hunter has announced. This program would provide that superior students with an average of at least 3.25 could be considered for a new type of Independent Study in their sophomore year.

The students who qualified for this could do additional reading and writing plus the regular class work to earn another credit hour. It would be advisable for the student to do this work in some other field than his major. since the regular Independent Study in the major field will be done in the junior year.

This proposal has been discussed at the Student Council Retreat and in the Student Faculty Senate. More information will be released later.

JUDGE YOUNGDAHL TO LECTURE NOV. 11

The first lecture of the 1960-61 Maryville College Lecture Series will be given by Judge Luther W. Youngdahl of Washington, D. C., on Friday evening, the eleventh of November, at 8 p. m. in the College Theatre. Judge Youngdahl's topic will be "The Hearth. the Flag and the Prayer" in which he will discuss the responsibilities of the individual in our present civilization.

Judge Youngdahl has held various judicial posts, including membership on the Minnesota Supreme Court, and has been United States District Court Judge for the District of Columbia since his appointment by President Truman in 1951.

Prior to his Washington post he was elected Republican Governor of Minnesota three times—in 1946, 1948 and 1950. While Governor he received nationwide fame through his vigorous law enforcement program, particularly in wiping out the "rackets" in Minnesota. His administration was also marked by pioneering programs in the fields of youth conservation, resettlement of displaced persons and mental health.

Judge Youngdahl is a graduate of Gustavus Adolpus College and the University of Minnesota College of Law. In addition he has received honorary doctorates from some fourteen colleges and universities.

He holds the Grand Cross of the Royal Order of the North Star, presented by King Gustaf V. of Sweden, is one of the two Honorary Life Members of the Menninger Foundation as a result of his leadership in mental health, was chosen 1949 Lutheran of the Year, was selected in 1951 by the Big Brothers of America as "Big Brother of the Year," and received the Silver Antelope Award from the Boy Scouts of America.

Judge Youngdahl is the subject of Robert Esbjornson's book, A Christian In Politics, Luther Youngdahl; A Story of a Christian's Faith at Work in a Modern World.

Glee Clubs Will Present Fall Show

The annual Fall Serenade of the Glee Clubs will be presented on Friday evening, November 18, at eight o'clock in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

An outstanding program dedicated to Oscar Hammerstein II has been planned, with songs from the following musical shows: A Song of the Flame. Rose Marie, Sunny. Showboat. Music In The Air. The Desert Song. The New Moon. Oklahoma. Carousel. Allegro. South Pacific. The King and I. Me and Juliet. Pipe Dream, The Sound of Music. Cinderella, and Flower Drum Song. Soloists, trios, quartettes. and the chorus will appear.

Special attention is called to the change in date from that previously announced in the Calendar of Fine Arts.

ORCHESTRA TO PRESENT CONCERT

The Maryville College - Community Orchestra, under the direction of John Roberts, will present its first concert of the season on Thursday, November 10, at 8:00 P.M. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The program includes:

Prelude to "Die Meistersinger von Nuernberg" — Wagner
Symphony No. 1 in C major, Op. 21 — Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Andante cantabile
Light Calvary Overture — F. von Suppe
Bell of the Ball — Leroy Anderson
Song of the Bells—Leroy Anderson

Orchestra personnel includes Katherine Crews, Mary Ann Duey, Gail Garloch, Margaret Lindahl, Kenneth Marmon, Rita Martin, James McDonald, James Miller, Ann Myers, Margaret Ross, Joy Umberger, Kay Hultquist, Dorothea Saint, Phyllis Deloteus, Linda Brehm, Marcia Keesling, Eugenia Miller, Robert Morey, Stephen Henderson, Rebecca Wadsworth, Judith Smith, Anna Baker, Ernest Cox, Tod Jablonski, Larry Jenkins, Fowler Jennings, William Roberts, Don Spears, Delores Kimber, Suzanne McCoskey, Ronald Noble, Donald Stupak. Robert Burkhardt, David Conklin, Richard Petti. and Janice Privette.

National Defense Loan Made To MC

Marvville College has received $14,236 in funds for the student loans this year under the National Defense Education Act, according to the report of the United States Education Committee in Washington. 25 students are receiving loans this semester. Approximately 40 percent of total amount will be used during this first semester.

Grants are made to individuals on the basis of need and a previous academic standing of at least a C average. The loan is not available for first semester freshmen.

The amount Marvville College receives from the National Defense Loans is a part of $1,056.872 granted to 43 Tennessee colleges and universities. Marvville received the full amount they requested for this year.

Loans are limited to $1000 a year or $5000 for a student's entire college career. A student does not have to start repaving the money until a year after finishing college. The interest, which also does not start until a year after the college work is completed, amounts to 3 percent.

If a borrower becomes a full time teacher in a public elementary or secondary school, a maximum of 50 percent of the loan, plus interest, may be canceled at the rate of 10 percent for each year of teaching.

A total of $57,700,000 is being distributed nationwise this year to 1,407 participating colleges and universities.

Exchange Program With Knox College

Our campus was host to a group of eight students from Knoxville College on the weekend of October 29. Part of a permanent exchange program, the exchange was reciprocal, with six Maryville students attending Knoxville College. Dining hall and dormitory arrangements in each case were arranged by the student leaving his campus. His roommate acting as host to the visiting student. No scheduled program was set up, the feeling being that a more informal and relaxed visit could be obtained in this way. Sharon Walrond, Steve Hendersoon, Patt O'Neill, Carolyn McGaskill, Dick Norman and Blair Moffett represented Maryville College at Knoxville College.

This program began last year when the International Committee invited a group of Knoxville students to visit our campus and received a return invitation. A permanent committee was formed to take charge of the exchange. From Maryville, committee members were Brenda Hewitt, president, Janice Walters, secretary, and Dean McClelland, sponsor. Knoxville College representatives are as follows: Leroy Pullum, president, Jaunita Curry, secretary, and Mr. Reese, sponsor. At a committee meeting, criteria for the program were formed. One exchange a month to be held on the same weekend for both groups was agreed upon. A different group of individuals, selected each time, should be composed of four women and four men. When possible, transportation means will be the same for both groups. During each school's spring vacation, it is hoped that exchanges involving more students will be possible.

At an evaluation meeting on Sunday, October 30, the weekend visit was reviewed. Students had attended such functions as the football game, Y meetings, and the Chi Beta-Kappa Phi picnic. That the visit was successful was clearly established. A wish was expressed that the next visit include individuals who had never been exposed to a biracial situation such as this. Although still rather indefinite, plans were formulated to have a semester exchange involving one man and one woman from each school during the second semester of this school year. Anyone interested in some phase of this program may contact Brenda Hewitt for further information.

Japanese Prints To Be In Show

The Art Department will present an exhibition of contemporary Japanese prints in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center November 10 through December 9.

Often highly abstract, these prints display a range of techniques and expression interestingly Japanese in feeling and international in appeal.

Coach Boydson Baird announced last week that the Scottie football team had accepted an invitation to play Milsaps College in the first annual Space Bowl on November 19. The location of the Space Bowl is in Huntsville, Alabama. The game will be played under the auspices of the Gentry—Isom Post 2702 Veterans of Foreign Wars and proceeds from this contest will go to help underprivileged children in the Huntsville area.

Milsaps is a Methodist school with an enrollment of about 900 students. To date, the Majors of Milsaps have won only one football game. The home of the school is in Jackson. Mississippi, and the head football coach is Erm Smith, a former football standout with the Ole Miss Rebels.

This will be the first bowl bid for Milsaps College, but the Maryville Scotties have appeared in the Tangerine Bowl in 1946-47.

The officials backing the bowl hope to have such a successful turnout to the Maryville—Milsaps contest that the interest will warrent the continuation of the Space Bowl in years to come.

Student Faculty Curriculem Group

The Student-Faculty Curriculem Committee is a study committee under the student body constitution and is composed of the college dean plus a teacher and a student from every division.

The committee this year, headed by Dean Frank McClelland, includes:: Miss Idella Ferguson and Mike Ducey from the division of Bible, Religion and Philosphy; Mrs. Thelma Kramer and Harriette Blankenship from the division of Education and Psychology; Miss Katherine Crews and Barbara Jayne from the division of Fine Arts; Miss Kathryn Martin and Beth Reichart from the division of Language and Literature; Dr. D. B. Williams and Margie Ross from the division of Natural Sciences; and Miss Carlanna Lindamood and Martha Turnbull from the division of Social Sciences.

The faculty members on this committee are chosen by President Lloyd and the student members are elected for two year periods by the students within a particular division. This committee does study work on different phases of curriculem and then makes recommendations to the Faculty Committee on Curriculem.

FACULTY CLUB

Th Faculty Club will hold its regular meeting on November 7 at 7:30 in Pearson's Hall. Dr. Robert Lynn will be the speaker and will talk on the subject "The Economic Growth Issue in the Election of 1960."

Gallery hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Editorially Speaking

Our voice

United States National Student Association represents one million students from four hundred colleges and universities. Maryville College is now one.

In the past few weeks minds have been stirring on our campus. Our voice need not be confined to the foothills of the Smokies. Through USNSA we can have our thinking represented in the US Congress and the UN General Assembly. We need only to take the iniative to write a letter to the officers of USNSA.

When the president of the student body invites us to attend council meetings to decide our action on national and international issues, he is not acting merely from the tradition of Southern hospitality. His invitation is to be taken seriously.

Our action

USNSA acts on a number of international questions, the most outstanding of which is Algerian independence. On the national scene sit-ins and economic boycotts have proved effective, and in addition proved that courageous idealism is still a part of the American heritage.

A few days ago the ECHO received a lengthy letter outlining the plans of a protest demonstration to be staged the afternoon of November 8 at voting places all over the country. The protests concerns the denial of suffrage to Negroes in certain Southern states and protests the reprisals on these Negroes who demand suffrage. The outstanding example presented was a county in West Tennessee.

USNSA is week in our region. Member schools in the area are intimidated by many factors. Perhaps we at Maryville this year will have the courage to take our concern and conviction beyond the security of the campus gates.

By Way of Reccomendation..

There was no message from me on these pages last issue. and there has been no indication that it was missed. At the insistance of the editor I have again undertaken the pen. This time however, I am comforted by the fact that I may sermonize and verbalize without fear of being read and mis-understood.

In this month's Reader's Digest there is an article by General Carlos P. Romulo entitled. "America, WakeUp!." that has answered a fervent plea which I have held for several years. I have often wanted to hear someone from the generation preceding ours beg us too assume the realization that the goals we have set for ourselves have become distorted. Ask yourself how many times in this past month and a half you have heard someone say that, "As soon as I get out of here I want to start earning that cash and make a name for myself." or "I wish I could just give up the whole thing and get married and settle down to enjoying life." If you've heard such statements, if you have uttered them yourself then I urge you to walk into the library pick up this article. and experience some real soul searching, some real personal evaluation, and a great deal of cold hard fear.

General Romulo is not just another military hack; he has shown himself as a Pulitzer Prize winning journalist, a soldier, and statesman and has been the Philippine ambassador to the U. S. since 1945. When he utters such words as, "America. wake up! Shake off the course of inaction that is giving the forces of evil the right of way in this world! Face up to the blunt fact that you are now engaged in a real war and that it must be fought and won. This is the only alternative to defeat by default!", he does not speak to a nation, he speaks to you and me, and I defy you to read him and not be moved.

After you've read the article, find a couple of others who have done so and sit down together and talk it over. When you do I hope you'll get MAD! I hope you'll get mad enough to write your parents, mad enough to write your national representatives, and mad enough to come to Student Council and help find a way to make a noise loud enough to drown out the buzzing of our everyday life and to answer the question, "What are you going to do when you get through?", with the reply, "I intend to do something before I am through, before its too late to do anything."

—Ron Pearson

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol, 46 No. 4 November 5, 1960

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange Editor ..... Tammy Day
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors ..... David Doyscher, Mike Garrett, Keen Compher, Will Skelton, Jeanne Price, Marcia Rushworth, Ann Thomas, Carol Fowke, Joan Runyon, Carol Wood, June Wilson, Patti Paul, Carol Webster, Lynn Waddington, Arlene Ford, Jon Sypher, Pat Crossley.
Typists ..... Jean Keller, Gloria Schwam, Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Bill Stueben
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

Mail Box

Dear Editor.

There's a good deal of naivete on this campus about just how a person can reach a decision about the pending Presidential election. We think of if in terms of agreeing with a roommate while alienating a teacher, or vice versa. It's clear that very few people around here have reached any sort of objective decision, and it's close to the time when each of us is going to have to attempt some sort of sincere evaluation of men, parties, and issues. Perhaps some such examination could begin with the assumption of one or two things:

1. Religion has no more of a place in the campaign than does hair color or shoe size. Neither candidate is really seeking to follow any "Will" but that of conscience. Still, the Vatican has not attempted to interfere with the politics of any nation for 250 years; it is weak, and will be of no concern to us until a priest gives Jack the ring and staff.

2. Foreign policy and domestic problems are inseparably dependent upon one another.

The real issue seems to be one between idealism and realism. Some months before World War II, Roosevelt sought the confidence of America while remaining perfectly frank on the state of the Union. His uncanny foresight on international perplexities knew enough to encourage, but also to say, "There is danger ahead . . . we cannot escape danger, or the fear of danger, by crawling into bed and pulling the covers over our heads . . ."

It's pretty obvious that Kennedy's experience has taught him the same thing; what has Dick shown, for all his? On one hand, Nixon is trying to restore enthusiasm for his party by flaunting "peace and prosperity." while Kennedy, on the other, exploits the "loss of prestige" suffered since 1952. Now look at what's going on here. There is too much overlapping, too little difference, in our party system to fence off "good" and "bad" years in groups of four. Eisenhower was a paradox, and just the kind we needed; even the Democrats wanted him. So we had a leader—the real "peace and prosperity" came when the Republican administration put their stamp of approval on the New Deal and Fair Deal. A great leader used the remains of great leaders to guide us through an era.

Nixon's in the clear. His "high seriousness" has kept him safe from having to say, concretely, what it is he intends to set as a goal and what he expects of us in achieving it. Kennedy numbers his policy points, sticks his neck out voluntarily, and occasionally gets an ear lopped off. But this is to be expected when you commit yourself. Kennedy is certainly not trying to please everyone at once.

Even national leaders have to say exactly where they stand. As he looked at Nazi Germany, so must we look at Russia. He knew there is no such thing as "peaceful co-existence." The price of peace is either total surrender or action. As then, we must rely solely on our allies in Europe, Asia, and Latin America. The Soviet is presenting a very definite threat to the West, and we can't run from it; the way to prove our point is to keep the free world believing in real freedom; to allow any lesser standard is to lose to mutual destruction. If there is another war at all, ever, the rats are going to win it.

The Republican platform is organized on the grounds that everything occurs in the fullness of time; that farm, labor, race, and tax questions are gradually on their way to being solved and that we must see our way step by step. Yet impossible concessions, never committal statements, are made in a last-ditch effort to prove it a national party. The Democrats assert that the fullness of time depends upon the consciousness of our citizenry; that domestic situations cannot be passively handled, for they will influence our relations abroad. They're not trying to play ball with everybody: the Democratic party as a whole has adopted a platform in which they believe, at the risk of perhaps not playing ball with certain factions of its own contingency. Nixon and Lodge—a fine team; but did it ever occur to anyone that something worthwhile might possibly come of a balance between Kennedy and Johnson?

"We are living, we are dwelling in a grand and awful time." Roosevelt, in that most controversial and nervous year 1940, said that "all of our present efforts are not enough . . . We have no excuse for defeatism . . . I call for that national effort . . . with absolute confidence that our common cause will greatly succeed." He was right, too; not only about the forties, because this thing has implications for the next centuries. Kennedy hasn't been a defeatist; he's called a spade a spade and suggested what we can do about it. I sincerely believe that we must put our trust in some man who has both foresight and decision, as well as solid foundation for his beliefs. We're on the eve of fresh opportunity. The New Frontier—Kennedy's only abstract—could become reality: that is. more than "the great USA" could reap its benefits. A nation might discharge its commitment to the free world.

Poet's Niche

IN ANSWER

—R. Craig Snyder

And one day, when out walking a high road,
Man came across a thicket dense with — knowledge.
And He took the hard road
and went through the thicket,
for He was Man and no higher,
and could not have it another
way.

And halfway through, Man found that He had bound Himself with the thicket's vines, knotted by His own hands.
And Man's mind,
startled,
wheeled about, looking for His former path.
But the woods were deep
and no escape was offered.
And Man sat down and contemplated, and asked,
"Why?"
for He was Man and no higher,
and could not have it another
way.

And God looked down, and saw Man's bonds and heard the question.
And God mused with Himself and answered, saying,
"If thou had'st traveled the high road beyond
the thicket and known the Truth, then thou would'st not be Man, but something higher."
And Man, hearing this, contented Himself with the vines
and tied more knots,
for He was Man and no higher,
and could not have it another
way.

And God, looking down upon this,
saw that it was good,
and spoke, saying,
"Thou art Man and no higher, and
I would not have it another way."

JEWELS

Bill Green

Reminiscence.
Holding drops of frozen ages in paws, inoffensive little beads with crystal record of pasts, adorning transient egos.
Weaned on lightfed ray, they mature to be made small gods. Flattered selves implore the secret of the prism.
Such buds enhance cage, not consciousness.
Silent profanation; Christs recrucified
because salvation needs compensation; loves dying before their congregations with the fingers of icy applause;
greasy loyalties and closedshop dooms.
Memory can't be put on velvet—
it must be felt: see if it looks as good.
This is what happened: humus never had it so good.
Solidified under pressure, they had only to wait for the searcher to give them meaning.
Coincidence.
(It's almost like being snickered at from the other end of eternity.)

SUNSET: GRAND CANYON IN SPRING

Bill Green

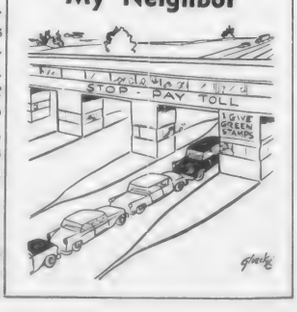
Time grinned, leaving a shrine to sincere artistry. But all creation is a variation on this.

Cutting Colorado made eonhearts swell, dynasties feel, pureinhearts tremble, unbeliefs assemble for this.

Last prickupeared burro worshipped trail with his ancestors. Day winked two worlds are linked in this.

USNSA Supports Atlanta Sit-Ins

The USNSA, of which Maryville College is a member, is in full support of the sit-in demonstrations which have recently occured throughout the country.



Sit-in demonstrations are presently taking place in Atlanta, Georgia, where 75 arrests have been made within the last few weeks. These demonstrations will be continued until proposed integration objectives are achieved.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., one of the leaders in the Atlanta demonstrations, has refused to post bond and is currently being held in Fulton County Jail.

Most of th demonstrators arrested were college students. Of the 50 who were arrested in Atlant on October 19, 14 refused to post bond and went to jail.

The national Staff of USNSA has dispatched the following telegram to Atlanta: "United States National Student Association sends expression of solidarity in struggle for racial equality. Efforts underway to mobilize northern student support for the sit-in movement. We shall overcome."

My Neighbor

Scotties Win Two Home Games

TALLEY

STOREY

GRIFFITH

Scots Beat Eagles

At Honaker Field the Maryville Scotties defeated the Bridgewater Eagles in this year's Homecoming game 36-0. For the first time this season the Scotties offense clicked as a unit and the Big Orange ran right through the Eagle line. The home team got off on the right foot when Ramsey recovered an Eagle fumble of their own 37 yard line. Eight plays latter Ron Lingenfelter raced over the goal line on a 13 yard run around left end. Clarence Stirey ran the ball over for two points and an 8-0 lead. Bridgewater, unable to get started, had to punt out. As soon as the Scots got the ball Clarence Storey scooted a long 61 yards for a beautiful touchdown. Reis came in and booted the ball through the uprights and the spirit of victory was in the air. Late in the second quarter Denny Mobbs, a sophomore from Detroit who has done an outstanding job as quarterback this year, hit Tom Bowers with a screen pass and he legged it 35 yards into the end zone and that was all the scoring in the first half. Throughout the second half the Scottie defense proved too formidable for the Eagles. But this did not hamper the improved offense of the Highlanders. Tyson McClanahan raced 51 yards for a score and Ron Lingenfelter added his second tohchdown of the night as the Scotties proved too powerful for the visitors.

Lions Lose 35-6

Mars Hill College met the Scots last Saturday night on Honaker "no light" Field and suffered a 35-6 beating. The Scots again started where they had left off against Bridgewater. Taking advantage of a short kick, the home team quickly put six points on the scoreboard as Ken Berry crashed over from the one yard line and in his attempt for the extra point the kick went wide of the range. Again taking the ball at mid-field the Scots moved down field in six plays and another score. This time it was Bower who got the T D and Ries kicked the point after to make it 13-0. At this point Mars Hill mustered up an offense. Marching 58 yards it was able to score on a five yard run around end. The Lions try for the point after failed and so at the end of the half it was Maryville 13-6.

The Lions had first chance at the football and not being able to move the pikskin, had to punt out. Mobbs hit Tyson McClanahan with a 59 yard screen pass and Tyson tight-roped it into the end zone. With the conversion added the score stood at 21-6. The next score for the Orange and Garnet was the longest of the season. It started on their own 17. After getting the ball all the way down the field the boys had trouble in getting into the end zone, but on the third attempt Ken Berry ploughed through and the point after made it 28-6. Tyson CcClenahan concluded the scoring for the Scots with a big run of 53 yards and Ries again booted the ball home for the final point as the Scots rolled to another easy victory.

Sachet and Sneakers

It's football season again; that is, Powder Puff football time. For those who are new around here and don't know what Powder Puff football is, it is girl's football at its best. Each year around this time the girls start practicing for the sport's classic that will be played Thanksgiving weekend. The touch football game is an annual affair between Chi Beta and Theta Epsilon societies. For the past two years the game has ended in a 0-0 tie. This year both societies are out to win.

Every afternoon out on the intramural field these teams can be seen practicing. In the dark blue shirts are the Thetas being coached by Ron Pearson and Hank Andrews. Ann McElhenny, quarterback of the Theta team will be seen putting her team though the paces. At the other end of the field, Chi Beta coached by Bill McGuire and Gary Hall practice. During kicking practice, Peggy Williams, who says she never has played football before, astounds everyone with her kicking ability.

How much do these girls know about football? Some know nothing, others know what they have learned from brothers. But one thing is sure: they are all learning how to play and how to play hard. Any of you who want to put away your sachet and put on sneaks for a few hours a day, go join your society team.

This week "Introducing" would like you to meet three of the outstanding members of this year's Highlander football team. To begin with there is Mike Talley, a senior who plays at the guard position. Mike stands 5' 10" and weighs about 195. Playing his high school ball at Maryville High helped Mike step into the number one guard position on the Scotties' team from the beginning. Mike's sports abilities do not stop with just football. For the past several seasons he has handled the catching duties for the baseball team. Needless to mention, Mike is a physical education major with high hopes of getting into the teaching field upon leaving M.C.

Clarence Storey is one of the few boys on our team who has had little high school football training. Graduating from Walland High School, he came on to Maryvile without having played high school football. Clarence weighs only 150 so he has great speed. It might be pointed out that it was his fine touchdown run against Bridgewater that opened the gates to a flood of scores by the Big Orange and Garnet.

Last but certainly not least is the "Grand Dad" of the football team. Frank Griffith. Frank is one of the better receivers on our team. Standing 6' and weighing only 180, he can run and fake with the best of them. Come the basketball and baseball seasons Frank is always on the college varsity so he is another example of an all-round athlete.

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR
Southern Shoes
Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.
116 West Broadway

College Hill Grill
Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street
DELICIOUS ITALIAN
PIZZA
All Meals Served Family Style

BOWLING

STUDENT RATES TILL 5:30
PARTIES WELCOME ANYTIME
Maryville Bowling Center
Phone YU 2-4092

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and Milk
Smoother, Richer, better Tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

MARYVILLE JEWELERS
— SPECIAL —
Shaffer's Student WRITING KIT ($3.00 Value)
Only 98¢
Just Past the Movies

Won't Write — Call White!
WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YU 3-4762

THE FAMILY STORE
(On Court Street — Just back of Byrne Drug Co.)
*Fruit-of-the-Loom Shorts & T-Shirts — 69¢
*Fruit-of-the-Loom and other Sport Shirts—$1.98
*SPECIAL — CHEENOS — $2.98
*Boys & Girls Socks — 3 for $1.00

Students Discuss Honor System Plan

Helen Ann Easterly

(This is the second of two articles about the Student Council-sponsored student leaders' retreat on October 8.)

The second section of the student leaders' retreat concerned responsibility. Of vital interest to the student body is the discussion led by John Faddy, concerning an academic honor system for Maryville College. First some objections to the system were mentioned:

(1.) Some students believe cheating is a matter of individual conscience; (2.) without strong social force behind it, such a system would fail; (3.) there is not way to protect honest students except by faculty supervision. Because of these hazards, the system must arise from the initiative of a vast majority of students, with a program of pre-education, wholehearted faculty support, strict enforcement, and an evolutionary development of the practice of the system.

Tentatively, the system would involve an honor council to have jurisdiction in cases of violation. There would be no proctoring of exams; students would be expected to report any instances of dishonesty. In some college honor councils the administration and faculty have authority only when the penalty is expulsion. Student members of the council would be elected by a rotation method. This membership is a privilege, an unused area of student responsibility. But it must be initiated by a student move from outside the Council.

In a discussion group about leadership development, Carolyn Gass was the chairman. Leadership must not be confined to high offices in large organizations. Concrete suggestions for developing leadership included a file kept in the Student Council office, of which each officer of each organization would contribute an annual report of completed projects as well as unfinished plans and more minor details. Another necessary step is a definition of the responsibility of each officer; in smaller organizations, too, the vice-presidents position could be a training ground for the next year's presidency. A leadership training program would perhaps include three spring meetings in which present officers explain specific responsiblities to their successors, and three fall meetings for a recapitulation of plans. While leadership is a quality for which there can be no actual training, orientation which includes practical applications is essential to success.

Responsibility to students, faculty, and administration was another topic of discussion, led by Mike Garrett. The unifying factor pointed out by the group is purpose. The single purpose of the whole personnel of the college is learning and instruction. The common goal of all individuals must be co-operation.

An area in which our college needs improvement is intellectual stimulation. Through co-operation between students, faculty and administration this can be promoted in several ways. One suggested plan was a rating of teachers who voluntarily hand out to students questionnaides concerning classroom conduct, lecture and exam methods. The students' rating of teachers in this way should improve effectiveness in classroom procedure.

The student himself should take a greater responsibility for his learnings. A suggested action in this direction is a "crash program": every student would agree to be prepared for every class for one week. This might stimulate teachers as well as students to greater intellectual effort. Another possible plan is a special independent study for freshmen and sophomores, similiar to the required studies for upperclassmen, but for the purpose of helping lowerclassmen to choose a major field. This program would be offered to the best qualified students, perhaps the upper ten percent of the class. To give the freshmen a sense of the college experience, weekly student-led seminars might prove effective. Their purpose would be to give an understanding of the goals and an appreciation of academic life and responsibility in college.

In a discussion of the academic, social, and spiritual responsibility of students, led by Linda Dobson, this question was asked: Are students responsible to those who seem to take no interest in activities on campus? The answer is that everyone is interested in something, and perhaps new activities should be introduced. A specific suggestion: the building of a student center. (The group was reminded that students built Bartlett Hall about sixty years ago.)

Academically, students should stress excellence through example. Academic honesty is significant. In social activity, there is much overlapping; perhaps an effective plan would be a colordinating committee of all the program chairmen of campus organizations. Perhaps campus religious life could be more practically worked out if these organizations could work together in some project, for example, Brotherhood Week, including such features as a human relations film, a chapel program, and an art exhibit, relating to the theme.

Are the various organizations on our campus fulfilling their purpose? In a discussion of relation and responsibility to student organizations, led by George Poland, the declining interest in the language clubs was pointed out, with the comparative continuing success of the YMCA and YWCA. In a re-evaluation of rush week, interference with other activities was emphasized. Perhaps rush for the societies could be condensed into one week, two nights for each pair of societies, with displays limited to allow for better quality. Pledging would occur two or three weeks later, and pledges would participate unofficially in society activities until initiation n the spring semester. This would allow freshmen more time to choose or change societies under less pressure, and would create a distinction between freshmen and upperclassmen. Another suggestion was a required scholastic average of two points)C) before initiation. A possible need for a third set of societies was brought out, since membership in the existing societies makes insufficient allowance for participation of many individuals.

As stated in the first article, any suggestions concerning topics of discussion mentioned here, or related topics, may be addressed to Council members or to the ECHO. Such suggestions are anticipated with interest and will be considered seriously.

Student Body To Join With USNSA

On October 19 Student Council voted to renew Maryville College's membership in USNSA, the United States National Student Association. This action has created a need for increased student understanding and interest in USNSA.

Formulation of USNSA was first visualized in 1946 by 25 American delegates from ten universities and nine student and youth organizations who attended the World Student Congress at Fregue. Seeing the need for a nonpartisan American student organization, these delegates determined to form an organization that might become "the spokesman of the American student community."

Organizational plans were begun, and at Christmas, 1946, 700 delegates from 294 schools and 16 national student and youth associations met at the University of Chicago. These delegates took the first steps in creating a national student union by electing a Continuations Committee to draft a Constitution and to arrange a Constitutional Convention for the following summer.

Thus in August, 1947, USNSA was established when 750 delegates from 356 schools assembled at the University of Wisconsin.

They wrote a constitution, chose a name, and decided to make the student body, represented through its democratically elected student government, the basis of its membership.

During its thirteen years of existence USNSA has become "the most responsible and articulate spokesman for the American student community." Its 400 member schools—with more than one million students—are permanently represented in each session of Congress and its officers, upon request, have presented student opinion before committees of the House and Senate. Student opinion is voiced through the National Student News, the monthly newspaper of USNSA which is distributed to member campuses, leading educators, and national leaders.

USNSA, "the only completely student-controlled organization devoted exclusively to serving the needs of all American students," is working to represent accurately the problems, interests, and aspirations of the American students.

OUT OF SPACE FLIGHT RESEARCH

MORE WARMTH, LESS WEIGHT

McGREGOR DRIZZLER RAM JET

$19.95

Amazing Curtiss-Wright Curon is a perfect interlining for this great jacket—light as a feather yet completely weatherproof. Designed for warm comfort in extreme cold. Tailored of sturdy McGregor Drizzler cloth of 60% rayon, 40% cotton for years of durable wear. Bulky knit shawl collar and cuffs with zipper front, snug tab closure.

Proffitt's

OH BOY!!
(What a Treat)
TO EAT A STEAK
(That Can't Be Beat)
AND PIZZA PIES
(For All You Guys)

LEONARD'S STEAK HOUSE
OPen Saturday till 10:30

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
BANKING SERVICES
* Check Accounts
* Savings Accounts
* Christmas Club Savings
* Transfer of Funds
* Banking from Your Car
* Night Depository Service
– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

BROADWAY JEWELERS
New Fall Costume Jewelry
Watch, Clock and Jewelry Repair
PHONE YU 2-7500

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
218 COURT STREET
NEW PAPERBACKS
Thanksgiving and Christmas Cards
Students Always Welcome!

Be Our Guest at
MURPHY-WEST
See the NEW 1961 CHEVROLETS and CORVAIRS
and the NEW 1961 OLDSMOBILES AND F-85'S !!!
For the Buy that's Best – See MURPHY-WEST

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 5 Maryville, Tennessee November 19, 1960

POOLE and POLAND HEAD COURT

MISSION HOSPITAL IS FRED HOPE GOAL

Announcement of the project toward which Barnwarming proceeds will be directed was made public in chapel Tuesday morning by Lynn Waddington, Barnwarming Chairman. This year the Fred Hope Fund drive is being combined with Barnwarming profits to aid the building of a hospital in Momjepom, Cameroun, Afrira. The decision came following last year's trend consolidating all campus projects to aid Crossroads Africa.

The Fred Hope Fund is the means by which Maryville expresses its concern for church work in other lands. Each year a permanent committee consisting of President Lloyd, Dean McClelland, Dean Massey, Dean Bushing, Mr. Layman and Miss Miles meet with the presidents of YMCA, YWCA, Student Vols, and the student body to decide the year's project.

The Cameroun project was bronght to the committee's attention by Phyllis Stine, who spent a weekend there during her Crossroads Africa tour this past summer. The Momjepom mission post is located in pygmy territory in the interior of Africa, near the border of Cameroun, the Congo and the Central African Republic. It consists of a church, two elementary schools, and homes for workers. This post has the only school and medical facilities within a fifty-mile radius. Phyllis describes the present dispensary as a mud-wall house with no ventilation, light or sanitation. The task is lightened by the presence of a shell structure of a new hospital with walls and roof girders.

Of added interest is the fact that serving as missionaries at the Momjepom mission are the parents of Cheryl Gould, senior Christian education major. With present facilities, medical success is difficult and the people's confidence is not easily won.

—Arlene Ford

Man In The Hall! Barnwarming 1960

The annual "Y" presentation of Barnwarming, at Maryville College, will be held at 8:15 P.M. on Thanksgiving evening in the Alumni Gymnasium. This year's musical comedy "Man in the Hall" was written by Lynn Waddington. The music was composed by Sue Bloomer with lyrics by Pat Baker.

Members of the cast include: Glenda Gray as Beth; Charles Feast as Skeeter; Cathy Poole as Maggie; Cynthica Blanchard as Tina; Barbara McCarter as Maria; Nancy Slack as Mole; Bob Washborn as Mr. Biernbaum; Arlene Ford as Mrs. Biernbaum; Bruce Jenkins as Danny; Mike Garrett as Scott; Ginny Pratt as Lorraine; Judy Springstead as Vee; Kay Huber as Pepper; Sarah Lewis as Lucky; Patt O'Neill as Karyn; and Janet Kilgard as Margot.

Committee chairmen are: Gary Hall — technical director; Helen Anne Easterly — publicity; Kathy Eisenhart — props; Gary Smith and Chuck Moffett — lights; Elsie Harris and Harry Page — booths; Dave Stiles — sound; and Caroline McCaskill — choreography.

Proceeds of this event will go to Momjepom mission station in Cameroun, Africa to complete a hospital, which was started a few years ago, but due to lack of money has not been completed.

Sandy Poole and George Poland were elected by the student body as Barnwarming King and Queen. They will be presented with their count at the presentation of "Man in the Hall!" Thanksgiving evening in the Alumni Gym. Admission is $1.00.

Cast Announced For Land Of The Dragon

The Maryville Playhouse will present an experimental play, Land of the Dragon, on December 2 and 3, under the sponsorship of the American Association of University Women. The play which is to be presented Chinese fashion will be given for the college audience on December 10.

The cast for the play is as follows: Judy Cole as Jade Pure; Nancy Kinsman as Precious Harp; Beatriz Marroquinn as the twenty-first cousin; Lynne Parks as the twenty-second cousin; Bobbie Dick as the twenty-third cousin; Craig Snyder as Covet Spring; Ross McGill as the twenty-fourth cousin; and Henry Weeks as the Stage Manager.

Hellstern to Lead Thanksgiving Service

Dr. Heinrich Hellstern, of Zurich, Switzerland, a European church leader, will be a guest on the campus over Thanksgiving. He will speak in Chapel on Wednesday morning, November 23, at the community Thanksgiving service at the University of Tennessee on Thanksgiving morning. He will be the guests of Maryville College at Thanksgiving dinner in the Dining Hall.

Dr. Helistern is Director of the Hilfswerk der Evangelischen Kirchen der Schweiz (Relief Organization of the Swiss Evangelical Church). He came to the United States for a special meeting of the Administrative Committee of the Division of Inter-Church Aid and Service to Refugees of the World Council of Churches, and for a tour of a number of centers in Canada and United States.

Guiness Comedy

The second film of the Maryville Playhouse Film Series, Kind Hearts and Coronets starring Alec Guiness, will be shown at 8:00 p.m. in the theater on November 26. Admission is 25c.

Described as a rocking satire of ghoulish humor, the film is Guiness' most famous comedy. In it Guiness plays eight different characters, each being murdered in a distinctly unique way.

Sandra Poole has been elected queen and George Poland has been elected king of the 1960 Barnwarming Show. The rest of the Court consists of Margie Ross, senior; Barbara Nielson, junior; Lois Ann Jones, sophomore; and Bambi Ansley, freshman.

Sandra Poole is an elementary education major from Kingsport, Tennessee. Her first two years of college were spent at Coker College in Hartsfield, S.C. She is now president of the Student Education Association and vice-president of Theta.

George Poland is from Beverly Shores, Indiana, and is majoring in political science. He is chairman of the Organization Committee and is on the Student-Faculty Senate. He is the former president of Kappa Phi and was president of his junior class.

Margie Ross, senior representative, is a mathematics major and is living at present in Maryville. Besides being a housewife, she is the secretary-treasurer of the Student Council, a member of the Student-Faculty Curriculum Committee, and a member of the orchestra.

Junior representative Barbara Nielson is an elementary education major from Rutherford, New Jersey. She is program chairman of Chi Beta, secretary of YWCA, social chairman of the junior class, and treasurer of the honor dorm council.

Lois Ann Jones, sophomore representative, is from College Park, Marvland, and is majoring in Christian education. She is secretary of Chi Beta and YWCA chairman of the Children's Home.

The freshman representative, Bambi Anslev is from Jacksonville. Florida, and is planning to major either in English or drama. She is a member of Theta and the YWCA, and is also in Playhouse.

The Barnwarming king and queen will be presented with their court before the show on November 24. The presidents of the various classes will escort the other members of the court.

Choir To Present Bach's Wachet Auf!

The Vesper service this Sunday (November 20) has been set aside for a special program by the Choir: Bach's "Wachet Auf!" (Sleepers, Awake!). The words of the cantata are adapted from Christ's parable of the wise and foolish maidens.

It will be directed by Mr. Harry Harter with Mr. Robert Triplett as organist, Miss Katherine Crews as violinist, Karen Kennedy, harpsichordist. Rosemary Barrett, alto-tenor, Elva Yohe, soprano, Michael Garrett, bass, Donna Laubach, soprano, and Paul Evans, bass.

President Ralph W. Lloyd will preside and take the speaking parts of the service.

As a part of this Bach program Mr. Triplett will play for the Prelude and Postlude respectively "Wachet auf!" (Schuebler Chorale Prelude) and "Toccata in D minor" by Bach.

University of Chicago Students Aid Boycotted Negro Voters In Fayette County Squeeze

See editoral

CHICAO, ILLINOIS (UPS) At 2 p.m. Monday October 31, a truck laden with food left the University of Chicago. At 6 a.m. November 1, it arrived in Sommerville, Tennessee in the heart of Fayette County.

An independent group of students traveled to Fayette county to deliver the food to Negro citizens, black listed by Fayette County merchants for their attempts to register and vote in the 1960 elections, and to gather information and films on the situation there for presentation to the nation's students.

During the trip, they were stopped by the Fayette County sheriff who told them, "We don't want you hanging around;" were met in neighboring Haywood County by the sheriff there who escorted them back to the county line, and were accosted by the White Citizens Council who forced them to take dirt roads into Memphis.

The students were Gavin MacFayden, former Shimer College student who drove the truck, and Chicago students Bill Hard, Mark Eastman, Kevin Krown, Ed Cohn and Len Levin. Their account of conditions in Sommetville follows.

"We were able to travel around the town while we were there and see the effects of the 'economic squeeze" on the Negroes of the town. Those people who had registered to vote in the coming election, some 1500, were denied all credit in the town and many had been refused food and clothing although they were willing to purchase them in the towns' stores. Stores owned by Negroes were unable to purchase supplies from their usual wholesalers.

"Although food has been coming in from the North and from stores in Memphis, there is a severe lack of food in the county. The real problem is yet to come. As the crops come in, Negro sharecroppers and tenant farmers are being thrown off their land. There are very few legal documents or contracts to protect these farmers. The few contracts which do exist will terminate on January first, and the small amount of existing credit necessary to people who live without money until their crops come in, will be stopped.

"John McFerrin, head of the Fayette County Civic and Welfare League of Sommerville, is storing food for what he foresees as "difficult times to come." McFerrin also is setting up tents as temporary housing for those Negroes who have been removed from their homes and "still have enough strength to stay around for election day." McFerrin hopes they will all stay and "use the right they are fighting to gain."

"One of the Negro farmers who has moved into a tent had previously been sharecropping on a farm owned by another Negro. The Negro landowner, a schoolteacher in Fayette County, was pressured into removing his tenant because the tenant had registered. Many of the residents had tried to register and were unsuccessful. Economic pressure has also been used against those who unsuccessfully attempted to register.

"The medical clinics in Fayette County have stopped treating Negro patients. They had at first refused to treat only those who had registered and their families. At this time they will not treat any Negro patient and no doctors are available to Negroes in the county. One registered Negro could not even find a doctor to pronounce his just decreased father dead.

"It is the opinion of some white people in the county that the 'pressure is being exerted by three people who control the county. They are supposedly a doctor, a lawyer and a banker." Nobody knows how much truth there is in this speculation.

Mrs. Charles Frissell (Joan Neckerman, '58) died of leukemia on Sat- November 13 in Louisville, Ky. The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the building fund of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

Mail Box

Dear Editor:

Up until the Student Body meeting of November 7, I could chuckle with ease when I would hear a student jokingly remark that "Maryville is a small Christian college for small Christians." Now, however, I cannot help but agree in disgust with the seeming truth of the statement. We have made our Christianity small by giving lip service to high ideals and failing to back them up with actions that would give some proof of our sincerity. Somehow, we seem to think that "faith without works is all well and good." Anyone who is even a fairly good student of the Scriptures could tell how far we have strayed from the truth!

Another "small" side of our Christianity is the way in which we react to the individual who would dare say he loves his neighbor. A peculiar picture forms in our minds of a sentimental, wishy-washy person, who is nothing short of a "radical." If we would read our Bibles carefully, however, we would soon come to realize that the man who endeavors to live the law of love is a very conservative Christian! Love is the fundamental teaching of the New Testament. Jesus put the love of God and of neighbor above all else. In fact, "love is the fulfillment of the law," because it "does no wrong to a neighbor" (Romans 13:10). Love is of no essence, however, if it is not an active force in our daily lives, doing right to those about us. If we see things that are contrary to the law of love and allow them to continue to exist, we are failing ourselves and our God.

We, as members of the human family, are citizens of the world—not just of a town, a state, and a nation. If we are to be good citizens, we will say and do that which is of the highest benefit to all. If we would dare call ourselves Christians, we must speak and act according to the tenets of our religion, allowing neither family, friends, nor the ideas of the section from which we come to stand in the way of them.

As Christians and as Americans, we should never be ashamed to link ourselves with those of every race, creed, and color, who come in the name of goodness, justice, and the dignity of man. It is my

(Continued, Page 4)

Poet's Niche

Copernicus' Song

Alas.
The world is round again
And where it goes
Nobody knows.

Pippa Changes Tunes

With mud comes the Spring;
With pain comes the morn
So early at seven
When fog fills the air.
The lark will not sing
When the world's so forlorn —
When God's in his heaven
And we keep him there.

Nietzsche's Song

And God just sat up there pulling strings
And looking up
one young man shouted
You can't do that!
and grabbing a nearby string
he tried to pull him down screaming
I'll kill you!
he didn't but he helped.

—Mike Ducey

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol. 46 No. 5 November 19, 1960

Member of University Press Service

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange editor ..... Anitra Bard
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors this issue ..... Patti Paul, Ann Thomas, Pat Crossley, June Wilson, Arlene Ford, Carol Wood
Typists ..... Jean Keller, Gloria Schwam, Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Advertising Editor ..... Mike Garrett
Circulation Manager ..... Jon Sypher
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870

All letters to the editor must be signed, limited to 300 words, and submitted to a staff member by the Saturday prior to the regular date of publication.

To: The Student Body of Maryville College,

From: President of the Student Body,

1. With a great deal of reluctance and a deep sense of personal failure I find that my views and atitudes of what Student Government and what it should be are of such a nature as to be inappropriate for the attitudes and character of the Student Body of Maryville College.

2. I entered the office via an election wherein I stated that my prime attribute was that of effective leadership. I believed that was what the Student Body wanted and needed. Since taking office I have come to realize that what the Student Body wants, in reality is to be left alone and allowed to pursue their individual wants without any unification of the whole group. I believe that such a unification is a prime requisite to any accomplishment and without it we will be unable to achieve anything.

3. Because of the strength of my feelings I find that I am unable to function as a leader of a group which has no direction or will to action. It is futile and extremely wasteful of your time and your talent for me to attempt an initiation of a program that meets no positive response from the Student Body, which is after all the instrument of any and all action.

4. Convinced as I am that the only hope that this college of this nation has lies in the willingness of our generation to make themselves known in an effort to insure their future. I cannot in any honesty continue to utilize the time in which I am preparing for my future on those who have no consideration of the future or what it holds, and who continue to refuse an acceptance of duties and stands on the issues that matter in these times.

5. I earnestly believe that the weakness of the Student Body lies directly in their fear of making themselves known on any issue. We say our grace at meals silently. We open our meetings with silent prayer rather than embarrass ourselves and others with our religion. We enter into inter-faith and inter-racial relations without becoming involved as anything but observers. We fear the attitudes of the community in which we go to school, and this prevents us from taking stands on matters of national concern, the most important of which is the civil liberties and equal recognition of all US citzens. We have allowed the fear of the shrinking endowment to compromise our personal views for fear of antagonizing future donors.

6. I submit to you this abysmal record of Maryville's involement in issues of importance; in not one single request for USNSA support of a resolution have we complied or participated, in most cases we don't even submit a report of our unwillingness to act. We have supported UN Day and the World Day of Prayer which you must admit took a great deal of courage. We have never supported an issue such as the condemnation of atrocities in Algeria, abolition of the Loyalty Oath and Diclaimer Affidavit, civil ligerties guarantees, the sit-in movement, or even the get-out-the vote program, or the support of foreign students visiting the United States. If you run down the list you will not find one member school with a poorer record than Maryville's.

7. I feel that my greatest involvement is in the world outside the campus and I cannot help but carry that philosophy into my efforts as the President of the Student Body and Chairman of Student Council. Since such a philosophy is not commensurate with that of the majority of the Student Body, and since I cannot with any honesty pursue a program that does not contain such an involvement, I tender to you my resignation from the office of the President of the Student Body. This is not meant as a dramatic oration, it is something that I feel quite strongly and I have no course but to follow the dictates and concepts of my personal thinking that lead me to a position which I will not compromise. I hope that you may throw off the cloak of your apathy and that someday will realize the magnitude of your opportunity and the pitiful size of your endeavor.

Sincerely,
Ron Pearson

"You can tell the character of every man when you see how he receives praise." — Seneca

"Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear—not absense of fear." — Mark Twain

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.
☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name
Address
City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

Breakfast at Any Time
Homemade Pastries and Do-Nuts
Free Delivery on $5.00 Orders
Ask about our Meal Ticket Plan – $5.50 worth food for only $5.00
THE COFFEE HOUSE
YOUR 24-HOUR HOST

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY
"THE DRUG STORE ON THE CORNER"
Whitman's, Bell-Camp and Pangburns Candies
A Selection of the Newest Cosmetics

PARKS-BELK
Maryville's Most Complete Sportswear Department
Stop In and Look Around
Home of Better Values

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
BANKING SERVICES
- Check Accounts
- Savings Accounts
- Christmas Club Savings
- Transfer of Funds
- Banking from Your Car
- Night Depository Service

– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

HIGHLAND BAND ACCOMPANIES SCOTS TO ROCKET BOWL

WAA Point System Is Revised

As a result of the questionnaires filled out by women students, Women's M Club has revised the WAA point system. The revision was made because of the high per cent of women interested in joining Women's M Club and the low per cent who earn enough points to join. Under the revised plan a woman student still works to earn her points. A minimum of 400 points is still necessary for membership.

The revisions are: Powder Puff football will be under the WAA point system as a regular team sport, but will continue to be coached by the men's societies. Nine swimming reports counting ten points each may be turned in each semester. A swimming report consists of one-half hour continuous swimming or one hour of recreational swimming. Fifteen points will be given for every hike of one hour or five miles. There will be a limit of six hikes per semester. For officials of a game, ten points will be given for every game officiated at and five points for scorer or timer at each game.

The Women's M Club believes that these changes are necessary for a better women's intramural program.

Sachett And Sneakers

Horseshoes just is not a game to be played in the mud, but last week it was attempted and accomplished with apparent success. Harriet Blankenship and Peggy Murrah were piling up points and ringers out at the pits. One thing they will testify to is that it is not the easy way to do it.

As the fall days grow colder and colder, Powder Puff football practice still continues. The coaches have been running the teams through plays and skull practice. When the offensive lines can keep the coaches from getting through, they are good, but, "oh those aching bones!" The powder puff classic is scheduled for Nov. 26, weather permitting.

With badminton competition over, the women are preparing themselves for the rough and tumble sport of indoor soccer. This type of soccer which is very exciting and fast, is one of the most popular sport of the intramural program. All girls interested in playing soccer are urged to join a team.

Order and simplification are the first steps toward the mastery of a subject — the actual enemy is the unknown. Thomas Mann

Scotties Lose To Eagles, Clock: 7-0

The Maryville Scotties headed for Huntsville, Alabama for their engagement with Millsaps of Mississippi after they dropped a 7-0 heartbreaker to Carson Newman at the Eagles home field.

The home team's score came in the second quarter and proved to be sufficient as the Eagles held on to salvage the win. Senior halfback Jim Hutchins carried the ball over from the one yard line as the Eagles drove 77 yards in 15 plays. Bill Taylor booted the ball through the uprights and that was all that was needed for the victory.

The home crew had numerous opportunities, but the fine line of the Scotties held them. In the second quarter C-N had two golden opportunities to register another score, yet both times the local boys dug in and pushed them back.

Maryville's chance for a score came early in the fourth quarter as the Eagles got off a bad put of only four yards. The Highlanders proceded to move the ball to the Blue and Gold's 14 yard line, but the drive was thwarted when Gene Hall intercepted a Scot pass deep in Eagle territory. Hall ran the ball back 51 yards only to fumble two plays later and have Bill Owenby recover the ball. Denny Mobbs then started to pass and with three completed passes in a row the Scotties had moved the ball down to the 20 of the Eagles. It was at this time that the Scots had trouble getting the ball in play as the ref wasted almost 10 seconds before letting the play start. The game ended with the Highlanders stranded on the 20 anxious to get off a play.

Defensive standouts were Charlie Thomas and Bill Woodby. Also Wilbur Ramsey and Bill Owenby contributed supreme effort for the Scotties cause.

	C-N	Mary.
First Downs	13	6
Yards Rushing	213	48
Yards Passing	23	45
Passes	14-3	10-5

If I were founding a university I would found first a smoking room; then when I had a little more money in hand I would found a dormitory; then after that . . . a decent reading room and a library. After that, if I still had more money that I couldn't use, I would hire a professor and get some textbooks. Stephen Leacock, Oxford As I See It

Won't Write — Call White!
WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YU 3-4762

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR
Southern Shoes
Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.
116 West Broadway

FOR THE MAN WHO ALWAYS DRESSES RIGHT! and Comfortably, Too

$15.95
Smart Stitched Moccasin Style in Black, Brown or Tobac Brown
MASSAGIC
Air Cushion Shoes
Fresh, modern styling, plus a resilient cushion of sponge rubber that floats every step on air! To dress right, in complete comfort, come in and select your style, today.
Badgett Store
109 West Broadway
Maryville
YUkon 3-1651

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and Milk
Smoother, Richer, Better Tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

THE FAMILY STORE
(Court Street – Just Back of Byrne Drug)
GIRLS Sweaters – Blouses – Hose – SlimJims
Robes – Underwear – Sox
BOYS Sport Shirts – Dress Shirts – Pants –
Jackets – Underwear – Sox
GOOD QUALITY at LOW PRICES

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
218 COURT STREET
NEW PAPERBACKS
Thanksgiving and Christmas Cards
Students Always Welcome!

BROADWAY JEWELERS
– THANKSGIVING SPECIAL –
Remington Roll-A-Matic Electric Shaver
$26.95 Value NOW ONLY $15.95
PHONE YU 2-7500

Be Our Guest at
MURPHY-WEST
See the NEW 1961 CHEVROLETS and CORVAIRS
and the NEW 1961 OLDSMOBILES AND F-85'S ! ! !
For the Buy that's Best – See MURPHY-WEST

Mail Box

(Continued)

hope that the students of this college, the people of our nation, and the peoples of all the nations of the world will soon attain this high desire for themselves, and thus help to insure peace and amnity in our time and in the generations to come.

—Wendy Compton

Congratulations, fellow students! for not being swept along with the emotonal tide that surged over our campus community this past week. The emotion clouded the real issues of Monday nights' meeting - Nov. 7th. We were not there because of a civil rights issue but due to the ill-fated excuse to bring our college community into a demonstration. A few crusaders wanted us to fall in line without first taking into account for what we were supposed to be demonstrating. Intelligent demonstrations can not be well-planned within a period of six days without creating damage that would perhaps take years to repair.

I agree that we must demonstrate, or "stand up and be counted," on our convictions concerning civil rights but in other ways such as editorials in local newspapers, letters to our natonal and local representatives, or through efficient and effective less violent methods which are often deeper and longer lasting methods.

I feel that this meeting was a success in showing our intelligence, interest and ability. We weighed the evidence, saw the need, and agreed that this demonstration proposed to us six days before the election, was not for the welfare and betterment of this community wherein progress has been made without ill will. The meeting exposed the lack of contact and lack of publication, not the lack of student interest in his government. Publication of the minutes of student council has brought more interest in our student government than some representatives will admit, but perhaps pending issues also should be included so that the opinions of the majority of students on an issue may be obtained. There are far too many excuses made on the part of the representatives who say, "No one has asked me about the proceedings at Student Council except my roommate." Are the representatives actually afraid to discover and express the opinions of the student body? The real isue lies not in the dictates of the N.S.A. concerning civil rights demonstrations, but in the broken contact between the representatives and the student body.

In conclusion I would like to recomend four proposals to the student council:

1. That published minutes hereafter will contain all significant pending issues awaiting representative student opinion, and that additional copies of such minutes be placed in a centralized place so that married and town students may obtain them.

2. That all who feel they are unable to carry out the will of the majority "objectively" step down to allow leadership of those who will.

3. That an amendment be made to the constitution, that no political or social statement can be published by the student council as an "official stand" without a student body ratification.

—Leonard J. Vogt

Note too that a faithful study of the liberal arts humanizes character and permits it not to be cruel.
Ovid

South's First All-White Civil Rights Demonstration, Nov. 8

(UPS) Hundreds of students all over the country turned out for Election Day rallies in answer to the Southern Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee's call for demonstrations demanding "immediate civil rights action from the victorious candidate."

In Atlanta, Georgia, the first all-white civil rights demonstration was made by students from Emory University and Agnes Scott College. The white students' action received full support from Atlanta Negro students, who felt they should not participate in demonstrations while negotiations for lunch counter desegregation are in progress.

A demonstration in Jackson, Tennessee resulted in the arrest of over 150 Lane College Negro students who were charged with disorderly conduct, threatening breach of the peace and violation of a city ordinance requiring a permit to stage a parade.

Close to 300 pro-integrationists picketed Boston Commons, demanding specific proposals to fight discrimination in Massachusetts in addition to action on the national level.

Three hundred strong, students marched on Republican and Democratic headquarters in New York City, demanding action now.

Over 400 Philadelphia students joined in protest action Tuesday evening. After marching quietly before Kennedy and Nixon headquarters, the group progresed to City Hall Courtyard where they sang songs of the sit-ins.

Chicago area students rallied at Roosevelt University, where University of Chicago students, recently returned from Fayette County, Tennessee, reported on their trip. (See page 1.)

Oberlin College students chartered a bus to Cleveland to protest at central polling places there. The trip was sponsored by the student government and the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Washington area students picketed the White House, carrying signs reading "The campaign is over -- what do we do now, Mr. President?"

Demonstrations endorsed by student government resolutions were also held at Antioch, Smith, Rutgers University and the University of Minnesota.

Foundation To Offer Fellowships

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has again been called upon to advise the National Science Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation's program of graduate and postdoctoral fellowships. The Foundation plans to award approximately 1,200 graduate and 150 postdoctoral fellowships in these two programs during the 1961-1962 academic year.

Committees of outstanding scientists appointed by the Academy-Research Council will evaluate applications of all candidates; final selection will be made by the Foundation and awards announced on March 15, 1961.

Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington 25, D.C. The deadline for the receipt of applications for regular postdoctoral fellowships is December 19 1960, and for graduate fellowships, January 6, 1961.

Editorially Speaking

On National Responsibility

"University of Chicago students aid Negroes in Fayette County, Tennessee . . . why? It's not their problem. They're probably all Yankees. Why don't they mind their own business?"

It is 1960 and some minds still function as if it were 1860 in the United States. We are living in a national society not in a tribal society. The activities in one state effect all other forty-nine. Others nations evaluate us as a nation not as regions or individual states.

In this decade the majority of votes in the General Assembly on the United Nations will be held by Asian and African nations. Their populations are not white. Their votes on international questions are affected by the internal affairs as well as by the foreign aid program of the United States. Soviet Russia need not support an intricate propaganda program. In many cases they need only to print American press releases.

We are at a point of crisis in our nation's history. America — all of America — is the responsibility of every citizen.

Inertia is national suicide. We don't have time to take another century to evolue our way out of national hypocricy. Our silence can kill democracy as surely — perhaps more surely — than any enemy bomb.

Now in our student days we are free of the majority of life's main responsibilities. Now we are free to take action with little thought to the consequences to our person or position. If we don't stand for ideals now, we never will. Our children may not have the opportunity.

New, neat look for FALL!

The slacks picture has changed ... and for the smarter! Haggar Pictura Slacks, Worsted Wool enriched with Kodel® Polyester, give you the best-fitting, best-looking slacks of all. You'll like the way they fight off wrinkles and stay fresh day after day. We have your size in your favorite colors. ®Eastman

$9.95 to $14.95
Free Alterations ! !

Minton's
Maryville's Most Modern Store

College Hill Grill
Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street
Delicious Italian PIZZA
All Meals Served Family Style
Now Under the Management of May Boling

Knocks the WIND out of WINTER!

McGREGOR
Nylon "Antron" Anti-Freeze

New DuPont "Antron" nylon gives this jacket a rich silky hand and appearance plus lightweight ruggedness and practicality. Lining of "Antron" nylon fleece is lightweight, yet warm—provides instant protection on coldest days. Completely wash and wear—drip dries in a hurry. High turn-up collar with tab closure, zipper front, slash pockets. $19.95

Proffitt's

MARYVILLE JEWELERS
ID BRACELETS
KEEPSAKE DIAMONDS
Stop In Today —
You'll be glad you did ! !
Just Past the Movies

OH BOY ! !
(What a Treat)
TO EAT A STEAK
(That Can't Be Beat)
AND PIZZA PIES
(For All You Guys)

LEONARD'S STEAK HOUSE
OPen Saturday till 10:30

Twelve Elected To Who's Who

Twelve Maryville College Seniors have been chosen for Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities. a publication, edited by H. Pettus Kandall of Tuscaloosa, Alabama. Those from Maryville will be: Mary Elizabeth Darling, David Edward Doyscher, Virginia Bags Eaddy, Carolyn Dawn Gass, David Leland Gil more, Donald West Harward, Nancy Joan Martin. Camillus Lee Odell, Charles Patrick Pearson, Margaret Stevenson Ross, Jean Ann Stefancic, and Phyllis Jean Stine.

A writeup of each student making Who's Who will appear in the book in order that employers, coporations, and firms will have an opportunity to know of outstanding people for available positions and jobs, throughout the United States.

The procedure for selecting Who's Who provides that the names of the highest third in academic standing of those scheduled for graduation in the current college year be placed on the first ballot. These names will be voted on by the senior class, the faculty, and the administrative officers. Fourteen people will be chosen from this list, after which one-third of these candidates will be eliminated. The second ballot will be voted on by the same group, and in this way the top students are designated each year.

The following qualities were considered when choosing a student for Who's Who: 1) excellence and sincerity in scholarship; 2) leadership and participation in extracurricular and academic activities; 3) citizenship and service to the college; 4) promise of future usefulness to business and society.

First Row: Nancy Jo Martin, Carolyn Gass, Jean Stephancic, Mary Darling. Second Row: Phyllis Stine, Margie Ross, Virginia Eaddy. Third Row: Charles Pearson, David Gilmore, David Doscher, Don Howard. Not Pictured: Lee Odell.

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 6 Maryville, Tennessee December 3, 1960

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd astounded the student body with the announcement of his resignation as President of Maryville College, to become effective July 31. He has served in the office since November 29, 1930. Although he is yet two years from official retirement age he considers his thirtieth anniversary of service an appropriate time to announce his resignation. His plans for the future are incomplete.

First Row)left to right) Rosemary Barrett, Glenda Gray, Virginia Pratt, Carol Cooper, Patricia Blanton. Second Row (left to right) Arlette Roselli, Elva Yohe, Donna Lauback, Mary Ann Sumey, Patt O'Neil.

SOLOISTS CHOSEN FOR MESSIAH

Fifteen solists for the 28th annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" have been named by Harry H. Harter, who will direct the oratorio at Maryville College's Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel on Sunday, December 11, at 3:00 p.m.

Mr. Dan Kinsinger, assistant professor of music and voice instructor at the college, will sing the tenor recitative "Comfort ye, my people," and the air, "Every valley shall be exalted." Glenda Gray, a junior mathematics major, will sing the soprano recitative "There were shepherds abiding in the fields," and the arioso, "And lo! the angel of the Lord came upon them."

Bruce Townsend, junior music education major from Wanaque, New Jersey, will sing the recitative "Thus saith the Lord;" and Paul Evans, junior English major from Stratford, Connecticut, will sing the air, "But who may abide."

The recitative "Behold, a virgin shall conceive," and the air "O thou that tellest" will be sung by Arlette Roselli, sophomore sociology major from Everette, Massachusetts.

Michael Garrett, sophomore English major from Monett, Missouri, will sing the baritone air "The people that walked in darkness," following the baritone recitative "For behold, darkness shall cover the earth," which will be performed by sophomore music music major Phillip Eslinger of Pasadena, California.

Two soprano solos, "And the angel said unto them," and "And suddenly there was with the angel," will be sung by Patricia Blanton, sophomore voice major from Forest City, North Carolina.

Senior voice major Elva Yohe, of Monongahela, Pennsylvania, will sing the soprano air, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion," and Patt O'Neill, freshman voice fajor from Baton Rouge, Louisiana, will sing the recitative "Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened," and the air, "He shall feed His flock."

The air, "Come unto Him," will be sung by Virginia Pratt, junior voice major from Winter Haven, Florida; and Carol Cooper, sophomore voice major from Lynch,

(Cont. Pg. 4, Col. 3)

Fred Hope Board Receives, Letter Concerning Momjepom, 1960 Project

The Fred Hope Fund Board is composed of Bill Green, Student Body president; Susie Fagan, YWCA president; Chuck Moffett, YMCA president; Donna Laubach, Student Vols president; Dr. Ralph Lloyd; Miss Mary Miles, Dean Frank McClelland, Dean E. Frances Massey, Dean Arthur Bushing, and Mr. Frank Layman.

The idea for this year's project was initiated by student representatives and is being advised by the faculty and administration members.

A letter was received from Mae Ross Taylor, Secretary for Overseas Mission Projects, concerning the Momjepom Clinics:

"Momjepom is the farthest out mission station in Cameroun. It borders on Moyen Congo, and some of our patients come in by foot and by truck all this distances. The people and the country are very primitive and there are many dwarfs living in the heavy forest. Some of them have been patients at our Dispensary or Clinic.

"It is here at Momjepom you will find a twenty-bed Dispensary which keeps a regular staff of 3 African Medical Assistants and one nurse. These assistants carry on by themselves and even do emergency surgery for strangulated hernias and Caesarean operations when necessary. The doctor responsible for this Dispensary is Dr. Wallace Greig. He goes to Momjepom and operates once every month, staying as long as necessary to finish the work on hand. Batouri, where the Greigs live, is more than 100 miles from Momjepom, and on his monthly visits he holds clinics at certain designated villages along he way.

"The new Dispensary is being made of brick and cement and will replace the old one which is completely flooded every time it rained.

"Through general medical care, clinics and surgery, malaria, intestinal parasites, pneumonia, dysentery, social diseases, tropical ulcers, deliveries and yams are all being cared for. (Yaws, however, is fast disappearing under new treatment.)

"The greatest need is to have the Dispensary building completed.

"Dr. Greig and the Medilal Assistants are responsible for the work, and Mrs. Frank Gould supervises during the absene of Dr. Greig."

It is obvious from this acrount that a new dispensary is being built and surgical isstruments are needed. Something between $150.00 and $250.00 would go a long way in helping with the erection of the new building and providing for the furnishings.

Momjepom is not included in the General Mission budget this year. Thus, funds received from the students and faculty at Maryville will make possible a piece of work which cannot be underwritten in the regular budget.

Fred Hope Day

The official presentation of the Fred Hope Fund for this year will be in chapel on December 9. The speaker will be Phyllis Stine, who visited the Cameroun this summer on Operation-Crossroads Africa and Cheryl Gould whose parents are resident fraternal workers at the Momjepom Mission Station.

Bill-Pete Co-Captains

At the Football banquet held in the dinning hall last Tuesday night, Pete Stafford and Bill Owenby were elected as Co-captains for the 1960 Maryville Scotties football team. Other awards were given to the Most Valuable Player of the Year—Bill Owenby and to the Most Improved Player of the Year—Denny Mobbs. The players presented the coaches with gifts to show their appreciation for all their time and energy in helping the team this year.

MESSIAH TO BE PRESENTED DEC. 11

The 28th annual performance of "Messiah" by Georg Frederic Handel, will be presented in Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel at Maryville College on Sunday, December 11, beginning at 3:00 p. m.

The oratorio will be sung by a chorus of 200 voices, including the Maryville College Choir, the Men's Glee Club and Women's Choir of the college, and additional voices from the stodent body and the community. The Maryville College-Community Orcnestra, prepared by John Roberts, its director and an instructor in music at Maryville College, will provide the major accompaniment.

Miss Garnet Manges will be piano accompanist, a part she has taken for more than twenty years; Mrs. Sallie Schoen, assistant professor of music, will be harpsichordist with the solo ensemble, and Robert Triplett, instructor in music, will be the organist.

Handel's monumental first performed at the college in 1933 under the direction of Miss Henry, will be directed for the fourteenth time by Harry H. Harter, associate professor of music and director of the college choir. "Messiah," written in a space of 23 days by the German composer in the fall of 1741, was first performed in Dublin, Ireland, in 1742. Since that time its place in the repertoire of Advent and Easter music has been firmly established, and its performance at the Christmas season has become a tradition in many communities.

The Maryville College performance will be followed by a community carol sing.

Faculty Club

Miss Carolyn Blair. Associate Professor of English. will be the speaker at the Dec. 5 Faculty Club meeting. Her paper is entitled, "Browning As A Critic."

Exchange With KC Proves Worthwhile

by Carolyn Siera

As most of you know, Maryville College is participating in a weekend exchange program with Knoxville College. On the weekend of November 18-20, I took part in one if these exchanges. It was a wonderful experience, both enjoyable and educational!

Four of us went to KC that weekend: Jackie Vreeland, a freshman Home Ec major from New Milford, New Jersey; Chris Carlisle, a freshman political Science major from Watertown, New York; Bob Beard, a freshman Chemistry or Physis major from Birmingham, Alabama; and myself, a senior English major from Gatlinburg, Tennessee.

During the weekend we sat in on a meeting of the Executive Council of the KC Youth Fellowship, went to choir rehersals, classes, Sunday School and Church. We saw a rousing football game (the KC team lost to their opponents, Alabama A&M, 58-30), followed by a dance, where we learned to do the Continental. (The Continental, for those who haven't met it yet, is a dance which seems to be a cross between walking and a schottische, with individual variations!). Some of us went shopping downtown or went for walks through the area surrounding KC. In general, we spent the weekend living like college students — even including a discussion with Dean Campbell and a visit to the apartment of a faculty member, Dr. Proudfoot, where we baked a cake, played Scrabble, listened to records, and talked.

Anybody who visits another college finds much the same attitudes that he left behind. KC students eat college food, served cafeteria style, and they complain about it mildly; in the same way they complain about their dating rules and all of the many "pet peeves" of college students everywhere. We heard people talking about everything from what Jack said and what to wear tomorrow to the possible future of the whole world. And we talked too, with the friends we had made, about politics; religion; people; worries, little and big; and on and on, way into the early hours of the morning!

The purpose of the exchange program is to promote understanding and better inter-racial relations on both personal and community levels. Community understanding is dependent on personal relationships, and the exchange exists to bring about a better understanding between individuals. Many students from both colleges are making new friends, gaining new experiences, and building new relationships. We four who went to KC is November found it a truly worthwhile experience!

"Laneites Evasion World Culture," UnAmerican Activity?

by Alice Curd

In Jackson, Tennessee, on November 8, 144 Lane College students were arrested for demonstrating at political polls. Lane is a Negro, Methodist College with an enrollment of about 500. One of students, Miss Johnnie Whitelaw, head of Public Relations and editor of the college paper, in a personal letter, sends news of the trial. The students were fined $1,060.00 for carrying posters requesting civil rights. Prior to their arrests, they were physically molested and given no protection by the police. Miss Whitelaw makes this request: "...will you please get as many persons as you possibly can to write letters to our police chief, Raymond Gaba, protesting the treatment of our Lane College students." Letters can be addressed: Raymond Gaba, Chief of Police, Jackson, Tennessee.

A Jackson paper, The Commercial Appeal, carries an article concerning a request from Jackson's American Legion Post to the Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives to investigate the playing of the Russian National Anthem by Lane College during the half-time of their homecoming game. The resolution said, in part, "The United States and Russia are locked in a death struggle for the minds of men and for survival and this action is of the type that should not be allowed in our country." The article concludes with a statement by Lane's president, who says that the band did play the Russian anthem along with the national hymns of France, England, and the United States; however, it was just part of a half-time program entitled, "Laneites envision world culture," and he saw nothing unpatrotic about it. Miss Whitltw also supports this statement. She stays that this program "was to include, had there been a parade, floats playing up all the cultures of the world. We didn't have floats, therefore the band played selections to be in keeping with the theme. No one stood on anything but the American national anthem and this, now, is disloyalty, and we are considered communists."

Stream of Consciousness....

Nancy Slack

Sitting in an over-warmed room my feet are yet cold and never-minding the fact of running down the hall my self is fairly complete. Instead of being a full moon with empty arms the outside is merely not inside, which means alone loneliness is not at all the question but the fact of which no one quite knows and if so soon forgets in the Christmas rush for the best seat next to the best-in-a-crowd. Standing on my hands upon desk top doesn't help much, but then the hob nails which aren't on my shoes still feel as though other wishing might come through any moment and take all absurd positions, placing them exactly in the center of some manner of coverlet, filding in the corners now and again until a small and tidy package appears. Next, some magician pulls the proper corner and poof there goes me, being nothing inside the manner of coverlet. And there's the answer, of course, but after I'd gone there, who'd know enough to call in the magician? And Moreover who's to be sure that after being coverleted and cornered into a degree or other wombness or even doubling up without a particular title...who's to be sure then that whereever happens next isn't going to be the same more or less overwarmed room with the same all right things and water running in another overwarmed room, not even for anyone's baptism except non-symbolically.

In order to clarify the whole situation it would be necessary to bring back breakfast toast in my own little way and my own little napkin, which would all mean only that I don't not care for the beautiful whoever you happen to be. I never said it. I can't, though, bring breakfast toast until morning. Also it most assuredly will be as true as always, and I shall be afraid to not forget, seeing as how I'd have to climb over those barriers even to think about it as long as I have. P.S. I still don't. This time I'll try the coverlet without magician.

The bullet that will kill me is not yet cast. Napoleon

I am not a bit anxious about my battles. If I am anxious I don't fight them. I wait until I am ready. Montgomery

In the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains. Eisenhower

Damn the torpedoes. Farragut

War is hell. Sherman

Poet's Niche

INTERIM

God sat down hard on the edge of somebody's
Renaissance, waiting for the world to happen.
A little later, one of the boys tapped Him on the Head and said, "Lord, but it's taking long to finish that Job." And God mused, "You can't find the Way back yet, kid. Not until they either entirely get it or totally forget it."
And He wondered if he ever would. Bill Green

FOUR STANZAS

Go, stone —
Skip across the blue water.
Plunge into the quiet depths.
You are not afraid — and yet
You do not understand
the hand that hurls you.

Go, bird —
Soar with breathless speed,
Scatter the billowing clouds.
You are not afraid — and yet
You do not understand
the wings that carry you.

Go, wind —
Sweep through the waving wheat,
Whisper to the tree-tops bare.
You are not afraid — and yet
You do not understand
the power that compels you.

Go, man —
Grope in the darkness of alleys,
Dart through patches of light.
You must not be afraid — though
You do not understand your search.

—Beth Reichardt

A REQUEST

If I could just take your arm and keep it with me all my life, all through the hot Julys and cold Decembers —
It would not do much harm.
I would wrap it neatly in tissue and tie it with a yellow string and place it upon my bed.
At night before retiring
I could touch it and say I remembered you —
Long after you were dead —
Long after I desembered you.

Jim Gamble

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol. 46, No. 6 December 3, 1960

Member of University Press Service

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange editor ..... Anitra Bard
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors this issue ..... Patti Paul, Ann Thomas, Pat Crossley, June Wilson, Ellen Dozier, Carol Wood
Typists ..... Jean Keller, Gloria Schwam, Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Advertising Editor ..... Mike Garrett
Circulation Manager ..... Jon Sypher
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

All letters to the editor must be signed, limited to 300 words, and submitted to a staff member by the Saturday prior to the regular date of publication.

Mail Box

Dear Editor:

Are we to be called small Christians because we did not show positive action in the recent civil rights demonstration? I think it is an unfair accusation.

First, we have shown positive action on campus in the field of civil rights. In the past two years there have been many changes on our campus. Has this not been evidenced in our interchanges with Knoxville College, the Crossroads Africa project, Y interracial committee and other such groups? The greatest change seems to be in the attitude of students. Nine of these things could have been possible without a change.

As Christians we are to love our neighbors, true, but love can be manifested in different ways. Our neighbors are not just the negro, but everyone, black and white. Idealistically we should not think in terms of north and south, but as a United States. But there is a north and south and there are different feelings. Feelings that are hard to understand to some of us, but they are there and are very real. We must be patient to these feelings if we want to change them.

Yes, we should take positive action in Civil Rights. We should continually enlarge our stand. But don't call us small Christians because our view of positive action is more than a demonstration.

—Kathy Eisenhart

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

ROCKET BOWL GAME SCOTS 19 MAJORS 0

The Maryville Scotties traveled last weekend to Huntsville, Ala. to play the Millsaps Majors in the First Annual Rocket Bowl sponsored by the Gentry-Isom Post 2702 Veterans of Foreign Wars. The proceeds from the game went to help the underprivileged children in the area of Huntsville.

After throwing away a number of chances to score in the first half, our Scots started rolling in the second half. Bill Owenby started the ball rolling by blocking Ed Reddings' punt and recovering it on the 11 yard line of the Majors. On the next play Al Ries slanted off-tackle going the 11 yards for the touchdown. Ries then kicked the extra point.

Later in the third quarter Pete Stafford came up with a Major's fumble on their 43. On the next play our Scots lined up in single-wing reserve. Clarence Storey taking the handoff from Tyson McClanahan raced 43 yards for the score with no one touching him. The play had everyone faked out. The run for the extra point failed when Tyson McClanahan slipped and fell.

In the fourth quarter, our next score came on the only scoring drive of the night for our Scots, led by the running and passing of quarterback Jack Moore and Ken Berry. Our Scots marched 52 yards for the score, with Ken Berry scoring from six yards out. Frank Griffith's try for the extra point was low. So the final score of the Rocket Bowl: Scots 19; Majors 0.

Our Scots turned in another game against the Majors in the Rocket Bowl. This is the same great defense which has held our opponets to two touchdowns in our last five games. Closing out a fine season for our Scots were our seniors; Co-captain Bryson Struse,end; Roger Smithey, tackle; Bill Woodby, guard; Mike Talley, guard; Frank Griffith, end; and Clarence Storey, halfback, all contributed greatly to our fine season.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

BILL OWENBY

Next let's take a look at our fine junior end from Pigeon Forge, Tenn., number 84, Bill Owenby. Bill is outstanding both on offense and defense. After the Emory & Henry game Coach Baird said, "Bill has played the greatest defensive end I have ever seen". Bill was one of the co-captains this season on our team. He also does most of the punting. His average this year is 42.8 yards per kick, and on offense he is the leading pass catcher. Bill is also outstanding in two other sports: basketball and baseball. He is one of the outstanding three-sports athletes this school has seen in many a season. Bill is a team player for he is always doing his share to get our boys to play as a team and to give their all to Maryville. Bill is one of the examples of the fine atheletes that M.C. has produced. He best shows the great desire of our atheletes to show through fair play and sportsmenship that they can win and lose with the best of them. To top this fine junior year Bill has been named to the News-Sentinel's 4th Annual Small College Football All-Stars.

"PETE" STAFFORD

After closing out a very successful season the Highland Echo would like to salute two of our fine football players. First is number 73, John L. Stafford, a tackle. Pete, as he is known by his teammates, played his high school football at Porter High where he won many honors. Pete is one of the finest tackles to come to Maryville in many a year; he tips the scales at 230 and stands 5' 11.... . Last year Pete was voted by his teammates as the "Most Valuable Player of the Year" on our football team. The area coaches realize how valuable Pete is by placing him again on the News-Sentinel 4th Annual Small College All-Stars. "Pete is a rough and tough tackle," these are the words of our line coach, Coach Tomlinson in praise of Pete. Pete also takes part in other sports at Maryville including wrestling and baseball. Pete's first love is sports; his habby is watching sports activities. Pete is the type of athelete every coach looks for because he loves hard work and practice. He gives his all an every play on the football field.

Basketball And Wrestling Begin

The Maryville College basketball team, minus its one-two scoring punch from last year, will open the season on Tuesday, December 6, against Tuseulum at Greeneville.

Returning from last year's starting five which was instrumental in compiling a 14-7 record are Fred Porter, 5' 9" sophomore from Indiana, George Herron, 6' junior from Everett High School and Bill Owenby, 6' 4" senior from Pigeon Forge(who is also the captain.)

Back in the supporting role are Bill Crisp, 6'1" senior from Maryville who was number six man last year, Keith Day of Ohio, and Don Heatherly of Alcoa High, who saw limited service last year.

Missing from the Scot squad this year are Tom Morris and Bob Carpenter, who between them averaged 38 points per game last season.

The basketball and wrestling schedules, as released by the Athletic Department, are as follows:

Basketball

Dec. 6	Tusculum	Away
Dec. 10	Chattanooga	Away
Dec. 13	King	Away
Jan. 7	UT Frosh	Away
Jan. 10	Carson-Newman	Home
Jan. 13	Emory & Henry	Home
Jan. 14	Carson-Newman	Away
Jan. 16	UT Frosh	Home
Jan. 17	Hiwassee	Away
Jan. 27	Centre	Home
Jan. 28	Birmingham Southern	Home
Feb. 2	King	Home
Feb. 4	Jacksonville State	Away
Feb. 7	Chattanooga	Home
Feb. 10	Tusculum	Home
Feb. 11	Shorter	Away
Feb. 13	Birmingham Southern	Away
Feb. 18	Shorter	Home
Feb. 25	Emory & Henry	Away
Feb. 28	Hiwassee	Home

Wrestling

Dec. 3	Knoxville Y	Home
Dec. 7	Appalachian	Away
Dec. 17	Knoxville Y	Away
Jan. 14	Chattanooga	Away
Jan. 28	Chattanooga	Home
Feb. 3	Auburn	Away
Feb. 11	Sewanee	Away
Feb. 18	Emory	Home
March 3-4	SEAAU Tournament	Sewanee

A ship is always referred to as "she" because it costs so much to keep one in paint and powder. Nimitz

MC PLAYERS MAKE ALL-STARS

On Thanksgiving Day the Knoxville News-Sentinel published the coaches' choices for the News-Sentinel's 4th Annual Small College Football All-Stars. The Maryville Scots placed four players on the two teams.

"Pete" Stafford, tacket, and Bill Owenby, end, were named to the first team. On the second team was our leading scorer, Tyson McClanahan, and our fine guard, Bill Woodby.

These players were chosen by five area small college coaches.

Football Round Up

Here is a run down on the maj or bowl games to be played come January:

Rose — Washington (9-1) vs Minnesota (8-1)
Cotton — Arkansas (8-2) vs Duke (7-2)
Sugar — Mississippi (9-0) vs Rice (8-2)
Orange — Missouri (9-1) vs Navy (9-1)
Gator — Baylor (8-2) vs Florida (8-2)
Liberty — Penn State (6-3) vs Oregon (7-2-1)
Bluebonnet — Alabama (8-1-1) vs Texas (7-3)
Sun — New Mexico (10-0) vs Utah State (9-1)

The Pro Football League looked completely settled until the unpredictable San Francisco 49ers came to Baltimore and put a big dent into the Colt pennent hopes. The lowly 49trs stopped the Colts 30-22; thus threw the Western Division title up for grabs. Over in the Eastern Division the Philadelphia Eagles took a commanding lead over second place New York and Cleveland and now need a lone win to take their first title since 1949.

Here is a final summary of the various conference champions with their season's record:

SEC — Mississippi (5-0-1 9-0-1)
Southwest — Arkansas (6-1; 8-2)
Big Eight — Kansas (6-0-1; 7-2-1)
Skyline — Utah State (6-1; 9-1) Wyoming (6-1; 8-2)
Ivy — Yale (7-0; 9-0)
Atlantic Coast — Duke (5-1; 7-2)
Independents — Navy (9-1) Oregon (7-2-1) Syracuse (7-2)

Sachett And Sneakers

The annual Powder Puff football game came to an end Saturday, with the score 12-6 Chi Beta, while Theta deep in Chi Beta territory was threatening to tie the game.

The game was one of the most exciting Powder Puff games at Maryville. For the past three years neither team has been able to make a touchdown. The teams were very spirited as were the spectators. Much of the spirited noise was headed by the cheerleaders for both teams. Chi Beta had 15 Chi Beta cheerleaders and Theta had three Sigs.

The Theta teams was led by quarterback Ann McIlheney, who passed to Nancy Magill for their touchdown. Connie Myers made good yardage for Theta on some running plays. Carol Ansley playing defensive line, got in to break up Chi Beta plays.

Lynn Herring, quarterback for Chi Beta, passed to Anna Tuscanny for the first Chi Beta touchdown. Joy Umberger intercepted a Theta pass and ran for the second Chi Beta touchdown. Playing hard in the line on defense for Chi Beta were Ginna Coon and Sylvia Fugute.

The coaches for the teams were: Hank Andrews and Ron Pearson for Theta and Bill McGuire and Gary Hall for Chi Beta. The victorious coaches were thanked by a dip in the fish pond. The Powder Puff classic is always a great deal of fun to the spectators, players and even the refrees.

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR
Southern Shoes
Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.
116 West Broadway

*Breakfast at Any Time
*Homemade Pastries and Do-Nuts
*Free Delivery on $5.00 Orders
Ask about our Meal Ticket Plan –
$5.50 worth food for only $5.00
THE COFFEE HOUSE
YOUR 24-HOUR HOST

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S
Ice Cream
and Milk
Smoother, Richer, Better Tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Pleasing You Pleases Us –
Looking for just the right Gift for that special occasion?
Remember – –
You can say it better with flowers.
Hartmans Flowers
333 E. Broadway YU 2-7500

WON'T WRITE ?
CALL WHITE
Keep your typewriter working at its best.
White's factory-trained repairmen are at your service.
WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YU 3-4762

Christmas is Near
See us for the Gift sure to please that Special Someone!!
MARYVILLE JEWELERS
–KEEPSAKE DIAMONDS–

Be Our Guest at
MURPHY-WEST
See the NEW 1961 CHEVROLETS and CORVAIRS and the NEW 1961 OLDSMOBILES AND F-85'S ! ! !
For the Buy that's Best – See MURPHY-WEST

Campus Investment In Sixtieth Year

For about 600 years Maryville College students and faculty have had an opportunity to participate in various missionary enterprises. In 1900 a student, Fred Hope, instigated the collection of $50 for the salary of a Chinese pastor for one year.

YMCA continuted this project for ten years, at which time Horace E. Orr, then a student here, made a campus-wide presentation. By this time Fred Hope himself was a missionary in Cameroun, Africa, and the funds went to him until 1945. Mr. Hope organized the Frank James Industrial School which is still operating today.

Since his death the money has gone to projects in China, India, and Africa. The total investments by students and faculty in this project is about $37,000.

REPORT ON FUND FOR PAST FOUR YEARS

	1956-57
No. of pledges	389
Amount pledged	$2297.10
Amount received	$1853.10
	1957-58
No. of pledges	815
Amount pledged	$1571.95
Amount received	$1188.20
	1958-59
No. of pledges	393
Amount pledged	$1558.75
Amount received	$1193.50
	1959-60
No. of pledges	416
Amount pledged	$2307.15
Amount received	$1988.40

FILM TO BE SHOWN IN VESPERS DEC. 4

"Mark of the Hawk," a film produced by the United Presbyterian Church in U.S.A. will be shown at Vespers tomorrow evening, Dec. 4. It will be viewed in the theatre at 7 p.m., since the film will comprise the entire Vesper program.

Staring in the film are Ertha Kitt and Sidney Poitiers.

France has lost a battle. But France has not lost the war.
De Gaulle

(l to r) — George Roselli, vice-president, Margie Ross, secretary-treasurer, and Bill Green, president. Photo by John Baker

Lloyd To Attend General Assembly

President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd flew last Thursday to San Francisco, where Dr. Lloyd will attend the triennial General Assembly of the National Council of Churches, December 3-9.

On Sunday, December 4, Dr. Lloyd will be one of the National Council representatives preaching in San Francisco churches.

He will speak at a Maryville College alumni gathering in San Franisco on the evening of December 5.

Following the Assembly in San Francisco, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd will return home by way of Los Angeles where Dr. Lloyd has some college business. On Sunday, December 11, he will preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Monrovia, California, whose Pastor is Rev. Harry G. Brahams, a graduate of Maryville College in the Class of 1950 and brother of Raymand I. Brahams, Jr., Director of Development at Maryville College.

Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd will return to Maryville on December 14.

TEAM DEBATES AT BOONE TODAY

The Maryville College Debate team journeys to Boone, North Carolina, today for their seiond debate of the 1960-61 season with four teams and two individual speakers representing Maryville.

The Debate team copped all top honors at the Peachtree Tousnament held at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, November 18 and 19. The affirmative team of Robert Reidenback and Donald Leo won first place sonors for their record of 6-0. Dennis Miller and Donald Jackman also won first place honors for their negative team record of 6-0. Donald Leo and Donald Jackman received individual awards for speaking. Two other teams had records of 4-2; Brad Rehm and Tom Stanley, and the girls team of Judy Mikeal and Ann Harrison.

Other teams representing Maryville were Paul White and Rich Gossweiler, and and a second girls team consisting of Lori Sturmfels and Jane Dody.

The Maryville team, under the able coaching of Dr. Arda S. Walker, received the best team trophy at the Peachtree Tournament.

CRISP TO LEAD M CLUB

The Men's M Club met Tuesday and decided to reorganize its organization. The men elected the following as officers for the year:

President — Bill Crisp
Vice President — Dave Huffstetler
Secretary — Dale Sterner
Treasurer — Fred Porter

The group will now hold an important meeting Monday, December 4 at 7:15 in Barlett Hall to discuss plans for the coming year. All men have lettered in a varsity sport are eligible and encouraged to attend this initial meeting.

SOLOISTS CHOSEN FOR MESSIAH

(Cont. from Pg. 1)

Kentucky, and Mary Ann Sumey, freshman biology major from Topeka, Kansas, will combine to sing the duet, "How beautiful are the feet of them." Rosemary Barrett, senior piano major from Nashville, Tennessee, will sing "He was despised."

The soprano air, "I know that my Redeemer livith," will be sung by Donna Laubach, senior voice major from East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania.

I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.
Grant

No firing till you see the whites of their eyes.
Frederick the Great

Student Council Officers Work

The new Student Council officers are Bill Green, president, George Roselli, vice president, and Margie Ross, secretary-treasurer.

Bill Green, the former vice-president, is an English major from Hightstown, New Jersey. George Roselli is a Latin major from Everette, Mass. Margie Ross, who lives in Maryville is a math major.

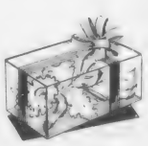
The duties of the president are to preside at meetings of the Student Body and the Student Council, to call special meetings of the Student Council when necessary, to nominate chairmen of the standing committees of the Student Council and to submit them for approval to the Council, to nominate members of the standing committees after consulting with the chairmen concerned and to submit them to Council, to set up temporary special committees as needed with Council approval, to serve as ex officio member of all standing and special committees, and to serve as co-chairman of the Student-Faculty Senate.

The duties of the vice-president are to take over the duties of the president in his absence, and to head the elections committee.

The secretary-treasurer, who is elected by the Student Council at the first meeting of the year from its own membership, has the following duties: to keep minutes of all Student Council and Student Body Meetings, to handle all correspondence for the Student Council, and to keep a record of the collection of all funds for Council purposes and all expenditures.

College Hill Grill
Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street
Delicious Italian PIZZA
All Meals Served Family Style
Now Under the Management of May Boling

PARKS-BELK
Maryville's Most Complete Sportswear Department
Stop In and Look Around
Home of Better Values



For the Best Prices in Jewelry and Expert Watch Repairs, Look for . . .
THE JEWELRY STORE WITH THE RED DOOR
(At The Side Of Byrne Drug Store)
Columbia Tru-Fit Diamond Rings
Elgin • Hamilton

CLYDE RAY TIPTON, Jewelry
101 Court Street YU 2-0141

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK
218 COURT STREET

* Christmas IDEALS
*Christmas Cards *New Books
STUDENTS ALWAYS WELCOME!

THE FAMILY STORE
(Court Street – Just Back of Byrne Drug)
GIRLS Sweaters – Blouses – Hose – SlimJims
Robes – Underwear – Sox
BOYS Sport Shirts – Dress Shirts – Pants –
Jackets – Underwear – Sox
HIGH QUALITY at LOW PRICES

Make This Year's Formal
an Occasion to Remember !
On Campus See Bill Shanefelt
Say it with Flowers from . . . . .
HORNE'S FLORIST
215 W. Broadway YU2-2690

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
BANKING SERVICES
* Check Accounts
* Savings Accounts
* Christmas Club Savings
* Transfer of Funds
* Banking from Your Car
* Night Depository Service
– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 7 | Maryville, Tennessee | December 17, 1960

"UNFORGETABLE" TO BE TONIGHT

The Christmas formal, sponsored by Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon socities, will be held in the Alumni Gym tonight, December 17, at 8:00 p.m.

This year's dance will be entitled "Unforgettable." The price is $1.50 per couple.

Music will be provided by the Shamrocks, a four-piece ensemble with an accompaning vocalist, from Knoxville. This group, under the leadership of Rocky Davis, has played for numerous dances at U.T. and elsewhere.

Rachael Goddard, Grace Rosser, and Don Pettinelli are acting co-chairmen of the dance. Other chairmen include: Leona Barnes and Web Spraetz, decorations; Ron Pearson, lighting; Sue Evans and Gail Garloch, publicity; and Bobbie Berger, refreshments.

The chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. Newell Witherspoon, Mr. and Mrs. James Schwam, and Mr. and Mrs. Stidham.

Fred Hope Fund Has 231 Pledges

As of December 12th, 231 pledges and a total of $1,268 had been pledged to the Momjepom mission in Cameroon, Africa. Fifteen to twenty-five thousand dollars will be needed to complete the building of this hospital.

Pledges or payments can be made anv time at the Student Help Office. Tables will be set up on the 10th and 11th of each month in Anderson for the convenience of students and faculty.

But thou, Beth-lehem Ephrathah, which art little to be among the thousands of Judah, out of thee shall one come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth are from of old, from everlasting.

And he shall stand, and shall feed his flock in the strength of Jehovah, in the majesty of the name of Jehovah his God; and they (the flock) shall abide; for now shall he be great unto the ends of the earth.

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.

Of the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom to establish it, and to uphold it with justice and righteousness from henceforth, even for ever. Micah 5:2-4

Harvard Students Initiate Campaign

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (UPS) A group of Harvard gratuate students have initiated a campaign to send letters, gifts and Christmas cards to the four Negro girls who have taken a step toward racial freedom in New Orleans.

"We feel that friendly greetings from persons all over the nation would do much to offset the daily hurt and anguish that these little girls experience," said a Harvard spokesman.

Last week Harvard students posted a large photo of one of the children in Harvard Square, accompanied by a large card to be signed and sent to the girls as a token of support.

Letters and cards are being sent to the four girls, Gail, Leona, Ruby and Tessie, care of Arthur Chapital, 1821 Orleans Avenue, New Orleans 16, La.

Music Service Planned For Christmas Vespers

Four choral organizations and two instrumental ensembles will combine to present a special program at the annual Christmas Vesper Service at Maryville College, in Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel, Sunday December 18, at 7:00 p.m.

Participating will be the Maryville College Choir and Madrigal Singers, directed by Harry H. Harter, Associate Professor of Music; the Men's Glee Club and Women's Choir, directed by Assistant Professor of Music Dan Kinsinger; the College String Ensemble, directed by Assistant Professor of Music Katherine Crews; and the College Brass Choir, directed by Instructor John Roberts.

Among the instrumental numbers will be "Variations on a French Noel," by d'Aquin, played on the Holtkamp organ by Robert F. Triplett, college organist. The string ensemble will play "The Christmas Concerto" by Corelli.

The instrumentalists and choral groups will combine to sing a special arrangement of an English carol, "Welcome Yule."

The service will open with a candlelight processional by the choral groups, and will close with carol singing by the choirs from the Chapel court following the recessional.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, President of Maryville College, will officiate at the service and lead in a Christmas devotional.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Noel...

Film Series To Be Held January 7

The Maryville Playhouse Film Series will present, as the third film of the season, the French production The Cupboard Was Bare on January 7 at 8:00 p.m. in the theater. Admission is 35c per person.

The film which is recommended by the French deapatment, stars Fernandel and concerns a corpse that keeps disappearing.

Other films to be presented by the Playhouse include: An American in Paris to be shown on January 28, High Noon on March 4, and The Golden Age of Comedy on April 22.

LOUIS EVANS TO LEAD FEB. MEETINGS DON MATHIS, BARRY TO RETURN

DR. LOUIS EVANS

The Leader of the February Meetings at Maryville College, February 15-23, 1961, will be the Rev. Dr. Louis H. Evans of Los Angeles, California, now serving in the unusual position of Minister-at-Large for the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The song leader for the second year will be Mr. Donald R. Mathis, Minister of Music at First Presbyterian Church, St. Petersburg, Florida. And the guest accompanist for the tenth year will be Dr. Henry Barraclough, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Associate Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. This "February Meetings Team" of Evans, Mathis, and Barraclough will be joined this year by the Rev. Dr. E. Fay Campbell, whose service as Maryville College Chaplain will have just begun on Februray 1.

Dr. Louis H. Evans is one of the best known American ministers of this generation. In 1953 he was selected by Life Magazine, after a nationwide poll, as one of the twelve "Great Preachers" of America. Others among the twelve included Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Billy Graham, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Rabbi Silver, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, and Dr. Robert J. McCracken. In another national poll by Newsweek Magazine Dr. Evans was selected as one of the ten greatest Protestant ministers of America. Also, he was not long ago named "Speaker of the Year in the Field of Religion" by Tau Kappa Alpha, national speech society.

For twelve years he was Pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, the largest Presbyterian Church in the world, growing during Dr. Evans' pastorate from 2,400 to 6,400 communicant members, with a Sunday School of 5,000.

While a student in Occidental College Los Angeles, he was an All-Conference and All-State end in football, and an All-Conference and All-Southern center in basketball, and later was a member of a team which won the amateur National Basketball Championship. More recently he was one of the organizers of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in which some of the most famous present day athletes and coaches are active.

Prior to going to Hollywood, Dr. Evans was Pastor of Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, during which time he led the February Meetings twice.

HORN TO SPEAK IN LECTURE SERIES

The second lecture of the 1960-61 Maryville College Lecture Series will be given by Dorothy D. Horn in the College Theatre on Tuesday, January 10, at 8 p.m. Her topic will be "The Romance of Hymn Tunes."

Since 1953 Miss Horn has been living in Indianapolis where she is Associate Professor of Music at the Jordan College of Music of Butler University. Formerly she was Associate Professor of Music here at Maryville.

Miss Horn received her Ph.D. from the Eastman School of Music, doing research on a grant from the American Philosophical Society on the subject of the development of the so-called white spirituals of the Old Harp books.

These lectures, which provide a genuine cultural and educational opportunity, have no admission charge. The public and all students are cordially invited to attend.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

Thursday, 19 January (Lunch at 12:00)	9:00-11:00	A4, A14, A3, AL3, Az2
	1:00-3:00	Ax3, Ax2
	3:30-5:30	X, G
Friday, 20 January	9:00-11:00	B4, BL4, B3, B13, B12, Bz2
	1:00-3:00	Bx3, Bx2
	3:30-5:30	Cx3, Cx2
Saturday, 21 January	3:30-11:30	C4, C14, C3, C13, C12, Cz2
	1:30-3:30	Dx2
Monday, 23 January	9:30-11:30	D4, D14, D3, D13, Dz2
	1:30-3:30	E4, E3, E2
Tuesday, 24 January	9:30-11:00	F4, F14, F3, F13, F2
	1:30-3:30	Ex3, Ex2

Editorially Speaking

ON INDEPENDENT STUDY

Now that the black binders have been submitted and the burning is over, Seniors are beginning to look at Independent Studies a bit more objectively. The general consensus of opinion seems to be that it all has been a valuable experience.

However, many seniors feel that the whole program needs some re-evaluation. It was evident in the past few weeks that some advisors demanded a great deal more scholarship than did others. A number of students feel that the requirements for the studies should be more standardized and in some in some fields more stringent.

A board or committee of governors would be a definite asset to the whole program. A student whose work is rejected by his particular advisor has absolutely no recourse at the present time. In many cases he is unable to take an appeal to any member of the administration for fear of reprisal on comprehensives. This board could also have an influence over the quality of work acceptable.

The ideals of the independent study program are far above average. The individual works themselves should not be mediocre.

ON FEBUARY MEETINGS

Maryville College is indeed fortunate to have enlisted Dr. Louis Evans as February Meetings speaker this year. Dr. Evans is one of the most dynamic and sincere ministers in America. He was not voted one of the twelve "great ministers" as a result of preaching what people like to hear. Let us anticipate a revitalization of our beliefs in response to his series.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol. 46, No. 7 December 17, 1960

Member of University Press Service

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker, Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Sue Bloomer
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange editor ..... Anitra Bard
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart, George Roselli
Contributors this issue ..... Patti Paul, Marcia Rushworth, Pat Crossley, June Wilson, Ellen Dozier, Carol Wood
Typists ..... Jean Keller, Gloria Schwam, Linda Roberts

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Bill Steuben
Advertising Editor ..... Mike Garrett
Circulation Manager ..... Jon Sypher
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

All letters to the editor must be signed, limited to 300 words, and submitted to a staff member by the Saturday prior to the regular date of publication.

Mail Box

McCormick Seminary

Dear Friends,

Since graduation from Maryville I have time and time again tried to put my finger on just what it is there on "the hill" that makes the college so unique. Whenever any of us who were students there together gather to talk over "the good old days," something of the Maryville flavor seeps through. Part of it I'm sure is due to mutual experiences — from Dr. Hunter's humor, to an encounter with the watchman, to February Meetings, to Mr. Mack, . . . — but there is something more basic even than all of this.

Here at seminary we've heard a lot about the meaning of the church. It has been graphically defined as "the Community of the redeemed." Somehow, above all else, this comes through as the meaning of the Maryville spirit—as one of the foundation stones of any College that dares to call itself Christian in any sense. Whether you know it or not, you have the opportunity, living among fellow Christmas, to "hear one another's burdens," to "rejoice with them that rejoice," and to "let love be genuine."

Often faculty and students alike overlook the fact that school rules and disciplines are needed to keep order and are not essentially Christian concepts. Christianity is not made up of rules but stems from a realization of our relationship to God through His Son, and this is reflected in attitudes and actions. The rules, nevertheless, are needed, but the spirit of obedience can reflect that which goes much deeper.

You at Maryville have a grand opportunity to experience Christian Community. As you gather in Chapel before the cross, think about this and ask yourself the question T. S. Eliot sets forth in The Rock:

What have you if you have not life together?
There is no life that is not in Community
And no Community not lived in praise of GOD.

* * * * * *

When the stranger says: "What is the meaning of this city?
Do you huddle close together because you have each other?"
What will you answer?
. . . This is a community"?

Cordially;
Bill Pennock, 59

LISTEN YANKEES....

Review by Sue Bloomer

The December issue of "Harper's Magazine" contains a brief and shocking essay by C. Wright Mills, entitled, "Listen, Yankee" and shocking essay by C. Wright Mills, entitled, "Listen, Yankee." Mr. Mills is a Professor of Sociology at Columbia University who visited Cuba last August and made an extensive study of the Revolution. This aricle is to be included in a forth-coming book, "Listen, Yankee (McGraw-Hill and Ballentine) Mr. Mills' message is obviously biased and oblivious to the faults of the Castro regrime; however, he presents to us an understanding of the forces which brought this regime into power, and explains the Cuban case against the United States.

Mr. Mills presents his article in the form of a letter from the Cuban Revolutionaries to the American people. Through this medium he claims the United States is grossly misinformed concerning Cuba and U.S. policies there; that our newspapers and magazines have lied to us and continue to do so. He claims, "A lot of people in the world who aren't limited to TIME magazine and Hearst papers, and listening to your networks and all the rest of it, are getting to know something of the truth about Cuba today. They're getting to know that your press on Cuba is about as real as your quiz programs have been. They are both full of outrageous lies which may fool Yankees but don't fool anyone else." He declares the United States has knowingly exploited Cuba for over a century, keeping her enslaved and economically destitute because of our "big business" land holdings there. He states that the Cuban Revolution is about their old standard of starving and their new standard of living. He blames the United States for the conditions of unrest throughout almost all the world.

The cause he considers to be not only our capitalistic exploitation, but also the apathy and the ignorance of the American people concerning these countries. Mills warns that if the U.S. doesn't wake up to the existing situations in the "hungry-nation" bloc, they may find themselves the target of a world hate they're never even dreamed of. He calls for America to act. "Don't you see that events all over the world demand that you think, feel, act? We Cubans don't take satisfaction in the fact that we are the center of the Cold War in the Caribbean. We don't like the Cold War anywhere—who does? We don't want to be the Western Hungary—who does? . . . Can we say: Become aware of our agonies and aspirations? . . . Take Cuba as the case—the Case in which to establish the way are going to act when there are revolutions in hungry countries —everywhere in the world . . . We are the Vanguards of the hungry peoples . . . it puts us on a perilous road.

Dear Editor:

Looking back on my first letter to the Mail Box, I realize that I did not make it all plain that I was not for an ill-planned, picket-waving demonstration for civil rights. I voted for that demonstration on the grounds of the principle behind it, and not necessarily the method suggested. However, I did leave the Student Body Meeting with a feeling of disgust—not because I couldn't join a group of students and parade downtown—but because the meeting ended in such a negative way. Its only outcome was that we agreed we were not for the type of demonstration suggested by U.S.N.S.A. We didn't say whether or not we were for civil rights, and if we were for them, we didn't say how we would be willing to "demonstrate" our convictions.

Poet's Niche

I understand myself
in relation to a star,
near, yet far.
Shall I kneel before the star? Mine is the voice
I hear. I will stand up to stars.
I will be proud
and fragile, I will be personable
and with my soul
receive the stars.—Leopold Cher

A Merry Christmas to all

MARYVILLE JEWELERS

-KEEPSAKE DIAMONDS-

At Christmas play and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.
—Thomas Tusser

WON'T WRITE? CALL WHITE

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES

YU 3-4762

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.
☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

A Joyous Yule and a Prosperous New Year --

We are proud to number so many scotties among our steady customer's and extend our sincere wish for a Joyous Vacation to you all!

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and Milk

Smoother, Richer, Better Tasting

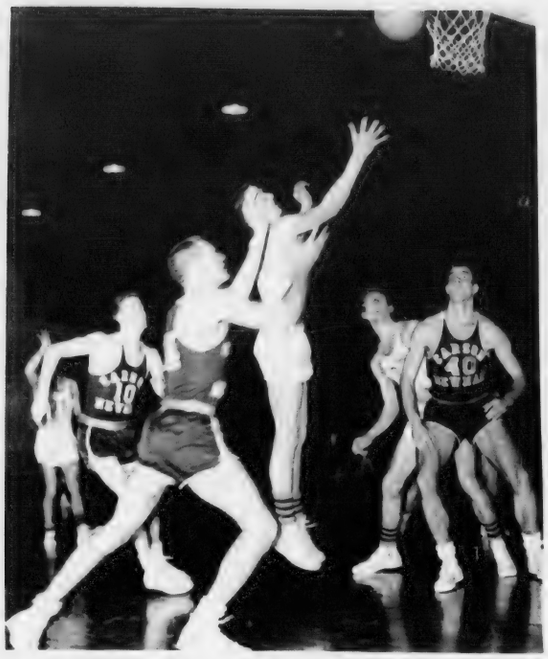
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR

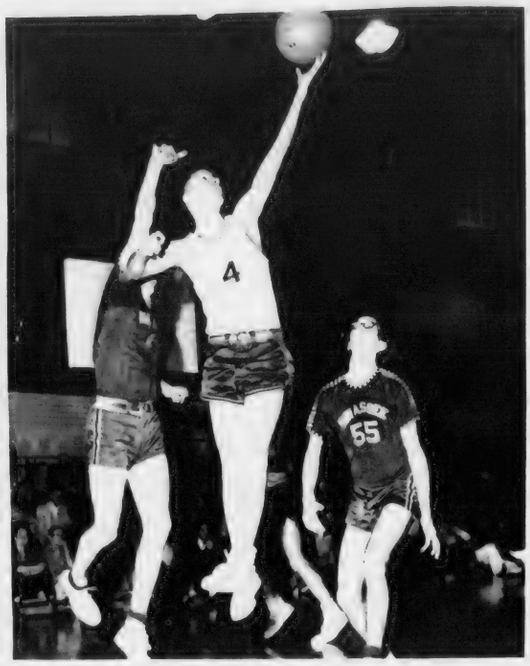
Southern Shoes

Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.

116 West Broadway



CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK



218 COURT STREET

* Christmas IDEALS
*Christmas Cards *New Books

STUDENTS ALWAYS WELCOME!

These photoes were taken at the height of the Scottie basketball season last year. Two of our chief opponents, Carson Newman and Hiwassee, both suffered defeats on the Scottie home court in close, exciting games.

MC WRESTLERS WIN ONE LOSE ONE

On Saturday, December 3, the Maryville Scots Wrestling team successfully inaugurated the 1960-61 mat season by beating the YMCA of Knoxville, 27-5. It was the season's opener for the Knoxville unit also.

Pins were scored by Ismail Yassaix, Bill Robinson, and Don Elia. The lone Knoxville pin came through the merits of Don Jones. Other impressive wins were turned in by Webb Spraatz, Don White, Art Farchild and Steve Rago.

The scoreboard:

123—Ismail Yassaix (M) pinned Jim Jenkins, 2:45 of 2nd.
130—Webb Spraatz (M) over Richard Thompson, 4-0.
137—Bill Robinson (M) pinned Jim Rogers, 2:52 of 1st.
147—Don Jones (Y) pinned Bill Schanefelt, 1:25 of 3rd.
157—Don White (M) over Carlos Alonso, 3-0.
167—Steve Rago (M) over Vernon Chambers, 7-2.
177—Don Elia (M) pinned Jim Hughes, 1:05 of 1st.
Heavy—Art Fairchild (M) over Dave Long, 2-1.

In the Second match of the season the local team lost to an overpowering and too—experienced Appalachian State team by a 34-0 score.

The North Carolinian team completely outclassed Maryville as the Lions won every match.

The scoreboard:

123—Overby (A) won by default over James Baxter.
130—Cook (A) pinned Webb Spraetz, 1:55 of second period.
137—Boyer (A) pinned Bill Robinson, 1:15 of first period.
147—Ken Shelton (A) pinned Bill Schanefelt, 1:31 of second period.
157—Lassiter (A) pinned Steve Rago, 1:33 of second period.
167—Yatori (A) outpointed Don White, 5-4.
177—Anderson (A) outpointed Don Elia, 3-0.
Heavy—Bailey (A) outpointed Art Fairchild, 3-1.

After a Christmas comes a Lent.
—John Ray

Maryville College Basketball Roster 1960-61

Nickname—Scots
Colors—Orange and Garnet
Head Coach—Boydson H. Baird
Trainer—Frank Griffith
Managers—Joe Quinn and Phillip Eslinger
Statistician—Andy Hayden

NO.	NAME	CLASS	HEIGHT	HOMETOWN
	Bible, Dana	Fresh.	5'8"	Knoxville
14	Cooper, Max	Soph.	6'1"	Greenback
44	Crisp, Bill*	Sr.	6'1"	Friendsville
36	Daniels, Felix	Fresh.	6'3"	Greenback
24	Day, Keith*	Sr.	6'2"	Russellville, Ohio
45	Heatherly, Don	Sr.	6'	Alcoa
25	Herron, George*	Jr.	6'	Maryville
3	Krusman, Ed	Soph.	5'9"	North Plainfield, N. J.
13	Owenby, Bill*	Sr.	6'4"	Pidgeon Forge. Tenn.
	Phelps. Donnie	Fresh.	5'10"	Mentor, Tenn.
4	Porter, Fred*	Soph.	5'9"	Crothersville, Ind.
34	Randall, Bert	Fresh.	6'2"	Amerillo
5	Sterner, Dale	Jr.	6'	Louisville
	Thomas, Charlie	Fresh.	6'2½"	Maryville
	Webb, Lynn	Jr.	6'1"	Maryville

* Denotes Lettermen

Maryville College Wrestling Squad 1960

Stephen Wood	115	(2)	Maryville, Tennessee
James Baxter	123	(2)	Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
Bill Hodgson	125	(1)	Washington, D. C.
Ismail Yassai	128	(1)	Tabriz, Iran
Don Morton	130	(1)	Maryville, Tennessee
Webb Spraetz	130	(1)	Madison. Wisconsin
Bill Robinson	137	(1)	Mountain Side, New Jersey
Bill Schanfelt	147	(2)	Lorain, Ohio
Dave Settlemeyer	147	(1)	Glenolden, Pennsylvania
Joe Testa	147	(1)	Berkley Heights, New Jersey
Eddy Paul	157	(1)	Mount Pleasant. Tennessee
Steve Rago	157	(1)	Kenilworth, New Jersey
Don White*	167	(4)	Maryville, Tennessee
Don Elia*	177	(2)	Hackettstown. New Jersey
Joe Kucinski	177	(1)	Bayonne, New Jersey
Arthur Fairchild*	H.W.	(3)	Towanda, Pennsylvania
Pete Stafford	H.W.	(2)	Maryville, Tennessee
Bill Cochean	H.W.	(2)	Alcoa, Tennessee

* Denotes Lettermen

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
BANKING SERVICES

- Check Accounts
- Savings Accounts
- Christmas Club Savings
- Transfer of Funds
- Banking from Your Car
- Night Depository Service

– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

BEST WISHES FOR A JOYOUS HOLIDAY SEASON

FAMILY STYLE MEALS

DELICIOUS ITALIAN PIZZA

Reasonable Price

Prompt Service

Just Two Blocks From The College

College Hill Grill
Managed by May Boling

SHOP BEFORE GOING HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

* * * *

Suggestions for that Man

*SWANK Jewelry
*HANSEN AND STETSON Gloves
*ARROW AND WEMBLEY Ties
*BUXTON Billfolds
*INTERWOVEN Socks
*PARIS Belts
*McGREGOR Sport Shirts
*ARROW Dress Shirts

* * * *

AND PROFFITT'S WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS

* * * *

PROFFITT'S
Street Floor

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

We wish all Scotties an enjoyable vacation and we will look forward to serving you upon your return in January

YOUR 24-HOUR HOST

THE COFFEE HOUSE
DOWNTOWN BROADWAY YU 2-1541

Season's Greetings

We have appreciated your patronage this past year and eagerly await the opportunity to serve you in the New Year.

HORNE'S FLORIST
215 W. Broadway YU2-2690

Be Our Guest at

MURPHY-WEST

See the NEW 1961 CHEVROLETS and CORVAIRS
and the NEW 1961 OLDSMOBILES AND F-85'S ! ! !
For the Buy that's Best – See MURPHY-WEST

Civil Rights Demonstrations and Conferences Continued by Students

Civil Rights Action Round-up

(UPS) Efforts to end local discriminatory practices are mounting at colleges and universities across the country, and new civil rights action groups continue to form.

University of Texas students held peaceful demonstrations before five non-integrated restaurants and the Texas Theater last week. More than 100 white and Negro students demonstrated at the theater Friday and Saturday evening (Dec. 2 and 3). The students passed out cards prepared by the University Religious Council stating, "I will continue to patronize this establishment if it is integrated," in an effort to convince owners that they would not be economically hurt by integrating.

Wilson College (Chambersburg, Pa.) student council approved a policy to boycott the Penn-Wilson, a local restaurant as long as it practices racial discrimination, and the faculty has authorized the appointment of a faculty committee on civil rights to work with the student government.

Roosevelt University (Chicago) student senate voted last month to send letters protesting their civil rights policies to Governor Ernest Vandiver of Georgia and Mayor William Hartsfield of Atlanta.

Colleges United for Racial Equality (CURE) was formed in late October to coordinate New York area campus civil rights activities. Participating are students from Barnard, Columbia, New York University, Queens and City College of New York. Projects include picketing at Woolworth's and publishing a civil rights newsletter.

The recently reactivated Human Relations Commission of the University of Minnesota Student Association is studying University policies in various areas including admissions, scholarships, employment and housing. The Commission also plans a campaign to bring campus discrimination problems to the attention of the entire student body.

The University of Wisconsin Student Council on Civil Rights and the Wisconsin Student Association Human Relations Commission are investigating discriminatory problems in Madison.

Over 70 students attended a conference in Ithaca, New York last weekend (Dec. 2 and 3) sponsored by the Cornell Committee Against Segregation designed to "educate, direct and strengthen students in the fight against segregation."

The Chicago Youth Committee on Civil Rights is planning a series of demonstratons to protest what they consider the lack of concern by the Board of Education over segregation in Chicago. In addition, the committee plans to testify at the board's budget hearing.

MAIL BOX, Continued

Indeed. the exchange with Knoxville College, Interracial Committee work at Hale School, and Operations Crossroads are evidences of a beginning of an awakening of our Christian consciences. Yes, I say beginning, because if this is all we are willing to do, we are doing no better than the Boy Scout who does his one good deed a day. Students from K.C. and Maryville enjoy two days of integration per month and gain new insights and friendships. The kids at Hale School may soon come to realize that after one hour per week contact with a white college student or two that all white people aren't out to lynch Negroes, or to call them bad names, etc. It's broad-minded to us to donate a few dollars to help send a few of our fellow students to Africa for the summer, but how close do we feel to those students or to the African people with whom they'll come in contact?

Besides, how much of a total change do all these activities represent? Who are the students that participate? I could name practically every one of them. The ones that work on Interracial Committee are, more often than not, the same ones that go to Knox College, to the "Y" meetings on the passive movement, and to Vols programs on race. Where is the rest of the Student Body?

Our type of "integration" is neither permanent, nor representative of a total change. It's the kind that doesn't bother most of us because it either lasts only two days or an hour, or else it is ten thousand miles away where it won't touch us. Time and patience are not cure-alls in themselves. If we refuse to educate ourselves about other people through contact with them while we are waiting patiently, the time we have taken is of no essence. Time can be the "doctor" for our racial ills only if we use it to take positive and lasting steps forward. Otherwise, we will be no more "ready" for integration in five-hundred years than we are now. Perhaps integration is the best means to bring the contact and education needed. Perhaps we are working backwards?

—Wendy Compton

Bill Owenby Leads Basketball Scores

The Maryville College basketball season got under way last week with the Scots on the tail end of both games. The opener saw Tusculum trim the Maryville quintet by the score of 76-56. The second game of the young cage campaign was in Chattanooga where the Scots were beaten by the Mocs. 69-55. On last Tuesday the team traveled to King College in Bristol for the final game before the Christmas vacation. The first home game will be against Carson Newman on January 10.

For the first two games the individual scoring chart looks like this:

Owenby-36; Crisp-23; Herron-16; Day-8; Randall-6; Daniels-5; Heatherly-4; Thomas-3; Cooper-2.

STEMBRIDGE GOES TO 4-H CONGRESS

On November 25, Claudia Stembridge, a Maryville College freshman from Ellijav, Georgia, left Atlanta, to attend the National 4-H Club Congress. The Congress was held in Chicago from November 26 through December 1.

Having won the county, district, and state 4-H Club Dress Review Contests, Claudia was eligible to participate in the National Dress Review. For the National Review, which was held in one of Chicago's large theaters, she modeled the ensemble which had won the State Contest for her—a white chiffon semiformal and street length, gold satin evening coat.

While in Chicago, she stayed at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, the world's largest hotel, and met with 4-H Clubbers from 50 states and Puerto Rico. There were representatives from 17 foreign countries present.

CONGO STUDENT TOURS AMERICA

PHILADELPHIA, Thnrsday, December 1 — A student leader from the Province of Leopoldville in the Congo, who is in the United States on a 15-day tour of American cities and universities to study urban redevelopment, housing cooperatives, labor unions and student organizations, feels that the hopes for maintaining a strong government in the Congo under self-rule rest with the students and student organizations of that country.

Henri Takizala, 24 year old graduate of the University of Lovanium and one of 25 to 300 college graduates in the Congo today, feels that there is a grave danger that the Congo's political parties may represent tribal interests rather than the national interest.

He believes that student organizations are the only truly national organizations in the Congo that are not based on tribal loyalties. He explains that. although the Congo students come from different provinces, they all live at the one University and therefore are more receptive to concerns of the national interest above the tribal interest.

Offered the post of Vice-Minister of Education in Colonel Mobutu's College of Ministers, Takizala refused it in favor of further study and work with student organizations. He holds a degree in social sciences and journalism from the University of Lovanium and wrote hs thesis on housing developments and improvements in Leopoldville. He is n this country as a guest of the United States National Student Association (USNSA), the American national union of students.

Sachett And Sneakers

Socer certainly is a rough game, as was evidenced these past two weeks during W.A.A. The type of soccer played has been regulated to indoor playing because of unpredictable weather at Maryville. The greatest handicap in the rules is that a player's hands must be kept behind her back at all times. This makes is quite hard on a player falling down. The goalie's position is not one to be cherished, as Sylvia Fugate and Anna Baker will testify. It is all right as long as the ball stays at the other end of the court! The action between Theta and Chi Beta was rough but fun, with Chi Beta winning the tournament 2-1.

Touche! Anyone care to fence, or to learn how? This is the present W.A.A. sport. Susie Fagan, is the event manager and coach.

Robert Bruce

"tivoli"
zip-front cardigan
like two sweaters in one!

A modest investment in the Tivoli cardigan pays you fashion dividends two ways . . . when you wear the versatile collar open, continental-style, or zip it up as a turtleneck! In a rich blend of 75% lambswool and 25% "Orlon*" Acrylic fiber, the Tivoli cardigan has the smart, bulky look that's a top favorite everywhere! Six choice colors, S, M, L, XL. $12.95

*Du Pont's trademark for its Acrylic fiber

MINTON'S

For the Best Prices in Jewelry and Expert Watch Repairs, Look for . . .
THE JEWELRY STORE WITH THE RED DOOR
(At The Side Of Byrne Drug Store)
Columbia Tru-Fit Diamond Rings
Elgin • Hamilton

CLYDE RAY TIPTON, Jewelry
101 Court Street YU 2-0141

THE FAMILY STORE
(Court Street – Just Back of Byrne Drug)
GIRLS Sweaters – Blouses – Hose – SlimJims
Robes – Underwear – Sox
BOYS Sport Shirts – Dress Shirts – Pants –
Jackets – Underwear – Sox
HIGH QUALITY at LOW PRICES

PARKS-BELK
Maryville's Most Complete Sportswear Department
SINCERE BEST WISHES
FOR A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS
FROM YOUR
HOME OF BETTER VALUES

DINE AT NIGHT . . .
BY CANDLELIGHT –
We serve only the finest foods, designed to please the most discriminate tastes.
LEONARD'S STEAK HOUSE

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 8 Maryville, Tennessee February 4, 1961

Dr. Louis Evans

FEB. MEETINGS TO BEGIN ON FEB. 15

The 1961 February Meetings will begin the morning of Wednesday, February 15, and end on Thursday morning, February 23.

There will be two public preaching services in the Chapel each day, at 9:40 a.m. and 7:00 p.m., except Saturday evening and Sunday morning. There will be no service Saturday evening; and on Sunday morning Dr. Evans will preach at New Providence Church, Mr. Mathis at Highland Church, and Dr. Barraclough at the Cloyd's Creek Church.

Dr. Louis H. Evans, the speaker this year, is one of America's most widely known and popular contemporary ministers. He has been included in every recent list of "Great American Preachers." He was outstanding as Pastor of Third Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, but it was during his twelve-year pastorate of First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, which grew from 2,400 to 6,000 members under him, that he became a national figure. He is now Minister-at-Large for the entire United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., and continues to make his home in Los Angeles. He has led the February Meetings twice before—in 1936 and 1940.

For the second year, the Song Leader will be Mr. Donald R. Mathis, Minister of Music at First Presbyterian Church, St. Petersburg, Florida, and a graduate and former faculty member of Westminster Choir School, Princeton, Philadelphia. Associate Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian General Assembly, will be the Guest Pianist for the tenth time.

According to present plans, both Dr. Henry Barraclough of Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Barraclough will be here. The whole party will be guests of President and Mrs. Lloyd in their home, Morningside.

ECHO WELCOMES NEW STAFF

Mike Garrett, sophomore English major replaces Bill Stueben as business manager of the Highland Echo. Mike formerly acted as advertising editor of the paper.

Carolyn Sierra, senior English major has assumed the position of feature editor.

DON'T WRITE—
SEND THE ECHO

Mr. Donald Mathis

Dr. Barraclough

February Meeting Schedule

A	8:00—8:40
B	8:50—9:30
Chapel	9:40—10:40
C	10:50—11:30
D	11:40—12:20

MC STUDENTS AID FAYETTE COUNTY

A group of interested students are conducting a drive to aid those citizens of Fayette County, Tennessee, who are feeling the adverse effects of their attempts to gain equal suffrage. The drive, began Wednesday, February 1, will continue through Wednesday, February 15. All students are being contacted personally; donations of clothing and canned goods are to be placed in boxes located at the designated places in the dormitories, or in he Echo Office.

Arrangements have been made to tranport the clothes and canned goods to Fayette County on the weekend following the drive. Several community churches are also participating in this function.

Valentine Dance To Be on Feb. 11

A Valentine Dance will be held Saturday, February 11. from eight to ten-thirty in the New Dorm basement. The semi-formal dance, which is sponsored by WSGA and MSC, will be based on the theme "My Funny Valentine."

The music for the dance will be recorded, and refreshments will be served.

Chairman of the Valentine Dance include: Pat Williams and Ronnie Smith, Co-chairman; Ed Perintony, decorations; Wade Hampton, publicity; and Shirley Mease, refreshments.

ARTIST SERIES TO BE HELD FEB. 14

Pierre Cochereau, noted organist of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Paris, will offer the third number in the Maryville College-Community Artist Series on Tuesday, February 14, at 8:15 p.m. in Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel.

Mr. Cochereau's recital will be performed on the three manual, forty-nine rank Holtkamp organ in the College chapel.

A native of France, Mr. Cochereau received his Bachelor's degree before entering the National Conservatory of Music in Paris. At the Conservatory he majored in harmony, history of music, and composition, and studied organ with Marcel Dupre.

In 1942 he became organist of St. Toch in Paris, and in 1955, he was appointed organist of the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The latter appointment was considered a great honor for a man of thirty-one years of age.

The present concert tour is Mr. Cochereau's fourth. He has toured throughout Europe, Canada, Australia, and the United States. On his first tour here in 1956, he closed with a final concert before the National Convention of the American Guild of Organists.

In addition to being a concert organist, Mr. Cochereau teaches and records. His teaching is done primarily on his own private four manual organ in his home, which has both European and American pedal boards.

His recordings, made both at home and on the great organ at Notre Dame, are on London International, Washington Records, and Omega Discs labels.

His program includes works by Walter, Kellner, Bach, Ducasse, Gigout and Dupre.

ELVA YOHE TO GIVE SENIOR RECITAL

Elva Yohe, senior voice major, will present her senior recital on Friday, February 10, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

A pupil of Dan Kinsinger, Elva will be accompanied by Karen Kennedy at the piano.

Her program includes the Bach solo cantata "Was Schmerz Sei Und Was Leider" with Karen Kennedy at the harpsichord assisted by Robert Triplett at the organ, "Cinq Poems de Baudelaire" by Debussy, and a group of Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes sung in English.

Elva will wear a blue, floor length dress with satin bodice fashioned with a scalloped neckline and cap sleeves. The back is square and highlighted by a drape accented with a pink rose. The skirt is of nylon organza over taffeta.

All are invited to the recital and to the reception which follows it in the lounge of the Center.

Vespers Speaker

Rev. J Edward Lantz will bt the Vespers speaker on Feb. 5, He is the Atlanta Executive Director of the Southern Council of Churches of Christ.

DR. E. FAY CAMPBELL COMMENCES DUTIES AS NEW COLLEGE CHAPLAIN

Dr. E. Fay Campbell, whose distinguished service is nationally known, comes to Maryville College as college chaplain upon his retirement as head of the Division of Higher Education of the United Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, with offices in Philadelphia. In this capacity his responsibility has included not only 45 colleges related to the Church but also the Westminster Foundations on some 150 university campuses.

He also has served as Executive Secretary of the United Presbyterian Council on Theological Education, which has oversight of ten theological seminaries. His work for the Board of Christian Education is now terminating, but he will continue to give some service to the Council on Theological Education.

Before entering upon his work with the Presbyterian Church, he was General Secretary of Dwight Hall, the historic Christian Association at Yale University.

He is a graduate of Yale University and Yale Divinity School, and holds honorary doctors' degrees from nine different colleges.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell will live in "The House-in-the-Woods" which was given to the College as a college chaplain's home but has been occupied in recent years by Mr. James W. Hampton, Director of Public Relations, and his family. Dr. Campbell's office will be on the first floor of the Chapel. Rev. Hughston R. Peyton, Christian Education Representative for the Synod, who has been using this office has now moved to the second floor of the Chapel.

Dr. Campbell

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell have a son who is on the faculty of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, and a daughter who is on the staff of Swarthmore College.

Dr. Campbell's program and responsibilities as Maryville College Chaplain will be announced later.

Three Instructors Join MC Faculty

Three new faculty appointments have been made, effective at the beginning of the semester.

Lynn Denson Hendrick, instructor in physics, holds the degrees of Bachelor of Engineering Physics and Master of Science in physics from Auburn University. Before coming to Maryville he had held positions as consruction inspector for the Orange County Board of Public Instruction in Florida, mechanical draftsman for Combustion Engineering Service in Orlando, and instructor in physics at Auburn University. He replaces E. Clinton Ash, who resigned during the summer, and John Elsee and Kenneth L. Paxton, who were part time instructors during the first semester. Both are employed by the Aluminum Company of America.

James D. Stidham has been appointed as part time insructor in biology. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Milligan College, and is completing work on his MS in biology at the University of Tennessee.

Roger Wagner replaces Ann Myers Patrick as instructor in music. Mr. Wagner received his Bachelor of Music degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, and the Master of Music degree from Southern Methodist University. He is a native of Ohio.

MERRY WIVES CAST CHOSEN FOR NEXT PRODUCTION

The cast for the Maryville Playhouse's presentation of William Shakespeare's The Merry Wives of Windsor to be presented March 17 and 18 has been announced by Miss Kathleen Craven and Mr. E. Parker Dupler, heads of the Drama department. The cast is a follows: Falstaff—E. Parker Dupler; Fenton—Bruce Jenkins; Shallow—John Graulich; Slender—Bob Bowman; Page—Dale Young; Dr. Caius—Harry Page; Host—John Bakalaar: Bardolph—Lynn Sexton; Semple—Ross McGill; Mistress Page—Kathryn Smith; Mistress Ford—Irma Birkelback; Anne Page—Mary McCampbell: Mistress Quickly—Arda S. Walker; Pistol—Craig Snyder; Servants—Jim Rechtin and Allen Stephens.

The stage manager will be Ross McGill and the crew assignments are Construction—Henry Weeks, head, Anne Aubrey, Bruce Jenkins, John Lock, James Rechtin, Carol Skagg, Janet Smith, Allin Stephen, and Bob Washburn; Paint—Bambi Ansley, Head, Margaret Cummings, Alice Curd, Bobbie Dick, Ginny Hoskinson, Patti Paul, Kathie Sherer, Lori Sturmfels, June Wilson, Sally Blair, Missy Sumey; Light—James Rugh, head, and Bill Conger; Properties—Kathy Eisenhart, head, Cythia Blanchard, Gertrude Meiselwitz, Missy Sumey; Make-up—Kathryn Smith, head, Bob Bowman, Mary McCampbell, and Kathie Sherer; Sound—Jean Kelleher; Publicity—George Roselli, head, and Carol Blair; Tickets—Sara Lewis, head, Betsy Lonsinger, Frances Massey, Jeannette Payne and Sue Quigg. Alda Cortese in charge of the house.

Editorially Speaking

EXAMINATION

One of the tragedies of the Christian Church is the tendency of the material fact of Churchianity to overshadow the abstact God the church professes to worship. This may well be caused by our lack of real experience of God, that is the kind of experience that raises the fact of the church to a level with the fact of God. We are in danger of letting our all too factual experience with required chapel and honor slips keep us from having the type of relationship with God that would make these forms inconsequential.

As February Meetings approach mav we examine our individual attitudes toward this period of spiritual emphasis. Let us not fail to recognize the fact and power of God because of any attitude we might hold concerning the methods of the institutionalized church.

APPRECIATION

Chapel service is intended to be a period of intellectual and spiritual stimulation. Often students find it becomes like more than a twenty minutes waking-up period, worth a half hour academic credit.

Comments have been heard recently on those several services which seemed to fulfill the purpose of a college chapel meditation. Recognition is given to those who seek a new thought, plan a period of true worship, or share an enlightening experience. Mr. Max Tolar, Dr. Arda Walker, Mr. Robert Triplett, and Mr. Mike Ducey merit especially the appreciation of the student body for the efforts they made to plan a service with which the whole college community might well begin the day.

Poet's Niche

POEM

Liquid silver movements, slick and smooth,
Hands, holding beauty carefully as a baby's breath,
Cradling it in exquisite tenderness,
Body supple, swaying with inner serenity,
Soul, searching a soulmate but, having found it
Spills the knowledge that is woman's.

—Carolyn Siera

TITANIC

The recussant splendor ebbs from the sea
As the motions are blurred in the mist
Until all has become a vessel of nothing
While we rock in the wave of a whisper.
The dilemma of inverted values and Intraverted souls toss forever through a
Generation without direction and wander
Over a charted course that veers forever.
Surging enthusiasm has given way to nausea
As we beg for a leader from the rear
And cry in vain because there isn't, until
We leap into salvation and perish.

—Ross McGill

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol. 46, No. 8 February 4, 1961

Member of University Press Service

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College.

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Carolyn Siera
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchange editor ..... Anitra Bard
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors this issue ..... Patti Paul, Marcia Rushworth, Pat Crossley, June Wilson, Ellen Dozier, Carol Wood, Keen Compher
Typists ..... Jean Keller

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Mike Garrett

Circulation Manager ..... Jon Sypher
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair
Mr. Frank Laymen

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

All letters to the editor must be signed, limited to 300 words, and submitted to a staff member by the Saturday prior to the regular date of publication.

Mail Box

Dear Editor,

Religion and education cannot be forced! Christ himself laid down no rules but only principles. He knew we must freely choose for ourselves before our ideals are truly our own. Are we not to be trusted to make decisions ourselves? If not now—when?—when we are hurled into the world from the protected complacency of the bounds of Maryville College? Are we individuals puppets?

How long will our dictated religion and ideals last in a revolutionary and moving world where more people are non-Christian than are Christian? Are we saying "God's in his heaven and all's right with the world?" God help us if we are!

This is a world of change. Christ does not change, so we must be able to apply our Christian principles to a changing world. Maryville College gives us no chance for this.

I cannot blame anyone here entirely for being complacent and apathetic. We are bound and kept from stimulation. Every way we turn, we are bound. How in this atmosphere can we be expected to get beyond ourselves? How can we search and find out what we think? How can we express ourselves? Even in class we are expected only to be as a sheet of paper on which we must exhibit the ideas of other people. What of our ideas? Don't they count? Isn't education supported to get us to think for ourselves? On tests and papers we must so often be careful to give the teacher what we think he wants in order to get a good grade.—Why?

We need freedom in learning and living in order to become truly stable and mature. In education and religion we must not be dictated to by books and peoples, but we should receive ideas from ideas, from books and people and come to our own conclusions. Otherwise our natural curiosity is stifled and discouraged curiosity is have to face the world with soft minds and weak souls.

—Sylvia Gilmore

Continental Cursive

Dear Mom,

I've been reading a very thoughtful and thought-provoking book today: A Casebook on the BEAT, edited by Thomas Parkinson. It consists of a collection of contemporary so-called Beat literary pieces, and a series of pro and con commentaries. I haven't got to the commentaries yet—I haven't even finished the rest—but, because you've been so inerested in what my generation is going to do, BEAT or UNBEATEN, I wanted to write right now and tell you what I've been thinking all day.

In this group of people called BEAT I find a common interest in all events of the world—past, present,—and (to a certain extent) future. They are called BEAT, as you know, because their analysis of the world situation is a passive one; one conceived in an active withdrawal from actual participation in that essential situation.

These people have been harmed by the adolescent (and this adolescence knows no chronological limit) fadism which cries out, "Here are people who live freely!" never pausing to consider that this freedom is merely indicative of a greater restriction—that of the BEAT'S personal incapability to cope with a too big problem. But, in spite, or perhaps because, of their inability, these people have been able to see, and express, much of the underlying confusion in this one big problem spelled PEOPLE. Their preoccupation with self, and their obcession for seeming obseenity—these are indicative of the ever—present essentials in Everyman's consciousness—except that Everyman, because he is attempting to live in the world and cope with it, pushes these elements guiltily to an interior level, according to the demands of society. And the adversity the BEATS express toward traditional or "conventional" Art (BEATS, you understand, are nearly all, because they cannot work as functional members of material society, connected with that phenomena called Art), is, as one of them comments in this book I'm reading, merely the adversity of any new generation or thinking group, to the boundaries established by their predecessors.

As most persons even partially educated are aware, any new art form, be it in printing, sculpture, poetry, prose, or music, is at first strongly resisted by all but a very few proponents. It takes much time, and often some modification, for a new form to take hold. That that which the BEATS call poetry is unacceptable to the rest of the world as such is not surprising—rather it is interesting to me to know that I will be able to see how it endures. Also a point to consider is the fact that much of this expression arose in different individuals who had no form of communication with one another, leading me to consider the theory that each generation is a product of its predecessors and its own environmental situation, so that there is an overall consistency in development.

But, Mother dear, I am not ready to join the BEAT crowd of Greenwich Village just yet. I am still too aware of the shock of the intensity of the BEAT'S search for ultimate and essential reality, to the inclusion of all aspects of life, from the religious and aesthetic to the picyune and, sometimes so considered, vulgar or obscene! And the frequent forced withdrawal of the BEAT, by means of Dope or Alcohol, is only a means of running from the self he cannot face, the self that is afraid of the world it sees.

Here then is my charge to the BEATS: To maintain their great awareness of all aspects of life, and their continuous search for a means of reconciling all of the facts. BUT to come back into the world and make their knowledge more pragmatic. Instead of despising mediocrity and tradition, to have compassion and to show them how to wake up and live! Instead of town-beating those with less perception, to teach them by example, as well as by precept.

Instead of trying to force his ways and his knowledge by shock treatment, the BEAT, as any other prophet, would do well to realize that infiltration and slow revelation, with the people's consent, as their attitudes change, is the only way to bring a better world, in which he, the BEAT, and all the rest of the population, can live in that Love which is essential.

Thank you for again being patient through one of my outbursts, Mom. Maybe, here, you can see, too, what it is that has motivated some of the actions and statements of myself and my peers, that you have been so curious about, and how' our concepts have developed.

Your college daughter,

WON'T WRITE ?
CALL WHITE

Keep your typewriter working at its best.

White's factory-trained repairmen are at your service.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES
YU 3-4762

THE COFFEE HOUSE
YOUR 24 HOUR HOST
Real Home-Made PIE a SPECIALTY
Broadway
Downtown

The "Y" Store Proudly serves
MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and Milk
Smoother, Richer, better Tasting
Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

Library Features Display, New Book

For the past several weeks a number of foreign periodicals have been on display in the Library. This display was suggested by Robert S. Fuller, '52, who wrote to Maryville alumni in various parts of the world asking them to send representative periodicals from their countries to the library.

Periodicals have been given by Mr. Fuller, who sent them from Canada; Carol Hardy, '46, now living in Cambridge, England, who sent some from the British Isles; Mrs. Robert Mum (Elizabeth Hope, '46), who sent several French periodicals from Paris; and Sam H. Franklin, '24, who sent some from Tokyo, Japan. A display of Honduran periodicals was given by Neale J. Pearson, '52.

Of particular interest in the library is the book by Dr. Douglas J. Elwood, The Philosophical Theology of Jonathan Edwards. Dr. Elwood may be remembered by some at Maryville as the pastor at Highland Presbyterian Church from 1954-1959. In 1951 Dr. Elwood received his B,D. from Princeton Theological Seminary and his Ph.D. from the University of Edingburgh in 1953. He is now Associate Professor of Religion and Philosophy at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, Missouri. At present, Dr. Elwood is editing one of the volumes of the new Yale edition of Jonathan Edwards' complete works.

Workcamp Builds Hale Playground

During the semester break Student Volunteers sponsored a workcamp at the Hale High School playground. The plan was promoted by Steve Henderson who was instrumental in obtaining permission for the project. Mrs. Edgar Moros took charge of preparing the food, and tools were borrowed from various interested people in town and among the faculty.

The Maryville College students were joined by several students from Hale High School in the repairing and beautifying work on the playground. In spite of cold weather on the first day and snow the second day, a great deal was accomplished. Swings, slides, and a jungle jim were painted with new bright colors, while the "ground crew" picked up trash, raked leaves, and chopped down weeds. Besides the cleaning and repairing, some of the boys built frames for the horseshoe pits and backboards for basketball.

Since the snow hindered work on the second day, a new project was begun: Two picnic tables were built. The rest of the painting and chopping down of weeds will be completed later an a Saturday afternoon.

Supper was served both Wednesday and Thursday nights, followed by group singing and a devotional led by Rev. David Maier of Highland Church.

SCOTTIES LOSE TWO BY TWO POINTS

The Maryville Scotties have a jinx! That's the only way to describe the present situation as far as the local lads are concerned. For the past two ball games the home team has had the opportunity to push the game into overtime and for two consecutive nights have failed to hit the tying basket although having the ball right under the opponents basket both times.

In the first defeat for the Scots, the boys rallied from a big twelve point deficit with but four minutes to play only to have time run out on them as the ball rolled around the rim and out. The team from Centre College of Kentucky pulled out the squeaker 71-69 with Joe Patterson and Hal Smith leading the way for the winners. The Maryville team was led by Captain Bill Owenby who lead both teams with 25 points and had numerous rebounds. Bill Crisp also had a good night with 13 points for the locals.

Last Saturday night the Scotties dropped their second in a row to Birmingham Southern of Alabama, 58-56. Once again Lady Luck proved to be against the home crew as the clock ran out with the ball under Birmingham's basket. This time the Scotties had taken a comfortable 35-28 point lead at halftime only to have the visitors storm back and pull out the close one. It was Bill Owenby and Bill Crisp who led in the scoring department for the second straight night. Leon Dunaway had the most points for the victors with a total of 20.

Scoreboard:

Centre (71): Patterson 18, Rush 7, Smith 17, Simpson 5, Distler 12, Wright 8, Cooper 4.

Maryville (69): Daniels 3, Randall 8. Owenby 25, Porter 7, Crisp 13, Cooper 5, Bible 2, Day 6.

Birmingham Southern (58): Mackin 1, Odom 6, Bailey 13, Cherry 12, Dunaway 20, Livingston 4, Rughes 4.

Maryville (56): Daniels 5, Randall 7, Owenby 19, Crisp 16, Heatherly 1, Krusman 5. Bible 3.

G.R.

Sachet And Sneakers

WAA basketball is here again. This sport seems to be the most popular one. evidenced by the large turnout of players. If you want to see some really good basketball come on over to the intramural gym some tuesday or thursday from 3:30 to 5:30.

Last year's tournament was very successful. The competition and spirit were high. Chi Beta won the tournament, with one of its teams, "The Travelers," going undefeated. As a result of the tournament last year, an all-star team was picked from all the players. This team played in a tournament at Carson-Newman and came in second.

The tournament for this semester which started Feb. 2, will last for approximately six weeks. Each team will play six times.

Lois Lockett is manager of tht three Theta teams. Tte captains for Theta teams are: Team I, Harriet Blankenship; Team II. Sari Semmer; and Team III. Nancy McGill.

Chi Beta's manager is Sylvia Fugate. The teams and captains are: "Sparkplugs," Carol Coy; "Floorburners." Judy Clemens and Janet Reinke; and "The Travelers," Linda Roberts.

Wrestlers Fall 28-5

The Maryville Wrestling team lost its semester's first match to the University of Cattanooga 28-5 last Saturday night on the Maryville campus. Only Steve Rago and Jim Baxter managed to sustain their foe and come out with a victory and a tie respectively. Dave Settlemeyer suffered a bruised shoulder after losing a close match by being pinned at 1:43 of the third period. Don White had to forfeit his match because of an injury.

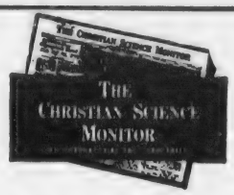
The results:

123 Jim Baxter and Steve Trotter tie

130 Charles Wright over Bill Hodgson, 9-2

137 Henry McDonald over Bill Robinson, 2-0

147 George Harless pinned Dave Settlemeyer in 1:43 of 3rd.



157 Rex Cox won by forfeit

167 Steve Rago over Charles Thornberry, 6-5.

177 Edward Stack over Joe Kucinski, 5-4

Heavyweight—Vance Parker pinned Peter Stafford in 2:35 of 3rd

G.R.

Subscribe Now at Half Price*

You can read this world-famous daily newspaper for the next six months for $5, just half the regular subscription rate.

Get top news coverage. Enjoy special features. Clip for reference work.

Send your order today. Enclose check or money order. Use coupon below.

The Christian Science Monitor P-CN
One Norway St., Boston 15, Mass.

Send your newspaper for the time checked.

☐ 6 months $5 ☐ 1 year $10
☐ College Student ☐ Faculty Member

Name

Address

City Zone State

*This special offer available ONLY to college students, faculty members, and college libraries.

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR
Southern Shoes
Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.
116 West Broadway

The BANK of MARYVILLE
"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"
BANKING SERVICES
• Check Accounts
• Savings Accounts
• Christmas Club Savings
• Transfer of Funds
• Banking from Your Car
• Night Depository Service
– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

Pleasing You Pleases Us –
Looking for just the right Gift for that special occasion?
Remember – –
You can say it better with flowers.
Hartmans Flowers
333 E. Broadway YU 2-7500

GIFTS Perfect for that Special Someone on Valentine's Day

BRACELETS – $3.75 up
TIE BARS & CUFF LINKS Beginning at $1.95
Plus a quality stock of Lockets, Rings and Jewelry, sure to please you and your pocketbook.
FREE – PERSONAL MONOGRAMS, Just ask for them!
Broadway Jewelers

PROFFITT'S
SPECIAL OF THE WEEK
MEN'S NEW SPRING "ARROW" BANLON S.S. KNIT SHIRTS
Tan – Beige – Gold – Black
$5.95
A FAVORITE AT COLLEGES
Proffitt's

FREE
$14.95 Whitman Heart Box
Drawing on Monday, February 13th
One Chance with each Heart Box $2.00 or Over

ONE HEART IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS
Hollingsworth's UNUSUAL CANDIES and WHITMAN 39c to $14.95
A 50¢ Deposit will hold your choice and we'll call you on the 13th if you forget.
PARK DRUG STORE

College Hill Grill

Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street

Delicious Italian PIZZA

All Meals Served Family Style

Now Under the Management of May Boling

For the Best Prices in Jewelry and Expert Watch Repairs, Look for . . .

THE JEWELRY STORE WITH THE RED DOOR

(At The Side Of Byrne Drug Store)

Columbia Tru-Fit Diamond Rings
Elgin • Hamilton

CLYDE RAY TIPTON, Jewelry

101 Court Street YU 2-0141

Only TEN MORE DAYS . . . .

and VALENTINE'S DAY WILL BE HERE !

We feature a fine selection of Valentine Cards, plus a complete line of Whitman & Pangburn Candies.

See us First for your Valentine Gifts !

BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

When you Care Enough . . .

You'll send Hallmark !

We feature Maryville's finest Collection of GREETING CARDS for Valentine's Day or any special occasion.

Also, a complete line of School Supplies.

McCAMMONS

108 E. Broadway Your Hallmark Headquarters

$ VALUABLE COUPON $

Hitch Record Department

This Coupon Worth

$1.00

February 6-11, 1961
on the purchase of $3.98–$6.98 LP Albums
Choose from our entire stock

Hitch Radio & TV

210 W. Church Record Department YU 2-1160

BOWLING

STUDENT RATES TILL 5:30

PARTIES WELCOME ANYTIME

MARYVILLE LANES

Now under the Management of Fred Rymer – Phone YU 2-4092

Faculty Failures Are A Challenge

From the Ohio State Lantern

(Editors Note: This editorial was written by Charles Wheeler, assistant professor of English at Ohio State).

Wynken, Blynken and Nod are the names I shall give to the three professors on this campus whose portraits are briefly sketched here. The men are fictitious but not imaginary.

By a long-standing tacit agreement, every student who enrolls in one of Professor Wynken's courses is spotted a "C" to begin with, and only in cases of flagrant absence or failure to turn in assigned written work is there any danger of a lower grade. "A's" and "B's' are common. Professor Wynken is not a fool: he knows that his students, by and large, are nothing to get excited about, but he is a kindly man who believes in live-and-let-live. He is also a great sports fan and is unsparing in his criticism of sloppy playing on the football field. Luckily for his peace of mind, our athletic department enforces the highest standards of performance.

Professor Blynken is not the drooling peetty sadist portrayed in "Little Man on Campus," but he manages to harass his students quite effectively by simply being obtuse to their feelings. He never stops to make sure that his assignments have been understood after he gives them. When he lectures, he goes so rapidly that notetakers are left hopelessly behind.

Professor Nod is not a boring lecturer, droning over dog-eared lecture notes compiled twenty years ago. His method is entirely different. It may be called "Teaching the text," that is sitting in front of the class and reciting the text out loud, with interpolated comments, while the students slump, numb and disguested, working on their arithmetic under pretense of reading the Lantern. He never assigns papers that require more than a sentence or two of consecutive original writing, and the papers are returned bearing grades but no marks or comments on their faults. He will pass illiterate writing of the technical content is satisfactory. He is very fond of multiple-choice tests, though now and then he will extend himself by giving a short-answer test to see how well the students have memorized "facts".

These men are faculty failures. They are not localized in any one department or college — they can be found all over the campus. Perhaps we faculty members might turn, for a change. from criticizing the shortcomings of our students to considering how far short we fall of meeting the challenge that they present. This challenge is not only in their numbers: it is in their seriousness, their recepivity, their candor, it is in their woeful inexperience, their confused aims, their clumsiness at abstract best in us. We cannot succeed with less.

COUNCIL APPOINTS NEW COMMITTEE

Student Council has appointed an Academic Emphasis Committee which consists of Carol Brown, Dave Gritzmacher, and Sue Quigg, chairman. The main purpose of this committee will be to inspire more academic awareness on the part of the teacher and student. On January 7 the committee presented its ideas to the Student-Faculty Senate for approval, and this matter will again be brought before them on February 10 to work out final details.

Don Harwood is also studving the proposal by the junior class to raise the Activities Fee $2 per semester to include payment for the yearbook. This is being studied not only in view of the present proposal by the junior class, but also in view of the fact that this fee may be raised anyway by the administration. Students are urged to tell their council representatives how they feel concerning this matter.

If the free society cannot help the many who are poor, it can never save the few who are rich.
—President Kennedy

Africa, Thailand Documented Play On YM-YW Slate

Several interesting programs have been planned by YM-YWCA for this semester. On February 5, Cheryl Gould will show slides of Cameroun, Africa and discuss the work of her parents at Momjepom. Phyllis Stine will show slides of the mission station at Momjepom and talk of her visit there this past summer. The money from this year's Fred Hope Fund will go to the hospital in Momjepom.

Student Vols, International Rtlations Club, and Y will hold a combined meeting on February 12. Mrs. Nopakhum Tongyai who graduated with honors from Harvard and is now an outstanding educator in Thailand, will speak on education in Thailand and the political situation as it relates to Laos,

Later in the semester Y will present a play entitled Which Way the Wind? This play, based on documented fact, is a search for alternatives to violence. In connection with the play there will be a tape, Sanity and Survival.

PARKS-BELK

Maryville's Most Complete Sportswear Department

Stop In and Look Around

Home of Better Values

City Drug Company

108 W. Broadway

for

VALENTINES

Russell Stover – Whitman Candies

Arpege – My Sin – Chanel No. 5
Seven Winds Cologne or Perfumes

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.

CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK

218 COURT STREET

Valentine Cards

A wide selection of Contemporary Cards

Students Always Welcome!

Make This Year's Valentine Dance an Occasion to Remember !

Whatever the wish; whatever the occasion –
Flowers convey your message perfectly

On Campus See Bill Shanefelt

HORNE'S FLORIST

215 W. Broadway YU2-2690

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 9 | Maryville, Tennessee | February 18, 1960

ARTIST SERIES TO PRESENT SCHOEN

The final program of the 1960-1961 Artist Series will be presented on February 27th, at 8:15 P.M., in Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel. Sally Schoen, of the Maryville College Fine Arts Faculty, will appear as piano soloist with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of David Van Vactor. She will play "The Symphonic Variations for Piano and Orchestra" by Cesar Franck.

Mrs. Schoen, a former resident of West Virginia, received her Bachelor of Music degree at Oberlin Conservatory of Music, her Master of Music degree at Indiana University, and a Performer's Certificate from Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria.

Barrett To Give Senior Recital On March 3

Rosemary Barrett, pianist, will give her Senior Recital Friday, March 3, at 8 P.M. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. Miss Barrett is a piano major from Nashville, Tennessee.

Her program will include "Fantasia in C Major" by Haydn; "Sonata in C Major, Opus I, by Brahms; "Two Preludes" (Book II) by Dubussy; "Reflets Dans L'eau (Images, Book I) by Debussy; "Berceuse, Opus 57, by Chopin; and "Suggestion Diabolique," Opus 4, No. 4, by Prokofieff.

Strategy of Peace

A review by Anne Nakamura

The Strategy of Peace by John F. Kennedy, ed. Allan Nevins, Harper & Brothers, 273 Pages

At the outset of a new presidential administration, the concerned American citizen will find a means for becoming well-acquainted with the policy aims of the new chief executive in The Strategy of Peace. Previously of campaign significance, this composite of views remains a pertinent work today. Mr. Kennedy's second major book includes twenty-seven selected speeches and statements on foreign policy and more prominent domestic issues. They represent the well-documented opinions resulting from a rich fourteen-year senatorial career, dealing directly with these matters. His views may be controversial, but his experience cannot be denied as first-hand authority, nor can his clear-cut presentation leave any doubt as to his points and the reasoning behind them.

Editor Allan Nevins' introduction fortifies the keynoting of America's decline in past years and commends the tone of urgency throughout this collection. The American citizen is pressed to emerge from his lethargy or, still more dangerous, his false optimism. Concerning The Global Challenge, America's whole task in a nutshell, Kennedy berates our nation's mere existence through successive crises, saying we have failed to redevelop a strategy to meet the changing demands of the world. We have lost out to the Soviet Union in this precarious "balance of terror" because of the previous administrations' lack of command and inability to utilize our readily available resources. In further critcism, he takes a stand for positive clarification of issues, opposing past policies which tended to brush aside the real questions. The public should know every truth about state affairs; they should worry because they are the foundation of American democratic policy. Our civil rights, our farm policy, our status of education, our atomic program are unquestionably integrated with the world perspective.

Concerning the all important realm of foreign policy, Kennedy seeks to inspire an empathetic realization of such inevitable trends as nationalism in Africa, Latin American countries and other trouble spots. He also aims for a revival of bold, commanding, and clear-cut action instead of reaction. For instance, examine his support of the Algerian question. It was called anti-French but had its real basis in a respect for the Nationalistic stimuli. Its greater strength was against Communism which, previously overlooked in Indo-China and Vietnam, nearly led us into war. His plea for a magnanimity of spirit excludes mere warnings of the evils of communism. Only material evidence shaved of all strains of charity shall prove us to neutral nations, captive nations, and the Soviet Union. This above high sounding talk, denied requests, and broken promises. An oppressed country is more than a political device. It is a group of individual people to be considered in the context of their problems, not ours.

Mr. Kennedy's views have remained consistent and sincere through the years, as seen in their powerful restatements in the recent Inaugural and State of the Union Messages. Many hail him, many do not, but most commendable is the fact that his words have not passed unreacted upon by all. This book will have served its purpose if it can begin to impress upon the American mind his concluding statements, "Peace is not a condition that exists as we move into the sixties. Peace is still to be won."

ECHO POLL

Question;

"What do you think about the dining hall bell, or the absence thereof?"

Answers:

Dick Norman, "I hope it never returns. Grace is a personal matter."

Gordon Stewart, "I hope they get a prettier one."

Henry Weeks, "I think its removal has lifted morale."

Don McFerron, "We needed a change."

June Wilson, "Individual prayer is more effective."

Tom Fairman, "I haven't missed it a bit."

Paul Evans, "Pretty funny at first, but it is time that it was returned."

Phyllis Hembree, "Childish act of someone"

Bambi Ansley, "Frankly its going was kind of funny, but we should have prayer, bell or no bell."

Bill Green, "I'm sorry that it was stolen, but I'm really glad it's gone."

Nancy Slack, "The original reason for removing the bell was probably not religious. This brings up the point that those who want to pray will and those who don't won't, regardless of bells."

STUDENT SPARKED DRIVE AIDS TENN. CITIZENS

Today a truck loaded with clothing and canned goods will leave Maryville for Fayette County, Tennessee. The clothing and canned goods, collected by students on campus, and by six Negro Churches in Alcoa and Maryville, will be taken to a central location near Memphis. It will later be distributed to the citizens there who were ousted from their homes because of their attempts to vote. Over one hundred dollars is also being sent, to be used as needed. Fifteen dollars of this was given by a church in Louisville, Kentucky, seventy dollars by one of the churches in Alcoa, and the rest by students.

Further details such as inventory, destination, transportation, and names of churches and their pastors, were not complete at press time. The next Echo will carry a full account with pictures.

Faculty Recital To Be On Feb. 24

Dan H. Kinsinger, tenor, and John A. Roberts, pianist, will give a Faculty Recital on February 24, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Mr. Kinsinger holds an A.B. degree from Eureka Collgee and a Mus.M. from Northwestern University. Mr. Roberts has received a B.A. from Oklahoma City University and a Mus.M. from Eastman School of Music.

Mr. Kinsinger will sing "Vergessen," "Gewitternacht," "Au dem Meere," "Fruehlingsfeier," and "Bitte," by Robert Franz; "Walthers Preidlied (Die Meistersinger)" by Wagner; "Love Song of Chibiabos (Wedding Feast of Hiawatha)" by Coleridge Taylor; "A sa guitare," "Une ruine coquille vide," "Je n'ai envie que le t'aimer," and "Rodeuse au front de yerre," by Poulenc.

Mr. Roberts will play "Rhapsodie in B minor , Op. 79, No. 1," and "Rhapsodie in G minor, Op. 79, No. 2," by Johannes Brahms; and "Fantaisie-Impromptu, Op. 66, in C Sharp Minor," by Chopin.

Barnard Girls To Southern Schools

NEW YORK CITY (UPS) Two Southern schools accepted the invitation of Barnard College to participate in a Student Exchange Program during the first week of the new semester, February 8 through 14. Both Wake Forest, an all-white, coed college in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and Spelman, an all-Negro women's college in Atlanta, Ga., have sent five girls to Barnard and received five from Barnard.

The object of the exchange is further understanding of the difficulties which Southern students face in addition to the usual troubles of the college student in any part of the country.

Evans Internationally Known Minister, Author, Representative

Dr. Louis H. Evans, February Meetings Speaker, is a roving ambassador for more than 3,210,000 United Presbyterians. He travels more than 60,000 miles each year to speak at colleges, universities, seminaries, religious and secular conventions, and military installations. His assignments are largely in the United States, but he has journeyed to Africa, the Near and Far East, and to other overseas areas for preaching missions to United States servicemen and others. In November, 1960, he completed a four-month, five-country Far East mission that took him to Japan, Korea, Thailand, Formosa, and Hong Kong. He ended this tour in Hawaii, where he was Bible study leader for a group of about 400 United Presbyterian making a ten-day visit in the new state.

Dr. Evans also makes many radio and television appearances. He was one of four churchmen featured on the National Council of Churches televised series called Man to Man.

For the past eight years he has served as part-time summer pastor at the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C. He concluded his four-Sunday preaching stint in the nation's capital this year with a mid-November sermon.

Life magazine has called this much-traveled churchman one of America's twelve outstanding religious leaders. He is, Life said, "a man whose energy seems inexhaustible and whose sermons are full of well-though-out-Christian doctrine and plain speaking." Newsweek, after a nationwide poll, counted him among the nation's ten greatest Protestant ministers. He was the Washington Pilgrimage clergy-churchman of the year in 1957 and the 1951 Speaker of the Year in the Field of Religion for the national honor society in speech Tau Kappa Alpha.

The son of an outstanding Bible teacher and Presbyterian minister, Dr. Evans was graduated from Occidental College in Los Angeles and from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago. He holds honorary Doctor of Divinity, Doctor of Laws, and Doctor of Humane Letters degrees. While in college he won honors in basketball and football. Six years ago he was one of the founders of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

His first pastorate was a church of 29 members in the prairie town of West-hope, North Dakota. The membership numbered 125 when he left three years later. He has also held pastorates in Wilmington, Pomona, and Hollywood, California, and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. During his twelve-year pastorate at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, the membership of the church rose from 2,400 to 6,400.

Named the national missions minister-at-large in 1953, Dr. Evans was for several years a member of the Board of Foreign Missions of the former Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. He was president of the denomination's Board of National Missions for four years. He has also served on the boards of San Francisco Theological Seminary and Occidental College and is an honorary member of Rotary International.

He is the author of Youth Seeks a Master, The Kingdom is Yours, Make Your Faith Work, This Is America's Hour, and Life's Hidden Power.

Three of Dr. Evan's children are ministers or directors of Christian education. His official headquarters are in the offices of the United Presbyterian Board of National Missions, 475 Riverside Drive, New York 27, N. Y. He resides in California, where he has an office at 1848 North Gramercy Place, Los Angeles 28.

NSA Sponsors Summer Seminar, World Travel

The Nineth International Student Relations Seminar will be held from June 18 to Sepember 1, 1961. This seminar was designed to give student leaders the necessary background to deal with contemporary problems that exist among national and international student organizations. Daily lecture and discussion sessions at the University of Pennsylvania with the final two weeks at the Fourteenth National Student Congress at the University of Wisconsin are expected to train outstanding students for an active role in the student world. Students accepted for this program will receive scholarship aid to cover travel expenses, room, board, all fees and study materials.

Also received by NSA co-ordinator Connie Bondurant is the latest edition of Week — Study — Travel Abroad. Information for nearly every type individual is included, such items as tour travel, independent travel, student travel information, opportunity for study abroad as well as work camps and employment are presented and discussed.

Fred Hope Fund Receives $573.50

The Fred Hope Fund has received $573.50 in pledges for Momjepom Hospital to date. The total amount which has been pledged so far is $1435.

The Y Cabinet is now studying a proposal to have student representatives in each dorm to collect for Fred Hope Fund on the tenth of each month. Pledges will be accepted in the Student Help Office at any time.

CHILHOWEAN '61 GOES TO PRESS

The past week found the 1961 Chilhowean going into the final stages of compilation. With pictures and copy on their way to the publisher, the staff is clearing away the residue and anxiously awaiting the arrival of final proofs.

The 1961 Staff has been very fortunate to have the interest and cooperation of the faculty, staff, and student body in putting out this edition. The sales amounted to over five hundred copies, which was very gratifying. The ordered copies of the Chilhowean '61 are expected about the middle of May.

Mail Box

Dear Miss Editor:

We feel, along with Miss Gilmore, that no one or no institution can force any belief or idea, religious or otherwise, on any individual. They can only present their views and attempt to influence the individual to follow these views. The reaction to this presentation will necessarily separate the "puppets" from the "individuals." The puppet will blindly follow the views laid down for him without question or hesitation; while the individual will take these views, carefully examine them, relate them to himself, and come to his own conclusions. For the individual is not someone who is different just to be different but is someone who knows what he does; even if everyone else is doing the same thing.

As no one can force beliefs on others, so no one can be kept from being stimulated. A person who can remain stagnant in a college atmosphere has no one but himself to blame. In the process of education we are not forced to accept anyone elses thoughts, but are merely shown the problems that other people have faced and the decisions they made. We are not expected to follow their examples blindly, but are encouraged to form our own conclusions, from the facts as they are presented. These conclusions, however, can be accepted only when they are valid and workable. Thus in the final analysis, stimulation is an individual matter for the individual.

May we respectfully call Miss Gilmore's attention to the graphic example that disproves her argument that we are not permitted to voice our own opinions. The mere fact that her letter was published for the student body, faculty, and administration to see in itself does this. This letter further disproves her statement in that there is freedom not only to express an idea, but to express more than one idea on the same subject.

Thomas A. Fairman
Henry M. Weeks

Editorially Speaking

Acedemic Excellence

The medieval university was an organization of students who hired a teacher and then kept close watch over the amount and the quality of the lectures he presented. If a teacher did not fulfill the expectations of the students he was dismissed and another was hired.

Twentieth century higher education has departed from this early precedent. In many ways we as students have completely dismissed our responsibilities to the academic standards of the institution we attend. The existance of "snap" courses is as much the fault of a lazy, irresponsible student body as it is the fault of lazy and|or incompotent teaching methods.

One of the chief responsibilities of a student government should be to academic excellence. Measures should definitley be taken to stimulate students, for this is sorely needed. Measures should also be taken to evaluate individual courses and to then raise the levels of those found to be mediocre or worse.

Maryville is one of the more progressive colleges in the field of student participation in the academic planning of the institution. We now have a student voice in cirriculum planning. Many students are looking to the Academic Emphasis Committee of Student Council to take strong, constructive action in the raising of academic standards. A superficial check list of few, many, or some did not seem to be an adequate probe.

Our standards are higher than many colleges with which we are acquainted, but little progress can be made if one compares one's self to that which is poorer. It is our responsibility as students to regain a bit of the medieval concept of higher education. A "snap" course is an insult to the student as well as a waste of his time and money. It is about time that students took constructive action to demand academic excellence of their professors as well as of their fellow students.

Welcome

Two years ago a petition circulated among student leaders requesting the administration to look into the possibilities of obtaining a full-time college chaplin. This week Dr. E. Fay Campbell arrived to fill just such a position.

The student body welcomes Dr. Campbell to our midst in the hope that the relationship between student and chaplin will be a close one and one that is mutually agreeable and edifying.

Thank-you

One of the most pleasant social functions in the memory of the present MC student body was the dinner and coffee preceding the Artist Series of last Tuesday night. A thank-you from the student body is definitely in order to the officers of WSGA, and MSC and to Miss Ware and the entire dining hall staff.

We shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty.

—John F. Kennedy

Fellow citizens of the world: ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for freedom of man.

—President Kennedy

Poet's Niche

God called me from my work today,
And set aside a time . . .
To think, to count, to compare our thoughts
On how the world goes round.

He said, "Look here, now this goes there,
It fits so nice and smooth."
"But, God," I said, "You forgot this place
And that would be so rude."

"Alright," said God, "I'll move it then,
Your preference is my wish:
To make the world as man would have . . .
My calling, so I guess."

We pushed, and shoved, and rearranged,
Until the pieces fit.
And all' was left was a cardboard paste,

A mangled messy slick.
"My God," I cried, "Please help me now,
My way is but your own."
"Oh, man," he sighed, "I tried, but see,
Now the world is done."

—Mary Darling

ABOUT J. ALFRED PRUFROCK

Poor Alfred, he's a strange one!
Look at him, there by the window. head down, shoulders slightly sagging.
I remember, back when he was a little topper—
Before he went to Eton—
They called him Jerry, back then, I think.

His Father had enough, not really a lot, but enough.
He was always standing by the window—staring out.
His little sister—she's married to Sir Hugo Smythe now—
Used to try to get him to "Come and Play."
But he preferred his window— I guess he dreamed.

Well, he went to Eton—and did all right, I suppose.
He didn't really shine in any thing.
Then he went to Cambridge—
I'm not sure just what he studied,
Music, and Art,. and maybe Philosophers, I guess.
(That's why he and my husband didn't agree.
George never cared for things like that.)

I know he never seemed to settle down
To just exactly what it was he'd like to do.
That's when he changed his name;
It seems the thing to do—
These days at the Universities—
They must change their lives in some way
So they call each other by their second names.
He stayed four years there, got his degree in '83.
Then went for a year on the Continent.
He spent most of his time in Italy, I heard.

Since then, he's mostly lived on his Father's money;
(His father died, in '03, and left it all to him.
Cornelia—his sister—married so well,
And didn't need it.)
Oh, yes, he did work for several years, in an office
Somewhere. Now where was— Haigg and Haigg, that's it.
They say he reads a good deal, and one always Sees him at the Opera; and I myself
Have passed him in the Museum (Oh! I Was looking for my niece and nephew!).

He scarcely misses a chance to come out—
Always at teas, and cocktails, and even dinners.
I guess he's lonely, and, too, he's a good extra.
He isn't really dull, a little long-winded perhaps,
As if he thinks he hasn't said all he has to say.
But then, he's always polite, and never seems
To mind, when someone more interesting
Speaks. So he really adds to the group—
You know, balances the more obnoxious ones.
I always feel a little sorry for him; I don't Quite know why. Whenever he comes in, he Looks around, as if someone he'd expected weren't
There.

And then, there's just something funny
About the way he looks. Nothing definite,
For his clothes are conservative, and he never seems
Out of place that way. Maybe, it's That look of not dining properly, (after
All, he lives quite alone, with just a housekeeper).

He always ends up alone—off someplace from
The rest—and he has that look again.
As if he'd missed something. Sometimes his Lips move a little; he seems to be about
To say something, but then he stops.
I wonder what he's thinking just now.
(What? Oh, yes, Myrtle, we must go, now!)

"NOTE"

The "J" is for Jarius; meaning "he will enlighten."

Continued on page 3

DOUBLE-DUTY
HAMILTON WATCHES
for Nurses and Career Women

• Sweep Second Hand
• Shock-Resistant
• Anti-Magnetic
• Lifetime Mainspring

PATIENCE "B"
Split-second accuracy in dainty 10K gold-filled case to complement any attire. For professional women who measure time carefully
With cord, $35.00
$59.95 Fed. Tax Incl.

EASY TERMS

TIPTON JEWELERS
101 Court Street

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Vol. 46, No. 9 February 18, 1961

Member of University Press Service

Published bi-weekly during the year by the students of Maryville College

Editorial Staff

Editor ..... Phyllis Stine
News Editors ..... Pat Baker
Helen Anne Easterly
Feature Editor ..... Carolyn Siera
Copy Editor ..... Lynn Herring
Exchanged editor ..... Anitra Bard
Sports Editors ..... Kathy Eisenhart
George Roselli
Contributors this issue ..... Patti Paul, Pat Crossley, June Wilson, Ellen Dozier, Carol Wood
Typists ..... Jean Keller

Business Staff

Business Manager ..... Mike Garrett
Circulation Manager ..... Jon Sypher
Faculty Advisors ..... Miss Carolyn Blair, Mr. Frank Layman

Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Semester

Byrons Graphic Arts — Printers

Entered as second class matter at the Post Office at Maryville, Tennessee under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1870.

All letters to the editor must be signed, limited to 300 words, and submitted to a staff member by the Saturday prior to tne regular date of publication.

THE COFFEE HOUSE
Broadway Downtown YU 2-1541
Your 24 Hour Host –
REAL HOMEMADE PIE a Specialty
We Deliver Orders of $5.00 or More

Scots' Double Header Tonight In Alumni Gym

The Maryville Scots will be pepped up and ready to go tonight as the home team tackles Shorter College of Rome, Georgia in the first half of a double-header. The concluding part of the sport's feature will see the home wrestlers tangle with Emory and Henry College.

In the interim the Scots broke off their losing streak to rally from a half time deficit to edge the favored Lions of Birmingham-Southern of Alabamba last Monday night. (53-52) This past weekend saw the boys lose two close ones on successive nights as the Scotties fell to Sorter College in Rome 68-63 and returning to the Alumni Gym were beaten the next night by Tusculum 48-43.

In the Shorter contest the Maryville unit it for a fine 40 percent only to have the home team hit 49 percent and take the closely fought game. Bill Crisp led the Scots with a big 22 points followed by Fred Porter with 11. The boys fell behind by more than fifteen points only to rally to within one point and then four fouls ruined any chance for victory.

On Saturday night the Maryville team had a return engagement with Tusculum only to fall by the way side 48-43. Tied 25-25 at the half the Scots hit a slump in the scoring column and were behind most of the second half, desperately trying to catch up. Late in the half Bill Owenby got hit in the eyes by a visitor's hands and had to leave the game, seeing only limited service for the remainder of the contest. Captain Owenby still managed to lead the scoring for the losers with 12 points.

Down in Birmingham Monday the Scotties rallied from a three point half time defict to eke out a one point 53-52 victory over Birmingham Southern. Bill Crisp led the Scotties to the victory trail with 16 points and Fred Porter and Don Heatherly also added to the Scot scoring punch. This is the combined scoring totals for the Scotties in the last three outings:

Maryville 53	Birmingham S. 52
Randall 7	Bailey 4
Daniels 6	Odom 4
Owenby 6	Cherry 16
Crisp 16	Dunaway 9
Porter 9	Stanford 19
Heatherly 7
Cooper 2

Shorter 68	Maryville 63
Price 12	Randall 7
Lee 2	Daniels 6
Tolts 3	Owenby 8
Ottinger 22	Heatherly 4
Stubbenfield 14	Porter 10
Plant 4	Crisp 22
Earely 11	Cooper 6

Tusculum 48	Maryville 43
Fincken 6	Randall 4
Flick 4	Crisp 7
Miles 22	Owenby 12
Bishop 5	Heatherly 3
Still 8	Porter 9
Sams 1	Daniels 8
Pruitt 2

POET'S NICHE, continued

PROVOCATION

It doesn't matter what is shows
Or how it comes
Or how it goes

It melts away the passive snows
And grows
And grows
And grows
And grows.

Somewhere in the great divine
Startling thought succumb to mind
Twisting sense and verbal vine
Sowing seeds for restless time.

—June Wilson

PARKS-BELK

Maryville's Most Complete Sportswear Department

Stop In and Look Around

Home of Better Values

The BANK of MARYVILLE

"The Old Reliable, Since 1885"

BANKING SERVICES

- Check Accounts
- Savings Accounts
- Christmas Club Savings
- Transfer of Funds
- Banking from Your Car
- Night Depository Service

– YOUR COLLEGE BANK –

Dining Designed for Your Pleasure

Whether you are in search of a snack, or a full-course meal, you can't beat our delicious cooking and low prices.

SEYMOUR'S

Open 4 am – 11 pm YU 2-9921

MACSHORE CLASSICS

THE PRICELESS LOOK $3.98

Coeds and career girls greet Spring in MACSHORE'S short sleeve blouse with Italian collar, pin-tucks and matching lace on front and cuffs. DRIP DRY cotton batiste . . . light and airy as an April day . . . launders like a dream. White. Blueberry, Strawberry, Lemon, and Pecan. All with matching lace. Sizes 30 to 38.

Minton's

Finally Arrived ! Matching Sweetheart Shirt Sets

WON'T WRITE ?
CALL WHITE

Keep your typewriter working at its best.

White's factory-trained repairmen are at your service.

WHITE OFFICE MACHINES

YU 3-4762

FOR A FIRM FOUNDATION . . .
WEAR

Southern Shoes

Available in a wide variety of styles and sizes designed to please the college student.

116 West Broadway

MURPHY-WEST MOTOR CO.
CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE

CHRISTIAN BOOK NOOK

218 COURT STREET

RELIGIOUS READING MATERIALS TO FIT EVERY STUDENT'S NEEDS

STUDENTS ALWAYS WELCOME!

YU 3-4982

Whatever you need in the way of pastries or baked goods, for that special occasion, we have just the thing !

VAN'S BAKERY

Call the sweetest numbers in town –
YU 2-7920 YU 3-4413

The "Y" Store Proudly serves

MAYFIELD'S Ice Cream and Milk

Smoother, Richer, better Tasting

Mayfield's Dairy, Athens, Tenn.

College Hill Grill

Two Blocks from Campus
through the South Gate on Cate Street

Delicious Italian PIZZA

All Meals Served Family Style

Now Under the Management of May Boling

When you Care Enough . . .
You'll send Hallmark !

We feature Maryville's finest Collection of GREETING CARDS – PARTY ITEMS for Easter or any special occasion!

Also, a complete line of School Supplies.

McCAMMONS

108 E. Broadway Your Hallmark Headquarters

Proffitt's

An Irregular of Exceptional Value!

100% SPUN ORLON

SOCKS

* Fancy patterns – argyle, stripes, checks
* Soft as Velvet– durable and practical

A $1.00 value at 69c

Proffitt's

U. of Hawaii Offers U.S. Scholarships

(UPS) The East-West Center of the University of Hawaii is offering 25 all inclusive scholarships to American students to join the newly launched program of East-West studies and cultural interchange this February.

The Center is seeking qualified American undergraduate and graduate students to pursue programs in the following areas.

Undergraduate: Asian and Pacific Language and Area Studies.

Graduate: Far Eastern Studies, Overseas Operations, Far Eastern History, Far Eastern Art, Geography, Comparative Government, International Relations, Pacific Island Studies and Eastern or Comparative Philosophy.

Because the Center has come into being so swiftly, American scholarships for the spring semester are still available. Also, 50 scholarships are being offered for the fall semester and 75 for September, 1962. Most are for a two year period and include round-trip transportation, room and board, tuition, fees, books and incidental expenses. An unusual feature is an expense paid study tour of the Asian area or country pertinent to the student's studies. Applicants should write to Director, East-West Center. University of Hawaii, Honolulu 14, Hawaii.

Similar scholarships are being offered to Asians and qualified people throughout the Pacific area. To publicize the Center, an East-West Center team of five University of Hawaii professors has been touring Asia since October. The team reported that in Taipei alone, 417 scholarship applications were received two days after the announcement was published.

Scholars and leaders from Asia and the West are being offered grants to enable them to come to the Center and participate in joint research projects and seminars. Ten grants are being offered for 1960-61 and 20 for 61-62. These increase each year until 1966 when 200 grants will be offered.

Scots Lose 26-6

The Maryville Wrestling team met a well-balanced Sewanee team this past weekend and lost 26-6. Winning for Maryville was Jim Baxter at 123 and Bryson Struse at 167, both on decisions. The best match of the afternoon was the 177 pound class match which pitted Al Rise against the Southeastern champion Bill Yeats. The match from the opening buzz was that of action, both boys had each other in pinning combination. The outcome was 11-7 in favor of Bill Yeats.

TEN TOP TEAMS

Ohio State 18-0
St. Bonaventure 18-1
Duke 17-2
Southern California 16-3
Bradley 16-4
Cincinnati 17-3
North Carolina 15-4
Kansas State 15-3
St. Johns 13-4
Louisville 17-4
Also Iowa 13-3
West Virginia 18-3

Sachet and Sneakers

The whistle blew, the game was over, the "Sparkplugs" of Chi Beta had won the game 24-22. But as the whistle had blown Theta II team scored a goal. The game was tied 24-24. A goal was charged against Chi Beta, so Theta had a chance to win the game with a free shot, but failed to do so. In order to break the tie a two minute overtime was played with neither team scoring. Both teams and spectators were highly excited as the game went into a "sudden death" play. Terry Brusstar for Theta and Nancy Kinsman for Chi Beta jumped the ball in the center. Theta gained control of the ball. The play was fast, and Pat Taylor saved the day for Theta with a 2 point shot, ending the game at 26-24 Theta.

This was one of the most exciting basketball games ever played between societies. Both teams did very well, the sportsmanship was good, and credit must be given to the referees, Sandy Harris and Anna Baker.

SCHOLARSHIP IN MUSIC OFFERED

The Chattanooga Music Club, this year as in the past, is offering a $300.00 scholarship toward the further study of music in a fully accredited University or Conservatory, to a worthy and talented person.

Auditions will be held sometime in May and those interested must have applications in by April 1.

In order to be eligible for the Chattanooga Music Club Scholarship, a student (vocal or instrumental) must have resided within a radius of 25 miles of Chattanooga for the preceding five years.

Application blanks may be obtained from the House of Music, 732 Cherry St., Cadek Conservatory of Music, and the University of Chattanooga.

Applications should be mailed as soon as possible to Mrs. John Etter, 2106 Ashmore Ave., Chattanooga, Tenn.

SOCIETY NEWS

Chi Beta

With Skit Night less than one month away, Chi Beta is beginning to make plans for her part in the competition. Connie Beagle is chairman of the planning committee; Gay Landis and Peggy Reiter are working on the script.

Bonnie Birch has finally cleared her room of all the Chi Beta personalized mugs ordered last semester.

The week-end of February 4th found Chi Beta joining her brother Phi for swimming, eating, and being entertained by talented society members.

Further semester plans are being made by the Chi Beta Cabinet, under the leadership of President Kathy Eisenhart.

Kappa Phi

All new and transfer men wishing to join the society will be inducted tonight at 6:15 in the Kappa Phi House, preceding a program presented by Mrs. James Stidham, of the educational faculty.

The newly elected officers under Bill McGuire, president, will have an extremely busy semester ahead of them. The biggest event on the agenda for this semester is the Spring Formal. Projected plans include several events held jointly with Chi Beta including Kappa Phi's annual Leading Lady and Skit Night productions.

February Special!

COLD WAVE PERMANENT $6.95

Complete – No Extras

Michaels

Limited Time Only!

COLLEGE HILL SALON or BUDGET SALON

No Appointment Needed

RECORDS

Complete selection of Hi-Fi STERO Records—

Quality Repair work on Radios & Record Players

HITCH RADIO and T.V.

Record Department

Be one of the best dressed on Campus –
Send your Cleaning and Laundry to

MARYVILLE Cleaners

Jim Coup–Carnegie
Pat Williams–Baldwin
Larry Bush–Memorial
Marguerite Gilly–New Dorm
Charlotte Murchison–Pearsons

Quality Work
Efficient Friendly Service

DINE AT NIGHT . . .
BY CANDLELIGHT –

Our Dining Facilities are available for Private Breakfasts and Luncheons for 20 or more.

5:00 – 10:00 P.M. Daily 11:30 – 8:00 P.M. Sunday

LEONARD'S STEAK HOUSE

ALSMEYER RECENTLY NAMED TO MC PUBLIC RELATIONS POST

Henry L. Alsmeyer, Jr., of Kingsville, Texas, has been appointed Director of Public Relations at Maryville College, according to an announcement made by President Ralph W. Lloyd.

Mr. Alsmeyer is presently managing editor of the Kingsville Record, a thirty-two page weekly newspaper, with a circulation of 5000, and will arrive in Maryville with his wife and two sons, age 7 and 9, about the middle of March. He is a native Texan, born in San Benito, Texas. He holds the Bachelor of Journalism degree from the University of Texas and the Master of Arts degree from Texas College of Arts and Industries.

For six years he was a staff writer for the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, a daily paper with a circulation in excess of 90,000. For three years he was Director of Public Relations and a teacher of English at the Presbyterian Pan American School in Kingsville.

Mr. Alsmeyer has served as a free lance writer, contributing to regional farm publications such as "Progressive Farmer," and while in Europe in 1950, he wrote a series of articles for several south Texas newspapers.

He served in the Army Air Force during World War II, and became the top noncommissioned officer in charge of the Weather Central at Orly Field, Paris. He and Mrs. Alsmeyer have traveled extensively in Europe and Mexico.

Mr. Alsmeyer is a member of the Kingsville Rotary Club in which he is presently serving as secretary. He is also a Ruling Elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Kingsville, and his wife is recording secretary for the women's organization of South Texas Presbytery.

Mr. Alsmeyer takes the position formerly held by James W. Hampton who left Maryville College in September, 1960, to become Vice-President for Public Relations at Bloomfield College, Bloomfield, New Jersey.

In making the announcement President Lloyd said, "We are pleased to be able to appoint a man of Mr. Alsmeyer's professional training, experience, and character. He comes to our community highly recommended by those with whom he has worked and we are looking forward to his arrival and the contribution he can make to our Development Program."

PLAYHOUSE TO PRESENT SHAKESPEARE'S MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR, MARCH 17, 18, 21

The Maryville College Playhouse, under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven and Mr. E. Parker Dupler, will present their production of The Merry Wives of Windsor, by William Shakespeare, on March 17, 18, and 21, A special performance for local high school students will be given on March 20.

The box office will be open between 1:30 and 5:30 March 13-18. At this time students will be able to purchase their tickets. Also, a representative will be in the respective dorms and students will be able to make reservations through them.

Members of the cast are: Falstaff-E. Parker Dupler; Fenton-Bruce Jenkins; Shallow-John Graulich; Slender-Bob Bowman; Page-Dale Young; Dr. Caius-Harry Page; Host-John Bakalaar; Bardolph-Lynn Sexton; Simple-Ross McGill; Mistress Page-Kathryn Smith; Mistress Ford-Irma Birkelback; Anne Page-Mary McCampbell; Mistress Quickly-Arda S. Walker; Piston-Craig Snyder; Servants-Jim Rechtin and Allen Stephens.

The uniqueness of this particular performance is the fact that members of the faculty will be taking part in it. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and $.75 for students.

Falstaff and his Cohorts

The Highland Echo

Vol. 46, No. 10 | Maryville, Tennessee | March 4, 1961

DR. CAPPANNARI TO GIVE LECTURE

The third lecture of the 1960-1961 Maryville College Lecture Series will be given on Tuesday evening, March 7, at eight o'clock in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. The lecture will be given by Dr. Stephen C. Cappannari, Head of the Division of Human Behavior in the Department of Psychiatry of the School of Medicine at Vanderbilt University, on the subject "The Italy Tourists Never See." He will discuss the folk customs and primitive medical practices of an isolated Italian village. The preceding evening he will talk to Faculty Club on the subject "Man and Culture."

Dr. Cappannari comes to Maryville College under the auspices of he American Anthropological Association. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan and his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley. Dr. Cappannari has taught at a number of colleges and universities and came to Vanderbilt University in 1960 from Wayne State University. As an ethnographer, he has made special studies of the Kawaiisu Indians in Kern County, California, and of village life in an isolated Italian village. The latter project was carried on through a grant from the United States government under the Fulbright Act. Dr. Cappannari has contributed articles to numerous publications, including Scientific Monthly, Southwestern Journal of Anthropology, Rivista di Antropologia, American Sociological Review, Journal of American Folklore, and Anthropological Quarterly.

